turer, Dr. Nurnberger, a native of Chicago, received the B.M., M.S. and M.D. degrees from Northwestern University, and the B.S. degree from Loyola University, Chicago.

Dr. Nurnberger has published over 20 papers dealing with stress-induced cell chemical changes in the nervous system and other research problems. He is the co-author of a monograph on endocrine disease and co-editor of an annual symposium volume on brain metabolism.

His latest publications are: An Introduction to the Science of Human Behavior, 1963 and "Where Can the Teen-ager Learn Love?" in Child and Family, March, 1964.

He has earned awards and recognitions for his professional contributions, the most recent of which was the Northwestern Uni-

Religious Event Closes Activities

Baccalaureate, the final religious event for the graduating seniors, as a class, will take place Saturday, May 30, at 8 p. m. in the Bishop Chartrand Memorial Chapel of Mary Immaculate.

The invocation of the Holy Spirit will precede the address (See first column story). Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will follow.

After the chapel services, a reception will be given in the Music Building, South Campus, for the seniors and their guests.

Ordained in 1943, Father Courtney received the M.A. degree from the Catholic University of America. Prior to his appointment to St. Luke's in 1961, he was Marian's dean of men, the first to fill this position.

In conjunction with his experimenting and formulating of precedent, he also taught psychology and served as chaplain at the Carmelite monastery; Indiana Boys' School, Plainfield; and Girls' School, Clermont.

Father Courtney has been associate editor of The Criterion, Indianapolis archdiocesan newspaper, since 1960 and of its predecessor, The Indiana Catholic and Record, since 1948.

Convocation Cites Academic Honors

Honors Convocation, May 21, paid tribute to 19 students named to 7 national honor societies; to 14 achieving Dean's List status for two consecutive semesters; to 27 Honors Program participants; and to 10 seniors receiving graduate fellowships or assistantships.

Singled out for special recognition were the following candidates for honors degrees; Patricia Felke, David Mader, Donna Tatroc, Jeanne Vigue, and Jane Ying.

Honors program members were also guests at a special dinner, May 20.

Convocation speaker was Mr. Alexander Moore, Ph.D. Cand., principal of Crispus Attucks High School and leader in education and community welfare.

Summer Session Covers Majors

Summer session, June 15-July 24, offers 18 courses in the major field.

Included are: The Church, A Divine Mystery; Philosophical, General, and Child Psychology; Major American Authors, Advanced Writing, and Contemporary Literature; Introductory Economics, Recent Asia, and Constitutional History of the United States; Introduction to Art and Appreciation of Music.

Laboratory science courses are: Quantitative Analysis and Optics.

Of special interest to in-service secondary school teachers is a workshop in modern biology emphasizing the BSCS Program.

Designed for elementary school teachers are: Teaching the Language Arts and Fundamental Concepts in Mathematics I and II.

Classes are scheduled for 8:30, 9:30, and 10 a.m. daily.

Seniors Unveil Portrait At Honors Convocation

Formal presentation of the senior gift to the student body and the faculty capped the annual Honors Convocation, May 21. Robert Hensel, senior class president, unveiled a beautifully executed 3 feet by 4 feet oil portrait of Rt. Rev. Monsignor Francis Reine, college president.

The portrait was painted by Mr. John Lorand, noted artist, one-time art instructor at Marian, a local television personality, and a personal friend of Monsignor Reine.

Bob Hensel in a brief talk at the unveiling ceremony told how the seniors had settled on the idea. "The initial suggestion came from the development director, Mr. Ralph Anderson. The idea caught on like wildfire among the class members.

"We were looking for a gift which the school needed and one which would be with Marian as long as it existed," Bob said.

"The class especially wanted to honor Monsignor Reine because of his elevation to the rank of Domestic Prelate, and we wanted something we could truly be proud of. The portrait fulfilled these criteria perfectly, and Mr. Lorand bent over backwards to see that it did."

The portrait will hang in the main hall of the Music Building.

Freshmen Have Leadership Plus

This year's freshman class has proved to be one of the most outstanding that Marian has known. A certain spirit seems to be prevalent in the things that they do. This was noticeable on Field Day when they almost, but not quite, dethroned the senior class, tying for first place.

According to Mr. James Divita, freshman class moderator, the large number of leaders in the class has most impressed him. Freshmen took over the office of Day Student Rep on the Board, both as acting and elected representatives. In addition to their class president, this class will claim the secretary and the religious representative next year.

Almost all the members possess a sense of responsibility and are able to get things done. This quality was especially noticed in the way they, together with the sophomore officers, planned and organized the Student Action Day.

Along with these leadership qualities, the freshmen have imagination and initiative. The campaign for president of the class was one of the most colorful and creative that Marian has seen. One of the candidates even brought out his own band to help.

Imagination and initiative were also evident in their Homecoming float which received an "honorable mention" award.

Frosh are by no means lacking in performing talents. Witness their large number in the ensemble and among the dancers of Brigadoon. All the dramatic productions this year have had freshmen members in the cast.

We encourage this spirit and good work which the freshmen have exhibited and hope that they will continue in the "Marian College tradition."

Developing Team

Last fall the new development director was announced. Mr. Ralph Anderson was to take over the duties of the development office. Although he has been serving only one year, the results of his work are quite visible and remarkable.

Aside from his development responsibilities, Mr. Anderson acts as public relations director. Through his tireless efforts the name of Marian College has become popular throughout Indianapolis, the archdiocese, and the neighboring states. Whenever something happens affecting the college as a whole or an individual student, Mr. Anderson hears of it and makes sure that others hear of it too.

With the assistance of his secretary, Miss Alberta Hensley, he sends press releases covering all campus news to the local papers as well as to the diocesan weeklies in this area.

The planning and organizing of the cornerstone-laying ceremony was an especially noteworthy example of what these two are doing.

We would like to express our thanks to Mr. Anderson and Miss Hensley for a job well done this year and to extend to them a vote of confidence regarding their future work.

Field Day Success

Because of the large number of seniors and especially the large number of outstanding seniors, two Marian Maids and two Marian Knights were recognized at Field Day this year. Donna Tatroe and Bonnie Johnson and Bob Hensel and Jim McMahon were awarded plaques for their contributions to the college.

Four other men and four women were given runner-up ribbons.

Since the seniors had won first place every year since they were freshmen they were determined to do so again. Underclassmen, especially the frosh, were equally determined not to let them. Result: a tie between the seniors and the frosh.

More important than who won, however, was the fine spirit which pervaded the competition, making this Field Day one of the best ever.

Expose: False Charges Against Civil Rights Bill

A man who has been suffering from a serious malady for many years, is offered the medicine which will cure his sickness. But the man refuses to take the curative.

This seems irrational, doesn't it? Yet this is almost exactly what the American people are doing with respect to the civil rights bill now before the Senate.

Although Americans cry that they want to see an end to inequality in the United States, they balk at the means which will cure the ill.

The reluctance of Americans to accept the bill need hardly be proved. Let us just remind ourselves of the 31% of the Democratic voters who choose Governor Wallace in the Indiana primary election.

We feel that most of this reluctance is founded on ignorance of the bill. There are many whispered objections to the bill which have no basis in fact, but which are none-the-less preventing people from supporting this measure.

The Criterion of April 30 attempted to 'Make It Great'

On a beautiful sunny Sunday afternoon, May 3, the cornerstone for the new men's dorm was laid. Such archive materials as letters of congratulation from religious and civic leaders, a statue of St. Francis, a medallion of Pope Paul VI, a college catalogue, and a student directory, were placed inside a metal box, which was then sealed by welding. Monsignor Doyle and Monsignor Reine then deposited the box inside the stone and the stone was cemented in place.

A great many faculty members, alumni, and friends of the college, as well as local officials, were present at the historic ceremony. The number of students in attendance, however, was embarrassingly small. It's sad that more are not interested enough to come down off the sun deck for about an hour to really be a part of such an impressive event.

Doctor Thomas P. Carney, vice-president of research, development, and control of Eli Lilly and Company, was the main speaker. He outlined the progress which Marian College has experienced through the years and reminded us that the administration has far-reaching dreams and plans for the growth of the college.

"Remember" he concluded, "that the future college will be a reflection of what you—faculty, students, and alumni—want it to be. I hope with all my heart that you will make it great."

Let us not disappoint him.

dispel some of the lack of knowledge which has given rise to the ill-founded objections. To quote:

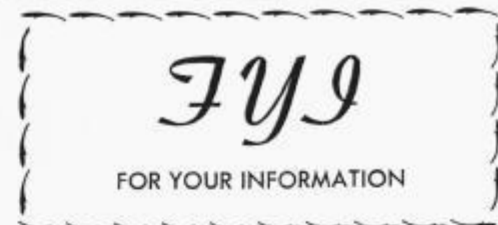

"1. A home owner is not forced to sell his home to a Negro, because there is nothing about housing in the bill.

2. Employers would not be forced to hire incompetent workers, because standards for hiring, if there is no unjust race discrimination, are not affected.

3. Hotels and restaurants will not be forced to serve disorderly persons, since these establishments may maintain any reasonable standards, provided they are applied impartially.

4. The right to trial by jury is not removed. There are no penalties in the bill. Existing trial methods are unchanged."

The objection that this is not a matter to be handled by the federal government also seems fallacious. Many states have proved themselves either incapable or unwilling to enact equality measures for themselves, even though equality is guar-

Dear Readers:

For two years we have been anticipating this column—our last. Now that the time has come to bid our fond farewells and to bow out gracefully, we find that it's not so easy to do.

Although this is the last issue for this year and for this editor, true to legend the Phoenix will rise again in September under the co-editorship of Mike Bruder and Judy Swan.

It seems that every month we pour over this typewriter, racking our brain for some little tidbits of news "For Your Information," trying to fill approximately ten inches of copy.

This month is without exception. There is not a lack of things though to be said now. It's more a question of which ones to mention and how to say them. But before moving on to bigger and better things we would like to state that we have enjoyed working with the Phoenix and would like to thank every one who has helped us, even if it was only by giving moral support by reading the paper.

FYI

Speaking of bigger and better things: Au revoir to the faculty members taking a leave of absence and to the graduating seniors.

A note of gratitude goes with the farewells to Father Ajamie and Father Smith for dedicated service both in and out of the classroom. Thanks, Fathers.

FYI

Congratulations to Prom Queen, Beth Sutherland, and to the members of her court. The juniors deserve a pat on the back for all the hard work they put into making the dance such a success.

FYI

The Booster Club can perhaps be singled out as the "Most Outstanding Club on Campus" during this past year. Many a project was carried out under its sponsorship. The entire school can certainly be proud of the Boosters.

FYI

Two sophomores, Bernie Schneider and Catherine Herber, have brothers who were recently ordained priests. Congratulations to them and their families. Kay, by the way, is the fifth Herber to attend Marian. Quite a record!

FYI

Now that the Board officers for next year have been chosen, we urge you to get behind them and stay there, supporting them next year. They will always welcome constructive criticism. Attendance at meetings is encouraged.

FYI

"The time has come . . ." but we find that it is quite difficult to bow out gracefully. So instead of actually saying goodbye, we'll "just fade away"

Birth

Congratulations to Edward Dagdag '64, and his wife, on the birth of a son, Mark Joseph, May 1.

Parish, Study Await Faculty

Upon completion of the present semester, two faculty members of the theology department will be leaving Marian. Father Albert Ajamie will be the pastor of Holy Angels parish. Father C. Patrick Smith will study theology at the University of Louvain, Belgium.

Two other faculty members have leaves to study at Indiana University. Mr. Robert E. Moran, of the speech and theatre department, will be working on his Ph.D. in theatre. Mr. Gilbert V. Tutungi, of the English department, will be pursuing doctoral studies in comparative literature. He is the recipient of a grant from the Indiana Non-Western Studies Project.

Four Marian faculty members have completed study plans for the summer.

Sister Margaret Ann will be post-doctoral guest at the 1964 Linguistic Institute, June 17-Aug. 14, at Indiana University.

The Institute for Teachers of English at the University of Illinois, will be attended by Sister M. Georgine, June 15-Aug. 8.

Father Paul A. Dooley has accepted a summer fellowship to continue the study of comparative religions at State University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Sister M. Augustine will begin doctoral studies in French at Fordham University.

Japanese Student Exhibits Western, Oriental Painting

by Becky Brunson

Two distinct cultures are exemplified in the art exhibit that winds up the main stairway in Madonna Hall and into the art department. It is a colorful assembly of oils, pastels, water colors, prints, and collages—the product of Lucy (Kuniko) Kato's four years of art study at Marian.

The subjects vary as widely as their treatment. Lucy says, "There is really no particular theme, although many of the pieces are of a religious nature. I guess that is subconscious, because I think I would like to do religious illustrating in Japan."

This "religious nature" in her work extends into all media. For example, Lucy chose Japanese pastels for an illustration of Mary and St. John at the foot of the cross. While working with poster paints and American pastels in another work, she devised a symbolic work entitled "Two Eves." The creation consists of the cross-tree of Eden and Calvary joining the Madonna and Child to the fallen Adam and Eve figures below.

Highlight of the exhibit is a dual-culture project. It is a four-paneled wooden screen, five feet tall, painted on both sides with black lacquer. On one side is depicted an abstract, symbolic representation of the Creation, in black and white—American in aspect. The reverse side is a Japanese scenic portrayal in gold, red, and black. The screen is pleasing to the eye, as well as "international" in flavor.

Leukemia Research, Teaching the Blind Head Summer Orientation for Seniors

Interesting and diversified areas of professional employment are in store for Marianites this summer.

Jean Sites, a biology major from Frankfort, Ky., will partake in a leukemia research project at Harvard Medical Center in Boston. In September, Jean will enter Harvard University, where research work will coincide with her graduate studies in bacteriology.

In late August, Claire Schirmer, a sociology major from Cincinnati, will join the Department of Vision and Hearing Services of the Archdiocese of Chicago Catholic Charities Bureau.

Working as an itinerant teacher in Chicago schools, she will visit classes to counsel blind pupils about adjustment to a regular classroom environment.

Claire's background for her job includes a correspondence course in Braille from the Library of Congress, and field work at Crossroads Rehabilitation Center and the Indiana Blind Industrial Agency. This summer Claire will begin work on her masters degree at San Francisco State College on a grant from the American Federation for the Blind.

Lillie Moore, home ec major with concentration in foods, will return to her home town of Chicago to take her dietitian's internship at Cook County Hospital. Following her residence, she will be admitted to the American Dietetics Association.

Terry Tehrany, another foods major, will be assistant chef of the exclusive King Cole Restaurant in Indianapolis. Having worked everywhere from a local Frisch's establishment to a large Hollywood restaurant, Terry has had varied experiences in food services.

Three Marian College students have been selected to participate in a Summer Careers in Social Work Program recently established by the Community Service Council.

This program provides ten weeks' salaried positions for ten college men and women from Indianapolis.

Marilyn Foltz, sophomore, has been assigned to the Adoptions Department of the Catholic Charities Bureau; James Roth, junior, to the Traveler's Aid Society and Mary Jo Speth, junior, to the Young Women's Christian Association for group work.

Two other Marian juniors will be assuming summer positions in social work.

Michael Eberly will participate in a work-orientation program sponsored by the Indianapolis Children's Bureau. LaVerne Gray has a position at the Springfield, Maryland, State Mental Hospital.

Spanish Majors to Study At University in Colombia

by Mary Anne Barothy

This summer, while most of us are working or enjoying the lazy, crazy days of summer, Steve Noone, Tom Alsop, and Richard Powell will be studying in Bogota, Colombia, at the Universidad Javeriana.

For the past few months direct negotiations have been going on between Sister Edgar, head of Marian College's Spanish department and Felix Valbeuna, Student Program Coordinator, Latin American Center of the Universidad, to select three Marian students for a ten week study program. Steve, Tom, and Richard have fulfilled a major equivalent in Spanish and are well prepared for the course.

The American students will be housed with Colombian families.

This, in combination with their language studies, the Orientation to Latin Culture, and a six week field project, will greatly enhance both the students' spoken and written knowledge of Spanish.

Steve Noone expressed enthusiasm about having been selected to study in Bogota, as did the other two. Steve added "I'm interested in coming to meet all the people, especially the family with whom I'll stay."

Tom Alsop commented, "I want to learn more about the traditions and culture of the Colombian people, and to examine the problems the people face."

Richard Powell is looking forward to comparing the Colombian school system with ours and to trying to understand the culture of the people.

Five Graduates to Train For Peace Corps Service

"The Peace Corps is people—dedicated Americans who are giving of their time and talent to help people in the developing nations around the world."

Among those "giving of their time and talent" in the months to come will be five Marian graduates: Phil Brady, Marie Jochim, Jean Johnson, Theresa Meyer, and Pat Sabelhaus.

Phil Brady of Indianapolis, is a mathematics major. After the training period, Phil will be assigned to a rural community development program in Peru, perhaps doing surveying or road building.

An English major and Phoenix editor, Marie Jochim will teach English in Nigeria. After her Peace Corps tour of duty, Marie, a native of Evansville, plans to go on to graduate school.

A French West African teaching assignment is the hope of Jean Johnson of Indianapolis. Leaving for training in September, Jean is looking forward to her Peace Corps tour and graduate school upon her return.

With a major in business, Pat Sabelhaus of Tell City prefers work in a credit co-operative. He has been assigned to Venezuela where he will be involved in a rural development program. Like many volunteers, Pat also expressed his desire to move on to graduate school after his tour.

Theresa Meyer has been accepted into the Peace Corps to teach in South America. She plans to postpone her adventure for a year while she teaches in Indiana.

CSMC Plans Mission Work In New Mexico

Summering in New Mexico is the plan for Carol Becherer, Katy Jarosinski, Al Kreutzjans, Patty Miller, and Mary Jane Scheidler.

The group will leave June 15. Following a week's orientation program at Holman, they will be assigned to missions in the surrounding area.

A year's program is already in operation in this area; 60 staff members, made up of doctors, teachers, nurses, two coaches, and "handymen" devote a year or more of their life to working in the mission area. In the summer, the work will center mainly around catechetical work, preparing youngsters for their First Communion, and some remedial work with the children.

Since April, Sister Margaret Ann, CSMC moderator, and the group have been preparing for this summer by studying various aspects of the apostolate, recreational and teaching methods. This training and deepening of the spiritual life will continue through the summer, in group discussions and lectures.

Across the border, at St. Michael Indian Mission in Arizona, Donna Tatroe and Pat Palmer will be conducting religious vacation classes for Navaho children. This is Pat's second summer there.

Baseball Squad Finishes Season With 2-12

The Knights closed out their 1964 baseball season last week losing the final game to Franklin, 14-4. The team record now stands 2-12 for the year.

The diamond aggregate picked up its twin wins against Rose Poly and Earlham, but the rest of the season's card proved too much for our Knights who were plagued by poor batting and errors. The team averaged .199 at the plate and committed a total of 64 errors.

Jack Essling captured the Marian batting crown this time tallying a .318 average. Chuck Federle followed next in the runner-up spot with a .302. Last year's hitting champ, Harry Sanders, wound up swatting .229. Jack also led the team in RBI's with 7 to his credit.

Pitching honors for the Knights' two victories were shared by Chuck Federle and Harry Sanders. Chuck posted a 1-6 record and Harry a 1-3.

Other players on the Knight baseball team were: Tom Alsop, Tony Ardizzone, Tom Bubb, Charles Burello, Bob Canalas, Fred Carr, Jim Chase, Gregg Dwyer, John Ford, Mike Griffin, Ken Lustig, Rick Malad, Ron Strange, and Lester Weiss.

Annual Sport Banquet Honors Marian Athletes

Mr. Mike Ahern, news director of Indianapolis WIRE, addressed the annual sports banquet, May 20, at which Marian's men and women athletes of the past year were honored. Forty-six Maids and Knights received awards.

The coveted "Most Valuable Player" awards for varsity basketball, baseball, tennis, golf, and track went to Pat Sabelhaus, Chuck Federle, Willis Donis, Maury Bubb, and Gene Payne, respectively.

SENIOR CAROL ROELL was honored as "Outstanding Woman Athlete of the Year." Bernie Schneider received the special Free Throw Award in basketball.

Head Coach Cleon Reynolds presented basketball awards to Chuck Federle, Jim Chase, George Gerencser, Tom Egold, Maury Bubb, Jerry Ban, and team managers Dave Mader and Mike O'Neill.

Receiving awards from Coach Reynolds for baseball were Tom Alsop, Tony Ardizzone, Bob Canalas, Fred Carr, Jim Chase, Gregg Dwyer, Jack Essling, Chuck Federle, John Ford, Harry Sanders, Rick Malad, and Ron Strange. Student manager Joe Wagner was also presented with an award.

Tennis coach Father John Elford gave awards to Larry Ramsey, Dan O'Brien, Bob Zickler, George Gerencser, Bernie Schneider. John Carr, Mike Leonard, Paul Dynes, Maury Bubb, and Tom Zeunik received their letters from golf coach, Father Patrick Smith.

THE NEW TRACK TEAM had five men awarded sweaters: Gene Payne, Mike Schnelker, Carl Wagner, Marty Liddy, and Clement Richard.

Women athletes receiving recognition were: Donna Frerick, Gayle Wernke, Marian Rivas, Mary Margaret Turk, Helena Rossi, and Patty Michaels. Judy Farmer, Marge Huether, Evelyn Looney, and Susan Charbonneau were also presented with awards at the dinner.

Each spring the members of the varsity basketball team get together and vote one of their number "Most Valuable Player of the Year." This time as always the voting was secret and the final result was announced at the annual sports banquet last Tuesday, May 19. The polling this year gave the MVP honor to senior cage ace, Pat Sabelhaus. The distinction couldn't have been more deserved.

PAT is the four year varsity veteran of the hardwood who captained this season's squad. A business major from Tell City, Indiana, he is one of the most likable fellows you could ever want to meet. On the basketball court he's a real hustler, a good mover, and a talented field goal artist both from under the basket and from out as well.

His teammates regard him as a vital force on the team. "He never quits no matter what the odds," said one of Pat's cage comrades. "His spirit and determination never slack and he's one of the finest play-makers I've ever seen. He's a real sportsman in the truest sense of the word."

Although Pat sports a respectable .672 overall shooting average, you won't hear him talking about it. He doesn't consider himself outstanding. He wants to be good at the game and he works hard to see that he is, but he never takes the time to worry about the glory which his ball playing earns him.

Pat chose to come to Marian because, while wanting to get a fine college education, he also wanted to play college basketball. He had played for Tell City the two years that school won the regional championship, and he felt he would have a pretty good chance to play here. He made the team and considers himself fortunate to have done so.

"PLAYING here at Marian has been a true education in itself," Pat told me in his soft Southern Indiana drawl. "I value the experience and feel that it had a definite share in improving my sense of judgment and my ability to make quick, accurate decisions."

"The sports program at Marian is geared to building character and producing a well-rounded individual. It provides a wealth of physical, social, and emotional benefits to those taking part in it. What I got out of my four years on the basketball team was worth far more than all the sweat and work I had to put in. I also feel that my experience will be a great help in my work in the Peace Corps."

The "Knights' Tale" salutes a fine athlete and a real sportsman. Lots of luck to you, Pat.

This column also sends a final salute and a hardy pat on the back to graduating senior athletes Bob Canalas, Tom Bubb, Ron Strange, and Tom Zeunik. To all of them we wish the very best of luck.

And now to all our readers, we here at the sports desk bid farewell for the summer. Here's hoping that our sports' seasons next year will be winning ones.

Knight Harriers Show Strength At Rose Poly, IC

Manpower shortage continues to haunt Marian's hard-working track team; only five runners were available to compete in meets at Rose Poly, April 25, and Indiana Central, April 28.

THE KNIGHTS brought home one first, four seconds, and a third to highlight the triangular meet between St. Joseph's, Rose Poly, and Marian. Gene Payne sailed 20' 1" to win the broad jump. He also took second in the 220-yd. dash, and third in the high jump.

Clem Richards won second place in the high jump, while Marty Liddy did the same in the 440-yd. run. The mile-relay team of Carl Wagner, Mike Schnelker, Payne, and Liddy came within a yard of victory, but had to settle for second.

At the quadrangular meet at Indiana Central, Marian, with its team of five, was only three points behind third-place Franklin College, boasting a full team of 25.

SPIRIT IS HIGH among the tracksters who are determined to prove that track is no longer a joke at Marian. But they cannot do it alone. They have shown that they can compete with the finest runners in the state. But they can bring home only part of the glory.

Good Sports-Keeping

Reflecting over the past year, increased enthusiasm for Marian activities is noticeable. We all remember the large participation in homecoming events, especially the class floats.

Recently we experienced keen competition on Field Day, with the seniors and freshmen sharing the championship position (the "young" rivals proved too challenging for the "aging" seniors).

Not only has enthusiasm appeared in group activities, but also individuals have shown enthusiasm by excelling in many different fields. In the area of women's athletics, a senior was chosen for the first time in two years as "Outstanding Woman Athlete."

Carol Roell, a mathematics major from Brookville, Ind., received this award at the athletic dinner, May 19. As a varsity basketball player for four years, she led the team to victory several times. In her junior and senior years she served as basketball captain.

Besides excelling in basketball, Carol played in Marian's varsity volleyball team where she became a valued member. During her junior year Carol presided as president of WARA and received the most valuable player award in basketball.

Congratulations to Carol and all those honored at the athletic banquet.

Have a wonderful and relaxing summer vacation.

Medal, Membership Honor 'Linguists'

Language and literary proficiency were recently recognized.

Donna Loechle, senior, was awarded the Alliance Francaise medal.

Admitted to Lamda Iota Tau, national literary honor society, were: seniors, David Armhorst and Patricia Felke; and juniors, Ann Marie Miller and Judy Tis-haus.
