Dear Brother Chalk:

Thank you for your good letter of March 1. I had fully planned to be able to spend some time with you during the Abilene lectures; I regret that it was not possible. Sometime I would like to come to Abilene for three or four days when I had no lectureship responsibilities, just simply to be able to visit with friends.

Your letters have meant more to me than you have any idea, and I am a great admirer of the work you are doing. I will certainly be glad to make any suggestions concerning your Herald of Truth work that I feel will be constructive; I feel complimented to have been asked. I share your sentiments concerning some of the articles to which you say you react strongly; I do, also. But then, that sort of thing adds spice to the paper and allows other viewpoints besides my own to receive a hearing.

Anytime you can be in Austin, I will count it a pleasure to have a visit with you.

Yours in the Faith,

Reuel Lemmons
