CHICAGO-KENT COLLEGE OF LAW

HISTORICAL

HIS College was established in 1887 as the Chicago Evening Law Class. The Chicago College of Law was an outgrowth of this class and was incorporated as an educational corporation of Illinois in the year 1888. It was the Law Department of Lake Forest University from 1889 to 1902, when the University was reorganized as a college and the professional schools became independent. Kent College of Law was incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois in 1892. In 1900 the two colleges were consolidated and have since been known as the Chicago-Kent College of Law.

The Chicago College of Law was one of the first evening law schools to be established in the United States, and immediately attained great success, due largely to the devoted labor and self-sacrifice of its first dean, Hon. Joseph M. Bailey, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois. Upon his death in 1896, Hon. Thomas A. Moran, presiding justice of the Appellate Court of the First District of Illinois, recognized as one of the foremost lawyers of the state, became dean of the college. After his death in 1904 he was succeeded as dean by the Hon. Edmund W. Burke, former justice of the branch Appellate Court of the First District of Illinois, whose able administration continued until his death, September 7, 1918. At that time Webster H. Burke, formerly assistant dean, became acting dean and in 1920 dean of the college.

Chicago-Kent College of Law is not a proprietary institution. It is independent, endowed and non-sectarian. In 1907 it was incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois as an educational institution and not for pecuniary profit.

The Council of the Section of Legal Education of the American Bar Association has placed Chicago-Kent College of Law upon the Association's list of approved schools.

ADMINISTRATION

The college is governed by a board of seven trustees who delegate to the dean and the faculty matters of educational administration and student discipline. Meetings of the general faculty are held weekly throughout the college year for the purpose of exercising the powers thus delegated, and at which student petitions and modification of general faculty rulings are considered.

LOCATION

Chicago-Kent College of Law owns and exclusively occupies its own building, located in the downtown district of Chicago at No. 10 North Franklin Street, near the courts, the law offices and the principal transportation lines. It is easy of access from all parts of the city and suburbs. It also owns the Chicago-Kent College of Law Library Building which contains the library reading room and faculty chambers and is located at No. 12 North Franklin Street adjoining the College Building.

To the good business judgment of its trustees, the self-sacrificing devotion of its former dean, Hon. Edmund W. Burke, and the generosity of its alumni and others, the college owes its home. The building is completely fire-proof, especially well designed for college purposes, and has installed therein efficient heating and ventilating systems. It contains lecture halls, an adequate library, reading room for students' use, faculty consultation and study rooms and the general and private offices of the administrative officers.

ADVANTAGES

Situated in the very center of the great business district of Chicago, the college affords its students opportunities for an acquaintance with the management of large business interests which will be of incalculable benefit to them in after years in controversies respecting the rights and obligations of owners of such interests.

The advantages of pursuing a course of law studies in a great commercial metropolis like Chicago are well worthy of consideration. There are almost constantly in session in Chicago the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, The United States District Court, a Court of Admiralty, three branches of the Illinois Appellate Court, the Cook County Circuit Court, the Cook County Superior Court, the Criminal Court of Cook County, the County Court of Cook County, the Probate Court of Cook County and the Municipal Court of Chicago, so it readily can be seen that suits calling for the application of almost every possible legal principle are constantly arising and being litigated in courts of Chicago, thus affording law students exceptional opportunities of observing litigation in actual progress. The classes of the school are held at such hours that full-time students may attend daily the morning sessions of the courts.

The college is in the immediate vicinity of the courts and the law offices, and part-time students are encouraged and assisted as far as possible in obtaining employment in such offices. More than 2500 members of the bar of Chicago are alumni of Chicago-Kent College of Law. This fact frequently aids part-time students in finding such employment and thereby in combining to a certain extent the traditional apprentice method of law study with law school attendance.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR ADMISSION

To be permitted to enter the applicant must first present evidence of having previously obtained sixty semester hours of acceptable college credit other than legal. Prior to applying for admission the applicant must have the institutions previously attended send direct to the registrar transcripts showing his complete college record. In special instances other applicants not candidates for a degree, are admitted as special students on furnishing satisfactory proof of sufficient education to enable them successfully to pursue legal studies, provided the number of special students admitted in any year shall not exceed ten per cent of the average number of beginning law students admitted during each of the two preceding years. Each applicant for admission is required to furnish an unmounted photograph, approximately $1\frac{1}{4}$ x $3\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

Subject to faculty approval in each instance, students from approved law schools may be admitted to advanced standing, provided they are otherwise qualified, upon presentation of a satisfactory certificate showing the period of their attendance at such schools and their proficiency in studies there pursued. No such applicant, however, will be admitted to advanced standing who has been denied re-admission to another law school.

MODE OF INSTRUCTION

The chief aim of this school is to teach legal principles and to prepare for the actual practice of law. The course of study conforms to the requirements of the Supreme Court and the Board of Law Examiners of the State of Illinois. It is intended not only to fit men for the bar examination, but more especially for the practice at the bar.

Although special attention is given to Illinois practice, the course is designed to be sufficiently broad and thorough to prepare students for practice in other states. The case method is employed. There are also included exercises in drafting contracts, pleadings, and other legal documents, in the preparation of briefs, and in the conduct of causes in the practice courts.

Students are required to study and brief the cases included in the courses, and examinations, both oral and written, are given from time to time. Final examinations are required in all courses reasonably susceptible thereto.
