They are not Five Dollar Bills, but they look like READY MONEY.

The tickets you see in the Shirt Pockets in our window are the manufacturer's guarantee. Small boys mistake them for Uncle Sam's Currency, and they are not so much mistaken after all, for these tickets mean for every wearer of these shirts. The prices run like this, 75 cents, $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50:

"Money in the Pockets"

"Every Man has a Following."

In watching our sales on "Kantbeast" Clothing we are convinced that each of our customers have a big following. These are common expressions in our Clothing Department: "I want a suit like Jones bought here, don't care if the pattern is a little different." "Don't you sell the Hair Cloth Front?" "Can you fit me in a 'Kantbeast' Suit?" Etc.

Sweet, Orr & Co. Overalls

at $1.00 per pair. Men's Outing Suits from $3.50 up. American Gentlemen Shoes $3.75 to $4.50. Heatherbloom Petticoats don't split $2.50 and $3.25. Cut prices on entire stock of Straw Hats.

WITNESSES INTRODUCED

By the State to Prove Details of the Story Told by Orchard

Attorneys for Defense Make Objections.

Boise, June 15.—In support of its case against William D. Haywood, charged with the murder of Frank Steunenberg, the state today submitted to the jury the testimony of an even dozen witnesses tending to confirm several details of the story of Harry Orchard.

Against a sustained fire of objections and motions to strike out of the record a long paragraph of exceptions by the defense to the rulings of Judge Wood, the prosecution succeeded in securing the admission of much evidence bearing on points of Orchard's tale. First, there was a showing that Steve Adams, stranded at Ogden in June, 1901, on the way home from California, where, it is alleged, he went to kill Fred Bradley, sent a telegram to Haywood at Denver for money.

Next, it showed by the originals of six drafts on New York banks, five of which were purchased at the First National bank of Denver by Haywood himself, that during 1904, 1905 and 1906 money was frequently remitted by Haywood to L. J. Simpkins, former member of the executive board, who as "Simmons" came to Caldwell with Harry Orchard and assisted in the first attempt to kill Steunenberg. The last draft, sent in January after the murderer, was cashed by Mrs. Simpkins, presumably after Simpkins had fled.

After that came the production of the shattered and twisted fragments of the device by which the Vindicator bomb was set off, and this led to an extended inquiry by the defense into conditions and events centering about Cripple Creek during the strike and martial law days. The defense tried to show that there had been unwarranted deportation of union miners, that the calling of the militia was unwarranted and that union stores had been looted; that agents of the mine owners had committed acts of violence and incited others to violence; that union miners had been flogged and driven from their homes, and that peace officers, controlled by the mine owners, had employed deputies who were gun fighters, thugs and criminals.

Next the state completed the legal history of the Peabody bomb, first by showing that it was dug out of the ice in the Coner D'Alene river, then that it was brought to Boise and taken on to Denver, and lastly by identifying its casing in court by the plumber who made it.

The Peabody family was present during this testimony and watched the bomb cover every moment that it was displayed before the witness stand.

Then the state once more took up the general thread of Orchard's story and successively offered the testimony of Miss Peabody to the incident related by Orchard where he and Steve Adams followed the Peabody carriage home, the evidence of Governor Peabody that he had seen Orchard in Canyon City and that he had repaired his house as Orchard testified, testimony showing that at various times in 1905 Hoywood, Pettibone and Orchard were seen together, a general confirmation by William Vaughn of the trip that Orchard and Vaughn made to Canyon City, and lastly proof that Steve Adams was at Pocatello in September, presumably to meet and throw "Pettibone dope" at a carload of non-union miners.

Foraker Don't Believe It.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—Senator Foraker of Ohio has given out a written statement summing up the testimony taken by the senate committee on military affairs in the Brownsville inquiry and declaring that it fails to show that any soldier took part in the affray.

Mr. Foraker says: "The testimony given by the soldiers in their own behalf is not, in my opinion, shaken by the testimony given by the citizens of Brownsville. No important item of new evidence has been brought forward against the soldiers in this examination."

THE MAYOR IS GUILTY

Jury Finds that Schmitz Committed Crime of Extortion.

A Unanimous Verdict

San Francisco, Cal., June 15.—A jury of twelve of his peers has declared Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz guilty of the crime of extortion as charged against him by the Grand Jury.

Schmitz sat unmoved with his left hand to his chin. He apparently did not understand when the jury gave the verdict and asked Barrett "What is it?"

"Guilty," said Barrett. Schmitz's hand dropped to the table, but he showed no other signs of emotion.

The jury was out just one hour and thirty-five minutes. It elected Charles E. Capp foreman and at once proceeded to take a ballot. This was cast verbally and stood eleven for conviction, one for acquittal, Juror Burns, a shoemaker, casting the dissenting vote.

Then the twelve men began a discussion of the evidence, which lasted for nearly an hour. At the end of that time the first formal ballot was cast. It was a written ballot and was unanimous for conviction.

The jurymen issued this statement to the Associated Press immediately after their dismissal by the court:

"In justice to juror Burns it should be explained that he did not vote for acquittal because he was dissatisfied with the evidence or because there was any doubt of the defendant's guilt. Two forms of verdict were given to the jury, and the consecutive reading of these momentarily confused Mr. Burns. As soon as he understood the matter he cast his vote with the other eleven and the verdict was accomplished."

Mr. Burns approved this statement as correct.

The morning of the last day of the Mayor's trial was taken up with Mr. Campbell's closing address to the jury for the defendant, a speech of great vigor. The afternoon was consumed by Assistant District Attorney Heney. The reading by Judge Dunne of his charge to the jury occupied the best part of an hour.

Even before Judge Dunne reached the synagogue, hurried thither by an automobile, on receiving word that a verdict had been reached, nearly a thousand men had gathered in Bush street and were clamoring at the doors to be let in. They were kept out until the twelve men had been brought in and seated.

As Judge Dunne entered his chambers by the rear way the crowd surged into the building from the front.

Judge Dunne took the bench at once. "Let the jury be polled," he said quietly. The jury was polled and on being asked for the verdict Foreman Capp replied:

"Guilty," very slowly and very low.

The silence was broken in a hundred places at once. A long drawn "Ah" ran through the crowd. Then "Good" cried a voice in a far corner. And "Good, good," re-echoed another spectator farther in front.

Rudolph Sprekels, whose wealth made possible the whole bribe graft prosecution, was walking swiftly down the aisle as the sentence fell from the foreman's lips. He sank into a near-by seat as though arrested by some sharp command.

All over the house people were jumping up and some of them turned to the strangers at their elbows and thrust out their hands in the enthusiasm of a long-looked-for moment and said "shake."

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE

Taken in the Investigation of the Territorial Penitentiary.

Brutal Treatment of Convict

Santa Fe, June 14.—More sensational evidence was disclosed today relative to cruel treatment of convicts at the Territorial penitentiary which has been denounced by Superintendent Arthur Treford. Attorney General Prichard resumed the investigation this afternoon at 2 o'clock when Dr. David Knapp of this city, who was formerly the prison physician, was placed upon the witness stand.

Dr. Knapp told of the case of a convict, who had been "strung up" in one of the cells, and who was punished in that way even after he had ordered the man taken down. He stated that he examined the convict and found the latter to be in poor physical condition, whereupon he gave instructions to have the punishment discontinued. The doctor said he feared that if the punishment was continued the convict was liable to die because of the fact that the prisoner had a weak heart. Notwithstanding his orders, the physician declared that the convict was not taken down until four and one-half days later.

Dr. Knapp was the only witness examined at the investigation today.

New Business Firm.

J. Q. Grant, C. S. Foust and A. F. Menger have established the Alamo Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Company, and are out for business and will get business as long as any one else can get it. These gentlemen are hustlers, rustlers and know their business. Messrs. Foust and Menger have recently located here, taken up land, started their improvements and will work to get good people from their old home in Oklahoma to come here and start in on the ground floor of this wonderful country's development. They came here and investigated for themselves and becoming convinced that this is the coming country went back home and loaded up cars and brought their all and are now citizens of Alamogordo, Otero county, New Mexico. The other families who came with Messrs. Foust and Menger, as mentioned last week, are the best of people—just like those soon to follow. Mr. Grant needs nothing from our pencil. He has located lots of good people already and will locate lots more—let 'em come.

Two Deaths From Scarlet Fever

We were informed Monday that scarlet fever had broken out at the Mescalero Agency and that two children of Capt. S. F. Miller had died with the disease. It is known that the type of scarlet fever now among people of this county is of a malignant form and consequently very fatal. It is believed that the disease is checked at Three Rivers which is due to the people there heeding the advice of Dr. Howell, in fact there has been no new cases at Three Rivers for some weeks. We do not know where nor how the disease got to the Agency.

Scarlet Fever in El Paso.

It is understood that scarlet fever has been in El Paso for some time and that no special effort has been made to quarantine the cases. We also understand that the disease is in Carrizozo and there, too, no attempt is being made at quarantining the disease, and yet the disease is pronounced the worse form of scarlet fever.

Every Man His Own Doctor.

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for this class of ailments. Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. Chamberlain's Remedies have been in the market for many years and enjoy a good reputation.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm (an antiseptic liniment) for cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, swellings, lame back and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for constipation, biliousness and stomach troubles.

Chamberlain's Salve for diseases of the skin.

One bottle of each of these five preparations costs but $1.25. For sale by all druggists.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important. Both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical, unobtrusive, unobtrusive remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood elements.

The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, breaks local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, once nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—see general notice to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Mrs. May French Cooley will give a recital at South Methodist church on next Tuesday evening, June 25. The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Epworth League of that church. Admission 50 cents. Children 25 cents. Mrs. Cooley enjoys a wide reputation as a dramatic reader and humorous entertainer. She is a sister of Rev. French, the presiding elder of this district. The Ashland Kentucky Gazette says: "Mrs. Cooley's manner and general appearance is indeed attractive; she is graceful, and, above all, perfectly natural. There is not that tinge of affectation that characterizes so many reciters. At the close of each recital she was loudly applauded, and returned and gave a spicy selection for an encore. Take it through and through, it was a delightful entertainment, and the crowd who went from this city were enthusiastic in their praise of this gifted elocutionist."

AN ARGUMENT OF FORCE.

Napoleon Smashed a Vass, and the Treaty Was Signed.

Early in April, 1797, the people of Austria demanded peace with France. Negotiations were begun in the vicinity of Leoben. Bonaparte, in an interview with the Austrian plenipotentiaries, said to them, "Your government has sent against me four armies without an army." In the treaty which the Austrian commissioners projected the first article stipulated that the emperor of Austria thereby recognized the French republic. "Erase it!" exclaimed Napoleon. "The existence of the republic is as plain as the sun. This article is only fit for the blind. We are our own masters and shall establish any government we prefer. If one day the French people," he continued, "should wish to create a monarchy, the emperor might object that he had recognized a republic." The preliminaries were soon settled. Napoleon signing for France, thus placing himself on an equal footing with the emperor of Austria. The formal treaty known as Campo Formio was signed in October, 1797. Austria fulfilling the pledges she had already given, the Austrian plenipotentiary protested against the distribution of the provinces beyond the Adige. Napoleon was angered at this, and, seizing a vase, dashed it to the ground, exclaiming, "If it is not so arranged I will break your monarchy as I have broken this vase!" This argument of force, as demonstrated to the diplomat was convincing, and the treaty was signed.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

Don't Develop the Mind at the Expense of the Body.

The man or woman who would trifle the mental faculties without any reference to the physical shows a faulty qualification for the work in which he or she may be engaged. The mind may be ever so well trained and stored with knowledge of the books, but unless there is behind it a reasonably strong body life runs the risk of being a failure; if not that, an existence of pain that serves as a limitation upon its possibilities. It is a species of cruelty to educate the mind at the expense of the body. Better let a child grow up into manhood or womanhood with an inferior education than with a better education of the mind and a body weakened in the effort.

The fact that so many men in this country who have succeeded in business and in professional and public life have been the sons of farmers, whose early life has been spent out of doors, has been a subject of remark. May it not be accounted for on the ground that in their boyhood their physique was developed so that in after life, besides their mental acquirements, they had strong bodies with which to do the work they have so successfully performed? This is not only possible, but very probable.—Knoxville Journal.

A Stolen Trade Secret.
The manufacture of tinware in England originated in a stolen secret. Few readers need be informed that tinware is simply thin sheet iron plated with tin by being dipped into the molten metal. In theory it is an easy matter to clean the surface of iron. Dip the iron in a bath of boiling tin and remove it enveloped in the silvery metal to a place of cooling. In practice, however, the process is one of the most difficult of arts. It was discovered in Holland and guarded from publicity with the utmost vigilance for nearly half a century. England tried to discover the secret in vain until James Sherman, a Cornish miner, crossed the channel, insinuated himself surreptitiously into a tin plate manufactory, made himself master of the secret and brought it home.

Women and Jewelry.
"Women know a great deal more about buying jewelry now than they knew twenty-five years ago," said a jeweler. "When I first started in the business a clerk with a persuasive tongue could talk a woman into buying most anything. It wasn't safe for her to step inside a shop unless she had a man along. Now the average woman knows more about jewels than the average man. Of course they can be fooled—anybody can—but an expert—but as a rule she buys with a surprising knowledge of value, and her taste in the cutting and setting is excellent."—New York Post.

Brains.
"A man stood on his head twenty minutes in order to win a wager. He died the next day."
"What killed him? Congestion of the brain?"
"No; if he had had any brains he wouldn't have done it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Specified.
"When in trouble," said the eminent lecturer, "refrain from worrying."
"But, doctor," asked a woman in the audience, "how can we?"
"Anyhow," replied the lecturer, "refrain from worrying other people."

Worse Still.
She—You'll be glad to learn, dear, that I've got out of visiting our relatives. He—Friend! Splendid! It hung over me like a cloud. How did you manage it? She—Oh, I asked them here!—Life.

Meeting the Situation.
"I wonder if there's anything serious between that tall girl and the little captain?"
"I think there is. She has had the heels of all her shoes lowered."—Fleegende Blatter.

The Brute.
"What am I going to do, Harold?" called out a woman from the window of an apartment house to her husband, who stood on the stoop lighting his cigarette.
"What shall I say to the landlord? He's coming round this afternoon for the last time, and you know it."
"I will leave it to you, my dear," Harold replied blandly. "If you can bluff him as well as you do me, you're all right."—New York Press.

FARM GARDEN

HOW TO GRIND AN AX.

Scientific Way Clearly Explained and Illustrated.

To get the best results in grinding an ax we must have a long, thin bevel. To have this bevel usable the tool must be of the best steel, properly tempered. Now to the second point. We say that our bevel must vary according to the hardness or softness of the wood to be worked. Why? Because in an ax the cutting edge simply consists of the middle layer of fibers in the blade; next to them is the next layer, a little farther back, and so on right through.

WRONG WAY.
It from breaking away by lending it part of its elasticity. The third layer does so to the second, and so on right through.

The harder the timber the shorter the bevel, the softer the timber the longer, in reason, as explained by R. Kaleski in American Cultivator, who further says: Hold the ax as shown in the second cut and keep the edge at right angles to the stone; travel the blade up or down a little when grinding the corners. Always turn the stone toward the edge; this applies to all edge tools, for two reasons: Turning from the edge will always grind a round, coarse bevel; the points of the fibers are left much more loose and open, thus giving much less elasticity than when compacted together as they are by the stone turning to them. Never grind dry; it heats the steel thereby, as shown by taking the temper out of it. Never grind in the center of the stone, as so many do, with the edge parallel to the stone, as it spoils the stone for grinding and twists the fibers of the steel at right angles to their proper cutting angle. Always give the blade not the eye a dip in clean water after grinding.

RIGHT WAY.
[Hold the edge at right angles to the stone and turn the stone toward the edge.]

The blade clean, now take a slip, oil stone or ax stone and gently rub straight across the bevel and then up and down, to rub off any wire edge and to lock the edge fibers. Make the first rubs the hardest and the last the lightest. The practice so common of giving the edge a few light turns on the grindstone, parallel to the stone, to rub off the wire edge and save rubbing on the finer stone is a bad one even when the stone is a very fine grit, as it disturbs the edge fibers and roughens them up into little saw teeth which soon chew off in use.

Getting Ahead of Boll Weevil.
If we consider six weeks as the average time required for cotton to begin to square after planting, the bulk of the fruit must be set in eighty-five or ninety days after planting. In other words, to escape injury by the boll weevil cotton must be so grown that the bolls will commence to open in about a hundred days after planting, and all the fruit which will probably be secured must be set within forty-five days after the squares begin to form. The advantage of early planted cotton and rapid maturing varieties becomes, therefore, very apparent.—E. D. Sanderson.

Increase in Tobacco Growing.
In 1906 the acreage of tobacco in Alabama increased more than 200 per cent, which appears to indicate that a profitable industry may be built up if the farmers will only conduct it along conservative lines and endeavor to produce the type of leaf that is demanded by the trade. Diversified farming must be the future aim of the southern farmer, and the introduction of tobacco in central Alabama will be one more crop added to its staple products.

Large or Small Cows.
Large cows are not always the most profitable. It costs more to keep large cows than small ones, and they don't always give enough extra milk to pay it back; but, generally speaking, large cows have more vitality than small ones, which helps them to make good use of food. Whether large or small, a cow to be profitable must be healthy.—Farm Press.

Boll Weevil and Green Bug.
Now that north Texas farmers are confronted with both boll weevil and green bug how would it do to turn some of the fine black lands of this region into forage crops for milk production? The land will rise up and bless you.—Farm and Ranch.

Force of Habit.
Realizing that he should pay her a compliment, the chronic debtor hesitates before the beautiful woman. At last he says to her:
"Just make a little tab for me, and next time I'm down your way I'll tell you how well you are looking."
But the look on her countenance was enough to make him realize that compliments must be paid on face value and that beauty keeps no books.—St. Louis Republic.

Latest dispatches state that a net of evidence is being drawn around Haywood. Some letters that were written by Haywood have been admitted as evidence and the way paved for the admission of Steve Adams' confession. The big legal battle continues warm and waxy.

Let the Law be Enforced.

It is bad enough for towns to suffer on account of immoral places or resorts for immoral purposes even though such be removed from the business or residence district, but it is a damnable shame that decency is outraged to a notorious extent right up in the heart of the business and residence part of our town. Systematic raids should be made and the guilty parties punished to the fullest extent of the law. Alamogordo is fast becoming an educational center—a place known for its school facilities. We are soliciting the patronage of parents who have girls and boys to educate, but even though we had no such claims to superior educational advantages we should not for one single day allow brazen and bold and almost public violations of the moral law right in the heart of town, and a few prosecutions under the Edmunds Act would bring justice to some and purge our town with such criminality. For decency sake and for the respect to our people a halt must be called.

Oklahoma Democ. is.

Oklahoma City, June 19.—After a spirited discussion lasting until 1 o'clock this morning the Democratic state convention decided not to go on record as favoring state-wide prohibition.

The French Turmoil.

France is in a state of uprising on account of the authorities attempting to put down the general strike among the wine growers. A dispatch says:
The excitement at Narbonne and other places has increased dangerously, owing to the announcement of the activity of the government and the agitation of hot-heads. The announcement of the intention of the government to arrest the originator of the wine growers' movement was promptly followed by a general rising of the countryside with the object of resisting the government forces.
