WHILE INSANE
 DENTIST GETS EIGHT TEETH

Compels Patient to Have

ARMY APPROPRIATION WILL
 Not be Sufficient to Feed
 Troops as Prices Have Advanced.

Paris, April 30.—M. Labourayre, a dentist of this city, was told and fustian and sent by the Salspeterie for observation and treatment. A few days ago the secretary of one of the deputes entered Labourayre's dental office, to have a tooth extracted, which had caused him considerable pain. The dentist asked the patient to sit in the operating chair, and then, drawing a revolver and pointing it at the frightened secretary, whose toothache disappeared as by magic, exclaimed: "If you move a muscle while I am taking out your teeth, you are a dead man."

The maniac then proceeded to pull the secretary's teeth. One after the other he removed with great skill, while the patient lay motionless in the chair. When eight teeth had been pulled out, the dentist said: "That will do for today. You have been very quiet. Fifteen francs, please."

The secretary paid without hesitation and staggered out of the office. He went to the nearest police station and told his story. A force of police was sent, and when they entered the room, the maniac opened fire on them. He shot one of the policemen in the arm, and another in the leg, before he could be knocked down and handcuffed.

INVESTIGATION ON THE BATTLESHIP VIRGINIA
 Washington, D. C., April 30.—The Virginia, which has recently passed through a period of investigation regarding her boilers, is to be the subject of a special inquiry at the hands of a board of experts. It was thought at one time that the difficulties in firing would to some extent cripple the vessel as a unit of the fleet, but the changes which have been made in the boiler installation appear to have had the desired result. The reports are favorable and gratifying to the engineers. It is proposed to put the Virginia through some evolutions, at the same time observing whether the boilers are improved in a permanent way.

POLICE OF PHILADELPHIA HOLD ATHLETIC CARNIVAL.
 Philadelphia, Pa., April 30.—Judging from the large number of entries for the difference events of the Police-men's Athletic Carnival, which will be held on the grounds of the Philadelphia ball park this afternoon, the police department of this city has more runners, jumpers, wrestlers, boxers, etc., than any citizen would have suspected. For weeks the men entered for the various events have been training and exercising faithfully, and those who have had an opportunity to watch their performances are confident that some remarkable work will be done this afternoon. Great enthusiasm has been shown in this carnival, and if it proves a success, which can scarcely be doubted, it will be made an annual event.

ARMY APPROPRIATION WILL NOT BE SUFFICIENT.
 Washington, D. C., April 30.—The army commissaries are greatly embarrassed by the prospect that congress has made too great a cut in the appropriation for subsistence. It was estimated that it would require $2,250,000 to furnish the army with subsistence supplies. This was based on the number of rations which would be required, and in making the calculation it was taken into account that the enlisted force of the army would not be maintained at its maximum strength, and that economy could be practiced in that direction. The total was derived also from the current market prices for the articles which enter into the composition of the rations. It is now found that those prices have greatly increased, and that in the next fiscal year the cost of such commodities will be considerably greater than they are now. With this condition confronting the War Department the army commissaries are likely to find themselves facing a deficiency while the service itself is apt to be seriously embarrassed by the lack of funds for commissary supplies. This comes at a bad time of the year, considering the fact

Fire Insurance Companies

The Citizen, the other day, commented the course which it had announced the fire insurance companies intended to pursue in reference to the San Francisco losses. But more recent information deprives the commendation of much of its force and amplitude.

It was then said that the companies would pay their losses without delay, quibbles, forced compromise, or any of the methods pursued in cases of ordinary loss. This was quite to be commended, and The Citizen so said; but it now appears that while such course may be pursued, the companies intend to make the country at large pay the San Francisco losses.

The New York Times says that not only in that city, but in the congested districts of all the other cities of this country, will fire insurance rates be increased because of the San Francisco disaster. E. G. Snow, president of the Home Insurance company of New York, which took the lead in demanding higher rates, said to the New York Times:

"You can take it as a fact that the rates will be advanced in all the congested parts of the country. I don't know how much the other companies will advance their rates. We have already advanced ours 25 per cent."

Mr. Snow added that some definite step would probably be considered at a meeting of fire underwriters this week. One of the chief subjects of comment in the fire insurance district was the haste with which Superintendent Hendricks of the New York state insurance department had called for sworn statements as to California losses. The full statements are required by June 1, and preliminary estimates of California business by May 5. Such statements were required after the Baltimore fire, but not so quickly, and the loss there was so much smaller than at San Francisco that the companies needed less time in which to weather the storm and make subsequent statements showing good condition. After the Chicago fire of 1871 and the Boston fire of 1873, the companies had the balance of the year in which to go ahead with new business to repair the inroads into underwriting capital made by the loss of payments.

The companies have obtained pretty accurate data as to the burned areas now, but no exact information as to the probable ratio of insurance loss to property loss, except that it is believed that the percentage of insurance loss to the total damage is considerably less than at Baltimore, partly by reason of the earthquake element and partly because a smaller percentage of insurance was carried in San Francisco.

Everywhere the belief is expressed that most of the companies will weather the storm without radical measures. In most of the comparatively few cases of weakness the stockholders are preparing to rebuild their companies as soon as the payment of the California losses has shown how much is needed. In the case of a few companies, after the payment of losses, the problem will practically be whether the present stockholders wish to put new money into fire insurance or some other business.

Apostle Dowie

The United States knows no nobility but the nobility of manhood; but in the place of the titled aristocracy of the old world, it has magnates, says the Duluth Tribune. There are the coal magnates and oil magnates, railroad magnates, steamship magnates, gas magnates and pork magnates, and in Dowie, we finally have the religious magnate.

It is only five years ago that Dowie, comparatively unknown, declared on the prairie, near Chicago, he would build a city where there would be no lawyers or doctors, no disease or intoxicating liquors and an absence of several other evils that most cities have to struggle against. He made his word good and Zion City, today represents an investment of over $20,000,000.

Most of the world has considered Dowie a fraud, many have believed him to be insane. Measured by some standards he may be both, but he has won success, the success that comes to a self confidence that in its intensity reaches to genius.

The first Elijah was a prophet, the second an hereditary priest. Dowie claims to be the third Elijah and both a priest and ruler. He believes that, by the morganatic marriage of his mother, he is the descendant of an earthly king and, in his pulpit commentary, the passage, "If you will it, this is Elijah which was to come," is cited as referring to him.

His reign, however, is now contested and he has had to turn to the despised lawyers and the courts. But his effort is not to win back his kingship, he is still Elijah, what he seeks is his money or rather the money he claims as his, and his temporal power.

Boston Herald: It is not strange that President Eliot does not take kindly to spelling reform by propaganda. "I do not know what is meant by the twelve words which scholarly men have accepted," says the president of Harvard. "I stick to the old-fashioned way of spelling; I think it suits me better." The dozen words selected by the professors in the English department of Columbia and sent out by President Butler with a signed agreement of those men to use those simplified words in their private correspondence, so as to set a good example to others, were these: Program, Catalog, Decalog, Prolog, demagog, pedogog, tho, altho, thro, thorefore, thru, thrount. These words were to be the beginning of the reform. It was expected that familiarizing people with these eliminations would open the way for further changes. Some of the new forms are already in quite general use, but grouped together they have such an odd and unpleasant look that this seems to be not the best way of promoting the reform. Their "sawed-off" appearance is too suggestive of those original spelling reformers, Artemus Ward and Josh Billings.

Representative Young of Michigan comes from a district in which he claims 15,000 people are interested in the manufacture of wood alcohol and he therefore opposes the "denatured" alcohol bill now pending in congress. Mr. Young's argument against the bill is fashioned after the pattern adopted by all who advocate the interest of the few against the many. He says it costs about fifty cents a gallon to produce wood alcohol and that if the tariff is removed grain alcohol can be sold for thirty-eight or forty cents thus putting a large number of the people of his district out of the alcohol-making business. In other words this stalwart statesman doesn't care a rap for the rest of the country; what he wants is that 15,000 of his constituents may be able to reap the benefit of a tax of ten or twelve cents per gallon on staple alcohol to be paid by their fellow citizens.

When the earthquake had first occurred at San Francisco, a merchant of that city was unable to reach by wire his relatives at Los Angeles, but he was not to be out done. He cabled to a cousin at Berlin, and had the cousin inform the merchant's relatives at Los Angeles that the son and brother, together with his family, had sustained no physical loss. Such spirit as that made San Francisco and such spirit will remake it, causing it to arise in greater splendor from its ruins.

The Citizen returns thanks to Governor Hagerman for document No. 713, of the Fifty-ninth congress, first session, containing his letter and accompanying items in the land lease case, for New Mexico school lands, now before congress. No doubt the governor sent this document to the leading newspapers in New Mexico, but it remained for the morning paper of this city to claim it as a production of its fake Washington bureau of information.

William E. Curtis has called attention to two facts in which every American citizen is interested. The first fact is that on January 1, 1906, the price of beef cattle was the lowest known since the Department of Agriculture began keeping a record of this matter. The second fact is that at the same time the price of beef to the consumer was higher than ever before. Yet the people can only submit while they complain.

How the Food Taste Varies Among Nations

The Financial Review.

That civilized man has missed some of the most toothsome dainties goes without saying, says the Scientific American, and it is evident that prejudice enters very largely into this. Thus, in California, the best fish, it is said, is the sculpin, but in the east this fish goes begging on account of its disagreeable appearance. In Arizona Indian children may be seen catching ania and eating them; and in Mexico the honey ant is eagerly sought after by the natives, who eat the well rounded, currant-like abdomen. In South America the large lizard, the iguana, is a delicacy, not to speak of the larger snakes, which in taste are like chicken. The ordinary rattlesnake, it is said, is very good eating if one can overcome the inborn prejudice.

Americans are inclined to regard the Chinese as a race of rat eaters and denounce the animal as unclean, at the same time consuming tons yearly of the most noxious of all animals—the hog. The rat is careful of its toilet, cleaning itself constantly; but the hog is the only animal of so-called intelligence that revels in dirt and prefers it to cleanliness. The common stink, owing to its peculiar and offensive glands, will never be popular as food, yet its flesh is not only good, but delicious, according to various connoisseurs who have eaten it.

Insects do not enter more into the food supplies of nations is due to prejudice. Grasshoppers are eaten by some western tribes. Ground up, they make a meal that is said to be both nourishing and agreeable. Many a white man has pressed through a country, believing himself nearly starving, as large game was not to be had, when worms and various insects were at hand. During the flights of locusts Indians sometimes collected them in bags, wash them and cook them for a meal.

The most singular food, in all probability, is the larvae of a fly, common in certain portions of California and known as ephydra. This insect is found in such vast quantities in Lake Mono, Cal., that it is washed up on the shores in vast windrows and can be collected by bushels. The water of Mono is very singular, seemingly very heavy and smooth, like oil, so much so that it resists ordinary wind and refuses to become ruffled. When the larvae begin to appear the Indians gather from far and near and scrape them up, place the worm-like creatures on clothes and racks in the sun and dry them, when they are beaten up and husked, looking then like rice. The Indians call the food koo-chahibe, and many bushels are collected at this time; that the larvae are nutritious is shown by the condition of the Indians, who soon grow fat on the rich diet. Many birds are attracted by the larvae and gorge themselves with the singular food.

On Lake Texcoco, in Mexico, a curious fly is found which also is eaten by the natives and known as shanti; the eggs of the insect, which are deposited on sedges, are also collected and eaten for food. On Lake Chalco a certain sedge is cultivated on which the eggs of a species of a fly are deposited. Bundles are made of these and placed in Lake Texcoco for the purpose, and when covered the sedge is beaten over pieces of cloth and the eggs secured. These are collected and ground into a meal, also called shanti, and are in great demand on fast days, when fish is required, the insects or eggs not being considered flesh, as they come from the water. The food is made in small cakes and tastes not unlike caviare. Not only the eggs, but the larvae, themselves a disagreeable looking worm, are used as a food under the name of puxi.

The civilized man, perhaps, turns from such food with disgust, but it is well to remember that epicures in many countries, and especially in England and America, are particularly fond of cheese when inhabited by the larvae of a very common fly. In the United States the large octopus, or squid, common on the Pacific coast, offends the American palate, but the Italian, Frenchman or Portuguese eats it with avidity and considers it a delicacy. The meat is clear and white, like chicken, and has the flavor of crab.

The question of national tastes is an interesting one, and the contrast between those of China and America is remarkable. The objects displayed in the Chinese quarter as dainties are often repugnant to Americans. We find the Chinaman selling eggs of unknown age, especially duck eggs containing ducklings ready to hatch. Sharks' fins—a tough, disagreeable food—are in demand, while deer horns in the velvet and lizards of various kinds are eaten. The nest of the swallow, with its embedded secretion of the mouth glands of the bird, is nearly worth its weight in gold. Trepan, the tough, impossible holothurian, is eaten, and its collection is an important industry along the Malay coast, valued at least $100,000 per annum.

In France the sea anemone is used as food; stuffed like peppers and boiled. It calls to mind crab or crayfish. The oysters of various species is also used, cooked in the shell, like an egg, and eaten with a spoon. In nearly all the old countries of Europe of the type of Spain and Italy the poor are so poor that everything in the nature of food is utilized. Absolutely nothing is wasted and meat is rare. The writer recalls the surprise of an Italian fisherman who landed in California after a trip around the Horn, and was amazed, not at the country, but with the abundance of food. He found his countrymen eating meat twice, perhaps three times a day, when he rarely had it once a month. He saw hundreds of pounds of fish wasted, and discarded merely because the people did not care for it, when in Italy even the heads would be boiled and eaten. He saw big tumbles towed out to sea and thrown away because they were tough, when in his own land every scrap of this fish was saved. America was indeed the land of plenty to the poor of other nations.

Certain Indians consider earthworms a dainty. They are dried and rolled together into a peculiar flour. In Bahama and some of the Florida keys the conch is eaten—by far the toughest food known; more like India rubber than anything else, having to be beaten and pounded before it can be masticated or even cooked.

People Who Live In Half-Million Houses

A distinguished English visitor has been saying that if you are going to live in an American city it is well to take the precaution to be a millionaire. It is not a bad idea. Everybody who can put it into effect would be wise to do so.

The cost of living has gone up 25 per cent in ten years. Of course, no sane being could spend a million dollars on a bare living, even at the increased prices; but the mere living is only the beginning of up to date expense. Two adjoining residences in New York have just been sold for more than a million. To occupy a half-million-dollar house one needs to be not only a millionaire, but a multimillionaire. And there are lots of such houses in American cities, and many even finer.

A generation ago there was probably not a dwelling house in all the United States, with the possible exception of that of A. T. Stewart, which cost half a million or anything like it. So common have great fortunes become and so inconspicuous are millionaires today that the names of the purchasers of these two great mansions were not even heard of by the general public before they appeared in this connection. In spite of the proverb which assures that "fools build houses and wise men live in them" it seems that a man who is able to pay half a million for a house would prefer to build to his own taste rather than buy a ready-made edifice. But taste does not necessarily accompany money. If it did, there would be far fewer extravagantly-fine houses and many more tasteful, comfortable homes.

A smile. The most sympathetic person in the world cannot restrain a smile at a worried expression on the face of a fat man.—Atchison Globe.

CARTHAGE ROAD IS REALLY BUILDING

PURCHASE OF DAWSON FIELDS BY PHELPS-DODGE COMPANY, FORCES RECONCILIATION OF WARRING COAST COMPANIES.

Cony T. Brown, of Socorro, was in the city yesterday on his way to Winslow, Ariz., where today he is conferring the degree of Scottish Rite Masonry upon a large number of Arizonians, who have gathered there from various parts of the territory.

Mr. Brown announced at the Alvarado last evening before departing for Winslow, that the purchase of the Carthage road fields is in actual construction, the companies which were warring over the right of way last year having through a mutual agreement consented to place the product of the Carthage fields on the market. Gangs of men with teams are now at work completing the road, which was partially built, when the right of way question first came up, and putting the decayed part of the road first constructed, in condition for traffic. Work is being done quietly and with great haste.

The purchase of the Dawson fields by the Phelps-Dodge company is said to have combined with other things shrouding the coal situation in the neighborhood of El Paso, in bringing about a reconciliation of the companies owning property in the Carthage district.

SOLID FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

Chicago, April 25, 1906.
F. H. Kent & Company, Agents, Albuquerque, New Mexico.
At the present writing, owing probably to the crippling of the telegraph service and the possible destruction of the company's books at San Francisco, we have no estimate of the probable loss of The Liverpool, London & Globe Fire Insurance company, at that point.

We are officially advised, however, that all losses, however great they may be, will be promptly adjusted and paid in full from funds supplied directly by the home office of the company, leaving the present United States assets amounting to $12,237,000.00 intact for the security of the policyholders in the United States.

We believe that you will be gratified to learn that the splendid record of the company in its prompt payment of over $7,000,000.00 in the great conflagration at Chicago, Boston, Portland, Jacksonville and Baltimore, will be fully maintained at San Francisco, and no deviation from the settled policy of the company to meet its obligation promptly and liberally will occur.

This liberality of treatment, as you know, is unquestioned by the insuring public, and considering the fact that the company has paid the enormous sum of $100,511,094.50 to its policyholders in the United States, you can feel assured in the future, as in the past, that the company with its vast resources will furnish to its patrons not only prompt and liberal treatment in payment of losses, but absolute security in times of great disaster. We are pleased to advise you that the underwriting policy of the company will continue the same in the future as in the past.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM S. WARREN,
Resident Secretary.
GEO. H. MOORE,
JOHN V. THOMAS,
Assistant Secretaries.

POLICE COURT

Jose Moya, who late Saturday night perforated the atmosphere and incidentally the front door of one Sanchez's house, in Dog Town, with hot shots from a blue-barreled revolver, still languishes in the city bastille, where he has been confined since Officers Wagner and Smith, called to the scene of the disturbance by frightened neighbors, arrested him after considerable exertion on their part, inasmuch as Moya resented strenuously the institution of the officers that he had no right to do as he pleased, and "shoot up" Dog Town if he saw fit.

This morning in police court, when the case was called, Attorney Heacock, representing the defendant, asked for a continuation of the trial until this afternoon at 4 o'clock, which was granted. It is probable that a felonious charge will be filed against Moya, in which event the case will go to the district court.

Do You Wish To Look Younger?

Would you like to be the target of enquiring eyes at the next social affair you attend? There is one sure way to have your complexion rival that of the handsomest woman you know. It is this: Apply Hazan's Magnolia Cream to your face, neck and arms in the privacy of your dressing room and your own mirror will not be able to detect its use.

It is not a cosmetic, consequently it leaves no disagreeable, sticky feeling after using. It is a delicately scented liquid lotion and absolutely harmless. Its results are immediate. It will banish freckles, tan, pimples and other blemishes, and make your complexion soft and velvety like it was when you were but twenty.

Ladies who used it forty years ago are using it to-day.

SOMETHING ABOUT PROFESSOR NOBLE

Who Was Recently Elected President of the School of Mines.

A DEPAUW UNIVERSITY GRADUATE

A few days ago The Evening Citizen, in a small paragraph, announced that the board of regents of the school of mines at Socorro had selected Prof. Peelle Noble for president of the school, vice Prof. Charles Keys.

Robert Peelle Noble, A. M., whom the board of trustees have just elected president of the faculty of the School of Mines, is a man of unusually scholarly attainments. He will doubtless vindicate the wisdom of the board's choice of a man for the responsible position upon which he will enter next September.

Faculty Elected. The election of a full faculty for the year 1906-07, resulted as follows: Robert P. Noble, A. M., president and professor of chemistry; Oliver R. Smith, C. E., professor of civil engineering; Emmet A. Drake, A. M., professor of languages.

A Prosperous Year. A summing up of conditions at the School of Mines shows that the year now closing has been the most successful in the history of the institution.

Mr. Allen was superintendent of the school six years ago, and this was his first visit here since that time. He was very much surprised at the rapid growth of the city, and was pleased with the improvements at the school.

The Store of Reliability

Anniversary Sale!

The Store of Reliability

MAY 1st, 1904, THE GLOBE STORE

OPENED FOR BUSINESS, IN A VERY MODEST WAY, ON SOUTH SECOND STREET; THE FOLLOWING NOVEMBER THE STOCK WAS MOVED TO A ROOM ON WEST GOLD AVENUE, GREATLY ADDED TO, AND FOR A NUMBER OF MONTHS DID A GOOD BUSINESS IN THE GOODS THEN CARRIED. BUT WE WERE NOT SATISFIED. WE BELIEVED THAT THE CITY OF ALBUQUERQUE WAS READY FOR A DRY GOODS STORE WHERE EVERY ARTICLE WOULD BE SOLD STRICTLY ON ITS MERITS; WHERE ONE PRICE WOULD BE ASKED EVERY CUSTOMER, AND WHERE ALL CUSTOMERS WOULD BE TREATED THE SAME. IN MAY, 1905, AN OPPORTUNITY WAS PRESENTED TO SECURE A LOCATION ON RAILROAD AVENUE, AND ANOTHER MOVE WAS MADE. THIS TIME WE CLOSED OUT ALL THE OLD STOCK, AND PLACED ON THE SHELVES OF THE NEW GLOBE STORE AN UP-TO-DATE STOCK OF DRY GOODS, LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHINGS, AND SHOES. THAT OUR JUDGMENT REGARDING THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE BUYERS OF THE CITY HAS BEEN SUSTAINED THERE IS NO QUESTION NOR DOUBT. FROM THE DAY THE NEW GLOBE STORE WAS OPENED, SEPTEMBER 15, 1905, TO THIS TIME, THERE HAS BEEN A STEADY INCREASE IN THE AMOUNT OF GOODS SOLD, AND WE BELIEVE THAT PRICES ON THE LINE OF GOODS CARRIED HAVE BEEN MATERIALLY REDUCED TO THE BUYERS BECAUSE OF OUR BUSINESS METHODS—OTHER STORES HAVE BEEN COMPELLED TO REDUCE THE PERCENTAGE OF PROFITS IN ORDER TO HOLD THEIR TRADE. BRIEFLY THIS IS THE HISTORY OF THE GLOBE STORE.

NOW, IN ORDER TO CELEBRATE THE SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE GLOBE STORE, WE HAVE DECIDED TO PLACE ON SALE OUR LARGE STOCK OF

Men's Furnishings and Shoes

FOX HAS THE SMILE THAT WON'T COME OFF GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT RETURNS HOME WITH PARTY OF FRIENDS FROM VISIT TO EL PASO.

F. C. Fox, general superintendent of the eastern general division of the Santa Fe, was in the city a couple of hours this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Fox and a party of friends, arriving from the south on train No. 10 and leaving on train No. 2.

The master of the eastern general division looks about the same as he did a few years ago when he used to run into Albuquerque as a common ordinary division superintendent. He is above the six foot mark and weighs a good 200 pounds or more and still wears the smile that won't come off.

Frank Myers and Clarence Ten Eyck, of whom Mr. Fox spoke several times, and a party of friends, were with Mr. Fox called Las Vegas his home and frequently came to Albuquerque as superintendent of the New Mexico division.

COMPANIES NOT CONNECTED WITH LAND FRAUD CASES In dispatches sent from Roswell in regard to defendants in the land fraud cases the names of John H. McKinstry of the Panhandle & Pecos Valley Land company, and Clarence Ten Eyck of the same company appear as defendants.

STEWART JOHNSON, the railroad telegraph operator at Madera, and Miss E. Fugate were united in marriage at Socorro the other day. Miss Fugate was from Denver.

Harrington Emmons, who has a contract with the Santa Fe to place Santa Fe signs on a locomotive working system, left this morning for the east after having spent several days in the city with his several subordinates overseeing the work at the local shops.

That "blankety-blank" new switch engine is causing more trouble. Its worst feat that ever came down the rail, according to the railroad men. Last week it made junk out of several hot-toot-strong cars, and yesterday it made junk of a small bridge up near the brewery.
