commissioner of the shipping board in an address before the National Republican club today.

He pointed out, that, whereas in the year ending September 20, 1920, ships owned in this country carried 51 per cent of America's ocean freight, they only carried 30 per cent in the last fiscal year.

"The foreigner has taken from us the bulk of our business," he said. By reducing the rates, he said, the only way we can regain that which we have lost is by enabling ships to make rates lower completed sarly in December, and on December 12 Secretary Hughes made public the establing ships to make rates lower than the foreign ships can meet.

"Every time the occan rate on cargoes is reduced it means a lower oct to put on all goods imported, but it also enables the exported goods of Americans to be delivered in foreign markets at a cheaper price than would otherwise be poscible, thus increasing our markets there and giving increased employment to workmen of this country."

Federal aid would make it postablish the American test perts of the world.

"It is a plain business proposition," he continued. "We have the ships. The investment is there. We have the power at comparatively moderate cost to make those those a valuable asset. If the military a valuable asset, if the military a valuable asset, if the military as a valuable asset. The treaty also provides that no permits or license shall be required for the enloyment of any of these ships. The investment is there. We have the power at comparatively moderate cost to make those ships a valuable asset, if the millions of dollars which these ships now are causing to be spent—most of it in caring for itsel up ships which are steadily decreasing in value—could be diverted to the direct assistance of these same ships, the net result would be a seered, Japan also agreed that it will use privately awned merchant marin of inestimable value in supporting the property and fallities for the purpose of electric communication in the island if such property or the country."

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address

(Delivered at the Dedication of the Cemetery in Gettysburg.

November 19, 1863.)

Four score and soven years ago our fithers brought forth upon this confinent a new nation, conceived of liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great is the field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is allowether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense, we can not dedicate—we can not consecrate—we can not hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our paer power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

QUEEN OF SHEBA To Visit Albuquerque

The Queen of Sheba is coming here.

She left New York some months ago after holding royal court before thousands of her admirers and packing a Broadway theater twice daily for nearly six months.

Enormous crowds that flocked to gaze upon her matchless beauty and to see the thrilling chariot race which is probably the most sensational and spectacular event ever known in the world of motion pictures.

The Queen, of course, is the celebrated, famous and wonderful "QUEEN OF SHEBA," the super screen spectacle, produced by William Fox, and directed by J. Gordon Edwards, which has been hailed as the crowning achievement in the realm of motion pictures; and which established a high water mark of superlative supremacy, which will probably stand unequalled for many years.

"QUEEN OF SHEBA," the magnificent pictorial representation of the love story of the celebrated Queen, who went to visit King Solomon in Jerusalem three thousand years ago, will be shown at the Pastime theater, beginning Wednesday, February 15.

There will be a special orchestra for the picture arranged under the direction of Fred Ellis.

If you don't see "QUEEN OF SHEBA" at the Pastime theater this week, you will miss something that will give you one of the most thrilling moments of life. Never in the history of motion pictures has there been anything approaching this marvelous masterpiece in the way of sensational thrills and stupendous achievement. It is not only a wonderful and gigantic accomplishment; it is a picture of such superb beauty that it will live as the greatest screen classic of this generation.

For this purpose we purchased the Seaman Rug Cleaner, which heats rugs of all sizes, removes all dirt accumulations thoroughly, and does not injure them in any way. This is the only Seaman machine in New Mexico. Drop in and see it in operation. All rugs we clean, whether by Shampooing or Dry Cleaning, are first put through this machine. The manner in which a dingy rug brightens up under this treatment is amazing.

Since then the Mackmen during the hast seven years won 323 contests, while losing 708 games, for a percentage of .313. A MEATLESS DIET.

If a man or woman intends to reduce, one excellent way might be to go on a meatless diet for awhite. It cannot possibly do any harm, and it can possibly do as lot of good. For one thing meat is very fattening.

Of course there are many people who are ordered on a meatless diet by their doctors. I have never yet known a case that did not thrive on it. Comes back into our own."
"Only one-seventh of your child's time is spent with the teacher, six-sevenths of it you, as parents, are responsible for," said Mrs. Ella LaBar, principal of the high school, in a paper read before the Woman's thub on Friday afternoon on the topic, "How to Help the Schools." What a child is and what it may become, its real character and attitude toward life, is influenced and developed by the parent rather than by the teacher, parent rather than by the teacher, she declared. Children seem to want the grown-up diversions and reflect the attitude of the parents toward life and society, she said, and rebel at restrictions that are best for their development mentally and physically. Here is good news for the parent who complains about doing more work than the children do, Mrs. LaBar says. "Let them do their own work but see that they have a comfortable, quiet place in which to study."

One car should not be turned to hear the entertaining gossp of the neighbor who has come in to spend the evening and, truth to tell, is not talking for the enlightenment of the children. The best way to help the schools, it would seem, is to send healthy, sensibly dressed, well disciplined children to two-thirds of their school children and may soon be free to all, Medicine and clothing is also supplied where necessary. In England 90 per cent of the school children are now getting free, hot

Our 'own city school and private individuals are furnishing supplementary food to 14 children and the North Fourth Street school parent teachers' association is giving free, hot lunches to 20 children, beside serving the regular lunch at 3 cents a plate. The Old Town school also serves hot lunches. "Wherever this food is supplied," said Miss Diehl, "the children show a marked improvement specific with a serve cough. Margaret's days were crowded but she always found time to run down to the studio and help Joan. Often she took some sweet, or a plate of the little cakes she loved just as well as when Hannah used to make them for her and her playmates. Then Margaret would remain to lunch with her, and they would make merry over the cooking.

After her first success Jean had two disappointments. She had a quaint way of keeping account of what she did. A big sheet of white paper pinned on the curtain recorded the article as paid, or as trash.

But failure did not mean discouragement with Joan. She realized from the start that she was in an untried field and that she must find her way. She was working very hard—too hard. Had it not been for the Sunday she spent with sher mother, and the one evening a week when they invariashly went to see a play, she would have taken no recreation. But once having given her promise, nothing would make her break it—not even her work.

Census Being Taken Under

tional Tuberculosis association, in co-operation with the county health department, is preparing data of the situation in the city with the end in view of being able to give assistance where it is necessary.

Nursus have been employed by the association and are making a survey of the city under the direction of the county health department. The nurses are now giving their attention to the resident sections. The object of the census is to ascertain the approximate number and location of the cases of tuberculosis in the city and the living condition of the patients.

Among other data being gathered is the age of the patient, the present physical condition; whether they have incipient tuberculosis.

Some objection has been raised to the question of age, but this is in no way a personal question, only being asked in order that the department may be better supplied with data for study. The recorded with data for stu

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Born in a log cabin; dying as president of his dence of the opportunity to achieve in America. No class lines divide us into castes oue of which we can Lincoln as our proof.

Lincoln was not great because he was born in a log cabin. He was not great because he was president of the United States. The presidency has henored some men and placed their names on a select list. We know of them only because their names are on that roll. Lincoln honored the presidency. His glory is that he was Lincoln. His place in history is due to the bigness of the man rather than the bigness of the office which he held.

Washington was an aristocrat. Lincoln was a democrat. Neither was favored with an extraordinary mind. Both were favored with that greatness of soul which rises above the mind and directs its activities.

Lincoln saw our nation as a democracy. To him it was a great group of human beings banded together for their mutual advantage. To him our great experiment meant that one man had as many rights as any other. He knew nothing of special favors for a few or the special interests of a little Lincoln saw that an equality in political rights and an equality of opportunity were essential to the permanency of this democracy. His mind sounded the sea-bottom of our theory of government when he said: "This nation can not exist half slave and warning us that "this nation can not exist half slave and half free." Then, political freedom was real friends of France who wish her statesmen the nation's problem. Today, economic freedom is our issue. Democracy can not survive in the face of economic slavery any more than it could under a system of political slavery.

The special interests of his day were the slaveowners. They talked of property rights being above human rights. Property was sacred. With these Lincoln joined issue. So persistent were the special interests that the contest eventuated in civil war. The result proclaimed the fact that property rights are not inherent and must yield to the demands of a sound public policy affecting human rights,

His position made him a target for the bitteres vituperation and abuse. No public man has suffered more. In the midst of it all he said from his burdened heart: "With malice toward none, with charity for all." Lincoln once said that he failed to understand why one so devoid of malice as he knew himself to be should be the storm-center of such bitterness. He must have known that it was because those who so bitterly assailed him saw their activities.

Lincoln was patient. In the midst of the most aggravating annoyances his soul was serene. He was pressing toward an end he had in view. The irritations of the day were mere incidents. He understood men. He expected them to perform the way they did. Understanding this he was calm amidst the tempest he created,

Lincoln once sent a note to Stanton, Secretary of War, ordering a reprieve for a condemned soldier. The tempestuous but capable Stanton thought he saw in the president's act the destruction of army discipline. In a passion he destroyed the note and again.-Brooklyn Eagle. told its bearer that "the President is a d-n fool." The act of his secretary was reported to Lincoln. With a sad but patient smile the ever-humorous Lincoln retorted: "Did Stanton say that? If he did it must be true for Stanton is nearly always right." Thus, through the clouds of an irritating incident burst the sunshine of his great soul.

Lincoln loved the common people-they were his folks. He saw their problems and understood the four-power pact bearing on future affairs in their aspirations. Their passions were to him the outbursts of childish temper. Back of it all he saw the essential goodness of purpose of the average

Lincoln was great in his polse because his great soul rose above petty things. When the ship of rights by any other power. state rolled dangerously in tempestuous seas he stood at the helm in magnificent and solitary grandeur. He was undisturbed. It was his duty

Today his spirit still guides many of our people. If the spirit and purpose of Lincoln could guide us all our problems would be less resolvations. all, our problems would be less perplexing and our

MORE STENCH FROM FILMS.

Mr. Hays is not leaving the postmaster generalship at Washington too soon, if his services as chief been salvager of the movie industry are to be effective. The need of such services as a man of his sort can render the films is accentuated more and more every. day. The latest scandal will strengthen the feeling ens them. of relief among millions of movie patrons (and other millions who would be patrons under more favorable circumstances) that Mr. Hays is so soon to come to the rescue.

It used to be the case that there was time fo one movie "affair" to get out of the road before another made its entry on the stage. Today, however, the boards are generally occupied by more than one at a time, and the assassination of William Desmond Taylor, with the detectives insisting that a woman is at the bottom of it, is more rather than less unsavory than its predecessors. Several accounts hint at the probability that the murder was the natural culmination of the shock ing manner in which a portion of the film community has been living, and the public is warned to be prepared to have the names of a number of very prominent stars figure in the investigation. The nasty Elwell affair in New York promises to be eclipsed by the murder of Taylor. It remains to be seen whether the police are to have any more success in the one affair than in the other in bringing the murderer or murderers to the bar. It goes almost without saying that not all of moviedom's stars are living shamefully. There must be many of them who are as clean and upright, as worthy of respect, in their private lives as anybody in America. But just as unquestionably the industry is sheltering another element which devotes the ALBUQUERQUE MORNING JOURNAL high salaries paid it to shocking immorality and dissipation. To weed out this element, which has high salaries paid it to shocking immorality and provoked public resentment and alienated a great deal of patronage, besides tending to remoralize the industry as a business institution, is doubiless one of the first tasks to which Mr. Hays will apply himself.

RAINBOW CHASING.

Representative Rouse of Kentucky, chairman of the democratic national congressional committee, is Albuquerque, N. M., under act of Congress of out with an assertion that the democrats should make gains in every state north, east and west, next fall. As there are 23 states without a democratic representative, and, considering the tidal proportions of the republican wave of 1920, this might seem a safe prediction without meaning very much, and particularly without altering republican control of the national legislature.

The most interesting part of Chairman Rouse's The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use, for re-publication of all news credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

talk is his theory for his conclusions. It is not that his party has any definite program or leadership as yet to offer the country. It is simply his idea that the people are dissatisfied with the present administration and there'ore disposed to "jump out of the frying pan into the fire," an appraisal hardly complimentary to the intelligence of his fellow citizens.

A few weeks ago it was being said the Newberry case would be the great issue in the campaign. Now country! There is no not mount. Every man can go as far as his mental man living who can guess what may be uppermost legs will carry him. So we boast and cite Abraham in the minds of the American voters then. The world situation is shifting every week. February is a poor month to begin rainbow chasing.

ANOTHER MISPLAY.

French diplomacy has made another misplay in trying to drag the league of nations into the Genoa conference. Poincare's idea, of course, is that since he is standing out for the integral enforcement of the Versailles treaty he should also stand up for the league that was interwoven in that document. He also, of course, has the notion that by bringing in the league France may not stand so much alone. But he entirely ignores the fact that two of the nations invited to Genea, upon whose representation the success of that conference most depends, America and Russia, have plainly said they will have nothing to do with the league.

This sort of maneuvering recalls French diplomacy at Washington, where in succession Briand. Viviani and Admiral DeBon assumed attitudes that emporarily puzzled beholders until it was seen that these gestures were only feints toward something else. The result was to create such a suspicion of French diplomacy as to bring about that very "moral isolation" Briand pleaded against. The effect of the French attitude toward Genoa must be half free." Were he alive today he would still be to increase rather than abate this feeling. It is another misplay which must add to the distress of the

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

SPIKING AN OPPOSITION GUN

(From the Minneapolis Tribune.)
One of the "talking points" is about to be wrested out of the grasp of those who are opposed to the Far East.
This pact binds the United States, Great Britain.

France and Japan to mutual respect of their rights in relation to their insular possessions in the Pacific and to take counsel with one another as to what should be done jointly or separately if there should be aggressive action against any of those right.

Immediately the question was raised as to whether this agreement should be construed as applying to the major Japanese islands—that is, to the business end of the Japanese empire. President Harding answered in the negative. Secretary sometimes it was stern, he performed his task.

Today his spirit still suides many of our people.

Today his spirit still suides many of our people.

It so happened that Japan did not relish the idea of being classed with the smaller insular pos sessions as a sort of ward of the other three pow ers. Japanese pride was touched. Having this sect of shield thrown around their principal do-main was too much like classifying the Japanese with the Filipinos, the Yap islanders and others. Now the teapot tempest has blown over. It has approaching double holiday and been decided by the delegates of the armament dissatisfaction over proposed future conference, the Japanese included, that the major tax legislation held down trading. Japanese islands are outside the pale of the friend-ly agreement. The Japanese themselves must look out for the safety of these lands if anything threat-

Sister Nations Share Farm Championship

Success Due to Soil and Climate.

Seager Wheeler attributes a certain degree of his success as much to the soil and climate of Western Canada as to his own skill. He is a little north of that part of the country that, as the bonanza wheat belt of the continent, has won the name of the "bread basket of the British empire." Moreover with his wonderful achievements with wheat, he himself counsels farmers to devote themselves to diversified agriculture. He does not believe it wise for the ordinary farmer to raise wheat exclusively. He recognizes the disadvantage of carrying all the eggs to market in one basket. Farming, according to his agricultural creed, is most profitable when livestock of all kinds, dairying and poultry are added to diversified field crops.

Diversified farming is the general practice of that great stretch of country that lies along the

Shorthorns

By WALTER NOBLE BURNS.

LLOYDMINSTER, SASK.—Wee Donald's home-coming was like the triumph of a Roman conqueror returning from a victorious campaign. The great Clydesdale stallion had won the championship of the United States and Canada at the Chicago Livestock Exposition, the greatest show of its kind held on the continent. The news had been flashed back by wire. The Board of trade came together in a special meeting. The victory of the horse was turned into a civic event. A message of congratulation was wired to L. Weaver, his owner. Speeches were made. Everybody shook hands with everybody else.

When finally Wee Donald stepped from his private car in the old home town, the winter sunlight glistened on his sleek brown hide, he was led through cheering crowds that lined Lloydminster's main street. Horse and owner were toasted at a public banquet. That's what an international victory for its home-grown farm animals means to the Canadian farming country.

Victory of Horse Civic Triumph.

Every citizen of Lloydminster and every farmer in the rich region round about the town took a personal pride in the triumph of the giant Clydesdale. The animal's perfection, in their minds, was not due so much to his breeding and the care of his owner as to the Canadian climate and soil that instills into the pasture grass, the clover and alfalfa hay and the oat crops those nourishing chemical elements that go to the making of bone and sinew.

Canada was represented at the Chicago show by the pick of its herds and at the Grain and Hay Show, held in connection with it, by the best products of its soil. In both shows, it met competition from the best that the United States has to offer in livestock and grain, and carried off a generous share of the prizes. Many blue ribbons were brought back across the international boundary in cattle, horses, sheep, hogs and grain.

Wins Two Years in Succession.

John W. Lucas of Cayley, Alta., won the champion sweepstakes for oats for the second year in succession. This made it easier for Canada to bear the loss of the wheat championship which went to George Kraft of Bozeman, Montana. But though Canada was defeated in wheat, it was not disgraced. J. C. Mitchell of Dahinda, who in the two preceding years had won the international honors, was runner up and the decision of the judges between the wheat of Mr. Kraft and that of Mr. Mitchell was admittedly a finely-drawn one. There was some solace for the Canadians, however, in the fact that Mr. Kraft's wheat was grown from seed obtained from the famous wheat wizard, Seager Wheeler of Rosthern, Sask.

It may be said in passing that the wheat championship of the North American continent has been won by Canada for ten years, hand running. Eight of these championships, which are generally held as the championship of the world, were won by Saskatchewan and one each by Manitoba and Alberta. This is the highest tribute that possibly could be paid to the wonderful soil and climate of Western Canada and especially of that portion of the Dominion that lies in the rich agricultural belt along the transcontinental lines of the Canadian National Railways.

Canada's String of Championships.

The international wheat contests began in 1911 when Seager Wheeler won $1,000 in gold offered by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy for the best bushel of hard spring wheat at the New York Land Show. The following year the prize went to John Holmes of Raymond, Alta. In 1918 it was won by Paul Garlach of Allen, Sask. Seager Wheeler won it again in 1914, 1915 and 1916. Samuel Larcombe of Birtle, Man., won it in 1917. Seager Wheeler came back into his own in 1918. Mitchell of Dahinda captured the honor in 1919 and 1920.

Oxford Flock Saskatchewan Government Exhibit

Peace River country, so far north as to be almost in the region of the midnight sun—the sun shines there eighteen hours a day in summer—produced wheat that won the first prize in competition against the continent at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876. The same region carried off the international honors at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. Only for the last ten years, however, has Western Canada been in continuous competition for the championship and during that decade, one of its three provinces has always held it, wresting it from time to time from each other but never allowing it to pass from Western Canada.

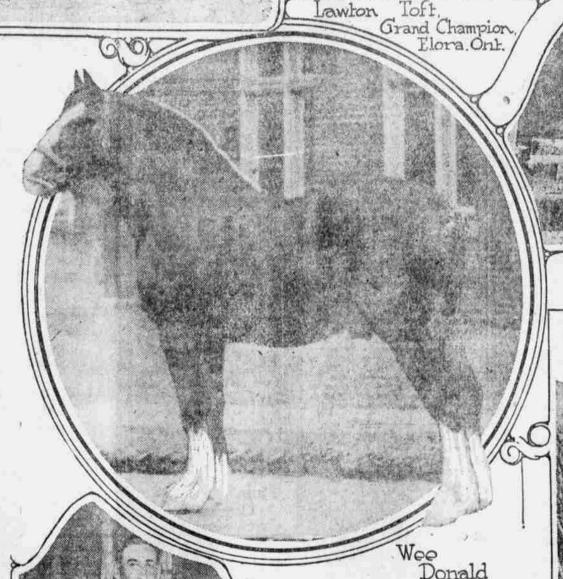

This record is the more remarkable when it is considered that fifty years ago the suggestion that wheat could be grown successfully in a land so far north as the Western Canadian prairies was met on all sides with profound scepticism.

New-Wheat Invades Jack Frost's Domain.

Seager Wheeler is famous the world over for his work in originating new and perfecting old varieties of wheat. He had much to do in making Marquis the staple variety of Canada and one of the most popular varieties in the United States. Kraft's championship wheat was Marquis. Wheeler originated Kitchener wheat and his latest variety is Red Bobs. Red Bobs ripens from six to ten days earlier than Marquis. By reason of its early ripening quality, it escapes rust and early frosts. By the time rust makes its appearance in Canada and the first frosts come, Red Bobs is in shock and ready for the thresher. Scager Wheeler believes that this wheat will push the frontiers of the wheat belt at least one hundred miles farther north and bring into cultivation millions of acres that now lie idle within the domain of the frost king.

Seager Wheeler, who is to wheat what Luther Burbank is to flowers, has for twenty years or more worked his wizardy on a farm of only 160 acres near Rosthern in Saskatchewan. He could have grown immensely wealthy with his expert knowledge of wheat growing if he had cared to farm on a large scale. But with his minute and careful method, he has found his quarter-section all that is necessary for his scientific purposes. Even on this small area he does well in a financial way and sells seed wheat for prices that have reached as high as $30 a bushel. This is a record price. Five world championships are also a record. He also holds the world's per acre record with 82 bushels to the acre. His farm is a show place to which hundreds of wheat transcontinental lines of the Canadian National Railways of which Prince Albert, not far from Seager Wheeler's farm at Rosthern, is one of the flourishing centers. It is what may be called lightly timbered prairie. It is undulating and well watered and dotted with coppiess of poplar and other small trees, easily grubbed out if necessary and, if allowed to remain, furnishing fine shelter for stock and wind-breaks for grain.

Settlers Swarm to Fertile Prairies.

It is in this fertile belt that the heaviest immigration in recent years has occurred. Most of the settlers have been men that have built their prosperity from small means. It is a region of small farmers who began farming under the tradition of the value of diversified agriculture. In this respect it differs from the old country of the pioneer wheat barons to the southward. With land still selling at from $20 to $30 an acre, it holds out the greatest opportunity left on the continent for the poor man to establish himself on a prosperous farm home.

Every farmer owns cattle, sheep, horses and hogs in addition to cultivating his fields. Under an educational campaign carried on by the government for years, the value of purebred live-stock has been inculcated. This tendency to pure blood has brought all herds and flocks to a high standard and many of the animals that have carried off international honors at the Chicago show have come from this region.

Wheat

Dairying Rich Source of Profit.

Dairying has become in recent years a large industry. With government financial sid, creameries have been erected in many towns. Supplying farmers with a fine local market for their dairy products, these creameries have been practical sermons on the value of dairying and have had a strong influence in building up dairy herds. In view of the already flourishing condition of dairying, it is safe to predict that this region will in time become one of the great dairying areas of Canada.

Production of beef cattle, sheep and swine is also a prosperous industry. There are more cattle and sheep owned by small farmers in the region than in the old days of the big herds and the open range. Farmers in addition find bee keeping and poultry raising profitable side lines.

Anyone who visits this country and notes its rich soil, salubrious climate, well-bred livestock, flourishing crops and wide-awake farmer population understands at once why it is that year after year, Western Canada scores so many victories in livestock and soil crops in international competition against the best produced on the North American continent.

We are all familiar with the big improvements in transportation methods, but the oldest industry has been the most backward in the acceptance or adoption of the new and up-to-date methods of doing things, and that is the farming industry. Being a farmer, I am vitally interested in all farm improvements, and with this in mind, I have spent years of time and millions in money in the development of the Fordson tractor, which I really think is one of the biggest possible helps to profitable farming.

Note given by Lincoln to feverstricken youth.

Priceless Letters Recently Uncovered by Martyr's Love of Fellow Men.

A BRAHAM LINCOLN, the Man of Mercy, was born 113 years ago today.

Although the saving of the Union never drew upon the time and energy of Lincoln more than in the dark days of '62, he found time to pen with his own hand an opinion that placed human values above an inflexible discipline.

Without organic iron both food and vitamines are absolutely useless as your body cannot change lifeless thert food matter into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood.

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the Iron in your blood from any druggist under the name of "Nuxated Iron."

HOW BANKS HAVE CHANGED-

A bank is more than a place to keep your money nowadays. That used to be the main purpose-a cold vault and safe deposit boxes, a sanctimonious looking individual with side whiskers in charge.

It's not like that now. A bank that deserves the name is a place where you can find a man who is human to talk to about your business, a man who wants to help you, who respects your confidence and can be relied upon to go to the bat for you.

That's the kind of bank The State National is. Its customers are its friends. Its growth in popularity is due to the way it has served those friends. They like it, and their loyalty is making The State National a
