3 CRIMINALS BATTLE WAY OUT OF JAIL AND ESCAPE

'MATE' GOTTEN
BY ADVERTISING
PROVES FAILURE

(By The Associated Press.)
Chicago, Dec. 11.—Mrs. James Edward Miller, formerly a Joliet high school girl, who gained notoriety six weeks ago by successfully advertising for a husband who would educate her, last night disclosed the ending of her adventure when she had her husband and another girl arrested and announced that her marriage was a failure.

The husband, formerly a boy, said he was glad to be rid of the marriage and that he had never paid his wife the $3,000 she had requested for completion of her schooling. They separated soon after their marriage, it was said, and were living at different hotels. Mrs. Miller today called her husband's room by telephone and a woman answered, saying she was Mrs. Miller. The arrests followed.

Miller charged that he was not primarily at fault, as his wife had left him and lived at a hotel in Waukegan, Ill., and been friendly with a former friend from Joliet. They made up this difference but soon separated again.

NIGHT MARSHAL IN COLORADO IS SHOT, WOUNDED

Authorities Are Searching for J. W. Kenworthy, Building Contractor, in Connection With Case.

Monte Vista, Colo., Dec. 11.—Authorities tonight are searching for J. W. Kenworthy, building contractor, who is alleged to have shot and seriously wounded Clyde McDonald, night marshal, last night, when the latter arrested Kenworthy on a charge of disturbance.

Starting in the fourth floor "bull pen," where the prisoners were exercising at 11 a. m., the break for freedom led down five floors, through the basement into the jail yard and over a twelve-foot wall to a street, where an automobile was confiscated and the driver threatened with a pistol, told to "drive like hell."

The shooting occurred in the shadow of the city jail. Kenworthy was arrested by the marshal in a pool room.

An automobile driven by a son of Kenworthy, according to the authorities, was parked in front of the jail. When McDonald reached it with his prisoner, Kenworthy, the police say, whipped a revolver and fired twice.

Kenworthy escaped into his car and they drove away, the authorities say. The son returned in the machine but denied any knowledge of his father's whereabouts.

One bullet lodged in the marshal's spine and his condition tonight is critical, physicians declared.

REPORTED OFFER TO BUY BRASS COMPANY'S STOCK UNTRUE, SAYS

(By The Associated Press.)

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 11.—Charles F. Brooker, chairman of the board of the American Brass company, in a statement to the Hartford Courant tonight denied the published report that the brass corporation had received a proposal from the stockholders of the Anaconda Copper Mining company for the purchase of the brass company's stock. Mr. Brooker said that the report that he had decided to submit such a proposal to the stockholders of the company was untrue.

VERNON WINS SERIES.
Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 11.—Vernon, one of the two Los Angeles teams in the California winter league, won the post season series by taking both of today's games from Mission, one of the two San Francisco teams, 7 to 5, and 6 to 1. Mission won the first game of the series yesterday, 11 to 5.

BEST INFORMED BELIEVE IT WILL BE ACCEPTED BY THE PEOPLE OF ERIN, BUT ARE INCLINED TO TAKE A LESS SANGUINE VIEW OF ITS CHANCES IN THE DAIL EIREANN MEETING WEDNESDAY.

(By The Associated Press.)

London, Dec. 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—In the absence of any new move and awaiting important developments of the week, the press and public are engaged in estimating the chances for and against the new Irish treaty. Those best informed see no reason to modify their view that the treaty will be accepted by the Irish people, but are inclined to take a less sanguine view of its chances in Wednesday's Dail Eireann meeting.

Premier Lloyd George is expected to make a powerful plea for the treaty in the house of commons Wednesday. It is believed that the treaty may be ratified by the session closed by the end of the week.

Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, who has been conferring with the premier, returned to Belfast tonight.

Respecting reports that Ulster is demanding some financial concessions on lines similar to the privileges southern Ireland will get under the treaty, Sir Robert Stevenson Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, in a speech at Newcastle expressed the conviction that no responsible Ulster statesman would think of claiming a lower rate of taxation for Ulster than operated in Newcastle or Glasgow.

In separate importance is attached to Lord Carson's (formerly Sir Edward Carson) strong opposition to the treaty.

The Ulster premier, on leaving the state penitentiary here, He was brought back from Benton late tonight, declined to say anything about the settlement.

FURTHER PARLEY BY 'BIG THREE' ON NAVAL RATIO THOUGHT LIKELY

—The disarmament conference is now marking time waiting approval by the Japanese government at Tokio of the understanding on China and the Far Eastern problems, agreed to by the delegates representing the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France. Japan's approval, if it comes, is expected to carry with it an agreement on the United States proposal for a 5-5-3 ratio for the future size of the navies of the big three.

Under the terms of the agreement, Japan is to release its hold on Shantung peninsula, including the harbor of Kiao-Chau, to China. Great Britain relinquishes Wei-Hai-Wei and France turns over to China Kwong-Chow-Wan.

The arrangement, summarized, is that the three powers which control important territories in China through leases made directly with China or acquired as the result of war are willing to retire upon the conditions enumerated if there is a "collective restitution." As to the United States, she has no territory under lease in China, and, as one of her spokesmen said, has no "sacrifices to make."

Details of the leases.

The existence of leased territories in China which jeopardizes the territorial integrity of China is due in the original instance to the aggressions of Germany, whose forcible occupation of Shantung province constrained the Chinese government to grant a lease for ninety-nine years of the Bay of Kiao-Chau, the finest harbor on the coast of China. Following the entry of Germany into the war, France obtained a lease of Kwang-Chow for ninety-nine years and Great Britain obtained a lease of Kowloon.

The foreign occupation of the mainland of China was brought about by the murder of two German missionaries in Shantung. By an agreement signed on March 6, 1898, China leased to Germany for ninety-nine years the port of Kiao-Chau (3,000 square miles) and sanctioned the construction of two lines of railway in Shantung. A similar agreement (March 27, 1898), leased to Russia for twenty-five years, subject to extension by mutual agreement, Port Arthur and Taliwan (Dairen or Dairen). Other agreements leased Kwang-Chow in Kwantung to France (April 22, 1898), and Wei-Hai-Wei (285 square miles) to Great Britain (Aug. 1, 1898).

Wei-Hai-Wei is situated in the province of Shantung and comprises the island of Liu-kung, all the islands in the Bay of Wei-Hai-Wei and a belt of land ten miles wide along the entire coast line. In addition to the leased territory there is a sphere of influence which comprises that portion of the province of Shantung lying east of the mainland 184,400, an area of 1,500 square miles.

Kwang-Chow is a strip of territory on the coast of Kwantung, with the islands of Tung-hai and Nanchon. The concession is under the administration of the governor of Indo-China.

Importance of Kowloon.

Kowloon, a strip of territory on the mainland opposite Hongkong, was granted to England in 1860, under lease for twenty-one years, and it was added in 1898, under lease for twenty-five years, subject to extension by mutual agreement, Port Arthur and Taliwan (Dairen or Dairen). At the present time, according to British authorities on international law, British law is administered in the concession and the Chinese in the concession owe allegiance to the British administration rather than to the Chinese government.

Colonel STANTON HAS
RETIRIED FROM ARMY

(By The Associated Press.)

San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 11.—Col. Charles E. Stanton, veteran army officer, who sprang into fame when, during the war, he uttered at the tomb of Lafayette in Paris the words, "Lafayette, we are here," recently became commissioner of the board of public works of San Francisco.

Colonel STANTON HAS RETIRED FROM ARMY

(By The Associated Press.)

Baltimore, Dec. 11.—After 5,500 cases of whisky had been taken from the warehouse of the Canton distilleries and loaded on motor trucks, police answering a riot call last night frustrated the robbery of 180,000 quarts of liquor.

Three trucks carrying 3,300 cases of the liquor had left the warehouse when the police arrived and all roads in Maryland and nearby states are being searched for them.

The packers reiterated statements that they have nothing to negotiate with the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workers' Union of North America. Union officials yesterday had suggested arbitration.

Dennis Lane, secretary of the meat cutters, and Cornelius Hayes, international president, both left Chicago today, the former going to Washington and the latter to New York. It is reported Mr. Hayes will join Secretary Lane in Washington and that a conference with President Harding may be held as a step toward asking government intervention.

At Kansas City, Kan., officials warned union leaders that any further disorders would result in strict repressive measures. The warning followed sporadic shooting last night in which one man was hurt. Investigation of a fire which damaged the Fowler packing plant there failed to reveal the origin of the blaze.

The confidence of the guards at the distillery was gained by a forged permit.

SUNDAY WAS QUIET IN SOUTH OMAHA DISTRICT

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 11.—Today passed quietly in the South Omaha packing plant district. Three men were arrested after police had taken a butcher knife from one and a pistol from another. The third was held for investigation.

Parked officials intimated tonight they would import butchers tomorrow if the striking employees had not returned to work. They claimed to be operating today at 90 per cent normal.

At a largely attended mass meeting of union workers today the men were urged to "stick it out." Union officials charged that the packers, in an attempt to break down the morale of the strikers, were "blackening the characters" of union leaders.

A WONDERFUL PIECE OF WORK.

The people of Albuquerque have hearts. Their co-operation in the old-clothes day Sunday, was extraordinary. It would have done any hard, old heart good to see the contributions stacked high each side of the entrance to the Elk club for a distance of twenty feet and practically covering the side-walk. There were wagon loads of it.

It was remarkable also that the gifts were of such uniform good quality. Every conceivable kind of clothing was there. The contributions of toys and books were wonderful also. Great help for the helpless will come from this effort.

The Elk club is to be congratulated upon the hearty way in which the members entered into the spirit of this enterprise. We are sure you will do the same.

The Elk club is to supply the unprivileged children of the city with the Christmas tree treat. A great occasion is being planned.

But there are dozens of baskets to be arranged for Christmas day; dozens of pairs of shoes and caps and mittens to be bought; tons of coal to be supplied, that the kiddies may be dry and warm and happy on Christmas day.

Then there are the weeks of cold weather during which food and fuel must be supplied. A basket on Christmas day, with an empty ladder before New Years, is not the Albuquerque way.

It has been arranged that Bergman and Guest may well see that things go where they will do the most good.

Will "Collective Restitution" Give China Back Lost Ports?

of the Russo-Japanese war, took over Port Arthur, succeeding to the Russian leasehold, and later extending the term of its duration, together with the term of duration of the railway concession, England has been unable to fortify Wei-Hai-Wei without running the risk of war with Japan, as a fortified town there would constitute one of the greatest possible dangers to Japan.

Wei-Hai-Wei is opposite Port Arthur, commanding the entrance to the Gulf of Pechili, which controls Peiping and vast hinterlands. The concession is of no practical use to England unless it can be fortified, and it has been taken for granted since the conclusion of the armistice that Japan would return it to China.

At the present time, according to British authorities on international law, British law is administered in the concession and the Chinese in the concession owe allegiance to the British administration rather than to the Chinese government.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES FROM "THE MAN IN THE STREET" REGARDING NEW FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAW

(Note—This story was written in which the amount of net income exceeds $200,000.)

Returns Required.

Returns are required of every single person whose net income for 1921 was $1,000 or over, every married person not living with husband or wife whose net income was $1,000, and every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $2,000 or over. Every person whose gross income for the year was $5,000 or over must make a return regardless of his claim to exemption. The income requirement was not contained in the revenue act of 1918.

Thousands upon thousands of the households of New Yorkers are now being moved outside city limits into the suburban stretches about town, the real estate men assert. Cramped quarters, high rentals and congested subway traffic are assigned as reasons for this sudden shift. While little building is going on in town, a huge movement in garage construction has marked suburban development, and now the pent-up metropolitan dwellers appear to be taking advantage of it.

Period for Filing Returns.

The period for filing returns is from January 1 to March 15, 1922, when most of the taxidermy and the clothing chaplain of the old Sixty-ninth Regiment. While the Hippodrome held the formal part of the proceedings, the entertainment was hardly big enough to result from Fort Douamont on Verdun.

Louis Barthou, minister of war, has written to Madame Herdin, the widow, saying that 100,000 francs will be allotted to her as civil reparation, and 50,000 francs have been similarly allotted to the father of Lieutenant Millant.

The letter of the minister says that the evidence given in a recent action that Madame Herdin had taken against a Paris newspaper for libel had made him re-examine the petitions that she had sent to him and his predecessors at the war office.

The arraignment event is to be judged impartially," the letter says, "it cannot be separated from the tragic hours when the fate of France was bound up in victory before Verdun, but it can only have been brought about by a mistaken application of the regulations.

Your husband, very well noted and decorated with the military medal during the war, was a soldier of fortune whose name you and your little son bear with honor. Your little son bears with honor. The law does not permit revision of his case, but the government on my proposition has decided to award you civil reparation."

Madame Herdin and the elder Millant have accepted the government's offer and so far as they are concerned this painful affair is now closed.

When Herdin faced the firing corps he refused to have his eyes covered and said a few words to the squad, that it was their duty to shoot others without questioning their justice. Then he gave the order to fire.

It was later proved that a mistake had been made and that neither officer had abandoned his post, but as the order to execute them had been given summarily without the process of military law, the authorities always insisted there was no means to revise the judgment or exonerate the victims of the error.

Last June a Paris newspaper published an article on the case of the two officers declaring that Herdin had abandoned his post and was an alcoholic. Madame Herdin brought an action for defamation alleging that such charges were untrue. She was awarded $5,000 francs, whereupon the government utilized the occasion to compensate the officer's widow to compensate the officer's widow.

While there is dissatisfaction in the country over the indemnity in which the optional rate of working men, O'Connor ordered them to throw up their hands, but they stood up to the orders. O'Connor hit Jeffries on the head with the pistol. The other prisoners beat Moore into unconsciousness.

Wrestling the jail keys from Jeffries, the five dashed for the freight elevator. They ran into Frank Kordecki, an assistant fallie. Pointing the pistol at Kordecki, O'Connor shouted:

"Stand back, or I'll blow you to hell."

Kordecki, however, sprang at O'Connor, but the criminal buried him to the floor.

Down to the basement, past two more guards, the bandits fled and then started to scale the 12-foot jail wall. Two were captured there.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, immediately began a personal investigation. The police chief, Fitzmorris assumed charge of the chase. His instructions were:

"Shoot to kill and aim straight." O'Connor was in court yesterday over certain legal matters and it is believed that the escape may have been planned then. "Darling Dave," Tommy's brother, was questioned by the police tonight.

He was in court and talked to Tommy yesterday.

Surtax Rates.

Many inquiries are received relative to the surtax rates.

Taxpayers in the preparation of their returns should be careful to note that the surtax rates for the calendar year 1921 remain unchanged. The surtax rates on incomes for 1921 range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent on the amount of net income in excess of $1,000,000. For the calendar year 1922 and each calendar year thereafter, the surtax ranges from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 50 per cent by

WILD WHIRL OF XMAS SHOPPING IN METROPOLIS

Despite Hard Times and Unemployment, New Yorkers Are Buying Just As briskly as Ever Before.

Special Correspondent to The Journal

New York, Dec. 11.—Buying just as briskly as ever before, the people of this city are today crowding every counter here in one of the wildest whirls of Christmas shopping in recent years. In spite of official sanction by the nine nations employing the "four points" of labor, food and money, the ultimate application of the same may be found possible. Such a declaration, a part of which was given officially by the nine nations yesterday, it was expected, would finally take the form of a "gentlemen's understanding." Some plenipotentiaries, however, want to write into a treaty and a declaration on the point to be made.

Afterward a similar declaration may be made on Siberia, but it is possible that the separate pronouncement on that subject now understood to be contemplated by Japan, may be accepted as sufficient.

Then the four-power Pacific Treaty is to be signed by the representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France.

It is not known. It is the impression among some delegates, however, that the formal signature may be delayed until the naval problem is settled and that President Harding will not send it to the Senate until after the conference is over.

Leaders Favor Approval.

Over-Sunday consideration of the new treaty by senators developed indications that both republican and democratic leaders will stand united for its approval. Senator Underwood, democratic leader, is one of the Americans who will sign the treaty as plenipotentiary, and Senator Hitchcock, of the democratic side by Senator Hitchcock, senior democratic member of the foreign relations committee.

While the naval ratio and Pacific fortifications questions move toward a decision, other details of the general naval problem are coming into prominence. First among them to be given detailed attention is the submarine problem, the appropriate strength to be fixed for France and Italy, and the question of a modification in the naval holiday plan and in the suggested submarine tonnage as fixed in the American reduction proposal.

"Very truly yours,

WARREN G. HARDING.

Bronner was a seaman on a United States vessel stationed in Italian waters during the world war. While at the front with his buddy a crude hand grenade left behind by the enemy exploded, killing his chum and wounding him so seriously as to result in the loss of both eyes and both hands.

Through the co-operation of the Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men in New York city, the services of a special instructor were secured. Artificial hands came into being and he has mastered the typewriter.

Bronner is today a happy, self-confident young fellow with abundant confidence in himself. He goes about constantly without a guide, dances, writes on both the Braille writer and typewriter, has finished his preliminary education and is planning to take up the study of law next year.

A special attachment to the typewriter has been furnished by veterans' bureaus, now writing an accurate letter, though very slowly, but is rapidly acquiring more speed.

SAYS MARTIAL LAW IS IMPEDIMENT TO COUNTY'S WELFARE

By The Associated Press

Paris, Dec. 11.—The French government has now done something to atone for the unfortunate error made in June, 1916, when Lieutenants Herdin and Millant were summarily executed without court martial or any form of judgment, within forty-eight hours of their arrival from Fort Douamont on Verdun.

Louis Barthou, minister of war, has written to Madame Herdin, the widow, saying that 100,000 francs will be allotted to her as civil reparation, and 50,000 francs have been similarly allotted to the father of Lieutenant Millant.

It is the general expectation that the result of the Far Eastern discussions will be a formal declaration of policy by the nine nations employing the "four points" of labor, food and money, the ultimate application of the same may be found possible. Such a declaration, a part of which was given officially by the nine nations yesterday, it was expected, would finally take the form of a "gentlemen's understanding."

Some plenipotentiaries, however, want to write into a treaty and a declaration on the point to be made.

Afterward a similar declaration may be made on Siberia, but it is possible that the separate pronouncement on that subject now understood to be contemplated by Japan, may be accepted as sufficient.

SETTLEMENT OF IRISH DISPUTE IS CRITICISED

New York Convention Also Calls on the United States Senate to Refuse to Ratify Quadruple Pact.

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Dec. 11.—Unswerving support of Irish republicans who demand complete political divorce of Ireland from the British empire was pledged today by the national convention of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

The pledge constituted one of several clauses in a "declaration of principles" subscribed to by the organization before adjournment of the convention. Another clause denounced the proposed settlement through the setting up of an independent state, while a third condemned as a "betrayal of American principles" the proposed four-power treaty.

The senate was called on to refuse to ratify the treaty on the ground that ratifications "would involve abandonment of Washington's policy of no entangling alliances; abandonment of the Monroe doctrine; seizure from control of its rights to declare war, and the guarantee of the territorial integrity of imperialist nations."

"As sincere advocates of peace," the declaration said, "we favor universal disarmament, but we condemn as dangerous to our security the plan ascribed to and submitted by Secretary Hughes to scrap a great portion of the American navy. America would thus concede Great Britain undivided control of the seas at the very moment when naval supremacy was about to pass to the United States."

One of the principles stated that the political actions of American citizens of Irish blood were influenced solely by American consideration, adding:

"We resent the sinister purpose of England in bringing the so-called settlement her relations with Ireland at this critical moment when the armament conference reached the critical stage."

Major J. P. Grace, of Charleston, S. C., was cheered when he said that before this country entered the war his sympathies had been with Germany.

SOUSE SEAS!

Intrepid Traprock Explores the Filberts for Himself.

The Cruise of the Kawa. By Walter E. Traprock. (Putnam's Sons.)

Hay! says Don Fulano. I pay no attention.

Hay you! I am talking to you, he yells.

I don't understand horse talk, I replies.

Well, he goes on, see can you understand this. Read this book and write me a review of two hundred and five words.

Then writes a criticism, he orders.

What do you know, he quibbles.

No, I fires back.

What did they learn you at school, he questions.

Grammar and spelling, I answers.

Humph! he humps, reaching for his Camel.

The book he was referring to was "The Cruise of the Kawa," which he states is a burlesque on the Sousie Seas adventure which we have seen suffused with recent, and I says I thought burlesque wasn't popular no more since the muscle comedies went them one better in public exposure, but he says that is a matter of neither here nor there, meaning here in Albuquerque, I reckon.

So took the book and done with it what no book reviewer probably ever done before, namely, I read it, and I done it in what would be my setting for most people but in my case was one laying. And the story was Don Fulano wants I should tell you about.

Well, it's a shame that the arthur who is a fellow named Traprock has got tired of reading about the Sousie Seas since we are supposed to be under prohibition, so he fitted up a yawl, which is a southern pronoun for boat, and started out for himself.

After being buffeted (the "I") is silent, for drinking purposes, the crew of the cruiser visited the Filbert Islands, just off the coast of the Sea of Gallanances. I should Judge in the Sea of Imagination. The exact location may never be known, as the maps was lost, and the compass flower, a rare specimen of the tropics, in spite of loving and constant attention, sickened and died.
This was the final blow before the big storm come up.

To review the book would spoil for you the entertainment value of reading I have done since I quit reading my own work. To criticize the book would be less than majestic.

But let me say before I fall victim to Don Fulano's blue pencil, that "The Cruise of the Kawa" is so full of witten humor that my pleasure hurt me continuous from laughing throughout the whole story.

Two hundred and 50 words, my eye! He couldn't do it himself. Next time maybe I'll do better, as they do say practice makes perfect.

BOOK ENDS

TOMMY ATKINS

Britain In War and Her Sporting Fighters.

The Willing Horse, by Ian Hay.
(Houghton Mifflin.)

Major Beith has done the best story of the war I have read. "The Willing Horse" (Houghton Mifflin, $2) is a delightful novel about one Thomas Atkins, Esquire.

Ian Hay is a writer with a charming manner. He tells everything in the simplest fashion of literary sanity and verbal economy.
He is slyly humorous, and although he at times sounds like such hearty fellows as Richard Harding Davis and Hugh Walpole, he is never as offensive in the usual periods of describing friend hero as "clean-cut."

"Roy Birnie... has been plucked out of Eton at Christmas. Three months of intensive brain-culture had not affected his appearance, which was neither nor his subnormal in his wonderful grin, nor the slight curl in his hair, of which his mother had once been so proud and of which he was still so ashamed."

The title of the book signifies the British soldier, who was a veritable "willing horse." The complete and noble scorn of the persons who "ditched" the war and engaged in "important civilian work" is apparent throughout the book.

Another exquisite piece of English from our president: "Better a group of unselfish lovers of men like Joel Chandler Harris than a parliament full of political experts like Mr. Wright."

The Dial. Here, for example, he speaks of choosing a career: "With a trade-directory in hand, I asked myself whether I should be a brewer,
cement dealer, coal dealer, cobbler, coppersmith, gunsmith, jeweler, joiner, landscape gardener,
machinist, mariner, medical practitioner,
pharmacist, and I found no answer,
I admit this between ourselves, was
that I foresaw that I should be no
more capable of selling arms, seals,
kettles, cement, shoes, or spectacles,
than I am of being a good merchandise."

Of course, this gets into the war, and being nineteen years in the army, he couldn't do anything else—or at least it seems so from his autobiographical chapters in The Dial. Here, for example, he speaks of choosing a career: "With
a trade-directory in hand, I asked
myself whether I should be a brewer,
cement dealer, coal dealer, cobbler, coppersmith, gunsmith, jeweler, joiner, landscape gardener,
machinist, mariner, medical practitioner,
pharmacist, and I found no answer,
I admit this between ourselves, was
that I foresaw that I should be no
more capable of selling arms, seals,
kettles, cement, shoes, or spectacles,
than I am of being a good
merchandise."

Captain Beith cannot bring himself to the point of swearing in full. On page 210 someone says something is "d—d," so and so.
This is a small fault, though. Dr.
H. B. Wright might even say
"d—rn—d."

Ian Hay is always gentlemanly.
He is always very nice in his words. That is his business, but it is not usual to find a novelist watching his English. I think this book is even better than "Pip," and the style is a great improvement over that found in "The First Hundred Thousand."

The book is not without its almost tragic episodes, which are handled in a very pleasing and genuine manner.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

By LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

DO OYSTERS APPEAR FREQUENTLY ON YOUR TABLE?

We all know what it is to get so tired of "the same old foods" on the table. But we are not as apt to reach this state of mind if we plan our meals so that we get as much variety into our diet as possible. In many homes the shell sea foods are hardly ever indulged in, and this is a great mistake. Try some of the following oyster recipes:

Oscillated Oysters with Celery: Allow 2 dozen oysters to serve four persons and 1 large cup of finely-chopped celery. Parboil the celery in salted water for 20 minutes, then drain. Drain the oysters also, and place them in a buttered baking dish, alternate layers of oysters, celery, and crushed cracker crumbs. Season every other layer with a little salt and dash of butter, and when the oysters and celery are used pour ¼ of a cup of the oysters' liquor mixed with ½ cup of cream over all. Have the top layer of cracker crumbs dotted with butter. Bake till brown in a moderate oven.

Old-time Roast Oysters: Drain the liquor from 1 pint of oysters and heat this in a saucepan, stirring well and adding to it ½ teaspoon of salt and 2 teaspoons of butter. Now toast 8 soda crackers and put them in a large enameled baking dish, moistening them with the hot, seasoned oyster liquor. Lay 3 drained oysters on each cracker, dot with butter, season with a dash of pepper and 3 drops of lemon juice, and set pan in a hot oven for eight minutes. Serve hot with sliced onions. (The oysters are just right when their edges are slightly curled.)

Fine Oyster Soup: Scald 2 cups

WOMEN EMPLOYEES IN POSTOFFICE TO TAKE UP TARGET PRACTICE

(By The Associated Press.)

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 11.—Believing that "The female of the species is more deadly than the male" in the use of firearms as well as other weapons, Postmaster William J. Nagel of Detroit has set out to prove comic writers and comic artists are wrong when they imply a woman invariably closes her eyes when she shoots a rifle or revolver.

As part of the campaign to eliminate postoffice robberies the postmaster has ordered fifty women employees of his office to take up target practice. In the few lessons that have been held the girls and women have shown equal, if not greater aptitude than the men, according to Mr. Nagel.

The first time the women's squad engaged in practice but three of the fifty closed their eyes when they discharged their weapons.

The prize winning girl in target practice so far is Miss Carrie Thick, 21 years old, who weighs less than 100 pounds. She made a score of 54 out of a possible 60 shots. Upon her first appearance she was obliged to use both hands to lift the .45 caliber revolver used in practice.

Daily classes for postal women, at which the use and care of firearms is being taught, are held here.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE UNDER WAY AT RATON

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.)

Raton, N. M., Dec. 11.—The Christmas seal sale here, Workers are already active and beginning Wednesday additional workers will be added in all the banks an 10 in the postoffice.

The women's clubs, headed by Mrs. Kellogg, president of the city Federation of Woman's clubs, will have charge of the sale of seals in the banks and in the postoffice. The T. T. C. girls of the high school will also assist in the sale by relieving the other workers at 4 o'clock and continuing.

Seals will be distributed throughout the county by the home service department of the Red Cross, the secretary of which is Mrs. Emma Kegel. All towns and camps in the county will be supplied with seals by Mrs. Kegel.

Seventy-five per cent of the money realized from seal sales will remain in the county and be distributed through the Red Cross.

BUSINESS PROPERTY AT ARTESIA IS SOLD

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.)

Artesia, N. M., Dec. 11.—The large office and store building, commonly known as the Sipple building, was sold by G. L. Hise, owner of the property. Many acres of Colorado farm land were included in the transaction. This building is one of the largest in this section of the state and was constructed several years ago at a cost of approximately sixty thousand dollars. It covers a fourth of a block in the business section of the town on the corner of Main and Fourth streets. The lower floor is occupied by a furniture store, an undertaking and embalming parlor, a drug store and the United States postoffice. The upper floor is used for office purposes and for a photograph studio.

The other party in the transaction is Charles L. Potomny of Arlington, Colo. He will move to Artesia and take charge of his property in a short time. Over one hundred thousand dollars was involved in the transaction.

When Roger Hornsby said he would show up Ty Cobb, George Sisler and the other big league baseball players in the California Winter League, baseball critics thought that Roster was full of oil. But the Cardinal star is doing just what he said he would do.

TO STOP COUGHING AT NIGHT

When anyone is suffering from a bronchial affliction or has a cough that lingers on and grows worse at night, the loss of sleep tends to weaken the sufferer, and grows more serious the longer it is neglected. Mrs. M. Suter, 647 Longbrook Ave., Stratford, Conn., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar has given me great relief from a severe attack of bronchitis." No medicine stands higher throughout the nation as a family remedy for colds, coughs and croup. Sold everywhere.

ELECTRICAL NOTES

Doll lamps are in high favor this season as gifts. There is a charming new doll garbed as a bride in a fluffy white gown, that acts as a sash shade for an incandescent lamp. Other doll lamps have shades of rose-pink or yellow silk diffusing a soft agreeable radiance. They make lovely gift lamps.

swinging bread holder with reverses by a slight touch of the finger has been placed on the market.

The mechanism provides a convenient, convenient ready manipula-position it may be. The bread may be removed from the toaster holder without the inconvenience

Books can and do accumulate more dust on open shelves than one would think possible and it is a real problem how to dust them easily, especially where there is a multitude of volumes. A miniature vacuum cleaner has been designed to meet this need. It connects with an electric light socket but it does not, like the ordinary, domestic cleaner, run on the floor. It weighs only six pounds, so it is slung on the hip of the operator who takes the extension tool in his right hand and applies it to the tops of the dust-covered books, with the result that the dust dis-pers into the dust-bag of the cleaner.

The fifth avenue shop in New York are displaying a variety of electric perfumers for boudoirs, reception halls, and living rooms which are used to perfume delicate rooms with the subtle fragrance of a flower garden. The perfume is placed in a glass container within the electric perfumer. Vaporization is due to electric heat from a concealed electric lamp, the result is a fragrance of wood-violet, arbutus or white lilac, according to the perfume used.

John F. Healy, veteran chief of the Denver fire department, recently made some interesting statements in regard to electricity as a cause of fire. "Contrary to popular opinion," said Chief Healy,

"electricity is seldom the cause of fire. In all my years of experience in fire work, during which time I have investigated the cause of over a thousand fires, I cannot say I have found electricity, probably used has been the cause of a single fire. I may properly use the word 'probably' because I have known careless interior wiring and leaving a red hot electric iron on an ironing board to be the cause of fire. The real cause of fire in such cases, however, should be attributed to the user rather than to electricity."

It is said that George M. Cohan, the celebrated actor-manager and "Yankee Doodle Boy," would buy the Brooklyn club if the Superba owners would shade their price a million more or less.

WHAT K. W. H. MEANS
IN THE LIGHT BILL

The electric light bill for the month is received in the morning mail. It reads, perhaps, as follows: Present reading, 961; previous reading, 935; consumption 26 k. w. h.—$2.60.

What does it mean? Obviously, that 26 k. w. h. of electrical energy has been used during the month.

But what is a k. w. h.?

Electric kilowatt-hour. A kilowatt-hour is a thousand watts, a watt-hour, representing the work done by one watt of electrical energy expended for one hour, and a kilowatt hour a thousand times that amount.

A kilowatt-hour is practically the equivalent of one and one-third horse power hours, since 746 watts equal one horse power. Therefore, the 26 k. w. h. indicated in the bill mentioned were equivalent to approximately 55 horse power hours, which were placed at the householder's disposal merely at the push of a button.

There is no way to prevent the ovens from taking on a bronze color, this coming from the mineral combustion which takes place in the process of the cooking of the foods. The color of the oven is of little consequence as long as you know it is clean. Do not confuse this discoloration with rust.

A WORLD AT PEACE.

The four great powers of the world have reached an agreement covering the Pacific situation. It is one of the momentous documents of history, yet it is very brief and very simple.

The status quo as to possessions, is to continue for ten years. If any two or more powers cannot agree, all four will meet and discuss the situation. If outsiders interfere, the four powers will discuss it. That is all and that is sufficient.

When reason and publicity enter, conspiracy and over-reaching depart. When disputants are ready for friendly negotiations, the dispute is nine-tenths settled. War is bred in the dark. The treaty turns in the sunlight. The bacilla of war, like the bacillus of disease, cannot survive a sun bath.

The machinery of the League of Nations would never have ended war. But its discussions probably would have done so had the United States entered. But the machinery seems superfluous. Paragraphing what Greeley said concerning the resumption of specie payment, the way to discuss is to discuss. A frank and friendly attitude, rather than the artificial status of joint membership in something, is the real basis for a secure and peaceful world.

PSYCHOLOGICAL INTIMIDATION.

Any man or woman who is a serious student of conditions, will hardly gainsay the statement that New Mexico has suffered for years from psychological intimidation which has resulted in the failure of this state to develop a free, independent and public spirited leadership in political affairs. This condition is reflected in large degree in all community enterprises of state-wide importance.

It is not of such vital importance what a man thinks. Where free and fearless minds clash the public can reach its own conclusions and do the right thing. But it is important that there be leaders who are free, and fearless and devoted to the public good.

Out of discussion comes an agitation of the public mind; people are stimulated to interest and pique to think. A crystallized public opinion is the result. That opinion may refuse to follow the program of an who stimulated it. His usefulness may be decreased by defective thinking, but his value to the community is great as an agitator of the public mind. America's danger is not that her people may think wrongly so much as it is that they will not think at all and so allow public evils to go uncorrected.

New Mexico years ago developed a selfish political leadership of an over-riding and ruthless type. The personal advancement of a political figure or two and the special business privileges of big campaign contributors, became the dominant political influence. If any one disagreed, his political and financial props were kicked promptly from under him. Men were intimidated. They were afraid to take a public position on a public question unless that position had the approval of the "big boss" and his financial satellites.

As a result of all this repression of all discussion of governmental evils resulted. No candidate for office ever announced his ambitions before the time for a convention and trusted his fortunes to a pre-convention campaign on a platform of public policies. He waited for the back-room conferences of the powers which were to determine his fate. Unless he was subservient he was without prospect of success.

This accounts for the lack of a dominant progressive leadership in the state. The fate of the few who attempted it was discouraging to others. Hagerman had and still has, such a temperament and attitude, but in conflict with this group, he was promptly eliminated. His fate has deterred others from attempting a similar freedom of action. Yet today, Gov. Hagerman enjoys great influence and the respect of the people.

New Mexico has waited for political expediency to decide the candidates and the issues. To prevent the discussion of policies, personal attacks purposely have been given the uppermost place in campaigns. The people have not had a clean cut issue of a choice of policies in twenty years.

Under such conditions a state can not be progressive. It cannot develop that worthy and militant leadership, with constructive programs, which alone can make a state go forward.

Fear is the great "paralyzer" of men's minds. Utter abandonment of fear and a defiant policy, regardless of the effect of that fight upon personal fortunes, is the only hope of redemption for New Mexico.

The most discouraging phase of the present situation to the Journal is the fact that nearly two years of almost incessant agitation has not succeeded completely in breaking the atmosphere of psychological intimidation which has prevailed. Ambitious men still feel that a declaration of independence would mean political suicide.

As a matter of fact, the time has arrived when the public mind is aroused sufficiently so that the people are looking for enlightened, constructive leadership. Men with the capacity and the daring, who have the ambition to do so, can declare for a program of progress and, by carrying the fight vigorously to the people, can sweep the old order of things into the discard.

This is the legitimate way to political honor and perment. New Mexico needs militant men who are unafraid and who will glory in defeat if it comes as the champion of the people and who will be ashamed of victory, won at the price of subserviency.

MOST BEAUTIFUL CAPITAL.

Washington correspondents say the national capital never looked more spick-and-span than it does today. This is far from the season when the city looks its prettiest. That is spring, when the leaves and other greenery are coming out and the flower beds in the numerous parks and squares and on private lawns are beginning to be a blaze of color. But Washington has put on her best bib and tucker in honor of the armament conference. Public and private buildings have undergone such a scrubbing as they have never before experienced. The painters have been at work restoring grimy structures to their pristine whiteness which is so characteristic of our capital city. At night splendid illuminations give hospitable greeting to the many visitors within the gates.

It is pleasant to hear of the admiring comments of our guests from abroad who have not been in Washington before. Washington is unique among the great capitals of the world in that she was designed for her particular purpose. Few cities have had this advantage of a comprehensive, far-seeing plan.

Lord Bryce, who knows America and Washington better than any other foreigner, has written: "It was an act of wisdom on the part of the founders of the republic when they determined to plant its capital in a place where there was not already a city, and where there was no great likelihood that either commerce or industry conducted on a great scale would arise. May not the city of Washington feel that its mission in life is to be the embodiment of the majesty and the stateliness of the whole nation, overtopping the capitals of the several states as much as the nation overtops those states, representing all that is finest in American conception, all that is largest and most luminous in American thought, embodying the ideal of what the capital of such a nation should be?"

Washington may not yet have quite attained this exalted ideal, but it is well on its way.

THE WOODENHEADED GERMAN.

A correspondent of the London Chronicle, writing from Berlin, says that an official book of geography, sanctioned by the republican minister of education, practically ignores the changes that have come to Germany since November 11, 1918, and does not even give a hint that Wilhelm is not still ruler of Germany.

"On page 36," the correspondent says, "the high school student will learn that 'since June 15, 1888, Wilhelm II has been at the head of the German empire.' Then on page 38 there is a reference to the 'Kingdom of Bavaria,' and in a few pages Wurtemburg is similarly described."

It is generally known that the German Junkers practiced a system of lying to the people during the war, but the last excuse for such deception would appear to have passed with the advent of a form of government that is supposed to be entirely in the hands of the people. Germany can not fool the world; why should she try to deceive herself?

The Chronicle correspondent says there is in the new geography absolutely no reference to the fall of the monarchy and the establishment of a republic. The minister of education under the republican regime gives his approval—at least withdraws his disapproval—of a textbook that attempts to deceive the youth of the land and makes the German people the joke of other nations.

The German monarchists spent 40 years and more inculcating in the minds of the people the spirit of militarism and in impressing them with the idea that the German was the super-man. If the republic is to serve the nation as it should there ought at least be insistence on honesty in the books which are studied in the public schools.

VERSE OF TODAY

FULL MOON.
I listened, there was not a sound to hear.
In the great rain of moonlight pouring down,
The eucalyptus trees were carved in silver
And a light mist of silver lulled the town.

I saw far off the grey Pacific bearing
A broad white disk of flame,
And on the garden-wall a small beside me
Tracing in crystal the slow way he came.

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

FORGET-ME-NOT DAY.
(From the Cincinnati Enquirer)

It is not unusual to see men without limbs, blinded, or otherwise afflicted as the result of participation in the World war. Numbers of them practically are endeavoring to eke out an existence on the streets through the sale of trifling articles. That is not as it should be. The appeal in such cases is the appeal to charity. These men should not have to seek out any kindred soul in America. They should not have to ask for anything. They were rather well looked after when they were hurrying overseas to lose in our service their limbs, their sight, their health. No one at that time was disposed to be biggarly. The world desperately needed defense. To these men and their comrades we owe the victory which ultimately came to the allied arms. They were the defenders of liberty and civilization. Some of them are selling pencils and like trifles on the streets of Cincinnati and other cities!

To remedy this shame and honorably to secure help for these men the organization known as the Disabled American Veterans of the World War was created. Every member saw active service overseas. December 17 this organization will observe its "Forget-Me-Not Day." It is asking the public to donate $250,000.

What do these men want with $250,000? Many of them have a very human desire to live and be employed. Many of them would like the chance to attain comparative health. Many of them would like artificial limbs to replace those lost in our service. None of them desire to become an object of charity. You can't give them back their lost limbs, their dead eyes, their youthful vigor, but you can give them something of what you owe them.

As a matter of fact, the time has arrived when the public mind is aroused sufficiently so that the people are looking for enlightened, constructive leadership. Men with the capacity and the daring, who have the ambition to do so, can declare for a program of progress and, by carrying the fight vigorously to the people, can sweep the old order of things into the discard.

This is the legitimate way to political honor and perment. New Mexico needs militant men who are unafraid and who will glory in defeat if it comes as the champion of the people and who will be ashamed of victory, won at the price of subserviency.

The county agent is active in securing for the county a better grade of stock, especially dairy cows, and much has been accomplished in this line during the past few years. Representatives from several of the national dairy cow associations are on the program for today.

The course will also include home economics under the direction of Home Demonstration Agent Maude Doty. Trips for demonstrations will be made to the Atascosa community cannery and several other flourishing home economics enterprises.

The course will close Friday afternoon when a synopsis of the entire course will be given in Spanish for the benefit of those who do not speak English.

ROBERT J. EWING, WHO HELPED BUILD RATON PASS, DIES AGED 72

Robert Joseph Ewing, 72, died yesterday afternoon at his residence, 615 South Sixth street. Mr. Ewing came to Albuquerque in the early days. He built the Raton road into Albuquerque, was soldier in the war and fought Indians. He is survived by a widow, five sons and two daughters. The body was taken to Crollott's funeral parlors and funeral arrangements will not be made until the arrival of one son who lives in Richmond, Calif.

Herrera will meet Benny Cordova and Jim Flynn at the main entrance of the University program on the Fourth Friday evening, will arrive here tonight and may possibly appear for short work-outs at Moose Hall, although it is probable that their first training will be tomorrow night.

Herrera will meet Benny Cordova in place of Mike Bach, of Santa Fe, who will be unable to fill his engagements due to sickness. Benny Cordova, the Fighting Italian, will take on Jim Flynn in the ten-round match, which will be held at Moose Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

The cold weather has somewhat interfered with the foundation work, some six or eight new homes just started in the past week or ten days.

The University Grocery has been doing some very attractive holiday stock to their supply of staple and fancy groceries.

W. J. Leverett has completed the re-finishing of his home in white concrete, which very materially improves the appearance of his property.

Benny Cordova is looking his best for the past two years. He has been in constant training since last summer, when sickness prevented him from with Mike Bach at Santa Fe. Benny weighs 142 now and expects to get down to 135 by Friday.

Jim Flynn has started training in preparation for his bout with Gallardo, who is the strongest boy he has ever been matched against. Fans who have been watching his workouts claim that if he sticks to it he will give the Fighting Italian a run for the money. Flynn has never been pitted against a boy who tested his metal and as a consequence has never been forced to hard work. Jim fans are wondering how he will stack up against such a lad as Gallardo.

The work-outs at Moose Hall are free and the fans are invited to look the boys over each evening.
