POPE'S BODY, CLAD IN PAPAL ROBES, LIES IN STATE IN THRONE ROOM

NOTABLES FILE PAST TO LOOK ON THE DEPARTED HOLY FATHER

Sacred Congregation Convened and the Cardinals Are Informed of the Pontiff's Death; Hour of His Demise is Given as 6 a. m.; Gasparri to Act During the Interregnum.

Rome, Jan. 22, (By The Associated Press.)—Arrayed in full canonicals, with golden mitre, gloves and ring, the body of Benedict XV lies in state in the throne room, on the floor immediately below the apartment in which he died.

For many hours today, to the room where he had made his fight for life, came a stream of officials, the representatives of foreign nations, high prelates and others. Then, late in the afternoon, in gorgeous procession composed of palatine guards, gendarmes, the Swiss guard, secret chamberlains and honorary chamberlains, the body was solemnly transported down the royal staircase, through clementine hall, into the throne room, where it was placed on a raised catafalque, before which the whole diplomatic corps paid devout reverence.

The sacristan zampini gave absolution, and the cardinals sprinkled holy water, while the penitentiaries chanted prayers, answered by the kneeling onlookers. Immediately afterward, the doors were opened to the multitudes desirous of looking for the last time on the departed pontiff.

Cardinals informed. The sacred congregation convened this morning when the cardinals were informed of the pope's death. With the exception of Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, they gathered in Benedict's private apartment. Gasparri in due and solemn form, escorted by the Swiss guard in full dress and accompanied by the prelates and acolytes of the Reverend Apostolic chamber, entered the apartments a few minutes later. He will administer the holy see during the interregnum.

Cardinal Gasparri, surrounded by the cardinals, proceeded to verify the death of Benedict, extending over the lifeless form a silver vial and crying out "Gloria! Gloria! Gloria!"

MURDER AND SON REPORTEDLY SLAIN POLICE BELIEVE

Decapitated Bodies Are Found in a Room in Chicago, Tightly Sealed, and the Gas Turned On.

(By The Associated Press.) Chicago, Jan. 22.—The decapitated bodies of Mrs. Margaret Tierney, 25, and her 3-year-old son, Ralph, today found in their home, brutally murdered with a hatchet which was found nearby. The room had been tightly closed and the gas turned on, the coroner said there was no doubt that both were dead long before the murderer fled. Patrick Tierney, Mrs. Tierney's husband, is sought.

Ralph's body was tightly clasped in his mother's arms. William Brennan, landlord of the building in which the Tierneys lived, told the police Tierney several times had threatened Mrs. Tierney. San Francisco police have been asked to look up relations of Tierney.

The police learned Mr. Tierney has been unable to obtain work for some time and that the famous coroner said there was no doubt that both were dead long before the murderer fled. Patrick Tierney, Mrs. Tierney's husband, is sought.

His heart rapidly weakened, and at 5 a. m. it was certain that the end was close. Accordingly, Cardinals Gasparri, Sampa and Pizzardo, and all the pontifical household, were notified that the end was approaching. Cardinal Gasparri entered the bed chamber at 5:50, walking with short, rapid steps to the bedside of the dying pontiff. He had been there only five minutes when the pope breathed his last.

Cardinal Gasparri, surrounded by the cardinals, proceeded to verify the death of Benedict, extending over the lifeless form a silver vial and crying out "Gloria! Gloria! Gloria!"

WHO WILL SUCCEED BENEDICT? 4 POSSIBILITIES MENTIONED; HOW A NEW POPE IS ELECTED

Washington, Jan. 22, (By The Associated Press.)—Benedict XV, who died last night in Rome, has left behind him a number of possibilities for his successor. The American embassy and from there drive to the Vatican. Thomas Nelson Page, American ambassador to the Holy See, accompanied by Mr. Wilson as far as the entrance gate to the Vatican but went no farther, as he was accredited to the pope and does not entertain any official relation with the holy see.

In the speculation as to who will be the successor of Benedict, the most prominently mentioned is Cardinal Gasparri, secretary of state, Cardinal Merry del Val, archbishop of Palermo, and the cardinal who was elected pope by him and by Benedict in the last seven years during the grave period of the world war. Cardinal Gasparri, who has also the position of chamberlain of the papal household, is the only cardinal who has not shown his face during the interregnum since the death of the pope to the election of his successor.

Another member of the sacred college considered as a probable successor is Cardinal Merry del Val, archbishop of Palermo, and the cardinal who was elected pope by him and by Benedict in the last seven years during the grave period of the world war. Z. S. MEMBERS OF THE SACRED COLLEGE EXPECT TO GO TO ROME

Cardinals O'Connell and Dougherty to Attend the Conclave for the Election of a New Pope.

Washington, Jan. 22, (By The Associated Press.)—The two American members of the sacred college of Rome, Cardinals O'Connell of Boston and Dougherty of Philadelphia, will leave as early as possible to attend the conclave for the election of a successor to Pope Benedict. It was said here tonight.

Cardinal O'Connell will sail Tuesday while Cardinal Dougherty is expected to return from a vacation trip Friday and probably will sail Sunday.

May Not Meet February 1. It is not clear here that the conclave may meet February 1. The fear was expressed that if the conclave is as short as that which resulted in the election of Benedict, the American members may arrive too late to participate.

After the death of Pius X, August 20, 1914, the conclave began August 31, and the new pope was elected September 3. Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, is being spoken of here as a possible successor to Benedict. By virtue of his position he has been in charge of the papal household and of the church since 6 o'clock this morning. His presence at the helm insures the continuity of the policy followed by the papacy since the advent of Benedict XV.

The pope was small and frail, while Gasparri is of medium height and rather stout, but they were both indefatigable workers. In the speculation as to who will be the successor of Benedict, the most prominently mentioned is Cardinal Gasparri, secretary of state, Cardinal Merry del Val, archbishop of Palermo, and the cardinal who was elected pope by him and by Benedict in the last seven years during the grave period of the world war.

Will Replace the Chinese Question This Week As the Paramount Concern of Conference Envoys.

Washington, Jan. 22, (By The Associated Press.)—The Siberian situation is not expected to lead to a long discussion, and it was predicted generally today that the Siberian question will be replaced by the Chinese question as the paramount concern of the delegates.

The Japanese, who expected Siberia to be considered tomorrow by the Far Eastern committee, received today from Tokyo an expression of policy by Foreign Minister Okuma, which is regarded as determining the attitude of their government against withdrawal of Japanese troops from Siberia until a stable administration has been established there. This position of Okuma is expected to be taken before the committee when it begins its Siberian discussions. There is no indication that any other power intends to dispute stubbornly the Japanese attitude.

In some quarters there is apparent a belief that Japan should be invited to set a definite date for withdrawal of her military forces from Siberia. It was reported tonight that she had no present intention of doing so. Her troops, they declared, were in Siberia solely to protect Japanese interests during the negotiations between the Japanese and Chinese over Shantung. It is impossible, the statement declared, to dissociate inter-American exchange relations from the European situation, as the "European-American" trade fabric consists of a triangle, one point resting in Europe and the other two in North and South America.

So long as the European part of the economic situation remains unstable, the statement declared, the stabilization of inter-American exchange will be difficult.

It is recalled that on September 19, in reply to an informal inquiry from the unrecognized Far Eastern republic at China, the scale department of the American mission later at Peking to tell the China authorities that protection of legitimate Russian interests must necessarily develop as a "moral obligation" of the American government represented in the conference.

RELAY CARNIVAL TO BE HELD AT URBANA MARCH 4

(By The Associated Press.) Urbana, Ill., Jan. 22.—In preparing the list of events for the fifth annual Illinois relay carnival, to be held here March 4, Coach Harry Hill, who inaugurated indoor relay classic in 1917, announces today that a college medley relay would be added to the list of events and that the 1500-yard run would take the place of the 600-yard run that was held last season.

The change from the 600-yard special event to the 1500-yard run was made after the Illinois coach decided that the 200-yard dash was the best special race for the quarter miler, the 1000-yard run for the half miler and the 1500-yard run for the miler. Each year the carnival is increased in attendance by the entries made by a large number of small colleges, so in addition to the one and two mile relays for colleges there also will be the medley, which will include two quarter mile runs, a half mile run and a mile.

Following is the list of events that will be on card at the carnival: Seventy-five yard dash 75-yard low hurdles, 75-yard high hurdles, running high jump, running broad jump, 16-pound shot put, pole vault, 300, 1000 and 1500-yard specials, one, two and four-mile university relay races for one, two and four mile relays for colleges, and the intercollegiate one-mile relay.

HOW ABOUT THESE OFFERINGS FOR AN ALL-AMERICAN LEAGUE INFIELD?

Above, George Sisler, first base (left), and Eddie Collins, second base (center), Mike McNally, third (right), and Roger Peckinpaugh, short stop. The recent shifting of Stuff McInnis, Roger Peckinpaugh, Everett Scott and Joe Judge, about the American league naturally has drawn attention to the infielding situation. Who'd you put on an all-American league infield, somebody finally asks in a fanning breeze. Well, here's one selection: George Sisler's right to the first base job can't be disputed. Eddie Collins holds the second base job unchallenged. Roger Peckinpaugh has slight edge on Everett Scott, the other possibility. And Mike McNally has the call at third. Larry Gardner would have had that honor a year ago. Ernie Ward of the Yanks is McNally's rival.

WHEN CONGRESS MET IN WALL STREET

Just 131 years ago the Congress of the United States was bidding adieu to Wall Street, where it had associated with the "money power" for a year period, returning temporarily to its scenes of former activity at Philadelphia, whence it was to finally remove to the new capitol to be established on the Potomac.

Few of the thousands of people who passed the historic spot at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets, but a few feet from the doors of The National City Bank of New York, are mindful of the stirring events which occurred during the five years in which it was the abiding place of Congress.

New York Eighth Capitol
It was in 1785 that the Congress of the Confederation, after a decade of wandering in search of a permanent abiding place, established itself in the old City Hall, which then stood at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets. During the period of its existence, which began at Philadelphia in 1774, it had held session in no less than seven different cities and towns, thus making New York the eighth capital of the United States, while Washington became in its turn the ninth capitol.

Kept on the Run
The peripatetic life which Congress had led during the decade before settling down in New York had been in large degree due to the necessity of hurried moves to prevent the Capitol and the Congress falling into the hands of the British.

The first movement from the original meeting place, Philadelphia, occurred in 1776, when the British were preparing to move up that town, and the December session of that year, 1776, was held at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, where it remained but for three days, removing thence to York on the opposite side of the Susquehanna, where it was held during the winter in which Washington was at Valley Forge.

Returns to Old Quarters
On the evacuation of Philadelphia by the British in 1778, Congress returned to its old quarters in that city, remaining there until 1783. Owing to some misunderstandings with the Philadelphia authorities, it removed over night to Princeton, New Jersey. At Princeton it completed its session and there adopted the plan for the creation of two permanent capitol cities, one to be located on the Potomac and the other on the Delaware; the sessions pending the construction of the proper buildings at the new capitol to be held alternately at Annapolis and Trenton.

Lure of Great City
The session of 1783 was held at Annapolis and that of 1784 at Trenton, where it appears that the lure of the great city of New York, which had then a population of 33,000, overruled the double capitol plan, and in January, 1785, Congress removed to New York, where it was granted the use of the City Hall.

All of the meetings up to this time had, of course, occurred under the Articles of Confederation, which, however, had proven unsatisfactory, and when the new Constitution was adopted in 1787, the Congress, then in session in New York, hastily passed a measure requiring that the vote for the President, provided by the new Constitution, should occur on "the first Wednesday in January, 1789," that the electoral votes should be cast on "the first Wednesday in February," and that the President should be inaugurated on "the first Wednesday in March." As it happened that the first Wednesday in March fell upon the fourth day of that month, the date "March 4th," as the beginning of the term of the President and Congress was thus permanently established.

Inauguration is Delayed
With the limited facilities of communication and travel which characterized those days in which the telegraph, the wireless, the railroad or the flying machine had not yet been dreamed of, the official report of the election did not reach General Washington at his home in Virginia until April 14, 1789, and because of the time occupied by his journey thence to New York, the actual inauguration did not occur until April 30, 1789. Meantime, the enterprising citizens of New York, realizing that the dignity of Congress and President under the new Constitution required more suitable surroundings than those offered by the old City Hall, had contributed $2,500 for the improvement of that building, and it was re-named "Federal Hall" and thus became the meeting place of the first Congress under the Constitution and the place in which Washington took the oath of office as the first President of the United States.

Why Congress Moved
It was during the second session of that first Congress under the new Constitution that the events occurred which resulted in the departure of the Congress from New York and the establishment of a permanent capitol of the nation at the spot now designated as the District of Columbia and the city

After five years in old Federal Hall it was packing its bags Just 131 years ago to move to Philadelphia, thence to Washington.

The American Congress had ten meeting places up until the time it was permanently located in Washington in 1800. The pictures reproduced here are from rare old prints and original drawings collected by Mr. Austin. They are listed below in the order in which the buildings were occupied by Congress:

1. Independence Hall, Philadelphia, 1775, 1777-78, 1790-1800.
2. Baltimore, December, 1776.
3. Court-house, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, 1777.
4. Court-house, York, Pennsylvania, 1777.
5. Nassau Hall, Princeton, N. J., November, 1783.
6. State-house, Annapolis, Md., 1783.
7. Court-house, Trenton, New Jersey, 1784.
8. Carpenter's Hall, Philadelphia, 1774.
9. Old City Hall, New York, Wall and Nassau Streets, 1785-88.
10. Federal Hall, New York (reconstructed City Hall), Wall and Nassau Streets, where the first Congress under the Constitution met, and President Washington was inaugurated.

of Washington. One of the first important questions laid before the Congress had been that of the assumption by the Government of the existing debts of the Confederation, and those which the states had created during the revolution. The foreign debt amounted to $12,000,000, the domestic debt of the Confederation $42,000,000 while the debts of the various states incurred during the Revolutionary War aggregated $26,000,000, making the grand total of $80,000,000, a sum which then sounded large, no matter how small it seems to us in these days in which we count governmental appropriations in terms of billions.

Hamilton's Three Proposals
The proposition submitted to the Congress by Hamilton included: first, the assumption of the foreign debt of the Confederation; second, the full payment of the domestic debt, which had fallen far below par in its market value; and, third, the assumption by the Government of the claims of the states, the respective states during the revolution. The first proposition, for full payment of the foreign debt met with no opposition, and that for the payment of the domestic debt was opposed by many but received a majority vote.

Opposition is Aroused
The third proposition, that the Government of the United States should assume the debts created by the respective states during the Revolutionary War was bitterly opposed and its final settlement resulted incidentally in the good-by of Congress to Wall street. The opposition to payment by the Government of the claims of the respective states was bitter and long drawn out, much of the opposition being based upon the assertion that the claims had been already bought up by speculators and that the assumption by the Congress under that date would not be materially beneficial to the states themselves. Most of these claims were held in the North and as a result, the members from the northern states favored the proposition, while those of the South were almost solidly against it and succeeded in temporarily defeating this feature of the measure.

How it Was Settled
At this juncture, when the assumption of the debts of the states date set for the next session, the first Monday in December, 1790, and remain there until the year 1800, by which time the Capitol buildings and presidential residence would be ready for occupancy. And this is how it happened that 131 years ago Congress was tearfully packing its belongings at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets preparatory to the trip to Philadelphia, which was that matter several days instead of a couple of hours as at present.

seemed likely to fail, diplomacy got in its work. The question as to the permanent location of the Capitol of the Nation was then pending. New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore wanted it. So did several other enterprising cities and towns in the middle states and in Virginia. The South, which was opposing the measure for the payment of the claims of the states, was solidly in favor of the transfer of the permanent seat of government to that section of the country. Hamilton favored the payment of the claims of the states, Jefferson favored the location of the Capitol at the South, and these experienced men, putting their heads together, worked out a plan which was laid before certain of their colleagues at a dinner at the home of Jefferson, where the details were agreed upon. The next day, to the astonishment of those not immediately participating in the agreement, the hostility of certain Southern members to the payment of the claims of the states mysteriously disappeared. The bill for payment of these claims was passed and a little later the measure establishing a permanent seat of Government on the Potomac became a law, with a proviso that Congress should remove to Philadelphia before the

FEDERAL CONTROL FOR PRIVATE TIMBER LANDS URGED BY THE CHIEF OF THE FOREST SERVICE

Chief Forester Claims Forest Lands Are Like Public Utilities and Should Be So Operated; Timber Supply Problems Cause of Concern to Officials and Lumbermen.

In appearing before the house committee on agriculture, which yesterday began hearings on the Snell bill providing for joint federal and state action to check forest devastation and insure permanent timber supplies, Col. W. S. Greeley, chief of the forest service, United States department of agriculture, urged immediate action by congress to insure a continuance of timber growth on lands best suited to this use.

"I am not appearing as a proponent of any particular bill," said Colonel Greeley. "I am testifying in my capacity as head of the national forest service. My purpose is to urge upon the committee the need for federal legislation of some comprehensive character to reforest the timberlands of the United States hitherto cut or now in process of being cut and to discuss the various forms which such legislation may take.

"Federal legislation is needed because the United States is now consuming wood four times as fast as it is being grown. Enormous areas of the virgin forests have been converted into lands largely or wholly unproductive, and the United States now pay more per thousand feet in lumber freight alone than they paid for the delivered commodity three or four years ago. This is due to a growing scarcity and increasing cost of everything made from wood. The problem is national and must be dealt with in a nation-wide way.

"The definite aim of federal legislation on this subject must be to make sure that all forest lands in the United States, whether public or private, must be kept continuously productive; that as one crop of timber is cut another is started. By this means and by this means only can the needs of the country be adequately met. There is no lack of forest land, if all not needed for agriculture can be kept at work producing wood. Federal legislation must aim at restoring to forest land now idle to productive use and at preventing land now bearing merchantable timber or young growth from becoming idle through forest fires or destructive methods of logging.

tee consider the wisdom of drafting a bill covering the following points:

- (1) Broader authority and authorization of adequate appropriations for federal co-operation with the states in fire protection. In my judgment this outweighs all other measures in immediate importance.
- (2) Authority for effective co-operation with states in growing and distributing young forest trees for planting.
- (3) Broader provision for extending national forests through purchases of private lands.

"Such a program involves putting private forest lands in the hands of the public utility. We must recognize a dominant public interest in the way in which this form of private property is used. It must, however, be recognized that equal care that timber can not be given the undertaking is a practicable and reasonable one for the owner; growing timber is an economic matter. Reasonable and equitable aid must be given the private owner in accomplishing the public benefits desired, and such conditions of security must be created as will make it economically feasible for him to comply with public requirements.

"Various state laws have already applied the principle of public control—Oregon, Minnesota, New Hampshire and Louisiana, for example. But we are very far from a uniform or consistent application of this principle. To bring that about, by one means or another, must be one of the important features of federal legislation.

"Two alternative methods. Two methods for exercising public control to insure the continuous productivity of forest lands have been advocated in measures now before congress. Sections 1 and 2 of the Snell bill would authorize the department of agriculture to define and establish what is necessary in each region, and through financial cooperation to encourage the enactment and enforcement of such necessary measures by the several states. The Capper bill would accomplish the same purpose by direct federal authority through the taxing power of the national government.

scenario and the production was filmed under the direction of Webster Campbell.

The excellent cast includes Catharine Calvert, Harry C. Browne, who plays opposite Miss Griffith; William J. Parks and Alice Conroy. Miss Griffith, who is steadily adding to her popularity by the various roles she portrays, ventures into a new field in "Moral Fibre." Throughout the early scenes she appears as a girl of fifteen, knee-skirted and sunbonneted and with all the abandon of youth.

"The star, a William Fox production, is a play in which the heroine, a young woman, makes her way alone in the world and intent on one purpose—the taking of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. From a character who is a leading lady, she becomes a woman who, in the spirit of fun, filled with the young girl's brother and brought misfortune upon him.

"The play is full of action throughout and calls for elaborate sets, both interior and exterior, and a variety of gowns.

"The role gives the lovely little star excellent opportunities to display her versatility, as Jackeline, the gamut of human emotions, from pathetic sweetness and patience, through anguish, terror, despair and finally triumph in love.

WM. S. HART TRIUMPHS IN "THREE WORD BRAND" NOW AT LYRIC THEATER

William S. Hart, the virile Paramount star in western photoplays, scored another triumph when his latest production, "Three Word Brand," was presented at the Lyric theater yesterday afternoon and last night, and which is being repeated today for the last time. This is one of the typical William S. Hart pictures, of which the average film fan never tires. Mr. Hart plays three roles in the story, the scenes of which are laid in Utah. He is, first, Ben Trego, the father of motherless twin boys, who blows himself up with gunpowder rather than fall into the hands of savages, after he had sent his two boys away and covered up their tracks. The lads are rescued and one becomes the governor of the state, the other a rancher. Neither knows of the existence of the other and in the development of the plot there are the usual thrills, shooting and the like, the climax being exceptionally dramatic. Of course there is a beautiful girl whom the cowboy loves and wins. Jane Novak is the girl and the support generally is excellent. The photography is artistically done and there is nothing wanting to make this offering one of universal appeal.

TRAINED HOUSE EXPERT COMING SAYS NOVELIST

W. L. George Says Wife-Housekeeper Is Going; Sees Simple Life Without Drudgery.

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.) New York, Jan. 21.—W. L. George, British author of "A Bed of Roses" and other novels which rank among the best sellers of the day...

Wifehood, in Mr. George's opinion is woman's best bet. But he declares that her personal career will not long continue to be sacrificed to the world performance of housekeeping as at present carried on in average homes.

"The woman," he said, "whose special genius is wifehood, will not under ideal conditions have to sacrifice the terms of an admirably composed duty toward housework. People will live more simply. Housework will be smaller. They will be economically equipped."

ELECTRIC DISHWASHER SAVES THE HOUSEWIFE TWO HOURS EVERY DAY

From California comes an unique report, recording the exact number of operations involved in the simple act of washing dishes in a small home, as well as the time thereby consumed.

The statistician, a man who determined to prove the value of the electric dishwasher he gave his wife as a Christmas present, kept strict account of minutes and time consumed in dishwashing for one week previous to one week following the delivery of the dishwasher. These are the results:

When washing and drying was done by hand, it required for each meal approximately 224 operations; whereas the machine simplified matters so that the operations were 115.

It required 46 minutes on the average to do the dishes by hand, against seven minutes by machine. This figures up to a saving of 39 minutes in the time the housekeeper must be on her feet at each mealtime; and in the final use of the machine, when in all likelihood three meals' supply of dishes will be washed at one time, the comparative time-saving will be greater.

The statistician figures the time-saving under the latter plan to be a total of two hours and eleven minutes per day.

Next, clean one room. If one room is cleaned a day (except on the days mentioned above) the dust and dirt will never "get ahead of one." Each day crumbs around the dining table should be swept up, however, to preserve the rug.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

By LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

A HOUSEWORK SCHEDULE MAKES YOUR WORK EASIER. Here is a good housework schedule for the woman who has no maid to help her.

On dishes, the housekeeper should lay down in her own room. If she cannot take a nap, she can read a book or magazine and get her mind off herself for a while.

After resting awhile, if she stays home, she can get some of her sewing and mending done. Then comes the getting of dinner and clearing it away. After dinner, whatever else she does should take time to plan out tomorrow's meals and make her ordering list from that; this will make tomorrow's work run more smoothly.

On wash day, ironing day and baking day, however, the room cleaning—often the bed-making—must be sidetracked until these three bigger tasks are accomplished.

After clearing away the lunch-table, clean one room. If one room is cleaned a day (except on the days mentioned above) the dust and dirt will never "get ahead of one."

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggley as he hopped into his hollow stump bungalow one day. "Such bad luck!"

"What has happened now?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, hurrying in from the kitchen where she was just putting a chocolate cake to sleep in the oven.

"I am, but my umbrella isn't," said Mr. Longears, giving his pink nose a twinkle sideways, as he generally did when in trouble. "Look, the wind chased me and blew my umbrella inside out! I couldn't get away from the wind, hop as fast as I did. Oh, my umbrella! It's all broken to pieces!"

You grab one of his paws and I'll grab the other!

"Just press this button in the handle," explained Nurse Jane. "This is a new patent umbrella! You can open it with one paw, if you have a basket or a bag in your left paw, and are carrying the new umbrella in your right paw.

"Fine!" cried Uncle Wiggley, as he tried it, opening his trick umbrella with one paw as easily as a baby watermelon can fall into the sugar bowl. "This is just what I wanted!" said Mr. Longears, as he kept opening and closing his new umbrella, marching the while around the hollow stump bungalow.

"You grab one of his paws and I'll grab the other!" howled the Fox to the Bob Cat. "Then we'll nibble his ears!"

The swine shipments last week were made to Flagstaff, Ariz., and Portales, N. M.

January is a bad month for influenza, a gripe and bronchial troubles. It is unwise to neglect the slightest cough or cold. Foley's Honey and Tar gives prompt relief, gets right at the trouble, covers raw inflamed surfaces with a healing coating, clears the air passages, causes stuffy breathing and permits sound, refreshing, health-building sleep.

W. S. French, a well known sheepman near Artesia, shipped approximately 600 lambs to the Kansas City market, which demanded the top price of the market. The average weight of the lambs was 55 pounds, which is more than the average of many ewes.

TIDE OF CRITICISM TURNS IN FAVOR OF FERGUSSON'S NOVEL OF THE CHANGING SOUTHWEST

Essays Received in Journal-Knopf Contest Last Week Generally Commend Book As Faithful Picture of Conditions in New Mexico; Contest to Close February 1; Money Prizes.

Indignation at the many adverse comments on Harvey Fergusson's novel 'The Blood of the Conquerors' published in the Journal Book Corner last week resulted in a flood of essays in defense of the story...

Back at 'Club Woman.' It's a sad day for Albuquerque when a club woman must appear as the narrow-minded prude who signed her name to the letter published in the Journal last week...

But viewing Mr. Fergusson's book as it is written, I think he has done a splendid bit of literary work. Perhaps he has not painted Albuquerque and New Mexico just as Albuquerqueans and New Mexicans would like to see their city and state painted...

Mr. Fergusson might very well have delayed the writing of 'The Blood of the Conquerors' until he had a better understanding and a more able handling of his subject. The adventures of Ramon Delacruz started as a mere literary exercise in a rather glib and polished manner...

Mr. Fergusson has not used the paint brush with his picture, but rather a camera with good lenses and clear focus. No one who has visited the small ranches of the Spanish-American, the picturesque spots on mesa or in canyon...

As for his picture of human character in general and the Spanish-American character in particular, the author shows a power for debate because of individual differences of opinion. After many years of observation, I am of the opinion that he brings out the racial characteristics of the Spaniards with a rare touch of genius...

In more than one instance Mr. Fergusson has been vastly unfair. He says of the Alvarado hotel, 'I have described as the "Elvado" that it was not a beautiful building, but that it was an apt expression of the town's personality.' Continental tourists will not agree with Mr. Fergusson in this estimate of the town's beauty spot...

Mr. Fergusson might have made a wonderfully appealing story of this dependent of the conquerors struggling against a changing order of things, but he has failed signally to do so. The story is sordid and purposeless and one closes the book with the feeling that it is not a good book to send to one's friends 'back east'...

A Voice From Santa Fe. I will not voice myself, not 'with the side of the angels' in the Ferguson controversy but with the few who consider this a great book...

To one who has loved the southwest for fifteen years, I find in this book a feeling and appreciation for our country I have found nowhere else and know that the book could only have been written by one of its lovers...

In choosing atmosphere for a book, one is obliged to discriminate and use the things and incidents which will strengthen the local pictures. So Harvey Fergusson for this reason introduced things that perhaps, I say perhaps, no longer exist in the country...

DESIRE OF FARMER TO TAKE BATH LEADS TO HOME BEING BURNED

(By The Associated Press.) Pueblo, Colo., Jan. 22.—William Solee, a farmer residing east of Pueblo, is without a home because he wanted to take a bath. He placed an oil stove in the bathroom of the $7,500 farm home to take the chill off the room. He then went to another room to get a change of clothing. The stove exploded and Mr. Solee didn't get his bath. The house was destroyed.

COOK IS CHARGED WITH CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

(By The Associated Press.) Pueblo, Colo., Jan. 22.—John Stev, a cook, is under arrest on a state warrant charging him with cruelty to animals because it is alleged he picked up a sleeping cat by the tail in the quick lunch room where he worked and with a butcher knife whacked off the animal's tail. JAZZ MUSIC IS CRITICIZED BY LOCAL NO. 618

Albuquerque Chapter of American Federation of Musicians Elects Officers at Annual Meeting.

The abolishment of "jazz" music is urged by the local chapter of the American Federation of Musicians, which held its annual meeting last night. It is claimed by the local musicians that "jazz" stuff is only living on a mistaken idea that it is what the public wants and they prophesy that it will soon be replaced by the more sedate types of music.

The following officers were elected for this year: Fred K. Ellis, president; James Devine, vice president; Earl Porterfield, secretary; Fred Crockett, treasurer. The executive committee will consist of John Morelli, Andres Moya, M. A. Garcia and Harry Tathrobe. Ethelha Kay is the new sergeant-at-arms.

PIONEERS MUST PARK ARTILLERY OUTSIDE CORRAL

The law will be strictly enforced in Albuquerque on the evening of January 25.

Those attending the "old timer" reunion will be forced to park their artillery in the basement of the K. of P. hall building. The corral boss will take charge of all bowie knives.

Those who intend this justification to be pulled off without a single killing, declared the committee in charge last night. "If any hard feeling is caused during the 'reminiscence' talks or over any of the talks either before or after the dancing, it is to be borne in mind that Albuquerque is in the hands of the reformers and no killings are allowed inside of the city limits.

"I'll be there myself and shoot the first hombre who starts anything," the committeeman added, and talked as though he meant business.

All the pioneers of New Mexico will be at the K. of P. bunk house sharply at 7:30 in the evening. There'll be plenty of buffalo meat straight from Kansas City and chili from the Rio Grande valley. Pinons can be eaten, but the shucks must not be thrown on the floor. Back of chairs and in corners is the place to leave them.

A number of yaro spitmen are polishing up their "best ones" for the evening, but it is said that in most cases, chunks are being cut off in most places, because what has been eaten by the tenderfoot during the past forty or fifty years won't be swallowed by the "old timers" who will attend the meeting.

Old teams can be parked on Third street between Gold avenue and Mountain road. Ponies and burros can find hitching places on Railroad avenue hitching racks.

ALL BISHOPS IN U. S. ADVISED OF DEATH OF POPE

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Jan. 22 (By The Associated Press.)—Following the letter which the apostolic delegates to Washington has sent to all the bishops in the United States to inform them of the death of Benedict XV.

"I'm in profound sorrow. I write to inform you that our holy father, Pope Benedict XV, died this morning at 6 o'clock.

"While we bow in submission to the will of God in calling to Himself the visible head of His church, we cannot but mourn the loss of this great pontiff, who amid the world's calamities did so much in behalf of religion, humanity and peace.

"Grief as his pontification was his lived to be a better appreciation of his attitude toward the warring nations and of his impartiality, his anxiety to end the struggle and his ceaseless efforts to bring relief wherever needed. Now that the heart which went out to all the peoples is stilled in death, now that the arms which would have closed mankind in their embrace are folded forever, his world must pay tribute to his wisdom and to his spirit of justice and charity.

"The church in America will realize that it has lost a father who was ever concerned for its welfare. To the bishops, especially of the United States, the death of the pope will be the cause of deepest grief. His interest in their labors was a source of constant encouragement, while his unflinching kindness drew them to him in the bonds of love and devotion.
