REPUBLICANS

NATIONAL COMMITTEE

ALL STATES REPRESENTED

Hanna Speaks and Tells Them that Republican Victory is Certain .-He Advises the Party to "Stand Pat."-Little Done To-Day.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.-The Republican National Committee today at the Arlington hotel began its initial meeting preparatory to the presidential campaign of 1904. The committee which was called to order by Chairman Hanna represented every state and territory, either by the regular members or by proxy, except Hawali. The principal business to be transacted is the selection of the time and place of holding the next national convention. Neither of these questios was discussed today, but will be taken up tomorrow. Chicago and St. Louis are the leading rivals for the location of the convention.

When Senator Hanna called the meeting to order he was greeted by a round of applause. He made a brief address, concluding, "All of interest to the Republican party that centers in this meeting can be told in one word-success-and all that is necessary to bring this about is to stand pat upon the principles and policies of that party." The statement was greeted with hearty applause.

An exceedingly active competition to secure the national convention is in progress among the delegations representing several cities, and tonight, when all the National Committeemen and all the city delegations will be here, hard work will be done. The delegation representing the Hamilton club of Chicago, which was the earliest to put in an appearance and secure headquarters at a leading hotel, was strengthened by the arrival of several more Chicagoans today.

Chicago is prepared to put up the ..50,000 guarantee and also to offer an additional $30,000 to equip the Coliseum as a place for holding the convention. It appears at present that a majority of the National Committeemen favor Chicago as the meeting place, but the contest has not reached a point where any particular city can claim a definite assurance of having won the fight. In New York, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Cleveland, Omaha, Detroit, Milwaukee, Indianapolis and San Francisco have made preliminary bids for the convention. The majority of these, however, have dropped out of the fight and only a few will present their claims to the committee tomorrow.

The meeting of the committeemen has given rise to many reports and much speculation as to what will be done by the committee regarding the Presidential campaign of next year. From statements recently published there seems to be an impression that the National Committee now in existence will have charge of the next presidential campaign in some unexplained way, and that the conduct of the campaign is to be discussed at the present meeting. As a matter of fact the present National Committee practically ceased to have any authority after the close of the national campaign of 1900.

Its duties and its functions ceased gether at the present time to fix the tional convention of 1904. That duty tide.

having been performed the committee will have no reason for again meeting. The only thing remaining for the present committee after this meeting will be for its chairman to call the national convention to order and preside until a temporary chairman is chosen, which is usually done within an hour after that body con-

The convention itself chooses the national committee, the committee elects an executive committee, and the latter chooses its officers. The chairman of the executive committee, however, is usually chosen after consultation with the presidential candidate. The only importance attaching to the present committee after today's meeting is due to the chance of its chairman and other members being chosen to conduct the next campaign. It is understood that President Roosevelt has asked Senator Hanna to remain at the head of the committee and direct the fight of next year. Whether or not the Ohio senator has or will comply with the request is not as yet definitely known.

The secretaryship of the committee is a matter that is exciting much interest among politicians in both parties. In view of the Bristow report on the postal frauds it appears almost impossible that Perry Heath will continue as secretary of the committee. Senator Hanna, however, has stood by Heath through thick and thin and in case the latter is not inclined to get out it is believed he will be upheld in his position by Senator Hanna. In the event of his resignation the most likely candidate for the place now seems to be Harry the Republican ranks. New is the close friend of Heath, however, and will make no effort to get the piace should the latter evince a desire to MacArthur, during a military confer- pose, was assaulted by the police ence, has said that in all probability and was obliged to defend himself war will take place between the United States and Germany in the near future, which makes the Hawalian left for Alexandrietta was premature from this field, and the mines, it is National Guard of great importance. The Germania doctrine is growing among German-Americans of the isl committee and a valiant worker in and few of whom volunteered during the war with Spain. He said he believed that the German interests were growing to such an extent in South America that the strain on the Monroe Doctrine would eventually lead to a conflict. Hawaii being the strategic point, he says no nation will make any attempt on the shore line of the Pacific states until the capture of the Hawaiian islands has been effected. This statement of MacArthur has just been made public through the report of Col. Jones to Governor Carter.

SanFrancisco, Cal., Dec. 10 .- Major General MacArthur, who is quoted in the cable dispatch from Honolulu as predicting war between the United States and Germany, has not pose of enacting a fair trial law has yet returned to this city. At army ed States forces are co-operating headquarters it was stated today that he was not expected back from Honolulu until Christmas, though he may come on the Sherman, due in a few days. Referring to the state ment attributed to General MacAr thur, which it appears was transmitted to Governor Carter by Col. Jones of the Hawaiian militia, one of the high army officials said today, "I cannot believe that General Mac-Arthur made the prediction attrib uted to him. It is quite possible that department to the effect that the in conferring with the fortification Colombian troops which were said | board which recently met in Honored to the possibility of war with some foreign power as an argument in favor of properly defending the Hawaiian islands, which as everybody knows, are very important strategetically. By way of illustration he may have mentioned Germany as a growing sea and commercial power, but he is too experienced an officer and diplomat to make the rash statement with which he is credited. Other army officers expressed similar views and all are confident that General MacArthur would make a prompt and entirely satisfactory explanation of the matter. Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.-The statement attributed to General Mac Arthur, contained in yesterday's dispatches from Honolulu, in which it was alleged that he had predicted war in the immediate future between the United States and Germany have come to the notice of Secretary Root. Jones report to Governor Carter did not correctly represent his views in any particular and utterly misrepresented them in some. Secretary Root made the assertion that remarks of this character though declared to have been made in private conversation would not necessarily shield an officer from the requirement of an explanation. But he says that Mac-Arthur's denial carries with it due weight in explanation.

He, therefore, would take no action in the matter.

No time should be lost by the property holders along the Hondo in giving the government a fair field to begin operations in building the reservoir. It is now up to the people of Roswell when the work on this enterprise shall begin. The sooner this is commenced, the shorter the time in which it will be finished. No proposition ever presented to the people of Roswell has ever demanded more prompt action. Work on the reservoir must soon begin.

Present Condition of Statehood.

The New Mexican, which keeps about as well posted on conditions at Washington as any other territorial paper, has the followig to say in regard to the present status of the statehood question:

"Delegate Rodey has for the past three weeks spent his time almost wholly in keeping appointments for personal calls upon enemies of statehood in congress, has had many interesting talks, and has removed a great deal of prejudice that existed in the minds of the enemies of statehood.

"Among others, he has had long conferences with Speaker Cannon, Congressman Payne, Republican floor leader, Congressman Dalzell, Hepburn, Grosvenor, and many others; and on the senate side, with Senators Hale, of Maine, Lodge of Massachusetts, Beveridge of Indiana, Kean and Dryden of New Jersey, Bard of California, and many others.

"Of course he has had many interviews with the friends of statehood as well: the delegates from all the territories have conferred, and all have had consultations with Senators Quay, Elkins, Foraker, Gallinger, McCumber, Burton and other friends of statehood. They have each also had interviews with the President.

In a short time something may happen in the statehood line. It will surprise the people here when they know the amount of prejudice that has been removed by these conferand by information gained since the last session of congress. Many of the reports that have recent ly gone out of the national capital about statehood, written by correspondents, are misleading. The statehood question is in better shape than it has ever been since the beginning ing. All admitted and invited, but of the great fight in the Fifty-sev- he will talk especially to men and enth congress. Another great fight boys.

against it may develop, but the chances are against this right now. There is quite a likelihood that the question will be settled by some sort of an agreement.

Europe Honors Dr. Koch.

Berlin, Dec. 11.-Professor Koch, the eminent physician and scientist, was the recipient of many honors today on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday. Congratulatory addresses were received from scientific bodies in many parts of the world. Another gift was a marble bust, his own likeness, presented by friends and admirers in Great Britain and Ger-

Professor Koch is recognized as the world's leading authority in tuberculosis, the bubonic plague and all diseases of a like nature. For nearly forty years, ever since he gained his degree of M. D., he has been studying germs, and about 1880 he succeeded in identifying the germ of cattle diseases and of consumption. His remarkable discoveries led to his being placed at the head of the German Cholera Commission which visited Egypt and India, and while on this investigation he discovered the coma bacillus of cholera receiving a reward of 100,000 marks from the government. Further researches in bacteriology established his reputation as the leader in this branch of medicine, and led to his appointment as professor of hygiene at the University of Berlin.

Civil Service Discussed.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 11.-Before a large and enthusiastic audience of civil service reformers a number of interesting papers and addresses were presented today at the second day's session of the annual convention of the National Civil Service Reform League. Some of the speakers and their subjects were as follows: "Fourth Class Postmasters and Rural Free Delivery," Elliott H. Goodwin; "Some phases of the practical operation of the Civil Service Laws." Homer Folks. Commissioner of Public Charities of New York: "The Merit Principle in the Selection of the Higher Municipal Officers," Richard Henry Dana; "Civil Service Reform in Maryland," Prof. Greater Efforts and More Effective Methods in Advocating the Merit System," Charles Richardson.

The convention comes to a close this evening with a dinner in honor of the delegates and the ladies accompanying them.

Swedenbogian Exhibit Proposed.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 11.-One of the most novel exhibits at the approaching Exposition is proposed by the Swedenborgian societies o, America. The various societies of this denomination propose to have reproduced the original dwelling house of Emanuel Swedenborg, the founder of the sect, which is still standing and preserved in Stockholm. It is planned to erect the building upon a proper site within the Exposition grounds, to be used for the display of manuscripts, original volumes, and objects of interest to the church members and general public, and also for the free distribution of New church literature, as well as a meeting point for visitors interested in the new church movement who are expected to attend the fair in large numbers.

Consular Service Discussed. Baltimore, Md., Dec. 11.-The bill for the re-organization of the Consular service presented in the senate by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and in the house of representatives by Adams of Pennsylvania, was the subject of discussion at a conference of leading merchants and manufacturers held in Baltimore today. The conference was held under the auspices of the National Consular Reorganization Committee, and those present included prominent persons of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and a number of other cities.

O'Keefe and Gardner.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 11 .-Jack O'Keefe, the Chicago lightweight who has a decision over Jimmy Britt to his credit, and Gus Gardner, who recently fought a draw with Martin Duffy, are to come together before a local athletic organization tonight. The articles call for ten round bout at 136 pounds. Both men have been training faithfully since the match was made and appear to be in condition to put up an interesting contest.

[Original.]

"Corporal," said the general, "there's a Confederate loose somewhere in our rear that I want you to take. He met an artillery sergeant on the Lebanon pike this morning and got the drop on him, taking his borse and his uniform. That means a tour of inspection either of our camps, our rear or a burned railroad bridge, cutting our supplies. It's no use sending a lot of men after him. Try him alone. The sergeant says that the last he saw of him he was winding along up the road over Cedar hill."

I had been the general's private scout for months and knew the country well. I struck the road over Cedar hill five miles in our rear and questioned all met if they had noticed a mounted trtillery sergeant. The people were all Confe lerate and would give me no satisfaction. I was feeling somewhat discouraged, for night was coming on, when I noticed a horse tied in front of a tavern. I dismounted and entered the tavern. There sat a sergeant of artillery with the landlord at a table eating a supper that bad been set out for

"Got any whisky, landlord?" I said. 'If so, trot it out. How are you, ser-

"Well enough. Sit down and drink your liquor here. I'll join you."

His accent was a pure southern and was a dead giveaway. From the moment of his speaking I knew I had struck my man. His nerve was per fect. His manner was that of one pleased at having a comrade to drink with. Nevertheless I noticed that under pretense of removing his revolver to a position more comfortable for him he slipped the holster around on his belt toward his front.

"Out here on duty?" I asked.

"Yes. Are you?"

"Looking for forage. The commissary says he's running short, and I've got to find some."

"That's my job. Our battery is down to a barrel of oats."

"We might hunt together." "So we might, only we'd have half the chance together we'd have sepa rate. Suppose we meet here, say, tomorrow noon and report and find that's more than either needs."

I had hoped that he would think it best to fall in with my plan for awbile in order to gain my confidence, in which case I might run him into a trap. but his argument was too sound to re fute, and I gave up that plan. The landlord brought some bad whisky, and the sergeant and I drank together. Then I proposed that we remain where we were all night and make a search

"All right," said the sergeant. "Uncle Sam doesn't pay me enough to hunt for forage at night. Got rooms for us. !andlord?" "Reckon."

"Well. I'll go out and stable my borse," said the spy. By this time certain scrutinizing looks I had given the man, an occasion al trace of incredulity in my face or something of the kind, had caused him to know his critical position. It's a sin gular task and a singular feeling to be chatting familiarly with an armed man whom you are planning to catch off his guard. At any moment one or the other may have a bullet hole in him, and it is very uncertain which will be the man. In this case, over one dangled a halter.

"Take my horse in. too." I said. stretching myself lazily in my chair and lighting my pipe.

"I'll do it." He went out into the ball. I jumped up the moment he reached it and followed him, expecting to take him from the rear with his tack turned to me The moment he was out of my sight he must have gone like lightning, for when I saw him he was half way to

"Hands up!" I yelled.

With two leaps he was at his horse's side and with another on him and away. I firing three shots, then mounting my self and following him. It was a clear race over Cedar bill, and our horses kept a gallop on the way up. Then came a breakneck pace down the other side. Suddenly the man's horse stum bled and burled bim a dozen yards ahead. When I reached him, he was unconscious, and I took his pistol, then went to a rivulet beside the road, filled my canteen and dashed water in his face. That brought him to himself.

"Say, Johnny Reb," I said, "you're the coolest chap I ever met and the bravest. I'd give $100 if you weren't a spy carrying information, for you'll hang, and it prevents my letting you go back to Dixie."

He pretended to be badly hurt, and I was very lenient with him, permit-ing him to sit beside the road till bet ter able to mount. He took out a white handkerchief and made a great display of it, wiping the blood from his face. It was not long after this that, following his giance down the road. I saw a troop of Confederate cavalry coming like the wind. In a second I was on my horse and away, but he was windd. I was caught and taken back.

"Yank." said my sergeant, "I can't go back on the uniform. I'm so delighted at escaping the gallows and so grateful for your kindly sympathy that I'm going to let you go back to camp. Give my regards to your general and tell him that if it hadn't been for you Captain Beverly of the -th Confederate cavalry would have burned the big bridge in your rear tonight, and he'd have been a month rebuilding it."

He grasped my hand warmly; then his men beiped him on his horse, and they rode away. They had been on the watch for him, and his handkerchief had been a signal for them.

MONTGOMERY MOORM

STIRRING COURTSHIP

Elise Marcel was a Louislana creole. Her father and mother were plous people and insisted on Elise maintaining the same rigorous notions that goverened them. She was not permitted to dance, and she must keep all the fast days and do penance for the slightest infraction of church rules.

Henry Soulard, the son of a neighboring planter, met Elise one evening at a party and was captivated by her oval face, olive complexion, black eyes and the long cable of hair reaching nearly to her heels. He was a manly young fellow, without anything mean or selfish about him. He asked Elise to dance, but she declined, explaining that her parents forbade dancing and if she did so and they heard of it she would have to suffer. Henry looked disappointed, but declared that he would not bring trouble upon her for a world. Whereupon Elise was seized with a desire to suffer for his pleasure and insisted on dancing with him. When he found it impossible to dissuade her, he consented, and they danced together often during the res of the evening. When Elise went home, she told her mother what she had done. Instead of making her do the usual penances Mme. Marcel simply forbade her ever again to speak a word with Henry Soulard.

The next time Henry saw Elise he was on horseback and Elise was ahead of him driving her pony. A man was riding beside her, talking to her, and it was plain that Elise was offended, for she answered never a word. When Henry drew near, he saw that the offender was Jean Gaspard, a young man who had lately inherited a plantation, on which he lived a by no means exemplary life. As soon as Henry came up Elise, with flashing eyes and burning cheeks, told him she desired that M. Gaspard would ride on and leave her alone. Henry rode up to her tormentor and cut him with his riding whip, then cutting Gaspard's horse, a high mettled beast, it shot on, carrying the rider far away. That afternoon a friend of Gaspard's waited on Henry bearing a challenge. In that day dueling was common in the south, and Henry could not have declined to fight without meeting consequences as serious as fighting. The next morning the two men met with sharp pointed foils. Though Henry was the better fencer he was so indignant with his antagonist that he was undercautious. He received a flesh wound in the side. This ended the combat.

The meeting soon became common talk in the neighborhood, but as the people were not averse to dueling there not only heard of the affair, but of its cause. Elise, learning that Henry had been wounded, took her pony cart and drove to her father's plantation. She found him lying on a wicker couch on the veranda. Though they had seen each other but twice before, the episode in which Henry had defended her and afterward risked his life and was wounded on her account was quite enough to draw them to a climax. Not a word was spoken before Henry had clasped her and she had wound her arms about his neck. When they separated, they were betrothed.

It was a great shock to Mme. Marcel when Elise drove home and told her that she was engaged to the man with whom she had danced and who had fought a duel for her.

"Mon Dieu," exclaimed the mother-"that I should have a child to love one who has tried to kill another! Our protecting saints surely will leave us a prey to the devil. Go to your room, wicked child, and if you ever again meet or speak to this would be murderer you must leave this house and your poor father and me that you may not jeopardize our immortal souls."

Elise's love and respect for her mother forbade her disobeying, and she went to her room, where her meals were sent to her for three days. Then she was told to go to confession. She promised her mother that she would speak to no one but the priest. The promise was sacredly kept, and when she returned she went at once to her room. For a week she remained day and night there, seeing no one, her meals brought to her. Then one morning she was called down into the great hall which served as a living room. There stood Father De Bleek, the parish priest, and there sat her mother on the old mahogany and haircloth sofa. "Embrace your daughter," said the old man kindly. "Are you sure, father, that there will be no contamination?" "There is no sin to contamination. Whatever of sin there may be, if any, would pertain to the young man. But there is no sin in defense. Has not our church found her defender in all generations since she was planted on earth? Are you not presumptuous to set up your interpretations of our doc-

Elise in a flutter of excitement and joy wrote the words, "Come when you are able," and sent them to Henry. He had been forbidden by his surgeon to walk or drive for another week, but he and no sooner result suspens to be got ordered a horse and wagon to be got ready and in ten minutes was on way to the Marcel plantation. Elise met him at the gate and supported him to the house, where M. and Mme. Marcel received him, though the latter could not refrain from crossing herself efore she permitted him to touch her ALICE CHEEVER

MADE TO SHERIFF HIGGINS EN ROUTE TO PRISON.

WHISKEY THE GAUSE

He Says He Would Rather Have Been Hanged than Receive a Sentence of 99 Years, and Says He Entered a Plea of Guilty of Murder in the Second Degree for the Sake of His Mother and Sister.

Sheriff Fred Higgins returned yes terday after a trip to Santa Fe where he delivered four prisoners at the penitentiary which were sentenced at the last term of court in this county. The most notable prisoner was Kinch Mullins who received 99 years for the murder of Tony Staffaucher. Mullins was chained to Arch Mitchell who received one year for saddle stealing. The sheriff did not have any trouble with the pris-

Mullins withdrew his plea of not guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree and and put in a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, with the understanding that he would receive the most severe sentence the law could inflict. Consequently he did not have a trial, and the statement of the prisoner never came out in court. Sheriff Higgins did not talk to the prisoner while here about the crime. Shortly before they reached Santa Fe Sheriff Higgins said, "Now, Kinch, tell me just why you killed Tony" and Mullens replied, "I did not know I had shot Tony until they told me about it after I was in jail. I knew I had shot somebody, but I did not know it was Tony, as he was my best friend. Whiskey was the cause of it and I would not have killed him for anything, but the deed has been done. Whiskey is not any excuse and I would not have asked for clemency and made a plea of murder in the second degree but for the sake of my mother and sisters. I would rather have been hanged than to receive the sentence. I will have to serve until death."

There used to be just one way to ship oysters. That way was to dump the oysters in an old wooden pail, dump ice water in with the oysters, put in some "embalming" fluid and then the oysters were churned against the ice absorbing all the dirt and impurities until you had a dop unfit for the stomach of the strongest man. THE NEW WAY—Redderson sells oysters that are shipped in patent carriers. This carrier consists of two parts. The oysters are in the inner, sealed air tight receptacle, waterproof, dirt proof and germ proof. The ice is in the outer receptadle, and is made to keep the oyster not destroy it.
