OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest new spaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation amons the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest,

BENEFITS OF HIGH ALTITUDE.

Low altitude health resorts have been advertising and preaching assiduously that there lurks danger in high granting of certain privileges on Con. although Pennsylvania makes no prealtitude. The medical profession has helped to spread that idea and more ment of that great peninsula has unthan one physician finding a tuberculosis patient dying on his hands, has the President of the United States to try is valued at $7,674,397 and bees at told him that the altitude is too high, assume the attitude of a defendant, half a million dollars. When any one that altitude causes nervousness, and but the tendency of the muckrakers therefore says that New Mexico is heart failure, and that he had better of late years to turn their mud guns the Pennsylvania of the west he is leave it at once for a lower altitude. It upon high officials doing their duty paying the highest kind of compliis difficult to eradicate the prejudice patriotically and having the best inthat has arisen on that account against terests of the people and the nation

The altitude of Santa Fe is given inas far as parts of the city are concerned. If the altitude were advertised as 6,981, the lowest point within the city limits, many who are frightened at the figures 7,000 feet, would be reassured. As a matter of fact, medical magazines of late years, have admitted that an altitude of 7,000 feet is not dangerous even to persons with marked cardiac lesion. In some parts of Germany patients with certain symptoms of cardiac trouble are sent into the hills and are asked to take regular though moderate mountain climbing exercises. It is only in the rarest instances, that a gradual transition to an altitude of 7,000 feet, has been the real cause of unfavorable symptoms, and in such cases, an altitude of 5,000 feet would prove just as harmful,

But there are benefits of high altithat the red corpuscles in the human He says in conclusion: blood increased with altitude. Now conclusions as follows:

It is dangerous for a layman, or a daily newspaper, to discuss medical themes, but the press of the southwest take fiendish delight in tyrannizing owes it to the plateau and mountain region to help dispel the idea that altitude is harmful to people with weak Miners is not in a mood to acquire the heart or weak lungs. #### LEARNING BY EXPERIENCE.

The members of the Western Federation of Miners exhibited more wisdom, than usual, when they branded as impractical the suggestion of President Moyer that the federation gradually buy up the coal mines and other mines and then follow this up with acquiring factories and mills and thus gain possession of the means of production.

The purchase of only one mine, or ore mill, would have taught the federat'on valuable lessons; would have induced it perhaps, to look at mine own ers and industrial leaders, as something more than capitalistic dogs who the working man,

This is only a small part of the marvelous wealth of the Keystone State, which demonstrates the possibilities of high development of natural resources. Yet, there are portions of Pennsylvania, especially along its northern border, as thinly populated as New Mexico, with baren stretches of land and of swamps with dense forest and timber, with recipitous mountains and rocky hillides. According to a census report vesterday, the horses of Pennsylvania alone, are worth ten million dollars more than the total assessed wealth of New Mexico, including railroads, banks, farms, mines, factories, mills, real estate and personal property The cattle of Pennsylvania are worth $47,202,000, and number 192,772. the Lake Peaks. Scout Master Francis C. Wilson and his Boy Scouts returned yesterday afternoon from their ten days' hike to Winsor's on the Upper Pecos. The boys stood the tramp well and had the time of their young lives. They made their journey leisurely and saw all the sights en route, including Holy Ghost Lake on top of the Lake Peaks at an altitude of 12,00 feet. They did not go into camp on the Panchuela until the fourth day out and even then kept on the move. They encounplated ascent of Santa Fe Baldy, albecause of the dense clouds that covered the peak. Fishing was not as good as had been anticipated, but still there were enough trout to go around at meal times. Wild strawberries served as dessert and pancakes were a daily standby. The home trip over the Knox trail was made in two days and the boys arrived yesterday afternoon after having walked fifteen miles since the forencon, the night be fore having been spent in the rangers' cabin on Lake Peak.

to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and dragging pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up, regulate, and make them well. My eldest daughter has taken the Compound for painful, irregular periods, and it has always helped her.

I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."—Mrs. J. G. Johnson Scottville, Mich., R. F. D. 3.

When shown such positive and reliable proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound really does cure such cases wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering the same?

MORE GENUINE AND CONVINCING PROOF:

Elwood, Ind.—"I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. I tried doctors, and they said I could not get well without an operation. I could hardly stand the pain, but my right side was the worse. I couldn't sleep at night, and I was troubled with a weakness. "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle, but I kept on until I was cured."—Mrs. Sadie Mullen, 2728 N. B. Street, Elwood, Ind.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has I thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

SOAPWEED IN PICKLE A NEW CONDIMENT.

Pickled Bear Grass Buds or Soapveed Delicatessen is the last condivarieties of the justly celebrated and ubiquitous pickle. A woman in eastern New Mexico has invented it and the secretary of the immigration bureau has received a sample. The bear grass pods look very tempting in the bottle and have every appear ance of being able to make a noise like a pickle although neither the secretary nor any of his visitors have yet gone so far as to taste the contents of the vial.

The chief promoter of this new palate tickler is Frank Page, the well known U. S. court commissioner and nature fakir of Buchanan, Guadalupe county. He sends the pickles to the secretary with the following letter: "By today's mail I send you a bottle of pickled bear grass buds, or buds of the palmilla plant commonly known as soapweed. The buds have been pickled by Mrs. J. H. Knox of Buchan en, who, noting that the cattle and sheep ran wild after the buds and flowers of the soapweed, concluded they might also do for human foodand the proof is in the eating thereof. As the editors are "doubting Thomases" kindly show them the pickles and give them thereof to eat. #### TRAIT OF AN IRISHMAN

Man Wouldn't Leave the Home Where He Was Born Because He Loved It

The love of the Irishman for his home is one of his well-known traits, and in "Ireland Yesterday and Today," Mr. Hugh Sutherland gives a pleasant and yet pathetic instance of that devotion. He was traveling in the west of Ireland, and was rather astonished to find the third-class compartments crowded with sturdy-looking men. At a junction station a broad-shouldered, bearded man cheerfully enlightened him as to the reason why so many were traveling.

"Sure, sir, we've all been over in England workin'," he said. "I've been away since April myself, and there's 20 good pounds in me pocket this blessed minute to pay the rent an' buy a bit of bacon an' that for the win-

"But what do you go to England for? Why not stay on your own farm and work that?"

"God save you, sir, an' do you think we go to England because we like it? Is it likely we'd leave our own farms if so be we'd get food an' clothes an' rent by stayin'? Bad luck to it, we go because we have to, to get the money we need."

"Then why not go to England altogether?"

The big man turned and looked over the hills were indistinct, but we could still see the empty land and feel its rugged unkindness. Yet the man's voice was very tender as he spoke. "Twenty miles on," he said, "there's that cabin I was born and on that land my father worked. Is it like, now, that I'd leave it to live in England or anywhere else? It's a rough place at the best, and not all the muscles I've got can dig a living out of it. But, God be good to me, I love it, sir."-Youth's Companion.

Gourmet's Idea.

The French statesman, M. Monis, is the proprietor of a brandy of which he is very proud. The story goes that once when King Edward and the late General Galliffet were dining together, Monis brandy was served, and King Edward drank his portion off at one gulp, Galliffet, connoisseur, stared. "Sire," he exclaimed, "you have committed a crime!" King Edward laughed. "Why?" he asked. "Brandy like that," was the reply, "should be savored. You should lift it gently, pass it under your nose, enjoy the aroma and then put it back on the table."
"And after that?" the king said.
"After that, sire, talk about it."

"Griggs imbibes rather freely." "Yes, Griggs says when his system s illuminated he always feels that he is a success in life."

Defined. "What is a pessimist, pa?" "A pessimist, my son, is a man who thinks life is a game of "Tag," and he -is always 'It.'

GOWNS FOR THE SUMMER

Wide Choice of Colors is Allowed for the Costumes of the Prevailing Season.

Extremely practical, also, are the coat-and-skirt costumes for cool days. In plain color, with trimmings of striped black and white, there is quite a new model with which is worn a lace waist of white over the color of the gown. It is of filet and Irish lace combined. It is not necessary that real lace be used to carry out the model satisfactorily, for there never was a time when so many effective imitation laces could be bought at such low prices.—Harper's Bazar.

Restoring Faded Flowers.

One may freshen faded artificial flowers by retinting them with water colors. After they are tinted, curl the petals again with the blunt side of a case knife.

Notice how the petals curl back before tinting them and then curl in a similar manner and do not apply the paints too wet or it will be impossible to obtain good results.

This is the best home method of estoring flowers that have become

How It Was Done. Washington, D. C., July 27 .- The passage of the bill came after a defeat of the Underwood House bill, 44 to 36, on almost a party vote, after the original La Follette substitute had been roted down with only the Republican nsurgents in its favor. Having secured a vote on the Undervood bill, as passed by the House, the Democrats then supported a motion made by Senator La Follette to reconsider the vote by which their bill was defeated. As soon as the motion to reconsider had been carried, La Follette offered his compromise.
