Railroad officials, municipal organigrowers in the irrigated districts, will watch the outcome of this experiment with keen interest, as the solution of the weed problem in America will mean the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars expended annually in controlling the rank growths. The uncultivated banks of irrigation canals afford the most inviting propogating ground for thistles, wild mustard, salt bush and other noxious weeds, the seeds of which, carried by the wind and the water in laterals, are scattered far and wide. In many instances the growths become so dense that it is difficult to pass through on foot or on horseback, and when occurring on large fills, hiding places are afforded to burrowing ani mals, which are meances to banks and often the cause of disastrous breaks in canals.

WOMAN PAST HELP.

Chandler, Okla.-In a letter from this place, Mrs. Ella Flowers says, "I hardly know how to thank you for the good that Cardui has done me. Before I tried Cardui, I thought I was past help, but after taking it, I was relieved at once, and gained at least ten pounds. Everybody says I look so much better. I am still improving greatly." Many women are completely worn out and discouraged, on account of womanly weakness. Are you? Have you not tried Cardui? It only needs a few doses to convince you that Cardui is just what you need. Try it today. It will cure your pains.

In Alberta the increase was from seven donars to twenty dollars, or 185 per cent net increase. The Canadian railways are said to be anticipating still greater augmentations in the value of these lands. In the second place, these lands grow no other crop but wheat to advantage, as is shown by the fact that agriculturists whose lands are used for mixed farming in the Canadian West are against the Reciprocity agreement As to wheat, the United States farmers are protected by the longer freight haul and by the fact that prices of wheat are largely fixed by the world's markets,

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

A great many so-called remedies for Contagious Blood Poison are composed almost entirely of strong mineral ingredients. They seem to be compounded with the idea that one poison will counteract another—provided the stomach and delicate portions of the system can withstand the effects of the strong treatment. These concoctions are intended to kill the poison in the system. In this article we want to tell you of S.S.S., a purely vegetable remedy for Contagious Blood Poison, a medicine that not only cures the disease, but one which from the first dose has a fine tonic effect upon the stomach and the entire system. Nor does S. S. S. attempt to kill the germs within the system, but cures by REMOVING them from the blood-which is absolutely the only way to cure the disease.

I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that the doctors could do me no good I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S.S.S.I was greatly improved, and was delighted with the result. The large red splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger and my appetite greatly improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass.

It is a faith born of experience-every one has seen Miss Nethersole do good work in good plays. So it matters very little what she plays, she is invariably greeted with crowded houses. But this season she has a piece "The Redemption of Evelyn Vaudray" the quality of which is vouched for by the fact that it is the work of Henri Bernstein, the author of "The Thief," and it was adapted for our stage by Louis N. Parker, author of "Pomander Walk." Furthermore, it has been staged by Ben Greet, and produced under the direction of Liebler and Company, Both Derive Great Benefit Through Advertising - Some Points to Write About.

The purpose of advertising is to sell something. Before writing your ads get this idea firmly fixed and don't forget it while you are writing. Don't try to make your ad a literary gem; don't use your space for typographical decorations; don't try to tell the people everything you have in your store in one ad.; don't use a lot of shop-worn technical terms that may be plain enough to you but Greek to the general public.

Use plain, everyday language, which everybody can understand. If your article is one not in general use. make your ad, educational in its nature. Tell them how the article is made or constructed and to what use it can be put. If it will save time, tell the people how; if it will make labor easier, tell them why; give them a good description and then tell them the price. If the price is less than usual, be sure and tell them why the reduction in price is made. No matter how much information you may use in your ad., remember always the main point: the purpose of advertising is to sell something.

Don't try to advertise everything you have in your store in one ad. It fectively than it is to advertise a dozen ineffectively. And be sure that what you are advertising is in season. Change your copy so as to keep your ad. live and up-to-date. Advertising space is valuable, but you cannot get better publicity, or make a better investment than the purchase of space in a wide-awake paper of big circulation and then using this space to the very best advantage. Advertise judiciously. You have the goods that the people need. You Grocer (soothingly)-I gave you the want to sell and they want to buy, about your goods and they will read your ad., for they are anxious to know where they can buy at the greatest saving.

The object of advertising is to teach people to believe in you and in your goods; to teach them to think that they have a need for your goods and to teach them to buy your goods--Hugh Chalmers.

is the Business Reliance of Today Says Philadelphia Theatrical Manager.

"There is nothing to equal the advantage of the judicious use of newspaper space as an appeal for public attention to the wares you offer," says Frank Howe, Jr., manager of the Walnut Street theater, Philadelphia. "Prior to the opening of 'The Country Boy' at the Walnut Street theater, we used approximately 2,000 agate lines of newspaper space. An audience large in quantity and fine in quality was attracted to the first per- at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in formance, the third night the house Masonic Hall, south side of Plaza. was filled. Friday night we sold out, and Saturday night hundreds were turned away, as we HENRY F. STEPHENS, 32 were unable to find place for them. "I'm willing to wager large sums the receipts of the Walnut for the last week exceeded those of any other theater in Philadelphia.

"This quick return to an appeal for a good play could not be had except for the fact that liberal use of the advertising columns in a campaign of preparation excited public curiosity in the producer and playwright's effort, and when the players had done their part the public was prepared to favorably regard the whole, and flocked to the Walnut to show their preference.

"The posting of cuts and announcements on the dead walls and other available spaces has its necessity through custom only. The advent of the educated, resourceful man of brilliant mentality, displaced the old time 'show agent,' and the 'bill sticker,' though the latter remains with us, as do the measles and like ills, but the newspaper advertising is the business reliance today."

Good Faith.

No manufacturer has a pocketbook long enough to continue advertising an article that has no merit. The newspaper reading public is well aware that this broad statement applies as well to the retail merchant as to the manufacturer. No retailer has a pocketbook long enough to continue advertising a store that does not render satisfactory service. The regplarity of a merchant's newspaper advertising, therefore, in itself inspires confidence. It is a guarantee that the advertiser is, to use a popular phrase, "on the level."
