DEMING GRAPHIC.

VOL. III Entered March 18, 1905, at Deming, N. M., as second class matter, under act of congress, of March 3, 1879.

Grin And Bear It.

My Uncle Joe will often say
A thing that first just sets you laughing,
But when you come to go away
And think it out, most any day
You'll find he wasn't only chaffing.
I asked him what he used to do
When everything went hurry-scurry,
And how he kept from getting blue,
Because the more he tried to do
The bigger seemed to grow the worry
"There's just one way," he answered
me,
"When worry shows its face, to scare it.
Go to the house of Grit," says he,
"And ring the bell, and ask to see
Two little men named Grin and Bear-It.
"The plucky chaps will sprint along With you through any wind and weather;
They'll laugh and joke and sing a song.
And nothing can go really wrong
If you and they just keep together."
He makes me laugh, my Uncle Joe!
But all the same, when lessons bother
And things get wrong, again, I'll go where Grin and Bear-It live, you know,
And we'll sprint on with one another.

Sewers.

ED. GRAPHIC,
The old saying that a stitch in time saves nine, reminds us that Deming needs, and must have as soon as practicable
a good sewerage system; and now that we are to have a first class water system, and will have an abundance of water to flush the sewer mains, there is no further excuse for delay.
Mr. Frank H. Olmstead, of Los Angeles, a prominent sewerage engineer and expert, who paid us a visit some weeks since outlined to the City Trustees a plan for a septic tank system, which can be adopted and carried out on a very economical basis and we are assured by a very strong and reliable Bond house that they would purchase the sewerage bonds at a low rate of interest to the extent of an ample amount to install a substantial up-to-date sewer system.

I understand that the City Trustees have ample power under the law to issue bonds for this purpose. Our physicians all recommend it, and by prompt action much suffering, and many lives
may be saved.

Would it not be advisable to get up a petition to present to the Trustees at their next regular meeting, and ask them to take such action, as in their judgment would be necessary to advance this all important work.

CITIZEN.

Stock Report.

Special to the Deming Graphic.
Kansas City, Mo., Monday, Oct. 23, 1905. Cattle receipts were 93,000 last week, including 12,000 calves, heaviest this year at Kansas City. Prices were generally steady till Friday, when buyers began to weaken, account of their strenuous efforts during the week, and nearly all kinds closed 10 to 15 cents lower. Desirable Western stockers and feeders held nearly steady, but the supply ran more to tail ends last week, a sign of the near approach of the end of the season for range cattle.
Cow market was strong at middle of the week, but eased off at the close. Run today is 26,000, and this will be another week, but it is generally believed the run will slack up next week,
and drop off sharply the week following.
Market is steady today on stockers and feeders, killing steers sell at $3.75, stockers and feeders at the same figures, cows $2.20 to $2.75, with heavy mountain cows $2.75 to $3.00, exceptions at $3.00 to $3.25.
Veal calves bring $5.50 to $6.25,
and calves $3.25 to $4.25. It is no doubt to sell the good cattle at a satisfactory price, but common and trashy cattle is disposed of with more or less disappointment to shippers.

J. A. RICKART,
L. S. Correspondent.

A few days ago, Jesse Barksdale violated the city ordinance by firing his revolver within the city limits. The officer went over to the round up at Cummings and persuaded Jesse to go to Deming. Judge Chapman assessed him $100 and costs, total $125.

The Colonel Abroad.

We clip the following from the Washington Post, the 16th inst:
There is at the New Willard one of the most interesting and remarkable men of this country, Col. Max Frost, for many years owner and editor of the Santa Fe New Mexican. Col. Frost has been doubly afflicted for a long time, in that he is totally blind and without the use of his lower limbs. In spite of this great disability, he writes with all the vigor and brilliancy that characterized him when in his physical prime, and his paper continues to be the most successful and influential in a large section of the Southwest.

It is his habit to have Mrs. Frost, who accompanies him to Washington,
read all the exchanges to him nightly,
and then he dictates to her his editorials.
Col. Frost has lived in New Mexico for about a third of a century and has always been among its most respected citizens. He has held numerous important offices, and has never wavered in his support of the Republican party.

New Cure For Cancer.

All surface cancers are known to be curable, by Bucklen's Arnica Salve.
Jas. Walters of Duffield, Va., writes:
"I had a cancer on my lip for years,
that seemed incurable, till Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it, and now it is perfectly well." Guaranteed to cure cuts and burns. 25c. at the Palace Drug Store.

Two Canals.

The world and the rest of mankind are interested in the construction of the Isthmian canal, and we sometimes hear the mighty project spoken of as too great and too expensive for even the U. S. government to bring to a successful completion.

It may surprise our readers to learn that the state of New York is constructing a new barge line 350 miles in length, the cost of which will equal and probably exceed that of the Panama canal. And yet we hear nothing of New York's inability to complete this great work the estimated cost of which is $101,000,000, which is perhaps too low by $50,000,000.

Both canals and other works, equally stupendous, will soon become the triumphs of the twentieth century.

Imperial Manifesto.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19. An imperial manifesto was issued today proclaiming the ratification of peace between Russia and Japan. It says:

"God has caused our fatherland to suffer sore trials from blows of fate in sanguinary war, but the struggle has afforded manifold proofs of the bravery and courage of our glorious troops against a brave and mighty enemy.
This war, so painful to us all, is now over. The eastern portion of our country will develop itself in peace and good neighborliness with the Japanese Empire, which has now become our friend."
(Signed.) "NICHOLAS."

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe.
As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by all druggists

Cucumber Cream.

Two ounces of oil of sweet almonds,
five ounces of fresh cucumber juice,
one and one-half ounces of cucumber essence, one-eighth ounce of powdered castile soap and one-third dram of tincture of benzoin. Obtain the juice by slicing the cucumbers, skin and all,
and boil slowly until they are soft. Strain through a sieve. The essence is made by putting together equal parts of juice and high proof alcohol.

A Question of Great Moment.

The ability of the various section of our common country to take the initiative in inaugurating large enterprises has depended, and will always depend, on the co-operation of transportation lines that are to reach out for new business. Where it has been found that that business could be extended or new traffic created, railroads have found it to their interest to aid communities along their lines. Shall the control of the initiative be surrendered to the Interstate Commerce Commission? Will the great centers of business on the seaboards, on the Gulf, on the Great Lakes, in the interior, take the view that someone is a better judge of their interests than they are? This is a question of the greatest possible moment.

So Natural.

An honest, hardworking man, who has to struggle from year to year for a bare support gets a whole lot of satisfaction on reading or hearing that old Goldbags, who is worth fifty million, made $46,990,999.99 by unscrupulous methods and that the odd cent was given him.

It is a pleasure to a generous minded man to feel that if he had always looked out for number one, if he had never allowed personal considerations to come between him and the coveted dollar he too would be, if not a fifty-millionaire at least very rich.

Surely the man who has landed his fortune is not so thin skinned and lacking in blood that he will begrudge a poor devil the fun of taunting him with his dishonesty.

The Only Way.

There is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind and body except by nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet or the strength will let down and the disease set up.
No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, sour risings, rifting, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles that are curable are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Kodol di-gests what you eat and strengthens the whole digestive apparatus.

To Make Deming Beautiful.

First, a good ball and chain outfit;
next, harness one to every tramp that comes along for at least thirty days, by order of Judge Chapman. Then make each tramp pull weeds and clean streets ten hours a day. After that is done follow up with paint; give the painters all they can do for another thirty days, and Deming will be the prettiest and most attractive town in New Mexico.

Millinery.

The Millinery and Notion stock of Mrs. J. B. Pease, has recently been closed out to Mrs. C. A. Arment, one of Deming's most popular ladies, and whose long residence here in past years gives her a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, which will be of material advantage to her and greatly assist in making her new venture an assured success.

Deming's Prosperity.

The water question for both the town and adjacent country is being rapidly settled. The Deming Water Works
Co. are putting in their pipes and mains and soon the water will be carried into nearly every house in the city, and the windmills will then "go to the junk pile." They have done much for Deming in the past, but are to be mostly superceded by a "more excellent way."

The Mimbres Water Co. east of town, have demonstrated their ability to raise sufficient water to supply El Paso, and may do so at no distant date; while in the same vicinity, Messrs. Solegnac & Brown have a pumping plant with a capacity of 3000 gallons per minute.
As a town is, in a great measure dependent upon the surrounding country, every plant that furnishes irrigation for this vicinity adds to the value of city property.

In the way of building, all our contractors and carpenters are busy and have orders ahead that will keep them hustling the remainder of the year.
The foundation work of Drs. Strong and Pilgrim's Sanitarium is well under way, and the superstructure will soon tower above the level of the surrounding pains.

In real estate transfers we no longer depend on the sandstorms. Within the past month nearly one hundred deeds have been recorded, and transactions along that line still continue in about the same ratio.

Deming is not booming, but is making a steady and permanent growth, and today offers many opportunities for profitable investment.

Photography.

E. W. Baker, the photographer, who has been here in past years, and who is at the top of his profession, has secured the Dr. Swope building on Silver ave., next door north of the Sunset Hotel.
Mr. Baker needs no Graphic puffs. His work in Deming speaks for him. He will be open for business to-morrow.

Last Thursday over 300 rams arrived in Gallup from Colorado for the Navajo reservation, says the Republican. The sheep are thoroughbreds and are sent to the Indians for the purpose of raising the breed. The sheep attracted considerable attention while in this city, and they certainly were a splendid looking bunch of rams.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before the winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

Honesty in Politics.

Reader, you are mistaken in supposing that it is the tricky, unscrupulous politician who wins in the end. Of course we can understand how you might come to the conclusion that such is the case, and sometimes it does look that way. We have seen several tricky politicians who seemed to be able to fool the people for a long time, and keep in office when they would have been more in place in the penitentiary, but, mind you, it wasn't their dishonesty that won but their ability to hide their rascality and hypocrisy. If the people had really known what kind of men they were they wouldn't have lasted more than one season, but they managed to make the public, that is the majority of the public, believe they were honest.

Hypocrisy is the tribute that vice pays to virtue. The dishonest man understands that the only way he can get anywhere with the people is to bamboozle them into believing that he is a good fellow and on the square, and this readiness of people to take a man for what he pretends to be seems to us a mighty good side of human nature. The vast majority of men are honest and the honest man is not apt to be suspicious. He is inclined to think that other men are honest and that they will not lie; so when a rascal puts on the robe of righteousness the impulse of the honest man is to believe that the rascal is entitled to wear that sort of clothes or else he wouldn't have them on.

The rascals understand that too, and laughs at the honest citizens for being such blind chumps, conclude that they have fooled them once they can fool them always. This is where the dishonest politicians fall down at last. The honest citizens are easy marks it must be admitted. They often get fooled and elect men to office who ought to be in jail, but the time comes when the rascal is exposed and then his day is done.

Simpson is Dead.

Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson died at the St. Francis hospital at Wichita, Kansas, on Monday last.

He formerly represented Kansas in Congress, where he was known as "sockless Jerry," and, despite his eccentricities, was an able and honest representative of the Sunflower State.

He has been feeble for years, and six months ago, shortly after his campaign for congress in New Mexico, his case was pronounced hopeless and he was finally compelled to abandon his business.

He came to New Mexico, and opened an extensive ranch near Roswell, where he was beloved and respected by all who knew him.

The crops raised by dry farming in Quay county this year have exceeded all expectations and are a marvel even to those coming from long-established agricultural regions.

A display of a few of our agricultural products may be seen in the postoffice, the latest acquisition being a stalk of corn 12 feet 7 inches in height, raised on the farm of James Harvey, three and a half miles north of Tucumcari. —Tucumcari Times.

Taft vs. Foraker.

It will be a shrewd and forceful move on the President's part to send Secretary Taft into Ohio to combat Senator Foraker and the standpatters.

Foraker, in the home of "protection," represents the extreme standpatism and has stepped out in front of the ranks as its conspicuous advocate. It is standpatism absolute with the Ohio politician and his ring following; standpatism as to all the proposed reforms which bear against the existing order of things surrounding the Dingley tariff. The entire policies of Foraker and his kind are premised upon the maintenance of present railroad rates and conditions and present tariff rates and their accruing benefits to monopoly. Thus a blow at Foraker and the Ohio backers is crucial.

It will afford a test of the extremist's ability to stand pat on what amounts to direct and utter antagonism to the President's plans. It will show to what lengths Mr. Roosevelt will go on behalf of the reforms which have come to be known as his.

Mr. Roosevelt determined upon rate revision, the precise subject of difference with Foraker. It is unfortunate, perhaps, that the direct issue is not tariff revision; but the fight will presuppose and include, and determine to some extent, the other issue.

Mr. Roosevelt cannot afford to fail in Ohio.

Official Call.

To the President of the United States, the Chief Executives of Foreign Nations, Governors of States and Territories, Boards of Trade, Boards of County Commissioners, Mayors of Cities and Towns, Chambers of Commerce, Mining Bureaus and Exchanges, Miners Organizations, Scientific and Permanent Members of the American Mining Congress. The Eighth Annual Convention of the American Mining Congress is hereby called to meet at El Paso, Texas November 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18, 1905.

REPRESENTATION.

The best intelligence of the world coupled with untiring perseverance will be needed to accomplish the aims of this organization, and to the end that these may be convened you are requested to appoint delegates to the eighth Annual Session upon the basis of representation hereinafter set forth:

The President may appoint six delegates-at-large.

The Chief Executive of any country may appoint 15 delegates.

Governors of states and territories may appoint 15 delegates each.

Mayors of cities and towns, three delegates each.

Boards of County Commissioners, three delegates each.

Boards of Trade, three delegates each.

Chambers of Commerce three delegates each.

Miners Organizations, three delegates each.

Mining Bureaus, three delegates each.

Will you kindly make these appointments at an early day and send the name and postoffice address of each delegate appointed to the Secretary without delay in order that special invitation and information may be sent them.

Very respectfully,
The American Mining Congress,
J. H. RICHARDS, President.
JAS. F. CALLBREATH, Jr., Secy.
Denver, Colorado.

The United States must have a navy whose ships are second to no other ships but the thought cannot be repressed that $6,000,000 spent for irrigation works in New Mexico would have brought more tangible results than its expenditure for a battle ship now obsolete. Irrigation works are never for the junk pile but that is the destiny of every battleship.

Albuquerque can perhaps learn a lesson in fair management from Roswell. The latter has paid all its bills, including those owing the printers. If Albuquerque has done so, there is a mistake somewhere; we haven't heard of it.

The Congressional committee declared at Albuquerque that they found only seventy people in Arizona in favor of joint-statehood. The committee neglected to say that some of the seventy were humorists and others just ghosts.

IN THE BEST OF HEALTH
SINCE TAKING PE-RU-NA

IN POOR HEALTH. PAINS IN BACK. SICK HEADACHES. PE-RU-NA CURED.

Mrs. Lena Smith, N. Cherry street, cor. Line, Nashville, Tenn., writes: "I have had poor health for the past four years, pains in the back and groins, and dull, sick headache, with bearing down pains.

"A friend, who was very enthusiastic about Peruna insisted that I try it. I took it for ten days and was surprised to find that I had so little pain. I therefore continued to use it and at the end of two months my pains had totally disappeared.

"I have been in the best of health since and feel ten years younger. I am very grateful to you."

Catarrh of the internal organs gradually saps away the strength, undermines the vitality and causes nervousness. Peruna is the remedy.

THE MAN BEHIND THE SAW

Has easy work if it's an Atkins. The keen, clean cutting edge and perfect taper of the blade make it run easily without buckling. No "humping" to do with the Perfection Handle.

But there are other men behind the Atkins Saw. The originator of every steel, the finest crucible steel made, was a good deal of a man. The discoverer of the Atkins secret tempering process was likewise a man of brains and genius.

And there are high-class workmen behind this saw, masters of their craft, whose skill and pride of workmanship have helped to make the Atkins Trade Mark an assurance of quality as reliable as the Government assay stamp.

We make all types and sizes of Saws, but only one grade—the best.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

RACED FOR HUSBAND

QUEER CONTESTS THAT HAVE PRECEDED MATRIMONY.

With Bullocks as Steeds Portuguese Damself Sought to Win Prize—One Happy Pair Married at the Winning Post—Not All on the Square.

The joint birthday of King Carlos, of Portugal, and his consort was celebrated at a village near Braga in a novel way. A handsome young farmer named Coelho, for whom several local beauties had long sighed in vain, determined to sacrifice his freedom by offering himself as a prize to her who should be successful in a bullock race.

Several handsome peasant girls appeared at the starting post, riding bareback on bullocks with decorated horns and tails. A capital start was effected, but ere half the distance had been traversed the favorite was thrown and displayed her chagrin by seizing the tail of the second bullock in an endeavor to impede a rival's progress. This resulted in an unpopular competitor coming in first, whereat the onlookers were so disgusted that they ducked the judge in a pond.

New Brunswick was the scene, four years since, of a bicycle race over a course of two miles, between a couple of girls who were rivals for the affections of an eligible swain. The prize himself, with a parson by his side, took his stand at the winning post, and no sooner had the winner, Miss Nellie Donnelly, passed the goal than the ceremony was performed, the groom kissed his bride fondly, and the newly married couple left the ground amid the acclamations of the large concourse that had witnessed the contest.

To run to a point some hundred yards distant, there to change dresses for others laid in readiness on the ground, and to return to the starting point, was the trial undertaken last year at Brussels by some half dozen women to decide which should wed a man who had offered himself as a prize to the winner. On the word being given, one at once dropped to the rear and jogged on quite unconcernedly, for she was aware that the sleeves of the dresses laid out for her rivals had been sewed up. The confusion subsequent on this enabled her to win the race and the prize, who, it is more than likely, was well aware of the ruse.

The keeper of a Havre restaurant some eight years back offered himself as a prize to be run for in an obstacle race by young women. Here, too, suspicion pointed to the result having been previously arranged, for the last difficulty to be overcome consisted of wriggling between two bars so close together that none but the slimmest could pass. Six out of seven competitors were thus put out of the race, which was won by a wisp of a girl, who, negotiating the narrow space with little trouble, carried off Boniface, in accordance, probably, with that wily man's intention.

Equally perfidious was the conduct of a young Englishman, who some years back offered his hand and fortune as first prize for a sack race, over fifty yards, to be competed for by girls under 25 years of age. At the goal he stood ready to surrender himself to the winner, but when he recognized in the leader a gaunt woman of notorious temper his courage failed him and he fled. The balked woman threatened both law proceedings and personal chastisement, but was at length mollified by sufficient money to set her up in business.

BLACK VULTURE A CURIOSITY.

Rare Specimen Found by Farmer Near Buffalo, N. Y.

Thanks to L. S. Bachus, a well-to-do farmer living near Derby, Erie county, the Buffalo zoo now owns what is believed to be the only vulture living in northern climes. What makes the story more interesting is the fact that this bird was grown in Erie county and was grown wild at that.

Mr. Bachus was doing some work in one of his fields when he noted an unusually large bird perched upon a hollow log. The bird's actions led him to believe that its home was in the hollow log, so he approached for purposes of inspection at close quarters. As he drew near the log the bird which was full a grown black vulture or turkey buzzard, flew away. Mr. Bachus then investigated the interior of the log and found a nest containing a young vulture. He did not know what the bird was, but he determined to find out, so he hitched up and drove to Buffalo.

Dr. Crandall at once recognized a rare specimen, for these parts, and he told Mr. Bachus that he never knew of but one of this species nesting so far north as this. The vulture is already a big bird, although only about three months old, being much larger than a large crow and measuring fully four feet from tip to tip of its wings.—Buffalo Commercial.

Deer Hanging from Telephone Wire.

The body of a small deer hanging from a telephone wire twenty-five feet above the ground and midway between two poles was the strange sight viewed by Supervisor Krowles and William McClaren near North Fork on Monday.

They offer the explanation that the little deer had been picked up by an eagle which, flying away with the carcass, struck the wire in its flight and lost its prize.—Sacramento Bee.

Ship 149 Years Old.

Speaking of the life of ships the other day, George F. Sproute, secretary of the Board of Port Wardens, said about the oldest vessel he knows of is the True Love, which, if she is afloat to-day, is 149 years old.

The True Love was built in this city in 1764, and though she was only 96 feet and 8 inches long, and of 26 feet beam, she was the largest ship that had been in these waters up to that time. She sailed from this port in 1765, and did not return until 1873, when she was 109 years old. She came in with a load of cryolite from Ivigtut, Greenland. Then she sailed again, and was no longer heard of until discovered in 1899 in the Thames river, England, where shorn of her glory, she was and possibly still is doing service as a coal barge.

There was a proposal among shipping men here to purchase her and bring her over as a relic of bygone days and honest workmanship, but it never came to anything.—Philadelphia Record.

"Pickled tea is a Burmese delicacy," said the sailor. "A Burmah girl once gave me some. It wasn't bad. Sweetish and spiced. A cross between pickles and preserves.

"Tea ain't only drunk. Down Siam way they chew it. It is stuck together with melted sugar into little cakes and every Siamese carries one of them cakes in his pocket. A plug o' tea you might say—a plug o' chewin' res."

"Some folks smoke it. An English girl once gave me a tea cigarette. I finished it, but such a headache.

DEATH SEEMED NEAR.

How a Chicago Woman Found Help When Hope Was Fast Fading Away.

Mrs. E. T. Gould, 914 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are all that saved me from death of Bright's Disease, that I know, I had eye trouble, backache, catches when lying abed or when bending over, was languid and often dizzy and had sick headaches and bearing-down pains. The kidney secretions were too copious and frequent, and very bad in appearance. It was in 1903 that Doan's Kidney Pills helped me so quickly and cured me of these troubles and I've been well ever since."

Successful Electric Stove.

The newly patented electric cooking stove of Prof. Elhu Thomson is heavily jacketed outside with a layer of asbestos, fireclay or mineral wool, and is provided with a lid of the same character. Inside is placed a mass of refractory substance within which is embedded a granular resistance material. Silicon is recommended as a resistance material, as it has a high specific resistance, and acquires a suitable temperature without fusing or oxidizing. The whole interior of the stove can be kept red hot, and it is anticipated that the running cost for cooking through the day will not be excessive.

CHRONIC ERYSIPELAS

Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Although Whole Body was Affected.

Erysipelas or St. Anthony's fire is a most uncomfortable disease on account of the burning, the pain and the disfigurement; it is also a very grave disorder, attended always by the danger of involving vital organs in its spread.

The case which follows will be read with great interest by all sufferers as it affected the whole body, and refused to yield to the remedies prescribed by the physician employed. Mrs. Ida A. Colbath, who was the victim of the attack, residing at No. 19 Winter street, Newburyport, Mass., says:

"In June of 1903 I was taken ill with what at first appeared to be a fever. I sent for a physician who pronounced my disease chronic erysipelas and said it would be a long time before I got well.

"Inflammation began on my face and spread all over my body. My eyes were swollen and seemed bulging out of their sockets. I was in a terrible plight and suffered the most intense pain throughout my body. The doctor said my case was a very severe one. Under his treatment, however, the inflammation did not diminish and the pains which shot through my body increased in severity. After being two months under his care, without any improvement, I dismissed him.

"Shortly after this, on the advice of a friend, I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, two at a dose three times a day. After the second box had been used I was surprised to notice that the inflammation was going down and that the pains which used to cause me so much agony had disappeared. After using six boxes of the pills I was up and around the house attending to my household duties, as well as ever."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be obtained direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

THOUSANDS OF LIVES SAVED

By "Mother's Medicine Chest" and Patent Prescriptions.

Commenting on attacks made by certain eastern publications on some of the best known and most valuable of the world's proprietary medicines, the Committee on Legislation of the Proprietary Association says:

"All through the country districts, in every state of the union, you will find in the farm houses the old family remedies, sometimes called 'patent medicines,' many of which have been in use in the same household for generations. Among such people the old-fashioned proprietary medicine, always at hand with full printed instructions for use, is one of the necessities of life.

"To families in the country many miles from a doctor such remedies are invaluable. 'Mother's medicine chest' has saved many a life and met many a threatening sickness at the threshold and turned it out of doors. So far from constituting self-prescription, as is often pretended, acquaintance with a 'patent medicine' often obviates the necessity of such a step; for here is a prescription already made up, the effect of which is well known. One of the greatest advantages of such medicine is that its constant formula gives it the character of a single drug, so far as uniformity of result is concerned, and the people who use it know from experience just what they can count on—which is more than can be said of many physicians' prescriptions frequently obtained at a far greater cost and trouble."

The poorest of all churches is the one where there are no poor.

INVENTIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS

For Keeping Food Hot.

A recent English invention is the heater shown in the illustration. It is a very simple affair, consisting only of a rectangular piece of metal on four legs, underneath which is an alcohol lamp arranged so as to heat the metal evenly. This is very useful, not only for heating plates, but for keeping hot tea and coffee and all kinds of foods. Like all alcohol lamps of recent make the burner can be regulated so that the metal stand may be heated to any degree desired. The heat is not strong enough under any conditions, however, to cook with, but foods that are to be served very hot may be kept at the right temperature for an indefinite time. The heater is made in either copper or nickelware and makes a very pretty addition to either sideboard or serving table.

Metallic Tantalum.

Metallic tantalum, which is of such interest at the present time, was first prepared by Dr. Werner von Bolton by submitting tantalum tetroxide to an alternating electric current in a vacuum tube, the metal separating at the cathode. In a later process, a mixed salt of tantalum fluoride and potassium fluoride is reduced by potassium, and the resulting mixture of pure metal and oxide is separated by fractional distillation. The metal is so ductile that it can be drawn into a wire 1-800 of an inch in diameter. Mixed with unaltered oxide, it becomes harder than the diamond and tougher than the best steel and at moderate cost it would be the ideal battleship armor. As a lamp filament, tantalum uses only half as much current as carbon for the same light. A peculiarity of tantalum is that it sometimes assumes the passive state, and a coil of two electrodes of this metal, with sulphuric acid as electrolyte, will not allow an alternating current to pass. Substituting platinum for one electrode, the current can pass in one direction only.

Smooth Electric Light Bulb.

The little point on the end of an electric light bulb must vanish. It is small, to be sure, but it sticks out just enough to cause considerable breakage and if accidentally struck by a person it is almost sure to cause a slight wound. George P. McDonnell of St. Louis, has secured a patent on an apparatus for heating and annealing the point. The illustration taken from his patent papers shows how the work is done.

Concrete Railroad Ties.

Millions of dollars are invested in wooden railroad ties in this country. The wood is getting high and something cheaper must be found. Concrete offers a solution and many concrete ties are in use throughout the Northwest, but they do not give the same resiliency as wood, and good devices for holding the rails firmly are lacking. A concrete tie designed by H. E. Percival of Houston, Texas, is a solid tie, no steel being exposed anywhere, and it has a special variable cross-section in order to keep it from becoming center bound, and thus liable to unequal settlement. The inventor states that the shape must be such as to distribute the eccentric pressure, which he claims to have done in this tie by cutting away the center for 4 feet, making it V-shaped. The ends are made oval, to give a much wider bearing, for the distance of 2 feet at each end. The dimensions of the tie are 8 feet length, 9 1/4 inch face and 9 inches in depth. He also claims that the form of the tie makes it a "self-tamper," and thus easy to maintain. Under each rail is a 2x14 inch wood cushion, which has been previously treated by wood preserver, and it is made in such shape as to readily give to the pressure as a train passes over. The rails are fastened to the tie by a screw pin ten inches long and 1/2 inch in diameter. This spike passes through the wooden cushion and screws down into a socket in the tie, filled with a composition of galvanized steel and babbitt metal. The ties are reinforced with corrugated iron bars.

VENTILATION FOR THE STABLE.

What is Known as the King System is Most Effective.

The accompanying cuts illustrate what is known as the King system of ventilation which is eminently suitable for stables. Fig. 1 shows how the system operates. The air is drawn from the near flow, thereby taking the colder air. The air can be changed four or five times as if the outlets were near the ceiling and yet not reduce the temperature more. There should be openings B B near the ceiling also, but they are to be used only in summer to reduce the temperature. The openings at A and B should be so managed that the amount of opening can be regularly regulated. The flues are between the walls of the barn.

ent arrangement, considering the use of the upper part of the barn, but it has been found that the draft is not as sure as when the lateral flues meet low down, C, giving considerable distance to the outlet D.

Fig. 2 shows the principle of the intake. It is a cross-section of the wall of the barn, showing the inner and outer boarding—the space between into this flue is from the outside A near the ground. The air passes up the flue and into the barn near the ceiling at B. Notice that there is no opening in the outside wall opposite B. The opening A must be near the ground.

The opening at B should be so arranged that the amount of incoming air can be regulated. The opening at A should be so arranged as to let the rain out.

The fresh air entering at B should flow across the ceiling and gradually fall more or less along the center of the barn, where cows are headed, pass on across the lower part of the barn and up the outtake flues. If the air entering at B falls immediately to the floor it is an indication that it is coming in too fast.

There should be an intake every fifteen or twenty feet along the side of the barn and the area of the outtake flues should about balance the intake.

Outtake flues made of two layers of boards with paper between are more satisfactory than those of galvanized iron, because they do not condense the moisture of the stable air unless it is extremely cold.

Sources of Wood Pulps.

The Virginia pine, commonly known as scrub pine, is no longer regarded as worthless except for cordwood. Within the last four years the manufacturers of wood pulp have tried the wood with success and several mills, in Pennsylvania especially, are using it in considerable quantities for this purpose. One Pennsylvania mill consumes in this way 20,000 cords a year.

The scrub pine, whose range is chiefly in Tennessee, North Carolina, Kentucky, Maryland and Virginia, is found in large quantities on old fields, in the last two states in particular, where it has reproduced itself, unheeded, since the civil war. It has recently been found in commercial quantities also in central Pennsylvania. Since it is a tree which thrives on even the poorest soil and reproduces itself with great ease, its entrance into commercial importance will offer a very interesting problem in forest management and one which promises quite unexpected results.

The forest service is engaged upon a study of the scrub pine, which will seek to develop the possibilities of the tree from a commercial standpoint.

On a Russian Street

(Special Correspondence.)

"Now," said my Russian friend, "here in the Alexandrovsky Rinok you shall find amusement. Shops, shops, nothing but shops; and in the shops and market squares all the things you may desire but do not want. A most truly wonderful place, the Alexandrovsky Rinok, think you not so?"

And truly a most wonderful place. Shops, yes, there must be hundreds, nay, thousands of them; and all little shops, and inside the shops, alas! but little light and small room to move, and stuffy—phew! The Russian does not love ventilation. Passages, passages, nothing but passages. Shops on the right hand; shops on the left hand; and in the windows "all the things you may desire, but do not want."

And at the shop doors young men and maidens, and old men, and sometimes old women, very old women, all eager-eyed and garrulous.

They address us, they look at us with flattering and compelling eyes. We are velmoshnia boyaree (great lords), we have estates, and on our estates perhaps thousands and thousands of cattle and horses, and hundreds and hundreds of men and women. It must be so; for we are so well dressed and wear patent leather boots and gloves—gloves that were never made in Russia; and neckties, bright-hued neckties; and collars, collars that shine like forest china; and did we not light our cigars with wax matches, wonderful wax matches that were never made in Russia? And, since we must have come to purchase all the Alexandrovsky Rinok: all the contents of its shops which open-doored stand on our right hand and on our left hand.

And the contents of the shops!—boots; all kinds of boots, yes, even "jack" boots with circular-corrugated creases; good wish to see only—see the shop windows and the people; and many are the shop windows and the people in the Alexandrovsky Rinok.

We might imagine ourselves in Constantinople, perhaps in Jaffa, or in—but oh, the din! the rattle of crockery, the clash of tinware, the voices of the women, the voices of the men (and your Russian, it would seem, in the Alexandrovsky Rinok has lungs of brass), the jostling and the pushing, the waving of arms, the wagging of beards and the odors in the sunshine in that market square of the Alexandrovsky Rinok, which contains all the things which you may desire, but do not want! And again, as we do not wish at present to purchase a black donkey (which to us could only be a white elephant), nor any second-hand underlines, nor any ikonil, nor an astrakhan hat, nor a hot-water bottle, nor a melodeon, nor any fish, fowl, nor Russian red herring, nor any sticky sweetmeat, nor anything else that is in the Alexandrovsky Rinok we beat as hasty a retreat as is possible in the circumstances and gain the Sadovaya.

In the Sadovaya.

And in the Sadovaya a fresher air and sunshine and many people who are walking this way and that way; and some stand and stare blankly at the roadway; and here a red-shirted, long-booted rabotnik (workman) trudging workward, and close behind a smart partootchik (lieutenant), and there a dyornik (porter) and a bootchik (baker), and, yes, there, stepping out of her private droschka, Kshesinsky, of the Royal Ballet! And the war in the Far East, one asks oneself, has it ever happened?—one hears not a word in the Alexandrovsky Rinok.

And no one seems merry and no one seems sad, and we hail a red-bearded boots, too, seem these in the Alexandrovsky Rinok; for bootmaking is a thing in which your Russian excels.

No Sale for Boot Seller.

But we do not want boots, as we politely tell a gentleman who insists upon dragging out to us his entire stock-in-trade. And we pass on. Three puffs at our cigars, and—a lady this time. Yellow is her face, as yellow as the walls of the Alexandrovsky Rinok; and black are her eyes and hair; and stout is she as only Russian women have learned to be stout.

Yes, we have come to the Alexandrovsky Rinok to buy a parrot—a green parrot. She can read it in our eyes. She has the very bird. In Siberia was her parrot born, in Siberia was her parrot educated, in Siberia would her parrot have died had not a great and maiden lady rescued it and brought it with her to St. Petersburg and civilization. A marvel!—a parrot who speaks eloquently Russian—Siberian Russian; a parrot who repeats curious phrases—yes, even religious phrases, peculiar, no doubt, to the Siberians. Nay, she has even seen it "cross" itself—a devout parrot. Wonder of wonders! And more beautiful still the credulity of the velmoshnia boyaree; for oh! that parrot on beholding us flapped its wings, stretched out its neck, and assailed us in one minute with more choice curses than a Russian workman could reel off in a week. And only twenty-five roubles, that parrot!

Babel of Sounds.

And so we bid "prashchait" (adieu) to Madame Avoirdupois, call her a golubka (little dove), as is customary when we wish to be polite to shopkeepers in Russia, and pass on and look serious to shopkeepers, for we izvoshtchik and say "prashchait" to the Alexandrovsky Rinok, where you will always find "all the things you may desire, but do not want."

Race Memory of Birds.

I am never tired of watching my barn-door fowls on the occasion when the sweep comes, on the moment when the brush emerges from the top of the chimney—whatever the fowls are doing they rush in every direction seeking for cover, convinced that an awful enemy has appeared on the roof. A cap thrown high in the air has the same effect; it wakes the latent remembrance of the bird of prey—they see what may be called the vision of the ideal hawk, which is far stronger and more deeply imbedded in their very physiology than any momentary image can be. This theory of inherited race memory seems to throw light upon the origin of instinct. Thus animals often live and move as if impelled by reason and foreknowledge. Fear, often repeated, calls forth the long "ears of the rabbit."—From Carpenter's "The Art of Creation."

Caught at Point.

A child's reasoning may not be profound, but it is generally interesting, at least to parents. Polly, who is the daughter of a peer, was drawing pictures on the slate for three-year-old Ralph.

"Look at this dog, Ralph," she said, with great satisfaction. "Isn't he nice? I drew it out of my own head."
"Oh, no," answered Ralph, solemnly. "It came out of the pencil. I saw it come."

Presently he added, with deep thoughtfulness: "There's lots of dogs in that pencil. One came out last night for Harold. I don't know how they got there."—St. James Budget.

In Hongkong at Night

(Special Correspondence.)

A moment ago the peak was blanketed with a dense fog. It was as if the ebon wings of Death hovered over the island. But now the Chinese mainland reveals itself, and across the harbor and beyond Kowloon and beyond the paddy fields the great mountains stand out black and wonderful against the sky. The moon is racing between the cloud gaps and burnishing the face of the waters and gleaming on the wetted sides of the steamers. Far to the south you can just see the lighthouse, the one-eyed sentry of God's Rock, blinking at the masthead lights of the ships that pass in the night. Between the light and Hongkong is the China sea studded with islands, and in and out among the islands great funks with bat-wing sails move like phantom things over the leaden sea.

Quay Full of Life.

The quay is full of life, for the night is warm, and the merchants, arrayed in purple and fine linen, are strolling in the moonlight. Mr. Wokee is attired in a flowing robe of white and pale blue baggy trousers. Trotting beside him is little Wokee Junior, arrayed in splendor gaudy as a butterfly. The children are cing up and down, their rattles tied with bows of pink and blue.

Over the water from the lined-up sampans comes a woman's voice. She is droning a Cantonese love song. There is six feet two of Sikh police in khaki uniform. His head is shining in the lamplight; it is well trimmed and black as jet. Around his left wrist are two half-hitches of pigtail, and on the end of the pigtail is a coolie revolving and wriggling like a kangaroo rat in a trap.

The coolie is a desperate fellow; you can see that by his face, a face that must have broken all the commandments of the East and West.

not stand sit where they are and applaud. Everything seems a great success to them. To-morrow they will be cooling their heads on the capstan.

A girl of 18 is feeling her way along the shop fronts, her face painted as gaudy as a barber's pole. Her dress is a dress of a million dyes, and all the shades of sunset are blended there. Out of her smooth, expressionless, putty face two beady eyes peep between the slanting lids. She must be blind. But no! She is groping along the shop fronts because her midget shoes are only two and a half inches long. And if you stood her out in the road she would tumble over like a wooden doll. Little Chinese policemen with mushroom hats patrol the winding streets. They surely cannot keep order. A half an hour ago a coolie thought likewise, but now he is quite of another opinion as he sits in a cell nursing a lump on his scalp as big as a saucer.

Guardians of the Harbor.

A turn in the street and you see the harbor and the harbor lights. There are half a dozen black shadows rising out of the water, the armor-plated sides of cruisers. Another long, low, black alligator thing with two stumpy funnels is moving swiftly out of the harbor like a thief in the night. It is a destroyer off on patrol.

The shutters are closing, the streets are emptying, and I notice only one Sikh policeman and two men-of-war's men steering their sinuous way to the quay side. How beautiful and wonderful is the sky! It is quieter still. I pass a shop, and through a crack in the shutters streams a faint light. I peer through and into the room beyond the shop, and notice a dozen putty-faced men bending over a low table. I hear the rattle, the rattle of an inverted dice cup. It is the first sound a Chinaman hears at birth. He Footbridge Approach to Ruined Buddhist Temple.

There is a huge crowd following. It looks as if every coolie in Hongkong had formed up in the scum behind the Sikh. Stray pieces of road metal strike him, but he is not afraid, and his eyes are flashing and grand to behold. The crowd is pressing in closer and showing its long yellow teeth. Their wiry hands, armed with inch finger nails, stab at the Sikh. From his right wrist dangles a baton. The baton gives an angry little jerk now and then like a dog's leg twitching with pain. A coolie, more desperate than the rest, comes within range, but the Sikh has eyes in the back of his head. The long loose arm with the baton at the end swings round like a catapult, and there is a nasty dull thud. The coolie sits in the dust rubbing tobacco into a two-inch scalp wound, and wondering what he has been doing since morning. Along the quay six more Sikhs reinforce their comrade, and the crowd melts away to the gambling dens and the dice box.

Blinding Glow of Lights.

The glow of light from the Chinese quarter almost blinds you at first. The streets are full of lanterns, red and yellow and green and blue; and blue and green and yellow and red are some of the colors that adorn the crowd. I hear the sound of the scraping of fiddles over the way, and step over and look in. At one end of the room are about twenty sailors, British and American, sitting on a long bench. At the other a bar with an array of beer mugs. It looks like target practice. Behind the bar is a woman, the one white woman I have seen to-night, and her reminiscences will run into thirty editions.

In the corner is a low platform, about one foot high and five feet square, and on this two Filipinos scraping violins. The sailors set to partners, those that can stand, and circle slowly around the room with a kind of movement that has the rock of the sea in it. The sailors who can-

UP LIGHTNING ROD IN SLEEP

Queer Freak of Tennessee Clergyman Somnambulist.

One night while passing along the main street in a town in Tennessee, a physician was surprised to see a clergyman whom he knew pass him clad only in a nightshirt and a wide-brimmed straw hat. As the minister went by the doctor noticed that his eyes were closed, and, seeing that he was a somnambulist, followed. The clergyman walked to the county court house, opened the gate, walked around to one side of the building, seized hold of a lightning rod and began to climb up it.

Grabbing the man by the shirt, the physician tried to pull him down, but the cloth gave way and the minister continued his climb to the cornice, and then crawled up the steep incline of the roof to the ridge pole. Seating himself on this, the dominie waited a few moments, and then slid down to the bottom of the incline, catching by a slight projection at the very edge. From this he crawled up again, and repeated the performance until the doctor became alarmed, and, seizing the rope of the court house bell, rang for help.

The people of the town gathered around the court house, but no one dared to go after the clergyman, for fear of awakening him and causing him to fall. For half an hour they watched his antics. At the end of this time he made his way to the lightning rod and descended to the ground, passed through the crowd, and returned to his home and to bed. On being questioned the next morning the clergyman declared that he knew nothing of his night's performance.

COSTUME OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

Remarkable Garment Worn by American Lady at a Ball.

Over 30,000 postage stamps were used in the making of a dress for an American lady, which she wore at a ball at Bermuda a short time ago. Years had been spent in collecting the stamps, and three weeks in making the dress, which was of the finest muslin. The lady appealed to her friends to help her, and the dress was completely covered with stamps of all nations. Suspended from the talons was a globe made of very old blue revenue stamps. On either side of the globe was an American flag, the stripes of blue and red stamps. A collection of foreign stamps was pasted on the back of the bodice in the form of a shield, the center of which was made up of a portrait of the brave Sir George Summers, cut from old revenue stamps. A large picture hat covered with red and blue stamps was worn with the costume; a mask and very pretty fan were covered entirely with pink.—London Tit-Bits.

Newport Transporter-Bridge.

This, the second transporter in England, will be opened a few months hence. The span is 845 feet, the height of the towers 241 feet 6 inches.

Occasionally a woman likes to have her husband say mean things to her because it feels so good when it quits hurting.

CALMED RAGING OF THE OCEAN.

Oil Poured From Vessel Made a Mixture Millpond.

"I am one of the few tourists," he said, "who ever saw the sea oiled in a storm. I'll tell you how they did it.

"The oil was stored in big zinc tanks, where it served as ballast. It only cost a cent or so a gallon, for it was refuse, a mixture of whale oil, vegetable oil and petroleum.

"When the hurricane struck us and the ship was like to founder in the surging, boiling foam the captain turned a valve and through sluices on either side of the ship some fifty or sixty gallons of oil flowed out upon the sea.

"The effect was like magic. The oil made a prismatic skin over the water on all sides. The foam disappeared. We floated in a millpond about 200 yards square and without this dark calm millpond roared the white sea.

"It only took about two minutes for all this to happen.

"We sailed onward. The rocking ceased. The seasick heaved sighs of relief. For a half hour the oil stayed with us, a solid skin of beautiful hues. Then it broke up and sailed away in patches of every size.

"The storm raged two hours. We oiled the sea four times. It was an odd experience."

TO RETAIN BLOOM OF YOUTH

Machine Makes Self-Administration of Massage Easy.

According to the professional beautifiers, massage is a most valuable aid to a successful beauty hunt and the retention of the bloom of youth when the days of youth have flown. Massage treatment professionally administered is expensive and is not always satisfactory when attempted by amateurs. For a recent invention, however, the claim is made that it is a boon to the woman who wants to massage her face and neck herself. The apparatus, as pictured, consists of a little piece of rubber tubing with a mouthpiece at one end and a tiny cup at the other, and the method of operation is simple and harmless. After the face has been washed well with good soap and warm water and some facial cream applied, the cup is pressed gently on the face and the mouthpiece inserted between the lips, the massaging being accomplished by means of suction, as light or as heavy as may be desired. The cup is moved from the center of the face outward and upward while sucking.

An improved sort of spray bath which permits of massage treatment during the bath is also shown in the above illustration.

Frozen Fingers in Summer.

One of the most peculiar cases that has ever come under the observation of a Denver physician came to the office of Dr. H. H. Martin recently.

Mrs. George Rold of Chicago was up on Rollins pass and disparted in the snow until the train went to Arrowhead and turned on the "wye" and started back to Denver. It leaves the passenger two hours and forty minutes on the bleak top of the pass and all around is a wide expanse of snow. The temptation to make balls of the summer snow to pelt her companions was too great to be resisted, and Mrs. Rold enjoyed the novelty to the full. When she boarded the train for home she soon discovered her fingers were frostbitten. Arriving in Denver her hands were badly swollen and she was driven at once to the office of Dr. Martin.

The fingers of the hands were swollen and the flesh had turned blue. The pain was very severe, and it will be a week, the doctor says, before Mrs. Rold can use her hands.—Denver Post.

LIGHTING LORE.

ACETYLENE EXCELS AS AN ILLUMINANT.

Gas for Lighting Formerly Confined to Cities and Large Towns, now in General Use in the Country.

The satisfactory lighting of suburban and country homes requires that the means used shall be convenient, safe, economical and furnish a brilliant, penetrating, effulgent light.

Everybody admits that these are not the characteristics of the candle or kerosene lamp, which, formerly, were the only feasible means of producing light for domestic use in the rural districts.

For generations there was a crying need, a yearning for something better, which was not satisfied. A few years ago deliverance came in the shape of the chemical compound, Calcium Carbide, from which, by the simple application of water, the gas Acetylene is derived. Acetylene meets all the requirements fully and admirably and is being generally used.

Common lime and carbon in the form of coke or coal are the raw materials which, fused in an intensely heated furnace, make Calcium Carbide, and there is no difficulty in obtaining it in any part of the country.

The machine into which the Calcium Carbide is fed and from which the Acetylene is distributed through the building to be lighted, is but little larger than a thirty-gallon milk can, and of the same general form. It is easily and cheaply installed, either in the cellar or in an out-building.

The light from burning Acetylene is exquisite, and lighting experts agree that it surpasses all other known illuminants. It does not taint the air nor strain the eyes and is not objectionable in any respect. Every up-to-date rural residence should be equipped with Acetylene light.

Woman Who Saw Washington.

Without a tooth in her mouth and scarcely a hair on her head, Susan Johnson, a negress, who says she is 120 years old, is resting in the nation's quarters before resuming her journey from Virginia to California, where she says she is to be married for the seventh time, says an Omaha dispatch. "Aunt Susan," as she styles herself, came from Philadelphia, having purchased a ticket there to Los Angeles. When she arrived in Omaha she found she had lost it. She reported the loss to an official and was sent to police headquarters.

The old negress declares she was born on the Nockels plantation, near Warrentown, Virginia, in 1785. "I was here when George Washington was President," declared the old woman, "and I seed him many times."

Collecting Voices.

Collections of voices are being made for various purposes. The phonograms of the British Museum are designed to preserve for future generations the voices of famous people of our time; but the Vienna Academy of Science is going further, and seeks phonograms of languages and dialects for the comparative study of languages. Already its collection includes popular songs of Gipsies and Arabians, favorite airs of Red Indian tribes, traditions of negroes and Malays, and so on. It is sending out special voice-hunting expeditions every year, and its agents are now scouring Australasia, Roumania, Istria and other localities. Its latest plan is to photograph the voices of animals for scientific study.

GET POWER.

The Supply Comes From Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skillfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire and a poor fire is not a good steam producer.

"From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heart-burn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton and in time was compelled to keep to my bed.

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed. All my unpleasant symptoms, the heart-burn, the inflated feeling which gave me so much pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 lbs., my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my household and enjoy it. The Grape-Nuts food did it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten days' trial will show anyone some facts about food. "There's a reason."

Catching Tropical Fishes.
In the Bermuda Islands some of the gorgeous tropical fishes found in the clear waters of that group are caught for aquariums by the use of a long-handled dipnet equipped with a percussion cap. This cap is exploded by means of an electric storage battery, carried by the fisherman, if that name implies, who seeks out and stuns the finny beauties, when the fishes nose the cap about in their curiosity.

Bank Customers Photographed.
One of the most ingenious methods in the world for photographing persons and keeping them in ignorance of the fact is that of the Bank of France. The bank has a hidden studio in a gallery behind the cashier's desk, so that at a signal from one of the bank employes any suspected customer will instantly have his picture taken without his own knowledge.

Height of French Soldiers.
Since the law of 1901 there has been no limit of height for a French soldier; dwarf or giant, all must serve. Before that time the limit was only five feet one inch. Yet the average height was not yet run down to that of Napoleon's "grande armee" in its last years and not long ago it was above that of the German army measured as a whole.

How to Avoid Washing Quilts.

Universities and Business.
"Shall the university become a business corporation" is a pressing question which is very ably discussed by President Henry S. Pritchett of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the September Atlantic. Standing, as he does, at the head of one of the greatest technical schools of the United States, which is widely known as a model of executive perfection, President Pritchett's wise and moderate plea for better balanced co-operation between the intellectual and the business powers of the university will attract wide attention. His conclusion is momentous.

"For after all, we can never too often remind ourselves that the first purpose of the university is not to further industrial development, or to increase the wealth of a state, but that it is the development of the intellectual and spiritual life. This development can take place only in the air of freedom, however evident are the dangers which freedom brings with it. Wealth, power, the necessities of life, may all grow in an atmosphere of limited or of artificial freedom, but only in the air of real freedom can be grown that spirit and that intelligence which shall minister to those things which are spiritual and to those things which are eternal."

Six Doctors Failed.
South Bend, Ind., Sept. 25th (Special)—After suffering from Kidney Disease for three years; after taking treatment from six different doctors without getting relief, Mr. J. O. Laudeman of this place found not only relief but a speedy and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills. Speaking of his cure Mr. Laudeman says: "Yes, I suffered from Kidney Trouble for three years and tried six doctors to no good. Then I took just two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they not only cured my kidneys, but gave me better health in general. Of course I recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to others and I know a number now who are using them with good results."

Mr. Laudeman's case is not an exception. Thousands give similar experiences. For there never yet was a case of Kidney Trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills could not cure. They are the only remedy that ever cured Bright's Disease.

Mothers Are Helped THEIR HEALTH RESTORED

Happiness of Thousands of Homes Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.

A devoted mother seems to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells her to guard her health, and before she realizes it some derangement of the female organs has manifested itself, and nervousness and irritability take the place of happiness and amiability.

Tired, nervous and irritable, the mother is unfit to care for her children, and her condition ruins the child's disposition and reacts upon herself.

The mother should not be blamed, as she no doubt is suffering with backache, headache, bearing-down pains or displacement, making life a burden.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unailing cure for this condition. It strengthens the female organs and permanently cures all displacements and irregularities.

Such testimony as the following should convince women of its value:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I suffered for eight years with ovarian troubles. I was nervous, tired and irritable, and it did not seem as though I could stand it any longer, as I had five children to care for. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and it has entirely cured me. I cannot thank you enough for your letter of advice and for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.—Mrs. Ph. Hoffman, 100 Himrod Street, Brooklyn, N. Y."

Thirty two degrees at Portland Oregon, mountains white with snow, 8 deg. above zero in Montana, with a falling temperature. O, arn't you glad you live in Deming?

In the Womans Home Companion for November the Japanese Minister sends a Thanksgiving greeting to the women of America; Shall Our Boys Play Football? is discussed from opposite standpoints by President Elliot, of Harvard, Coach Sanford, of the Yale eleven, and "Around the world with Alice Roosevelt," illustrated with photographs, describes the delightful experiences of an American girl. Included in the list of fiction are "The Battles Roncesvalles," a story of boy life, "That Other Girl," "The Heart Bowed down," "The Clearing of Polly Jump's Vision," "The Baby's Grandfather," and a third installment of the interesting serial, "The Silver Pin." In addition to other fashion notes Miss Grace Margaret Gould tells of "Styles on the Stage." Mrs. Sangster writes feelingly of "Thanksgiving Joy." Anna Richardson of "Home-making for Business Girls," Sam Loyd's puzzles and Aunt Janet's pages provide plenty of entertainment for the young people. Published by the Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who ask for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or an adult, and if for a child they most invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

Miscellaneous.

The idea that one can be just to one person and unjust to another is one of the great delusions.

There is always a pay-day for all our short-comings and it comes along in due time.

It is wonderful how little most men, when surrounded by the good things of life, will think of others.

Many men get credit for thoughts that originated with their wives.

We can talk against the minister and physician, but we need them when we're sick. We, also need the lawyer to help us make our will.

A man may have the best character with a very bad reputation. To be associated with hounds does not always make a man a dog.

As we grow older we learn something of what we are and still more of what we are not.

Young Lady a Paid Spanker.

Toro 17, O. 13. —Miss M. J. Kelly, pretty as a peach and as determined as a bull-terrier pup, has put out her shingle in a new profession. She is a private spanker. She sent out private circulars notifying parents that she will correct children for a reasonable consideration, and is ready at all hours to visit homes where her services are required. "I used to be a teacher of gymnastics," she said. "One day I went to see a friend of mine and found her crying."

"Harry is just worrying me to death," she said. "His father is away and he knows I can't punish him, so he is doing everything naughty he can think of. I'll punish him," I said, and I did.

"I took Master Harry, a sturdy young man of 11, into the nursery and spanked him well. Every time Harry needed a spanking after that I gave it to him. Since that time my friends have kept me busy, and I am making a living by it."

Insomnia and Indigestion Cured.

"Last year I had a very severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by all druggists.

The crown of womanhood is motherhood. But uneasy lies the head that wears the crown or anticipates this coronation, when there is a lack of womanly strength to bear the burdens of maternal dignity and duty. The reason why so many women sink under the strain of motherhood is because they are unprepared.

"I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, of Mills, Northumberland Co., Va. The reason for this advice is that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best preparative for the maternal function. No matter how healthy and strong a woman may be, she cannot use "Favorite Prescription" as a preparative for maternity without gain of health and comfort. But it is the women who are not strong who best appreciate the great benefits received from the use of "Favorite Prescription." For one thing its use makes the baby's advent practically painless. It has in many cases reduced days of suffering to a few brief hours. It has changed the period of anxiety and struggle into a time of ease and comfort.

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $50 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Protrusion or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, of Buffalo, N. Y., ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Plans to Get Rich

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Mr. D. Kauble, of Nevada, O., says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me."

Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure.

Eight chinaman are here in durance for being in this country without certificates. One has plead guilty, one has something he calls a certificate, the other six will not plead guilty, three have employed A. W. Pollard, and the remaining three Judge Fielder, to defend them. Sam. Bixler, engineer, of San Marcial, has taken a year's contract to run the switch engine at this station. He is an old employe of the road. He is already here with his family and occupies one of Dr. Swope's cottages on Silver Ave. More houses is Deming's present need.

A number of Uncle Sam's boys went up to Fort Bayard to-day to recruit their mortal energies, that became impaired in the Philippines. They have just returned to their native land, and certainly enjoy the change from the islands' sultry climate to the bracing air of New Mexico.

Mr. F. W. Killie's brother-in-law Mr. Robert N. Arnold, of Brookfield, Mo., died on Wednesday. Mrs. Killie was hastening to his bedside as rapidly as possible, but did not reach Brookfield in time to see him alive. If she was not delayed she reached her sister's home last night.

John Condit, one of our oldest settlers, was killed last Monday. He was hauling gravel for the Deming Water Co., when his team became frightened, started to run, and in his efforts to hold them one of the lines broke and Mr. C. fell to the ground, the heavily loaded wagon passing over him. He was taken to the hospital, but died very soon after reaching there. Mr. Condit was at but sixty-five years old. All of the old settlers knew John and some knew him well.

Kennedy Acquitted.

The trial last week at Las Cruces of the Territory vs. Mark Kennedy, indicted for the murder of Wm. H. Kilburn, City Marshal of Silver City, resulted in a verdict of acquittal and Kennedy goes free of the charge.

The Territory was represented by H. B. Holt Esq., District Attorney, and Kennedy was defended by Maj. Jas. R. Waddill and J. S. Fielder Esq. both of Deming.

The trial of this case occupied several days and it was a close legal fight from start to finish. The examination of all the witnesses was thorough and searching. District Atty. Holt presented the case of the Territory in a strong and able argument. Mr. Fielder opened the case for the defendant in a logical and forcible manner. His argument was full of sound reasoning, and at times pathetic and appealing.

Major Waddill closed the case on the part of the defendant in a clear and masterful presentation of the defendant's case. He was at times eloquent and impassioned. The case was given to the jury about 11:30 Monday night, bringing their verdict of acquittal at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

We do not know what the people of Deming think of the verdict, but all should feel proud of their distinguished attorneys, Messrs. Fielder and Waddill, who so ably represented Kennedy while on trial for his life.

Full of Tragic Meaning

Instantly relieves and permanently cures all throat and lung diseases; prevents grip and pneumonia. At Palace Drug Store, guaranteed; 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
