CHAMBER COMMERCE TO ADVERTISE DEMING

New Board of Directors Met Tuesday and Organized for Big Community Betterment Effort.

GOOD FINANCIAL CONDITION

Matter of Securing a Trained Secretary and Raising the Budget is Under Discussion

The new board of directors of the Deming Chamber of Commerce met and organized Tuesday morning at the office of the organization on Gold avenue.

An enquiry into the finances of the organization revealed that there is about $300 now in the treasury and that the total indebtedness does not exceed $50.

The matter of securing the services of a secretary was laid over until the next meeting that the members of the board might make investigations thought to be desirable.

The board decided by resolution to meet once each month on the second Tuesday at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The secretary was instructed to make further enquiry into the alleged discrimination against the Deming post office in the matter of parcel post shipments.

The proper financing of the local creamery was brought to the attention of the chamber. At their recent time there are not enough cows in the farming section of the valley to support the factory.

The first meeting was largely taken up with the discussion of the general situation, there being insufficient time for ordering specific announcements of policies and plans.

The determination, however, was expressed to go into the community work as vigorously as possible.

THE HONDALE OIL BUYERS GET IN TANGLE AT FIRST SESSION

Organization as Corporation Postponed for Twenty Days Because of the Difficulties Encountered; Patronage Has Been Gratifying

The Hondale Oil Buyers' Association had a meeting last Saturday afternoon, which was attended by a majority of the members that patronize the oil tanks at Hondale.

A great many of the merchants and other business men of Deming hold stock in the association for the express purpose of assisting the farmers of that section to secure cheap fuel oil.

MAN THAT BOUGHT STATE ROAD BONDS WAS IN CITY

W. G. Kelly and Mrs. Kelly of Kansas City, Mo., are visiting Deming for a few days this week. They arrived from Silver City this morning.

Mr. Kelly is very optimistic regarding the future of the state. "Deming," he observed, "has grown wonderfully since my visit only a year ago. Your town is more prosperous in every way and on a more solid basis for future growth."

"New Mexico will have a greater number of homeseekers and land buyers within the next six or seven months than it has had since the land boom of a few years ago subsided," said Mr. Kelly.

MONTENEGRO SUFFERS THE FATE OF SERVA

Little Kingdom Passes Under Teutonic Control When Forces Dominate Capital's Heights

IS A SEVERE BLOW TO ITALY

Belief Expressed that Rome Will Get into Struggle With More Vigor As the Consequence of it

Another decisive stage in the Balkan situation has been reached with Montenegro, now following Serbia in virtual absorption by the invading forces.

Whether or not King Nicholas will continue the unequal struggle is considered doubtful in London; but the accepted view among the best informed men is that Montenegro has virtually passed under Austrian control.

The further extension of Austria's Adriatic coast, with the dominating naval base at Cattaro, is viewed as further tending toward the realization of Austria's object of making the Adriatic an Austrian sea and dominate it.

Italy had so much at stake that officials and diplomats had been waiting anxiously for steps Italy would take to relieve Montenegro, and at the same time avert another Austrian extension along the Adriatic.

The London Times asserts that Italy's interests in Montenegro are as important as England's in the opening of the Dardanelles, and that the prospective annihilation of Montenegro will have a far-reaching maritime consequences in the Mediterranean.

To either side of the lobby are to be located the officers' and non-commissioned officers' rooms.

Below in the basement are the locker room and ordinance room, where the material of the company will be kept.

EL PASO HAS NIGHT OF RIOTS OVER OUTRAGES IN MEXICO

A police order for the deportation of many well-known former Villistas including Miguel Diaz Lombardo and General Manuel Banda; the burial yesterday afternoon of two of the eighteen murdered Americans; the death of Victoriano Huerta; the reported capture of Gen. Jose Rodriguez by Carranza troops near Madera, Chih.; announcement of an "indignation" meeting to be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Cleveland square, El Paso, a series of disorders and fist fights in the downtown section late last night in which a number of Mexicans were wounded and 150 arrests were made; circulation of a petition which received hundreds of signatures, for the removal of American Consul Thomas D. Edwards from his post at Juarez—all these incidents combined to make yesterday one of the most exciting days in the history of El Paso.

General Huerta died at 8:35 p. m. at his home on West Boulevard. Miguel Diaz Lombardo, former foreign minister in Villa's cabinet, was "vaggued" by the police yesterday and forced to put up a $1000 bond for his release, following which he was given a quiet tip that he must leave the city for some other portion of the United States.

E. L. Robinson, and Maurice Anderson, members of the murdered party of Americans, were buried yesterday afternoon in Evergreen cemetery—the first of the unfortunate eighteen to be interred. Gen. Jose Rodriguez, chief lieutenant to Villa, was captured Wednesday by Carranza troops near Madera, Chih., according to an "affidavit" consular message which has not been privately confirmed.

Men behind the "indignation" meeting to be held this afternoon in Cleveland square, met at 8:30 this morning in Colonel Charles F. Huger's office in the First National Bank building to arrange details.

Some noses were broken, eyes were blackened, many arrests were made and the U. S. troops were called out to preserve order before an effective quietus had been put to the series of minor disturbances in the downtown section about 10 o'clock last night.

The removal of Consul Edwards is demanded in a petition to which hundreds of signatures were affixed yesterday—the chief allegation being that he is unworthy to represent the United States as a consular officer.

With a little synopsized music that flyer peace party would make an excellent musical comedy.

Having but a beggarly $20,000,000 left, Mr. Carnegie may have felt that he could not afford the peace trip.

"Ford Pacifists Split" says a headline. Where, O where, can we find peace in this world?

Thus far Emp. Yuan has given no indication of an intention to introduce the open house in China.

When an ardent advocate is so full of prohibition that you can't tell the difference, what is the gain?

The battleship California can get through the Panama canal where even Taft couldn't.

There is a growing suspicion that those Austrian replies to American notes were "Made-in-Germany."

British necessities are different than ours, as what she needs are "peerless leaders."

What a glorious time European cities will have, later on, in boasting of what their population was in 1914.

One can generally figure out all that a man is worth by the amount of alimony demanded in a divorce proceedings.

It is to be hoped that those Chinese deputies that voted against a return to the monarchy had some life insurance.

"Colonel Roosevelt" remarks the New York American "isn't saying anything." He is merely doing a good deal of talking.

The Macon Telegraph says the G. O. P. wants a strong presidential candidate "and wants him bad." Well, there's Uncle Joe.

Emperor Yuan of China is said to be such a devoted family man that he knows the first name of all but fifteen or twenty of his children.

Gen. Carranza's voluminous whiskers have not become entangled in any governmental machinery for many a day.

Down at Panama the broad flat top of the Gatun dam is to be used for a golf links. It could make a better billiard table.

One encouraging thought is that Uncle Sam will never have to go on of the country for a billion-dollar loan as long as those Pullman porters are over here.

The old-fashioned woman that used to complain that she had nothing to wear, knows that she will be one of the leaders of fashion this season.

Well, obscurity has its compensations. Had one been invited to the president's wedding, one would have been compelled to buy a handsome present.

The Stock Industry and the Telephone

No single industry derives more benefit from a comprehensive telephone service than does the stock business.

Telephone service unites the breeder, the shipper and the market in a community of interest.

The market uses telephone service in canvassing the territory of supply.

The breeder uses telephone service in keeping in touch with demand.

The shipper uses telephone service to keep himself informed as to market conditions.

The ranchman uses telephone service in the economical handling of his stock on the range in feeding, in negotiations with buyers and in securing cars and making other shipping arrangements.

Altogether, comprehensive telephone service is a valuable factor in the growth and development of the stock industry.

DEMING, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 14, 1916.

There is every evidence that the strain of the war is being felt by all the belligerent nations of Europe. But all seem determined to fight to the bitter end. Just how bitter the end is, most of them are already able to see. The pacifists now begin to see that however destructive an insane war is, it is an ever present fact.

PREPAREDNESS, WITH A LOCAL "END"

With the completion of the Deming armory, the recruiting up of Company "I" will become a pressing matter. The state will close the armory, with all the social advantages it offers, unless the military necessity is first served. Deming could easily support a company of more than a hundred men.

Many young men would be willing to join the company, if encouraged by their employers. All the time required of the members is a short drill period each week in the evening, and a brief attendance at camp each summer. The employers of members can lose nothing in services, provided that they make plans ahead of time.

There is no need of urging the military necessity of the matter; appealing to patriotism, or pointing out the great benefit to each individual by this valuable training. The one great problem that the nation is facing today is the need of a trained force for national defense. Every man owes a duty to the government that assures him in the peaceful possession of his property and liberty in his pursuit of happiness. The greatest need of the young men of this generation is discipline. To learn to obey orders must be the first effort of those that aspire to give orders. The mere fact that American youths have a distaste for discipline is proof that they need it, and only those that have learned to how to it will ever accomplish all that nature endowed them with powers to do.

AN ACTIVE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The new board of the chamber of commerce gives promise of an understanding of the new conditions and problems that confront the community. Given the proper support, the Graphic believes that the members will evolve plans and execute them in a way that will mean new impulse to the upbuilding of the community.

The first need is clearly an adequate amount of money to carry on the work in a conservative way. Without solicitation, the business men are now contributing enough to meet overhead expenses. The amount can easily be doubled, making expansion possible. The amount, $4000, is thought to be adequate and easy to raise.

The matter of hiring a secretary has been taken under earnest advisement. An effort will be made to secure the services of a man trained in the work of publicity. This doesn't mean a "glad hander" any more, but one capable of the faithful and intelligent performance of the work of adding to the details of community enterprises, and a keen watcher for the opportunities that offer the securing of benefits, and a good judge of advertising values.

The support of the creamery is deemed essential. Just how the support can be given to the best advantage is still an open question. Many look with disfavor on a cooperative enterprise, because they do not believe that it can succeed. But all agree that the creamery must be maintained. The securing of a quarry is another question that is agitating the directors. The success of the Honda enterprise under private management has given a new outlook on this possibility.

THE FRUITS OF "WATCHFUL WAITING"

All accounts of the killing of the nineteen Americans Monday at Santa Ysabel, Chihuahua, agree that they died game, as Americans ought to die and as they are willing to die. Along the border there is a tense feeling that this is to be the last of the sacrifices offered by the Washington government to "watchful waiting," a mistaken policy that leaves nothing to do in the present instance but protest and make demands that will be flouted, as all other demands have been, because of the lack of force back of them. The outrage is the direct result of the weak and vacillating policy that has been followed the last two administrations, and the lives lost are not chargeable to the so-called bandits, who know not acknowledge no restraint except that imposed by force. They are no more responsible than the devastating hurricane.

Secretary Lansing in his statement is concerned more with the defense of the administration than with the protection of American life and the sustaining of the national honor. The people will not approve his stand that the administration is blameless, because some time ago it warned Americans away from Mexico. The recognizing of a de facto government in Mexico was the expression of the belief that order could be maintained, and that there was a government that could be held responsible for the safety of foreigners. The Americans slain were on a peaceful mission at the invitation of the Carranza government. They are victims of the incessant meddling in Mexican affairs by the Washington government. They were killed in revenge for acts of the Washington government. What will that government do about it?

There will be nothing done, according to indication, except a request for the punishment of the bandits and giving of new guarantees for the safety of Americans in Mexico. This means nothing so far as sustaining American rights is concerned. It is about as satisfying as kicking the chair on which you stubbed your toe in the dark.

The essential fact that they have dared to do this thing and feel safe in doing it over again, remains as before. It is only one of similar acts during the past five years that has meant the death of 300 American citizens, not including the ones that lost their lives in the "comedy" at Vera Cruz. The expression by the president that "we are too proud to fight," leaves nothing that can be done toward the correction of the present condition. It is an invitation to greater outrage.

What congress will do, is another speculation. Politics here enter again. The majority in congress are placed in the position of having to defend the administration, and only a direct and unmistakable demand from the voters will cause their representatives to acknowledge the mistakes of the past.

But the condition can not go on forever. American citizens will not forebear with patience always. The politicians that point out that it will cost lives and money to rehabilitate American prestige in Mexico, will be found in their hypocrisy. Intervention would never have been necessary had a strong policy, that offered full protection to Americans abroad, been adopted in the first place. The war that is to come was engendered in the hearts of those shallow statesmen that were afraid to assert American rights and to back their demands up by the boundless moral and physical power of a great people.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES

Washington—The Mexican situation has been brought to the boiling point again by the execution of the American mining men near Chihuahua. In congress, at the white house, and at the state department it has entirely displaced all other international affairs.

Secretary of State Lansing, after sending a demand for satisfaction to Gen. Carranza, issued a statement declaring it was to be explored that the Americans had not followed the state department's warning against exposing their lives in the guerrilla warfare region, and adding:

"Every step will be taken to see that the perpetrators of this dastardly crime are apprehended and punished."

It was announced at the state department that Secretary Lansing's protest went by telegraph to American Consul Hillman at Queretaro and demands protection for Americans in the district said to be under the control of the de facto government of Mexico. It denounces the murders as "a dastardly outrage."

The dispatch asserts the murdered men were traveling under safe conducts issued by military commanders of the Carranza government. All accounts agree that they were slain solely because they were Americans.

In the senate, an expected storm broke as soon as it assembled. Senator Sherman, Republican, introduced a resolution proposing that unless Gen. Carranza gives proper protection to foreign life and property the United States should invite the Pan-American conference which have associated in Mexican affairs, to join in restoring order and government in Mexico. Senator Sherman's resolution was read in the senate and, without comment or discussion of any kind was referred to the foreign relations committee.

In the house, Representative Dyer, Republican, introduced a similar resolution calling on the president to inform congress whether or not he believed the time had come to abandon the "watchful waiting" policy. Other members gave notice of their intention to make speeches. The administration was not without its defenders, who gave notice that they also would speak.

Although the white house and the state department exhibited evidences of concern, there has been no indication of proceeding further than calling upon General Carranza to punish the bandits that executed the Americans and to give proper guarantees for the lives of foreigners. There has been no outward indication of any change in the Mexican policy.

Raining in a rain of bullets, falling down a steep embankment, rolling out of sight and continuing to run until he was exhausted, Tom Holmes, the sole survivor of the Cox Mining Company's party of Americans, reached El Paso Tuesday morning with the first details of the massacre of the Americans by Mexican bandits near Santa Ysabel at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

In a close personal friend, who accompanied him to the border, Holmes, in snatches and disconnected statements told the complete story of the awful experiences the eighteen Americans passed through to their death near Santa Ysabel.

General Manager Watson, Tom Holmes, Tom Evans, and Robert McHaffon alighted from the train when the Mexican engineer whistled for the obstruction ahead and then stopped. As they stepped to the ground they saw about fifteen Mexicans with rifles on a rise of ground to the right of the railroad track and only a short distance from it.

Those men began firing on the Americans that were standing beside the train. Hearing the shots, Watson, Evans, McHaffon and Holmes ran around the end of the train and into the brush and rocks of an embankment which flanked the track on the left side. Watson ran one way, Evans ran another and was first to fall. Watson, who ran down the track in the direction the train was headed and toward the rocks and foothills, was also killed, as was McHaffon, who was running with Holmes, they being separated by only a short distance as they ran for their lives.

McHaffon ran toward the hills in almost an opposite direction from Watson and at an angle of forty-five degrees from the railroad track. As he ran he heard McHaffon fall and groan, and then, Holmes says, he fell down the ravine. He continued to run on down the ravine. He came into plain view of the men that were doing the shooting and saw their horses and seventy men a short distance back of the place where the fifteen men were doing the firing.

In a group to the right of this second crowd of bandits were a large number of horses and men, Holmes estimating them at 200. He heard the shooting and knew that his companions were being murdered, although he saw only McHaffon and Watson fall. He continued running and walking until he came to a ranch where he was given a horse on which he rode to Chihuahua.

In the mean time, according to the Mexican train crew, the other Americans were taken from the train and shot. This report was brought back from Chihuahua by the Mexican trainmen and passengers, of whom there were about 150. The death train was headed back to Chihuahua with all of the Mexicans on board. From these men a confirmed story was gathered by the Americans in Chihuahua and brought to the border Tuesday morning.

According to this story, Watson's head was blown off by an explosive bullet which struck him in the back of the head as he ran.

W. J. Wallace was the first man to be led from the train after the four Americans ran. After the bandits were satisfied that they had killed the four, they approached the train and led Wallace from his car and shot him in the head. E. L. Robinson was the next one to be shot.

The Mexican trainmen say that all died gamely, fighting for their lives.

The British forces under General Townshend have made several sorties from Kut El Amara on the Tigris, each time being repulsed with loss, according to a current statement of the Turkish war office. The official statement says the British forces has been driven out.

A long range naval battle in the Black sea between the Turkish warship Sultan Selim, formerly the German cruiser Goben, and the Russian battleship Empress Maria, is reported by Constantinople. The latter was hit by the Sultan Selim, it is said.

The German offensive in the Champagne on Sunday was preceded by a 24-hour bombardment, one of the heaviest the Germans have yet developed against the French lines, a Paris dispatch states. A prompt counter attack gave the Germans no time to organize the positions they carried and negated their efforts, the dispatch adds.

LOCAL NATIONAL GUARDSMEN WIN HIGHEST OF ALL HONORS

Capt. A. W. Brook has just received from Adjutant General H. T. Herring the Governor's Cup, won by Co. I, N. M. X. G., for the highest mark for general efficiency. The award was made by a board of officers of the regiment during the shoot at Las Vegas last fall. It was found that the local company led its nearest competitor by eight points.

The Governor's cup is the offering of Governor W. C. McDonald, to be competed for each year. Company F. of Santa Fe won the cup at the maneuvers held here in 1914. It was this same year that Company I, just organized, won the trophy for the highest score in mid-range shooting.

John G. Warren of Engle arrived in the city Tuesday.

A. W. Brook and the Misses Margaret Randolph, Faye McKeyes, and Helen Swape motored to Columbus Saturday to attend the ball given by the officers of the Thirteenth U. S. Cavalry. While there they were the guests of Capt. and Mrs. T. F. Ryan.

There is no clue to the manner of death.

Another skeleton, which could not be identified, was found under some rocks on the Gutter ranch near the town of Cuervo.

High School Notes

The superintendent reports that the limit sheets for the various grades have been submitted by the teachers. In spite of the fact that there was a complete change of books in the fall and a large amount of reviewing necessary as a consequence, a large majority of the grades in the system have reached the required limits.

Those grades that have not covered the work will continue from the points which they have now reached in the next term. By the close of the next term it is confidently hoped that the work will be entirely covered.

Examinations begin Wednesday. The students are looking forward to them with more confidence. All of the students that have made an average on ninety per cent in any subject and whose department is not below ninety will be exempt from that subject. It appears from the record that a smaller percentage of students will be forced to take the examinations on account of low department than at any previous examination.

"Do It Electrically"

Don't move into a House that isn't wired for electricity

Modern comfort demands electric service. Especially is this true since

EDISON MAZDA LAMPS have made electric light a real economy.

Everyone has always appreciated the safety, convenience and superiority of electric light. Now EDISON MAZDA Lamps add to these acknowledged advantages—by giving you three times the light you've been getting with old-style carbon lamps—without using any more electricity. That means 3 times as much light in each room—or, 3 times as many rooms lighted—or, 3 times as many hours of light—at the old cost. Our "New Customer" proposition will be of interest to you, if your house is not already wired.

Mutt and Jeff in College

The best evidence a theater management can show his patrons as to actual merits of an attraction that he is offering for their approval are the undisputed facts concerning its success elsewhere. What is said here concerning the success of Gus Hill's production of Bud Fisher's great cartoon play, MUTT AND JEFF in college, edging to the Crystal theater tomorrow night, can easily be verified in the news columns of most any newspaper. More than 500 of the prominent newspapers throughout the country are running the clever cartoons daily. The newspapers are paying a big bonus for the privilege of getting the Fisher cartoons as they attract its readers. They have proven the biggest hit since cartoon pictures have become the feature of the daily papers.

Millions of persons open their papers to the funny page to see Mutt and Jeff. You can imagine with what pleasure people look forward to these funny fellows in real life, depicting by clever flesh and blood actors, who are physically fitted to properly portray every movement that Bud Fisher has conceived to be funny. Mutt and Jeff have actually made a sensation never before known to the theatrical world. In New York City, where the play ran to record business at the Manhattan Opera house, in Chicago, where it ran fifteen weeks to actual capacity business, and in every large city or small city over the entire country, it rang from the most conservative critics the enviable title of being the greatest financial success in a quarter of a century. You don't want any better evidence of success, do you? The big New York company with all the arguments that won its success will be here. Get your seats reserved now at the Rosser drug store.

The Deming High School basketball team scored another victory last Friday night. The town team was defeated by a score of 37 to 15. Although there were too many fouls made on both sides, due partly to new rules, the game was the best played this season. Neither side showed very good team work. The high school team was in far better training than the town team and showed better individual playing.
