Death of W. D. Close

Through the death of W. D. Close, who was buried last Sunday in the cemetery at this place, the valley loses a man of much worth. Mr. Close had been one of our leading citizens and his death will be a great loss to the community.

Mr. Close had gone to El Paso for treatment, going down there about a week before his death, and previous to that time he had been quite ill at his home, with the dreaded malady of Bright's disease. He had improved somewhat and it was thought that the treatment at the hospital would be of benefit. The effects of the disease could not be controlled and his death was announced at this place last Saturday, with the announcement that the remains would arrive on the eleven o'clock train, and after services at the church, interment in the local cemetery would follow. Arrangements for paying due respect to him were made by having the 13th cavalry band and detachment of soldiers accompanying the body from the depot to the grave, the remains being conveyed in one of the outfits from the wagon train. The casket was covered with American flags.

The deceased was an old soldier, having fought in the war of the rebellion or 1861-5, and at the time of his death was 80 years old; was born in Mason county, Illinois, in 1834.

He has been an active man throughout his life and one of considerable prominence. He had lived in Old home prior to coming to this place. He was during the time he had been here doing much toward the development of this country in that he was putting his place in cultivation and improving it and making it a place of value. Uncle Billy, as he was known to the people of this community, was a man with a friendly nature and had many friends who mourn his death.

His death reminds the editor of the fact that several years ago after Mr. Close had been county treasurer of Luna County, Okla., he checked the accounts of Mr. Close and it was remembered correctly the accounts for the term were found to show they lacked but a dollar or two of being exact and that that small amount was due Mr. Close.

To Mrs. Close and the children the people of the community extend the most heartfelt sympathy in the hour of sorrow.

MAN'S LITTLE DAY

First thing a fellow knows at morn
He's born;
Then, say, at ten o'clock, the next
He's vexed
By readin', writin', arithmetic,
Till sick.
At noon he has to go to work,
Or shirk.
Then, 'round 'bout two, he takes "for life"
A wife.
From two to time to bring in lights
He fights
An struggles with his fellow men,
And then
He sits around awhile and thinks,
And blinks
And when at last it's time for bed,
He's dead.

Village Trustees Meet

At the meeting of the village trustees last Tuesday evening the marshall was instructed to pay particular attention to all places and conditions that might cause ill health. The marshall should investigate carefully and if any places are found that are in an unsanitary condition he should sootient the condition is made healthy. The flies have been unusually troublesome this year and the breeding places of mosquitoes should be destroyed. It is well that a healthy condition is maintained at this time of the year.

Home grown watermelons will soon be on the market. Farnor Barringer brought in the first of the season the other day and reports the crop coming along in due shape. How glad we will be when they are hauled to town in wagon loads. There is nothing better than a Mimbres Valley watermelon.

The amount was due Mr. Close.

To Mrs. Close and the children the people of the community extend the most heartfelt sympathy in the hour of sorrow.

Leaves For Arizona

T. A. White left the first of the week for Arizona and on Tuesday he will be notified the flocks here he had bought location at Safford, and that they should pack the household goods and follow him to that place. We have not been informed what the nature of the business is into which he will embark but Mr. White has proved to be a hustler and will no doubt meet with success in his undertaking.

Clyde Darby is the latest immigrant to come to this place, he having arrived from Bannington, California the first of the week and has moved his car load of household goods and farming implements to his place which is several miles north of Columbus, which is known to some as the Megilese place.

The dog license tags will be here in a short time and the village marshall will supply you one for your dog as well as give you a receipt for your dog tax. We have about eight hundred registered dogs in tow and the number will be reduced in the fall as it should so says the marshall.

A Model Garden

On Sunday at six o'clock Mr. and Mrs. J. F. White entertained Miss Besendee and Miss Otis at dinner. The delicious dinner included besides numerous delicacies the finest Columbus brand of fried chicken and several varieties of choice vegetables raised in Mr. White's garden. Anyone who doubts Columbus' ability to raise the very finest of garden truck should see Mr. White's garden. One should scarcely wish a more beautiful sight than the thrifty growth of peas, beans, corn, radishes, lettuce, okra, squash, pumpkins, peanuts, melons etc. The vines with large bunches of grapes hanging on them and the large trees, one accustomed to eastern trees, come sincere believe them to be of only one and two years growth. Mrs. White's flower garden and especially her choice collection of roses are also well worthy seeing.

It is to be regretted world wide that there are so few people who are doing good and not only amply deserve their tax-free status and are anxious to see that what can be done in the way of helping others to our rich valley.

Entertains Twelve Trump Club

Thursday and Friday of last week Mrs. Howard Alvey entertained the Twelve Trump club at a very delightful house party, the first of its kind ever given in Columbus. The guests began assembling Thursday morning and at noon were the participants of a splendid dinner and a cold lunch was served at 6:00 p.m.

The evening was spent in card playing until twelve o'clock when they met the train from El Paso upon which one of their members, Mrs. Moody, also Mrs. Lewis and daughter, Milford, accompanied giving them a pleasant surprise. The following morning breakfast was served at 9:00 of which all partook heartily. Dinner was served at 12 p.m. and in the evening the husbands and sweethearts joined the party playing whist, after which the hostess served fruit and candy. The guests departed at a late hour expressing their gratitude to Mrs. Alvey and the unusually pleasant dinner.

New Mexico Coke Production

We have often wondered at the method of making the coke that we so often see go by in train loads, loaded in the cars especially built for the hauling of this product of the mines. We read that the output for last year was greater than ever before.

The quantity of coke made in New Mexico last year was 407,915 short tons, valued at $1,548,590, the maximum record both in quantity and value. Compared with 1912 the output in 1913 showed an increase of 54,946 short tons, or 13 per cent in quantity, and of $191,590, or 14.4 per cent in value, according to figures compiled by E. W. Parker in cooperation with the New Mexico Geological Survey.

All the coke made in New Mexico is from coal mined from the Raton field in Colfax county. This field is the southern part of the Raton mountain coal region, which consists of the Raton field in New Mexico and the Trinidad field in Colorado. The coal measures are continuous, but the producing areas are separated by a high divide near the Colorado-New Mexico line. Slack coal is used in the manufacture of coke, and as over twenty-five percent of the total output of the mines yielding coking coal goes into slack, an ample supply of fuel for the coke ovens is available.

All the ovens in the state are of the bee-hive type. At Dawson, however, 44 out of a total of 570 ovens, although of bee-hive type in construction are provided with underlines through which the gases are conveyed to a large flue back of the ovens and thence to the power house. The heat obtained from the oven gases renders the use of other fuel in the power plant unnecessary. The power plant, in addition to furnishing power for the operation of the mines, for ventilation, electric haulage, the coal crusher, washery, etc., furnishes also steam heat to the offices, hotel, commissary, hospital and theater, and electric lights for the city of Dawson. Ex.

Preparing Amendments

Secretary of State Antonio Lueero has had his office force at work preparing the copy for the printing of the three amendments to the constitution that the voters of New Mexico are asked to vote upon at the fall election. These amendments are to change the term of office of county and state officials to two years instead of four, and the third is to abolish the state Board of equalization.

POLITICAL DOPE

The newspapers of the state are beginning to take up matters of a political nature and the Albuquerque papers publish the following as the political situation at this time:

Despite the outward scoffs of derision among some republican leaders at the candidacy of W. H. Andrews for the republican congressional nomination, it is no secret that Andrews is giving every rival candidate sleepless nights these days.

Andrews is an astute politician, a shrewd organizer, and a man who usually gets what he goes after. To be sure he failed to land as a United States senator at the meeting of the first state legislature, but he deadlocked the balloting for several weeks and it was broken only when he voluntarily withdrew from the race. At that time it was generally understood that Andrews was to be "taken care of" by the party, and since he has entered the congressional race this year, many of his friends demand that he be rewarded.

The dark horse candidate boom so far is confined to talk. It is admitted when the convention meets the fight for the nomination will be waged in open session, with Elfego Baca, B. S. Rodey and W. H. Andrews forming a trio.

It still is a foregone conclusion than congressman H. B. Fergusson will be renominated by the Democrats, while the past week has seen Progressive party sentiment molding strongly in favor of former governor Miguel A. Otero as that party's candidate. Otero is a Spanish-American, and a man with a large following in the time up to July 1st, of this New Mexico, gained through year. This report is made his administration of nine years as the governor of the territory of New Mexico. In fact, with Andrews and Fergusson ultimately fighting it out in the campaign this fall, Otero might succeed in getting enough of the Republican and Democratic vote, with Progressive support to carry the election by a safe plurality.

No one disputes the oft-repeated assertion that New Mexico is to have a strenuous congressional campaign this fall.

ADOPT THIS AMENDMENT

Under Joint Resolution No. 9, second session of the first legislature, an amendment to article ten of the state constitution is submitted, and the amendment will be voted on at the general election this fall. The proposed amendment provides that county officers be elected for a term of two years instead of four years, and that after having served two consecutive terms, shall be ineligible to hold any county office for two years thereafter.

We believe this amendment should be ratified. Four years is a long time to have to endure inefficient county officers, and while we would favor a four year term if the recall was in operation, in the absence of the recall we think the people should have a whack at their officers. A general election is to be held every two years anyway, so electing a full complement of county officers would incur no additional election expenses. The inefficiency of some of the present incumbents in this county and the extravagance which has characterized the administration of county affairs is sufficient provocation to warrant the use of the recall, and if such a provision was in operation several honorables in Chaves county would be relieved of their public responsibilities, and incidentally their liberal "allowance". — Hagerman Messenger.

Artistic Borrower.

An English visitor to New York tells the story of an impecunious Frenchman who was one of the most artistic borrowers of whom I have heard. He would start the year by borrowing a hundred francs of a friend. A week later, he would borrow two hundred francs of another friend and with that loan he would repay the first and still have a hundred francs left for the week's expenses. The third week he borrowed three hundred francs and repaid the man from whom he had borrowed the two hundred.

And so he went on by steady progression to the end of the year. Then he would begin all over again. The man from whom he borrowed in the last week of the year of course would never get his money back. But though the borrower had created one enemy, he had cemented the friendship of 11 persons during the year and established a credit on which he could run for the year following. He was a writer, but he seems to have had a good business head.

Fisherman's Fib.

The Webb City Register takes off its "fd" to Bill Swegard of Johnstown, who lured two friends to the fishing grounds by telling them the following true story of a recent catch he made:

I was sitting here on the bank and had just baited my hook, when all at once a great big fish just took that bait hook, line, pole and all right out of my hand and swam down stream with it. I rushed back to that farmhouse and we got a rope and I went down there to the dam and when we finally hauled the hook with a young rabbit, and got that fish good and fast on that hook, we had to take a farmer's team of mules to pull it out of the river. It was the biggest cat I ever saw, and when we got that thing out on the bank it just bawled like a young calf.

Of course, we are not making any remarks about Carterville having recently gone "wet," adds the Register, but we didn't know the "red-eye" they were selling over there had such magnifying powers.—Kansas City Journal.

Novel Union.

Many unimpeachable spouses had neglected their Sunday dinner in order to attend church to hear the banns read of several approaching weddings.

Rustling and knowing whispers, and nods and nudgings prevailed among the feminine portion of the assembly when came the momentous moment of the announcements.

The old pastor fumbled among his notes and found to his dismay that the all-important paper certifying the names of the contracting parties was missing.

However, he desired to trust to memory.

"I publish the banns," he started, in a hushed silence, "between—between—or between—"

There was a shuffling in the aisle as the old verger hurriedly moved to the pulpit.

"Between the cushion and the goat," said he, in a loud whisper.

Deafness as a Heritage.

An examination has been made of the records of 3,500 marriages of the deaf, and it has been found that, while taking the marriages of deaf persons as a whole, nearly 9 per cent of the offspring are deaf, and contrasted with less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of deaf children as a result of the marriages of normal persons, a very different and much more favorable result is obtained if it be found that the deaf parents had no trace of previous deafness in their families says the "Family Doctor."

Marriages of deaf persons without deaf relatives is no more likely to result in deaf children than any marriage in the community at large, while marriages of hearing persons who have deaf relatives to their credit are likely to result in deaf children in the marriage of the deaf.

Notes From International Sunday School Convention

"We are facing national prohibition," said Marion Lawrence, general secretary of the International Sunday School Association in his report at its fourteenth annual convention in Chicago. "It is up to us as organized Sunday Schools to get busy. The Sunday School is not a political organization, but an educational one. Neither is it proposing a political question, but one that concerns the salvation of the individual and the salvation of the home. We are confronting the greatest forward movement in temperance history the world has ever seen. Thirty-six states must be carried before a national amendment to the constitution can be secured. The Sunday school is the most important factor in the whole campaign. If the Sunday schools will lay hold of this proposition and make barbecue promotion their war cry, they can secure the adoption of this amendment within ten or fifteen years."

Perhaps the most impressive feature of the great convention was the men's parade on Saturday afternoon, described by a writer in the Chicago Herald as "two miles of singing men, 300 miles of boulevard going prima donna with old gospel songs, two miles of waddling people, two miles of banners waving over ad, two miles of mottoes and ringing cries and challenges and tumultuous cheers or cheers and two types of march tunes that would represent John Philip Sousa in one division and the Savoy in another." Its significance in the fact that it represented not only the 7,000 men who marched down Michigan Avenue, but the families of whom they are the heads of. "When men goes bogs will follow" was a favorite legend on the banners and almost invariably it would be accompanied by the more "sabbons most go." A thought provoking radio broadcast in which that caught and held my eye was this: "From my kitchen in the church should go and go that way forever." There was nothing of the "sabbons most go" mystic about the concluding mass; the wood the company was plainly labeled as a part of the church militant, and onward Christian Soldiers was as jubilant hymn. The music more than a dozen played it with variations, it rang out in some voices from the throats of the men themselves and those who lined the side-walks as observers. Doubtless many in the crowd were thinking: "And just think, ever man of them either has or soon will have a vote and won't they do things with their votes?"

Mrs. Ellen Williams, a sister of Mrs. W. C. Hoover, who has been visiting with relatives and relatives in Texas, stopped in Columbus for a short time this week. Her mother, Mary E. Williams, is a widow of California.

The well drilling outfit of R. J. Fenton was taken this week to the camp of Clyde Diversion where Mr. Fenton will drill a well and if water is found in sufficient quantities he will be employed to drill others in the same locality.

We were instructed to advise that there would be a dance at the hall on next Saturday night. Good music will be furnished and an invitation is extended to attend.
