And would the Hagerman Messenger dare to say that Louisiana, which has had a place in the Union for lo, these many years, has no sense "moral conscience," and should be under "military rule?" It is wrong to violate the Sabbath in New Mexico, Louisiana or elsewhere, but it is done unthoughtedly by many people in every state, and the mere fact that this incident occurred in New Mexico, no more unfits this territory for a place in the galaxy of states, than the similar action by unthinking or irreligious people, unfits Louisiana or any other state for a place in the Union. A newspaper should be more broadminded than to so severely criticise the action of a people who, with no thought of irreverence, merely indulged in that which has been a custom for many, many years.

THANKSGIVING, NOVEMBER 28 FERD BOECKELER & CO.

Show Themselves to Be Artists of No Mean Quality in the Bunco Line.

They Skip for Parts Unknown and Large Number of Creditors Mourn Their Loss.

Socorro had a financial flurry Sunday morning that would make any flurry that ever happened on Wall street look like thirty cents.

Ferd Boeckeler & Co. had skipped by the light o'the moon for parts unknown, leaving many creditors to mourn their untimely going away. The dear departed showed themselves to be artists at the game of bunco. They assumed a contract for the purchase of the Park House property. Brothers were to come from Germany with money in their purses and the contract was to be closed November 1. Business at the Park House under the management of Boeckeler & company did not thrive, but credit with Socorro's business men was easy.

When debts to the amount of about $2,500 had been contracted and November 1 was near at hand, there was a sudden and unannounced departure. But let us say no more. If you have tears to shed, now is the time.

THE BLUNDERBUND

MEMBERS of the notorious blunderbund have been very eager of late in predicting the downfall of various and sundry republican leaders of the territory as a result of certain investigations now in progress in Santa Fe. At the present writing, however, there is little if anything to indicate that the reputation of any citizen of New Mexico will be at all seriously affected by these investigations.

It begins to look, therefore, very much as if the blunderbund had blundered again.

They blundered once when they bestowed a halo on a certain boy governor, bowed down and worshiped before him, and pronounced anathemas against all who declined to imitate their silly example. The measure of their folly is indicated by the fact that it is now considered charitable to say as little as possible about the object of their adoration.

The blunderbund blundered again when they undertook to ruin H. O. Bursum's political and personal reputation. They felt so sure of their ground this time so sure that the object of their assault was entirely defenseless-that no aspersion was so foul, no innuendo so base, no open accusation so glaringly false that they hesitated to use them for the accomplishment of their cowardly purpose. But again the blunderbund came to grief, for the only effect their assault had upon Mr. Bursum's reputation was to exalt it great ly in the estimation of his political friends and his political enemies alike.

But the end is not yet. The members of this band of political highwaymen are apparently incapable of learning from experience. They have again undertaken to waylay and rob men of the riches of a good name and their disappointment will be great if their plot is foiled. The way of the blunderbund is
