A colloquy ensued between Miller, of California, Farley and Brown upon the authority vested in our diplomatic rep-resentative in China to prevent frauds in immigration.
Brown argued that the latter consideration was a reason for the modification of the treaty and urged in unreasonable length the suspension period and in detail indicated that the United States was incurring the risk of an international dispute which would have an effect upon the commerce with China and would be most disastrous.

Teller stated that he would vote for the bill because Congress had a perfect right to enact such a measure and beconstruction of the Illinois and Mississippi canal.

The Chinese bill was taken up in the Senate and Slater spoke in its favor and trusted it would pass as it came from the hands of the committee, but feared it might not prove as effective as had been hoped. Under the narrowness of the treaty stipulations the coming of classes other than those specified as Chinese laborers is unrestricted and the rights which they may enjoy here imposssible to obtain servant girls in California he accounted for that fact by asserting that whenever the heathen Chinese were put into the kitchen i greeable, and degrading. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The People of New Mexico and their Territory

The Hon. L. Bradtord Prince Finds Much to Admire in his net

To the Editor of the New York Times.

It was only three or four days ago that I saw the Times of Feb. 6 containing an anonymous communication dated at Trinidad under the rather inclegant title, "Greasers as Citizens;" and yet I have regretted exceedingly that felt at reading the mass of slanders and misrepresentations of which that communication is composed. I have re-read it several times in ormost untrue for contradiction, but the result has only been to show that the whole is such a string of misrepresentations that it is difficult to particularize any portion as worse than another. The motive which could induce any man thus wantonly to slander and villify over a hundred thousand American citizens seems inexplicable; if not pure enjoyment which some persons seem to feel in irresponsible newspaper writing, which they consider spicy and smart in proportion as it is untrue and libelous. This tirade of abuse has for its text the introduction of a bill in Congress to admit New Mexico as a State. On that subject I have nothing to say now-it will no doubt be considered in due time-but I desire to confine this letter exclusively to the slanderous statements from Trinidad as to our people and Territory. The writer thereof, "fter amiably saying that the admission of New Mexico would be "simply de-testable," proceeds in these words: "Without statistical authority at hand, I think it not far wrong to say that about two-thirds of the population of the Territory is of the mougrel breed known as Mexicans—a mixture of the blood of Apache, negro. Navajo, white horse-thief. Pueblo Indian, and old-time frontiersman with the original

Mexican stock. It is a pity that he did not have the proper "statistical authority at hand," for that might have enlightened him considerably. The United States census, which is probably the best statisti-cal authority, would have shown the population in 1880 to be as follows, not including the Apaches and Navajos, who are not citizens; Whites, 108,721 colored, (African descent,) 908; Chinese, 56; Pueblo Indians, &c., 9,790. His suggestion of a mixture of "negro" in the general population is that there were African descent in the whole Territory, counting men, women and children. The increase since then has mostly come from discharged soldiers. While some of the Pueblo villages are quite near Spanish towns, yet no marriage or similar connections take place between the races; they are as separate tween the races; they are as separate in such respects as if a Chinese wall ran between. How any Navajo or Apache blood can mix with the Mexican in reservations far from the centre of population I sm at a loss to imagine. The fact is that there is not now and has not been for a long time any such mixture, with very rare exceptions; fully as rare as in other sections of the country where the Caucasian race meets the Indian. Then comes the statement :

"You may sift and rake this Mexican that is known to him or her as Ameri-

I should not be at all surprised if the Spanish speaking portion of our citizens did "hate with a passionate hatred" the kind of "American" represented by the writer of that article, and I should not think much of their selfrespect if they did not. But that there have been judged by the few rough is any such feeling toward Americans as a people is simply untrue. Every and from exaggerated accounts of the American worthy of social recognition who comes here with credentials to show that he is worthy, or with the culture and manners which bespeak the gentleman or lady, will find a welcome both swift and hearty. No more gen-erous hearted, hospitable people can be found on earth than those of New Mexico. Considering the number of adven- forced by law from settled communiturers, impostors and swindlers who nities and live on murder and plunder? have imposed on this generosity and As matter of fact, the Mexican popuhospitality in the past it is almost strange that these noble qualities have not been utterly chilled; but that sad experience has only tended to make the New Mexican, who originally was committed by the lawless set of mer too confiding and unsuspicious, become who followed the advance of the rail-circumspect as to the character of his road into New Mexico, and have now new acquaintances; it has not lessoned new acquaintances; it has not lessoned the warmth of welcome to those who deserve it.

Of course, I do not mean that the Mexicans admire the desperadoes, roughs, bullies and "rustlers," who are apt to be found on the borders of civiliant to be f zation, or the ill-mannered and vulgar, Times must have thousands of readers who would abuse them because their who, within the last five years, have mother tongue was Spanish instead of English. I simply mean that a worthy man is as sure of a welcome and recognition here as anywhere in the country, and that no such prejudice extensions. I will be as a five years, nave met the representatives of the Territory in Washington—Messrs. Trinidad Romero, Mariano S. Otero, and Tranquilino Luna—and who know from them what a New Mexican gentleman ists as your correspondent suggests. It is. So much for the population so may be added here that the native people of New Mexico had an opportunity me add a word of the Territory and its DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES, once to show their loyalty to American prospects, which are also unfairly rep institutions by something more substantial than words, and that their pat-

It possesses the finest fruit belt served. I doubt whether in any town of the Southwest, and has for a market Much to Admire in his new Served. I doubt whether in aby town of its size in the land that day was as fully and solemnly observed as in Santa Fe. There are to-day nearly forty newspapers in the Territory, and of these eight or ten are daily. Part are printed in English, part in Spanish, make it in a short time a great and important one. and part in both languages. This surely is not an evidence of dense ignorance. Where is the population of similar numbers anywhere in the east that supports so many newspapers

Your correspondent next speaks of the political character of the people, and I only refer to this to cite two examples showing how little he really even that time should, by stress of business, necessarily clapse before I could express the indignation which every one familiar with the facts must have cy of "the Democraticos." Now, perhaps in Colorado they have such people, but in New Mexico they have no such men as "Democraticos. bly he intended to speak of Democrats. der to select the portions which were Then twice he referred to "whisky" as the great agent of bribery at elections.
I had supposed that it was generally known that none of the Latin races were great drinkers. As a matter of fact, it was an unknown article in New Mexico until after the American occupation, and never has become generally popular among the people. The native wine which they usually do drink is malevolence, it must be that strange far less dangerous beverage. This brings me to a portion of the communition to which I cannot allude without a blush that it was written by a fellow countryman -that in which he virtually proclaims that the entire female native population of New Mexico are devoid of morality, and set a money price up on their virtue. In his own words: '.It is a patent, notorious fact, blazoning itself forward with startling boldness, that in no other part of Christen-dom are the women of an entire com-consideration. That any man born of woman, and perchance with sisters and daughters whom he respects,, should make such a wholesale denunciation, is beyond comprehension. Either he wilfully and wickedly says what he knows is untrue, or else he equaly wickedly slanders his neighbors without knowledge. If he has never been in New Mexico, he has no right to speak. If he has been here I can only express pity that he should have had no opportunity to associate with any class except those whom he describes. That there may be women here as elsewhere, who have lost selfrespect and fallen from virtue, is no doubt true; and in a country where large bodies of soldiers have been stationed for years, where the foreign element until recently did not have permanent homes and families and where the blood in the general population is population as a rule is poor, there may prices specially unfortunate, as the census of have been more looseness of this kind prices. 1870 showed that even at as late a date than in the settled communities of the east. But the statement of your correspondent, as relating to the population in general, is a slander so vile, atroci- Ross. ous, and abominable, that words cannot fitly characterize it. The man who

No more high-bred, noble, and pureminded women are to be seen on earth care similar to that seen in Europe, and which seems almost too strict to us who are accustomed to the freedom of girl life in general in the United States. From this difference in education they are more modest and lesss self-asserting than most American girls; but the system produces good daughters faithful wives and noble matrons. Any population, and you will scarcely find man, woman or child who does not hate with a passionate hatred everything will find this true, both in town and country, in the plaza and on the ranch. The virtue of our countrywomen is too sacred a thing to be flippantly slandered, wholesale, by any writer, and least of all by one who is nameless. No people have been more misunder-stood in the remainder of the country than the natives of New Mexico. They characters first met upon the border, feats of some wild desperado, until the opinion became prevalent that they were a set of "bold, bad men," lawless, violent, and regardless of life! The Octoroon Girl.

This is a stirring drama representing life and character in the southwest in anti-bellum days. It was well presented by the Williams company last night. Owing to the raging snow storm that set in early in the evening, the attendance was light but the company played with their usual excellence. Matie Williams impersonates Zoe, the Octoroon, have a little quiet fun at the expense of CARPENTERS AND BUILDERS, with power and true artistic taste. Walter M. Williams renders the part of Jacob McClosky, the slave dealer and the persecutor of the Octoroon, to perfection. He has studied his part and brings out strongly the hatefulness of the character. The support of the company was good throughout and elicited frequent applause from the audience. They are fully competent to put a play upon the boards in a proper manner, and we anticipate for the Williams troupe full houses for the remainder of the week. Owing to many arrived, and Supt. Hobart, who rushes being prevented from attending on account of the severe storm and the opening party at the new hotel, the "Octothis superior play.
