GET RID OF DELICATE HORSE

Furmer Should Dispore of Ailing Aniusal at Once and Save Much Time, Trouble and Expense.

OBy J. M. BELLA I know of nothing more troublehorse." In the first place the ordinary farmer is not a veterinarian in any sense; therefore, when he is unfortunate enough to own a horse that is subject to spells of sickness, he really door not know what to do, and if this same horse is an animal whose value ranges anywhere from $50 to $100, the owner is louth to send off for a regular veterinarian and pay him for his visit and prescription, consequently the horse in question is very apt to die, I have had some experience in the past few months with a delicate borse,

Standard Bred at Government Remount Depot.

and this experience may be of value

The horse in question was and is a good one in many ways. "City broke" (that is, fearless), when it comes the many things that are very liable to frighten a horse these days.

Automobiles, steam cars, bicycles and the like do not even interest him. He will meet any of these horse-terrifying affairs with utmost indiffer-

When I first purchased him he was ow down in flesh and really looked depressed and sad.

Having had about thirty years' experience in the handling of horses and mules of all sorts. I naturally thought that I could take this specimen to my farm and make something of him. I bought him over three months ago and have fed him on what is consid ered by good horsemen to be firstclass feed. At the present writing I can only say that my experience and the advice of my neighbors are at fault, for the horse still remains poor and apparently out of condition.

He has had two attacks of sickness in the past month and with no excuse so far as the writer can see. First a bad cold that kept him half sick for over two months, then a severe attack of indigestion, which lasted all day and well into the night, and was followed by a severe chill.

I would advise any farmer who is unfortunate enough to own a delicate horse to dispose of him at the earliest opportunity and thus save himself trouble and expense, for the ordi-nary farmer does not know what to do with an animal that is regularly subject to these spells of sickness, and even if he does know what to do, it does not pay to waste time on such an animal.

MAKING HOG FEEDING EASIER

gh Secured to Ground by Means of Posts and Fastened to Fence In Quite Handy.

It isn't any fun to take a bucket of swill or mash out among a dozen of more hungry hogs and pour it out while all are trying to get in the trough at the same place at the same time. A hungry hog has no manners and usually possesses a dirty nose to wipe on the trousers of the feeder. The accompanying illustration tells how to feed the hegs without going into the lot or field. The trough is secured to the ground by means of strong stakes and is held at one end against the fence. A spout made of four boards extends from the end of the trough to the outside and is firmsecured to the fence and trough.

The feed is poured through the flow that the far end of the trough is usually reached before it is stopped by the hogs. A paddle is kept by the once to force down the solid matter that tends to accumulate in the spout and to empty the water that stands in the trough after a rain.

Regular Feeding Time. Horses should be fed at exactly the same hour every day. They will fret if they are fed at irregular hours. If ou are compelled to work them before they have finished eating do not feed them again until the next feeding time to avoid colie;

Avoid putting stock on the pasture too early. There is a temptation to do this while the ground is soft, and Court set aside the decree of divorce much injury to the grass may follow such a practice.

Vienna (via London), June 21 .- The Russians have been in general retreat since 3 o'clock this morning along their entire front, after having been forced out of their position on the Werezyca river a short distance to the west of Lemberg.

London. - The strongly fortified Galician town of Grodek, where it was, predicted the Russians would make a atubborn stand, has fallen before the Austro-German assault, according to an Austrian official statement. The river Tanew, believed to be another strong barrier, has been crossed; Komarno, only a few miles south of Grodek, has been taken, and the Austroerman forces are within less than a day's march of Lemberg, the capital f Galleia, seventeen miles away, This, the success of the Tentons contins, means the early fall of Lemberg. These claims were forecast in the derman official statement from Berlin which preceded that from Vienna. The Berlin official statement asserted that the Grodek positions were be ing attacked, the Russians to the north retreating as far north as the Tanew ine. The Austrians subsequently reorded the fall of Grodek and claimed hat the south bank of the Tanew had een cleared of Russians. After seven weeks' battering across Salicia, during which the Russians have been thrown back more than 50 miles, the Austro-Germans are tolay as close to Lemberg as were the

the little city of Lordsburg and vicinity and on all sides there fooms a bigger and better town and south ern Grant county. New Mexico.

Our resources are mining, cattle and farming. In each of these divisions the prospects are brighter than they have ever been. It is a broad assertion but bears verification. It is whispered that a "boom" is coming. The Liberal trusts that an unprecedented wave of prosperity floods Lordsburg and that should it come it will be substantial and well founded, but not as a "boom."

Tuesday there was a shipment of cattle from this place. There were several shippers shipping from one to nearly 200 animals. About 800 were shipped aloge her. Mr. Regala's of Ozona, Texas, was the buyer.

RODEO ITEMS

On Monday, June 14, the school board issued a call for an election to decide whatler or not this school district shall be us bonds for the purpose of building a new school building. That the people of Rodeo are in favor of such a building was indicated at the school election this spring when the candidates favoring a new building and a bond issue were elected by approximately three to one. The town needs a new building for the present atructure was built as a makestiff when the valley was settled up about 8 years ago and was not intended as a permanent school building. At the present time the school has entirely outgrown the building and a new one is badly needed.
