Successful Launching of the Biggest Battleship in the World

Portsmouth, Eng., February 10.—The monster battleship Dreadnought, which, when finished will cost seven million dollars, was launched here today by King Edward. The ceremony was the most simple possible, the king having vetoed all pageantry on account of the death of his father-in-law, King Christian.

Portsmouth, Eng., Feb. 10.—The launch of the Dreadnought, the largest and most powerful battleship of the world's navies, marks the first stage in what the British admiralty claim as the greatest achievement in naval construction. On October 2, 1905, only a few days over four months ago, work was commenced at Portsmouth on the vessel, the first of what is to be known as the Dreadnought class. The promise was made then that she would be launched within six months. The admiralty has more than made good their boast and Britishers have another cause for pride in their navy. Another twelve months, all going well the Dreadnought will be commissioned and join the Atlantic fleet, thus beating all previous records in battleship building by six months. There are two reasons why work is being rushed on the Dreadnought. One is the great saving in cost, but the chief reason is that the ship is to some extent an experiment and it is desired to give her a good trial before commencing construction on any more of her class. Great Britain, it will be remembered was the only power having attaches or observers on Japanese ships during the Russo-Japanese war, while expert British constructors were given every opportunity of learning where in the ships of Japan proved weak or strong as the case might be. These men were busy from start to finish of the war and immediately after the battle of the Sea of Japan came home with their data, which was submitted with suggestions, to a special committee on which sat not only the most experienced naval experts, but the director of naval construction, Lord Kelvin, and a number of the leading private shipbuilders. The Dreadnought is the outcome of their deliberations, an embodiment of the lessons of the late war in the far east, a ship apparently invincible, capable at one discharge of her guns of throwing with unparalleled force twice as much metal as any foreign man-of-war now afloat, while her armor will render her immune from attacks by any enemy's guns, and, some claim, even against torpedoes, fired at the usual battle range. The details of the Dreadnought's construction remain a secret so well as the admiralty guarded the plans. Efforts of naval attaches to gather information for their governments have been fruitless. No information is forthcoming, the answer to all inquiries being the old one that Great Britain intends to maintain secrecy as to what her experts learned as a result of Japan's experiences for one year and by rushing to completion the Dreadnought, will gain a year if not more in naval construction over all other powers, except her ally. Usually when ships are building a board is placed at the head of the ship giving her name, displacement, principal dimensions, horse-power and speed. In the case of the Dreadnought not an item in the design is revealed, the board containing the simple sentence "His Majesty's Ship Dreadnought, commenced October 2, 1905." When ready for sea the ship will displace 18,500 tons, but this is the least remarkable thing about her, for besides the fact that she is the largest ship ever introduced as a result of the far east, she is placing on her fighting machine the heaviest armament ever carried by a ship. In the past British vessels have carried four 12-inch guns, throwing 830 pound shells; the Dreadnought will have ten of these weapons of a new type with a muzzle energy of 49,568, as compared with the 33,622 of the guns carried in as recent battleships as the Majesty class, an increase in power of 50 per cent. In a great sea fight the Dreadnought will be able to discharge every minute ten projectiles weighing 8,500 pounds with sufficient velocity to send them twenty-five miles or to penetrate about sixteen inches of the hardest armor at a range of about two miles. Unlike all British and foreign battleships built in the past thirty years the new addition to the fleet will carry no weapon smaller than the great twelve-inch piece, except eighteen three-inch quickfiring for repelling attacks by torpedo craft. It will mount neither 9.2 inch, 7.5 inch nor 6 inch guns, she will be the biggest warship afloat and she will have only the biggest and most powerful guns. The secrets which will be incorporated in the huge hull are still hidden, but it is known that they tend to economy as well as efficiency. The Dreadnought will cost ten per cent per ton less than recent battleships British built, although she will represent the last word in all details of her construction. In another respect the Dreadnought will be unique, she will be the first battleship in the world to be driven by turbines. These engines will supply the power for four propellers, two more than any previously built British battleships, which should make her the fastest ship of her class afloat. Another advantage of the turbines, as shown by the performances of the Carmania, is that the gunners will have a steadier deck from which to handle the guns.

The gun, armor, machinery, boilers, etc., are ready to be placed in the Dreadnought, so there should be no difficulty in having her ready for sea in twelve months, when she will join the Atlantic fleet, based on Gibraltar, thus being placed midway between the channel and Mediterranean fleets. As trouble threatens on the one side or the other the ships of the Atlantic fleet are moved, making them of the greatest use in the time of war, no matter who the enemy might be. Writing of this fleet as it will be when the Dreadnought joins, a naval expert said: "Nothing as devastating as this concentrated destruction has ever been conceived in the brain of man. It is impossible to picture the result of one minute's well-directed fire at an enemy's ships, and when one minute is followed by another the effect would be too horrible for words, presuming the gunners get the range and fire as at target practice. To this length has the contest for sea power gone, and this is not the end, for the Dreadnought will fly over fleets and squadrons of Dreadnoughts, vessels costing a million and a half sterling or more, each with ten or twelve 12-inch guns, which will engage an antagonist when three or four miles distant, and will pour in a succession of shells, each weighing 8,500 pounds, carrying wholesale destruction in their wake."

most fashionable women in Paris. Another fashion abroad, this time originating in Vienna, is the wearing of artificial flowers at afternoon functions. This is doubtful taste, and although the reason given is the exorbitant price put upon the real flowers, this winter, yet better go without or wear fewer real violets, roses, or other blossoms, than indulge too freely in the imitations. However, the idea has taken root and already some of the best dressed women in New York are wearing bunches of violets so beautifully made and deliciously scented the deception is its own excuse.

Fashion Letter For the Ladies

New York, February 10.—A letter just received from Paris says that jet, both in trimmings and ornaments, is much in vogue, and to be quite up to date one must wear it on either collar or corsage for full dress, or even both if properly selected. There are slender jet tiaras for the hair, and jet collars that can be fitted to either high or low neck dresses. A set of these ornaments has just been received by a fashionable lady of New York. It consists of a tiara to be worn well forward around the pompadour, two large jet pins also for the hair; a collar made of twelve rows of small jet beads; a jet pin or brooch in the shape of a star, and a pair of jet earrings to match. They were ordered to go with a black velvet evening gown, and were most becoming to the white hair and fresh complexion of the wearer. There are jet buckles to fasten the middle of the back and the black and white or gray gown. Jet does not read well as a rule with colors. Add to the above list jet belt-pins, shoe-buckles, long jet chains, and jet ring, and you have the jet outfit of one of the best dressed and cheap or many. There are also simple felt walking-hats that are useful and pretty and can be bent to fit any face or head.

Liberty satin ribbon is a stylish trimming for these hats, as that also can be crushed and twisted to suit the wearer's particular style. The ribbon should be at least four inches wide and can be shirred over rolls of wadding if desired and made into twists and loops as fancied. There is a certain sober turban shaped hat much in favor for street wear with the stylish matron or woman past youthful shapes. These are usually trimmed with velvet in soft twists and knots, with the graceful osprey feather at one side. All these hints as regards hats can safely be followed in all spring and summer plans.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1906.

The country will be very glad if the coal strike, scheduled for April 1, turns out to be an April fool joke.

All right thinking men agree with the president in regarding the uniform of our soldiers and sailors as a badge of honor.

No get-rich-quick scheme can be successfully worked without the assistance of those who want to get something for nothing.

In Germany alcohol is now made from seaweed. If the hopes of this country end this out there's trouble ahead for the seaweeds.

If democratic senators do not now regret making the Santo Domingo policy of the president a party question they will live to do so.

That alleged wholesale smuggling at Galveston, Texas, by a German training ship turned out to have been only a case of yellow journalism.

Senator Patterson doesn't turn the other cheek when he is hit. He hits back; and his democratic colleagues can bear witness that he hits hard.

Many of the eastern professional gamblers have taken to high finance as more of a sure thing, as well as more profitable than the old games.

Chicago meat packers are also subject to attacks of "I don't know," when on the witness stand. Too bad about these limited-liability memoranda.

China is figuring on having an army of half a million fighting men in 1912. It may take longer than that to make "fighting men" of the material.

A bull fight was pulled off at Alacran in honor of the Morocco commission. Not one has yet charged the administration with being responsible.

Georgia drummers are getting overfiscal. They have asked the Georgia legislature to pass a law compelling hotel keepers to give every guest clean sheets.

St. Valentine's day will be celebrated by a party of more or less distinguished Americans by the dedication of the monuments on the battlefield of Santiago, Cuba.

Tom Lawson has been knocking around the middle west, engaged in making more trouble for the big insurance companies. As a troublemaker, Tom is in a class all by his lonesome.

Attorney-General Moody is on the ground and keeping tabs on the trial of the Chicago meat packers. It is a trial that deserves careful watching.

Fraudulent naturalization has become so frequent in some of the state courts that congress is about to take a hand in the game. This is right. American citizenship is too sacred a thing to be juggled with.

Conan Doyle has been defented in his campaign for a seat in the English parliament. With his Sherlock Holmes equipment for prevision he should have been able to anticipate defeat and never have allowed himself to be a candidate.

Yellow "Bull" Hertz, after charging Tammany on the stump and in his papers with about every crime, is now said to be seeking a political partnership with that notorious organization. The office-seeking bug will make some men do anything.

John F. Wallace, former chief engineer of the Panama canal exhibited an assortment of bristles, including a very sore head, to the senate canal committee, but if he gave any real information it escaped the news-gatherers.

Congressman Gillespie of Texas wants to spank the interstate commerce commission, which he accuses of having insulted the house in its answer to a resolution asking information about an alleged railroad merger. The other members of the house did not see the insult.

A WEAK SISTER.

Lordsburg Liberal: United States Senator Warren of Wyoming has introduced a bill giving women the right to vote in federal elections in all states of the union. The senator is previous, in fact, too much so—Santa Fe New Mexican. What is it to you, colonel? You do not live in a state. Judging from your editorials you do not want to live in the only kind of a state you have a chance to. So, why should you object to the kinds of votes that may be cast in a state?—Citizen.

And this man Warren is the same fellow who, representing a state having less population than New Mexico, declaring that he is in favor of separate statehood, yet has the pusillanimity to hold with the east against the west on the weak pretence that he doesn't believe separate statehood legislation can be secured in congress.

The wisdom of London editors is past every-day comprehension... One of them has announced in a column paragraph, that hustle is not speed; that Americans are not quicker than the English, and that Americans lose much energy by fiction.

State Senator Gorman, son of United States Senator Gorman, has been trying, probably under his dad's coaching, to make the Maryland legislature attract as much public attention as congress, by making a sensational attack on the B. and O. railroad.

When a financier of the standing of George W. Perkins says: "I urge all men of influence to insist upon government supervision of the business of large aggregations of capital and upon the widest publicity of their affairs," it must be as gratifying to President Roosevelt as it is to those who support his policy toward corporations.

The Hamilton statehood bill will come up for action in the senate February 15, and from that time will have exclusive place on the calendar until disposed of. Both sides are making strong claims of being able to win, but the moderate statehooders will probably give up the fight if they can succeed in securing an amendment allowing New Mexico and Arizona to vote separately on a constitution.

J. N. FREE IN POOR HOUSE.

Bucyrus, O., February 10.—When the doors of the Crawford county poor house closed the other day behind J. N. Free the "Immortal J. N.," the curtain was run down on one of the most unique and interesting characters this country ever has known. There are few people in the country, at least in the middle west, who have not seen or heard of the "Immortal J. N."

Eighty years ago Jacob Newman Free was born in Tiffin, O., the eldest son of a Presbyterian minister. Half a century ago he became known as the "Immortal J. N.," and ever since he has been living as the birds live, but in a much greater condition of luxury. When he was admitted to the county infirmary the other day he was proudly displayed to the officials of the institution an old pocketbook containing more than 100 slips of paper reading "Good for J. N.," being life passes signed by officials of the leading railroads of the country. By means of these passes "J. N.," traveled wherever he pleased. He visited every state and territory and in every city of more than 2,000 inhabitants he had friends. He claims, and his claim is generally believed, that he knows more people personally than any other living man. Everywhere he went he stayed at the best hotels and for half a century no landlord was found bold enough to even present him with a bill.

In his youth "J. N." was an infant phenomenon. At four years of age he read almost all the bible, and during his teens he acquired a reading and speaking knowledge of no less than thirteen languages. During the craze of '49 he went west and started a stage line. Within two years he accumulated a fortune of $30,000. A partner robbed him and "J. N." then returned to Ohio and began the study of law.

Within a few years he was prominent at the bar in Cincinnati. One day, as the story goes, he was defending a murderer, in whose innocence he strongly believed. As a result of his eloquence the man was acquitted. The same day his client confessed that he was guilty. "J. N." rushed back to the court room and started to explain, but the strain and excitement had been too much for him. He was stricken with apoplexy. Within a short time he recovered his physical health, but never his mental powers.

He became the "Immortal J. N." and started on the wandering life which he followed for fifty years. He was the apostle of "Pressure," a mysterious force which, but for him would crush out of existence all the inhabitants of the United States. He was well acquainted with President Lincoln, and numbered many distinguished men among his friends. During the war he even started out to find Jefferson Davis and save the union by putting the "pressure" on the leader of the confederacy. He got well within the confederate lines when he was arrested and given thirty minutes to leave the country. "J. N." says he will have twenty-nine and a half minutes of the time count got him.

OF INTEREST TO CONSUMPTIVES

Would you like to investigate the Bensonizer Treatment, about which so much has been said in the daily papers during the past year? Do you know that of the 100 test cases taken in the tenement district of New York City over sixty-five per cent were successfully treated? Do you that in Denver a physician has been treating tubercular patients with the Bensonizer treatment for the past two years with remarkable success? Do you know that the Bensonizer treatment works in harmony with the "climate cure," and that patients who take the Bensonizer Treatment are cured in much less time than it takes climate alone to effect a cure? There are indisputable facts, positive proof of which will be given to any one on request. If you are anxious to hasten your return to perfect health, investigate the Bensonizer Treatment. It will cost you nothing to do so. Call on Joseph W. Fischer, second floor, 614 Douglas ave., Las Vegas, N. M., who will demonstrate the treatment to you free of charge. If you cannot call on Mr. Fischer, write us for literature. Our 64-page book will prove valuable to you even if you do not take the treatment.
