J. J. Cox Dead

The death of J. J. Cox at his home in Roy Monday night is one of the ever recurring events which teach us the old-old story that "The sands of the glass are passing away". Full of years and crowned with the record of an upright life he has passed to the Great Beyond and his sojourn here is as "A tale that is told"

Last week he was stricken with the dread Pneumonia, which has claimed many victims of late. His sturdy, rugged health which in spite of his advanced years, has successfully combatted the storms of life, failed this time and he was "Gathered to his Fathers" after a brief illness.

Joseph James Cox, was born (as you were born) in Cape Girardeau Co. Missouri, Jan. 26 1838. Died at his home in Roy, N.M. Feb. 7th 1915, aged 77 years.

He was married in the year 1860 to Eda E. Williams. To this union was born five children, all of whom survive him. They are Mmes. Hillard and Martin Rhyne of Roy, Mrs. C. C. Snyder, of Letts, Iowa Mrs. N. E. Gray, of Parsons, Kansas and Mr. A Cox, of Independence, Mo.

The wife of his youth died years ago and in 1907 he was married again to Mrs. J. Olive Potts who survives him. He was converted and became a member of the Misssionary Baptist Church in 1878 and has been a consistent adherent to that branch of the Faith. His new home which he has so dilligently buided here is left desolate but those who loved him have the consolation of the promise of a brigeter Home beyond.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Christian Church in Roy conducted by Rev. R. A. Price, at which a large number of friends of the family were present. The body was taken to his old home at Missouri for interment accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hillard Rhyne.

Two children, the son and Mrs Gray were unable to be present on account of sickness.

The sympathy of the entire community is freely extended to the bereaved family, for which they are profoundly grateful. The memory of his upright life will remain with all as a benediction and an inspiration.

'Judge' Jack Mills was up from Solano Tuesday. He will have us print him some stationery for his office soon.

The Recital

The Musical and Mixed Recital advertised last week and for which much anxious thought and careful Musical training was given by Miss May Gough, Music Teacher in the Roy Schools, was given Saturday evening and attended by a full house. It was a very creditable affair and deserves more notice than we will be able to give it in the rush of this week's newspapering. The central facts are that the entertainment was fine, that it was well attended and the financial returns, which are to apply on the new School Piano, were very satisfactory. $28.50 was the net receipts and the promotors are encouraged to try again at some future date. The Drop Curtain from the Hall was borrowed for the occasion and it is planned to so arrange it that it can be left in the Assembly room and other entertainments taken to it. The cutting of one door for a stage entrance will make the stage very useful and convenient for theatricals.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Scott received the new Piano Monday and took it out home where a bunch of excited youngsters waited to welcome it. Miss Opal is developing into quite a proficient performer and needs it to aid her in developing her talent.

Christian Endeavor Sunday evening was well attended and the discussion led by Mr. Henson in the absense of Earl Tribble was most interesting. The sermon by Rev. Price following was along the line of the Endeavor study and the two work most harmoniously together.

Messrs. Weatherill & Jenkins are getting their new Barber shop outfit installed and soon Roy will have one of the best equipped shops in the state. The building has been fitted up especially for them and they are going to put on some airs in it.

A. R. Davis' new Meat market was opened in the North Front window of the new store. It is a decided attraction and will force the attention of every passerby by its scrupulous cleanness as well as the attractive display.

S. F. Davis has been seeiously ill but is able to be out again and was in town Monday.

Running Amuck

Wednesday evening a Deputy Sheriff from Union Co. was in town in search of a man who had killed a man at Madora and stolen a horse and escaped. During the night the Telephone brought the news of the attempt by a man who answered the description to murder one of Floersheim's cow punchers, on the Jaritas ranch.

The officers are hot on the trail and he will likely be apprehended very soon. He is described as 25 years old and has sandy hair. He is evidently either insane or a bad man. Floersheim's man is not seriously hurt but had a close call.

Baby Dies

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. H. Roy died at their home at Chicosa Tuesday morning of Pneumonia. The little one had but time to fasten her self upon the hearts of parents and relatives before she was called "Back home". Many friends of the family went out to the ranch to offer sympathy assistance to the bereaved parents. The funeral was held Wednesday, Interment at Roy Cemetery.

Little Walter Floersheim, the baby in the J. Floersheim home has been dangerously ill with Measels. He is better and will recover. Two of the other children, Etna and Lester have been sick too but are better. Jake's family have had more than their share of sickness the past few weeks.

Frank Gonzales' baby is very sick at their home in Roy with Pneumonia.

The children of J. W. Johnson are all sick with Measels and Dr. Self was called out there Tuesday to help them break out. They are having a serious time with the epidemic.

Lysle, Jay and Tell Bradley came up from their homes near Mosquero Wednesday. Tell filed on an additional homestead and Lysle made application for Final Proof on his claim. Jay returned to Dawson after a short visit at home.

Mrs. Bob Scheaffer, of Tucumcari, Formerly Miss Irene Upton of LaCinta Canyon, is caring for her sister, Mrs. Luther Raines who is ill at the Morris Hotel in Roy.

Band to Organize

The Roy Musicians will meet Saturday Feb. 13th at two o'clock P. M. for the purpose of organizing a Brass Band. They have located over twenty Band Men and Instruments to outfit a good start of a band. All who are interested are invited to attend.

Ben Sturgis and wife returned Wednesday from their trip to Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma and other central states. Ben has been taking a comparative view of conditions there and is convinced that here in this part of New Mexico is as near the right place to live as can be found. The relative price of land and land values is a problem which he can't solve-It is hard to see why men will stick to land that will not earn two percent on the money when he could get ten acres for one here where it does produce 400 percent in one year of the cost price.

The Roy Trust and Savings Bank has had a new Front put in their Banking house this week and the light of day has superceded the light of a lamp within. C. L. Justice, who presides over this "Palace of Croesus" finds the inadequate light has affected his eyes.

Pablo Atencio, a section hand, was arrested last week and a lot of plunder taken from Claim houses near town was found in his possession. He plead guilty to stealing it and agreed to pay for all that was not returned. Evertt Jones, Will Davenport and others who had been robbed asked for leniency and he was let off with a nominal fine and the costs he had created.

T. E. Mitchell returned from the Range country near Las Vegas Saturday. He purchased a large herd of cattle there and will bring them to his Ranch at Albert soon.

Johnnie Chambers has been assisting Mr. Henson at the Depot in the place of Orrin Blanchard who has been seriously sick at his room in the Roy home. The work is getting so strenuous at the Depot that one man can't attend to it all and Mr. Chambers needed the diversion from the routine of batching it on the claim.

We are obliged to wire for Red paper this week to meet the demands of the Valentine trade.

SYNOPSIS.

Captain Abraham Rose and Angeline, his wife, have lost their little home through Abe's unlucky purchase of Tensley Gold mining stock. Their household goods sold, the $100 auction money, all they have left, will place Abe in the Old Man's home, or Angy in the Old Lady's home. Both are self-sacrificing but Abe decides: "My dear, this is the first time I've had a chance to take the wust of it." The old couple bid good-by to the little house. Terror of "what folks will say" sends them along by-paths to the gate of the Old Ladies' home. Miss Abigail, matron of the Old Ladies' home, hears of the ill fortune of the old couple. She tells the other old ladies, and Blossy, who has paid a double fee for the only double bed-chamber, voices the unanimous verdict that Abe must be taken in with his wife. Abe awakens next morning to find that he is "Old Lady No. 31." The old ladies give him such a warm welcome that he is made to feel at home at once. "Brother Abe" expands under the warm reception of the sisters, and a reign of peace begins in the Old Ladies' home. Abe is the center of the community. The semi-annual visit of Blossy's aged lover, Capt. Samuel Darby, is due. Abe advises her to marry him. For the first time the captain fails to appear. Blossy consults Abe so often regarding Darby, his old captain in the life-saving service, that gossip begins to buzz. At the feast in celebration of the anniversary of the Roses' arrival at the home, Abe lauds Blossy in his speech, and Angy is sent from the room.

CHAPTER IX.

A Winter Butterfly.

"Cap'n Rose," began Aunt Nancy. Brother Abe pricked up his ears at the formal address. "Cap'n Rose," she repeated, deliberately dwelling on the title. "I never believe in callin' a man tew account in front of his wife. It gives him somebody handy ter blame things on sew jest like ole Adam. Naow, look a-here! What I want is ter ask yew jest one question: Whar, whar on 'arth kin we look fer a decent behavin' ole man ef not in a Old Ladies' hum? Would yew—" she exhorted earnestly, pointing her crooked forefinger at him. "Would yew—"

Abraham caught his breath. Beads of sweat had appeared on his brow. He broke in huskily:

"Wait a minute, Aunt Nancy. Jest tell me what I've been an' done."

The ladies glanced at one another, contemptuous, incredulous smiles on their faces, while Aunt Nancy almost wept at his deceitfulness.

"Cap'n Rose," she vowed mournfully, "I've lived in this house fer many, many years, an' all the while I been here I never heard tell o' a breath o' scandal ag'in' the place until yew come an' commenced ter kick up yer heels."

Lazy Daisy, who had long been an inmate, also nodded her unwieldy head in confirmation, while a low murmur of assent arose from the others. Abraham could only pass his hand over his brow, uneasily shuffle his maligned heels over the floor and await further developments; for he did not have the slightest conception as to "what they were driving at."

"Cap'n Rose," the matriarch proceeded, as in the earnestness of her indignation she arose, trembling, in her seat and stood with her palsied and shaking hands on the board, "Cap'n Rose, yer conduct with this here Miss Betsy Ann Blossom has been somethin' reedicalous! It's been disgraceful!"

Aunt Nancy sat down, incongruously disreputable in appearance, her plaid bow having slipped down over her right ear during the harangue. Over the culprit's countenance light had dawned, but, shame to tell! it was a light not wholly remorseful. Then silent laughter shook the old man's shoulders, and then—could it be?—there crept about his lips and eyes a smile of superbly masculine conceit. The sisters were fighting over him. Wouldn't mother be amused when he should tell her what all this fuss was about.

"Now, kindly, short-sighted Miss Abigail determined that it was time for the matron's voice to be heard.

"Of course, Brother Abe, we understand perfectly that yew never stopped ter take inter consideration haow susceptible some folks'is made."

There being plain evidence from Abe's blank expression that he did not understand the meaning of the word, Ruby Lee hastened to explain.

"Susceptible is the same as flighty-headed. Blossy allers was a fool over anything that wore breeches."

Abe pushed his chair back from the table and crossed his legs comfortably. For him all the chill had gone out of the air. Suppose that there was something in this? An old, old devil of vanity came back to the aged husband's heart. He recalled that he had been somewhat of a beau before he learned the joy of loving Angy. More than one Long Island lassie had thrown herself at his head. Of course Blossy would "get over" this; and Angy knew that his heart was hers as much as it had been the day he purchased his wedding-beaver; but Abe could not refrain from a chuckle of complacent amusement as he stroked his beard.

His very evident hardness of heart so horrified the old ladies that they all began to attack him at once.

"Seems ter me I'd have the decency ter show some shame!" grimly avowed Sarah Jane.

Abe could not help it. He sputtered. Even Miss Abigail's, "Yew were a stranger an' we took yew in" did not sober him.

"Ef any one o' my husbands had acted the way you've acted, Abe Rose," began Mrs. Homan.

"Poor leetle Angy," broke in the gentle Miss Ellie pityingly. "She must 'a' lost six pounds."

Abraham's mobile face clouded over. "Angy?" he faltered. "Yew don't mean that Angy—" Silence again fell on the group, while every glance was fastened on Abraham. "See here," he flashed his faded blue eye, "Angy's got more sense than that!"

No one answered, but there was a significant shrugging of shoulders and lifting of eyebrows. Abraham was distressed and concerned enough now. Rising from his place he besought the sisters:

"Yew don't think Angy's feelin's have been hurt—dew yew, gals?"

Their faces softened, their figures relaxed, the tide of feeling changed in Abraham's favor. Miss Ellie spoke very softly:

"Yew know that even 'the Lord thy God is a jealous God.'"

Abraham grasped the back of his chair for support, his figure growing limp with astonishment. "Mother, jealous of me?" he whispered to himself, the memory of all the years and all the great happenings of all the years coming back to him. "Mother jealous of me?" He remembered how he had once been tormented by jealousy in the long, the ever-so-long ago, and of a sudden he hastened into the hall and went half-running up the stairs. He took hold of the latch of his bedroom door. It did not open. The door was locked.

"Angy!" he called, a fear of he knew not what gripping at his heart. "Angy!" he repeated as she did not answer.

The little old wife had locked herself in out of very shame of the rare tears which had been brought to the surface by the sisters' cruel treatment of Abraham. When she heard his call she hastened to the blue wash-basin and began hurriedly to dab her eyes. He would be alarmed if he saw the traces of her weeping. Whatever had happened to him, for his sake she must face it valiantly. He called again. Again she did not answer, knowing that her voice would be full of the tell-tale tears. Abe waited. He heard the tramp of feet passing out of the dining room into the hall. He heard Blossy emerge from her room at the end of the passage and go tripping down the stairs. The time to Angy, guiltily bathing her face, was short; the time to her anxious husband unaccountably long. The sound of wheels driving up to the front door came to Abe's ears. Still Angy made him no response.

"Angy!" he raised his voice in piteous pleading. What mattered if the sisters gathered in the lower hall heard him? What mattered if the chance guest who had just arrived heard him also? He had his peace to make with his wife and he would make it. "Angy!"

She flung the door open hastily. The signs of the tears had not been obliterated, and her face was drawn and old. Straightway she put her hand on his arm and searched his face inquiringly.

"What did the gals say ter yew?" she whispered. "Abe, yew made a mistake when yew picked out Bl—"

"Poor leetle mother!" he interrupted. "Poor leetle mother!" a world of remorseful pity in his tone. "So yew been jealous of yer ole man?"

Angeline, astonished and indignant, withdrew her hand sharply, demanding to know if he had lost his senses; but the blinded old gentleman slipped his arm around her and, bending, brushed his lips against her cheek. "Thar, thar," he murmured soothingly, "I didn't mean no harm. I can't help it ef all the gals git stuck on me!"

Before Angy could make any reply, Blossy called to the couple softly but insistently from the foot of the stairs; and Angy, wrenching herself free, hastened down the steps, for once in her life glad to get away from Abe. He lost no time in following. No matter where Angy went, he would follow until all was well between her and him again.

But what was this? At the landing, Angy halted and so did Abe, for in the center of the sisters stood Blossy with her Sunday bonnet perched on her silver-gold hair and her white India shawl over her shoulders, and beside Blossy stood Capt. Samuel Darby with a countenance exceedingly radiant, his hand clasped fast in that of the aged beauty.

"Oh, hurry, Sister Angy and Brother Abe!" called Blossy. "We were waiting for you, and I've got some news for all my friends." She waited smilingly for them to join the others; then with a gesture which included every member of the household, she proceeded: "The pink tea, I want you all to know, had a double significance, and first, of course, it was to celebrate the anniversary of Brother Abe's sojourn with us; but next it was my farewell to the Home." Here Blossy gurgled and gave the man at her right so coy a glance that Samuel's face flamed red and he hung his head lower to one side than usual, like a little boy that had been caught stealing apples. "I left the tea a trifle early—you must forgive me, Brother Abe, but I heard the train-whistle." Abe stood beside Angeline, rooted in astonishment, while Blossy continued to address him directly. "You gave Samuel so many good recommendations, dear brother, that when the time approached for his June visit, I felt that I simply could not let him miss it as he did in December. Last year, on the day you entered, he was here through no desire of mine. Today he is here at my request. My friends," again she included the entire home in her glance, "we'll come back a little later to say good-by. Now, we're on the way to the minister's."

The pair, Samuel tongue-tied and bewildered by the joy of his finally won success, moved toward the door. On the threshold of the home Blossy turned and waved farewell to the companions of her widowhood, while Samuel bowed in a dazed fashion, his face still red as it was blissful. Then quickly the two passed out upon the porch. No one moved to see them off. Abe looked everywhere yet nowhere at all. Not a word was spoken even when the carriage was heard rolling down the drive; but the sound of the wheels seemed to arouse Angy from her stupor of amazement; and presently Abraham became conscious of a touch—a touch sympathetic, tender and true—a touch all-understanding—the touch of Angy's hand within his own.

CHAPTER X.

The Turn of the Tide.

From time immemorial the history of the popular hero has ever been the same. To king and patriot, to the favorite girl at school and the small boy who is leader of the "gang," to politician, to preacher, to actor and author, comes first worship then eclipse. The great Napoleon did not escape this common fate; and the public idol who was kissed only yesterday for his gallant deeds is scorned today for having permitted the kissing. Oh, caprice of the human heart! Oh, cry of the race for the unaccustomed!

From that first anniversary of his entrance into the home, Abraham felt his popularity decrease—in fact more than decrease. He saw the weather-vane go square about, and where he had known for three hundred and sixty-five days the gentle, balmy feel of the southwest zephyr, he found himself standing of a sudden in a cold, bleak northeast wind. The change bewildered the old man, and reacted on his disposition. As he had blossomed in the sunshine, so now he began to droop in the shade. Feeling that he was suspected and criticized, he began to grow suspicious and fault-finding himself. His old notion that he had no right to take a woman's place in the institution came back to his brain, and he would brood over it for hours at a time, sitting out on the porch with his pipe and Angy.

The old wife grieved to think that father was growing old and beginning to show his years. She made him some tansy tea, but neither her persuasions nor those of the whole household could induce him to take it. He had never liked "doctoring" anyway, although he had submitted to it more or less during the past year in unconscious subservience to his desire to increase his popularity; but now he fancied that where once he had been served as a king by all these female attendants, he was simply being "pestered" as a punishment for his past behavior with Blossy. Ah, with its surprising ending that had been a humiliating affair; and he felt too that he would be long in forgiving Mrs. Darby for not having confided to him her actual intentions. Now he was afraid to be decently courteous to one of the sisters for fear that they might accuse him of light dalliance again; and he scarcely ever addressed the new member who came to take Blossy's little room, for he had been cut to the quick by her look of astonishment when she was told that he belonged there.

In his mental ferment the old man began to nag at Angy. Sad though it is to confess of a hero honestly loved, Abraham had nagged a little all his married life when things went wrong. And Angeline, fretted and nervous, herself worried almost sick over father's condition, was guilty once in a while out of the depths of her anxiety of nagging back again. So do we hurt those whom we love best as we would and could hurt no other.

Peerages Lacking in Permanence.

British peerages have little of the permanence of pyramids. Forty years ago a careful calculation was made which showed that of 217 peerages created during the preceding 45 years only 123 remained upon the rolls. Of the Plantagenet peerages only 14 survived; of the Tudor, 11; of the Stuart, 46. During the reign of George III more than 400 peers were created, of which in 1875, 270 had disappeared.

The State Record at Santa Fe gets sarcastic referring to Representative Henry Swan, of Tucumcari for calling the publication of Delinquent tax sales "Newspaper Graft".

From a copy of one of these Tax lists in our files we copy the following--

"Cert. No. 322, Improvements on Claim. No taxes, Interest 10 cents Publication fee $2.30, Total $2.40. Assessed to L. L. Betts".

This is but one of scores of similar cases where a few cents of interest is charged to a citizen where he has no means of knowing that there is anything charged against him and believes his taxes paid. It is an outrage no matter who perpetrates it and the newspaper that benefits by such hold up can, we believe, be rightfully charged with "Graft" all the more vicious because protected by law. The burglar and highwayman take a risk in their method of robbery. The Legitimized Grafter robs you more effectually under the immunity given him by vicious laws and has it in his power to use the courts to persecute you if you resent his robbing you.

Swan is right. It is "Newspaper Graft" no matter who gets it.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Report of Trinidad C. de Baca, State Game Warden, for the years 1912-14. It is a carefully prepared statement of conditions and facts regarding the game of the State and the efforts to preserve and use intelligently the few wild things that remain from the ruthless and senseless slaughter of former years. The report is the work of the Santa Fe New Mexican and is replete with illustrations and withal the swellest thing of its kind we have seen lately. We congratulate Trinidad on the subject matter and The New Mexican on the mechanical and artistic excellence of the work.

Tom Turner likes the S.A. well enough that he is sending it now to his friend J. H. Page at Erick, Oklahoma to try and get him interested in this community.

D. W. Crewes orders his S.A. sent to him at Sugarite for a time. He will work there till time to commence spring work again.

We are in receipt through the "Department of Commerce" a book compiled by Wm. J. Harris, Director of the Census, giving a summary of the Assessment and Taxation laws of each state in the Union. This book contains much that every citizen should know and a careful study of it would impress anyone with the fact that crude and impractical assessment laws and taxation which permits of favoritism and political persecution are not the result of lack of precedent. Most of the older states have practical assessment laws that have been tried for almost a century. When the people get to the point where they will try to understand these things and refuse to be dominated by usurpers and self-appointed Bosses it will not be so easy to prostitute the means of self government to the uses of persecution.

The book comes to us with the compliments of Harvey B. Ferguson and will be kept here for the use of our friends.

A real "Joy Ride" was the one we took Tuesday with Dr. Selfin his "Ford" car to Solano and back. He was called to see the little boy of Mr. and Mrs. Geo Perry who is suffering from Bronchial trouble. The Dr. is kept so busy of late that these rides are not a novelty to him and his little Ford, under his careful driving has carried him some 10,000 miles during the past year in his ministrations to the sick with repair bills amounting to about $5.00.

A. G. Trujillo, of Solano, was in town Tuesday after two wagon loads of barbed wire to fence in his new pasture. He also ordered the Spanish-American sent to him and assured us he had meant to read it for a long time. Mr. Trujillo is one on the live ones of that part of the mesa and is making good.

Mark Woods was up from Solano Saturday with the story of his Collie pup which he thinks the smartest in the state. Recently Mr. Woods lost his pocketbook while riding over the prairie. Diligent search failed to discover it but Friday when he was out, the puppy came to him from a distance carrying the lost pocketbook in her mouth. It was intact and the $12.00 that was in it was safe. It is safe to say it would take several times that amount to buy her now.

The Nugen Brothers were in from Kansas Valley Saturday helping swell the crowd of shoppers. This is getting to be a trading point and any one who thinks it is not should give themselves a chance to compare it with other towns.

"CASCARETS" FOR SLUGGISH BOWELS

No sick headache, sour stomach, biliousness or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now. Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken. Adv.

Not a Real Article.

The last minstrel stopped at a back door and said to the housewife who greeted him:

"Give me something to eat, fair dame, and I will tickle your ears with a merry tale of romance."

"But why not tell me the tale first?" the dame suggested.

"No, I must have food and drink before I talk."

Thereupon the dame slammed the door with the tart reply:

"You're no merry minstrel; you're an after-dinner speaker."

STOMACH MISERY GAS, INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" fixes sick, sour, gassy stomachs in five minutes.

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, or foul breath.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain indigestion remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless.

Please for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. Should one of the family eat something which don't agree with them, or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night, it is handy to give the quickest relief known. Adv.

WAR ZONE EDICT SENT TO WILSON

TEXT OF TEUTON ORDER SHOWS LESS AREA AFFECTED THAN FIRST REPORTED.

SEAS CLOSED BY KAISER

BRITISH STEAMER CROSSES THE IRISH SEA FLYING THE AMERICAN FLAG.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Washington, Feb. 8. — Germany's proclamation of a war zone in the waters surrounding Great Britain and Ireland, contrary to first reports, does not include the seas directly adjacent to any neutral countries in Europe.

The official text of the proclamation, received from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin by the State Department, and made public reveals that the areas directly bordering on the territorial waters of France and Great Britain are held to be in the zone of operations within which neutral vessels may be subject to the hazards of naval warfare.

The original wireless report stated that shipping north of the Shetland islands and for thirty nautical miles along the Dutch coast, "would be endangered in the same way" as the waters around the belligerent territory.

The official text, after pointing out that the waters surrounding Great Britain and Ireland, including the English channel, were to be considered within the zone of war, says, however, that the "routes of navigation around the north of the Shetland islands in the eastern part of the North sea and in a strip thirty miles wide along the Dutch coast are not open to the danger zone."

Crosses Irish Sea Flying U. S. Flag.

London.—The British steamer Lusitania of the Cunard line, which sailed from New York Jan. 30, and arrived at Liverpool Saturday afternoon, flew the American flag from the time she passed Queenstown until she entered the Mersey.

This is vouched for by American passengers who crossed on her. According to a statement by Will Irwin, an American writer, the Lusitania carried the regulation large American flag at her stern, with a small American flag and mail pennant at the forepeak. Former United States Senator Lafayette Young, another passenger, while he did not, personally, see the flag flying, said it was accepted as a fact by all on board.

Austrians Claim Carpathian Victory.

London.—An official announcement received here from Berlin says that Emperor William after completing his inspection of the German naval base Wilhelmshaven, has gone to the eastern war zone by way of Czenstochowa, Russian Poland. A telegram sent by the Emperor to the troops which participated in the attacks on the heights at Craonne is given in a Berlin dispatch, as follows:

"Warm congratulations for your fine success, which is to be ascribed to the wisdom of the commanding officers, as well as to the great bravery of the troops, whose month-long activity in trench warfare could in no wise diminish their attacking power."

The Austrian government announced that the attacks of the Russians in the Carpathians had broken down and that they had suffered heavy losses. In certain sections of the front the Austrians are on the offensive and the capture of 4,000 more Russians is reported.

SAGE TEA DARKENS GRAY HAIR TO ANY SHADE. TRY IT!

Keep Your Looks Youthful, Dark, Glossy and Thick With Garden Sage and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger. Adv.

Raising Late Strawberries.

Representative D. H. Drukker of New Jersey gave a few friends a surprise one evening last September. He had been discussing agriculture with some members, and remarked that he had enjoyed strawberries raised in the open in his native state.

The other congressmen hooted at the idea of Jersey selling strawberries from the field in the latter part of September, but Drukker stuck to his point and invited the doubting Thomases to dine with him a few nights later.

In the meantime he had wired for several quarts of berries to a trucker near his home who made a specialty of late berries. The strawberries came and were served for dinner, much to the surprise of the gentlemen, who found it difficult to credit their own senses.

Raspberries and strawberries in October are now getting to be quite a fad among those up-to-date farmers who know how to do the stunt, which consists in pulling off from the plant the early blooms.

Oklahoma Man Tells About Kidney Remedy

Several years ago I was taken with severe pains in my back, due to diseased kidneys and was forced to give up my daily labors. I heard of your great kidney remedy and resolved to try it. I did so with wonderful results.

WINTER CARE AND FEED FOR SHEEP FLOCK

Hampshire Down Shearling Ewes.

Winter is a critical time for sheep. The greatest danger is in close stabling and lack of exercise. If well fed with good clover hay and good straw, and with an abundance of pure water to drink, in one flock, ewes in an uncovered, dry yard attached, is better than any stable or tightly closed shed. Warmth is more injurious than cold, and sheep may safely be trusted to exercise their instincts in seeking shelter. It is well to divide the flock, making three divisions; rams, wethers and ram lambs in one flock, ewes in lamb in another and fattening sheep in another. As changes may be seen desirable they should be made, and the food should be given according to the wants of each lot.

It is a good plan to give all sheep a little grain every day in winter. Give fattening sheep one pound of corn per head per day. An expert feeder, who has been feeding sheep for a number of years, says: "The man who makes a success in feeding sheep or meat cattle is the one who gives close attention to the daily feeding and care of the flock. It is not necessary for him to do the actual work, but he should be there to see that it is done." Keep only the strongest and healthiest sheep. For winter fattening we want sheep that have got their full growth and are in good, thrifty condition. Merino sheep for this purpose should be three or four years old. Commence with a small grain ration and gradually increase the feed. Salt should be given; it is a good plan to sprinkle a little salt over the wheat bran and mixed grain once or twice a week.

As soon as a sheep appears to be ailing it should be removed from the flock at once. For lung worms, a tablespoonful of turpentine may be given as a remedy.

A clear, pink skin is a sign that the internal organs are in good condition.

Oil cake may be fed in small quantities to fattening sheep, and sheep which are fed upon such a ration have oily, elastic fleeces.

A hard, dry earth floor is best, as

BOTTLE FOR THE CHICKENS

A new drinking fountain for fowls is made on the principle of the thermos bottle, and by its use the water supply in the barnyard is kept cool in summer and reasonably warm in winter. This solves one of the great difficulties of the chicken yard. In the winter time it is necessary to visit the chicken yard many times during the day to supply water to the birds, for the reason that the usual receptacles made use of soon freeze up tight and the chickens are deprived of water. One might think that by placing warm water there it would remain in a liquid condition for a greater length of time, but this has proved to be a fallacy, for it is said that for some reason the heated water cools off and congeals as quickly, if not more rapidly, than the pan in which was placed cold water. In the summer time, too, there is the trouble of the water becoming so warm that it ceases to be refreshing. The thermos bottle fountain, which has been recently patented, is said to keep the water in a desirable condition at any time of the year. It is a double receptacle with a dead air space between them, which retards the water from imparting its heat or warmth, as the case may be. This fountain is made in the shape of the ordinary cylindrical kettle, but it is supplied with a square handle, which prevents it from rolling when it has been placed on the ground.

Swine Lose Vigor.

Breeding swine that are kept confined in small houses and curtailed as to daily exercise will inevitably decline in that superb vigor which makes them better able to resist disease and transmit constitutional strength to their progeny.

Officials in Washington Miss Their Duck Hawks

WASHINGTON.—When Frank H. Hitchcock was assistant postmaster general he was compelled to order that the door of the entrance leading to the tower of the department building should be nailed up to keep from the roof men with guns and traps who were bent on taking the lives of a pair of duck hawks, which were using the open tower as a winter resort.

The duck hawks had been coming to the tower every winter for years and Theodore Roosevelt, who was president at the time, and the scientists of the biological survey were interested in watching the birds and in saving them from gunners. The duck hawk is a true falcon, and it is one of the most interesting birds of prey in the world. It occurs in all continents, being what the scientists call a cosmopolitan bird.

The winter after Mr. Hitchcock had saved the birds from the gunners only one duck hawk reappeared, and this was killed by an unknown rifleman, who "potted" it from the roof of a building across Pennsylvania avenue. Last winter another duck hawk appeared and went to the tower, but stayed only a few days. The members of the government's scientific bureaus are hoping that one will come back and take up the vacated roost in the post office tower.

There is a compensation, however, for the loss of the duck hawks. The sparrow hawks have come to Washington and are using the American eagle to protect them from the assaults of their enemies. Just under the cornice of the roof of the State, War and Navy building, directly above the entrance opening toward the White House, there is a bronze figure of the American eagle with outstretched wings. Between the wings and the wall of the building just under the cornice there is a small open space. It is this retreat the sparrow hawks have taken for a winter home.

Don't Carry Rubber Heels or Pennies to Europe

IF YOU go to Europe observe these "don'ts:"

Don't carry pennies in your pockets, don't carry a pencil tipped with a rubber eraser, or wear rubber heels. Otherwise you may be detained by the British for carrying contraband to the enemy.

A state department official, discussing the British shipping note, suggested that this warning be sent to prospective American travelers to Europe.

"If England's policy is going to take her to such extremes as indicated by past experiences," he said, "why shouldn't she make absolutely sure of no copper reaching German ports by searching the pockets of all passengers sailing for neutral countries and confiscate the cent pieces found? On the same principle, applying it to rubber, it won't be safe for a man to wear rubber heels on his shoes when he goes to Europe, and under no circumstances should he take the risk of carrying a rubber-tipped pencil in his pocket."

Washingtonians Gaze at a Daytime Shining Star

DOWN town Washington the other morning presented a scene like the fair capital of France when an air raid by Teutonic birdmen was threatened, or like that a few minutes after the arrival of a party of sight-seeing tourists from Huckins Run or Pohick Center, looking at skyscraper row in New York city.

On almost every street corner crowds of people stood and gazed skyward. On roof tops and in windows of office buildings people engaged in this same sky-gazing practice. Few knew what they were looking at, but that didn't matter. It was quite the proper thing to look at the sky and at the same time look wise.

Then some wiseacre in the crowd ventured the information that the cause of all the excitement was a star, an unusually brilliant star, which could be seen quite plainly in the heavens notwithstanding the bright sunlight.

"What's the crowd looking at?" asked a reporter. "A star is out later than usual. Rather interesting occurrence," replied the wiseacre.

"I'd better investigate," remarked the reporter. "This guy might be stringing me."

"Let's have West 1534," said the reporter to an obliging telephone girl a few minutes later, and before long he was talking with Professor Hall at the National observatory. From him it was learned that the star was Venus, alias the morning star, alias the evening star.

As a rule Venus is in line with the sun during the daylight hours and cannot be seen, but at that time she was farther away than usual and could readily be discerned.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF HAIR STOPS FALLING

Girls! Try This! Makes Hair Thick,
Glossy, Fluffy, Beautiful—No
More Itching Scalp.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Adv.

WHEN KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE GLASS OF SALTS

Eat Less Meat If Kidneys Hurt or You
Have Backache or Bladder Misery
—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

IS CHILD CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Fish Doctor Wanted for Government Hatcheries

WASHINGTON.—Congress has been asked by the bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce for an appropriation of $2,500 annually to cover the salary of a family physician for all the domesticated fishes of the United States. It has been estimated by fish experts in the employ of the government that epidemics among infant fish at government hatcheries cost more than $1,000,000 a year. These epidemics usually occur among fish less than six months of age, and the damage worked by disease is greatly increased when the adult value of the fish is taken into consideration.

For $2,500 a year, officials of the bureau say they can obtain the services of a fish pathologist, whose training has made him an expert in diseases of the finny youngsters.

Once the $2,500 is secured, it is proposed to retain a male fish pathologist who has made a life work of one of the strangest paths of scientific endeavor known. There are barely a score of recognized fish pathologists in the United States at the present time, it is said, and one of the possible sources of difficulty the government may experience is the employment of such an expert at a salary of only $2,500 a year. He will be required to make his headquarters at Washington and receive here the reports of threatened outbreaks of epidemics at government hatcheries in any part of the country.

It is not particularly well known to the general public that trout and salmon are greatly troubled with a disease which in the human being would be considered somewhat close to a goitre. This is a swelling of the thyroid gland in the throat of a salmon or a trout, which soon becomes apparent by a swelling of the throat, and eventually results in the death of the afflicted fish. At the present there is no known remedy for the disease, and it is to begin a study of this and similar ailments that the fish doctor is needed.

Many Eligible Bachelors in the National Capital

WASHINGTON has a long list of eligible bachelors. Among them is the new associate justice of the Supreme court, Judge McReynolds. However, he is by no means a misogynist. He is fond of the society of girls and likes to do nice things for them and pay them little attentions. The third assistant postmaster-general, Alexander Dockery, is another bachelor. At his home in Missouri he is a political force. He was at one time governor of the state.

There is also John Barrett, director of the Pan-American union. He is a man of some means, with a taste for society.

The presence of the diplomatic corps in Washington naturally means the presence of a host of young attaches, not all eligible, perhaps, but dear to the heart of the debutante and the hostess. And there are six foreign ministers here who are bachelors—namely, Don Roberto Brenes Meseu from Costa Rica, Mehdi Khan from Persia, Dr. Alberto Membreno from Honduras, Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes from Cuba, Viscount d'Alte from Portugal and Constantin Brun from Denmark.

The senate has a full allowance of bachelors, and the house bristles with them. Moreover, an unusual number of army and navy bachelors now occupy positions of trust and importance in the national capital.

Finger-Print System Proves Useful to the Army

BRIG. GEN. GEORGE ANDREWS, as adjutant general of the army, has made a report to the war department in regard to the successful operation of the finger-print system of identification in the detection of military offenders. At present, he says, the adjutant general's office has on file the finger-print records of 202,244 individuals who are now or had been previously enlisted in the army.

During the past fiscal year 467 cases of fraudulent enlistment of former deserters, general prisoners and others were discovered through the finger-print system. During the preceding year the number of cases of fraudulent enlistment discovered through that system was 256, and during the fiscal year 1912 the number was 337.

"This office," says General Andrews, "has identified by means of this system dead men who were former soldiers and whose identity could not be satisfactorily established in any other way, as well as civil offenders who sought to evade arrest for their crimes by enlisting in the army under assumed names, and soldiers who left impressions of their fingers while in the act of committing some serious offense."

"It is undoubtedly true that the use of finger-print records and photographs has deterred criminals from attempting to enter the army for the purpose of escaping detection and arrest by the civil authorities."

WITH CHANTILLY LACE

EXQUISITE MODEL FOR A FALL EVENING GOWN.

Every Detail of the Present Mode Contained in the Accompanying Design—Favorite Black and White Are the Colors.

The model illustrated today is typical of the fall evening gowns. Dainty and feminine looking, there is a very obvious dignity about it that marks it for the new order of things and enhances its charm to a degree.

Since black and black and white effects are so modish this season, black lace has been brought into favor once again, especially chantilly. Black laces have in general been out of the reckoning, but now it is just the thing for long transparent tunics, and there is a variety of ways of using it.

The illustrated evening gown shows a chantilly tunic effectively bordered with white fur. The body part of the corsage and the short-pouched tunic are of black chiffon velour ornamented with circles of smoked pearl beads. The V décolletage allows a glimpse of white malines folded over the bust, and there is a little flaring collar of the same at the back. Chantilly is again employed in the sleeves, and these, too, are bordered with a narrow white fur banding. The lace tunic veils a white taffeta skirt, which is completed below the length of the tunic with black chiffon velours, bordered, in turn, with the white fur.

A recent twist of this idea of the lace tunic substitutes a net foundation built upon with flounces of lace, wide or narrow, or it may be that the net is crossed and recrossed with lace insertions, finished about its lower edge with a wide self hem, or with a broad band of black velvet or taffeta. Velvet ribbon is playing an important part in the decorative schemes of both day and evening dresses as a tunic border.

Chantilly Capes.

Capes of chantilly, ornamented with embroidery, are formed in loose sacks, dark blue, silver and deep red appearing in the stitchery. Sometimes the chantilly is mounted over a cape of black tulle for young girls. They are just little sacks with kimono sleeves, the long fronts turned under and caught into the belt; this makes a pretty little addition to a dress.

RIBBONS IN GREAT VARIETY

All Descriptions and Shades Called In to Use Both for Girdles and Trimmings.

Rich satin, faille and moire ribbons are used for girdles and hat trimmings. Girdles are either plain, of striped broche, or a combination of ribbons. Velvet brocades have entire velvet figures, or satin flowers outlined with velvet. Velvet stripes appear in dark, rich roman ribbons.

Many rich ribbons are very dark, such shades as dark brown, navy, purple, mahogany, russian and stem greens, etc., and are blended with hair lines of black, yellow, scarlet, pale blue and green satin, or one wide one of black satin. Girdles and sashes of brocade have a rich effect with a plain colored gown. For evening or dancing gowns rich satin girdles are worn, and fancy stripes set off a simple serge or cotton dress. Soft finished ribbons are used for crush girdles.

Tinsel ribbons heavy with gold or silver scrolls or flowers are very handsome and are used for girdles or for collar, vest or cuffs. Ribbon tassels of black ribbon are fur tipped and used as a coquettish finish on some of the close turbans worn tipped sharply on the side.

FOR KNITTING OR CROCHET

Novel and Easily Made Bag, Which Requires Only Remnants for Its Material.

Our sketch shows a useful bag of a very novel nature that can be carried out with the aid of a remnant of almost any strong material and that is convenient to use and easy to make.

It can be prepared in any size to suit the requirements of the owner, and consists of a broad band of material, lined with sateen and bound at the edges with narrow ribbon.

The side pieces are made of soft satin gathered into a little frill at the top and they are semicircular in shape and sewn on to the edges of the center piece. The handles are made of silk cord attached to small key-rings fastened on to the sides of the bag with tabs of ribbon. To open it the handles have merely to be pulled apart, and the bag can then be laid almost flat upon the table so that the whole of the contents will be exposed and any article it may contain selected in a moment.

To make the tabs for fastening on the rings, cut a short piece of ribbon into points at both ends, then pass one end through the ring, fold the ribbon and sew it together at the edges. It can afterward be sewn in place upon the side of the bag and the handle tied on in the manner shown in the sketch.

Good Plan.

A young woman who was making some soft cushions and comforts found that the cotton filling that she was using had become slightly damp. This made it difficult to thrust the needle through in tying the comfort, so she placed the cotton in the oven to dry and become slightly browned. As a result it became very light and fluffy and held its fluffiness. Treated this way it holds its resilience, and does not mat and pack down.

VOWS and VALENTINES

GOOD morning," said the floorwalker, leaning over the counter in order to be better able to talk to the girl behind it. "How do you feel on this lovers' day, eh?"

She looked up with a start, and hastily hid her hands behind her. "My, how you startled me! Why, I feel all right—"

"What's that you've got behind you?" the floorwalker interrupted.

"That? Oh, that's nothing. Just an exchange slip to be signed," she replied glibly, bringing her right hand forward as proof of her assertion.

"Let me see the other hand," suggested the floorwalker.

"Won't one hand do?" she parried.

"No, must see them both," he said firmly.

"Well, there, then," and she thrust forward an empty hand.

"You dropped something behind you," cried the floorwalker, triumphantly.

"You have too many eyes," she pouted, stooping to pick up what she had dropped. It proved to be a valentine, and the floorwalker snickered.

"Jove! I thought that by the time a girl got to be twenty plus she was over that kind of foolishness."

"A girl is never too old to enjoy being made love to," she retorted.

"Let's See the Other Hand."

"and, in fact, the older she gets the more she likes it."

"Always? Now, I have known girls to snap you off, and tell you not to be silly, and to declare that they hated 'soft fellows.'"

"That's because you didn't pay your compliment at the right time, at the psychological moment, so to speak," she replied. "You probably told them how pretty they looked when they were rigged out in their oldest clothes, preparatory to doing some housecleaning. Now, you should never try to toady a girl unless she can really flatter herself that there may be some truth in what you say, after all. Never miss an opportunity like the first wearing of a new dress to tell her what a charmer she is, and don't let the occasion slip by on which she wears that favorite pink waist of hers. In other words, catch her in the mood."

"I thought you just said that a girl always liked to be made love to," the floorwalker objected.

She withered him with a glance. "But she has other things to think of, once in awhile, silly, except being made love to. Once a year, you know, in Lent, she gets very religious, and centers her mind on things not of the world. As you value her affection, don't attempt to make love to her in the penitential season. But you may start in again bright and early Easter morning. Also, don't make love to her just after she has decided upon her 'career.' She'll get over that in time, but you must let the malady run its course."

"I suppose these times you have been telling me about are just exceptions to the rule?"

"The exceptions which prove the rule, you mean," she corrected. "A girl enjoys being made love to, but her moods are never to be depended on."

"Except on St. Valentine's day," he put in.

"Except on St. Valentine's day," she echoed, gazing sentimentally at the valentine. "Such a beautiful sentiment—"

"All day long, sweet Valentine, I sing to tell this love of mine: Accept this heart, a token, dear, Of love that lives from year to year."

"Rubbish!" pronounced the floorwalker. "And you mean to tell me that that is the kind of stuff girls like?"

"Why not?" she asked, with a touch of defiance. "It's not so much the way in which it is expressed, as it is in the thought which lies behind it."

"Thought, fiddlesticks! Probably came from some kind of a vapid mind that never knew any real thoughts. Why, don't you know what this kind of stuff is worth?"

"How should I know?" flippantly. "I don't run a magazine."

He paid no attention to this remark, continuing his discourse as if nothing had happened. "It's nothing but conventional rubbish, and doesn't mean any more than the things a young fellow is expected to say and does say between the dances. It doesn't mean any more than what a man says under the influence of music and moonlight, or, for that matter, any more than what a girl insinuates with her eyes when she knows she is looking particularly well. It's bred in the bone to be foolish and sentimental at certain stages of the game, and we just can't help it."

"I think you are perfectly horrible," she murmured, her eyes still on the valentine. "Don't people ever mean what they say?"

"Yes, but even after he has proposed you mustn't expect him to keep to the same state of ardent wooing all the time. Before you are married he will tell you that when you dance you are as light as a feather, but afterward he will tell you that you are like a ton of coal. He will swear that your every wish shall be his, and you will find the cold reality to be the necessity of cringing to him. For awhile nothing will be too good for you, and then you will suddenly wake up to the fact that he is the head of the house, and that you are merely a part of the furniture, as it were. I tell you, a girl is foolish if she pays any particular attention to these valentines, or to the vows that lovers make before marriage."

The girl behind the counter set her lips in an obstinate line. "You are jealous, that's what's the matter with you," she declared. "If you weren't, you wouldn't think of talking like that. And I still say that the expression doesn't matter; it's the thought behind it that counts. And even if a man ceases to pay you compliments, that doesn't go to prove that he doesn't still care for you. Still water runs deep, you know."

The floorwalker shrugged his shoulders. "I always said there was no arguing with a woman. A woman convinced against her will—you know the rest."

"SIZED UP" THE STATESMAN

Senator Took It as Compliment That He Was "Touched" for More Than Colleague.

Senators Shively and Kern of Indiana recently met a constituent from Elmwood. He saw Kern first. "I've read about you and followed you ever since you have been in public life," said the Elmwood man. "I've taken my political pabulum from you all these years. I've voted for you every time I had the chance. Will you lend me a dollar?"

He got it. The next day, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer's Washington correspondent, Kern came on the scene just as Shively was leaving the Elmwood man. "Who is that?" inquired Kern.

"Oh, a constituent of mine from Elmwood. He's been a follower of mine throughout my political career and he voted for me whenever he had the chance."

"How much did he borrow?" was Kern's cruel query.

"Fifty cents," replied Shively, with a slight upward turn of the eyebrows.

"Well," drawled Kern, "that fellow is smarter than I thought he was. He can tell the difference between a dollar senator and a fifty-cent one."

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bridgeton, N.J.—"I want to thank you a thousand times for the wonderful good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very much from a female trouble. I had bearing down pains, was irregular and at times could hardly walk across the room. I was unable to do my housework or attend to my baby I was so weak. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me a world of good, and now I am strong and healthy, can do my work and tend my baby. I advise all suffering women to take it and get well as I did."—Mrs. FANNIE COOPER, R.F.D., Bridgeton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

IRELAND'S NEW VICEROY

Lord Wimborne, who has succeeded Lord Aberdeen as viceroy of Ireland, is quite well known in the United States, having visited this country several times, his latest trip being for the purpose of bringing over the polo team that captured the international cup last summer. Wimborne is not especially popular, though he is affable, enthusiastic and very ambitious. His first visit to America was when, as Hon. Ivor Guest, he officiated as best man at the wedding of his cousin, the duke of Marlborough, to Consuelo Vanderbilt. Through his mother he is descended from the first duke of Marlborough. On his father's side, however, his ancestry is of a less historic character, and he is descended from John Guest, a self-made man, who in the middle of the eighteenth century founded the great Down iron works, in Glamorganshire, which still remain in the family, and constitute the principal source of Lord Wimborne's great wealth. His income is estimated at considerably over a million dollars a year.

Lord Wimborne succeeded to his father's peerage and estates last spring, shortly before coming to this country with his polo team, and is married to Hon. Alice Grosvenor, daughter of Lord Ebury. One of his brothers, Capt. the Hon. Frederick Guest, is married to the daughter of Henry Phipps of New York, while another brother, the Hon. Lionel Guest, has as wife Flora, daughter of the late John Bigelow of New York.

ROUMANIA'S ENGLISH QUEEN

After a lapse of twenty-one years the carefully laid plans of the British foreign office are bearing most timely fruit, and today an English princess, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, sits upon the throne of Roumania alongside the new king, Ferdinand I, whose broken health and weak will make his title a more than usually empty sham.

But Queen Marie is every inch a queen. It has been said of her that she combines the qualities of Elizabeth of England with the faults of Catherine of Russia. The truth is that she is a very beautiful, high-spirited and strong-minded woman of nearly forty.

She is the daughter of the duke of Edinburgh, who later became duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and her mother was the radiant Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, the petted child of the ill-fated Czar Alexander II. When she was a mere girl, barely over sixteen, she was married "for reasons of state" to his royal highness Prince Ferdinand Victor Albert Mainrad of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, who four years before had been adopted by his uncle, the late King Charles I, who had no children, and made crown prince of Roumania.

Marie at twenty-one was the mother of three fine children, but she could not win her husband's love, so she became quite the most dashing royal flirt in Europe. Then, too late, the prince fell madly in love with his wife. Six children have been born to them, but they have not enjoyed any great degree of marital felicity. The queen is very fond of her children, and each when old enough is taught a trade.

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS' DUEL

Comparatively few seem to know that John Sharp Williams once fought a duel.

It was when John Sharp was over in Germany attending Heidelberg university. He and a German student sassed each other and the German challenged him. John Sharp Williams, being the challenged party, had the choice of weapons. His opponent, forgetting all about his being an American, supposed he would pick sabers, just as any German would; but there was where John Sharp came along with a neat little joke. He said they would fight with United States army revolvers.

The idea of shooting a man with a revolver two feet long was new to German dueling, and the native student was a wreck when the morning arrived for them to kill off one another. John Sharp, on the other hand, ate heartily of ham and eggs, as the saying is, and seemed perfectly composed as they teed themselves up for the opening shot. The German, with a vibrant hand, fired off south by southeast of John Sharp, who purposely shot up toward a spot eight degrees to the left of the zenith.

And having thus speedily completed the morning's entertainment, the principals shook hands and went their ways.

NEW EVENING BODICE

HAS TWO FEATURES THAT CALL FOR CONSIDERATION.

To Be Made of the Skirt Material, Which Will Be Liked, and Has Sleeves That Show the Empire Influence.

There is too much evidence brought out for the new kind of evening bodice not to feel that it will win. It is not entirely attractive in its present tentative guise, but no doubt it will grow in grace as the weeks advance.

It is made of the skirt material, which cannot be said of all the waists we have worn, and has sleeves, short little puffs only, also of the fabric. It has been more than one decade since we have worn an opaque sleeve and one of this shape. It is decidedly the first empire influence.

Some of these sleeves are straight, extending half way to the elbow and finished there with a stiff turn over cuff, also of the material. It is this sleeve which women do not like, and it is not probable they will wear it. However, its introduction in high places gives one a chance to stop and think. It may be modified and softened, but it evidently leads the way away from the evening sleeve of today.

These two features are the most important of the early season. They point with an unmistakable finger toward something different, but whether the French openings will follow up the prophecy, or we will follow up in detail the French showings, remains to be seen. At any rate, it is well to fix one's mind upon this possible fashion. It may keep one from buying something that will be hopelessly out of the running later in the spring.

Those who know, feel that the very wide skirt has had its day for street wear, although six-yard ones are already featured for the evening, placed, however, over a much narrower underskirt. This assembling of two distinct types of skirt on a figure is always suggestive of the Orient, and in one or two of its recent appearances, it is unpleasantly so. A figure swathed in a satin underskirt which is caught in at the knees by a band of gold lace, and covered by a six-yard net outer skirt finished at the edge with jet, is a daring garment to put upon any woman, especially when she uses it for dancing.

Skirts for street wear, whether belonging to a suit or a frock, are built on conservative lines. There is no return to the hobble effect, but the immense sweep of the elongated Russian tunic which was the feature of the winter will give place to a hem wide enough for freedom and with a decided flare at the sides. Its shortness will be preserved.

On every side there are evidences that this shortness, which displays all of the boot, will be persisted in, for it is the only possible way in which to make a wide skirt wearable. As soon as it sweeps the instep, it gains an aggressive awkwardness.

PRETTY COVERS FOR CORSETS

Season's Lingerie Is Really Beautiful, and the Prices Accordingly Are "Way Up."

Whether under the classification of corset covers, brassiere or camisole, the little slip that conceals the corset is a most luxurious and fetching affair. When the blouse is of lace or net the corset cover is usually of some silk like pussy willow taffeta or crepe de chine. Under a less transparent blouse it may be shirred net, lace or even embroidered chiffon, and usually it is held up over the shoulders by the merest straps of lace, ribbon or tiny chiffon roses.

Smartly shaped corset covers are now in surplice style—not rounded out at the top, and the deep V of the surplice crossing is arranged at back as well as front. A single snap fastener at the belt line holds the crossed surplice in place and if some sort of fastening is required at the bust a sparkling brooch holds the lace together and gleams through the outer blouse. A corset cover of this type, made of net puffing and hand-embroidered strips of organdie is set together with hemstitching and costs $7.98—quite a tidy price to pay for a corset cover, but then women are spending extravagant sums just now on their "undies," as intimate garments are called in England.

The camisole goes straight across the bust and shoulder straps hold it up. It is worn usually with transparent evening blouses, for when the top is drawn up by a ribbon-run beading, the shoulder straps may be slipped down and the shoulder left bare under the gauzy bodice. Camisoles of the prettiest sort are of embroidery and lace insertions arranged in transverse rows and sometimes tiny chiffon roses in pastel shades are grouped in clusters along the upper edge. If the figure is not slender a brassiere of some sort must be donned under the camisole for support.

BEDROOM SLIPPERS OF LINEN

Have Many Advantages, Chief of Which Is That They Are So Easily Cleaned.

The new idea in bedroom slippers is to make them of linen. These are decidedly comfortable on the feet, wear well, and can be washed easily. They can be made from plain or embroidered linen, just a little heavier than you would use for dollies or center pieces. Buttonhole around the top in a small scallop, and make eyelets in which to run narrow ribbon.

They are very pretty made up of embroidery four inches wide and with a well-covered edge as well as an open one through which the ribbon can run. When soiled they can be removed from the sole, laundered and replaced with little trouble. It is well to keep a fresh pair always on hand.

This suggests pleasant winter work for summer wear, when we feel that we can spare a little time from our knitting and garment making for the good cause.

Tailored Morning Skirts.

Tailored morning skirts are of linen, crash and ratine, that corduroy stripe on a net ground. They are about three yards around the hem and cut two or three gored circular. Their style comes in this flare and in the smart way they are belted in at the waist.

THE SMITH SALARY BILL

FIVE CLASSIFICATIONS ESTABLISHED IN NEW MEASURE.

Amount of $2,750 for Sheriff is Highest Amount Fixed for Any County Official.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Santa Fe, N. M.—Another Democratic county salaries bill was introduced in the House by Representative S. J. Smith of Luna county, who was the author of two county salaries bills at the last session of the state Legislature.

In the bill just introduced five classifications are established, based on assessed valuations of 1914. First class counties are those having a valuation of over $5,000,000; second class, over $4,000,000; third class, over $3,000,000; fourth class, over $2,000,000, and fifth class under $2,000,000. Under this classification salaries are fixed as follows, in the five classes:

Commissioners—First, $600; second, $500; third, $400; fourth, $300; fifth, $200.

Treasurer—First, $2,200; second, $2,000; third, $1,800; fourth, $1,600; fifth, $1,400. Deputy—First, $600; second, $600; third, $500; fourth, $200.

Assessor—First, $2,000; second, $2,000; third, $1,800; fourth, $1,600; fifth, $1,400. Deputy—First, $750; second, $600; third, $500; fourth, $200; fifth, $200.

"I Eat Grape-Nuts the Year Round and it agrees with me," writes a doctor, "better than any breakfast food on the market—unless there is one I have not tried."

Grape-Nuts is scientifically prepared to agree with both strong and weak digestions. Long baking—about 20 hours—partially pre-digests the starch cells for quick, easy assimilation.

Besides, Grape-Nuts supplies, in concentrated form, all of the nutriment of wheat and barley, including the invaluable mineral elements often lacking in ordinary food.

Wax-sealed—crisp—ready to eat—and economical.

Mr. J. E. Russell,
Roy, New Mexico
Dear Mr. Russell:

I acknowledge receipt, with thanks, of the package of printed matter from the Roy Public Schools. This was of unusual interest to us and we are very proud of the work you are doing. The Manual Training Class is to be congratulated upon both their paper and the job work. We will be pleased to receive your article in the near future and we will be glad to print it in the Annual Report.

Very truly yours,
Manette A. Myers.
State Director of Industrial Education.

We are very sorry that Glenn Anderson was obliged to be absent last week because of sickness. Glenn's record had been perfect so far having been neither absent or tardy during the school year up to last week.

Guy Hayes, who has been attending school here, is now going to school at Pleasant View.

COMPARISON NOTES.
"My husband never comes home," said the women with melancholy eyes.
"Men always go to extremes," said the women with the firmly set.
"Mine won't do anything but sit around the house.

George Kerns, another of our faithful ones, having been neither absent or tardy during the school-year had to leave school Tuesday- George is suffering with a bad cold and we hope he will soon be able to return to school.

Lewis Gonzales was present in the Fifth and Sixth Grade Room Wednesday morning after several days' absence.

Eighth grade having finished their Geography will now take up the study of Agriculture.

Price's Missouri Campaign

One of the boys, more swift than some others, at a bend in the road cut through the woods and reached the road ahead of a commissary wagon. When the driver saw the man ahead of him he lay down in his wagon bed. So the Reb quick to think and act, as the driver was out of sight, shot one of the horses, and thus captured the whole outfit. The funny part of the whole thing was that the driver, with a loaded musket, surrendered to the man with an empty one.

One of our boys as he rushed thru the willows to the sand bank at the edge of the creek saw a federal in the willows on the other side of the creek at the same time the federal saw him, and each was in such a hurry to shoot first each missed. Then commenced a race to reload. The Reb filled his charger with powder, and as he poured it into the muzzle of his rifle he cast a look at the Federal, who had bitten off the end of his cartridge and was pushing it into the muzzle of his musket. Realizing that the federal would load first, the Reb turned to one comrade and called to him to shoot that Federal or he would load first. The comrade, shaking with a regular buck fever, exclaimed: "I can't see him, I can't see him." "Then give me your musket. I see him." Kneeling to get a good view under the willows, the Reb balanced himself upon one knee, took deliberate aim, and fired. The recoil of the musket kicked him sprawling full length upon the ground.

Straightening up and rubbing his bruised shoulder handed the gun to the owner saying I believe you loaded the gun every morning since we left Fulton

Many of the most interesting incidents of our great war, can never be known unless they are gotten in this way, and soon those who can relate them will pass away. There will then be nothing but tradition: we will have lost the personal touch that this presence now gives us.

Students of History should realize that to those engaged, this war was intensely personal. In fact all the wars of America have been so. We cannot conceive of an American Soldier fighting for a cause of which he knew nothing, or because he was ordered to do so.

Gladys Hern is absent from the eighth grade a few days on account of the death of her little niece, Eugenia E. Roy.

Lester Floersheim is at home on account of illness and his bad luck seems to have no sense of justice. We know he is impatient to get back to school and hope he will soon be able to do so.

We have some notes taken from The Confederate Veteran this week. These are experiences in our own great War, and while they are sometimes strong in their support of what they considered a good cause we are willing to accept that in order to get the other interesting and instructive facts

The ninth grade is again at school in force. For a while it seemed as though the measles or something worse had caught most of the class

We wish to thank the public for their many expression of approval of our recital

Our second team of Basket Ball had the misfortune to get their new Ball punctured. Their grounds were not completed and after all their labor they did not get to play a single game. The weather is fine now and it seems real mean to call the children in from the play grounds.

Editor's Comments

Since the former Editor, the Assistant Editor and the entire Company have gone "Broke" and they have sold the RECORD to pay expenses. We have taken the paper and intend to go broke in about two months if God so will.

We will say at the first that we will print no advertisements of intoxicating drinks, will not advertise dances, ball games, weddings, political speeches, basket dinners, or any thing else that we consider injurious to the parties involved therein.

We will not meddle in Politics for while we think they are nice to have we think they are a nuisance if your wife gets them

But we do our best to run this paper and the Co. interested as deep in debt as it is possible.

We are sorry to learn that Clara Martin is still unable to assume school duties.

The teachers meet with Miss Collins Monday night and begin studying the Reading Circle Books.

INCREASED THE COST.

"Farm products cost more than they used to."

"Yes," replied Mr. Cornsossel. "When a farmer has to know the botanical name of what he raises and the zoological name of insects that eat it and the chemical name of what kills it somebody's got pay

SLEEPY BRITON
DEFENDS WHOLE
VILLAGE ALONE

Wounded Sergeant Changes His Opinion Respecting Recruit Called "His Lordship."

NOTED FOR HIS LAZINESS

Promise of Good Night's Rest Leads Him to Distinguish Himself in Charge on Village—Defends Bed Against Whole Regiment.

London.—"Never again will I judge a man by his appearance," said a wounded sergeant, when asked for his most thrilling battle experience. "When we started for the front we had in our company a man whom I simply could not stand. He was tall, well built, rather good looking, with light hair and mustache, and most awfully lazy. There was no mistake about it—he had wealthy parents, a man who had never traveled without a valet.

"On the moment of his arrival in our midst we named him 'his lordship,' and bets were made that he would succumb after the first day's march. Not a bit of it. It is true he looked tired at the start, but he looked no more so at the finish. But when we reached the place where we were to rest for the night, he calmly unwound his puttees, underneath which he wore real silk socks. We felt a bit upset. Silk socks for a soldier are clearly against army regulations.

"But this was nothing to what followed. He got out a nice leather box, opened it, extracted some sort of instrument and proceeded to manicure his nails.

"All the boys gathered around him to watch the performance; but I put an end to it by promising him four days in the 'ordinary,' which he was to undergo after the taking of Berlin, for, you see, we could not very well spare the man just then.

"We were finally placed in the trenches. 'His lordship' did everything ungrudgingly, but he could not sleep without a pillow, so he paid four packets of cigarettes a day to a fat fellow and rested his head on the latter's stomach. But we began to respect him from the day when he laid low 16 Germans with 18 cartridges. It was 'some shooting,' and he did it as nonchalantly as if he were in a rifle gallery

"Well, we left the trenches—that is some of us did, and some did not—and even then one day we were ordered to take by assault a village occupied by a Bavarian regiment.

First in Dash for Bed.

"To give added courage to the men, our captain said: 'You see these houses? There are beds in them, and these beds are for your use if we take the village.' Take my word for it, we did not lose any time, and if I did not hustle then, I never hustled in all my life. I was among the first to reach the nearest house—at least I thought I was, but when I dashed in I found 'his lordship' calmly stretched out on a bed previously occupied by a German officer, whom he had thrown out of the window.

We thought 'hat we could have a good night's rest, but about three o'clock in the morning we were told to get up, as a German regiment was marching against us. I awoke my men, and all rose without a murmur, all except 'his lordship.'

"Get up! I shouted.

"He opened one eye, looked at me and said, 'Not on your life.'

"What do you mean? I was choking with anger. 'We must retreat; a whole German regiment is about to attack us.'

"If it is the whole German army, I will not give up my bed to them,' he answered with some heat—the first time I saw him get hot about anything at all.

"I order you—I started to say, but he shut his eye, turned on the other side and slept. I added eight days to his 'solitary,' and as I could not very well carry him on my shoulders, I left him to his fate.

"We retired upon an adjoining hill, within half a mile of the village, to await re-enforcements. At dawn our captain, who was watching the enemy through field glasses, exclaimed with surprise: 'This is curious! They have not entered the village yet. They content themselves with shooting at the houses.'

"I looked in turn. It was true, the Germans were held back by somebody, and every now and then one of them fell. And then I saw at one of the windows a white apparition. It was 'his lordship,' rifle in hand, defending his bed.

"Our re-enforcements arrived, we took back the village, and—can you imagine where I found 'his lordship'? He was fast asleep in the bed. I shook him; he opened his eye and muttered: 'Bring me my coffee.' I gave him four more days of 'solitary,' and the general added an order to have him mentioned in dispatches.

"I suppose he is still fighting and doing good work, while I have taken the pledge never to judge a man by his looks."

HERE'S PEACH OF ROMANCE

He Wrote on Fruit Wrapper, She Read It; Now They Are Married.

North Yakima, Wash.—Following the receipt here of the announcement of the marriage of C. E. Denny of Cle Elum to Miss Clara Ripp of Minneapolis, Minn., friends of Mr. Denny are telling of the romantic manner in which their courtship was started. Mr. Denny was packing peaches last summer.

In response to a dare he wrote his name on one of the wrappers and presently received a letter from the Minneapolis girl, who had noticed the name while canning peaches in her mother's kitchen. She said she thought the Yakima country would be a nice place to live in, and Denny agreed that it would—for them. He essayed to convince her by mail and succeeded so well that his friends had no doubt about his whereabouts when he disappeared in November.

IS IDENTIFIED BY A SCAR

Pennsylvania Woman Thus Establishes Her Right to Share in Estate.

Waynesboro, Pa.—When an effort was made recently to settle the estate of Mrs. Barbara Hess of this section, proceedings were begun in the Orphans' court to declare Mrs. Alice Kohler Hooper, formerly of Highfield, and a legatee, dead. Mrs. Hooper, who left Highfield 20 years ago and had not returned and who, some years ago, was married to a Mr. Ham, noticed a few weeks ago an advertisement of the proceeding and immediately wrote to the clerk of the courts.

The only means of identification was a scar on her wrist which an uncle with whom she had lived as a girl recalled. The judges were satisfied with the identification and she will come into her inheritance.

Teacher May Aid Cupid.

Little Rock, Ark.—An Arkansas school teacher is under no obligations to prevent flirting among his pupils and can not be disciplined by his school board even if he encourages affairs of the heart among the youthful charges. This dictum, couched in dignified legal language, was laid down by the Arkansas supreme court.

Boy Sues for Loss of Finger.

New York.—A city in New York state has been sued for $2,000 damages for the loss of a boy's finger in a public school. The boy was directed by the teacher to shut the door. As he was doing so the door slammed shut and one of the boy's fingers was so badly crushed that it had to be amputated.

DEPTH OF A SEED BED

Prairie Soil Was Plowed to a Six-Inch Depth and Disked.

Small Grain Harrowed Until Six Inches High and Corn Treated With Same Implement as Long as Possible—Prevent Evaporation.

Three years ago I took charge of a dry farm. The soil was a good loam containing a great many boulders left by a glacial drift. At one time wheat in this section gave large yields but during the dry seasons the crop fell down to six to twelve bushels the acre which was scarcely worth fussing with at harvest time and stock was turned into many of the fields. I began the work of tackling virgin prairie. The neighbors thought I was crazy because I plowed the prairie soil six inches deep and followed the plow with a disk several times; because I harrowed the small grain until it was six inches high; because I harrowed the corn every week so long as possible and then plowed it each week with a very small tooth cultivator. But they were surprised at harvest time because some of that land gave a return of $32 the acre, writes Clifford Willis in Denver Field and Farm.

Last year many of the fields in the vicinity were prepared and plowed better than they have been for some time because the farmers saw more bushels as the result and bushels meant dollars. I also had to work on some heavy soil. A part of this land was turned six inches deep while some was plowed only four inches. In each case the disk followed the plow and would have been still better if I had cross-disked before plowing as I am now doing. Everything possible was done to make a good firm seed bed and also to prevent evaporation. Many people in the vicinity thought it strange that we would harrow our small grain when it was six inches high.

While working in the field stirring the soil, although dry, many of my brother farmers were not even in the field. We have harvested more and better grain than many of our neighbors simply because we kept at work. On the six-inch breaking of adobe the corn gave a yield of thirty-eight bushels the acre while four-inch breaking gave a yield of less than thirteen bushels. In cultivating our crops in the dry area we followed these three factors—a deep seed bed, a firm seed bed and surface cultivation. In every instance we disked our ground just as soon as possible after harvest and on the corn ground we disked the stalks in order to cut them up and also to make a mulch.

CONSERVE MOISTURE IN SOIL

Dry Farms Should Be So Worked That Large Quantity of Water Is in Soil at Harvesting Time.

It is always dangerous to permit the soil of a dry farm to become very dry, especially below the first foot. Dry farms should be so manipulated that even at the harvesting season a comparatively large quantity of water remains in the soil to a depth of eight feet or more. The larger the quantity of water in the soil in the fall, the more readily and quickly will the water that falls on the land during the resting period of fall, winter and early spring sink into the soil and move away from the top-soil. The top or first foot will always contain the largest percentage of water, because it is the chief receptacle of the water that falls as rain or snow, but when the subsoil is properly moist, the water will more completely leave the top-soil. Further, crops planted on a soil saturated with water to a depth of eight feet are almost certain to mature and yield well.

C 5351 Jan 5 1915.

To The Heirs of Laban Meadows formerly of Solano N. M. Contestee: You are hereby notified that Edwin H. Hughes who gives Solano New Mexico, as his postoffice address, did on Jan. 4th 1915 file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your homestead, Entry Serial No. 04 made July 1st 1908, for the SW $\frac{1}{4}$ Section 33, Township 19 North Range 27 East, N. M. P. Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said Laban Meadows abandoned said land on or about the 20th. day of Nov. 1912 and has since that time failed to reside upon or cultivate any part of said land, Affiant states that he is informed and believes that said Laban Meadows died at Frisco, Texas on or about the 10th day of January 1914. That since the date of the death of the said entryman his heirs have failed to cultivate any part of said land.

Affiant further states that he has made diligent search and inquiry regarding the names and places of residence of the heirs of said Laban Meadows but is unable to learn either their names or addresses.

That F. H. Hartzog of McKinny, Texas is administrator of the estate of said Laban Meadows.

You are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken by this office as having been confessed by you, and your said entry will be canceled thereunder without further right to be heard therein, either before this office or on appeal, if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the FOURTH publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically meeting and responding to these allegations of contest, or if you fail within that time to file in this office due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail. If this service is made by the delivery of a copy of your answer to the contestant in person, proof of such service must be either the said contestant's written acknowledgment of his receipt of the copy, showing the date of its receipt, or the affidavit of the person by whom the delivery was made stating when and where the copy was delivered; if made by registered mail, proof of such service must consist of the affidavit of the person by whom the copy was mailed stating when and the postoffice to which it was mailed, and this affidavit must be accompanied by the postmaster's receipt for the letter.

You should state in your answer the name of the postoffice to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.
