TAKE CARE OF GRANDMA

"After little boy grows up so fast," said grandma, "that some sunny day he'll wake, and be a man, at last, and wander from her far away. Oh, then what shall his poor old grandma do?" "Don't worry, said he. "I'll take care of you!"

"I fear her boy may soon forget," sighed grandma, "those who love him here, and leave them with scarce one regret, may be without one sigh or tear, a tender look beamed in his eyes of blue; He whispered: "Grandma, I'll take care of you!"

"But Grandma will be very old, and only in the way, she fear;" His chubby arms her neck infold, His earnest eyes are full of tears— "And oft we give the old love for the new!" "But Grandma," said he, "I'll take care of you!"

"I'll build for you a house so fine; And you shall have six easy-chairs; Dozens of servants, when you dine, And lots of comforts every-where!" While Grandma smiled at him, her knitting through, Don't fret, said he, "for I'll take care of you!"

Dear Grandma softly shades her eyes— The sunlight, may be, makes them weep; Close to her heart her darling lies, Rocked in a calm and gentle sleep. And kisses fall upon the lips, so true, That said: "Don't worry; I'll take care of you!"

—George Cooper.

DON'T TELL MOTHER

I wish I could be heard by every mother, so they would know how many times their children say the above words. They would indeed be shocked beyond question. A mother goes along a certain routine, with her mind occupied of the house, the cooking and clothing. And if the children are decently well behaved she pays little attention to their material working. She knows little of their aims, ambition and difficulties; or if they tried to tell her she would find it difficult to see everything from their point of view. So they turned all such effort aside by saying: "Oh, mother would not understand."

And that's just where all we mother's make the largest kind of a mistake, that we don't cultivate the habit from the infancy of our children, to see what they see as they see it, or in the other words, to put yourself in their place.

It would not be easy for a busy mother, cover up with all sorts of cares and troubles, both her own and her husband's. She may be living strenuous life in the effort to make ends meet.

But nevertheless, if she is once impressed with the importance of the subject, of how many girls that have gone astray, nice, quiet behaved girls, who had never given a moment's anxiety, who had possibly been their main stay, and chief dependence, in an unexpected moment are led away in a direction different from what any one expected.

I have in mind a lovely mother who had several beautiful girls. She had always worked very hard herself, and was naturally ambitious that they should be free from a life of drudgery, as she called the ordinary life of a farm. So one was given a musical education, another had a business training, both doing exceedingly well. Meanwhile the oldest helped in every way, helped father manage the farm, helped and sympathized with mother in the care and education of the other girl, and was herself a perfect jewel. Withal, rather self-contained and dignified, no one had her confidence. Her mother was so intensely busy with her cares, she never stopped to think of the longing for sympathy, that was covered by that cool dignity, all the more intense because so repressed.

But a young man found it out. One who worked for her father, had been trusted and valuable help for a number of years, was a good worker and well appreciated in his place as a foreigner and a helper. But suddenly, and like a thunder-clap, came his marriage to this oldest daughter. In vain the father stormed, the mother wept, the sisters plead or were angry, it made no difference; she thought she had found the sympathy and confidence she missed. What were her feelings in a few years to realize that his ideals was not her own; that he would sometimes take a drink with "friends," so did not always come home quite straight.

She found he could never take a place among her friends, and among her family only under protest.

Now I feel the cause was that the mother was too busy to cuddle and fondly that good girl, who did not invite such advances. But if she had commenced when the child was small to try to win her childish confidence, it would not have been easy, she was probably shy, but a few extra hugs and kisses, her confidence might have been gained. And the habit formed of telling mother, to the saving of much unhappiness to all.

—Modern Home.

Woman and the Farm.

In defining woman's relation to the life of the farm, one needs but little reflection to become aware of the all-pervading quality of that relationship. Just as the monarch of France, when asked to define the state, exclaimed, "The state; I am the state." So might the farmer's wife, when questioned as to the life of the farm, respond, "I am the life of the farm."

STEVENS

The STEVENS No. 339 Double Barrel Hammerless Shotgun—is strongest where other guns are weakest. The barrels and legs are drop-forged in one piece—of high pressure steel, choke bored for nitro powder—with matted rib.

Pick up this gun and feel the balance of it—examine the working parts closely and see the fine care and finish of detail—you will say it's a winner. It lists at only $20.00 and will be expressed prepaid direct from the factory in case you cannot secure it through a dealer.

Saved Child From Death.

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless.

Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." For coughs, colds, hoarseness, la-grippe, asthma, croup and sore lungs, its the most infallible remedy that's made. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Sincerest Form of Flattery.

MAN WHO CULTIVATES BOUND TO WIN

(By H. N. Kerr, Roswell, N. M.)

What are we claim holders staying in New Mexico for? What is your claim of 320 acres worth if it was deeded? If land around us is selling at from $12 to 20 per acre, in five years from your filing it certainly will sell for $20.

At the rate above we, on a 320 acre tract, are making over $100 per month on a five year run. Suppose in five years it will sell for $10 per acre, making a rate of $50 per month for really doing nothing. We growl at hard times but in reality we don't know what hard times are. As we travel over the southwest we see hundred of people living only in a wagon with a large family. We look at those unfortunate people and wonder what they really think of themselves. In the large cities there are thousands of people who haven't anything. We look at that class and wonder how they live. Half of them don't live at all.

At any rate we can't be making less than $25 per month on a five year run and, gentlemen, that is certainly better than always depending on others and working for others for a life time or living in a wagon with others.

We cuss the rain and we cuss the drouth, while we have almost as much rain as the Kansas farmer. Our average rainfall is a bove 15 inches, the twenty inch belt is only slightly east of us.

At Mineola, Kan., the rainfall is twenty-one inches. But do they always get it. No not by any means. Last year they get less than ten inches to make their corn. If we get our fifteen inches we can grow as good crops as the Iowa and Illinois $200 an acre lands. If we can get eight inches of rain we can praise God from whom all blessing flow.

A man who denies the above figures surely has something wrong with his liver. This country can and does afford great pleasure from the fruits of the labors of the man who spits on his hands and says, "I will, if the Lord wills." There is not one farmer in ten who can farm like he wants to, but its our best that counts and the best we have to go upon. Some of us cannot get our land in proper condition this year on account of a dry winter, but let's one and all do the best we can and hope for surprising results. The man who cultivates will win.—Portales Times.

IN MEMORY.

Sarona, Ellen Lee was born April 10th, 1901 Near Wills-point Vanzant county, Texas, and died April 30th, 1911, at 1:40 A. M. in the St. Mary's Hospital at Roswell N. M. she was 10 years and 19 days old.

Little Sarona will long be remembered for her sweet disposition and her kindness of heart won the hearts of all, both young and old. She was a favorite among her school mates and was an obedient pupil in school. She loved her Sunday school and was a regular attendant. She was kind at home and a dutiful obedient child, and to her parents will was her greatest desire and pleasure. Her last words, "Mama I am going to Heaven, and I want you to go to."

Dear bereaved parents what consoling words. Though we cannot understand now but some day we shall be made to know all things.

Funeral services were held at the house, conducted by Rev. C. D. Spillman. A large concourse of friends were present to sympathize with the bereaved parents.

Her remains were interred in the new Kenna cemetery, on beautiful May day.

LAST FOND REMEMBRANCE.

Farewell mother, weep not for me
For I have gone to rest,
It would not have been so but
Jesus thought it best.

To fold my tiny hand's upon
My weary breast,
He said dear child, come unto me
I will give you rest.

Father who was good and kind
You'll miss me for awhile
But only hope and only trust
Some day to meet your child.

Where all is peace and love
No farewell words are said
No sorrow is known above
No tears of sorrow shed,

And little sister pure and sweet,
Meet me up above,
For there we'll sit at Jesus feet
And share his precious love.

There is only your dear Jewel
To shine at home the light
For sister dear has gone above
Where there is no more night.

Schoolmates dear, one and all
I now say good bye
But I trust it won't be long
You'll meet me in the sky.

Dearest friends far and near
Do not weep for me
But meet me in a brighter land
In our home beyond the sea.

Father, mother and sister dear,
How happy I will be
Waiting for you all to come
To our home beyond the sea.

All is dark within your dwelling
Lonely are your hearts today
For the one you loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.

Mrs. Claude J. Marbut.

WORDS OF THANKS.

We want to thank our friends for their kindness through the sickness and death of our precious darling, Sarona, you may never know how we appreciate your kind assistance. May God bless you all. We shall always remember you in all we do and think of you as our beloved friends. We so miss our little darling for she was more precious than rubies, but God's will be done. He selects the sweetest buds and transplants them in an eternal garden of love where they will bloom forever in perfection. All friends and christians pray for us.

Her bereaved parents,
Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lee.

CARTRIDGES

The straight shooting, hard-hitting, sure-firing 22's.

The reason why UMC .22 Cartridges are the best is that they are made with precisely the same care, the same tested materials and undergo the same rigid safeguards, as the heavier calibre, big-game-shooting UMC ammunition.

UMC .22's are also made with the heavy hollow point bullets, thereby increasing their shocking and killing power over the old solid bullet.

A new cemetery has been plotted three quarters of a mile south of town on the southwest quarter of W. D. Chancey's land. The old cemetery has proven unsatisfactory to our citizens on account of the location, it will therefore be abandoned as soon as arrangements can be made to transfer the dead that are buried there.

The remains of little Sarona Lee were laid to rest in the new cemetery, her grave being the first to mark the spot.

Several of our citizens are in Roswell this week attending court. The docket for the May term is said to be the heaviest in the history of the court.

The eastern states are in the throes of a cold snap, said to be the worst May storm they have ever had. Better come out to New Mexico, but don't bring the blizzard. We have garden sass out here.

Out upon the sandy plains
 Where the camp fire burned bright,
 Two young trappers gathered close;
 On a dark and stormy night.
 The coyotes soon began to howl,
 The bob-cats raised a wail,
 When I turned to my pal and said,
 "Hadn't we better hit the trail?"

But he raised and shook his head,
 And drew a great big knife;
 Saying "we will stand our ground
 And fight all night for life."
 Just then a coyote's eyeballs glared

Outside our window bright;
 Then a bobcat gave a screech
 That made us brave to fight.
 Then our enemies tucked their tails
 And started on a trot,
 But we were glad to see them go

And took a friendly shot.
 My pal, he shot the leader
 And killed his lordship dead,
 And with a few more shots,
 We both crawled back in bed.
 We were sleeping safe and sound

With no fear of further foes,
 When a bobcat hit the ground
 And broke our calm repose.
 The monster gave a hideous growl
 And sprang upon my pal;
 Then I got busy with my 22.
 And shot to see him fall.

When the smoke had cleared away
 We found our foe, stone dead,
 And we got back without a scratch,
 And our venture now you've read

THERAINS.

The rains have brightened the spirit of man, woman and child on the dry claims, and those that have been working in and near the city have gone back to the claim since the last rain. They have been looking hesitatingly toward the "160" all spring, and many of them had gone before. But since the heavy rains the first of the week they have hesitated no longer and have gone back to raise a crop. They feel that the crop for the year is assured now and they seem to have good prospects.—The Roswell Register-Tribune.

A young man has the idea there is no chance to succeed without money; this is a delusion.

Often a young man gets started the wrong way; he can readily find a package of cigarettes, a billiard hall or some other loafing place; he takes life too easily; then drifts with the tide instead of rowing against the current.

You must make the years of your young manhood years of endeavor; years of training, years of cultivation of the mind and of preparation for work.

During these years the young man is laying the foundation of his character, and besides preparing himself for his work, he should seek the associations of good people.

There is no chance for a dissipated young man or an idler.

But there are brighter prospects for a young man of good principles and good habits who is determined to succeed. Our young man must fit himself for some definite work and then go in to win. We need today young men of honesty and integrity; young men trained for some work, and devotion to that work, young men who avoid envying luxuries, keeping clear of the thieves of time and who practice the old virtue of close application to the work in hand.—Selected

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No, never. Its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malaria germs that causes ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood.

High Grade Rice in Manchuria.

Experiments in the growing of rice in Manchuria are said to show that rice can be grown there more profitably than in China proper or Japan, and more profitably than either corn or soya beans. The season is short, but long enough to produce high grade rice.
