

Spring 6-7-1982

Untitled

Joan Leindecker
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.cod.edu/plr>

---

Recommended Citation

Leindecker, Joan (1982) "Untitled," The Prairie Light Review: Vol. 1 : No. 3 , Article 35.
Available at: <https://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol1/iss3/35>

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@COD. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@COD. For more information, please contact orenick@cod.edu.

I see you little girl
 So warm so dear
 your bright eyes shining peacefully today
 Tell me of your soul
 content in the important way
 Your blue eyes shimmer
 soft as a moonlit ocean
 Your smile springs from the corners of your mouth
 Making your cheeks round and looking pleased with yourself
 And why shouldn't you be?
 I'm pleased with you too.
 Although I will go away soon and miss to see you grow
 I will remember the sweet heart
 I saw through your eyes
 Being satisfied to say in years to come
 That I shared some moments in the spring of her life
 When her eyes shimmered blue of an early morning hue
 And her soft voice beckoned to play in the water just a little more.
 So we did enjoy the days
 watching your free spirit stretch out Filling mine with the joy of your springtime heart.

Louise Kolakovich

... We Go Round

Gotta get gas before we start,
 At last we're off to the supermart.
 Two by two and one in the cart,
 On a cold and frosty morning.

Swing your basket round the bend,
 There's Joy and Cheer and Bounce at the end.
 Maybe I'll even run into a friend,
 On a cold and frosty morning.

Round and round the aisles we wind.
 A song keeps turning around in my mind.
 Where am I going? What will I find,
 On a cold and frosty morning?

It isn't cool to pick your nose,
 And don't get gum all over your clothes.
 (Is this the role I freely chose,
 On a magical April morning?)

The baby howls but he's dry as a bone.
 (He's beginning to look like his father's clone.)
 And he chants the song of an ice cream cone,
 On a cold and frosty morning.

Fingering through a magazine,
 I wait in line. What's it all mean?
 The gossip, the glamour and haute cuisine,
 On a cold and frosty morning?

Where are the dreams I dreamed with you,
 Am I too blind to see they came true?
 There's never time to think it through,
 On a cold and frosty morning.

Ring me up so I can pay.
 We'll trundle our bundles and be on our way.
 The clouds unveil a crystal day,
 But a cold and frosty morning.

Its the children that make me smile and realize that the lollipop has just been licked... not eaten.
 Joan Leindecker

Barbara McDownell