Youth Arrested In Rives Thefts

Farmhand Confesses To Obion Sheriff; Hearing Yesterday

Union City, Tenn., April 12—A young farmhand, a native of Ohio and on parole from that state, has confessed to a series of burglaries in the business section of Rives Wednesday night that netted him a total of less than $10 sheriff's officers have revealed.

The youth, William Samuel Hall, 17, of 51 Chestnut street, Niles, O., was arrested at about 1 p. m. Thursday by Chief Deputy Sheriff Elbert Burcham at the farm home of Chester Phebus, near Rives, where the boy had been working since last Saturday.

Young Hall appeared in a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Fletcher Tate at 2 p. m. yesterday on charges of house-breaking and larceny.

Mr. Burcham said that the youth had made a full confession to the Rives burglaries following his arrest. The series of three burglaries and an attempted entry into another store netted $9.15, a flashlight, a pair of pliers, a screw driver and some candy bars.

Hall threw three rolls of pennies and a flashlight taken from the Rives postoffice into the city pond at Rives, Burcham said. The young burglar said that he had always wanted a pistol and was seeking a gun in the Wednesday night break-ins.

According to the story reconstructed by the sheriff's office, young Hall came to Obion county last Saturday from his home in Ohio. He had worked on the Phebus farm for a while last summer and obtained a position again as a farmhand with Mr. Phebus.

A complete check of the burglaries Wednesday night revealed that Hall had taken $6.45 in nickels and dimes and three rolls of pennies amounting to $1.50 and the flashlight from the Rives postoffice; $1.20 in change from the Farmers and Merchants Bank, and the wire pliers and screw driver from the Jennings service station.

U. S. Machine Too Big For French

Cheerbourg—(AP)—A 30-ton machine, made in America and shipped to France for use in the Renault automobile factory, stumped engineers after they unloaded it from the ship.

The railroads were unable to transport it in one piece, and the engineers were afraid that bridges would break down under its weight if they were carried by truck.

Despite snow and ice on the road, however, the engineers had to chance it and using a captured German artillery transport and tractor they virtually inched their way to the capital. The bridges held up. The 220 mile trip took four days and a half to the factory gate, where a wheel broke under the machine's weight just as it arrived.

Then the Renault people found they didn't have a door big enough to bring the machine through and had to batter down a wall to get it installed.

King Of England Finds Pen Pal For Veteran

New Wilmington, Pa.—(AP)—Wallace Abel, Uniontown, Pa., was veteran now studying journalism at Westminster College, has renewed a pre-war correspondence with a British "pen pal"—thanks to the help of King George VI of England.

Some years ago Abel secured the name of Kenneth Kirby, of Stretford, Manchester, England, from the "pen pal" section of a comic book, but they lost track of each other during the war.

Following his discharge from service, Abel attempted to renew the correspondence, but all his letters were returned. Finally he wrote directly to King George and within a few weeks received Kirby's serial number with instructions to use it as an address.

House Group Approves Bill To Stop Strikes

CIO Organizes Labor Opposition To Legislation

ACTS SWIFTLY

Washington, April 12—(AP)—Organized CIO opposition to labor legislation shaping up by both House and Senate appeared in the offing today.

Both bills have drawn fire from the CIO, which has three war councils on tap for today.

Washington, April 12—(AP)—The House Labor Committee formally approved today, 18 to 4, a bill to clamp sharp restrictions on strikes and labor unions.

It took the Committee only eight minutes for the final vote. It had approved the measure informally in all details yesterday.

Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) told reporters there will be no "substantial changes" on the House floor when the bill comes up for debate next Tuesday.

and Sunday, including a mass meeting Sunday of 250 delegates from all CIO unions.

Except for a formal and final vote today, the House Committee has completed action on a bill designed to ban or restrict many present union practices.

The House bill would ban the closed shop, industry-wide bargaining, jurisdictional strikes, mass picketing, secondary boycotts and union political contributions. It also would permit government action to halt strikes affecting the national welfare.

A Republican-colation is in the saddle in the Senate Committee where a milder bill appears in the making. The group agreed on some portions of the measure yesterday, then recessed for the week end.

Chairman Tiaf (R-Ohio) said the Senate Committee approved a ban on the closed shop and like the House Committee, favored permitting the union shop under certain conditions. No decision was reached on outlawing industry-wide bargaining—opposed by the coalition.

Senator Thomas (D-Utah) said the voting frequently saw Republican Senators Ives (NY), Aiken (VT) and Morse (Ore) joining Democrats Hill (ALA), Pepper (Fla), Murray (Mont), Ellender (La) and Thomas. On the other side were Republicans Taft, Ball (Minn), Jenner (Ind), Smith (NJ) and Donnell (Mo). Thomas said Ellender sometimes swung over to the Republican side.

Fulton County Doubles Quota

Easter Seals Sales Net More Than $1000

Fulton County's donations to the Easter Seals Campaign doubled the quota of $500.00, and a check for $1007.92 was mailed to the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children yesterday.

Rube McKnight, county chairman of the drive, in a statement yesterday said, "I would like to express my appreciation to the workers who participated in the Easter Seals campaign for their time and efforts, and to the people of Fulton county for their generous contributions and voluntary response."

"As our quota was only $500.00 for Fulton County, we are happy to report to you that our final figures show that we received from all sources $1007.92, exceeding our quota by better than 100%."

J. R. Hogan served as Fulton chairman of the drive and the Rotary Club was the sponsor. Rotarians worked the business district and the response was excellent.

At Hickman, Mrs. Walker Hyde was the chairman, and the Woman's Civic Club sponsored the campaign. A total of $390.67 was donated by Hickman.

Strike Enters Sixth Day; Union Settles Down For Siege; Look To Govt. For Next Move

Adm. Officials Talk Privately Of Gov't. Seizure

W. Kentucky Press Meets In Mayfield; 10 Editors Present

Mayfield, April 12—Mayfield will be host to the West Kentucky Press Association meeting to be held here this afternoon and evening at the Hall hotel. Newspapers from fourteen Western Kentucky counties will be represented with reservations having been made for about 40 editors and owners. Lawrence Turner, editor of the Hickman County Gazette, is president of the group.

At a dinner to be held at 7 o'clock, T. P. Smith noted after-dinner speaker will address the gathering.

The business session will open at 2 o'clock and from 4:30 until 5 o'clock a round-table discussion will be broadcast over radio station WKTVM.

Both Beirne and officials of the mammoth Bell Telephone System left the door open for continued government efforts to end the dispute over wages and other contract demands.

Administration officials talked privately of possible seizure of the industry by President Truman under provisions of the Federal Communications Act, but they showed little enthusiasm for this solution.

Secretary of Labor Schweikert weighed his reply to a proposal by the NFTW's policy committee that the government sponsor a face-to-face meeting between union leaders and top officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, with press and radio reporters invited.

So far there has been no meeting between Beirne and C. F. Craig, A. T. & T. vice president who helped bring off a settlement of last year's threatened telephone walkout 25 minutes before it was scheduled to begin. Craig has conferred several times privately with Labor Department officials.

Meantime in upstate New York a strike of maintenance and plant employees against the New York Telephone Company was settled with an agreement to arbitrate a demand for a $12 weekly wage hike.

Company spokesmen hailed the development as the "first break" in the nationwide strike. The settlement affects only plant and maintenance workers outside of New York City.

New Jersey's governor, Alfred E. Driscoll, was hopeful that full telephone service will be restored in his state shortly pending outcome of a test of New Jersey's new anti-public utility law. Striking board operators are challenging constitutionality of the new state law.

Driscoll said he hoped that a meeting of NPTW officials with state mediation board Chairman Walter T. Margrett, Jr., could be arranged today.

The long lines union allowed the midnight deadline set by the A. T. & T.—parent of the Bell System—to pass without accepting what was described as the company's "final proposal" for settling the strike on its long lines division.

While this division includes only 20,000 of the 300,000 odd NPTW members, they are regarded as key figures in the strike.

The A. T. & T. had told the American Union of Telephone Workers, the NPTW's affiliate for long distance employees, that unless the offer was taken up by midnight, it would be withdrawn.

"Then I suppose we will have to start all over again," said George S. Dring, assistant vice-president of the A. T. & T. long lines department and chief spokesman for the company in those strategic negotiations.

John J. Morgan, president of the long lines union, said "We'll just have to stand by and see what happens now."

Moran and Dring reached a tentative agreement Wednesday night on arbitration of wages and several associated issues among the ten basic demands the long lines union shares with its fellow strikers across the U. S. They also agreed on what to do about 81 other issues which involved only the long lines workers.

But the whole proposal had to meet the approval of the NPTW's 49-member policy committee. Moran warned, or the long distance operators would remain on the picket lines. The policy committee withheld approval, saying it was contrary to policy to agree to arbitrate

Whither Goest Thou?—Armageddon?

By Dewitt MacKenzie.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

One of the highly important questions in connection with President Truman's policy of Greco-Turkish aid naturally is how long it may take to complete the program, and some administration officials have expressed the hope that it can be done in fifteen months.

Senator Taft, head of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, also told a reporter yesterday that his approval of the bill to implement the new policy was given reluctantly and with the hope that the program could be ended in a year or fifteen months. He added:

"Once the treaties are ratified, Russia is committed to withdraw her troops from the Balkan countries within ninety days, except for those left to protect communication lines in Austria. If the Russians get out, as they have promised to do, I think the threat that Greece and Turkey will fall under Communist domination will end. In that case I can see no further reason for our continuing to give them assistance."

One notes the use of the word "hope" rather than "expectation" in both cases. And indeed there are a good many "ifs" to be accounted for before the hope becomes a reality.

In the first place, of course, we must get an agreement among the big four on the German and Austrian treaties. The latter shouldn't be too difficult to negotiate, but the pact for Germany is one of the toughest ever undertaken, because that country is the politico-economic-military keystone for the reconstruction of chaotic Europe. Moreover, the treaty is being negotiated by Allies who are split into two camps.

Before that German treaty can be written there must be a tremendous lowering of the barriers between Russia and the Western Allies. There must be a removal of the hostile distrust now existing. There must be a vast amount of give and take—and it won't be easy, for Russia has emerged as the dominant power of the continent and the readjustment will come hard.

We must get a precise definition of the aims and ambitions of the so-called western bloc and the Russian bloc. The term "bloc" has come to be an unhappy one, but blocs exist and must be recognized. What each bloc wants to know, and must know, about the other is "quo vadis?"—whither goest thou?

As things now stand each bloc is charging the other with skull-duggery. On the Western front Senator Tom Connally, speaking for many, declares that the Soviets are aiming for "world domination."

Moscow says bluntly that the Western democracies—the capitalistic nations—are trying to encircle Russia and circumvent her legitimate aspirations. Uncle Sam, with his atomic bomb, is the villain in the piece.—Pronounced like peace but far from the latter in meaning.

Well, that's some obstacle to overcome in fifteen months! We "hope" that it may be achieved, but there certainly is no assurance that it will be. And even if we do get that German treaty, there still remains another problem which can only be solved by the elimination of hostility between the two blocs and the restoration of the old amity which carried us through the war.

I refer to the fact that every Eastern European and Central European country which Russia has communized is to all intents a member of the Soviet Union even though retaining so-called sovereignty. Every one of the satellites obeys the word of Moscow without question. For example, Greece and the Western Allies maintain that Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria are bolstering and aiding the Communist revolt in Greece.

So we see that the withdrawal of Russian troops from occupied areas wouldn't necessarily insure the security of sovereign states of that zone—unless we get a complete showdown between the two blocs in advance.

It was with this in mind that in yesterday's column we ventured to advocate a meeting of the Big Four chiefs of state to see if amity can't be restored.

Bustles Again Cherbourg Port

Cherbourg —(AP)—Cherbourg rapidly is regaining her pre-war bustle and importance.

With Havre now dropped as the French port for the big passenger ships, more freight ships also are putting in here.

Eight or more large American ships are almost constantly tied up and being unloaded at the deep-water quays in the Melles bay. The Americans, using the port for shipping their supplies to the United States occupation forces in Europe, restored most of the other docks destroyed by the Germans when they left.

But with the number of boats putting in and with the speed-up in unloading for a quick turn-around, every available bit of docking space generally is filled.

Viper venom is secreted in a pair of glands near the mouth and is carried to the fangs by a short duct in which also supplementary sets of fangs develop.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bertie Pique, Mr. and Mrs. Dub Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Strange and daughter, Ann, Mrs. Ellen Norman, Mrs. H. W. Shupe, Mrs. Attila Hemphill and Mr. I. L. Filler.

Religious ? Box

Charles L. Houser
Q—Was the Philippian jailer baptized in jail?
A—Please read Acts 16:29-34 and you will observe the following points: Vs. 29 he "sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas." Vs. 30 he "brought them out, and washed their stripes; and was baptized." Vs. 34 he "brought them into his house." Hence, the jailer brought them out of where they had been, took them where sufficient water for a baptismal service could be found, was baptized, after which he extended to his new friends the hospitality of his home.

Q—Why were the people mentioned in the first part of Acts 19 rebaptized?
A—Apollos, the influential evangelist of Alexandria, had not learned that the baptism of John had served its purpose, and had been succeeded by the baptism of the gospel. Hence, when he went to Ephesus, he administered John's baptism to those who accepted his preaching. But when Paul explained that John's work was of a preparatory nature, that he only endeavored to get the people ready for the coming of Christ, and that since the Kingdom of our Lord had already come John's preparatory baptism was no longer of any value, they were then baptized in the name of the Lord.—(See Acts 18:20 to 19:5).

WOMEN NOW EXCEL IN ELEPHANT TRAINING

Beauty and the Beast

Miss Josephine Misco Teaches Elephants to Dance the Carioca and Continental

Of all beasts, the elephant is probably the most sagacious. He never forgets. No one ever thought of anyone training the big fellows except men until a few years ago.

But woman is coming into her own. Lady police women, lady politicians. But the latest are lady elephant trainers. They are rapidly forging to the front in this line, avers Miss Josephine Misco, famous trainer with the Great King Bros. Circus coming to Union City, Tenn., Tuesday April 15, for performances at 2 and 8 p. m.

"Our circus carries a herd of elephants and most of them are trained in all sorts of difficult elephant performances," declared Miss Misco recently. "A task requiring patience and perseverance, and a close continuous study of the nature of each individual animal. After a lapse of half a century the elephant will conduct this performance as perfectly as if but 24 hours had gone by."

There are two distinct species of elephants. The Asiatic differs from the African, not only in its greater size and in the characteristics of the teeth and skull, but also in the comparatively small form of the ears. The intelligence of the former class is greater, too, than that of the African brute."

Miss Misco's chief claim to fame as an elephant trainer lies in the terpsichorean ability of the herd she works. With surprising skill they dance the Carioca and the Continental.

Yeah, our old friend the elephant is surely going places. Adv.

Roundup, a monthly, mimeographed magazine of Denver to former members of the 44th Air Service Group which was based at Dinjan, India, during the war. Major League Training Camps

By The Associated Press
 St. Louis.—(AP)—Both the St. Louis Cardinals and the St. Louis Browns will present starting lineups of veterans when the two intra-city rivals meet in the opener of a two-game series at Sportsman's Park today.

Denny Galehouse and Bob Muncie will toss for the Browns and Red Mungler, Howie Pollet and John Grodzicki for the Red Birds.

Chicago.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox resume their intra-city series with the Chicago Cubs at Comiskey Park today. Yesterday's scheduled tilt was rained out. The Sox, as a result of games in California, lead the Browns, three games to two in their spring series.

Manager Ted Lyons of the Palehosse planned to use four pitchers in an effort to select Tuesday's opening game starter against Bob Feller at Cleveland. Joe Haynes, Orval Grove, John Rigney and Ed Lopat were stated to pitch for the Sox while Manager Charley Grimm planned to send Paul Erickson and Johnny Schmitz to the hill for the Cubs.

Grimm hasn't abandoned the idea of starting Hank Borowy against Pittsburgh in the Browns' opening game Tuesday since Borowy's blistered finger is healing. Outfielder Bill Nicholson, however, has definitely been ruled out of the lineup because of a pulled muscle which is so deep in his right thigh that it is difficult to work on with heat and massage treatments.

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—With their starting lineup for opening day set, the Detroit Tigers today began their last exhibition series, taking on the Louisville Colonels. After an open gate Monday, the Tigers will begin their 1947 American League season against the Browns in St. Louis. Manager Steve O'Neill announced yesterday that right field and first base, two hitherto doubtful spots in the Detroit lineup, would be filled by Pat Mullin and Roy Cullenbine respectively.

Columbus, O.—(AP)—Manager Billy Herman of the Pittsburgh Pirates is unable to decide whether he should play next Tuesday in the Bucs' season opener against the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field. The second base job is wide open since Eddie Basinski, drafted from St. Paul, has proved weak at the bat. Herman is now debating whether he or Jimmie Bloodworth should take the post.

New York.—(AP)—The New York Giants wind up their spring training season with the Cleveland Indians at their native Polo Grounds today and tomorrow. The Giants already have beaten the series as they have beaten the Tribe nine times in 15 starts.

Turkeys were living in Colorado thousands of years ago, according to remains uncovered by scientists.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
 New York, April 12.—(AP)—One reason why Hank Greenberg was so reluctant to sign with Pittsburgh was "Oh, my achin' back."

Just before starting North, Hank revealed that a back ailment had bothered him for years and he was about ready to give up when Doc Jorgensen, the Pirate trainer, took charge.

Hank offered: "But you can't make it pop in four weeks." Said Doc: "Bet I can." Jorgensen traced the trouble to Greenberg's fifth lumbar vertebra. Instead of the sacro-iliac that the medics had been trying to fix, and in a few weeks it "popped" and Hank felt a lot better.

So if you should see the Pirate slugger kiss the trainer at home plate on opening day, you'll know the reason. That was the bet.

Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "Former lightweight champion Lou Ambers quit the tavern business. In other words, he isn't dispensing amber fluid any more."

Ted Williams, assuring Southern scribes that he intends to sock one to left occasionally to counteract the "Williams shift," wonders why teams don't try the same move against Hank Greenberg. "He hits to left field as often as I hit to right and he's strictly a pull hitter," says Ted.

Joe Fausen, star prep footballer and wrestler who is scheduled to enter the U. of Iowa, used to deliver ice (A la Red Grange) in his home town of Davenport, Ia. So when the Des Moines Register ran a story about him the other day the headline naturally was: "The iceman cometh to Iowa next fall."

Don Veller, assistant to Bo McMillin at Indiana U. and Duane Purvis, Purdue's freshman football coach, are rivals from away back. They played against each other in 1934, when Don ran 85 yards for Indiana's winning touchdown against Purdue. That winter they were roommates as members of the fast squad for the annual shrine game at San Francisco, and then they became rival high school coaches, Veller at Elkhart, Ind., and Purvis at Michigan City.

Vernon Stephens, Sr., father of the shortstop who jumped from the Browns to Mexico and back again, is one of the new umpires in the Western League. He'll have to make up his mind quicker than Vern, Jr., did.

Southern Bell's Position On The Union Shop

Company Will Not Compel An Employee To Become A Member Of Any Union As A Condition Of Employment

Many of our employees and members of the general public have asked what the company's position is in regard to the union shop. For their information, we make the following statement:

Since its formation in 1879, the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company has operated on the open shop basis.

In our recent bargaining sessions with representatives of the Southern Federation of Telephone Workers, a demand for a union shop was made. We fully discussed and bargained on this matter with those representatives, but informed them of the company's unwillingness to make membership, or lack of membership, in any labor union a condition of employment. We took the position with them, and are still convinced that the services of an employee satisfactory to the company should not be terminated simply because that employee has incurred the disfavor of the union. We also reminded the union representatives that the union shop is illegal under the laws of some of the states in which the company does business, and is in conflict with an existing and binding agreement between the union and the company.

On April 5, the union informed representatives of the United States Conciliation Service and the company that the union shop was being withdrawn by the union as one of its strike issues.

The policy of the company may be stated as follows:

THE COMPANY WILL NOT COMPEL AN EMPLOYEE TO BECOME A MEMBER OF ANY UNION AS A CONDITION OF EMPLOYMENT.

"Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven." ---Mt. 19:14

Our children are the hope and promise of the future. The lifetime of a man is three score and ten years, yet the generations of mankind are unbroken. Our children are but the image of ourselves projected into the years. In these little hearts and souls we must store all our dreams and plans for the future of our community, our state, our nation and our world.

One of the Proverbs teaches us that if we, "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it." There is no better way to assure the good training of a child than to have him attend church every Sunday. Don't send your child to church; bring him to church yourself. Teach him to remember his Creator in the days of his youth. In years to come the memory will remain with him. As a twig is bent so will it grow. Give him something to cling to in the years which lie ahead. Give him a faith that will make him strong and steadfast in the face of sorrow and adversity. Give him a faith that will let his heart and soul rejoice in pleasure and happiness. Take his hand and lead him along the right path.

The environment of a child is important. His home, his school, his neighborhood and his church —all share in the kind of adult he will be. It would be difficult, indeed, to imagine an environment without a church in it. The church plays a great part in the development of a child, both mentally and spiritually. For this reason it is vital that our churches be the best that we know how to make them. Yet a church is no better or no worse than its membership. A church cannot grow and prosper without the support of the community in which it is founded. It will surely wither and die, if neglected by its members. To put off going to church is but to withhold your support. See to it that your child attends Sunday school and church. The best way to be sure of this is to bring him yourself.

We in Fulton are proud of our churches. We realize what an empty and hollow place this would be, if our churches were not here. The church itself can be empty and hollow without your presence. And to stay away too long is but to let your own soul become hollow and empty and lost.

You owe it to yourself, your child, your home, your community, the land in which you live and to your Father in Heaven to come to church Sunday —Come and bring your family and friends with you.
