Jack Carter To Join Martin School System To Be Principal Of Junior High In September

CITY BOARD MEETS

Jack Carter, assistant principal of Carr Institute and Fulton high school coach, submitted his resignation to the Fulton city board of education at its regular meeting last night in the school superintendent's office.

He will become principal of Martin, Tenn., junior high school at the opening of the Fall term there. He was elected to that position by the Martin board of education last night.

Mr. Carter was head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Fulton high, and taught mathematics at Carr. He will have no coaching duties at the Martin school.

A native of La Vergne, Tenn., Mr. Carter was graduated from Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Tex., with the bachelor of science degree, and came to the Fulton city school system in 1930. After four years here he went to Mt. Juliet, Tenn., where he coached football and basketball, and also coached basketball at Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn.

He entered the Navy in 1942, and spent three years in the Pacific theatre. He held the rank of lieutenant when discharged in October, 1945. He returned to Fulton last Fall.

This summer he is working toward the master's degree at Murray state college. Mr. Carter, his wife, the former Miss Jane Dallas, and their 16-month-old son, Jackie, will continue to make their home in Fulton.

With Mr. Carter's resignation, three positions in the Fulton school system are open. Superintendent W. L. Holland reports, "New teachers who are needed for the new high school English and high school library science."

The board of education last night designated the Fulton Bank as the official school depository, and the Owl Drug Company as the school book dealer.

Bertie Pigue was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the board, and Mrs. Martin Hall was re-elected attendance officer.

Hugh Jackson, principal of Milton Colored school, was given a one-year leave of absence. Mrs. A. Z. Tucker will serve as principal, and Ella Hart will teach her classes during this period.

Kentucky Today

Paintsville—This east Kentucky mining center's bus service was disrupted by what a bus firm operator described as a strike of drivers and maintenance men. Oakley Sparks, president of Kentucky-Virginia Stages, Inc., and owner of the bus terminal here, said the walk-out followed "the firing of a disobedient driver."

Free Barbecue Story In Error

Calloway Committee For Waterfield Unable To Feed Crowd Saturday

Through a misunderstanding, information was released at Murray last week that a free barbecue would be held in the city park there on June 14 prior to the opening address in Harry Lee Waterfield's campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Because of the huge crowd expected to attend, and because of the limited time and facilities available, the barbecue will not be held, Waterfield's state headquarters announced today.

The Calloway county committee for Waterfield is making preparation for the greatest crowd in the history of Murray. Streets will be roped off. Stores will be closed for the program, and bands and motorcades will parade through the city.

Free lemonade will be available for everyone.

The candidate will speak at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Murray court house. Motorcades from most First District counties, including a local group headed by Maxwell McDade, will attend the opening rally.

Miss Hardy Dies Suddenly

Services Wednesday At Liberty Baptist Church; Made Home With Parents

Miss Ruby Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hardy, was found dead in a bedroom at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hardy, Route 1, Fulton, at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, June 9. She had been in ill health for about two years.

Miss Hardy, 41, had returned to her parents' home about a month ago after being with an uncle, Joe Hardy, in Baltimore, Md., for the past year. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, at the Liberty Baptist church, of which she was a member, with the pastor, the Rev. Bob Coyne, officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery. White-Ranson Funeral Home, Union City, is in charge of arrangements.

Palbearers will be Ben Maupin, Dick Polsgrove, Loren Bizzell, Pinkney Fleming, Bernard Evans and Tom Key. Miss Hardy was born Sept. 2, 1905, at the present home of her parents, near Jordan. She was a graduate of the Jordan schools.

In addition to her parents she leaves one sister, Mrs. Charles Nolen, Union City; five brothers: Floyd, Wilber, Sam and Edwin, Fulton; and J. O. "Tobe" Hardy, of Plymouth, Mich.; and several uncles, nieces and nephews.

She was the eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. George Hardy, and had never married.

More Soft Coal Miners Walk Out

Protesting Taft-Hartley Bill

Uniontown, Pa., June 10—(AP)—Work stoppages among soft coal miners protesting labor legislation before Congress spread to 20 mines employing 11,204 men today as AFL-United Mine Workers officials pondered their strategy in the idleness they termed "unauthorized."

The raging Mississippi River broke levees which permitted the water to overflow 16,000 acres of farmland and villages between Keokuk, Iowa, and St. Louis, Mo. (shaded area). The record crest was heightened by the overburden of water receding from the Des Moines River, where, at Ottumwa, 16,000 persons were driven from their homes and the swirling tide menaced the municipal hydro-electric plant.

Old Man River At Crest Now

After Flooding Army Engineers See More Damage For Lower Valley

LOW AT HICKMAN

Hannibal, Mo., June 10—(AP)—Floodwaters pouring into the Mississippi River, which already have made more than 20,000 homeless and have inundated nearly 50,000 acres of farm land, in eastern Missouri and western Illinois, appeared today to have reached a high point.

Rivermen and U. S. engineers expressed belief that only further rains would aggravate the situation, but they also said that several river towns in Illinois and Missouri still faced serious flood conditions, despite the promise of receding waters.

U. S. Army engineers and the Coast Guard had every available worker on the job in the flood area and the American Red Cross had 50 staff workers and about 600 volunteers aiding the homeless.

Water was eight to ten feet deep in the village of Alexandria, Mo., near the Iowa line, the result of a levee break, and all residents have been evacuated.

The flood waters have not yet reached as far south as Hickman, Mrs. Mary Howard, editor of the Hickman Courier, told the Leader this morning. The river is lower now than it was earlier in the spring, she said, and it has not been necessary to close the sea wall.

At least one former Fulton couple now is in Ottumwa, Iowa, where eight of Iowa's 12 drownings have occurred in the last few days.

Fred Benedict, former printer on the Daily Leader's mechanical staff, has joined his wife at the home of her parents there. They report that their home is out of the flood zone.

Mr. Benedict formerly was employed at the Hickman County Gazette in Clinton, also published by Harry Lee Waterfield, before joining the staff of the Leader.

Johnny Gill Resigns To Be Replaced As Chicks Manager By Freddy Biggs, Memphis Pitcher

Johnny Gill, hard-hitting outfielder, has been released as manager of the Fulton Chicks at his own request, K. P. Dalton, Fulton Baseball Association president, announced today.

Second-baseman Elmer "Dutch" Gray will head the team until Thursday, June 19, when Freddy Biggs, Memphis Chicks pitcher, will take over his manager.

Gill said he decided to step down because it seemed he couldn't produce a winning ball club for Fulton. The seventh-place Chicks have lost 22 and won 13 this season. They dropped six games in two away from home series at Owensboro and Madisonville to fall from fourth place to one notch out of the cellar.

The ex-manager has had a good year at the plate for Fulton, batting over 400 and staying near the top of Kitty League averages for individual slugging. He has poled out nine homers to date.

Gill said he would return to Nashville, probably tomorrow, where he is joint owner of a restaurant.

He managed the Union City Greyhounds last year in his first season as a skipper following a long playing career in minor and major leagues.

The new manager comes to Fulton highly recommended, Dalton said. Also Biggs will not be a stranger to the Fulton team, since he was in Spring training with them in 1946 at Henderson, Tex. He and Tommy Buck, Fulton third baseman, served together in the Navy.

Two other Chicks have been returned to Greenville, Miss., another Memphis Chick farm club, Dalton added. They are Adolph Morara, left-handed pitcher, and Joe Matas, outfielder, both of whom came to Fulton on option.

The Fulton team expects to receive a new outfielder from Memphis tomorrow or Thursday.

Million-Dollar Strawberry Season Closed Monday Night

Paducah—The first million-dollar strawberry season in the history of the West Kentucky industry ended here last night with shipment of four carloads, bringing the season's total to 484 carloads.

E. S. Barger, secretary of the McCracken county Strawberry Growers Association, explained that advance season predictions of 500 carloads actually did not miss, as most of the 1947 crop was shipped in cars holding 448 crates. Strawberries usually are shipped in 420-crate cars.

Hot weather brought the shipping season to an abrupt end. The only berries left in the field after a few days of scorching sun were blistered and unfit for shipping.

The unofficial 1947 price for berries shipped ranged from $5 to more than $8 per crate.

C. R. Young, ICRR, To Talk On Safety

C. R. Young, Director of Personnel, Illinois Central System, will speak at the Elks club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in connection with the annual drive of the railroad to impress safety precautions upon its employees.

The lecture is primarily for the employees of the railroad, but an invitation to hear Mr. Young has been extended to all who are interested in such work.

In view of the fact that Mr. Young once was employed here by the Illinois Central before being called to Chicago his many friends are especially invited to meet him again.

The Illinois Central is proud that last year it was designated as the safest railway system in the United States. In great part this can be attributed to Mr. Young's work as director of personnel.

High Prices' Effect

It will certainly not come as a shock to newspaper readers to be told that the great postwar spending boom is but a shadow of its former lusty self. It has tapered off in almost all lines, and in some fields it has practically come to a halt. Many of the present speculations of economists deal with the question of whether we are approaching a depression or a recession—the latter being, of course, a sort of midge-size depression. Opinion on this runs the whole gamut, from the optimists who think business and employment will hold at high levels, after certain "corrective readjustments" are made, to the pessimists who forecast darkly that what is coming will make the '30s look like giddy prosperity.

Regardless of the guesswork, some of the economic facts of the time are worthy of sober thought. One of the best summings-up recently appeared in the Wall Street Journal, under the by-line of a staff correspondent, Vermont Royster.

Mr. Royster, whose sources are largely governmental, starts out by observing that "the nation's families are going back to the old American custom of living off next week's pay-check." What this means is that the cash buyer, whose name was legion during and immediately after the war, is becoming harder and harder to find. During 1946, consumer credit increased by $2,400,000,000. In March of this year installment credit alone jumped $70,000,000 and was 85 per cent higher than in the same month in 1945. In other words, the American family is returning to the little down and a long time to pay system of buying what it wants.

As it is to be expected under these conditions, savings are dwindling. According to Mr. Royster, nearly half of the $25 government bonds purchased in 1945 had been redeemed a year later, and the rate seems to be increasing. And where, in 1946, the nation's families were saving nearly 24 per cent of their income, the rate has slipped down to 10 per cent—about where it was in 1940. It is highly significant that this has occurred in spite of wage increases for most workers, and indicates just how tough the rise in the cost of living has been on the typical family.

The volume of business is showing signs of suffering from these trends. As it is to be expected, businesses of the luxury character have been hit hardest so far. A long time ago the night clubs and the taverns began to feel a pinch. Amusement enterprises have been subjected to the bleak wind of declining patronage. And now semi-luxuries are facing a steady drop in purchasing.

In more staple lines, business is still good, but there are clouds on the horizon. Production is rapidly making up the backlog in the majority of lines, and has more than caught up in some. Retailers are buying more carefully than in the past. Inventories are growing rapidly in both wholesale warehouses and on the shelves of stores. Once hard-to-get items—men's shirts and nylon stockings are good examples—are now in almost super-abundance.

Mr. Royster says that "the building boom, counted on to take up the reconversion slack, has failed to live up to expectations." This was one of the great fiascos of the postwar economy. The experts confidently figured that millions of homes and other residential units, to say nothing of a vast amount of industrial construction, would be needed. It may still be needed—but people just won't pay the current prices if there is any way to avoid it. Many a returning veteran who thought in terms of the kind of home you could buy in 1940 for eight or ten thousand dollars found that an equivalent home cost twice that and often more. His GI loan wasn't sufficient to finance the kind of house he had pictured in his mind's eye, and his income wasn't enough to make the monthly amortization payments. So, if he could find any kind of a place to live, he didn't build or buy. Trouble ahead is forecast for ambitious residential subdivisions where the costs of the houses and other developments outran the estimates by an incredible amount. On top of that, many people, including GIs, who did buy on small down payments, have given up and are letting the properties go. They simply can't afford to pay for and maintain them.

Mr. Royster says the unemployed now total 3,400,000 people. The trend is up—though not alarmingly so as yet. The Bureau of Labor Statistics now concedes that the number of workers gainfully employed this summer will be below earlier predictions. This is inevitable in the light of conditions.

Some producers, such as the motor-car companies, still have big backlogs of orders, and sales are no problem. But that doesn't mean that everything is rosy. Manufacturers and dealers are definitely worried as to what will happen once the backlog is wiped out. Many a prospective buyer has shaken his head at sight of the price tags on the new cars. Thousands upon thousands of orders have been cancelled.

What it all adds up to is that the basic cost of just plain living is absorbing most of the average family's income, and it has less and less left for other things. That is the growing problem we have not yet been able to solve.

Marshall Clears Picture

By James D. White

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Marshall has given us a second and timely look at the other side of the coin.

In a speech last week before the Harvard Alumni Association he restored emphasis to that aspect of the Truman doctrine which proposes American help for countries needing economic aid in order to forestall the chaos of poverty around the world.

It is upon this chaos that Communism feeds, and it is probably unfortunate that the "stop communism" part of the Truman doctrine was the one which apparently had been played up first in order to interest the American public and Congress in the larger question of helping to stop Communism's chief condition for growth, which is chaos.

Unfortunately, because the Truman doctrine quickly became little but a simple "stop Communism" proposition in the minds of many of its backers and practically all its opponents. At any rate, Soviet Communism has taken up the real or fancied challenge of the Truman policy and is countering in its own way in Hungary, Austria, and Bulgaria, in the furtherance of the Pan-Slav movement in Romania and Yugoslavia, and in the French railway strike, with more of the same on tap in Italy if needed.

Frankly, this appears to be the cost Democracy faces paying for the time and methods it takes to arouse the American consciousness to the fact that Europe is an economic shambles from which nothing but more shambles can be expected unless American economic aid is forthcoming in great and continuing gobs.

That fact was the heart of Marshall's speech last week.

He pointed to the vicious economic circle left in Europe by the war, where factories are obsolete and cities can no longer produce the goods which ordinarily they trade to the farmer for his surplus food. This results in inflated currencies, farm hoardings and starving cities, which of course all set the stage for Communism—or any form of totalitarianism which seems to offer the victim a way out of his personal little hell of hunger, worry and frustration.

To break this vicious circle, Marshall proposed a remedy—"Restoring the confidence of the European people in the economic future of their own countries and of Europe as a whole."

(And, while we're about it, let's not forget Asia, where an even longer war was fought than in Europe.)

"It is logical," Marshall went on, "that the United States should do whatever it is able to assist in the return of normal economic health in the world, without which there can be no political stability and no assured peace."

"Europe must have substantial additional help, or face economic, social and political deterioration of a very grave character."

This help, he then said, would have to continue three or four years and it must come "principally from America."

Marshall then elaborated in terms which the rest of the world may understand more readily than Americans, who sometimes are slow to remember that even hungry people have their pride.

"It would be neither fitting nor efficacious for this government to undertake to draw up unilaterally a program designed to place Europe on its feet economically. This is the business of the Europeans," he said, and the program "should be a joint one, agreed to by a number, if not all European nations."

Retail Evolution

Progress which occurs over a long period of years often goes unrecognized. It is simply taken for granted.

The changes which business evolution has brought to typical retail stores is a case in point. Anyone who is able to remember the cracker-barrel grocery store of a generation ago will recognize the vast improvements which have taken place. There is no comparison between then and now in such matters as convenience, sanitation, arrangements, abundance and variety of stocks, and display and handling methods.

Like practically all progress in a free economy, this was the result of the competitive system. The chain systems were among the first to adopt attractive innovations—the self-help idea being one of the most important. Other stores saw what was going on and devised customer-enticing developments of their own. Competition went far beyond physical attributes of retail establishments, and took in such varied fields as price, special services, employee courtesy and so on. Advertising was employed more and more extensively. Every merchant constantly sought to outdo the man next door.

No country has a retail system comparable to that of the United States. Even in the smallest towns the consumer is offered the same variety of goods, at the same prices, as in large cities.

Social Happenings

FIELDS-GORDON VOWS PLEDGED

The First Methodist church presented a scene of unusual nuptial beauty Saturday afternoon, June 7, for the marriage of Miss Betty Jean Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roger Fields, to Mr. Billy Gene Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon. The Rev. Walter E. Mischke officiated, using the impressive double ring service.

The chancel of the church was beautifully decorated with large branched candelabra holding tall white tapers interspersed with white floor baskets holding masses of deep green privet.

The prayer rail was twined with greenery and the place of the ceremony was marked by a white satin Frie-Dieu with beautiful white magnolias on the rail. The choir rail was also banked with greenery with candles and magnolias alternating.

Preceding the pledging of the vows a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. M. W. Haws, organist, and Mrs. Walter A. Voelgel, contralto. Mrs. Voelgel sang "I Love Thee," Grieg, and "Oh, Promise Me," DeKoven. Mrs. Haws played the Schubert "Ave Maria" and the Meditation from "Thaïs," Massenet. Directly before the ceremony she played the Barnby wedding hymn "Oh Perfect Love" on the chimes. The traditional Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches were used. During the ceremony the Dubussy "Clair de Lune" was played softly.

The lovely young bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in her formal wedding gown of white Chantilly lace over white slipper satin. The bodice of her dress was softly gathered to a fitted midriff. The heart-shaped neckline and the pointed sleeves were finished scalloped pleated ruffles. Tiny covered buttons extended down the back of the bodice to the hip line. The skirt developed into a flared train. Her many tiered veil of imported illusion featured a flared face veil; her coronet was of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible covered with a large purple orchid showered with white satin ribbons. Within the leaves of the Bible was an antique rosepoint wedding handkerchief.

Miss Joyce Fields, the bride's younger sister, was the maid of honor. She wore a bouffant frock of white marquisette and lace. Bands of the lace formed the square neckline and the tiny puffed sleeves. She wore elbow length lace gloves and carried an arm bouquet of shasta daisies tied with yellow satin ribbons. She wore a coronet of daisies in her hair.

Tommy Fields, brother of the bride, carried the ring on a satin pillow.

The bridegroom's father served him as best man. Two cousins of the bridegroom, Stanley and C. D. Jones, were ushers.

Mrs. Gordon, the bridegroom's mother, also wore black sheer printed with daisies in shades of white, yellow and green. A two piece effect was achieved by a flared peplum. Her accessories were black and her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Gordon, the bridegroom's mother, also wore black sheer simply designed featuring a bustle effect edged with pastel ribbons. Her accessories were black and her corsage was also of white carnations.

MRS. J. C. SUGG, SR., THE BRIDE'S MATERNAL GRANDMOTHER, WORE BLACK CREPE WITH A BLACK HAT ENVELOPED WITH WHITE FLOWERS. SHE WORE A CORSAGE OF WHITE CARNATIONS.

Immediately after the ceremony, an informal reception was held for relatives and a few close friends at the bride's home.

Bouquets of spring flowers were used throughout the house. The dining room presented a lovely bridal setting. Crystal candelabra and a fan-shaped arrangement of shell pink roses decorated the buffet. The lace draped table was centered with an exquisite three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Silver candle holders held tall white tapers. The cake and candles were encircled with wreaths of fern and shell pink rose buds.

Funch and cake were served by Mrs. J. C. Hancock and Mrs. Walter Voelgel. Assisting in serving and receiving were Mrs. E. C. Grisham, Mrs. Hugh Pigue, Mrs. J. C. Sugg, Jr., Miss Mary Lee Haws, and Miss Barbara Roberts. Mrs. Mansfield Martin presided at the register.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Gordon left for a short Southern wedding trip, after which they will be at home in Denton, Texas, where they are attending North Texas college and Texas State College for Women respectively.

For traveling, Mrs. Gordon wore a distinctive tropical worsted tulle of light gray. The coat featured a double row of silver buttons. Her hat was an off-the-face model of gray felt banded in navy taffeta. Her accessories were of gray and white grain lizard. She wore an orchid shoulder corsage.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included Mrs. Nettie Nell and Miss Jean Nell, Amory, Miss. Mrs. V. F. Campbell, Louisville; Mrs. W. C. Samuel, Clinton; Mrs. W. E. Owen and daughter, Brenda, Hickman; Mrs. Albert Fields, Mrs. Ples Fields and son, Robert D. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lawson, and Miss Patricia Lawson, all of Hickman.

CULTRA-HASTINGS VOWS PLEDGED

In a glow of golden taperlight against a background of white Madonna lilies, rich green palms and ferns, Miss Mary Lou Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hastings, of Fulton, pledged her marriage vows to Sayre E. Cultra, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Cultra of Rives.

The impressive single ring ceremony was read Sunday evening at 8 o'clock by the Rev. W. King Dickerson in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends at First Methodist church, Union City.

Slender white tapers gleamed from tall white branched candelabra and graceful greenery and lilies also banked the altar and rail. The pews were marked by clusters of lilies and white satin also adorned the choir rail which was outlined with white tapers and fern.

A program of nuptial music preceded the ceremony with Miss Iris Cultra, sister of the bridegroom, as organist.

Miss Cultra was dressed in a powder blue tulle model and wore a corsage of gardenias. Her selections were "Because" and "Always." Mrs. Cultra wore a beige crepe dinner model with an orchid corsage. She played the traditional wedding marches, "Intermezzo," "My Heart Sings," and softly played "Liebestraum," during the pledging of the vows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a beautiful model of gardenia white satin and marquisette. The tightly fitted bodice was designed with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves ending in calla points over the wrist and a full peplum elaborately embroidered. Her chapel-length veil of bridal illusion edged in lace, fell from a coronet of seed pearls. Her only ornament was a small cameo lavallere and her wedding bouquet was a white purple throated orchid and bouvardia showered with narrow satin streamers and carried atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Thomas Dillingham, of Jackson, was matron-of-honor and wore a frock of heaven blue organdy fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves, a fitted bodice and full gathered skirt. She wore a matching organdy headpiece tied with satin ribbon and carried a colorful bouquet of painted daisies, Dutch iris, delphinium and asters in soft pastel shades surrounded by maline and tied with matching ribbons knotted with pastel blossoms.

Miss Catherine Jones and Miss Louise Cook, bridesmaids, were dressed in identical models of pastel organdy. Miss Jones wore a frock of jonquil yellow and Miss Cook was dressed in a delicate shade of pink. They wore matching half hats tied with satin and carried pastel bouquets of painted daisies, Dutch iris interspersed with maline and ribbons.

George Cultra attended his brother as best man. Grooms-men were John Moss Fisher of Bolivar and Hayden E. Phebus of Rives.

House Committee Acts To End Home Sugar Rationing

Washington, June 10.—The House Banking Committee approved today a measure to end sugar rationing for home consumption.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) said that the decision was by an "overwhelming" vote although not unanimous.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Gamble (R-N.Y.). It would have no effect upon price control of sugar, nor would it directly affect rationing of sugar for industrial use.

Under the present law, rationing of sugar would expire October 31. However, the existing statute authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to continue inventory control of sugar until March 31 if he deems it necessary.

The total coal reserves of the world are estimated at seven trillion tons.

Milk Assures Better Vision And Hearing UK Dep't. Head Cites The Record

That eyes stay longer and the keen hearing associated with youth is retained for a longer time when an ample supply of milk is a part of the daily diet, was stated by Dr. Statie Erikson, head of the Department of Home Economics at the UK College of Agriculture and Home Economics, in calling attention to the observance of June as Dairy Month. "People who have plenty of milk won't have to wear bifocals so early," said the foods authority, as she pointed out that milk and milk products are excellent sources of riboflavin, one of the B-vitamins, important in keeping nerves stable and senses sensitive. Riboflavin, she said, is essential in keeping the cornea of the eye healthy. Because riboflavin is quickly destroyed in the presence of light, Dr. Erikson urged that bottles of milk not be left on porches, but be refrigerated immediately after delivery, if possible. On the other hand, the home economist explained, riboflavin is not destroyed when milk is processed for later use in products, such as cheese, dried and skim milk and ice cream. Dr. Erikson recommended that one quart of milk be used daily by mothers during lactation, and by children. For other adults, a pint is the minimum amount recommended, while three cups are desirable, she said. "Men students who were in the service brought back a surprising taste for fresh fluid milk," she noted, adding that it is not unusual to see them take from two to four half-pint bottles of milk on a tray with their food. More men than women drink milk, she stated.

Wall Street Report New York, June 10.—(AP)—Caution again ruled sentiment in Wall Street today with the stock market drifting uncertainly. A number of leading industrialists extended Monday's decline although there were isolated dissenters. The ticker tape fluctuated frequently and near midday gains and losses gave the list a spotty character. Dealings continued largely on a professional basis with trends at a virtual stalemate in the absence of favorable news developments. Leaders in lower ground included Chrysler, General Motors, Bethlehem, Goodrich, Dow Chemical, American Can, American Smelting, Southern Pacific, International Paper, Anaconda, Electric Power & Light and International Nickel. Resistant were Kennecott, Air Reduction.
