Move To Block Constitution Vote Defeated

Ardery Rejects Suit Attacking Publicity Method TO BE APPEALED

Paris, Ky.—(AP)—Circuit Judge William B. Ardery threw out a petition which sought to block popular voting on the question of calling a convention to revise Kentucky's constitution.

The ruling will be taken to the Court of Appeals quickly for final settlement.

A Joe Asher, attorney for Noel Gain, a Frankfort anti-conventionist who brought the test suit, said his client would be joined by the anti-convention "Committee of 1,000" and the committee advocating a convention in perfecting the appeal. The two committees intervened in the case today.

Judge Ardery said the present constitution states the legislature "may" direct the secretary of state to publish notice of the question and that "may" retains, in this case, "its ordinary and accepted meaning."

The legislature didn't have to publish the advertising method, he said.

Gain's suit charged that the 1944 legislative act providing for voting on the question in the November 4 election is invalid because it fails to tell the secretary of state how to advertise the question.

The judge also said the 1946 legislature had the right to provide for popular ratification of a new constitution. Gain's suit said the present constitution does not require ratification of one that replaces it.

Amendments to the constitution are submitted to the people for adoption or rejection, Ardery said, and certainly an entire new constitution should be placed before their judgment.

In dismissing the petition, the judge ordered Secretary of State Charles K. O'Connell to certify the question to the 120 county clerks at least 40 days before November 4 for inclusion on the November ballot.

Ardery held that attacks on the titles of the enabling acts were "without merit."

Crew Cut Drops In Popularity

Rockford, Ill.—(AP)—The crew cut, the hair styling that made many a manly head look more like a coconut, is losing favor among youths of college age in these parts.

Rockford barbers report demand for the close crop has slumped. One of them, Vito Martorana, attributes the trend to the general prosperity. The trade, he says, now can afford to have longer locks trimmed more often.

Purchase Vets Train On Jobs

333 Businesses Approved In 8 Western Counties By Tilgham Trade School

A total of 333 establishments has been approved for veterans on-the-job training in Fulton and seven other counties served by the Tilgham Trade School, according to an announcement made by George W. Huber, director of the school. One hundred-eight veterans are currently enrolled at the school.

Huber stated that his school has been assigned the task of inspecting and supervising all on-the-job programs for veterans in the eight counties, including apprenticeable trades.

Standards for such apprentice training must be registered with the state or federal apprentice training services before any establishments can be approved to offer apprentice training on the job.

Final approval of applications of establishments that desire to offer on-the-job training to veterans will be made by the State Department of Education at Frankfort.

Kentucky's 12 area trade schools, of which the Tilgham Trade School is one, now have approximately 1,800 veterans enrolled in trade training courses.

Fulton countians who desire information about services offered by the school may write to George W. Huber, at Paducah.

Red Shadow Falls On Iran

Kurdish Tribes, Backed By Russians, At Border As Oil Pact Discussed

Tehran.—(AP)—The Iranian Parliament was ready to take up the controversial Soviet oil agreement as Iranian and diplomatic officials reported that "10,000 Barzani Kurdish tribesmen, backed by the Red Army" were assembled in Soviet Azerbaijan on the northwest frontier.

"This may be another move in a Soviet war of nerves on the eve of parliament's consideration of the Russo-Iranian oil agreement," said one high diplomatic source.

The oil agreement, signed by Prime Minister Ahmed Qavam in April, 1946, while Soviet troops still were occupying northern Iran, granted Russia oil concessions in five northern provinces with Russia receiving 51 per cent of the shares for the first 25 years.

The oil agreement already is the No. 1 center of a political and diplomatic battle and many members of parliament have expressed the opinion it will be defeated. Other items on parliament's agenda include a proposed $250,000,000 International Bank loan and a $30,000,000 American military credit.

Crittenden Caught At Hickman On Visit To His Brother In Jail

Herschel Crittenden is back in the McCracken county jail today after walking right into a police trap laid for him at Hickman, Ky., this morning.

The 17-year-old Fulton youth won two days of freedom Monday when he slugged the McCracken county jailer and escaped from his cell there. Today he went to the Fulton county jail to see his brother, Milton Crittenden, and as soon as he stepped inside Milton's cell Jailer Aaron Sanders locked the door and notified Hickman Police Chief Jess Sanders and Sheriff A. G. Wynne.

After the jail breaker had been identified by Mr. Wynne, Kyle Tackett, Paducah FBI agent, and Deputy U. S. Marshall Jim Humphreys of Paducah came to Hickman to return Crittenden to the McCracken county jail.

Herschel, charged with transporting a stolen automobile from Fulton to Murfreesboro, Tenn., was arrested by Police Chief K. P. Dalton here. Monday he struck the McCracken county jailer, Ollie Denny, twice with a stick to make him reveal which key opened the main door to his cell block area.

Milton Crittenden is serving a 14-day sentence in the Fulton county jail for public drunkenness, officers said.

The association is a permanent agency for promoting highway safety principles and for enforcement of officers, citizens, automobile clubs and commercial carrier groups in reducing slaughter on Kentucky roads.

Hungarians Say Foe Of Russians Severely Beaten

Budapest.—(AP)—The Independence Party declared in a statement today that its leader, Zoltan Pfeiffer, chief anti-Communist politician remaining in Hungary, was "half dead" from a beating administered by "Communist hoodlums" at Sosgrad.

The statement said three other Independence Party members were handled so severely yesterday when Pfeiffer tried to hold a political meeting at Csongrad, 75 miles southeast of Budapest, that they had to be carried away in ambulances.

The United States Legation issued a statement saying it viewed "with serious concern" developments concerning freedom of speech and assembly.

The warning came from the National Automobile Dealers Association which said:

"Don't celebrate this holiday with an accident. Have your car checked thoroughly before you start on your trip. The time to find out how good your brakes are is before you take to the road, not when you slam your foot on the pedal in case of emergency.

U. N. Again Gives "Cease Fire" Order To Dutch, Indonesians

Lake Success.—(AP)—The Security Council ordered the Netherlands and the Indonesian republic again to cease fire in Indonesia and clear the way for settling their dispute.

The Indonesians promptly said this was a "good thing." The Dutch said the cease-fire order could not be observed if the republic continued to "incite the Indonesians to murder the Dutch and burn houses."

It was, in effect, the second cease fire directive handed down by the United Nations in 26 days. It was approved by 10 nations, with Britain abstaining.

Britain also abstained on the original cease fire resolution Aug. 1 but at that time was joined by France and Belgium in refusing to vote. France and Belgium, both colonial powers, voted for the new "cease-fire" order.

The action ended the first phase of the Indonesian case here.

The delegates set it aside temporarily to see how well the consular observer team it had approved yesterday would supervise a truce.

The council refused to approve a Belgian demand that it go to the International Court of Justice for a ruling whether it has jurisdiction in the Indonesian conflict.

The vote here found the United States, Belgium, France, and Britain for it; Poland against it, and the others, Russia, China, Colombia, Brazil, Syria, and Australia, abstaining.

The situation now is this, briefly:

Australia and India lodged the Indonesian case with the council July 30 with demands for urgent action.

The council on Aug. 1 approved a resolution ordering the parties to stop fighting and settle their differences by negotiation.

On Aug. 4 the cease fire order was given by both sides.

Since then, however, fighting

Agree On U. S. "Pole-to-Pole" Security Region

UNANIMOUS VOTE

Quintaninha, Brazil.—(AP)—Nineteen American republics agreed to fight jointly against any armed aggression occurring in a western hemisphere "security region" extending from the Arctic to the Antarctic.

The proposal, sponsored by the United States, was accepted unanimously by the delegates to the full inter-American conference committee on aggression and enforcement measures after a 14-nation subcommittee approved it earlier.

The only nations not voting on the agreement were Nicaragua, which was not invited to the conference, and Ecuador, whose conference status now is in doubt because of the weekend coup d'etat which resulted in a change of government.

Delegates said approval of the "security region" agreement by the full committee meant that its adoption by the plenary session of the conference was a foregone conclusion.

Demarcation of a security region is considered one of the most important points of the inter-American defense treaty which the conference now is drafting. Early agreements on this and other controversial points caused delegates to predict that the conference committee work would be finished by the end of this week and that the conference would end not later than Sept. 2.

The possibility also arose that President Truman might arrive in Rio de Janeiro on his flying visit after the adjournment of the conference. Although the date of his arrival has never been announced, the White House said he would leave Washington in late August or early September. There have been unconfirmed reports here that Truman would address the final plenary session of the conference.

Under the agreement, the American nations will rise to immediate defense of the hemisphere if any attack occurs within the security region, which includes Alaska and Greenland. The vast "security region" would embrace the North American and South American continents, Canada, Greenland, Alaska, the Falkland Islands, south Orkney Islands, the South Pole region (Antarctica), the Sandwich and South Georgia Islands of the Antarctic and a 300-mile sea belt encircling both continents and taking in strategic island possessions of the American nations.

The region referred to includes the geographical area defined in the Panama declaration of Oct. 3, 1939, when the American nations met and proclaimed a broad safety zone in American waters for inter-American shipping, and made a general declaration of neutrality in the European war.

Under the U. S. proposal "armed attack by any state against an American nation will be considered an attack against all American states, and each one of the American states assumes the obligation to aid in facing such attack, exercising the individual or collective right to self defense recognized by Article 51 of the United Nations Charter."

Hemisphere measures of "legitimate defense" would be applied "until such time as the Security Council of the United Nations takes the necessary measures to maintain internal security and peace," the agreement added.

It provided further that the American republics could "determine immediate measures which are adopted individually in compliance with the principle of continental solidarity in accordance with Article 51 of the United Nations Charter. The contracting parties (to the treaty) will meet in consultation without delay to examine these measures and adopt those of a collective nature which they decide to take."

Iron Grip Tightens

Inexorably the iron hand behind the iron curtain tightens its cruel grip. The Communists in control of the Bulgarian parliament are preparing to dissolve by law the only opposition left there, the Agrarian Party. Already they have reduced that party to utter impotence. Its leader, Nikola Petkov, has long been in prison and is now under sentence of death. Twenty-three of the ninety Agrarian deputies in the parliament were ousted in June on the ground that they had been in correspondence by mail with Mr. Petkov. This stripped the party of its last vestiges of leadership. So the dissolution is merely formal ratification of a fait accompli.

This savage course is evidence of the strength the Russians know the Agrarians could muster if any political freedom were left in Bulgaria. Communism is no natural growth there. Four-fifths of the people are small farmers, and industrial workers are few. Even in the tightly rigged election of November, 1946, the Communists could not deny the Agrarians at least a few seats—ninety, as we have noted, out of more than four hundred.

In the first election held after the first World War, the Agrarians commanded an absolute majority in parliament—Alexander Stamboliyski, who had opposed the pro-German course of the Government, was their leader. He was a vigorous man who dreamed of a "Green International," uniting peasants of all countries. He achieved kind reforms in Bulgaria which left the peasants deeply indebted to the Agrarian Party. He was overthrown, not at the polls but by a military coup, and shot and killed while attempting to escape from pursuing soldiers. The succeeding dictatorships, however, did not dare to tamper with his reforms.

Just as Stamboliyski was pro-Ally in the first world war, so was Mr. Petkov in the second. He was a leader in the resistance to the Germans and in this had Communist allies. He accepted them in good faith, as we did in the war, and assumed, again like ourselves, that there was good faith on their side. Not gradually, he was tricked into joining with them in the Government formed after the war, though he knew they could command only a small minority in the country. They promised free and unfettered elections and he took them at their word. Instead, by maneuvers beginning with their control of the courts and the police, when they were given the Ministries of Justice and Interior in the first Cabinet, they have now completed the job of strangling liberty in Bulgaria.

Mr. Petkov was the driving force of the Agrarian Party and immensely popular among the peasants. That, of course, accounts for the determination of the Russians to take his life. A single courageous and able dissenter is more than they can bear. His execution, if it takes place, will be a murder outlawed by the Yalta agreement, to which Russia is a party. And the insolence of the Russian reply to American and British protests is almost beyond belief. The Russians say that action by the Allied Control Commission would be "direct infringement of the state sovereignty of Bulgaria." That is as contemptuous as the Russian proposal in the Security Council to send a commission to troubled Indonesia—this immediately after vetoing any action on the report of a commission sent to the Balkans. The Russians add insult to the grievous injury of world peace.

The Bulgarian Agrarian Party, once one of the most hopeful political movements in Eastern Europe, is being completely suppressed by the power which is so delicate about "interference in Bulgarian internal affairs." And Mr. Petkov, if he is murdered, will be murdered at the direct instigation of that same power. The bullets of Communism are no sweeter than those of rightist reaction which felled that other brave patriot, Alexander Stamboliyski. (Courier-Journal.)

U. N. Is Struggling

(By James D. White)

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United Nations is a stunted two-year-old, struggling in very deep waters. The Security Council is grappling with the unprecedented problems of Greece and Indonesia.

Greece remains a hard knot of Russo-American contention, and untangling that knot probably would be relatively simple if it were not pulled so tight by the antagonism between the two most powerful nations in the world.

Indonesia is different in two ways. Here the most immediate U. N. difficulty is simply the will of the Netherlands, which thus far has refused to recognize Security Council authority to examine what the Dutch consider an internal Dutch affair. At stake is the question of whether peace is more important.

However, behind the Indonesian question is a smoldering discontent in more than half of all human hearts. Regardless of what the U. N. can do about Indonesia, it will merely be starting to tackle a key question of this country—how to extend freedom and a better life to half a world which will find them new and strange.

Upon either or both of these cases—Greece and Indonesia—the United Nations could stand or fall. A few weeks from now it may be clear whether the organization will work or whether the world will junk it and intensify the existing power struggle with an arms race.

How this comes out will be determined in the last analysis by the faith of people everywhere in the United Nations. People are behind the governments who are supposed to be behind the U. N.

That's an old point, but the U. N.'s legal director, Abraham H. Feller, made it again last week in an address at Palo Alto, Calif. "Americans," he said, "know the unquestioning obedience which the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court command, though it can muster no more than one marshal to enforce them."

"I doubt if they would stand one whit better if Congress voted the Chief Justice an armored division and a fleet of superfortresses. The idea of the United Nations must stay strong and grow stronger. In the last analysis this strength will come not from money, or armies, or government, but from the people."

"If the United Nations receives these things which it needs, it will meet the test, and the bold determination of the preamble (of the charter) will come to pass—to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind."

In other words, if men want the United Nations to work, they can get it. If not, they will have to face the consequences.

No Veto Wanted

Everyone who hopes to see the Western Hemisphere remain strong and free should be pleased to read of the defeat of Argentina's plan to require a unanimous vote of all American nations before action can be taken against armed aggression.

The United Nations has been hamstrung by the veto in its Security Council. One Russian vote has, on 16 occasions, defeated the will of the majority.

As we have learned by watching the U. N. quarrels, it would be virtually impossible to get all the nations of this Hemisphere to agree on any question. The two-thirds majority rule proposed by the United States and adopted by the Inter-American Conference committee is the generally accepted way of doing business. It is infinitely better than the alternative of a hemispheric organization ruled by one vote.

At Theunissen, not far from the feverish activity at Odendaalsrust where smoke is already rising from the new gold mines and mining towns are springing up on the bare veldt, preparations are in hand for reopening two diamond mines that have been idle for 20 years.

New machinery is arriving, old machinery is being repaired, miners' houses are being occupied and the ghost settlements are springing to life. Many of the old mine shafts became filled with water and were favorite fishing spots for local farmers. They are now being dewatered.

It's Easy To Avoid Company, In Booby-Trapped Mountain Home

(By Hal Boyle)

New York.—(AP)—Our candidate today for the honor of being the harried American housewife's favorite "Pinup Boy" is Henry Paynter.

His distinction? "I happen to be the only man ever annoyed enough to really solve the problem of unwanted guests," said Paynter modestly.

His household is no longer troubled by unexpected out-of-town visitors since he bought a mountain, built a home on it and booby-trapped the approaches.

"Hank," a well known newspaperman and airforce veteran with a sweeping moustache that looks like two B-29's taking off from his upper lip, reached this desperate solution only after long suffering.

Originally he and his wife lived in Greenwich Village, but finally moved out and abandoned the apartments to their many guests.

"We took an isolated place on Long Island," Hank recalled, "but it soon became impossible to move the lawn because of the guests draped on it." The Paynters then took a lonely farm halfway up a long hill 90 miles from New York. It was no use. The house was full in no time.

"It was then I decided no one had ever really put his mind to this chore," said Hank. "This time we bought a wooded mountain on a wild and lonely road. The telephone listed under my name is in a doghouse, where nobody can hear it ring. The one we use is unlisted."

Hank claimed he artfully concealed the roadway leading up to his house, and constructed a false one leading in the other direction.

"The false driveway," he said, "is fixed so that anyone trying to go off sideways down a cliff—not steep enough to cause fatalities, but guaranteed to take a car twelve hours to get out."

"The walk to the nearest telephone is one mile, and it is impossible to get out of the area without struggling for one hundred yards in any direction through poison ivy. Beyond that the path is sown with rattlesnakes and silent, deadly little copperheads.

"I am fair about it. There are warning signs—but the type of people I know isn't easily intimidated."

But Paynter also has fixed up some barriers for any unwanted guest who accidentally wanders up the right driveway!

"Halfway up there are two electrified barbed wire fences and gates (locked) the first charged with 110 volts, the second with 11,000 volts. But the amperage is low enough so that the average healthy person survives—if he can let go."

Along the driveway, he said, there also are booby-trapped benches that go boom if anybody sits on them.

Should any guests be hardy enough to win through to the house itself, Paynter said he had other surprises in store—such as hidden phonographs in the bedroom that give the sound effects of mice arguing and a drunk chopping up a Grand Piano. And a light switch connected to a trap full of wasps!

"If the guest opens the door to run away from the wasps," Paynter mused, "he falls twelve feet into a briar patch surrounded by netting which encloses 500 white mice and 200 rabbits—all hopping in the dark."

"What is the result of all this?" "It is five years now since we have had an unwanted overnight guest," said Hank, and "twelve years since a guest has stayed more than one night unwinvited. Why don't you come up and see for yourself, old pal?"

Not Mel! I'm starting my vacation tomorrow—but I think I'll go to a nice quiet beach and stay at a hotel.

Sports Roundup

(By Russ Newland) (For Hugh Fullerton) San Francisco, Aug. 26—(AP)—Information Department: College Alumni representatives of coaches and others interested in football have been beating a path to the door of a modest home in Portland for many months. The reason is that probably the finest prospect in all the history of the state of Oregon lives there.

His name is Pat Duffy and won't that name read swell in the headlines for Notre Dame in the future, folks? You know, the "fighting Irish" and all that? There hasn't been a good "Mick" moniker at the old school for a long time. Young Duffy is a six footer, 190 pound, 18 years old and only a high school junior. And he can do everything with a football except swallow it whole.

The list of colleges that have been proposed to schoolboy Duffy would fill a couple of pages, but Notre Dame, past or present, has talked to the lad. And that is where he wants to go. If he can't get an athletic scholarship there, his dad is willing to pay his tuition.

Just imagine. A straight "A" student and potential George Gripp yearning for one college, with dozens of others to be had for the nod.

Purple Sage State: Reno proudly displays the slogan, "the biggest little city in the world." The Nevada Metropolis will back it up, too, for money, marbles or chalk. It is the liveliest spot on the map for its size, and its liberal tax laws have attracted a growing residential "millionaires' row" that includes such permanent residents as Doris Duke and A. K. Bourne, the sewing machine tycoon.

The palatial mansions face the tenth fairway of the Reno Golf Club, which in two years has jumped into the major tournament division. The Reno Club, with its successful $15,000 open behind it, now is bidding for the 1948 western open championship and has made a handsome retaining offer to National PGA title holder Jim Ferrier to represent it in the country's important links events.

Chit-Chat: The hottest man in golf today, incidentally, is Bob by Locke, the British subject from Johannesburg, South Africa. He's making the most of it by asking, and getting, $800 for an exhibition match. American professionals agree that the only player who would stand a chance to trim Locke fairly consistently over 18 holes is Byron Nelson, now retired from tournament competition.

Rhodes Clouts 2 Big Homers As Chicks Beat Mayfield 6 To 4

It was Dusty Rhodes' night to pound the big war club at Mayfield last night as he poled two out of the park for homers while the Chicks defeated the Clothiers 6-4. Dusty's first four-base blow came in the first with none on, while his second, in the sixth, scored a run ahead of him. These leisurely jaunts around the sacks, after smacking the ball out of reach of all the hired hands, is getting to be a habit with this cracker-jack shortstop of the Chicks. Night before last he hit for the circuit in Cairo.

Rhodes, of Mayfield, also hit for the circuit twice last night, in the third and sixth, each time with the bases empty. Bergdoll, Clothier outfielder, homered in the third, too, with a man on base. Eldridge was thrown out of the game in the eighth by the umpire and Biggs, Chick manager, took over and finished for him.

The win over the Clothiers let the Chicks gain a full game on the fourth place Miners who were losing to Hopkinsville at the same time. They now stand only one-half game out of fourth place and a spot in the playoff.

Mayfield's loss, coupled with Hopkinsville's win, dropped the Clothiers into third place as the Hoppers climbed into second, five games behind the first place Ollers.

The Chicks' return to Mayfield tonight for the second game of the series with the Clothiers.

Coach Goranflo Is Disappointed By Small Squad, Lack of Interest

Coach J. B. Goranflo surveyed the scant score of Fulton high school football candidates working out in the hot August sun at the new stadium this morning and declared that he was "very disappointed" by the number of participating athletes this year.

His chief headache is caused by his prospects in the line. There are four tackles, three guards and two centers (one of whom started to work in that spot yesterday) reporting for practice. The backfield hopefuls are a little more numerous, but are not too long on experience or size.

The scrimmages are going to be few and far between, because we just don't have enough out to play a man in each position on two teams, Goranflo said.

The coach was expecting about 50 boys to come out for football this fall after his unusually good 1946 season. There are plenty of boys in high school, he explained, but they just aren't interested in playing ball. Also, several lettermen from last year's team have shown little interest to date.

The Bulldogs are losing the Nelms brothers—Co-Captain Tip at end and Walter, 175-pound substitute tackle—because their family is moving to Memphis. Eddie Holt, who worked out at center for six weeks last spring and played half of a practice game at Martin, has decided he doesn't like football. Goranflo said Jimmy Hancock, who came out last spring as a guard, quit because of weak eyes, he added.

Losing Eddie Holt puts in quite a hole, Goranflo continued. He'd counted on using Holt and Jimmy Ruddle at center. Jimmy's brother, Bobby, is being hit by the understudy in the ball-passing slot, Jimmy, incidentally, has been elected co-captain to succeed Tip Nelms.

There are some bright spots in the Fulton football picture. The coach is well pleased with a scramble for the guard positions among Don Collins, Jim Hodge and Walter Mischke. Bob McKinnon is working hard at end and fullback, and Jerry Forrest is expecting to help fill in at right end and left half-back. Jerry is handicapped now by an injured ankle, hurt playing football. Co-Captain Billy Mac Bone will be back in his old

New Industries

Huge Nile Dam Expected To Give Plenty of Power

Cairo—After 18 years of study, the Aswan dam electrification scheme has been approved by the Egyptian parliament. The Nile dam, one of the biggest in the world, was originally constructed to save water during the flood season. The dam, which cost $4,000,000, has 180 doors, 30 of which will be used in the electrification scheme. The government has accepted bids for machinery. Experts estimate the electric power which could be produced annually at 1,645 million kilowatts, equal to the power from 590,000 tons of crude oil costing $8,000,000.

With Aswan power the government plans fertilizer, steel and other industries. Advocates of local production estimate that 320,000 tons of fertilizers would be produced in the early stages of the new industry and that this would grow to 435,000 tons per year. The Aswan region has deposits of iron ore. Foreign experts reported these should be studied further to determine the practicability of developing a steel industry with Aswan power. The government announces it will ask bids on the establishment of a plant to produce 915,000 tons of steel annually.

The Meanest Thief Title Challenged

Alameda, Calif.—(AP)—Local nominee for the title of "World's Meanest Man" is the guy who asked Frank C. Todhunter if he had seen "Mr. Shaughnessy."

Todhunter is 83, an old-age pensioner, and carries a white cane to show he is nearly blind. Todhunter told police somebody stopped him on the street and asked him if he had seen Mr. Shaughnessy. When Todhunter said he didn't know anybody by that name, the man told him he had something on his coat and proceeded to brush it off. Did quite a job, too.

Todhunter went on to a store to buy something, found his wallet missing.

DOUKHOBORS MEET IN FIELD NEAR FIRE SCENE—British Columbia police said persons in this group are members of Sons of Freedom, radical branch of Doukhobor sect. They are shown in unexplained meeting in field near Nelson, B. C., where a two-story house was destroyed by fire in one of a series of recent outbreaks. Shortly after this picture was taken three members of this group were arrested by provincial police. Orthodox Doukhobors have blamed the Sons of Freedom for recent disturbances.

AN ERROR IN PROPHECY

By George L. Alley: I met him in Danville, Ky., on matriculation day at Centre College long ago, September, 1908, tall, slender, beak-nosed, black haired, taciturn mountaineer from Louisa, Ky. We had simple dormitory rooms near to each other in Old Breek Hall and were candidates for the same degree. We held the same views about economy and had the same aversion against joining needless social organizations, both, partly from necessity and partly from desire, endeavoring to get from our experience the maximum gain with minimum expenditure. From his first day we became firm friends. When, almost at graduation time, a nervous breakdown assailed me, he neglected his own duties and looked after me like a brother.

A steady hand on such occasions. It was his custom to prime the oratorical pump with a goodly half pint of "Old Taylor," but once his feet were planted on the stage, he could have held his own with Patrick Henry! I was my mountaineer friend's senior candidate for class president. His enthusiasm could not offset my indifference and Gov. Hager's son, Lawrence, won by a majority of one vote. How prophetic but unheeded was this early flair of his for politics. My battered old 1909 "Cardinal and Blue" annual has this to say of my mountaineer classmate: "He can recite any lesson he's had since the beginning of the year word for word as it is in the book. Just tell him the page and the line you want him to begin on and that's all you have to do, except stop him (and that's the hardest part)."

On page No. 51 of Senior Statistics and Prophecies these are the recorded prognostications assigned to him: "Ht. in centimeters, 200; characteristic, studious; principal occupation, discussing his grades; future vocation, janitor; usual state or favorite color, blue; chances of marrying, scarcely any; his terrestrial it, Socrates." This was the forecast of the future of the mountain youth who married the bankers' daughter; who rose up and up and up by faster leaps than any previous American statesman, with never a single vote of disapproval, to the office of Chief Justice of the United States.—Frederick More Vinson of Louisa, Kentucky.

June Brides—Fall Headaches

That's Unromantic Term Social Security Official Uses To Describe Trouble: Inevitably, each autumn, many June brides return to work, and bring headaches for the biggest bookkeeping organization in the country, the Social Security Administration.

Bridegroom, at 99, Re-Weds 3rd Wife; Divorced 20 Years

Leitchfield, Ky.—(AP)—The second marriage of A. B. Farris, 99, to 39-year-old Miss Maggie Oiler was revealed here by relatives, who said the last wedding took place August 14 at Hartford, Ky.

Being proud of their new names, working brides almost invariably ask their boss to show their new names on the payroll—and being human, most of them put off bringing their cards around to the Social Security Administration office for an official Social Security name change, Jack M. Rucker, manager of the local office at Paducah, reports.

When the summer bride appears on her employer's Social Security report as Mary Brown along with the number that the Social Security Administration records show for Mary Smith, the Administration suspects that a marriage might be the answer to the discrepancy. But there is also the chance that Mary Brown is a new employee who was accidentally reported with Mary Smith's number.

QUINTS—The Diligent quintuplets of Buenos Aires pose on their recent fourth birthday at the home of their wealthy father, Franco Diligent. Top to bottom: Franco, Jr., Carlos Alberto, Marie Estier, Maria Christina, Maria Fernanda.

Correspondence with the employer is necessary before Mary Brown, nee Smith, can get credit for the wages she earned. "In most instances, the records are cleared and Mrs. Mary Brown gets credit for her wages," Rucker said, "but this happens only after the government and the employer have spent considerable time and effort in untangling the mix-up."

"I'm extending all brides an invitation to come in and get their name officially added to their social security account number card," he concluded.

No Rubber Stamp Race Is Possible, Loser Is Advised: Frankfort, Ky.—(AP)—Jack McPherron, Owen-ton, who was defeated in his race for Democratic renomination in the 53th House District, Grant and Owen Counties, was told his plan to run as a candidate in the November election by the rubber stamp method is invalid. Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit advised him the courts have ruled against that method. A "write-in" vote can be cast only by writing the name of the candidate on the ballot with a black-lead pencil and placing a stencil mark opposite the name, Dummit said.

Funeral Money Is Always Ready: Great Falls, Mont.—(AP)—An aged man was found drunk and unconscious on the street and when searched at jail $583.11 in currency and silver was found stuffed in his shabby trousers. Asked why he carried so much money with him, he replied: "Maybe I die sometime. That is the money I keep with me for my funeral expenses." Police withheld his name while trying to convince him that his funeral funds should be kept in a safer place.

'47 Construction in State Had Value of $59 Millions: Washington.—(AP)—New construction in Kentucky in the first half of 1947 totaled $59,200,000, the Commerce Department reported. The figure included both private and public construction. California led all states with $78,000,000.
