THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1889.

Emperor William, of Germany, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the throne of Prussia Sunday.

In the National House of Representatives there are 42 Johns, 27 Jameses, 10 Williams, 21 Charleses, 17 Thomases, 10 Georges.

The Newark children, who were sent to Paris to be inoculated for hydrophobia by Pasteur, are on their way home looking well and happy.

Kennel, the tragedian, suffered a rupture of a small blood vessel in the head recently in Kansas City; the wound attacked. It was taken to his bed.

Mary Anderson's favorite flower is the dandelion. A number of her admirers who are seeking to secure her affection think that it must be the dandelion.

The Zulus think the signal that is the noblest of a community that take the most interest in politics. The wife of the above was probably never a candidate, if he was, he was most assuredly defeated.

The Bull resolution will not be adopted by the Committee on Rules, but Speaker Odell has been instructed to prepare a rule on the same subject that will be even more powerful in quelling the evils of local legislation.

Prof. Sumner lectures in Cleveland this week on "The Forgotten Man." Whether the dignified Prof. has reference to the man who wears a small sun from a "very wide" age, or to the blue Republican candidate for President has not yet been ascertained.

The curious is to take the place of the old-fashioned hand-shaking as a mode of greeting. Already in the fashionable circles we hear of the "statue" or "statue" of Miss Soudan-Said, but we dare say, should any of our candidates try to operate this kind of thing on the dear people they would soon get a grip on the collar in short order.

The Clarksville Evening Citizen now reaches this office every morning. The paper contains some graphic accounts, several columns of local and general news, Mr. Yancy still occupies the tripod, and is well supplied with experience and culture for the position. Mr. Yancy is making his mark in the newspaper world, and is striving valiantly towards the top of his profession.

Remember that this is about the time of year for the appearance of one called Phenomena who can eat thirty quills in thirty days. A New York paper says: "There is no new difficulty in eating quills than there is in eating a piece of bread." It is a pity that the thirty-day quill-eater, there is many an American citizen of African descent at the South who can eat three hundred and sixty quills in thirty days every year, and in half-year three hundred and sixty more. The only obstacle is that at times the benighted on the neighboring plantation fails to hold on as well as the African-American citizen does.

The saying that "stomachs have no pockets" was proved to be false at the incineration of the body of Mr. Rogers, who was burned last week at Mr. O'Connell's, New York. The paper says that "the ashes taken from the urn were nearly white and weighed one and a half pounds. A portion of a dollar which was placed in the urn, came out unharmed by the intense heat to which it had been subjected." Many an old skunk will "give a horrible, everlasting smile" to think that everlasting fire may not melt his beloved silver dollars and gold eagles.

The Rev. Dr. Crosby advances a new idea in suggesting that in his old age should be restricted to within certain limits. He says: "Limitation of personal wealth in degree is as reasonable as limitation in kind. Where possession in kind is dangerous, the law puts limits. Why should it not put limits where possession in degree is dangerous?" The idea in the abstract is a good one. Innumerable instances would follow "its adoption. The struggle to reach the limit would be an adequate incentive to action, and the limit once reached, and man would be free to enjoy the higher pursuits of life. But practically the suggestion is grotesque. It is legally absurd, and its introduction into actual life would be as funny as a Kentucky Mikado.

United States Coinage.

The following items taken from a publication on the U. S. Mint at Philadelphia, will be interesting at the present time, when there is so warm a controversy over the coinage of silver money.

The first money coined by the authority of the United States was in 1793. The coins were copper cents. In 1794 silver dollars were made. The familiar phrase, "the dollar of the daddies," is based on fact. Gold eagles were not coined until 1795. All the copper, silver and gold used at the mint was imported.

Before the discovery of the immense veins of silver in the Western territories the silver used for coinage came chiefly from Mexico and South America.

For many years, Mexican dollars and Spanish quarters and "bits" circulated freely in this country, and in fact constituted the bulk of the change. The Mexican dollars with the Phrygian liberty-cap on one side and an eagle holding a serpent in its beak, standing on a cluster of cactus, and the Spanish quarters with the pillars of Hercules, were familiar sights.

The scales used at the mint are marvellous of finish and accuracy. The smallest weight is the three-hundredth part of an ounce. The scales are examined and adjusted alternate days.

The purest gold in this country has been found in Georgia. The largest nugget of gold came from California in 1852, and was valued at $50,000. Deposits of native gold or native silver are less than $100 in value are not received. Pieces of metal as they come from the mould in the mint are called "bullion."

They are not long until melted and shaped to facilitate their passage through the rollers. A silver ingot is worth $90, a gold ingot $1200.

In the coining room an engine of twenty-horse power runs ten presses which can mould from seventy to one hundred and twenty coins per minute. If they were making double eagles they could coin $24,000 in one minute. The amount of pressure necessary to make a coin is from twenty to eighty tons.

To give the necessary hardness, 900 parts of gold are mixed with 100 parts of copper and 500 parts of silver with 100 parts of copper.

Five silver is worth $1.30 an ounce, pure gold $20.07, or a tracter over fifteen times as much as silver.

The coinage of the mint to June, 1875, amounted to $1,472,927,573.35. The amount obtained from the mint in the following manner. Any respectable person can make a deposit of gold or silver at the mint providing it be not less than $100 in value. On depositing the bullion the depositor is given a receipt for the weight of his deposit. After the business of the mint has been ascertained by assaying, the gold coins are made, and the depositor is paid his full value, deducting a small charge only for the work of coining. If the deposit be gold, it is paid in gold; if silver it is paid in silver.

The mint does not exchange money and recognized deposit or the person who presents the bullion. An every care the depositor must state what coin he wants the bullion is from.

Attempts have been made to deposit silver on pellets at the mint but the metal has always been detected before the pellets were melted.

The Secretary in his last report states that there are 275,000,000 silver dollars in this country. The whole metallic coinage of the world is valued at $83,300,000,000 in gold and $2,200,000,000 in silver.

We have all heard of how men are led to drink would make all sorts of efforts to get liquor, but the following is the most original and bold possession for a liquor that we have ever heard of.

At New York for Liverpool, there was a drunken storage passenger in the morning of a United States steamer. During the entire passage he subsisted on whiskey, and on the arrival of the ship at his destination he was reported as a month later the same steamer was proceeding to Liverpool, and a gentleman was to be taken with him on the ship, the passenger relied on to the ship, furnishing a prepaid storage certificate. On the homeward passage he permitted that he had not been sober for a month. He had no money whatever, but obtained all the liquor he wanted by 2000 two six-penny and posing as the military representative of a great southern people.

Senator Beckley has been congratulated and near on his silver medals, a not a few of the letters he has received from the East. Among the tributes of commendation that reached Senator Beckley by mail during the holidays was one from the youngest daughter of Mr. J. P. Davis, of Mississippi. It is a neat little water-color painting of a southern silver moon, looking down through a shroud of silvery clouds upon a phosphorus landscape. Underneath was written "To Miss Davis' honor." "It is a tribute to the champion of silver." It is perhaps fair to say that all the commendations he has received fully justify the Senator as much as his constituents.

A terrible accident occurred at Robards' Station, Henderson county, by which three men were horribly wounded. Richard Jones, Lee Eakins and Dave Prows were engaged in firing an ax, situated in an old blacksmith shop. By some means the heated poker used in firing the ax fell in contact with an eight pound package of powder and set it off. Jones was bowled out of the building and frightfully burned. Eakins and Prows were knocked down and badly burned. It is feared Jones can not recover. He has a wife and eight children. The other two men will recover, but will live sadly disfigured.

C. P. Huntington, who owns or controls more miles of road than any other man in the United States, is about to consolidate all his railroad properties east of the Mississippi river. It is supposed it will be accomplished this month. The Newport News and Mississippi Valley company is to be the title of the new company, which will embrace the Chesapeake and Ohio, extending from Newport News to Huntington, West Virginia, 511 miles; Elizabethton, Lexington and Big Sandy, 103 miles; Huntington to Lexington, 130 miles; Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern, 302 miles; Louisville to Memphis, 302 miles; New Orleans and Texas, Memphis to New Orleans, 533 miles, and the Kentucky Central, with 253 miles.

President Porter, of Yale College, editor of Webster's Dictionary, has decided to admit "bullheads," "boycott" and "smoke," but he doubts about admitting "mugwump." Should President Porter reject the word he will not commit an unbearable offense, for the mugwump has frequently been denied admittance to many other places.

THE TRI-WEEKLY NEW ERA.
THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1886.

"WARUM SIND DIE ROSEN SO BLASS?"
Why are those roses so wan of hue,
O say, to me, darling, why?
And why, love, why is the violet blue,
In the green, green grass so shy?
The fawn, why sings he so sad a chime,
As he hears in the sky's ethereal
Why, why, why, why, why, why, why, why,
An odor as of the dead?
Why wears the sun all the livelong day
A look of such chill and gloom?
O why is the orange so pale and gray,
And desolate as a tomb?
And why so heart-sick and sad am I?
O say, love, why is this should be?
O say, my heart's very darling, why
Hast thou forsaken me?
Hence, translated by Theodor Martin.

Five-Thousand-Dollar Baby Clothes.
A little under $1,000 was the sum paid for the layette, presented by its grandmother to the infant of the Princess Murat. This seems an almost fabulous amount to expend on so tiny an atom of humanity, but at a glance, or rather an examination of the numerous little garments that compose such a layette, enables one to understand how the order becomes when the finest lace and insertion enter into the fabrication of every article of underclothing, when pearls and diamonds are covered with massive embroidery, and robes are of Honiton, Valenciennes or Venetian point. In layettes now nightgowns are de rigueur, and it seems to be generally recognized that during sleep an infant's body should be kept warm and its head protected from cold, up to the time when nature provides it a covering. Pillows and gathings are, however, abandoned in favor of that simple horse-shoe shaped cap that has a fashion as "petitote" among the children of the French, but which is copied in much more delicate materials for English babies.
Many of the robes owe their beauty to the fineness of the needlework, the all-patient tucks and infinitesimal gathings, while others are rich in lace and embroidery. The patterns worked upon these—some of the most effective being the introduction of white chenille into the flowers and leaves, to mark the veins of the latter and the centers of the former. Cloaks of ivory-colored fringed velvet are superseding those of embroidered cashmere, and with them are worn soft hoods of satin or plush edged with swansdown to draw close around the face, and give the warm cozy appearance one associates with a baby—London Queen.

PHOTOS OF DISTINGUISHED MEN.
Public People's Pictures Bought by Tourists and Strangers—How They Sell.
Washington is the leading market of this country for photographs of distinguished men. An avenue dealer whose sales mount up into the thousands annually told me this morning that his only customers were tourists and strangers. "Washington people," said he, "rarely interest themselves in such matters. They meet public men at every turn. Their faces are as familiar to them as any other citizen of the capital. For this reason, I presume, there is but little local demand for such pictures. Who sells best? Oh, Cleveland, of course. That is true of all presidents during the period of their incumbency. Cleveland sells better than either Arthur, Garfield, or Hayes. He was not so well known to the country at large as his more immediate predecessors, which, I dare say, accounts for it in part. Of the cabinet, Garfield's pictures are the most in demand. He is personally a very popular man. The other members of the cabinet sell about even."
"Do you experience much difficulty in procuring sittings from public men?"
"Not as a rule. Such men as Edmunds and Sherman are hard to get, but this arises not so much from a reluctance to sit as from the fact that they are busy men and find it difficult to spare the time."
"Do you find much vanity among this class of men?"
"Very little. The most of them are practical business men, who get their photographs to satisfy the demands of their friends. That is about the only interest they show in the matter. Good looks have little to do with selling such pictures. To tell you the truth, the best-looking men are the least called for. You may not know it, but handsome men are seldom great statesmen, with, of course, an occasional exception now and then. The man's position, his character, his association with passing events—these are what sell his pictures. Gen. Logan, for example, is not a handsome man, but his pictures are always in demand, notwithstanding the fact that nearly every one became familiar with his features during the campaign. Gen. Sherman is the only army officer whose pictures we keep constantly in stock."
"No, Maine and Grant do not sell well at this time. They were both in public life so long that their photographs became very common. Hendrick's picture was but little called for. I could never understand that. He was very popular in a certain sense, but somehow his pictures had no 'go.' A group picture of the supreme court is selling constantly and well. The lawyers who come here want it, and dealers all over the country send for it. Photographs of Mrs. Logan and Mrs. Carlisle are also in great demand. They sell better than the pictures of any other ladies. The Chinese minister also goes quite freely. Lee, Jeff Davis, and Joe Johnston are some times called for by the heads of the three. Red Cloud's pictures sold well at one time, and so did the pictures of Spotted Tail and Sitting Bull. But there is no stability in such booms. The newspaper cuts usually satisfy public curiosity with regard to such people, and after a few weeks or months they are forgotten entirely."—Washington Cor. Chicago News.

Coming Out of the Compressed Air.
In a recent lecture on the disease Dr. A. V. Meigs relates that a visitor once opened his brandy flask while in the compressed air chamber, and recoiling it placed it in his pocket. When he returned back to the outer air the flask exploded with considerable violence. "No more telling story could be told," said the doctor, "than that of the brandy flask to show what would occur with every liquid and gas contained within the human economy upon coming out of the air chamber. What would be the result if the workmen were attacked; but on leaving the chamber they were all 'chilled to the bone,' and their vital energies paralyzed. The men who kept under strict medical control while doing this work, and the percentage of mortality is stated to have been very largely reduced."—New York Sun.

A Very Peculiar Railroad Accident.
A peculiar accident occurred recently at South Abington, Mass. The Brockton branch train, when running around the Y curve, jumped the rails, ran quite a distance on the sleepers, and then, striking a patent switch, took to the rails again in good style, without doing the slightest damage to the train, merely giving the passengers a good shaking up.—New York Sun.

Another Tradition Proved False.
A tradition has long prevailed that the waters of Lake Tahoe, California, would not sustain a human body, that many daring swimmers had perished by venturing into its treacherous depths. Professor Le Conte and the young men of his scientific expedition have exploded this delusion by swimming in the lake.—Chicago Herald.

Proper Pronunciation of Crematory.
Crematory is usually mispronounced. The first syllable is pronounced krem, with the short e sound like gem. But it is just as hot one way as the other.

PLANTATION NEGROES.
King Redwald's Altar.
When Edwin reigneth in Britain,
And Redwald reigneth in Kent,
The News of Christ's Religion
Throughout the country went.
Edwin embraced it warily,
In questioning content,
"I give to neither, worship
I qualified assent,
My temple has two altars."
"Oh, many King of Kent!"
"The foremost and the biggest
I'll bestow north is lent;
But the southern in the corner,
Said Redwald King of Kent,
"If keeping true to the Devil,
That he may see me
To do him no dishonor."
Said the manning of Kent,
"Christianity in Britain,
And I will give to thee,
And men suppose the Devil
Is dead, or safely pent,
But in some secret corner,
The most of them consent
To give him some small altar,
Like Redwald King of Kent."
We wish to state that we have at last found an article we can sell on its merits. It is with pleasure we guarantee to the public Acker's English Kidney and never-failing cure for Asthma, Coughs, Whooping Cough, Croup, and all Lung Troubles. It is the standard remedy for Consumption. H. B. Garner never found its equal.

A New Instrument.
[Arkansas Traveler]
A new scientific apparatus for measuring distances—the "Stadiometer"—has been devised by Professor Cerroloni of Verona, and is being exhibited in London. Its principle is that known to surveyors as "triangulation," but the essential base-line is so shortened as to be contained in the instrument itself, while a set of tables enables the observer to read off accurately the distance or height of any object in view without trigonometrical calculation.
We would specially recommend to the ladies Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. As a laxative they have no equal. They are guaranteed to cure Chronic Constipation, Dyspepsia, and all diseases arising from a deranged stomach. With a free use of the Tablets, Sick Headache is impossible. For sale by H. B. Garner.

Central Fire.
[Exchange.]
The Review of Kiel Terro states that the German government has just completed at Seefeldach, a Wild Village between Leipzig and Corbach, the deepest boring into the surface of the earth that has yet been accomplished. The shaft sunk reached a depth of 1,322 meters, where the heat was found to be 120 degrees. If the temperature increases at this rate it is reckoned that water would boil at a depth of 2,000 meters, and that at 4 1/2 miles platinum would melt.

In Training.
[Fall, Mail Gazette.]
"Do you wish to be my wife, Mabel?" said a little boy.
"Yes," incautiously answered Mabel, "then pull off my boots."
We wish to make an assertion, which we can back with a positive guarantee. It is all about Acker's Blood Elixir. We claim for its superior merits over all other remedies of its kind, and guarantee for it a positive and sure cure for Rheumatism, Syphilis, and all blood disorders. It frees the skin from spots and discolorations, and leaves the complexion clear. Ask H. B. Garner about it.

My stock of Millinery was selected by Mrs. Jane Hart, and she had care made to purchase everything new to be found in the Eastern markets. She made large quantities and secured everything of the latest styles. As her ability to make such selections, the quality of her work, and the variety are well understood, as usual she will graciously receive orders from all parts of the country many ladies to be had on for, and will be pleased to show them every thing new.

Mrs. Hart also made large selections for me, and can show some of the finest cloaks and other wraps to be found in the West. Mr. W. L. Walker can be found at the store.

Tuesday afternoon about four o'clock two dusky maidens, living on Fourth street near the railroad, declared war and began an active campaign at once. After pulling each other's hair with a great deal of talk thrown in, they were separated, with their differences as widely different as before.

Yesterday the funeral of Jimmie and Claude Ritter, the little sons of Mr. Chas. Ritter, took place. One of the children died Sunday night and before his remains could be laid away his brother followed. The two remaining children of Mr. Ritter have also been taken with diphtheria but are at this time improving. Mr. Ritter lives about three miles South of the city. The deep gloom that has fallen upon his household is sad to contemplate, and he has the warmest sympathy of the people of this community.

Mr. L. P. Gerhart, of Clarksville, Tennessee, was married to Miss Carrie R. Bryan, of this city, at the Christian church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. S. W. Welch officiating. The ushers were Messrs. Pickering, Bell, Hollins and McReynolds, all of Clarksville. The church was handsomely decorated. In the center of the pulpit was a bank of cedar lilies with roses of various colors, and on either side were two cedar posts ornamented with floral designs. The wedding march was played by Miss Steinhagen. Mrs. Gerhart was one of our most attractive young ladies. She is the daughter of Mr. John S. Bryan and has long been a favorite here. Mr. Gerhart is a young gentleman of fine appearance and is fast making a mark in the world. The bridal party left on the five o'clock train for New Orleans.

Healthful Trade.

It is gratifying and encouraging to know that during 1885 there was but one mercantile failure in Hopkinsville involving a small grocery house. This argues well for both merchants and customers. Trade is frequently dull and collections slow in an agricultural district, as well as in any other, but it stands on a solid foundation, and its final result is almost always safe if not of dazzling brilliance.

COUNTY OFFICIALS.

What they Have Been Doing During the Past Year.

Tuesday News: Ena reporter made the rounds of the county offices, in search of news "gum" statistics. All around the circuit we could catch but the faint echoes of political pointers, but nothing was definite enough to mention. The candidates on both sides of the fence seemed to be in a good humor, and all expressed themselves as ready and willing for the lightning to strike, whether it should blaze from the "committee" room or be discharged from the cumulus of a convention.

We found Mr. Aquilla Long in the jail looking after the comfort of his boarders. Every prisoner agreed in the voluntary statement that Mr. Long was a kind and courteous gentleman and had been faithful and thoughtful in the discharge of his duties. Mr. Long told us that during the present year 74 State prisoners have been incarcerated, one of whom was hung, one sent to the penitentiary for life, and 7, for shorter terms. Besides these there have been 33 county prisoners, and the jail now contains 10 inmates. There are four good cells in the jail and two more that could be used. Each cell is about 8 feet square with a capacity of about five persons each. Mr. Long is a sound Democrat, and at one time he cast the only vote in his district for a Democratic candidate. We next dropped in on Maj. Bradhitt in the County.

CLERKS OFFICE.

The Maj. was in fine spirits and politely consented to give all the information we desired about his office. His deputy, Mr. Harvey Bradhitt, furnished us the following information: During the fiscal year ending Sept. 1st, 1885, 586 deeds and 206 mortgages were recorded, and on Jan. 1st, 86, 231 deeds and 272 mortgages additional had been recorded. Licenses have been granted as follows: 25 coffee licenses at $100 each, 10 merchants at $100 each, 9 taverns at $100, billiard tables $110, circuses $120, Stalls, Jacks and Bulls $343.00, making the total amount received $5,393.35. 179 marriage licenses have been issued to white people and 133 to colored. The records of the office are voluminous consisting of 70 large folio deed books, 13 folio mortgage books, 19 folio bond books, 23 folio will books, 69 folio bond books, all 50 pages each; 25 folio books, consisting of the docket, guaranties, ex-cutors, administrators and trustees settlements books. There are 258 file boxes of deeds, mortgages and settlements, and 144 pigeon holes averaging 5 bundles of settlements each. These records are invaluable as containing the transactions of the court, and their destruction by fire or otherwise would result in endless confusion and trouble. We left the office wondering how any man could keep up with all this mass of records.

We then went to the office of Capt. Underwood, our Circuit Court Clerk. The Captain was sitting in an easy chair reading, and after a few minutes conversation, he gave us a few facts concerning the office of.

CIRCUIT CLERK.

There are filed in the office 1,000 bundles, averaging 50 cases each, of cases that have been tried and struck from the docket. The common law cases on file that have been disposed of amount to 1,200 bundles. There are also on file 100 bundles of executors, averaging 100 cases to a bundle, making a total of 10,000. Besides these there are 176 bundles of judgments on file. In the file there are 51 boxes containing Circuit and County Clerks and County Judges reports and settlements with the trustees of the jury fund, also 10 boxes of judgments and bills. There are 76 order books, a Commonwealth order book, and about 20 execution books; 2 books of judgments by default before 1870, 2 books of records of commissioners sales, 1 of transcripts of executions, 1 transcript from lower courts, judgment and witness books. There are about 200 present orders docketed for the March term of court. Since the present clerk has been in office there have been 1,999 appearances and suits filed. There are on the equity docket for March about 300 continued cases and about 50 continued common law cases. Capt. Underwood then recited a short history of the office, who have served as clerks.

Young Ewing was appointed Clerk at the court held March 1, 1885. The clerk and Clerk was James McLaughlin, the third was James S. Dalling, the fourth John H. Phelps, the fifth Rich-ard Shackelford, the sixth R. R. Lammien.

The first election was held August 1854, and John C. Latham was elected Clerk; August 1859, Jobb Clark was elected; August 1865, Nat. Gaither was elected, and in August 1871, he was re-elected. B. T. Underwood, the present Clerk, was elected August 1880.

Leaving Captain Underwood, we stepped across the hall into the Sheriff's office, where we found the genial John Boyd and his sensible assistant Mr. Omar Brown engaged in their daily labors. Mr. Brown, as an indication of the sound financial condition of the people of our county, told us that one gentleman had paid his tax that morning by statute, and they proceeded to stimp the condition of the.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

The tabular statement below will explain itself.

Dr.
County of Kentucky.....	$33,674.11.
Sheriff has paid to date.....	25,869.80
Balance due April 1st.....	7,443.29.
	$33,304.10.

The county revenue, including railroad tax &c., is $43,863.82. Of this amount there has been paid in county claims including Jan. coupons on railroad bonds, about $14,560.90. Leaving balance due the county $29,363.82.

Out of this the balance of unpaid claims against the county must be paid, and also the July coupons which amount to $4,620. What is left will be applied to the sinking of the railroad bonds.

U. S. Post-Office Building.

The desirability of a post-office building at this point, owned by the General Government, is recognized by all business men and by every intelligent citizen. It is desirable in the light of economy, convenience, safety, economy and justice. It does not accord with any one's sense of right that the Government should place a citizen in charge of an important office, in which every one transmits more or less business, require his exclusive attention to his official duties; exact heavy bonds of him as a pledge of his fidelity; and then require him in order to meet fully the requirements of his position, to expend half of his salary for office-rent and clerk hire.

It is only just and fair that a post-office building should be provided for third class as well as for first and second-class offices.

In a previous article on this subject we stated the amount of money order business transacted last year at the Hopkinsville post-office at $54,000. In this statement no account was taken of the postal rate and registered letter business, as far as the latter item was made known, which amounted last year to $23,100.43. The sale of stamps for the same time amounted to some $5,500. These items added to the money orders, before reported, make a sum total of $82,600 for last year's business.

The importance of Hopkinsville as a distributing point is growing yearly. So it is a matter of great concern to large numbers of post-offices that this post-office should have every facility for forwarding the mails.

This Congressional district pays a large revenue to the United States Treasury as a producer and manufacturer of tobacco and distilled liquors. Christian is the largest tobacco-growing county in the large tobacco-growing State of Kentucky. Hopkinsville sold over 12,000 hogheads of tobacco at her warehouses last year, and is also a manufacturer of tobacco. This item of national revenue will be largely increased as the manufacture of tobacco increases here and at other points in the district. It is reasonable that a region which pays so large a sum into the national treasury should obtain suitable recognition in return in the shape of an appropriation to increase its mail facilities.

There are only 31 third-class post-offices in Kentucky so that if $20,000 should be appropriated for a Government building for each one the total would be but $620,000.

Louisville, whose value as a payer of tobacco tax depends wholly on her receipts of raw material from other districts, has got an appropriation of $1,000,000 for her post-office and custom-house. Hopkinsville is surely entitled to at least one-fifth of that sum for a post-office.

Let Uncle Sam be fair, impartial and generous, in distributing his favors, and give us a handsome and commodious public edifice from whose lofty staff the Signal Service shall fly its warnings, and the flag of a united country shall be glorified on every joyous holiday.

TOBACCO.

LOUISVILLE.

J. S. Phelps & Co. in their January report say: "We enter upon the 'New Year' with a comparatively small stock of unsold tobacco.

Considering the general crop grown in 1885 (which is largely estimated at from two-thirds to three-fourths of the preceding crop), in connection with the supply and demand of the world, it is unreasonable to say that tobacco occupies a strong position, and that we have good reason to 'hope for an active market from now until, at least, the planting season?' Then, of course, prices will be governed by the size of the crop.

Our opinion is that, although it is selling relatively as high as any other farm product, tobacco is too low, and that it will advance in price within the next few months.

In dark tobacco the scarcity of the better grades of leaf and logs, and also of long and extra long leaf, will issue good prices for these kinds.

Anything suitable for re-drying will prove exceedingly scarce, and must, as we believe, bring very full values next fall.

We expect, as heretofore, to see a very slight difference between the price of good logs and common low leaf, as there will be a large proportion of the latter. In our minds, there is more doubt about the future value of mean, trashy logs than any other grade of dark tobacco.

The following table of comparative values is given in the Louisville market:

January 1, 1884.	January 1, 1885.
Common logs.....	$4.00@5.50
Medium logs.....	5.75@6.50
Good logs.....	6.25@6.20
Common leaf.....	6.25@6.25
Medium leaf.....	7.00@7.25

STORIES OF THE WAR

ILLUSTRATED IN EVERY ISSUE.

A Paper for the Homes—Sparkling and Original in Every Feature.

On the first of January next, a new departure in every feature of the Weekly Times will be made. Every number will be liberally illustrated in its War contributions, which have so long been a specialty in its columns, and in its stories, which will be greatly enlarged from the pens of the best writers, and in current literature, including fiction, art, science and the leading events of the day.

The time has past for the weekly journal of the city to fill the place of a newspaper. The daily newspaper from the center of news reaches the edge of the land. Every inland city and every town of importance have their daily newspapers, and the local weekly, with its wonderful progress in provincial journalism, meets every want that the daily newspaper fails to supply. The metropolitan weekly of to-day must be much more than a newspaper; it must be a magazine of family reading, must lead the magazine in popular literature; it must lead in popular illustration, and it must meet every requirement of the intelligent reader of every class.
