FACTS WORTH CONSIDERING.

Whether from swampy land or stagnant pool, of the deadly gases of city sewers, malarial poisons are the same. Ayre's Sarsaparilla, taken according to directions, is a warranted specific for malarial disorders.

FACTS WORTH CONSIDERING.

The Republican county ticket is not only the product of a few shrewd political manipulators, but, as is usual in such cases, it is not a representative ticket. There are in the county more than five colored Republican voters for every one white Republican voter.

Cholera is spreading in the towns of Austria.

During June fifty-five railroads in this country earned $19,008,862.

In Italy, on the 11th, there were 214 new cases and 100 deaths from cholera.

Atlanta is now converted into a Prohibition city, and the Kimball House has been converted into a splendid liquor saloon.

It is enough to make the soul of a Hopkinsville saloon keeper sick to read that the late King Ludwig's today cost $50 daily.

Anson, the base ball player, is worth $40,000. Isaac Murphy, the negro jockey, gets a salary of $10,000 a year. Talent must be encouraged.

Almond B. Thomson, cashier of the Provident Savings Bank, at St. Louis, has advised the Canada colony of exiles with $40,000 of the bank's money.

About $65,000,000 of northern capital has been brought south of the Ohio and put into business enterprises during the past year, or the past five months.

Jacob Sharp, the notorious street car contractor, who was convicted of bribing the New York Aldermen, said the other day: "I am in the manure business up to my neck." Jacob has found his proper element, and reached his true depth.

Sixteen United States Senators do not use tobacco in any shape. While their fellow Senators smoke or chew in the committee rooms they solace themselves by humming the old song: "Tobacco an Indian weed. It was the devil that sowed the seed. It makes a chimney of the nose."

The editor of a Polish newspaper, published in the village of Posen—Salem town—has been sentenced to nine months imprisonment for insulting the State government. Commissioner Durham, and a few Kentucky editors who have been telling how affairs had got "into a terrible nest," would fair badly if they should take a summer trip to the renowned village of Posen.

The following startling metaphor was indulged in recently by a Georgia judge, in a case in which it was held that dealing in "cotton futures,"—that is, contracts in form of sales of cotton for future delivery, but with the intention on both sides to deliver not cotton, but to settle by payment of difference in the market price, was gambling. Said the judge: "A betting on a game of faro, brag or poker can not be more hazardous, dangerous, or uncertain. Indeed, it may be said that these animals are more gentle and submissive compared to this monster. The law has caged them, and driven them to their dens; they have been outlawed, while this ferocious beast has been allowed to stalk about in open mid-day with gilded signs and flaming advertisements, to lure the unhappy victim to its embrace of death and destruction."

Whether from swampy land or stagnant pool, of the deadly gases of city sewers, malarial poisons are the same. Ayre's Sarsaparilla, taken according to directions, is a warranted specific for malarial disorders.

Baldwin pays his colored jockey, Murphy, a salary of $10,000 a year. Murphy is surely riding through life.

Will Nash, son of a leading clergyman of Union City, Tenn., was shot through the bowels dangerously in a house of ill-fame in that place by one of his inmates.

Mr. Powderly, the Knights of Labor chief, will be the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania. By combining the labor and Democratic votes, knowing one say he will be elected.

Congressman Morrison wants to pay off the public debt at the rate of $10,000,000 a month with the surplus in the Treasury. Without a public debt very much of the real patriotic fire would be extracted from the parties.

The Henderson military company died. The Bowling Green company is dying, and all the others are more or less complaining. Meanwhile Gen. Castelman and Col. Crump are having their morning dresses made.

The following remark is accredited to Sam Jones: "I am worth $100 a day, now; if I caught enough newspaper advertising I'll soon be worth $1,000 a day, and then I'll go to Europe." With a salary of $263,000 a year, he could make a very happy trip to the old country.

Someone suggests that a newspaper would straighten out things up in Rowan county. A reporter up there would have as serious a time as the newspaper men at a Kentucky legislature, only it might be more fatal, as the soldiers usually do their shooting with their mouths.

The Times says there are two demoralized Democratic congressional districts in the State, the First and the Fifth. It is a significant fact that Col. Oscar Turner lives in both these districts. After the English fashion, preferring for some reason the First, he was concluded to run for Congress against Capt. Stoddard, and blandly tells the people when and how to accomplish a nomination, otherwise he will run on 11th November. In other words, Col. Turner proposes to kick the party when the party don't do suit him. In the meantime it to be hoped that the party will reach about the same conclusion in regard to the gentleman of many homes.

Judge David Turpie, who has been appointed District Attorney for Indiana, is one of the ablest men in the country. He was for a short time a member of the United States Senate, and after delivering a speech in that body he "awoke one morning to find himself famous."

His grasp of mind and virility of thought are similar to the characteristics of the late Elijah Hise, whom he resembles in many particulars. He is a student as well, and it is one of the ironies of fate and an ill-luck of politics that he has remained in obscurity while one-talent men have come to the front. Judge Turpie ought to have spent his prime in the Senate. He has been and will remain a fixture at the bar of a one-horse Indiana court.—Louisville Times.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

Harry B. Garner can always be relied upon to carry in stock the purest and best goods, and sustain the reputation of being active, pushing and reliable, by recommending articles with well established merit and such as are popular. Having the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, he will sell it on a positive guarantee. It will surely cure any and every affliction of throat, lungs, or chest, and in order to prove our claim we ask you to call and get a Trial Bottle Free.

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

For proof that Dr. Gunn's Liver Pills cure Sick Headache, ask your druggist for a trial package. Only one for a dose. Regular size boxes, 25 cents. Sold by G. E. Gaither.

"You are going to erect a monument to your father's memory, I suppose?" "Of course, my father is dead, and he is forgotten. We are going to do something that will keep his memory alive much longer." "What's that?" "We are going to fight in the courts for his property."

Active, Pushing and Reliable.

II. B. Garner wishes to make an assertion, which he can back up with a positive guarantee. It's all about Ayer's Blood Purifier. He claims that for its superior merits over all other remedies of its kind, and guarantees for it a positive and sure cure for Rheumatism, Syphilis, and all blood disorders. It frees the skin from spots and disease, and leaves the complexion clear. Ask him about it.

Bodily health and vigor may be maintained as easily in the heat of summer, as in the winter months, if the blood is purified and vitalized with Ayre's Sarsaparilla.

Every person who has used this remedy has been greatly benefited. Take it this month.

WATERING PLACE STYLES.

Evening Dresses—Black Lace—Beads—White Costumes—Notes.

Lovely evening dresses are of light colored foulard in floral patterns or showing Oriental colored tints. Initiations Valenciennes lace in the soft, new designs is a favorite relief and is sometimes very wide. Mikado silks are in questionable taste, showing enormous patterns, tolerable perhaps for the straight falling drapery of a Japanese, but to us, suggestive of curtain stuff. English white dresses are made of canvas, trimmed with bows of watered ribbon, while taking a first position both for beauty and cost, are dresses of white watered silk, trimmed or offset with draped white lace. Black moire dresses are veiled by Chantilly and the white by Valenciennes—both imitation of course, but the simulation so refined as to be very pleasing. Costumes of bordered foulard are notably tasteful. Soft falling, and plain throughout with the exception of a palm leaf border; the colorings of the two, carefully studied to correspond. One, recently worn by Miss Astor, was in fact color, made with light plaited skirt, having a border in Oriental colors around the lower edge; a deep pointed apron and the two pointed back caperettes showed the edges bordered; the yoke basque with plaited back and front and side pockets, cuffs and collar bordered. Other foulards in this style display combinations of red and red, blue and red, green and brown, etc. Plain foulards are relieved by velvet.

BLACK LACE DRESSES are things of beauty and a universal joy, since everybody can wear them. Almost hereabouts combined with silk, and the most brilliant colors can be so toned down as not to be too gay. As a word to the wise is worth two, we suggest that the lace be not placed on the lower side of the sleeve or under the arm, as it does not stand friction. Dotted lace net is classed among the most elegant, and some of the prettiest costumes are made of it over silk, while dresses of plain net are tucked, side plaited, etc. just like any other fabric. Colored net or laces all in manifold ways over colored silks, and plain, beaded, dotted or beaded, from a leading and infinitely varied style. Beaded laces are in a general way with achting shoulders, I am afraid to say. Leaning back in one's chair will not answer. A "just so" attitude is the really proper one in a general way that these beads are perpetually coming off and require perpetual putting on again, leaves no doubt, that the fashionable woman pays for her honors.

THE HALF MOURNING people who come to watering places, accomplish the task so prettily that the envy of non-mourning people may well be excited. White evening costumes are captivating with fragrant bouquet corsage of purple violets. Then there are rich crepon cloths with erikled surface and silk crepon with intersecting or vertical lines. Dressy half mourners rotate among these novelties in white, but are more serviceable, do not dislain thicker crepe finished cloth, "new make" cloth with silk warp and basket surface or gypsy cloth with also a silk warp and armure figures. It is not infrequent to see ladies in the half mourning costume themselves to white, the more so this year there are special novelties, while even in the evening, white can be worn on some particular occasions, as that of a wedding or when the weather is very oppressive.

MIDSUMMER NOTES. Colored bordered handkerchiefs hold their own since they give out exquisite peepings from corsage fronts or hidden away pockets that are sometimes very pleasing, to say nothing of exquisite handling. Balls of muslin with wire elastic sections on the sides, seem in demand everywhere, owing doubtless to the fact that they are so useful. For those who prefer it, there is a new elastic section at the waist. Suits cut open to show a man like shirt. Fronts are exceedingly stylish in crepe, often in the front is striped in colors with colored cuffs to match and sometimes upright colored collar, but often the collar is white. The bow is a many barbed white lawn. Standing white collars with the longer duette tie are much liked, and a man's tie can grace it. Ribbon bows lighted for city streets, and summer resorts, as also the bias tie and the new tie of white lace.

Gaither's Drug Store.

G. E. Gaither has just finished repairing his drug and H. B. by the hands of some of the best mechanics in the state. He has an elegant back room for manufacturing prescriptions separate from his drug room, and parties wishing prescriptions filled with promptness and accuracy, will do well to give him a call. He has had a number of years experience in this line and fully understands his business. He has also added a paint and oil house to his already large assortment of drugs and stationery, and guarantees to sell pure white lead and good linseed oil in the market. Also a full line of Medical Wines and Cordials for summer drinking. As good assortment of cigars and tobacco as you will find in the city. His bed room is over the store, and prates washing medicines at night will always find him in the room, and glad to serve them. Gaither's drug store is now artistically furnished. The ceiling and walls are handsomely ornamented with rich paper, and the shelving has been furnished with a background of red that affords a charming contrast. Call and see him.

The Only Perfect Remedy

For habitual constipation, dyspepsia, and kindred ills, is the famous California Liquid Fruit Remedy, Syrup of Figs. It strengthens as well as cleanses the system, it is easily taken, and perfectly harmless. Sample bottles free, and large bottles for sale by H. B. Garner.

Babies in the Woods.

The children of the First Presbyterian Sunday School held a glorious holiday yesterday in the cool green shade of Johnson's beautiful grove, on the Mall, Louisville, Ky. The children were dressed in their best, and the day was spent in a most enjoyable manner. The children were dressed in their best, and the day was spent in a most enjoyable manner.

Wedding Trains.

Now that the "Elen N." has set the precedent in this vicinity, of running special wedding trains and celebrating the marriage rites on one of its beautiful passenger cars while spinning along the rails at the rate of forty miles an hour, it is likely that the taking example will be widely followed.

John W. Payne For County Attorney.

The office of county attorney is one which requires for the efficient discharge of its duties a man of energy, courage, ability and sound business sense. This office sustains an important relation to the people of the county, and in meeting the obligations that come before him, legal ability is constantly called into play.

Public Speaking.

The Republican and Democratic candidates for the various county offices have commenced their public speaking, and will address the voters of Christian county at the following places, to-wit:

Cocky, Tuesday, July 20.
Tinsley, Wednesday, July 21.
Hartsville, Thursday, July 22.
Ginsburg, Tuesday, July 27.
Hopkinsville, Saturday, July 31.
Speaking will begin at 1 o'clock p. m.

Syrup of Figs.

Sample bottles free and large bottles at fifty cents and one dollar. It is the most pleasant, prompt, and effective remedy known to cleanse the system; to act on the Liver, Kidney and Bowels gently, yet thoroughly; to dispel Headaches, Colds, and Fevers; to cure Constipation, Indigestion and kindred ills.

Three tuition certificates of the Evansville Commercial College, for sale at this office.

The colored base ball club from Pembroke tackled the "Sailor Boys" yesterday afternoon.
Dancers! A dance took place last night at the cave, complimentary to Miss Sallie Wood, of Hopkinsville, and Jennie Bailey, of this city. Quite a number of young people were in attendance, and it proved an enjoyable affair.

We received an original poem on "Love" the other day. The sender said it was picked up in the road and forgot to sign his name to the note. The editorial department of the New Era is monopolized entirely by married men, so the poem was handed over to the young bucks on the first floor. It is a significant fact, however, when poems on such a tender subject can be found scattered around the country, and it would not take a prophet to predict that the fall business is going to be brisk in the matrimonial market, but for goodness sake don't say I told you.

Will Neither Eat Nor Talk.

Ellen Reed, 25 years of age, was placed in jail last night charged with larceny, and will be tried this morning. She had previously been an inmate of the Hopkinsville asylum, but was pronounced cured, and discharged. She then returned to this city, and lived with her sister, Mrs. Mary Harlin, on Preston and Ship streets. Recently she again developed symptoms of insanity, and was taken to a private institute for treatment. Her condition did not improve, and it was again decided to commit her to the asylum. She can not be induced to talk, and has wasted away through a refusal to partake of food until she weighs but seventy pounds.

Not a Drop to Drink.

It is curious, but it is a fact nevertheless, that there is hardly a large town or city in the whole country where one can conveniently obtain a drink of any beverage except ardent spirits of some kind. We speak, of course, not of the guests at hotels and restaurants, but of passers-by who have made no special provision for satisfying their thirst. Hotels and saloons have drinking water for the use of their patrons, and the water-cooler placed in other establishments are at the service of those who come to buy goods rather than for the accommodation of transient persons.

The Gypsies.

The Romaniens are at their wonted roving again; that is if they stop at all, and their stated appearances are not a part of one never-ending tramp around the world, like the journey of the Wandering Jew. Three of the familiar Gypsy wagons, painted, painted and covered, and lighted by little windows, like a show wagon, halted on the street the other day, on their westward journey. The wagons were drawn by well-harnessed horses and provided with such bells which served as eyes and ears to the dirty-faced children, and sang-complexioned, tooth-haired women, who were quite well qualified as the wisest spirit-medium to interpret visions, unveil the future, and lie without scruple on every topic accompanied by the cash. This is a queer world, full of queer people, and the mysterious, wandering, basket-selling, lacepeddling, horse-trading Gypsy is one of the queerest. What bond of union holds together that shrewd, sharp, unscrupulous band, whose members, seemingly destitute of sentiment, still cherish a strong clanish sympathy, is not known to our has ever explained. Even those who have accumulated property and have comfortable homes, like the Romaniens around Dayton, Ohio, are still rovers on the face of the earth; they can no more remain in one house than if they rested under the curse of the Flying Dutchman.

Around Town.

Grey Lewis was elected Second Lieutenant of Co. D Tuesday night.
Miss Gabriela Perkins, daughter of Capt. A. R. Perkins, is quite ill with dysentery.
Take your watch to D. Galbreath & Co., and you will be pleased with their work and prices.
The boys the police whipped for stealing acted under authority of the parents of the lads.

MONEY LOST.—By failing to call on D. Galbreath & Co.—when in need of anything in the jewelry line.
The plate glass windows have been put in the front of Jones & Co.'s elegant dry goods store on Main Street.
I have the largest and best selected stock of men's, boys' and youths' clothing, latest style, cheaper than any other house in this city. Call on
M. LAFITTE.

Mrs. C. F. Jarrett entertained a number of her young friends at her delightful residence a few miles from the city Wednesday night.
Several couples from this city attended the dance at Kelly's Station Thursday night. Mr. W. E. Boyd was especially attentive to the visitors.
Rev. R. W. Clelland, who is favorably known in this place as an evangelist, will take charge of the First Presbyterian in Owensboro October 1, as its regular pastor.

The finest lot of stylish spring and summer goods, which I am selling lower than any other house in the city. Call in before buying elsewhere.
M. LAFITTE.
The moonlight picnic at Fleming's cave Wednesday night was a success. The dashing Sam Fleming is a loquacious host, full of good humor and knows how to make everybody merry.
The L. & N. railroad is taking daily from eight to ten car-loads of fat, plump wheat, 500 bushels to the car, from the Hopkinsville depot, the priceless, but unluckily this season, the low-priced product of Christian, the sunny land of rolls, biscuits and waffles.

With nights at a temperature of sixty-two degrees and balmy days with a haze atmosphere like the dreary air of Indian Summer, the weather for some days has been perfect for either sleeping or working. With a good conscience, good health and useful employment one can get along very comfortably.
Several cattle near Shepherdsville, Ky., have been smitten with hydrophobia. They are supposed to have been bitten by some of the many worthless curs, which being utterly useless having nothing to do except to kill sheep or run mad and torture human beings and useful dumb brutes by the most horrible of deaths.

If you wish to see your town prosper work for it. Work for yourself. Do something. Let the public see that you are alive. Don't be a clam. Above all, don't make yourself dismal and disgust others by croaking. Don't be a frog. There is room enough in this world for every one to make a living. The world was made big on purpose.

Hon. S. A. McElwee, colored member of the Tennessee legislature, lectured to a large crowd Thursday night. He explained why the negro's hair was kinky by saying that the hot African sun curled it up just like the young ladies now curled their golden or raven locks with a heated curling iron. Last night he delivered a political oration at the court house.

Manager Richardson informs us that the Pembroke "Keen Kutter" will play in Henderson next Monday and Tuesday. He don't want us to picture the notice in "too sanguine terms," but he says he just wants to slip up on the Hendersonians and scalp them "unbeknownst to their sorter," you know. He will be glad to have any of his Hopkinsville friends go over to the slaughter. The Hendersons are all professional players, and if the Pembroke boys play them a close game they will be satisfied.

An American correspondent says that in the garden of the old palace in the city of Mexico is a singular orchid which bears a wax-like, bell-shaped flower growing mouth upward, trailing of which is a fountain like a baby's hand. It is called the Zapalique-cochli. It would take a great many more letters than the name of the Mexican orchid contains to spell the mischief an average Hopkinsville baby can get its hand in, between dropping the kitten into the churn and emptying the mellar into the cream pitcher.

Two doctors were earnestly arguing the sanitary uses of alcohol on Main street a few evenings since. One said that alcohol was a purifier. An eminent scientist on examining a tooth in a healthy man's mouth, found it covered with swarms of bacteria. He examined the teeth of another man who had just been drinking whisky, and found that they were perfectly clean. "This shows," said the doctor, "that whisky is a destroyer of animals which are believed to be a prolific source of disease." "Oh, he is right," replied the other, "it shows that if whisky will destroy one form of animal life it will likely prove more or less hurtful to all other forms of life. It is not reasonable to think that a drink full of poison or drowned bacteria is good for the human stomach. Whisky may be a good dentifrice, but a bad drink." "Then let us go and get a couple of tooth-washes," replied the other. And they went.

"This is what the telegraph reports: 'George O'Neil, a young merchant of Charleston, Tenn., was killed near this city at a late hour last night by a train from the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway. In attempting to board the train while in motion, he made a mistake and was thrown under the wheels and crushed to death. His body was cut into four pieces.' One of many similar accidents. But does your publication do any good? Probably not a single passenger train ever comes to Hopkinsville which some passenger or chance visitor does not leave or board while it is in motion. There is not the least necessity for such haste or delay. A few seconds sooner or later would give all who wish to enter or leave trains a stationary car, but that is not enough. To many persons there is the same train in motion that there is to a sportsman in shooting birds on the wing.

Personal.

John Ireland, who is in Louisville.
W. J. Martin, Madisonville, was in the city Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bushnell, and Miss Sallie Wood, of Hopkinsville, have taken rooms at the Cave Hotel.—(Clarksville Democrat)

Misses Lizzie Bodman and ———— Thompson, who have been visiting the family of Dr. Jas. Bodman, returned home this morning.

A Thief Caught.
Young Gray, the creamery man, who succeeded in "stealing" the Trenton people for considerable sums of money, we are reliably informed was captured in Chicago Wednesday.

Summer fights.
Shortly after the candidates spoke at Ferguson's Store Wednesday evening, an old fashion rough and tumble fight occurred, in which two men were seriously hurt. J. A. Calvin and Lawson Depper came to blows over a target gun. E. Harbison and A. M. Thomas tried to separate them. This brought on a general fight, in which, besides the above named, Messrs. Huddleston, Isam and Jenkins participated. The air was filled with flying stones. Fists, clubs and rocks came in as instruments of war. Two pistol shots were fired but did no damage. When quiet was restored it was found that Isam and Huddleston had both been hit in the head with stones, the former being seriously wounded. It is impossible to describe the fight as detailed to us by our informant, and it is remarkable that so few escaped without being hurt.

Some of the Gypsy families visited by Charles G. Leland in Hungary, Vienna and St. Petersburg, had a high degree of culture and exhibited an originality in music which was actual inspiration. The Hungarian Gypsies played the Rognsky, or National March for the American traveler as he never heard it before. The American Gypsy exhibits none of this culture. He is apparently satisfied to roam from place to place, buy, sell or trade horses, and make petty bargains in which he always gets the advantage.
