Value-added Erosion in Global Value Chains: Rethinking International Trade

Xiao Jiang, Assistant Professor, Denison University, OH

Dr. Xiao Jiang's has provided economic consulting for the International Labor Organization, the Association for East and Southeast Asian Countries, and the Economic Policy Institute. Dr. Jiang holds a PhD. in Economics from The New School for Social Research.

The talk discusses employment effects of trade, and argues that the expansion of foreign high value-adding activities in the upper stream of global value chains is likely to lead to a decline of domestic value-added share, leading to intensification of international and domestic distributional conflicts.

Sponsored by: Economics Department, Wright State University
