Barriger honored as Mr. ONU for 1994

Matt Grills and Amy Schreffler
News Editor/ News Writer

On the evening of March 26, ten of Olivet's supermen combined their talents to entertain the student body in Kresge Auditorium. The candidates for Mr. ONU this year were freshmen Aaron Dicer and Jeremy Scott, sophomores Josh Childs and Joel Close, juniors Dave Johnson, Andrew Barriger, and Jerry Sipes, and seniors Brad Foster, Jeff Scott, and Zel Woodworth.

Janet Gross, WRA President, put together and organized the show, along with hosting the program with Terry Bate. Stephanie Jordan and Jeanie Williams choreographed the fight scene.

Final results showed Joel Close as the fourth runner-up, Zel Woodworth placing third, Jeremy Scott achieving second runner-up, Jeff Scott first runner-up, and Andrew Barriger as the 1994 Mr. ONU.

Each candidate was required to create their own superhero. Some of the more popular were Jeremy Scott's "Glue Guy", Joel Close's "Carpet Crusader", Jeff Scott's "Sergeant Safety", Andrew Barriger's "Static Man", and Zel Woodworth's "Particle Man."

The skits and talent contributions were memorable on all counts. Josh Childs put together a video featuring himself, "murdering" all the other Mr. ONU contestants. Brad Foster did a lip synch, and Zel Woodworth did a skit about a first date, using the hands of someone behind him as his own as he prepared for a date.

Andrew Barriger, the 1994 Mr. ONU, was crowned by WRA president Janet Gross last Saturday at Mr. ONU. (GlimmerGlass photo by John Dickson).

Jeremy Scott sang a parody of Steven Curtis Chapman's hit, "I Will Be Here." His version, "I Will Be Dead," was a serenade to his true love "Barbara."

Jeff Scott said, "I truly had a great time in the Mr. ONU festivities. I think the biggest surprise of the evening was that there were no really bad acts. Everyone did a great job. The highlights of the evening were too good to count. I'm glad we all got to work with each other in the video. I only wish I were going to be a fifth year senior so I could do it all again! Yeah, right!"

Spring hits the air as the players take the field and Tiger baseball season gets started full swing. ONU player Justin Knight takes a swing at last week's game. (GlimmerGlass photo by Jeremy Harrison).

Social Work Club sponsors necessity drive for homeless

Matt Grills
News Editor

During the month of April, the Social Work Club will be collecting goods for the homeless, such as shaving cream, toothbrushes, and other toiletries. According to Professor Mike LaReau, the goods will be taken to the Chicago Industrial League, one of the largest homeless shelters here in the midwest. "Food stamps don't buy necessities," he stated. The homeless often need necessities more than food itself, because they are not near as easy to come by.

The Social Work Club, known as DIAKONIA, is dedicated to Christian service. After all, "DIAKONIA" means "service" in the Greek language. Senior Kelly Frank, a senior social work major, is president of the club.

LaReau went on, "Giving is frequent around Christmas, and in March and April that spirit is usually gone. So we are trying to provide these people with some needs that aren't normally met."

The club performs two social projects every year, each very successful. In the fall a toy drive occurs, and in the spring necessities are collected for the homeless.

As the 1993-94 WRA President, Janet Gross believes she has the energy and drive to get things done in the 1994-95 school year. She says that it was her elected position as President of the Illinois State Senate for a weekend of mock sessions that gave her the security in her ability to "supervise a collective body to meet mutual goals."

Gross plans to continue to pursue and achieve the valuable goals this year's council has set for ASC, such as enhancing communication between ASC and the Board of Trustees and seeing that ASC sponsored organizations meet social, spiritual, and academic needs of both on and off-campus students.

Gross says that she sees her role as being a "facilitator and a director to motivate and guide the council toward unity, efficiency, and productivity... The President establishes the working atmosphere of ASC which is critical to maintain drive and energy throughout the school year."

Name: Curtis Besco
Office: ASC President
Class: Junior
Graduation Date: May 1996
Cumulative GPA: 3.4
Major: Double major in Business Management/Church Music
Hometown: Eddyville, Iowa
Nominated by ASC

Curtis Besco feels that he would make a good ASC President because he is an effective leader. He says, "I have been involved with many different councils, committees, and activities over my past three years...I know about Olivet, what it stands for, and the distinguished reputation we have."

Besco's activities have included being an ASC representative, a 1993 summer public relations representative, a student recruiter, a host at Ludwig desk, an Orpheus Choir member, part of his junior council, the Campus Management Committee, and the Student Life Committee.

Besco believes that the purpose of his prospective office is to be a leader of the student body at ONU, and to let students know that their opinions matter to the university. If elected, he would not only like to make ASC more visible and active in all areas of the Olivet community, but he would also aspire to be an effective administrator over his executive council, and would also be willing to help each of them with their councils.

Vice President of Finance

Name: Matt Foor
Office: Vice President of Finance
Class: Junior
Graduation Date: May 1995
Cumulative GPA: 3.7
Major: Accounting
Minor: History
Hometown: Churubusco, IN.
Nominated by ASC

As V.P. of Finance, Matt Foor says that a goal of his is to keep the treasurers and presidents informed of current balances so it will be easier for them to plan activities. He also says that he plans to stay "on top of things" through effective management of all the various fund balances, continuing the things that have worked well in the past and improving the things that need it.

Foor feels that he has the organizational skills, the necessary experience, and the determination to be able to handle the job and be effective at it.

In the past, he has proven himself competent as the technical assistant to the accounting department, the assistant to the internal auditor of ONU, a member of the business club, and through his involvement in Lifesong, intramurals, and S.A.L.T.

Foor believes his purpose will be to manage the various inflows and outflows of finances, to give advice when necessary, and to "be accountable to God, to the ONU administration, to the ASC, and to the students."

Name: John E. Leslie
Office: Vice President of Finance
Class: Sophomore
Graduation Date: May, 1996
GPA, (cumulative): 3.88
Major: Business Administration-Management
Minor: Personnel Psychology
Hometown: Joliet, Ill.
Nominated by ASC

"The position of V.P. of Finance is one that requires a great deal of organization, as well as commitment. I am very confident in my ability to fulfill the position... in addition, I work well with people, which I see as one of the most important qualities of a good V.P. of finance," John Leslie said.

Leslie, who is involved in the business club council, is a business department assistant and is a student worker at Benner Library, feels that the purpose of his prospective office is to effectively manage the accounts of all of the student organizations, which would require the maintaining of the balances of all accounts, as well as providing these organizations with account and balance information.

If elected, Leslie would like to focus on two main areas: first, he would like to develop a system that will be effective in managing the accounts of all student organizations and eliminate discrepancies in the process of managing the accounts. Second, he plans to represent the students of ONU the best he can, as well as cooperating with ASC and the administration.

Cumulative GPA: 3.85
Major: Accounting
Minor: Economics
Hometown: Kempton, IL.
Nominated by ASC

Beyond the obvious need for a person to write the necessary checks and keep an accurate accounting of the books, Brian Lee feels that a V.P. of Finance must have an extreme dedication to the ASC and the needs of the student body as a whole. He adds that ASC can always use a person who can tell when to take the lead and who also knows when it is appropriate to be a supportive follower. Brian Lee believes that his organization, ability to meet deadlines, and his tendency towards perfectionism all make him the logical choice for the V.P. of Finance position.

While at Olivet, Lee has acted as Program Director for the Business Club Council, been a member of both Orpheus choir and the Christian Music Society, and has participated in intramurals. Lee also has two years banking/finance experience with First of America Bank.
