WRA sponsors Ladies' Day

Mother-daughter weekend memorable experience

This year's Women's Residence Association Council sponsored Mother-Daughter Weekend, which included Ladies' Day, the weekend of April 8-10. It proved to be a great success, with ladies and church groups from all over this part of the country. Various seminars and a concert with Billy and Sarah Gaines highlighted the weekend, along with a breakfast featuring speaker Kay Kelly. It was a memorable experience for mothers and daughters alike.

Dorms and local hotels hosted the ladies between the gatherings. On Saturday evening, Billy and Sarah Gaines gave a spiritually uplifting concert in McHie Arena. Sunday morning Kay Kelly spoke at a breakfast gathering and related her experiences as a mother as well as sharing her piano and singing talents. Her speech was encouraging and mothers and daughters alike left with a greater appreciation for one another.

Janet Gross, WRA President, said, "The planning and preparation ahead of time really paid off. Ladies' Day went extremely smooth and with no complications. This year's speakers gave great messages. This year was the best Ladies' Day ever! I'm glad I could be a part of the behind-the-scenes work on this special day."

ASC elections result in new council for 1994-1995 school year

Kristen Stokes
News Writer

Election time has come and gone, and in the aftermath remains a newly elected Associated Students Council. Before the election, each candidate addressed the student body in the annual ASC chapel service. In Jeff Scott's absence, senior Terry Bate introduced each candidate. Although some candidates were the only ones petitioning for that office, most students running were required to offer a brief speech.

The elections were conducted by Scan-Tron during the chapel service and for those unable to vote there, voting booths were set up at lunch hour.

Michael Sawyer.

President-elect Curtis Besco said, "I'm really excited about next year and everything ASC is going to try to accomplish. All of the individuals that have received positions are great choices that the student body has made. I count it a privilege to work with these people." Vice-President of Finance-elect Matt Foor added, "I'm excited about the chance to be on ASC. I think our council will bring about positive changes for the whole Olivet community."

Faculty changes in store

Paula Pitts
Features Editor

After 38 years of service here at Olivet, Dr. Otis Sayes is retiring. But he's not the only one to leave Olivet. Rick Miller in Accounting, Mike Gingerich from engineering, Al Fleming from Geology, and Angela Latham-Jones in Speech communications have all resigned this year.

Professor Sue Kruse will be on a leave of absence to do a residency for her doctorate at the University of Illinois. In addition, Phillis Reeder, nursing, Larry Ferren, chemistry, Robert Wright, biology, and Robert Smith, religion are all leaving on single-semester Sabbaticals.

Making up for those leaving are four definite new faces with three more still in negotiations. Coming to the religion department are Craig Keen from Trevecca College and Richard Thompson, a former ONU grad, from Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas. Keen's wife, Elesha, who has a masters in English, will be taking professor Kruse's place.

Joining the Speech department is Elizabeth Patrick from Fisk University in Nashville, and the business department is adding on professor Laura Bates from Business World, Rochester, New York.

Still in negotiations are professors in engineering, nursing, and accounting.

T.Y.G.R. Literary proves successful

Kevin L. Steely
Guest writer

Each year the English department has the privilege of publishing some of Olivet's finest student authors.

Writers from all majors, backgrounds and writing styles submit various prose and poetry for consideration by the staff of Olivet's literary magazine the TYGR. This year nearly one hundred written works were submitted. The staff had the grueling task of sifting the good from the better, and finally the better from the best to produce another outstanding issue. We are proud to list here the twenty-eight authors and four core staff members selected for the 1994 TYGR.

Published authors are: Amy Brubaker, Leann Burden, Rick Caudill, Josh Childs, Nortasha Cork, Cheralyn Evans, Shelli Fletcher, Jodi Goble, Heidi Grathouse, Kellie C. Hannah, Valory Harrison, Duane Holmes, Jennifer Hubert, Dave Johnson, Ryan Johnson, Angela Kirk, YeWon Kim, Edie Nash, Debbie Ordway, Paula Pitts, Sarah Price, Heidi Lane, Jennifer M. ## Junior class to host annual banquet

Matt Grills
News Editor

If there is ever a time to be honored, it would be the senior year of one's life. And who better to do the honoring of a senior class but the class following right behind in its footsteps?

This year the junior class of Olivet will be honoring the senior class of 1994 at the annual Junior/Senior Banquet. The banquet is usually planned and organized by the junior class council; however, it is commonly regarded as an honor for the seniors offered on the behalf of the entire junior class.

This year the Junior/Senior Banquet will be held at the Crystal Ballroom in the Blackstone Hotel, which is located in Chicago. The dinner will be at seven o'clock in the evening on Friday, April 29. According to junior class president Dennis Crawford, the banquet will consist of a dinner which will be followed by a program designed to reflect upon the seniors' stay at Olivet, and the many contributions that they have made.

Crawford added, "The junior class would like to say congratulations to all of the graduating seniors. To them we wish the best of luck as they move on toward their own individual futures."

Getting to know Woody Webb

Caroline J. Fox
Executive Editor

ONU students know that they're getting a new Dean of Student Development next year. But just who is this person, and what is he all about? His name is Walter "Woody" Webb, and he will be picking up where present Dean Dee Kelley left off. Mr. Webb is a 1986 Olivet graduate who obtained a masters degree in religion from ONU in 1989.

Webb has been heavily involved with Olivet since his school days here. He was an R.A. and student manager at Marriott during his undergraduate years and later the Resident Director of Bresee and Grand apartments. He has served for the past five years as the Associate Director of Admissions for ONU.

Webb is married, and he and his wife, Julie (potter), a 1988 Olivet graduate, have one child, James, who is two.

So how does Webb stand on policy? When asked if he anticipated many changes for the upcoming year, Webb replied that he did not foresee change in "lifestyle policy." This means that the dress code will remain the same, as will the current curfew rules. On the topic of curfew regarding women, Webb stated that as of now, R.D.'s in Parrott and McClain were pleased with the situation and it's outcome.

Webb said that one of main goals as Dean is to be "very approachable." He hopes to retain high visibility and give students ample opportunity (during meal-times, for example), to speak with him. He admires Dean Kelley's approach to his job and hopes to continue this pattern of a good student/Dean rapport. The title "Dean of Student Development" is important to Webb, he feels that the name implies a direct relationship with students, and that "development" is a key part of his position.

Development clearly is a high priority with Webb, as he and Dr. Bowling have been discussing new programs for the 1995-96 school year and farther into the future. Currently under discussion is an expanded freshman orientation, which would include all incoming freshmen living on campus one week prior to the beginning of school in order to familiarize themselves with their surroundings.

Also on the drawing board is an idea originated by Bowling to have twelve "modules," eight of which would be added to each student's schedule. These would be classes that would teach "living skills," classes such as managing finances and basic Bible study, just to name two. Webb feels that this is an excellent idea, and would like to see the plan implemented as soon as possible.

Webb plans to spend much of this summer in travel, preparing for his new position by visiting the Deans of Nazarene sister schools and working on new programs.

It is obvious that Webb has some pretty big shoes to fill this coming year, but he is confident that he will do the job well. The transition process between Webb and Kelley is going smoothly, "I don't how it could go any better," Webb said. "I don't know worked for three Deans, and each one has taught me valuable lessons about working in Student Development."

Webb feels that the role of Dean of Students Development could be defined in two parts: first to communicate the mission of the university to the students, and second, to communicate the concerns of the students to the administration.

Talented team gets ready for district play

Eric Smith
Sports writer

The ONU men's varsity baseball team is coming into the final leg of their regular season and is looking to tune up their game for the District tournament.

With an 8 and 6 record in district play, the Tigers can assure themselves a place in the tournament by playing good baseball over the final two weeks of the season as seven of the final 14 games are against district opponents.

Senior Captain Chase Walden says, "We have an extremely talented ballclub, and if we use that talent to play well mentally over the next week and a half we will put ourselves in a good position going into district play."

The Tigers played only twice during the week of April 11-16. Heavy rain forced the cancellation of games for four days. Olivet plays a single game at ITT today, and plays a double-header at home against St. Francis, last year's district champions, on Friday.

The next home game will be Monday the 25th against Trinity Christian. This year's team can supply some excitement with good pitching and homerun power, so come out and support Tiger baseball.

Tigers come long way in season

Janelle Fairchild
Staff writer

The Olivet softball team has come a long way since the beginning of the season. Faced with the loss of four seniors and three additional starters, inexperience tended to show against the more experienced teams they faced in Tennessee, who already had 10-15 games under their belts. The Tigers came out of the trip with a 1-5 record, losing to Belmont college, Athens State College, and splitting with Martin Junior College. The next weekend the team traveled to the Indy Collegiate Classic in Indiana. The Tigers played much more to their ability, cutting down errors in the field, and unleashing the bats in key situations. They beat Marian College 4-3, Tri-State College 9-3, and Cedarville College 15-14, while losing to Wisconsin Lutheran 6-15 and St. Francis of Indiana 0-7.

The Tigers came back and started the season off by winning against I.T.T. and then splitting with Trinity Christian. They then traveled to Concordia College where they won both games 18-2 and 6-0. The next day, they played St. Joseph at home and split with them, winning 7-5 and losing 2-6. Last week, they traveled to McKendrick College where they lost 2-12 and 4-12.

Overall, the Tigers have a 10-11 record which is more impressive than it looks taking into consideration the caliber of teams they've played and the improvement the Tigers have had since the beginning of the season. According to Coach Brenda Patterson, the team has come a long way, "for losing so many players in key positions, the team is doing rather well. Offensively, the team is batting .362 and the fielding average as a team is .891. I would like to see the fielding average a little higher, but we're working on correcting those errors." According to third baseman Lori Fritz, "many of the errors we've made have been mental. We've got the talent and we play well together if those errors can be minimized."

The Tigers still have St. Xavier, Eureka, St. Francis and Wheaton College to play and wins are needed in order to get seeded into NAIA District play on May 4-6.

Tennis team starts off better than expected

Matt Beecher
Sports writer

The men's tennis team has started the season off surprising everyone. They are off to a 3-2 start and a second place finish at NCCAA Districts. The year figured to be a rebuilding year after losing four starters from last years team. The only returning players are juniors Matt Beecher and Darin Fletcher, and sophomore Brian Wardlaw. With the addition of many new freshmen the men's tennis team is looking toward the future. Along with the returning upperclassmen, the team has added Steve Schick, Chad Walker, and Ryan Blohm.

The tennis team has three straight wins against Concordia College 8-1, Elmhurst College 6-3, and Judson College 8-1. They have many remaining matches before they host the NAIA Districts on May 6 and 7.

Elections

Students must also present a valid identification card to the poll clerk, according to Article I, Section 2, Subpoint G; however, many students were not asked for identification. Maybe those running the polls wanted to avoid a long line. Well, if the polls had been kept open four hours like they were supposed to be, long lines would not have been a problem.

Another problem that occurred in the voting process dealt with the type of ballots we were to use. Article I, Section 2, Subpoint C states that all balloting must be by secret ballot at designated polling stations. The ballot must contain, "the title of the position... the title of the office, the name of each petitioning candidate for that particular office" and so on. I recall that the ASC elections were conducted by use of Scan-Tron in chapel and in Ludwig. Did anyone see candidates' names or titles of any sort on their little pink card? That sort of ballot is illegal since it does not follow the ASC Constitution.

I realize the Student Constitution is being revised and may contain revisions allowing these over-sights to be acceptable; however, ASC should follow the current Constitution, which is what we are supposed to abide by.

I am not trying to accuse anyone here, but the student body does have a right to be made aware. Who knows, maybe the lack of quality and lack of rule-following is because of ourselves. If more students decided to run, or encouraged their friends to run, maybe these little incidents would not have occurred.

For instance, senior class ballots had two people listed for ASC Representative spots. There were four spots to be filled. Junior class ballots had one presidential candidate, one vice-presidential candidate, one chaplain candidate, one secretarial candidate, and the exact number eligible to run for Social Committee. Why bother to vote when the winners are already obvious?

My point throughout has not been to jab my finger in the face of a person or group responsible; I am suggesting that instead we, as the student body of Olivet, hold ASC and each other accountable for their actions and see to it that the Constitution is followed correctly.

Proposal

professors were selected, certain watchdogs could be set into place to ensure questionable beliefs or subject-matter did not find its way into the classroom.

The third step would be to purify the student body. To rid ourselves of those students with questionable religious beliefs, students struggling with their faith, and first and foremost, those students who struggle with the idea of 'alternative lifestyles.' All this could also be done easily. Students who earned a C or below in Bible courses would simply be thrown out. Attendance could be taken in the area Nazarene churches and students who failed to worship on Sunday's would also be shown the door. Most importantly, the small group of students on campus who struggle with their 'sexual identity' would be removed from campus by use of peer pressure. Some sort of incentive could be offered to the students to ensure that those destable beings would be subjected to a concentration of harassment and public embarrassment that would force them to leave without involvement of the school administration. Eventually the same procedure could be applied to students of different faiths.

The fourth and final phrase would be similar to the Federal government's proposed crime bill. "Three strikes and you're out!" This would solidify enforcement of all university's dress code, curfew and conduct rules that are so Biblically founded and so extremely important in the university efforts to maintain the proper appearance. After three violations students would be excommunicated. The number of RA's would be tripled in order to properly police the student body. Eventually this would breed a student body subservant to the direction of the administration.

Forum changes and Olivet could realize true purity. In closing, I should remind you the concern for the appearance of the university should always outway the important needs to those who are too weak to maintain a lifestyle that meets the guidelines of our university handbook. I call on the President and Administration to consider this proposal. It's time for Olivet to realize that we should leave treatment to the hospital, to make this university the beautiful museum of Christian perfection it was meant to be.
