Commencement Speaker Named

Loret M. Ruppe

Director of the Peace Corps, Loret Miller Ruppe, will deliver the commencement address of Ursinus College's 112th exercises in Helfferich Hall at 2 p.m., May 15. The Baccalaureate services will be conducted by Dr. Robert T. Fauth, president-interim of Lancaster Theological Seminary at Bomberger Hall at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Ruppe was appointed to her post in 1981. She directs the activities of more than 5,000 Peace Corps volunteers in more than 60 developing countries. A skilled organizer and administrator who co-chaired the Michigan/Bush State Committee in 1980, Mrs. Rupp says her job is "the greatest work I could be doing as the purpose of the Peace Corps is so clear-cut: promoting world peace and friendship."

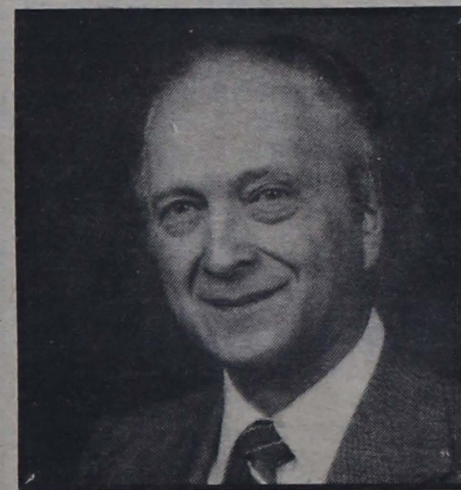

A country-by-country review of programs to "make sure that we are meeting to the best of our ability the needs of the countries where we have been invited to share American skills and talents," is being planned by Mrs. Ruppe. The top priority in the Peace Corps, she maintains, is the volunteers: "They are our primary responsibility and Washington must continue to provide strong support, effective training and meaningful jobs for the volunteers overseas."

Since becoming director, Mrs. Ruppe has used her skills to broaden the Peace Corps mission. "We have agreed to coordinate our efforts more closely with the U.S. Agency for International Development. In addition, we're looking to combine forces with the private sector to maximize help to developing countries at a time when financial resources are limited," Mrs. Ruppe said.

Dr. Robert Fauth, an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ, recently became President-Interim of Lancaster Theological Seminary. He served as pastor of churches in Iowa, Michigan and Illinois, before becoming President of Eden Theological Seminary in 1962, a position he held until his retirement in 1981.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Fauth holds honorary degrees from Elmhurst, Franklin and Marshall, and Lakeland Colleges. He also has been a delegate to numerous General Synod meetings of the United Church of Christ and has served on the boards of educational, religious, and medical organizations.

Career Strategies Revealed

by Perry Romer '84

Believe it or not, an estimated 85% of the jobs people find are never advertised. At least that is the opinion of David C. Rich, area consultant and lecturer in career planning.

On Saturday, April 23, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Wismer Hall, Mr. Rich will present ways to tap into what employment counselors call the "hidden job market."

A recent study by the Department of Labor indicates that of people finding jobs, 14% get them through want ads; 12% through employment agencies; 10% through unions or civil service; and 64%, almost two thirds, through personal initiative and contacts.

Another study shows the ineffectiveness of flooding the mail with resumes, noting that for every 1,470 resumes sent out, only one job was obtained.

This workshop on job-hunting strategies by Mr. Rich is open to anyone eighteen or over and will provide the public with techniques to use and information on available resources for job-hunting.

The cost of this workshop is $35, which includes lunch and materials. Participation is limited, so register early. To register, or for more information, call Linda L. Long, Assistant Director, Ursinus College Evening School, at (215) 489-4250.

Xeroxing Illegal?

by Bill Foley

The end of another semester is upon Ursinus students. This is evident by the new faces seen in the library, most of whom are frantically working on term papers. Not wanting to go through the hassle of checking out their books at the desk, many students photocopy excerpts from books. Using photocopies of textbooks is as traditional a part of campus life as staying up all night or getting drunk on the weekend. Often this type of photocopying is illegal.

Nine members of New York University's faculty were sued for this sort of copyright infringement by the Association of American Publishers. The case pits NYU against such publishing giants as Random House, Simon and Schuster, and Alfred A. Knopf. Last week, an agreement settling the publishers' suit was reached.

The question that arises is whether students at Ursinus have any reason to be concerned about possible prosecution because of illegal photocopying? Brad James said, "I always unlawfully Xerox published works." As another student said, "I do not feel I am damaging an author's source of revenue."

The "fair use" doctrine of 1976 federal copyright law was designed to protect the livelihood and property of authors and publishers but, at the same time, to permit professors to distribute portions of copyrighted works for classroom use. According to one professor, "I constantly push the letter of the law when it comes to photocopying. Copying bits of articles here and there is not a serious offense, but I do realize that doing it is illegal."

NYU is by no means the only culprit. The university is being made the example of copyright justice for those who might butcher the sacred-cow law. Academics who violate the statute generally do so out of desire to save their students money, or they are confused over the language of the copyright law. In the publish-or-perish world of academia, would the professors be as generous — or as confused — if the royalties at state where their own?

Dance Week Planned

by Alison K. Brown '86

April 24-30 is National Dance Week, and the Philadelphia Dance Alliance is celebrating by sponsoring a giant performance of 300 dancers, from beginners to advanced, on Independence Mall. This occasion begins tomorrow at 12 noon and will be accompanied by an exhibit of dance photographs by Philadelphia photographers. The rain location will be at the Bourse.

In addition, the P.D.A. is sponsoring three programs, each presenting critiquing and evaluating a particular dance style. Films of the dances will be shown and there will be a reception following each presentation. The program is scheduled as follows:

Sunday, April 24, 7 P.M.:

"An Expert's Guide to Fred Astaire," an exhibit on the art of Fred Astaire, presented by John Mueller.

Monday, April 25, 7:30 P.M.:

"Baring the Essentials: 'Trio A' and After," a look at modern dance without the theatricality of the 50's, presented by Marcia B. Siegel.

Wednesday, April 27, 7:30 P.M.:

"From Order to Uncertainty: Three Decades of Modern Dance," a presentation of dance affected by and reflecting society, presented by Deborah Jowitt.

All programs will be at International House, 3701 Chestnut Street in Philadelphia. Tickets for students are $2.00. For more information call the Philadelphia Dance Alliance: 546-7240.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago, Ursinus College was host to the Special Olympics down in the gym. For two days, some 40 kids were given open house Helfferich, in a weekend that was dedicated especially to them. All in all, the weekend turned out to be an enormous success; I don't think that anyone who took part will deny that.

There was only one problem so far as the weekend was concerned — the participation by the Campus community. In order for the games to be successful, a great deal of volunteer help is needed, otherwise, things become a little hectic. So it was a little disappointing to note that the school couldn't pull its weight a little more forcefully. The Phys-Ed department, (approximately 60 students) under the guidance of Angela Morrison and Randy Davidson, did a great job in setting up the whole thing and ensuring that everything ran smoothly. On top of this, approximately 130 Huggers turned up over the course of the weekend. With 400 kids present, that meant a lot of hugging, a lot of chasing around, but at the same time, a hell of a lot of fun.

If Ursinus is to host the Special Olympics again, it will once more rely heavily on volunteer help, and this help has to come from within the campus. That means everyone — not just students, but also the administration, the faculty, and the Greek societies could get involved. It'll not only give you a personal sense of satisfaction, but it might go towards providing the sense of community that a few people claim is missing from Ursinus.

So keep that in mind, the next time the Special Olympics are on Campus. A few people put in a lot of spare time and hard work just to motivate people to become Huggers — and then they get on with running the games as well. So next time, it wouldn't hurt for each of us to give up a few hours of one day to make their job little easier.

Off the Editor's Desk...

by Rosemary Wuenschel

The reactions I have received have been quite positive concerning the male volunteer security system that supplemented the existing system last Friday night April 15th. I represent many remale residents in expressing my sincere appreciation for the forty to fifty volunteers who patrolled the campus and stood watch at the doors to the Women's Quad from 11:00 p.m. to 5:00 a.m.

It was reassuring to know that many members of various fraternities on campus were working together for the safety of all residents. Many students feel that this was a necessary augmentation and that it should be continued.

This project should be considered as evidence that students are concerned about the present security system and are willing to work to improve it. One may also conclude that a program similar to this project may be successfully implemented as a permanent addition to campus security. The only suggested exception would be to include a salary for the student security workers.

Thanks again guys!

AND NOW, A FEW MINUTES WITH ANDY ROONEY:

"HAVE YOU EVER WONDERED ABOUT SECURITY AT URSINUS? I GUESS NO ONE HAS VERY MUCH, BEFORE NOW."

"IF WE HAVE A GOOD IDEA OF WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE, WHY ISN'T IT BEING DONE? IS IT BECAUSE OF MONEY? WHAT IS THE PRICE OF SECURITY, ANYHOW?"

"OF COURSE, THE STUDENTS HAVE SOME RESPONSIBILITY, TOO. THERE MUST BE COOPERATION BETWEEN THEM AND THE ADMINISTRATION."

"LET'S GET ON THE BALL TO MAKE THIS CAMPUS A SAFER PLACE FOR EVERYONE. SORRY, IT'S JUST NOT THAT FUNNY THIS WEEK!"

Ursinus Night

BY Alison K. Brown '86

Are you tired of those boring weeknights at Ursinus College? Well, Wednesday nights are no longer a drag since the inception of parties at Birchwood Country Club, just off Route 29 North. Open only to Ursinus College students, Birchwood provides a place where one can go to get off campus, relax, dance, and socialize with fellow students.

Birchwood began in the Fall of 1980. It lasted only for a few weeks and then was discontinued because the turnout was mediocre. Last Fall, Seniors Phil Repko and Marie McBride decided to revive the program. Birchwood has become increasingly popular and successful.

According to Phil, Birchwood Nights are appealing to students because "it's a good atmosphere. Everyone is welcome; there is a mix of all fraternities and sororities so you won't feel confined to a single frat or sorority."

The education of a man is never completed until he dies.

New Policies at Wismer

Breakfast next year will be served from 7:30 A.M. to 8:45 A.M. instead of from 7:15 to 8:30. This new system will probably cost more since more students will be eating breakfast.

New ID cards will be issued to all students. This card must be shown at every meal. Pictures for the ID's will be taken between 11 A.M. and 2 P.M., April 25, 26, 27, 28 or 29 in the Parents' Lounge. If the picture is taken next semester, there will be a five dollar cost. Current ID's will be invalid as of June 30, 1983.

"Borrowed" items may be returned during Amnesty Week. Any utensils should be placed at the bussing stations. Ed Barnes stated, "This will save the cost of replacing the items." The date for the Amnesty Week has not yet been announced.

Successful Forum

by Scott Scheffler '84

This past Tuesday, Dr. Robert Linneman presented a business forum which dealt with the topic of "Long-Range Planning." Linneman, who is a prominent professor of marketing at Temple University's School of Business Administration, used a combination of quotes, cartoons, and personal experiences in emphasizing the importance of planning at both the personal and corporate level. Drawing on his well-developed public speaking skills, Dr. Linneman put on an entertaining performance. He set forth six main factors which ultimately determine the success or failure of business entities. Among these were the following: A vision of where the firm is headed; development of an adequate network through which information is effectively relayed; and an assessment of the firm's strengths and weaknesses. Linneman also proposed the well-known theory that, in most cases, it is not the most capable individual, but the one who has the most contacts that gets hired for a particular job. Thus, he stressed communication with established business leaders as a prerequisite for entering the corporate world.

The program was sponsored by the Ursinus College Business Economics Council, which consists of students, faculty administrators, and area business leaders.

The Business Economics Council was created by the college's Board of Directors for the purpose of promoting good relations between the Ursinus community and Delaware Valley corporations.

Survivor Speaks

by Perry Romer '84

Holocaust survivor Etta Hecht will relate her experiences during World War II at Ursinus College's third annual Holocaust Commemoration in Wismer Parent's Lounge at 7:15 p.m., Thursday, April 26.

Mrs. Hecht, a Jewish native of Lithuania, was two-years-old when her family was moved to The Ghetto. Eventually she was smuggled out of The Ghetto and hidden with a gentile family in Kovno, Lithuania. When she was five, however, her family was transferred to a concentration camp in Germany. Enroute to the camp, her father escaped from the "cattle train." Her family was not reunited until after the war.

Now a Pottstown resident, Mrs. Hecht is also a former student at Ursinus College. This program, which is free and open to the public, is being sponsored by the History Department, Campus Minister, and the Organization of Jewish Students.

Out of the Blue... Alcohol Survey Results Questioned

by David J. Evans '83

Well kids the results of the alcohol survey are in and they show . . . well what do they show??? See if you can circle the right answers to these questions.

EXAMPLE:

The first name of the founder of Ursinus College is - a. Zachariah b. Butch c. Harry d. Chuck

1. The students at Ursinus drink - a. slightly more b. 70 times more c. 100 times more d. 500 times more than other schools.
2. The percentage of U.C. students who drink is - a. 92% b. 2% c. 4% d. 6%
3. What percent of students at Ursinus have six drinks more than once a week - a. 30% b. 100% c. .03% d. all of the above.

4. How many people drink between one and three times a week - a. 77% b. 100% c. .03% d. 1%.

5. The class with the lowest percentage of heavy drinkers is - a. Senior class b. class of '83 c. graduating class d. all of the above.

6. The class with the highest percentage of heavy drinkers is - a. Junior class b. class of '88 c. class of '34 d. class of '76

7. According to their cumulative average, the more that one drinks the (a. worse b. decidedly better) he does in school.

8. The major that drinks the most is - a. Economics b. Pennsylvania German studies c. History d. undeclared.

9. The major that drinks the least is - a. Science b. Pennsylvania German Studies c. History d. undeclared.

10. The percent of students who drank before coming to U.C. is - a. 94% b. 3% c. 6% d. 9%.

11. What percent of students increased their drinking after coming to Ursinus - a. 55% b. 2% c. 100% d. .03%.

12. What percentage of the people admit that they've damaged property after drinking - a. 30% b. 3.14% c. 100% d. 99.99%.

13. The number one and two reasons given as to why people drink were - a. to relax and have a good time, and to get drunk b. to stay up and study for a test, and to kill the germs that can cause bad breath c. to go to sleep, and to empty the bottle so that it can be used to hold flowers d. none or all of the above.

Well that ends the little quiz. Interested in the correct answers? Sorry, the administration won't let us give them out. All we can do is tell you that the answer is either a, b, c, or d. If you absolutely can't decide which answer is correct, the results are slowly trickling throughout the campus; ask around or use this helpful hint — Adam always anxiously awaits Alice's answers and argues against awarding alimony allotments after annual annulments. P.S. I wish my grades looked like the answer sheet.

What's Up?....

DANCE WORKSHOP FOR ALL
A workshop in Modern Dance will be offered by Kate Cisek for completion of her college scholars program. All are invited to attend and participate on Thursday, April 28 and Tuesday, May 3 from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. in the Helfferich Hall Dance Room.

WOMEN PLAN TOUR OF HARBOR PLACE
You can visit Baltimore's new Harbor Place this spring without experiencing the problems of driving and parking by joining the Ursinus Women's Club bus trip to that renovated area on May 3 from 8:30 a.m. to approximately 9:00 p.m.

Mrs. Mary Giaimonis will act as tour guide for the group, and participants may plan their own arrangements for lunch, shopping, a visit to the Aquarium, or a boat ride in the Harbor.

Tickets, which are available on a first-come basis, cost $13.50. To reserve a place contact Mrs. Charles Hentz, c/o the Ursinus College Alumni Office, Collegeville, PA 19426, telephone 489-4111, ext. 235.

Reservations are also still available for the Women's Club of Ursinus College's annual spring luncheon on April 23. Tickets for this event, which are $5.50, can also be obtained from Mrs. Hentz.

Proceeds from both activities will be used by the club to augment the Lois Brownback Scholarship Fund.

FREE BOMBERGER CONCERT
The Ursinus College Choir will be giving a free concert in Bomberger Auditorium on Saturday, April 23 at 7:30 p.m. The choir, which is comprised of students and faculty of Ursinus College and members of the surrounding community, will be accompanied by pianist Mignon Bozorth of Collegeville.

In addition to the two works by Johannes Brahms, "Naive" and "Schicksalslied," the program will also include the humorous P.D.Q. Bach's "The Seasonings."

BOOK SALE CONTINUES AT LIBRARY

The Friends of Ursinus College Library is sponsoring a sale on both hard cover and paperback books. Fiction, biography and scholarly works will be available at affordable prices (50¢ for hardbacks, 25¢ for paperbacks).

Community residents who would like to donate books for the sale are asked to bring the books to the library during sale hours. Proceeds from the book sale will support the Friends' new acquisitions program.

New Class Officers

Class elections were recently sponsored by the USGA and officers for the '83-'84 year were chosen by their respective classes. Since the recarpeting of Wismer Parent's Lounge was in process at that point, students were forced to fill out their ballots in the lobby of Wismer. Despite distractions, 51% of the Class of '84 voted and 48% of both the Classes of '85 and '86 cast their ballots.

The Class of '84 chose as its officers for its senior year the following students: Jim Fattorini as president, Leslie Fenton as vice-president, Georgeann Fusco as treasurer, Karen Reese as secretary, and Dan Lewis as Campus Life Representative.

Officers for the Class of '85 will be: Peggy Loughran, president; Lou Rubino, vice-president; Debbie Mumford, treasurer; Sue Johnson, secretary; and Christi Trump, Campus Life Representative.

The Class of '86 chose fellow classmates Joan Marie Gagliardi as president, Lisa Smith as vice-president, Jackie Pirolo as treasurer, Joanne Goshow as secretary, and Stacey Stauffer as Campus Life Representative.

The USGA wishes to thank Jackie Pirolo for her work as Chairperson of the Elections Committee and the many students who helped run the elections. Congratulations and good luck to the new officers.

The U.S.G.A. officers for the 1983-1984 school year have recently been inducted. They are:

- President: Lori Cramer
- Men's Vice-President: Luke Nelligan
- Women's Vice-President: Julie Dalena
- Treasurer: Hank Larkin
- Corresponding Secretary: Lori Andrews
- Recording Secretary: Georgeann Fusco

Reviews By Romer...

Class of '84

While watching the previews for the new movie Flashdance on television, somehow I got the feeling Paramount Pictures was trying to cash in with a re-hash of Fame. To my pleasant surprise, however, I found Flashdance to be a movie which supercedes the struggle of the up-and-coming performer.

In this case, Flashdance portrays the experiences of Alex, a nineteen year old beauty who is employed as a welder in one of Pittsburgh's many steel mills. Her sideline occupation is quite a different story altogether. After the sound of the five o'clock whistle, Alex peels off her grimy, sweat-drenched overalls only to slip into the skimpiest outfits imaginable.

Leaving the noise and smoke of the steel mill behind her, Alex enters the noise and smoke of Mawby's, the club where she dances nightly. Bathed in sweat, Alex is a study in perpetual motion. Her erotic gyrations draw shouts of approval from a crowd that is experiencing various levels of inebriation.

Alex has a dream of her own anyway. She desires badly to join Pittsburgh's foremost ballet company. Despite the dismal surroundings which stifle her pent-up ambitions, Alex clings to her own feeling of self-worth. Her only support is Hanna, an elderly ballet fan who took Alex to see her first performance.

Meanwhile, Alex has attracted the attention of Nick, her boss and owner of the plant where she works. Nick, in his early thirties, is rich yet down-to-earth. He is infatuated with Alex, and is especially interested in making her dream a reality. Alex, however, keeps Nick at arm's length because she wants to respect the employer-employee relationship.

A bit overzealous in his attempt to get Alex into the ballet, Nick uses his influence as a patron to get her an audition. When she discovers this, a near-breakup of their relationship results as Alex's price won't allow her to accept such a favor. The death of Hanna, however, provides the impetus for Alex to audition.

Appearing before a panel of stuff-shirt judges which looks more like the Inquisition, Alex, on her second try, turns in a jazzy performance which has even the judges moving to the beat. She gets the judges' approval and finds herself in Nick's arms at movie's end.

At first Flashdance gives the appearance of being a "T&A" spectacle. Once the movie establishes its groundwork, a solid plot quickly emerges. Jennifer Beales is perfect for the role of Alex. Shapely and sophisticated for her surroundings, she is the perfect match for Nick, played by Michael Nouri. The setting is true life, but a "new wave" dance platform complete with strobe lighting in a dusty, old Pittsburgh bar?

Flash three stars for Flashdance anyway.

Success Formulas Revealed in "Real World 101."

by Andrea Butler '85

What college never taught you about career success . . . that's the theme of an unusual new book directed to students, called Real World 101. Real World 101 is not just another how-to-get-a-job book, for it is filled with advice most of us will never find in a classroom or textbook.

It's interesting to note that Real World 101 was written by two young men who are not only career development experts, but also recent college graduates. James Calano and Jeff Salzman, at age 25 and 28 respectively, are founders of Career Track, Inc., a national management training firm that has instructed literally thousands of executives and professionals on how to get ahead.

Calano and Salzman are not just experts in the field of career development, rather, they are young professionals who have made it themselves and are writing from experience. Real World 101 addresses the real world problems young college graduates face in getting a fast start in the professional world.

Real World 101 deals with everything from getting the most out of the college you have left, to landing a prize job, to handling yourself in business meetings. The authors make it a point to stress the fact that there is a need for professionalism in the job market of today. Most colleges today consider it their job to prepare students technically for a career. "And there's nothing wrong with that," the authors say. "Anybody who's going to call himself or herself a professional needs to have that kind of technical foundation in their profession. Unfortunately, today that kind of technical knowledge is not enough."

There's another whole body of information that you need to know. It's called professionalism — and that means how to think, act and perform like a professional, and how to get credibility and respect from other professionals."

Look at it this way: college teaches you what you need to know. Real World 101 will show you how to apply what you know in real world practice.

Calano and Salzman begin their book with a futuristic look at the ways in which the professional world is transforming itself. They create a picture of a world of "multiple bottom lines" where businesses and people make decisions based on more than money, where professionals operate more as freelancers, where many of us will wake up and report to work at a computer terminal beside the bed.

After this somewhat philosophical beginning, the authors get right down to the specifics of how to make it as a fresh college graduate today. The authors maintain that "employers today don't want just 'employees' . . . they want 'stars,' stand-outs, the cream of the crop."

One of the most interesting aspects of Real World 101 is the emphasis it places on personal attitudes and fulfillment. Calano and Salzman point out that upon graduation students are facing one of the biggest watersheds in their lives. "Think of it this way: you are about to enter a new world where nobody knows who you are, or what your history is. It's a major opportunity to shed some baggage, pick yourself up a couple notches, and make some across-the-board changes in your life."

Unlike so many career books and how-to-get-a-job books, Real World 101 is actually fun and easy to read. Calano and Salzman have a wonderfully opinionated — sometimes bombastic — style. MD Love Run Runners of all ages will take to the road on city streets, country lanes and indoor and outdoor tracks in the next few months in America's Love Run to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA).

Love Run participants will raise funds for MDA's local patient service and on-going research programs by obtaining pledges from sponsors of 5¢ or more for each mile they run during a 30 day period.

Each participant in the MDA Love Run will receive a certificate of merit and will be eligible to win a gold, silver or bronze medal depending upon the number of miles covered and funds raised by the participant.

You don't have to be an Olympic champion to join. Set a reasonable goal . . . then ask friends, neighbors, and business associates to pledge 5¢ or more to the Muscular Dystrophy Association for every mile you run.

Run in your neighborhood, on a track, at a local park — anywhere you'd like — and at any time.

Send in the registration form below along with your $4.00 entry fee (check payable to MDA), and we'll send you an official T-Shirt, Sponsorship Form, Runner's Log, and complete instructions.

Ursinus Nine Looking Strong

by Tim Cosgrave '85

The Ursinus Baseball team continued their quest for the MAC Baseball Championship by defeating Lebanon Valley 6-5 this past Monday. In so doing, the Bears upped their record to 5-2-1 while Lebanon Valley fell to 5-6.

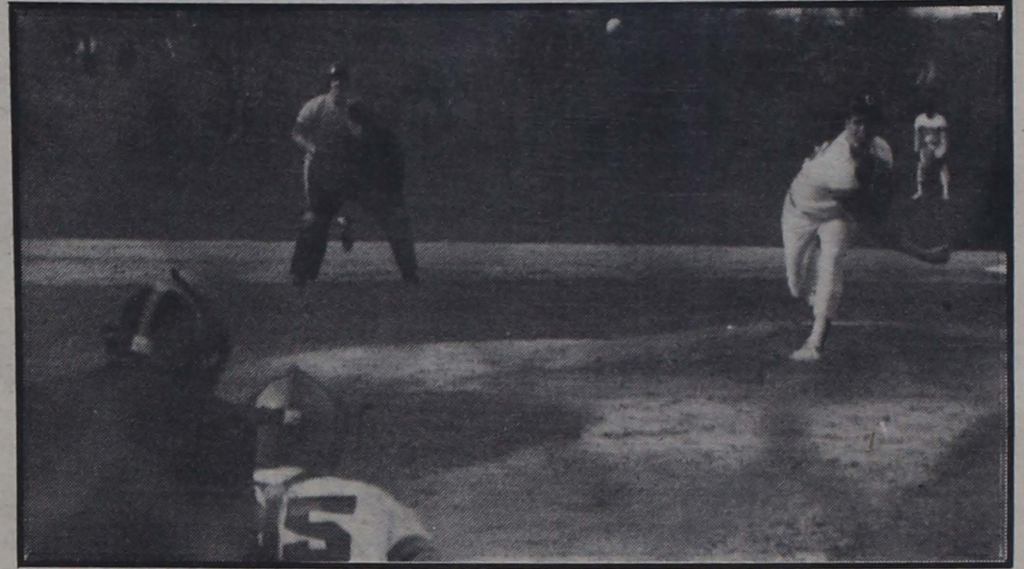

Ursinus jumped to a quick 2-0 lead as Morris Salley led off with a walk and stole second. Two outs later, sophomore catcher Ed Woodland drilled his fourth homer of the young season.

The Bears looked equally impressive in the field as second sacker Joe Loefflad turned two nice double plays. However, the defensive highlights of the game were a pair of over-the-shoulder catches by Steve Pallone. Hurlers Rob Richardson and Jim Harle handled the mound duties, with Richardson picking up the win. Richardson, who has had control problems, turned in a solid effort which will be needed as the Bears confront a tough schedule.

Ursinus opens its league season tomorrow with a doubleheader against Haverford. On Sunday, U.C. faces Widener in another doubleheader as the Bears gear up to play nine games in the span of ten days. In light of the recent epidemic of inclement weather, the Bears pitching staff will be put to ultimate test over the coming week as U.C. bids for MAC supremacy.

Bear Bits: Eddie Woodland leads the Bears with 4 home runs . . . Steve Pallone is currently hitting at a blistering .451 pace (14-31).

Men's Lacrosse Braves Elements

by Ed Hovick '84

This past week the Bears split a pair of games to bring their season record to 3-5.

The first game, in Stroudsburg, was a tight contest with East Stroudsburg State. The Bears; however, had more than just the home team to contend with, because the field, due to poor drainage, was nothing but mud. In addition, since the game was on a Sunday, only 14 players could make the trip.

The game opened up well, as Tony Morello scored the first of this three goals on a nice feed by midfielder Keith Wood. The momentum kept swinging back and forth, and by half time Ursinus had built a 6-4 lead.

However, Coach McGrath went into halftime worried, because his team had played the whole first half with only two midfield lines, and would have to go with the same two lines for the last thirty minutes of play.

The third quarter started to reveal what McGrath had feared, the Bears were tiring. Although senior Rob Schillingsworth tallied for U.C., East Stroudsburg scored twice, and the score heading into the final 15 minutes was Ursinus by one, 7-6.

East Stroudsburg controlled the beginning of the fourth quarter, and with a little under six minutes to play, they knotted the score at seven. The Bears refused to fold; however, and with about three minutes to play Dave Frazier scored the game winner for the third goal of the day, on a well conceived fast break.

The Bears had gone to Stroudsburg with only 14 players, but left with a hard fought 8-7 win for their third straight victory, the longest sinning streak in the history of Ursinus Men's Lacrosse.

As the Bears looked towards Tuesday's match with Dickinson, they were glad to be playing at home under better field conditions. However, last Tuesday's snowstorm made playing conditions absolutely terrible. Yet the game wasn't postponed and the two squads met as scheduled.

The first half was more of a struggle against the elements, as Dickinson went into the halftime break with a 4-2 lead. U.C. first half goals were netted by Bob Whieler and Tony Morello.

In the second half, the overall strength and talent of the Dickinson team became apparent as Ursinus could manage only one more goal, a late tally by senior Craig Turner, as U.C. was defeated 8-3. However, the real winner of this game was Mother Nature, as players on both teams looked as if they had played in a mud bath — as indeed they had.

The Bears next home game will be on Saturday against a very strong Kutztown State team. A large Parent's Day crowd will hopefully help this U.C. squad in an attempt to gain their fourth win in their last five contests.

Golfers Start Well

by Tim Efinger '85

The Ursinus College Golf team, despite three matches being postponed due to inclement weather, has had a successful season thus far. After a split of its opening match, defeating conference rival Widener but losing to Division 1 LaSalle, the linksters won the next four matches in a row. The team defeated Johns Hopkins, Lebanon Valley, Swarthmore, and Western Maryland at their home course, Springfield Country Club.

The team then traveled to Fairleigh Dickenson Madison to play Fairleigh Dickenson and Delaware Valley College. The golfers suffered a heartbreaking two stroke loss to Fairleigh Dickinson, who is ranked 16th in the nation, but rebounded to soundly defeat Delaware Valley. The team record is 5-1 in the MAC conference and 6-2 overall.

The team consists of seniors Warren Phillips and Mike Musho; junior Gene Haag; sophomores Jeff Carson, Tim Greenwood and Tim Efinger; and freshman Dean Altemose and Jim McKeon. The next match is today, when the golfers travel to play Division 1 Drexel. On Sunday and Monday, the linksters play their conference championships at Edgewood in the Pines.

Women's Season Nears Conclusion

by Karen Dalzell '85

Heading for the homestretch of the season, the Ursinus Women's track team (3-3) is striving for victory this Saturday in its home meet against Bible Baptist and Scranton University. Defending MAC Champs for the past two years, the girls are setting the pace in hopes of winning the championships again this year.

In Saturday's meet against Delaware Valley, the team battled the wind and cold in an attempt to beat the opposing team. However, the Bears were defeated 63-53. First place winners were Stacy Stauffer, who left her opponents in the dust in the 100 meter hurdles, Cindy Iezzi, who cruised through the 100 meter dash in 14.11 seconds, Carol Jankauskas, turning in her usual great performances in the shot and discus, and Sandy Wirth hurling the javelin 127'9". Other scorers include Ange Woods in the 1500 meters, Bubba Miller in the discus and javelin, Karen Dalzell in the 400 meters and the high jump, and Linda Giragosian in the 800 meters.

So come out and watch these girls along with other team members Karen Hanson, Robann Barwick, Natalie Kramer and Barb Bowden at the last regular meet of the season this Saturday at 2:00 p.m.

Mid-Season Review

Women's Lacrosse Downs Lafayette

The Women's Lacrosse Team started off their season with a road trip to Virginia and Washington. In these opening scrimmages, the girls looked impressive defeating all three opponents. They bested the University of Richmond 10-8; slipped by Virginia Club 9-7; and trampled Washington Club by a 25-3 score.

The Women's squad opened their MAC schedule with a three-game homestand. They lost to the University of Delaware, last year's Division II National Champions, 19-10 in a hard-fought battle. U.C. rebounded by winning the next two, downing Rutgers 21-7 and trouncing Glassboro 15-6.

After their successful homestand, the team travelled to East Stroudsburg where they recorded an easy 14-2 victory. Returning home, the girls dropped an 8-7 decision to the University of Penn. Temple was the team's next opponent. Ursinus fell to the formidable Temple team by a 20-8 count.

As the season went into its third week, U.C. prepared for a big game against Lafayette. At the outset, Ursinus looked strong. In the first four minutes of play, Chris MacColl and Donna Warzbach each scored and the locals led 2-0. However, Lafayette stormed back to tie the score. Margaret Tomlinson tallied twice and Stephanie DiSantis once for the Bears to put Ursinus ahead 5-4 at the half.

In the second half, the Lafayette girls came out determined as they scored twice in the space of four minutes. Nonetheless, Ursinus' defense tightened and the offense again went to work. The U.C. girls rattled off six consecutive goals in coasting to an 11-7 victory. On the day, Chris MacColl scored four goals and Stephanie DiSantis racked up two goals and three assists. Margaret Tomlinson scored two goals and posted two assists. Donna Warzbach, Kelee Whiteley, and Sheryl Raithel each tallied once and Nikki Zimmerman and Raithel both chalked up assists.

Men's Track Victorious

by John Doyle '83

The Men's Track Team upped their meeting record to 6 and 5 last Saturday by beating Johns Hopkins 86 to 45. Winning performances for the Bears were turned in by Roland Desilets in the 1500 meters, Chuck Dunn in the 110 high hurdles, Mo Salley in the 100 meters, Brian Clark in the 800 meters, Craig Harris in the 400 intermediate hurdles, Mark Young in the 200 meters, John Doyle in the 1500 meters, Jeff Guyon in the long jump, Dave DiMattia in the shotput, and Ron Wenk in the javelin. In addition to winning the above events, Ursinus swept 110 high hurdles, the 400 intermediate hurdles, the 800 meters, the 1500 meters and the javelin. Times were generally slow as both the cold, windy day and the lack of competition dampened everyone's enthusiasm. Much better performances were expected this past Wednesday when the Bears travelled to Doylestown to face Delaware Valley College and Haverford. Results were not available at press time. Additional qualifiers for the Middle Atlantic Conference Championships include Neil Brown, Joe Kleiber, and John Gelhard in the 5000 meters and Craig Harris in the 400 intermediate hurdles. Mike Arcieri is expected to qualify in the shotput any day now as he missed by only one inch in last week's Albright meet.

The team has a home tri-meet against Scranton and Bible Baptist tomorrow. So, come out and catch the action at 2:00.

Women's Tennis Falls Short Of Potential

After injuries and various other misfortunes, the Women's Tennis team is suffering through a disappointing season. The overall record stands at 3-4 with three matches remaining.

The season looked promising at the beginning, stated Coach Sandy Famous, but soon the outlook turned bleak. Shortly after one player was forced to leave the team due to class absences, freshman Donna Morgenstern injured her ankle and is out for the remainder of the season.

Coach Famous stated that she has never experienced such a tennis season before, and remarked, "I never thought this would happen!"

Famous also feels that although she has lost two of her starting six varsity players, the team still has a shot at winning the

M.A.C. The Lady Bears must first beat Moravian College and Drew University in order to qualify for a possible wild card, after which the girls must compete in the final round of team championships.

At this point, the team consists of junior captain Jo Zierdt, junior Barb Mathers, junior Pam Famous, freshman Kim Kirshner, and freshman Robanne Barwick.

The Lady Bears play Gettysburg at 2:30 this Monday at home, then play Moravian at 3:00 on Wednesday at home. To finish out the season, the team travels to Drew University on Thursday.

Coach Famous commented that although this season has been disappointing, it should be used as a building season for next year, as none of the players are graduating.

Bozentka Leads Men's Tennis to Comeback Victory

by Joe Granahan '85

Battling a fierce wind and a very strong Moravian opponent, Captain Dave Bozentka won a grueling 3 set match to lead the Bears (4-4) to a come from behind 5-4 victory.

The team looked as if it was in for a tough afternoon when they fell behind 3-0 in singles action. The tide turned, however, with victories from Bozentka, Jeff Pompei and Gregg Bahney, sending the two teams deadlocked into the doubles competition. The team was very confident at this point because of their strong doubles performances in the past. Bahney put it best when he said, "If we had lost after that comeback, it would have been one long busride home."

Bozentka and Pompei got the ball rolling with an easy 6-3, 6-2 victory. Bahney and his partner Jim Lukban, making his varsity debut, weren't as fortunate as they dropped their match 6-3, 6-0. The Bears finally clinched the win with a victory from Scott Johnson and Joe Granahan, 6-0, 6-0.

Earlier in the week, the Bears met a roadblock in Johns Hopkins, losing 8-1. Bozentka was in top form, taking the only match for U.C. Bear coach Bill Day was disappointed, saying, "I thought we had a shot at them, but I guess the team was looking ahead to Friday (today) and Haverford."

Today's match appears to be the most crucial thus far. Haverford is sporting another fine squad and the Bears are looking to avenge last year's close battle. The match is scheduled for 3:00 on Ursinus' courts.
