DOCKET FOR SPECIAL TERM

CIRCUIT CLERK MILLER AND DEPUTY HAVE COMPLETED THE DOCKET FOR THE SPECIAL TERM OF CRIMINAL COURT.

THREE KILLING CASES COMES UP FOR HEARING

Sheriff Ogilvie Carried Tilley Back To Mayfield Where He is Wanted on the Charge of Assaulting a Peace Officer—No Session of Fiscal Court Today.

Circuit Clerk Joe Miller and his chief deputy, William Kidd, yesterday finished making out the docket for the special criminal term Judge Reed convenes one week from next Monday and continues until the cases are disposed of. The cases are all put on the docket for the first day, and when the judge opens the term, he goes over the list and sets the different days on which he will try each respective action. The docket shows the following cases:

H. H. Loving, charged with killing H. A. Rose in the fraternity building last August. This accused is out on bond.

Henry Holwell, colored, charged with murdering another negro down on Terrell street last December. Holwell shot at a third party, but his victim leaped between them and caught the bullet in his brain. Holwell is in jail.

James Drane, colored, charged with murdering Ed Ewell, colored, by knocking him in the head with a board the day before Christmas, at Thompson's store, three miles from this city on the Cairo pike. Ewell died the next day. Drane is in jail.

Tom Young, T. G. Carr and James Green, all white, charged with robbing an old white and crippled man out about the Union depot last winter. The victim claims they held him up in daylight and took his money from him. The accused are all out on bond.

J. T. Norfleet is charged with getting Grover Frank Rodfus, of Fifth and Jackson, to cash a forged check drawn upon the Carraville, Ky. bank. Norfleet is out on bond.

James Porter, colored, is charged with maliciously cutting another. He is also accused of assault and battery. Porter is in jail.

Ed Raymond and Anderson Van dress, colored, are charged with false swearing. One of them was employed by the I. C. but was discharged. They then went out and whipped the colored boss, who fired the one. On the witness stand in court, they swore they did not assault the boss, when it was proved they did. Both are in jail.

Will Jackson and J. A. Donovan are charged with robbery, and both are in jail awaiting trial. A little boy claims they stole him several dollars to bring them to this city in a sack from over at Brookport. He brought them across and charges that after landing Jackson and Donovan robbed him of the money they had given him to bring them over.

County Clerk's Office. Mayor Commissioner Cecil Reed has sold to John G. Lovett, for $300, property on Broadway, and the deed was lodged yesterday for record. Julius Higgins, aged 22, and Josie Tilman, aged 20, colored, were granted a license to marry.

Tilley Taken Back. Sheriff John Ogilvie yesterday arrested George Tilley and carried him back to Mayfield to answer to the charge of assault and battery. He is accused of beating up an officer at that city, and the bench warrant for his arrest was sent here. The sheriff will return this morning.

Case Continued. Justice Emery yesterday continued until next Monday the warrant charging Charles Hamilton with threatening the life of Sam Holland, because the latter let Mrs. Hamilton seek refuge in the Ireland home when Hamilton was charged with abusing her.

First Batch. Justice Emery yesterday issued the

SURPRISE IS SPRUNG ON HARGIS CROWD

HI CENTERS, CALLAHAN'S FORMER DEPUTY SHERIFF, PUT ON THE STAND BY PROSECUTION AT JACKSON YESTERDAY.

Witness Also Tells Remarkable Story About the Manner in Which the Court Was Conducted at Jackson—Asberry Spicer Joins Confession List.

Jackson, Ky., June 14.—Hargis admitted to bail in $15,000. Floyd Day, Wm. Day and Alex Hargis on bond.

Jackson, Ky., June 14.—At the hearing of Jim Hargis, for the murder of Dr. Cox this morning all of the "notables" were present, including Jim Hargis, in the custody of the jailer, and Ed Callahan and Elbert Hargis, in custody of Sheriff Breck Crawford.

The commonwealth sprang a surprise on the defense by the introduction of Hi Centers, deputy sheriff under Callahan.

He corroborated the testimony of Anse White that Hiram Hays tried to start an argument in the court room during the motion for bail for Tom Cockerill for killing Ben Hargis. Judge Redwine, who occupied the bench at that time, and who had repeatedly denied the occurrence, was present today and heard the testimony of Centers.

Centers was asked by Attorney Back if he permitted men to carry guns in the court room, and he said it was always left entirely with the judge, and that no objections were ever made. This, however, had no effect on Judge Redwine, and he never changed color while listening to the recital of the manner in which he conducted court.

Bob Deaton Called. Bob Deaton was placed on the stand by the defense and said that he had carried no message to Asbury Spicer from Jim Hargis shortly before the killing of Dr. Cox. He admitted, however, that he did tell Spicer that Callahan wanted him to come to town. Spicer took the stand and identified Deaton as being the man who delivered him the message from Hargis. This was done because there are three Bob Deatons in Breathitt county.

Curtis Jett was recalled, and said that the night of the shooting he and Elbert Hargis went together to the home of Will Jett and got some whisky, after which they went to Hargis's store house and remained all night.

Elbert had testified yesterday that he went to bed at Jim's home shortly after the shooting.

Under Same Roof. For the first time in many months Judge James Hargis and his notorious nephew, Curtis Jett, slept under the same roof last night, but unable to converse had either or both of them been willing to discuss old times and talk over affairs when both were in power in Breathitt county.

Neither expressed a desire, however, to see each other, and Jailer James Little confined the men in different parts of the jail, both in steel cells.

Whit's none of the Hargis clan is on speaking terms with the present county officials, and as much as they dislike being held in custody by them, they are forced to take their medicine submissively.

No Fear of Violence. Unlike two years ago, the people of Jackson congregate on the streets day and night and discuss the present situation apparently without fear of assassination. Last night little and large groups of men stood for hours after adjournment of court and discussed the testimony of Curt Jett and Asberry Spicer, and "I told you so's" were the most frequent expressions heard.

Testimony which tended to create a genuine sensation to the outside world causes practically no astonishment among the citizens of Jackson and Breathitt county, and when asked how they regarded the testimony yesterday, say: "Well, I expect it would all come out some time," leaving the reporter to infer that the facts were known by a majority, but that they were afraid for years to discuss the situation.

Spicer "Merely Looked On." Jackson, Ky., June 14.—In the hearing of James Hargis, charged with the murder of Dr. B. D. Cox, Asberry Spicer yesterday afternoon confessed that John Abner and John Smith fired the shots that killed Dr. Cox while he stood by and watched the murder. Spicer swore that he was employed by Jim Hargis to aid in the assassination, and declared that the murder had been discussed a week before it took place by Jim Hargis, Elbert Hargis, Ed Callahan, John Smith, John Abner and himself. Hargis said he claimed that Cox

SCHOOL BOARD

ABSENCE OF QUORUM PREVENTED MEETING LAST EVENING.

An attempt was made to hold a meeting of the school board last evening at the assembly room in the Washington building, but it proved futile because President Williamson in his call for the extra session stipulated it was to "elect the colored teachers, and white music instructor."

There was present last evening only Williamson, Gallman, Walton, Pettey and Troutman, all of whom are against Miss Emma Morgan for the English teachership. It takes seven to transact business, and the six who are for Miss Morgan refused to go out to the gathering, simply because they think the Morgan deadlock should be settled before anything else is done, inasmuch as the board has started in on the election of the white instructors, which should be completed before the colored elections are entered into.

After the five there waited about half an hour for the others to put in their appearance, they departed, and further steps will have to be taken before any session can be held.

The opinion also tears to tatters the decision of that eminent jurist, Judge McCann. Contrary to his view of the matter, the court holds that every time a saloon keeper opens the doors of his place or sells a drink, it constitutes a separate offense. It also declares that it is not necessary to have a warrant to make the arrest, and in closing says it is the opinion of the court that the judge of the police court of Louisville will, upon being notified of the decision of the higher tribunal, do all in his power to aid the officials in enforcing the law.

The opinion was delivered by Judge Settle.

The opinion follows: "In our opinion the constitutional

AGED MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED

CONDUCTOR CHARLES BLANEY OF THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL CALLED TO SYRACUSE, NEW YORK, YESTERDAY BY SUDDEN DEATH OF FATHER.

DECEASED WAS VERY AGED GENTLEMAN

Remains of Mr. Alexander Read Will Arrive Today Or Tomorrow From Princeton, Ill., Where He Died Wednesday Night—Dr. Phil Stewart Lost Sister.

Mr. Charles H. Blaney, the well known conductor of the Illinois Central railroad between here and Centralia, Ill., was yesterday called to Syracuse, New York by a telegram announcing that his father, Mr. Thomas Blaney was dead. Conductor Blaney's train leaves here at noon and having gotten the message only a few moments before then took his train on to Carbondale, Ill., there being no one here to relieve him. A substitute was gotten at Carbondale, and he then proceeded on to New York.

The message stated that the father was found dead in his bed yesterday morning by members of the family, therefore the presumption is that he was stricken by heart trouble while sleeping.

The deceased was eighty years of age and a prominent man of that city, where he had resided quite a while. His advanced age some years ago forced him to retire from active life. Besides his son here he leaves two daughters, Mesdames Mary Dailey and James Duhammel of New York, and three other sons, Messrs. John Blaney of Columbus, Ohio; Barney Blaney of St. Louis and Thomas Blaney of East St. Louis.

Died of Consumption. Yesterday morning Dr. Phil Stewart received a message from Bedford, Iowa, bringing the sad information that the evening before passed from life his sister, Mrs. Charles Willis, after a lingering illness with con-

PETTY OFFENDERS

BERRY HUBBARD CHARGED WITH CURSING AND STRIKING OTHERS.

Detective Moore Has Information About Diamond Pin That Owner Can Recover—Other Matters.

Berry Hubbard was warranted yesterday on the charge of striking Nancy Calmore, and cursing F. J. Kettler.

Sanitary Nuisance. Sanitary Inspector J. Moller yesterday got a warrant against W. Armour Gardner charging the latter with refusing to have moved a pile of manure in the rear of Mr. Gardner's home.

Diamond Stick Pin. Detective Moore is trying to locate the party who lost a handsome diamond stick pin recently in the waiting room at the Union depot. The pin was picked up by a well known traveling man who informed the sleuth of the find, and told the detective where he would be for several weeks, so he could be communicated with and return the pin in case the owner turned up.

Stole Tar Paper. Yesterday morning Contractor Dick Davis discovered that some time the night before thieves stole two big rolls of the tar paper he is using for roofing work on the Roy L. Galley building on Broadway.

COURT ADJOURNS FOR THE SUMMER.

Frankfort, Ky., June 14.—The court of appeals handed down a large number of decisions and adjourned yesterday until the third Monday in September.

MANY ADDITIONAL MERCHANTS AND CHARACTERS OF BUSINESS HAVE TO PAY STATE REVENUES GREATLY INCREASED BY THIS ACT

STATE REVENUES GREATLY INCREASED BY THIS ACT

The Number of Businesses Added to the State List Are in Much Excess of Number Upon Books Before Adoption of This Law.

Many lines of business that have not been compelled to pay a state license heretofore come in under the new law adopted by the state legislature the session just passed, the law becoming effective June 11th, which was last Monday. The licenses on both the old and new lines become due that date, and if they are not paid immediately a twenty per cent penalty is added.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding as to those who now have to pay, but never did heretofore, County Attorney Alben Barkley has gotten up a list, which shows the following new businesses have been added and the amount of yearly license each will have to pay: brewery $200; foreign brewery doing business here $20; each agency established in state by resident brewery, $25; each agency maintained by foreign brewery $25; each establishment bottling proprietary and soft drinks $25; soda fountains $20; each firm selling proprietary or soft drinks, natural or mineral waters not from a fountain $25; each show, concert, exhibition, or other performance where admission is charged and not devoted exclusively to religious, benevolent or educational purposes, and not in a licensed hall, $5; theatres in first class cities $40; theatres in second class cities $20; in third class $15; in fourth, fifth and sixth classes $10; on skating rinks in first class cities $75; skating rinks in second class $50; rinks in third class $25; merry-go-rounds $10; cane rack, etc. $5; shooting gallery $5; each solicitor or agent for enlargement of pictures, or solicitor for picture frames or pictures, $5; on each transient vendor of spectacles or jewelry, whether offered for sale in a store or not, $10; each transient vendor of iron or steel ranges or stoves $20; retailer of playing cards $10; retailer of pistols $100; retailer of cigarette and papers $10; to each resident wholesale dealer

BAR WEALTH

WISCONSIN JUDGE POINTS OUT EVIL OF "VULGAR RICH" IN SENATE.

Urges Law To Punish the Giver of Bribes and Not the Recipient.

Ripon, Wis., June 14.—That the multimillionaire should not be eligible to a seat in the United States senate was one of the sentiments expressed in the address of Supreme Court Justice Elect William H. Timlin of Milwaukee at the commencement exercises of Ripon college.

"See to what a pitch the vulgar rich have brought this body which promised in its inception to be the grandest legislative body in all the history of the world," continued the speaker. "All regulation of corporations should be enforced by the imprisonment of the delinquent officers. Our courts should be trained to learn that the imprisonment of a millionaire is not a sacrifice.

"The law relating to bribery should be remedied, and I believe it is only possible to make the same effectual by providing penalties solely against the bribe giver. As long as both parties to the corrupt transaction are liable to criminal prosecution so long will it be difficult and next to impossible to obtain evidence against either party."

CONFERENCE CLOSES TODAY

MUCH INTEREST CENTERS IN THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS FOR THE MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THIS DISTRICT.

TODAY THE LADIES COMPLETE THEIR BUSINESS

Rev. Peter Fields Will Immerse Converts Next Sunday Afternoon At Foot of Ohio Street At 4 O'clock—First Baptist Church Sunday School Gave Annual Picnic.

This morning the 27th annual convention of the foreign missionary societies, will come to a close at the Broadway Methodist church, where it has been in session since Tuesday morning, and has proven one of the most interesting and successful gatherings ever conducted by the noble women.

The meeting opens this morning at 9 o'clock with devotional services, followed by a report of the Paducah district work, the report of standing committees, taking of pledges, election of officers, election of reserve delegates to woman's board, selection of the next place of meeting, when then adjournment will be taken.

Great interest centers in the election of president, as for the first time in twenty years a new presiding officer will have to be named, because Mrs. Watson filled the position for that long period previous to her death in Memphis several weeks ago. She made one of the most progressive and energetic workers ever filling the chair and each annual gathering was re-elected until her twentieth year's services was brought to a close by death. The names of Miss Laura Bradford, the secretary from Brownsville, Tenn.; Mrs. J. C. Ottinger, the treasurer from Memphis, Mrs. T. B. King, the vice president from Memphis, Tenn., and other prominent workers are mentioned in connection with the presidency, but until the election today it cannot be told who will be selected. Considerable interest is being taken in the place for holding next year's meeting.

The session yesterday was of much interest, good reports being submitted by everybody, much time being taken up discussing the respective matters coming before the conference. The morning session yesterday closed with devotional services led by Mrs. Ada Cooper.

In the afternoon Mrs. J. C. Sweeney presented a most excellent paper on "A Visit to McTyrie School, China." It was teeming with points salient to the good workings

BANKRUPTCY

CREDITORS FILE PETITION AT LOUISVILLE BEFORE JUDGE EVANS.

They Request That Merchant L. J. Gossett of Gilbertsville be Forced Into Bankruptcy—Hessig Water Case.

Yesterday at Louisville Lawyer Joseph Grogan, of this city, had lodged in the United States court before Judge Walter Evans, a petition of Paducah and Nashville, Tenn. creditors, requesting that there be forced into bankruptcy, L. J. Gossett, the general merchant of Gilbertsville, Ky., thirty-five miles above here on the Louisville division of the I. C. railroad. The next move in the case is for Judge Evans to refer the matter to Referee E. W. Bagby, of the bankrupt court for this district, for adjudication after Gossett is notified to appear before the court and show cause why he should not be forced into bankruptcy. His indebtedness is about $5000, and assets about $3000.

Lawyer Grogan said the object of the petition is mainly to get set aside some mortgages it is claimed Gossett executed to certain favored creditors to insure their debts.

SPRING CHAUTAUQUA OPENS TODAY AT WALLACE PARK

THE PROGRAM TEEMS WITH IMPORTANT SUBJECTS AND PROSPECTS ARE FOR A VERY SUCCESSFUL GATHERING, CONSIDERING THIS IS THE FIRST OF THE CHARACTER EVER GIVEN HERE—DR. STANLEY KREBS COMES THIS MORNING FROM PENNSYLVANIA, WHILE MR. COPE, THE LADY WASHINGTON QUARTETTE AND OTHERS WILL ARRIVE.

Everything is ready at Wallace park for the spring chautauqua which opens this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at which time President John S. Blecker will deliver the address of welcome under the huge auditorium tent which has been erected near where the old opera house stood before destruction by fire some years ago.

After Mr. Blecker's remarks Dr. Coleman, of the program committee, will deliver an address upon "What The Program Committee Tried to Do." Following this an outline of the program and chautauqua in general will be given by Mr. James H. Shaw, one of the most extensive promoters over the entire country of entertainments of this character.

At 2:45 o'clock a lecture on "Two Snakes In Eden" will be given by Dr. Stanley L. Krebs who will arrive this morning from Greengburg, Pa.

At 7:30 p. m. the Lady Washington quartette sings many rare selections, which will be greeted by many. The quartette consists of four lady singers who arrive this morning at 8 o'clock from Chicago to remain through the entire ten days.

At 8 o'clock tonight Herbert Leon Cope, who comes in this morning from Chicago, will deliver a humorous lecture on "The Smile That Won't Come Off."

School Children Admitted Free Saturday.

The chautauqua people, thinking the event could be of special help to the children of the county, have made Saturday free to all public school children, 16 years old and under, of the county, and Sunday free to Sunday school children of the county 16 years old and under.

The Saturday program will be very interesting to the children as Mr. Cope is a great entertainer, and Wassman the magician will certainly delight them. Mr. Robert Wassman is one of the most enjoyable magicians in the country, and the people always like the "pleasant fooling" of the magician.

Saturday's program is one of the best of the whole ten days Dr. Krebs will give the second of his series at 10:30 a. m.

Mr. Shaw and his corps of assistants put on the finishing touches yesterday, getting the huge auditorium tent and smaller canvas affairs in nice condition, while the grounds were placed in apple-pie order, and the conditions and circumstances could not be more auspicious for an opening day, this afternoon, when the ten days of educational entertainment starts.

The affair has been well advertised and the promoters have every reason to believe that the opening event for Paducah will be a success.

Home Coming Day.

The "Home Coming Day" for Paducah will be given one day during the chautauqua, next Tuesday, June 15th, at which time a nice program will be rendered. Hon. Hal S. Corbett is the chief orator of the day, and the selection was a timely one, as he is one of the most eloquent speakers in this entire state. He talks at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on "Old Kentucky Home," who being a true-born Kentuckian who has spent abroad years that put him in position to appreciate the Kentucky-home, it is needless to say his remarks will be highly delighting to those in attendance.

After Mr. Corbett finishes that afternoon Hon. Samuel Lancaster of Washington, D. C., will deliver a lecture on "Good Roads." He is connected with the United States government at the federal capitol and tours the country educating the people on better roads.

During the morning a speech will be made by Charley Wheeler, a lawyer of this city, while at some hour yet to be set an address will be made by Col. W. J. Ham, the "Snollygoster In Politics" speaker. Music, a barbecue and old fashioned bran dance will be given during the day.

presence. The fact that the commonwealth has no right of appeal in prosecutions under this statute ought to make the police court the more careful to enforce it.

Enforcing the Law.

"Not only is there nothing in the way of the enforcement of the statute by police court, but prosecutions under it may also be proceeded with by indictment and trial in the criminal division of the Jefferson circuit court. In addition, the county judge of Jefferson county and all justices of the peace of the city of Louisville are by the constitution made conservators of the peace, and are by the statute and given jurisdiction to enforce this statute and punish those who violate its provisions."

"The sheriff, his deputies and constables of the county are also clothed with the same powers possessed by policemen to make arrests for offenses against the statute.

May Enforce Statute.

"It is manifest, therefore, that by the employment of these various instrumentalities the statute may be enforced, and equally manifest that the enforcement will impose only a reasonable regulation upon the sale of intoxicating liquors and prevent desecration of the Sabbath, which the good of society demands should be observed as a day of rest and worship.

"As to the question thus far discussed in this opinion the members of the court are fully agreed; but on the question of whether the mandamus applied for should be granted they are equally divided, three of them being of the opinion that the court has the power under the constitution to award the writ, and three of them that it has not such power, and therefore the writ is denied.

"In view of the importance of the questions involved, we have expressed our views as above indicated, assuming that when the judge of the city court is advised by this court that the statute is constitutional, it will be his pleasure to enforce the law and discharge his duty faithfully in upholding the mayor and police of the city in their efforts to do so."

"Procratination is a dangerous thing in business, isn't it?" said the young man who is anxious to learn. "I should say so," answered Dustin Stax. "You don't know how thankful I am that I made my pile before all that furr for investigation started in."—Washington Star.

FINED $25

WILSON WOMAN HAS TO PAY THIS SUM ON TWO CHARGES

The Warrant Charging Rouse's Cow With Running at Large Was Continued Until Today.

Yesterday in the police court Judge Sanders fined Fannie Wilson $25 and costs for running a disorderly resort on West Court street. She was then fined $10 in addition for being drunk and disorderly herself.

Cal Riley was fined $10 and costs for engaging in a fight with Ben Kimble while the latter was assessed $1 and costs.

Murphy Harris was fined $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. There was continued until today the warrant charging Y. D. Rouse with letting his cow run at large upon the public streets.

Violet Lee was fined $25 and sent to jail for ten days on the charge of getting drunk and disorderly out on Court street, she being a member of the soiled dove flock.

first batch of twenty-five warrants against as many shanty-boaters charging them with failing to pay their license. These twenty-five will be arrested and after their cases disposed of the others warranted.

Fiscal Court.

Judge Lightfoot is still at Creal Springs, Ill., sojourning, and yesterday telephoned Justice Emery to notify the magistrates that the fiscal court would not meet today as intended for the purpose of opening bids put in by contractors wanting to erect the new county poor farm buildings. The plans had to be changed somewhat by the architect and when this is completed the judge will be notified so he can come home and call the court together to open the propositions.

Some Pilfering.

Circuit Clerk Joe Miller keeps some of the court records in a small wood case in his office room, and not in the vault. For the past few mornings on coming in he has noticed someone has been in the room the night before rumaging through the papers. None have been missed however, but to avoid repetition of the act the clerk is locking things securely each night.

NO CO-EDUCATION OF WHITES AND BLACKS.

Court of Appeals Decides Against Berea College on the Appeal.

Frankfort, Ky., June 14.—The court of appeals today reversed in part and affirmed in part the case of Berea college against the commonwealth from Madison county. Judge O'Rear delivering the opinion. The court upholds the constitutionality of the legislative act prohibiting the co-education of whites and blacks, except section four of that act which is held to be unconstitutional. Section four says that a school or college might educate both whites and blacks, but the school for each color must be twenty-five miles apart.

The effect of the decision is to knock out Berea college as a mixed school, and it will have to be conducted as a white school or a negro school, unless the United States supreme court should reverse today's decision.

BAILEY MAY OPPOSE BRYAN

Texas Democratic Committee Refuses to Indorse Nebraskan.

Austin, Tex., June 14.—The state democratic executive committee at its meeting last night refused to adopt a resolution indorsing W. J. Bryan for president, the reason urged against such action being that Senator J. W. Bailey may be a candidate for that office.

Populists Indorse Bryan.

Lincoln, Neb., June 14.—The populist state committee, with twenty-two out of ninety counties represented, informally indorsed Bryan's candidacy and calls a convention for August 12.

Grand Opening Ball.

Ozark Hotel, Creal Springs, Ill.—The new management of the Ozark Hotel, Creal Springs, Ill., will give an opening ball and banquet on Friday night, June 15, 1906, and extends a hearty invitation to all the old and new patrons.

FILTH IN BEEF

INSPECTOR FRANK L. HEDRICK DECLARES THAT RATS RUN OVER FRESH MEAT.

Workmen Are Uncleanly and Spit on Floor—Nelson-Morris' Plant Reveals Serious Conditions.

Chicago, June 14.—Perry L. Hedrick, chief sanitary inspector, says rats are running over fresh meat and men expectorating on a floor over which parts of carcasses were later dragged when he visited the plant of Nelson Morris & Co. at the Union Stockyards yesterday. This report of conditions in Packingtown was furnished to Health Commissioner Whalen by his chief inspector yesterday afternoon.

Nor did the inspector content himself with these two sensational charges. He said the employes were unclean and the tables on which they worked were in a filthy condition. He said the posts in one of the buildings were covered with grease that must have been months in accumulating and there were no facilities in some of the rooms for washing hands had the employes been so inclined.

Workmen Tramples on Table Then he told of the methods by which the workmen secured fresh supplies of meat when at their work. He said that one man in the meat-cutting room was so eager to replenish his supply that he climbed on the table and pulled at the bulks of carcasses until he had secured a quantity sufficient to keep him busy for a long while.

The report of yesterday was the severest condemnation of the methods employed in the large packing houses that has been made in Chicago, the home of the industry. Heretofore those who have seen the darker side of the industry have been those of a foreign city. The investigations conducted since the sensational stories of the filth to be found in the plants have brought to light little of a sensational character. It is not to be supposed his entire report was devoted to the scenes that have stirred the continent's of the world. There was a bright spot here and there as the inspector came across a room that was provided with sufficient light and where sanitary conditions prevailed. But the greater part of the report was far from complimentary to those in charge of the industry.

Packers to Remedy Faults.

Some good will follow the visit of the inspector, for the packers have announced they will provide water and lots of it wherever it is needed to assist cleanlines and they will install shower baths in those departments where the labor requires it. They also have promised they will see there is no repetition of the unclean sights that met the gaze of Hedrick. They have instructed their foreman to see that all laborers keep themselves clean and present an appearance that shall be voted whole some.

Low Rates to Asheville, N. C., and Return.

On account of the conference of the Young People's Missionary Association at Asheville, N. C., Southern Railway will sell excursion tickets to Asheville at rate of one first class fare plus twenty-five cents for the round trip on June 26, 27 and 28 with return limit of July 10, 1906.

"The Land of the Sky" country is attractive at all times and especially at this season of the year. The glory of the natural surroundings is at its height. The Southern Railway traverses the banks of the French Broad river for many miles en route to Asheville. The scenery of this mountainous region and the delightful temperature are unsurpassed.

For further information, address any ticket agent of the Southern Railway or C. H. Hungerford, D. P. A., No. 234 Fourth avenue, Louisville, Ky.

THE PEEK-A-BOO.

Fashions of the Fiji Island Belle the Next.

Since the cry over openwork hosiery, which begin with the merest pin-pricks and has now come to a finish no thicker than a face veil, the matter of our national modesty has had some fearful shocks in woman's wear.

But this is not all! Some genius, doubtless to keep pace with the times, has introduced the openwork corset.

We now only await shredded lingerie before the fashions of the Fiji Island belle are accurately followed. Law of the brown-tailed moth alone can save us!—Hopkinsville New Era.

Regular Price $8.50 per pair. We introduce to introduce We will sell You a Sample Pair for Only $4.80 NAILS, TACKS OR GLASS OUT THE AIR (CASH WITH ORDER $4.80)

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES. Result of 15 years experience in tire making. No danger from THORNS, CACTUS, PINS, NAILS, TACKS or GLASS. Serious punctures, like intentional knife cuts, can be vulcanized like any other tire. Two Hundred Thousand pairs now in actual use. Over Seventy-five Thousand pairs sold last year.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of this, specially prepared fabric on the tread. That "Holding Back" sensation commonly felt when riding on asphalt or soft roads is overcome by the patent "Basket Weave" tread which prevents all air from being squeezed out between the tire and the road thus overcoming all suction. The regular price of these tires is $5.00 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C.O.D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump and 120 Sampson metal puncture closers on full paid orders (these metal puncture closers to be used in case of intentional knife cuts or heavy gashes). Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. Ask your Postmaster, Banker, Express or Freight Agent or the Editor of this paper about us. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a small trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

COASTER-BRAKES, built-up wheels, saddles, pedals, parts and repairs, and prices charged by dealers and repair men. Write for our big SUNDAY catalogue.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

JUDGE M'CANN KNOCKED OUT BY COURT OF APPEALS

ity of Section 1303, Kentucky Statutes, is free from doubt. While it is true that no case in which the right to prohibit the sale of liquor on Sunday was involved, has recently been decided by this court, because its jurisdiction has been limited by statutes to cases whose fines inflicted must exceed $50, but before the enactment of the present statutes as to jurisdiction, the constitutionality of an ordinance of the city of Lexington similar in terms and meaning to the statute, was upheld by this court in McGowan vs. commonwealth (Second Circuit, page 4). The Section 61 of the constitution provides that nothing therein shall be construed to interfere with or repeal any law in force relating to the sale of liquors, and when the constitution was adopted the statute law then, as now, forbidding the opening of saloons or the sale of liquor on Sunday, this statute was not repealed by the adoption of the constitution.

"There is no provision of the constitution which surrenders the police power of the state.

Separate Offenses.

"The fact that there are two separate offenses denounced by the statute does not make section 1303 unconstitutional. The keeping open of a bar room on Sunday for the sale of liquors is one offense; the act of selling the same; and each sale made on Sunday constitutes a separate offense, for which a separate arrest and trial may be had. The retailing of liquors to two distinct persons at the same time and place constitutes two distinct offenses. A violation of section 1303, by keeping open on Sunday for the sale of liquors, is not necessarily a continuous offense. If one is arrested for keeping open on Sunday morning, and, after giving bail he returns and opens the second time on the same day, he has committed two offenses.

No Ground for McCann's Decision.

There is no ground upon which to rest the contention that there could be no arrest for the violation of the statute in question except upon a warrant sworn out before the judge of the city court, or that he could in his discretion refuse to issue the warrant. Any peace officer may, without a warrant, make an arrest for an offense committed in his

SPEAKERS' POWER

TO BE DESTROYED IS THE PLAN AIMED AT IN CHANGE OF RULES.

Underwood of Alabama Favors Selection of Committees by House Instead of Speaker.

Washington, June 14.—Democrats in congress will go to the country at the November election with a formal protest against the rules of the house of representatives which endow the speaker with the extraordinary powers which have earned for him the title of Czar.

A movement back by democrats of prominence, D. A. DeArmond and Champ Clark, of Missouri, Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, Charles Towne and Bourke Cockran of New York being leaders, probably will result in a meeting of the democratic house caucus at which resolutions will be adopted condemning the present rules and proposing a reform which will be radical in nature and which aims to deprive the speaker of his powers by taking from him the right of appointing committees.

This plan, if it is ever carried into effect, will make the speaker of the house a presiding officer, a mere moderator. The office will then be comparable to the office of speaker of the house of commons. The importance of the latter is contrasted with the importance of the speaker in our own congress when it is remembered that the present house of commons, having an enormous liberal majority recommended a conservative for speaker.

The plan of revision of the rules as proposed has been long discussed, but its details have been worked out by Representative Underwood of Birmingham, Ala.

It is proposed that the house shall elect the members of the committee on rules, this committee to consist of fifteen members instead of five, as now constituted. Ten are to be of the majority party and five of the minority, each party selecting its own men in caucus to be confirmed by a vote of the whole house.

The committee of rules as thus constituted would nominate the members of all other committees, the division between the majority and minority membership to continue as agreed upon, and the house would vote upon these nominations.

This plan includes the system of electing committees as it obtains in the senate, where the steering committees of the two parties nominate the members of all committees and the committees are then elected by the senate.

To Destroy Speaker's Machine.

This plan would destroy the house machine as it has grown up under the present rules, and would substitute for it another machine. But the proponents of the plan say the new machine would be much more tractable and much less able to defy the real will of the membership. Then, always, if the rules committee became too bold and too tyrannical, the rules may be suspended by a two-thirds vote. On such occasions the speaker would have much power restored to him for the time being.

The speaker with his rules committee as now constituted is the absolute master of the house. Nothing can thwart his will short of party revolt, and any member thinks twice or thrice before he braves the certain condemnation that comes to a bolter and the punishment which the speaker metes out to all who have rebelled against the party whip.

Under the rules of the house, free debate and free action have become impossible. Freedom is given to the members only upon unimportant measures, or on questions about the fate of which there is not the slightest doubt.

If the question is a delicate one, the speaker and his committee bring in a special rule. The rule limits debates, prevents the offering of amendments, binds the house hand and foot and the crack of the party whip is first heard on the vote on the previous question, upon which motion there may be but forty minutes of debate.

In this congress the committee on rules is composed of the speaker, Messrs. Dalzell, Grosvenor, Williams and Dearmond. The two democrats are merely nominal members. They have the honor to be the first democrats informed of what other members of the committee have decided the house shall do. They protest and kick, and kick and protest, but to no avail. If the next house should be democratic and the old rules should be adopted, then the republicans would be protesting as loudly against the iniquity of the machine as the democrats do now, and the machine doubtless would be as ruthless in the hands of John Sharp Williams as it is under the domination of Uncle Joe Cannon.

PRECAUTIONS

BEING TAKEN AT NEW ORLEANS AGAINST OUTBREAK OF YELLOW FEVER.

House-to-House Inspection Every Fortnight and Every Case of Sickness Closely Investigated.

New Orleans, June 14.—As a precaution against possible yellow fever outbreaks in this city the state and city boards of health announce that sixty city blocks are now under a searching system of inspection and that those portions of New Orleans outside of this closely guarded section are being watched over through co-operation of every physician in the city with the health boards.

The sixty blocks under special supervision are those in which the yellow fever epidemic originated or was worse last summer. Each house in this district is visited, by inspectors at least once every two weeks, their duties including enforcement of the law that all cisterns shall be screened and general sanitary regulations.

Other Inspectors.

A second set of inspectors in this same district watches and reports every case of sickness no matter what its nature and makes an attempt to discover the contributing causes to the disease.

Mosquitoes especially are under continuous observation. In several cases where deaths have occurred within the sixty blocks microscopic examinations of mosquitoes have been made by the city board of health in search for the stegomyia, the mosquito which is believed to carry yellow fever. In one case as many as fifty dead mosquitoes were examined with this object in view after they had been gathered from a house which had been fumigated. The city board of health reported that no stegomyia were found.

A special health map, colored in red, yellow and green, is kept at the city health office to indicate the conditions daily reported by the inspectors and the precautions taken.

Naturally Apprehensive.

In the scheme for protection of those sections outside of the sixty blocks the city board of health has prepared a blank to be filled out by physicians in case of the death of patients. It is accompanied by the following explanation:

"At this time we are naturally especially apprehensive and anxious to discover early cases of yellow fever, if any occur, and we, therefore are including in our investigation all cases of reports which reach this office only as death certificates."

Several cases suspected to be yellow fever have already been reported to the health authorities this year. Each of these has been examined one or several times by the state board of health, acting in conjunction with a committee of three local physicians. These examinations have resulted in each case in finding that the disease was not yellow fever.

HO-W INDIANS CUPE CORN

Interesting Process, Which is the Work of Women and Girls.

Long shallow ditches are made in the ground and filled with dry wood which is set on fire. In the meantime the young maidens are busy picking the tenderest corn and if faithful to duty, soon return with bags filled with the long ears, says the Southern Workman.

A mother impatient at the tardiness of her daughter, calls: "To-dae-win, why are you so slow!" "I'm coming!" answers a girlish voice from the further end of the field but she does not come. Again the mother calls: "The fire is ready, why don't you hurry?" "I'm coming!" shouts the maiden. There is a rustling of the leaves of the stalks and she does really come; she starts to tell a tale of excuse, but the mother quickly empties the bag, giving no heed to the story, and begins to remove the outer layers of husk from the ear. Then she places them in a row on the live coals in the ditch and turns them over with a stick.

When the thin layers of husk are scorched the woman with her stick deftly tosses the ears out of the ditch. In the meantime the daughter continues her task with more or less delay, until a sufficient quantity of corn is gathered for the day's work. After the roasting of all the ears the scorched husks are removed and the grains of corn are separated from the cob by the use of the sharp-edged shell of the fresh water mussel. The grain is then spread on skins and put out in the sun to dry. The corn prepared in this manner is called sweet corn by the Indians. Enough is cured in this way to last the family a whole season.

The world extends the glad hand to the lucky man, but all in hands the victim of tough luck is a little cold water.—Chicago News.

EVERYWHERE

PEOPLE HAVE THE SAME TROUBLE WITH THE CUMBERLAND TELEPHONE COMPANY.

Especially Where it Has no Competition—Reports From Other Cities.

One who reads any number of newspapers is very forcibly impressed with the fight the people are compelled to make against the Cumberland Telephone Co., and especially in cities where that company has no competition, says the Morganfield (Ky.) Sun.

It seems that the same fight must be made everywhere.

At Bardstown the Cumberland Co. has been ordered to remove all its poles and wires from the streets and alleys of the town. The Bardstown Standard says:

"At a called meeting of the city council last Thursday night the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company was ordered to remove its telephone poles and wires from all the streets and alleys of the town. The city authorities say the company has no franchise. The action taken is the result of a raise in the rate on many telephones from $1 to $1.65 in private residences. The authorities claim that the residence phones can be profitably furnished at $1 per month and business phones at $2 instead of $1.65 and $2.75, the price charged at present, and that Lebanon, Shelbyville and many other towns of the state are furnished the $1 and $2 rates, and there is no reason why Bardstown should not have these rates also."

A recent telegram from Elkton tells of the trouble there: "The Cumberland Telephone Company has changed its tactics and agrees now to buy a franchise to operate in this city. Last week the city council passed an ordinance imposing a fine of $50 to $100 a day for every day it operated without a franchise. The Cumberland company at once closed its exchange and began taking out instruments. The Home company at once got busy and began hurrying up the construction of its plant, now under way. On Tuesday the Cumberland sent a representative to Elkton, who agreed to buy a franchise, stipulations and all, and at once began putting back the phones moved out.

The telephone situation has been very interesting, with frequent meetings of the council. The business men, almost to a man, stood by the council, and agreed to do without service until the new plant could be installed. The city attorney and

EVERYBODY LIES BUT ROOSEVELT.

The following is taken from the speeches and writing of President Roosevelt:

The liar is no whit better than the thief.

It puts a premium on knavery untruthfully to attack an honest man or even with hysterical exaggeration to assail a bad man with untruth.

The men who with stern sobriety and truth assail the many evils of our times * * * are the leaders.

In the long run the most unpleasant truth is a safer companion than a pleasant falsehood.

You can pardon most anything of a man who will tell the truth, because you know where that man is; you know what he means.

If anyone lies, if he has the habit of untruthfulness, you cannot deal with him, because there is nothing to depend on.

Truth-telling is a virtue upon which we should not only insist in the schools and at home, but in business and in politics as much.

The business man or politician who does not tell the truth cheats, and for the cheat we should have no use in any walk of life.

I do not believe in a bluff; I feel about a nation as we all say about a man; let him not say anything he cannot make good, and having said it, let him make it good.

Nothing can make good citizenship in men who have not got in them courage, hardihood, decency, sanity, the spirit of truth-telling and truth-seeking.

Different Kinds of Assassins.

The Breathitt county assassination confessions make it plain that this county has been cursed by a set of blood-thirsty assassins. Any man who dared to oppose that crowd forfeited his life by being the victim of an assassin's bullet. Men the gang could not use were driven from the county or murdered and their widows and orphans left to starve. Men, through fear of that gang of cutthroats, bowed their heads before them and never had the courage to defy them, but rather acted the part of the craven. Such were the conditions in Breathitt county.

In some of the other counties in Kentucky are other kinds of assassins. They are what might be termed commercial assassins.

In their respective communities they endeavor to dominate all men and enterprises. They have their hired spies abroad to watch and hear what is going on; they sit in the background and give orders. Men are gotten into their power through favors and they make them pay dearly. If they want anything and are opposed, the fiat goes forth to "kill off" that man—he must be hounded, boycotted and denounced; a systematic conspiracy is formed to crush him out of business if possible and he made to pay the penalty of their displeasure. They furnish the money for elections and by a display of their power surround themselves with servile tools who stand ready to aid them in robbing the people. It is the dollar they are after, and to shool with the man or men who stand in the way. Hargis and his gang, in Breathitt, had themselves elected to office and posed as pillars in the church; no enterprise could flourish in that county without their sanction. So it is with the commercial assassins.

For the sake of respectability they invade their churches and various organizations, and pose as progressive men, when in truth, in a commercial way, they follow the tactics of the assassination crowd in Breathitt. But like that gang, the day will come when they will find their power sweep from them. Men with courage will come to the front, strip the mask from their faces and in plain language put facts before the people that will make them sweat like the gang now languishing in Breathitt's jail. In this country a man must be honest and square. If he is not, he must pay the penalty. Three years ago the people of Breathitt never thought that in so short a while they would see Hargis, Callahan and that crowd stripped of power and brought before the bar of justice, but murder will out.

So it is with men who resort to dishonest methods in carrying on their business—for a few years they may exercise some power and seem to prosper, but in the end they must pay the penalty.

Another big fight is on in Chicago. It is between the corporations and the people. The looters of the public are after grants worth $150,000,000. The people of Chicago have to fight at every turn and no wonder they became so exasperated ten years ago that they went to the city hall with ropes and threatened to hang a few aldermen. When men elected to represent the people prove traitors they are entitled to no more consideration than traitors in time of war. They are unfit to live among decent people and should be banished to prison.

The court record of Judge Redwine as revealed by the confessions of the Breathitt county assassins is such as to not inspire in the people a confidence in the man. Redwine is the man that Jim Hargis recommended to Gobel as a man upon whom he could rely to do his bidding as chairman of the infamous Music Hall convention. Redwine presided, and the people of Kentucky know too well of his contemptible conduct on that disgraceful occasion. When Redwine was repudiated by the people of his district for reelection Jim Hargis went to Frankfort and, with the aid of the Frankfort machine, another judicial district was created and Redwine appointed judge by Beckham. Now Jim Hargis is under indictment for complicity in three assassinations and the testimony of witnesses is placing Redwine in an unenviable light. When The Register had the courage to denounce the Music Hall convention, Redwine and the rest of the gang, it was assailed, boycotted and maligned, but it is still here to see the truth prevail, and also to have the satisfaction of seeing its position vindicated.

The Register gave the people the facts in 1899.

The entire state of Kentucky is to be congratulated over the decision of the court of appeals in sustaining the Sunday laws. For years past everytime a city began a crusade for the enforcement of the law and especially against the sale of liquor on Sunday, certain liquor interests would try to run a big bluff by saying they would fight the case in court and that the law would be declared unconstitutional.

Well, they have had their fight and the question of liquor selling on Sunday has been settled for all time to come in this state. The law is upheld and now the thing to do is to obey the law.

That fellow McCann who is now police court judge of Louisville is either too ignorant or too much a traitor to public good, to longer hold the office.

He pretended to be a very learned judge and gave out a lengthy opinion annulling the law of Kentucky and was beautifully reversed by the six appellate judges on every point. We do not know who wrote the opinion, but if McCann did not then it must have been written by Aaron Kohn, a lawyer who has done more to make law a farce in Louisville than all the other lawyers put together. Louisville should get rid of its McCann and Kohn.

The point raised by the Paducah Water Company in claiming a mechanics lien on water furnished a distillery and used in the manufacture of whiskey, is a novel one. Under the law governing liens the company has grounds for attaching the products in which water furnished by it was used and not paid for, and by the same line of reasoning is also the right to prosecute its claim for water in the whisky purchased and consumed by individuals; and look to them for the value of the water in the whisky drank by them.

Some of the newspapers howl for the enforcement of the laws, and when the laws are enforced, those very papers protest. The laws are for the whole people, and every time it is enforced it affects some one, viz; the man who violates it.

The Hargis Case.

(Lexington Herald.)

We publish in other columns of this issue a communication from one of the leading citizens of Eastern Kentucky, expressing the view that the case of the commonwealth vs. James Hargis for the murder of Dr. Cox should be transferred to Estill county. We are not familiar enough with the various counties to which he refers to have any judgment as to the accuracy of his statements. But we know him and have great respect for his opinion and entire confidence in his veracity and fairness. He has had ample opportunity to know the people and conditions in all the counties of Eastern Kentucky by long acquaintance, and his desire is to have the law enforced in that region and the crimes which have been committed stopped. From all we have heard of Judge Lewis he is an excellent lawyer and an honest, fearless man. He has just been appointed to the bench and so has not as yet won a reputation as a judge, but those who know him have told us he will make a fair, impartial and able judge. We agree, as we presume every citizen who only wants the facts proven and the law enforced agrees, with the statement made in the communication we published this morning that this case should not be tried in Breathitt county. Judge Hargis is entitled to a fair and impartial trial; the commonwealth is entitled to a fair and impartial trial. The case should be transferred to that county in which both the defendant and the state will receive such a trial. The indictment of Judge Hargis for the assassination of Dr. Cox and the confession of Curt Jett have revived the keenest interest in the Breathitt county murders. For the sake of future peace in Breathitt, for the sake of the whole mountain section, for Kentucky's reputation, the case must be so tried as to admit of no just criticism of either judge or jury. Both will be subjected to the glare of publicity. The reputation of Judge Lewis justifies the prediction that he will so preside and so decide all questions as to deserve the respect in which he is now held, and the jury selected must be of such a character that its verdict will command the confidence of the state.

THE RETURNING PRODIGALS.

(Louisville Post.)

Kentucky would prefer to keep her sons at home, but if lured away by ambition they seek or make their homes elsewhere, she welcomes them home again, with an open door and an open heart.

Ours is an empire-building race. They go forth, not crowded out, but impelled by an instinct for growth in power, by a thirst for adventure, by a longing for bettering conditions for all people.

We see much in histories of the growth of population crowding out the more adventurous that they might find room enough elsewhere. The fact is that the races which have sent out the most homeseekers are the nations which have increased most rapidly at home—excepting Ireland.

Germany has increased in population at a great rate, just at the time that she has sent her strong sons to populate and possess other quarters of the earth. Great Britain has made her great colonies integral parts of her empire, but the British isles today sustain a population which a hundred years ago would have seemed impossible. The migrating people are strong abroad and strong at home.

Kentucky has given her best blood to the upbuilding of the south and west; first in the conquering movements, first in the settlements of new lands, she has given, but she has lost her sons, for they are here still.

Ulysses, the wandering Ulysses, the Ulysses of Tennessee, is the type of the Kentuckian; only the Greek was a sea wanderer, the Kentuckian being filled with a land longing:

"I am become a name
For always roaming with a hungry heart,
Much have I seen and known—cities of men
And manners, climates, councils, governments,
Myself not least, but honored of them all."

There has been much to do here at home, and as the returning prodigals may see, it has not all been left undone. The Kentucky of the '70s has been changed, not as much changed as in some respects we would like, but changed greatly for the better. If in some things we have come short of our purposes or of your expectations, remember that we have been deprived of your services and your advice. If the work done by Kentuckians at St. Louis had been done in Louisville, not St. Louis, but Louisville, would have been the second city of the west.

Not altogether without reproach then is the welcome of the old state to the expatriated generation, who return for a season to renew old associations, old ties, old ideals. We are still one people with common purposes and a common destiny. The distinction of states fades slowly, not more from material than from patriotic influences. Kentuckians once, men remain always Kentuckians. Here they are at home, with a home welcome. There is a welcome for all who come, room still for those who stay and good will for all who in any field or anywhere have kept the old name free from the taint of greed or of disloyalty.

HERBERT VREELAND FOR SECRETARY OF STATE.

So much encouragement has been given Herbert Vreeland, the present active and progressive young Commissioner of Agriculture, to offer himself again as a candidate for a state office, that after mature consideration he has decided to become a candidate for secretary of state. It certainly looks like he has won for himself the backing of the farmers of Kentucky for whatever he may seek, and in recognition of his efforts in their behalf since his election as State Commissioner thousands of them have urged him to offer for another state office, since the constitution makes him ineligible for reelection. Mr. Vreeland has accomplished something in an office that was created for the farmers, but

Franchise Grabbing In Chicago City Council

(Chicago Examiner.)

The franchise grabbing corporations of Chicago are in absolute control of the city council.

We are in an era of franchise stealing that is more infamous THAN WAS THE CONDITION SEVERAL YEARS AGO WHEN THE PEOPLE OF CHICAGO CALLED AT THE CITY HALL WITH ROPES.

All the franchise robbery is being done under the forms of "eminent respectability."

An electric light ordinance was passed a few days ago that will, unless vetoed, put Chicago at the mercy of a lighting monopoly.

Consolidation of two companies was permitted which gives the monopoly a franchise for five years.

The rates are not materially reduced and the people get a bagatelle in the way of compensation.

With this ordinance passed the new Edison company can sell fifty millions of stocks and bonds at par.

Now the telephone company is about to get a franchise. It is about to get it for nothing.

You know that your telephone bills are excessive, but your council is not making any effort to get for you a material reduction.

It is about to bind you for an indefinite period in the coils of a telephone trust.

The telephone company has a "yellow dog" fund and "yellow dog" funds are powerful allies in getting franchises.

A few months ago the gas trust got a franchise through the council and also prevented a cut in the price of gas to 75 cents.

The electric light trust got what it asked for.

The gas trust got what it asked for.

The telephone company is in a fair way to get what it asks for UNLESS YOU BEGIN TO MAKE A FIGHT.

And unless the people watch Col. Bliss and his fellow traction lawyers will get a street car franchise that will give all the old companies a new life and a grip on every street in Chicago.

The city council has escaped criticism and watching for several months because of beef trust and freight rate agitation.

While not being watched the council and the franchise grabbers got together and proceeded to farm out all the privileges and franchises Chicago has.

The electric light ordinance should be vetoed. It gives the company everything and the city nothing.

The telephone ordinance should be killed as it is now written.

And the framers of the street car agreement should be watched like hawks.

The gas, electric light and telephone franchises are easily worth $150,000,000, and this city council is turning them over to the corporations without safeguarding the interests of the city or the rights of the people.

And it is all being done so quietly and so "nicely" that the people are not aware that they are being sold into slavery—THEIR JOINT MASTERS BEING ALL THE PUBLIC UTILITY CORPORATIONS OF CHICAGO.

An Interesting Letter On the Probable Cost of Water Works

THE FOLLOWING LETTER TO A WELL KNOWN GENTLEMAN IN THIS CITY FROM A WATER WORKS ENGINEER AT JACKSON, MISS., WILL GIVE SOME IDEA AS TO THE COST OF A WATER PLANT.

Jackson, Miss., June 4, 1906.

Dear Sir:—

Replying to your favor of June 2nd, I would say that Jackson, Miss., has engaged our firm to design and supervise the construction of a new municipal system of water works, but the necessary two-thirds of the qualified electors failed to vote at the recent election, though, of those who did vote, six so one voted for it. The matter will come up again as there is a very strong feeling for municipal ownership and the franchise of the present company will expire in about two years.

Jackson's system will be more than usually expensive, for 25,000 population from several local conditions. The supply is from Pearl river, taken at a distance of about two miles, pumped through a large main to settling basins, then allowed to flow through the filters and finally pumped into the mains; this double pumping and filtration adds to the cost, the cost of getting the water and filtering it being over $600,000. The town is not compactly built, requiring unusually long mains, the total being about 36 miles, with 380 fire hydrants; the plans have so far been made to meet the insurance requirements, that there be no main in business district less than 10 inches and that from any twelve hydrants twelve streams can be at one time thrown with a pressure of 75 lbs. at the hydrant; these are exacting requirements and call for large mains, the tonnage being about 4,600 tons of pipe. There are several large consumers, the State Insane Hospital and other similar institutions, the mills and railroads, requiring liberal pumping; the plans are for two five million gallon pumps of good efficiency. The cost is not yet well determined, but will be about $325,000 or $350,000.

During the past two months I have served as one of two appraisers for the purchase of the Meridian, Miss.,

Water Company's plant by the city. Meridian's population is probably about the same as Jackson's, but the town is more compact and the mains have been put in on economical lines; comprising about 17 miles of pipe, weighing about 2,400 tons, with 150 fire hydrants, three pumps with daily capacity of 1 1/2 and 2 1/2 million gallons; the supply is from springs, collected in an earth reservoir covering about 20 or 30 acres, flowing thence to the filters and pumped after filtration into the mains. This plant has been the subject of long litigation in which the city claimed forfeiture of franchise and contract from the inadequate fire pressure and impure water furnished. The courts decided in favor of the city, though during the litigation the plant was greatly improved by adding a system of filters and laying larger mains. The city and the company are now arranging the details of the purchase of the plant for $250,000, which is based on the physical value only, not the earning value.

This data may be of some service to you in your inquiry, though it is not practicable to estimate the cost nor the requirements for water works for one town from those of another, as shown by the differences in the two towns mentioned. No doubt Paducah has its own local conditions which would govern the plant and its cost for construction. So great are these differences that it is not safe to go very far with the preparations, nor with fixing the appropriation, until a study of the local conditions has been made and a general plan worked out specially to meet them. This should be considered in your preliminaries, if not already done.

If I can be of further service to you, I shall be glad to have you call upon me and to furnish any available information.

Yours truly,
WALTER G. KIRKPATRICK.

which had been of very little benefit to them, and it is refreshing to the Democrats of Kentucky when they find public servants who devote all their time and thought to fulfilling the duties of their office with energy and intelligence.

Mr. Vreeland is the youngest of the present state officials, and until the last state election had never been a candidate for office. Although it was his first appearance he won his nomination for Commissioner of Agriculture by a majority of 25,000 next to the largest majority received by any candidate in the state primary, although opposed by the two prominent candidates, who made most vigorous campaigns. Mr. Vreeland has a personal acquaintance probably not surpassed by any other young man in Kentucky, extending to scores and hundreds in every one of the 119 counties in Kentucky. He is a brother of John W. Vreeland publisher of the Farmer's Home Journal, and at the head of the Democratic executive committee in Louisville and Jefferson county, and of Graham Vreeland, managing editor of the Courier-Journal, who for ten years was the legislature corres-

MR. JAMES BOHAN WRITES CHIEF WOODS FOR NAMES OF DEALERS.

The Gentleman Was Formerly a Member of the Board of Works There, and Is Well Known.

Chief James Woods of the fire department has received a letter from Mr. James D. Bohan of Louisville, asking that the latter be put in communication with Paducahans handling "bond" gravel. The chief informed the Louisville man that he could procure all information he wanted from the dealers of gravel, the chief furnishing a list of seven or eight names.

Mr. Bohan is a prominent business man of the Falls City, and being a personal friend of Chief Woods, wrote him for the reference. Mr. Bohan was formerly secretary of the board of works for that city and remarked in his communication that he understood the Paducah gravel was of a superior nature, and he wanted to be placed in correspondence with some of the dealers.

It is possible that the Louisville board wants some of the gravel from here to try upon the public streets of the state metropolis, which is always looking out for whatever good things it can utilize. "Bond" gravel is of the kind that cements thoroughly.

CUPID'S SLAVES

MISS MARY HUDSON AND MR. CHARLES WALTON UNITED HERE.

Mrs. Mary Rogers and Mr. F. J. Craig Married Yesterday Morning—Miss Stokes and Thos. Stroud Wed.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Mary Hudson and Mr. Charles Walton were married at the Hart House on North Fourth by Rev. W. E. Cave of the First Presbyterian church. The nuptials occurred in the presence of quite a number of their friends and relatives.

The bride is a very pretty and popular young lady and has been part proprietor of the Hart House with her brother, Mr. Henry Hudson, the manager who recently purchased the hostelry.

The groom is a lineman employed by the independent telephone company and has many friends here. He and bride are preparing to enter housekeeping at Fifth and Washington streets.

Morning Nuptials.

Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock Mrs. Mary Rogers of the city and Mr. C. F. Craig of this county, were married at 320 Norton street in the presence of a number of friends. The ceremony was performed by Squire A. N. Tyler, just outside Mechanics burg.

The contracting parties are people well known and have gone to the Upper section of the county to take up their home.

Marry Out West.

Announcement is made that July 18th at Los Angeles, Cal., there will be married Miss Nellie Stokes of that city, and Mr. Thomas Stroud, this Paducah boilermaker who located several months ago in Fort Worth, Texas. The bride is the daughter of Mr. John Stokes, the carpenter who left here with his family some months ago for Los Angeles to reside. The daughter remained here until two weeks ago when she followed the family west. She was stenographer here for the Loeb and Bloom whisky house.

The contracting parties have many friends here who forward congratulations.

Former Paducahan Died.

Mr. William Read, the well known attaché of O. A. Tate's grocery at Fifth and Jefferson streets, yesterday morning received a message from Princeton, Ill., announcing the death there of his brother, Mr. Alexander Read. The telegram did not state what caused the dissolution, and the brother here did not even know of the other's sickness.

The remains are expected in the city this afternoon or tonight. The funeral services over the remains of Mr. Read will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, and be followed followed with interment in Oak Grove cemetery. It will be held from the residence of Mr. William Read at 629 North Fifth street.

Mr. Alexander Read was born in his city forty-five years ago and was a man well known to everybody, as his excellent standing was attested by his popularity. He was a harness maker, which avocation he followed all his life. He had been residing in Princeton only a few years, being connected with a large establishment there.

The deceased is survived by a wife and one daughter, also one sister, Mrs. Lum Fields, wife of the contractor here, and five brothers.

ANXIOUS ABOUT DEER

GUIDES IN ADIRONDACKS FEAR ANOTHER HARD WINTER.

State That Large Numbers of the Animals Were Killed by Severity of the Last Two Seasons.

Adirondack guides and the sportsmen who hunt in the north woods are hoping that the coming winter will not be so hard on the deer as the last two seasons have been, reports the New York Sun.

One of the guides in the Big Moose district said last summer that a third of all the deer in that part of the Adirondacks had died of exposure and starvation during the last two years. A Saranac guide who had been up in the northwest part of the region during the winter said half the deer there had died.

This was probably an exaggeration, though there is no doubt that the loss was great. Man after man will tell you of passing anywhere from two or three to seven or eight dead animals in a single day's crossing from one point to another.

It may seem strange to speak of deer dying from exposure, but that, added to their weakened condition due to lack of food, was actually what killed hundreds of them.

In the winter they feed on any green things which they can find under the snow, and also on the youngest shoots of the hemlock trees. If there is heavy snow which lies long on the ground they get along very well. The snow protects the foliage underneath it, and if it is deep, with a crust, the deer can feed on hemlock shoots which they could not possibly reach from the ground.

But if it is bitter cold, with little snow, there is no protection for low sprouts, and those which are not quickly eaten freeze to a worthless condition. Then the deer eat all the hemlock shoots within reach of the ground. After that they starve. At any rate, they become so weak that they cannot bear what comes next.

A year ago it was no uncommon thing for guides to see several deer together, each with a saddle of snow on its back. The snow cakes must have been there for some time, but the animals had reached so low an ebb of vitality that there was not enough warmth in their bodies to melt the snow.

There were heavy snowfalls during these trying seasons, but they were almost immediately followed by a violent thaw or pouring rain, which in its turn was followed by a sharp freeze.

All through the Adirondacks guides attempted to save the deer. They felled hemlocks so that the animals could browse on the branches which had been out of their reach. They even scattered grain where deer were in the habit of passing.

At Big Moose lake when deer were seen coming along the ice men would go out with a sack of grain and scatter it across the course the animals were taking, then get back out of the way.

In spite of these efforts the deer died by scores. A man came into Big Moose one day, having walked across from one of the logging camps, and said that he had passed one bunch of seven deer, and he doubted if any of them lived through the day. It was that way all through the mountains, so that it is small wonder that considerable anxiety is felt that the coming season should be a favorable one for the herds.

Electrical Wonders.

Aladdin's luminary and all the wonders of the fairy tales cannot compare with the modern magicians in every day twentieth century engineers, whose marvels, up to 1902, are detailed in a recent government census report. In the year the census was taken there were 3,620 central electric stations, representing $500,000,000; 80,000 officers and laborers, whose wages amounted to $20,000,000; 125,000 miles of wire had been laid; 419,000 arc lamps and 18,000,000 incandescent lamps were in service; the stations had an output of 3,300,000,000 horse power hours, with a daily output of nearly 13,000,000 horse power hours, which is approximately equivalent to the work possible were every man in the country to spend the day in turning a crank.

FRANKLIN WAS HONORED.

The Famous American Philosopher Was the Rage of the French Court.

Franklin became the fashion of the season. For the court itself dabbled a little in liberal ideas, wrote John Hay, in "Franklin in France" in Century. So powerful was the vast impulse of free thought that then influenced the mind of France—that susceptible French mind that always answers like the wind harp to the breath of every true human aspiration—that even the highest classes had caught the infection of liberalism. They handled the momentous words Liberty and Human Rights in their dainty way, as if they were only a new game for their amusement, not knowing what was to them the terrible import of those words. It became very much the accepted thing at court to rave about Franklin. The young and lovely queen, Marie Antoinette, was most winning and gracious toward him. The languid courtiers crammed natural science to talk with him. The small wits who knew a little Greek called him Solon and Aristides and Phocion.

It is sad to think of the utter unconsciousness of these amiable aristocrats. They never dreamed that this man Franklin was a potent and a prophet to them. He was incarnate democracy, and they petted him. They never imagined that in showering their good-natured homage upon this austere republican they were sowing the wind which would ripen in an awful harvest of whirlwinds. Later, when the whirlwinds had hardly got beyond the frisky stage of their development, the queen lamented bitterly the folly of these orations to the great democrat. There was one sagacious head that was wisely shaken over these indiscretions while they lasted. Joseph II., emperor of Austria, brother to the queen, who was in Paris on his travels, and who was as much of a democrat himself as an emperor can be, when his sister rebuked his coolness on the American question, replied: "Madam, the trade I live by is that of a royalist."

Court incense could not turn the philosophic head any more than the loud acclaim of the people. When Franklin found himself the honored guest of royalty, his thoughts reverted to those faraway days of his boyhood when his father used to quote to him in the old candle-shop at Boston, the words of the wise man, "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before kings." The old sage heard the echo of that paternal voice resounding over half a century, and a new and strange light as of prophecy flashed, illumined the immortal words. Surely no man ever lived more diligent in his business. Surely no man ever stood, with more of the innate dignity of upright manhood, before kings.

FEWER BROADWAY SWELLS.

New York Tailor Tells Why Good Clothes Are Not So Often Seen.

"There are fewer well dressed men in Broadway at the present time than I have known for several years," said an uptown tailor, reports the Sun. "At the same time there are more well dressed men in New York now than ever, because there are more men here than ever, but the good dressers are not on street parade.

"You find them at the clubs, at the places of amusement. The day of the Broadway dandy has passed, though if you doubt this take a stroll through Broadway on any afternoon when the weather mar has made good on his forecast for fair weather.

"At the time when Broadway had the reputation of showing off more well dressed men than any other city in this country there was more leisure in New York. The New Yorker of today is too much engrossed with his business to idle in front of the hotels or on the corners.

"When he is at business he appears in business attire. When he quits business he disappears from the street and comes out in proper attire elsewhere later in the day.

"Another reason why you notice fewer of the well dressed now than formerly is that the turnout in the street is more mixed. We have men from all parts of the country. They are variously arrayed. Every style is seen, and in the crush the well dressed man is not as conspicuous as he used to be.

"At the time when Broadway had the reputation of showing off so many of the properly attired the good dressers had it all their own way. In that day one could get the styles by watching the procession."

No Danger.

"Now, Mr. Newcome," the vestryman, who was decidedly low church, said to the new rector, "there's one thing we demand of our rector; there must be no surplice here."

"Surplice?" interrupted the Rev. Mr. Newcome, "there's no danger of that on the salary you pay."—Philadelphia Press.

FALL OF A VETERAN.

BY G. H. NORTHROP.

He was known as "Thoughtful Tomkins" among his acquaintances; his intimates called him "T. T." Thus does friendship assist to longevity. And because the sobriquet were not inappropriate, he felt embarrassed out of place at the suburban ball, where he first met her. She seemed most bewilderingly beautiful to the tall, shy youth, as he leaned against a pillar, his moist hands clasped behind him. That night Cupid was in form; no second shaft was needed.

After weeks of fruitless searching he met her again. With a patience worthy of the best of causes he had tried to find her unaided. But he only knew her as the most beautiful girl in London; so his quest was a trifle difficult. At length, with many blushes, he turned to the friend who had first introduced them and promptly secured a clew.

"Oh, she's in a tea shop somewhere in the city!" Then he began a course of teas and lunches extending over a wide area. Faint, yet pursuing, he sat down on a spring evening at one of the familiar species of marble-topped tables, and from behind him there approached the white-capped vestal who served that particular altar.

"Good evening, Mr. Tomkins! What may I get you?"

Yes, it was she; and he could only gasp and stammer.

"Oh, Miss Bell! How delighted I am to see you again! I've been wondering if I ever should. In fact, I've been looking for you everywhere!"

"Have you, really? How nice!"

"Yes, that's just how I feel! Good heavens, I think you look better in black than anything!"

"Don't be silly! Shall I get you some tea?"

"Tea? Oh, yes! I hadn't thought of that. Of course, tea and toast."

That began an evolution in intimacy that was both swift and interesting to the onlookers, and of deep importance to at least one of those concerned. Every evening he came and each time stayed longer. But always and only to tea.

"Why don't you come to lunch?" she asked him one day.

"Oh, I can't very well!"

"But it isn't far from your office?"

"Oh, no; quite near! About five minutes' walk."

"I suppose you like somewhere else better. Tiger's is only good enough for tea, is it?"

"Really, no! It's not that at all!"

"I suppose you do have lunch?"

"Oh, regularly!"

"Well, come here. We have very nice joints and things, and this table isn't always full. That is, of course, if you care for me to wait upon you!"

Poor Tomkins! That look and a piece of muffin nearly finished him. He had to clasp her hand before he could reply.

"Winnie, you know it's not that."

"Well, why don't you come?"

And her smile defied him to give a sensible reason.

"Look here," he answered, "you come off early to-morrow night, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Meet me at the corner of Chancery lane and let us go for a walk together?"

"Do, Winnie," he continued in a whisper, "then I'll tell you why I don't come to lunch."

She had never been to Hampstead Heath before, and it had been specially arranged for her to get a good impression of it that evening. Who would dream she was a waitress, thought Tomkins as he stepped proudly along at her side, trembling every time their elbows touched? She seemed to his imagination a goddess in modern garb, escaped from the fragrant world that loomed before them in the spring twilight.

"I promised to tell you—"

"Yes?"

"To tell you—about—why, I mean, I don't come to lunch!"

"Don't if you had rather not, you know. It doesn't matter in the least."

"But I want to. Shall we sit down?"

The kindly shadows veiled their resting place and only the spring breeze heard.

"I've always been a queer fellow, I believe," he began, "serious and shy; what some chaps call 'goody-goody.' I'm not really, you know. I'm very fond of sport and do a lot of cycling."

"I love cycling!" she interpolated.

"I'm what they call a fellow with notions. I suppose it's because I read a good deal. And I believe we don't feed properly."

"What do you mean?"

"That is—I mean—we ought to eat more fruit and nuts and that sort of thing. In fact, I'm a vegetarian, and—"

But her silvery laugh cut short his explanation.

"Oh, Jack, you silly boy! Is that all? What rubbish! But I am glad! I was afraid—"

"What? What were you afraid of, Winnie?"

"I was afraid—it was some one else."

"Oh, Winnie! Some one else? Never!"

His arm stole round her waist and drew her toward him. Their hands were tightly clasped. And—yes, her lips were perfect.

Next day she triumphantly placed before him a full man's portion of "roast beef and Yorkshire." The cherished theory was exploded. Adam had succumbed.—London Opinion.

SCHEME THAT FAILED

A LITTLE ADVENTURE IN A HOTEL.

"As prosperous as you see me now, two weeks ago I was on the hog," remarked Ferguson, as he paid the man in the white duck jacket and settled his scintillating scarpin more securely in his grass-green necktie. "I had drifted into Sioux City with $2.83 cents in loose change in my pocket and a blameless reputation, as far as Sioux City was concerned. I calculated that before I got out of there the reputation would get spotted up some, because I was hunting Guff Nilson, who had agreed to meet me at the Boogie.

"I made a few cautious inquiries in a roundabout way concerning friend Guff and I was finally directed to a fine sandstone building, where I was informed he was staying. I didn't call on him. What was the use? I knew he wouldn't be at liberty to do me any good—not for $2 days, anyway.

"I had a good-looking valise with me that I found at Missouri Valley, when we changed cars. It was a disappointment inside, as it contained nothing but four soiled collars, a briar pipe, two hairbrushes, a razor and a hairbrush, but it was a dandy externally, and I thumped it down on the marble in front of the hotel clerk with all the confidence in the world.

"I'll be here for a few days," I said, "and I want a good, light room with a bath."

"It went. He did ask me if I had any baggage checks, but I took no notice of him. As soon as I got to the room I threw the boy half a dollar and then went down and bought a 25-cent cigar at the cigar stand so that the clerk could see me.

"I went to bed at a tolerably early hour that night. I didn't want to do any cheap grafting if I could help it and I had to study up some plan of campaign. I finally concluded that I would do what I could with the hotel and hike right out on the early morning train. So about two o'clock I went softly out in my stocking feet with my handy little pocket assortment of tools and stole into the room next to mine.

"That was all I stole. There came hair-raising yelps from the bed by the time I had got to the bureau. If you ever saw a swift and smooth get-away in your life it was the one I made. I went like a tom-cat out of the pantry window, and I was in my own room safe and sound before the echo of that cry died away on the startled air and I got into bed in a hurry.

Just at that instant as I heard the sound of hurrying feet a bright idea came to me. I grabbed my trousers, took out the $1.83 I had left and slung 'em out of the open window. Then I poked my head out of the door and joined the chorus of alarm up and down the corridor.

"What was it?" I asked the clerk, whom I recognized in his disguise of pyjamas and bathrobe. "Is it burglars? I'll bet it is, because if there wasn't one in my room ten minutes ago I'm badly fooled. I was three paris asleep when I woke up and I thought I might be mistaken, and dozed off again, but I can't find my trousers."

"Somebody else called him then and he excused himself and hurried off. I went back and turned on the electric light and got into bed. In about ten minutes there was a knock at the door and the clerk came in with a stout individual he introduced as the proprietor. They asked me to tell them what I knew about the recent disturbance, and I narrated how, hearing a slight noise, I woke up and thought I saw a dark figure fit across the room and out of the door, but hearing nothing more I imagined I had the nightmare and snoozed off again till the yells in the next room lifted me out of bed in quest of my basement clothing, now missing.

"Mr. Proprietor was very sorry. No doubt there had been robbery, but the robber had escaped. The lady in the next room had given the alarm just in time to save herself from the loss of jewels valued at $2,000. Think of that! But he would see me in the morning.

"I expect you to," I said, significantly. "I value those trousers of mine at $300. There was that much currency in them. I think it's up to you to make good."

"He went sadly away and I turned over on my pillow with a mind at ease. Of course, I knew he'd never dig up any three centuries on my say-so, but it was a cinch in my mind that I was fixed for a ticket to Chicago, reasonable expenses and new trousers. Under the circumstances that was good enough for me.

"Did I get 'em? Nit, not. He came up according to agreement, but he brought something with him. It was my trousers. They'd caught on the rail of the fire escape on the floor below and instead of being grabbed by some passer-by or falling into an alley ash can, they had been waving there gracefully in the morning breeze, attracting the undivided attention of close on a thousand people in a bunch.

"Strange!" I said. "He must have taken the money and thrown the trousers away."

"Very strange!" says he. "Very strange, indeed!" He looked at me with a cold gray eye, coughed behind his hand and went out.

"There was something foreboding in his manner. I got instantly into those trousers and I guess I hit the office floor by way of the staircase and was out on the street before he could drop down on the elevator. I left the valise. I didn't have any use for it in the box car that I managed to sneak away into, anyway.

"I got to Omaha, all right, though somewhat the worse for wear, and there I found kind friends. But somehow I've got a hunch that I only missed visiting Guff Nilson by a half a hair's breadth, after all."—Chicago Daily News.

COMPLEXION AND TRAVEL.

How One's Beauty and Temper Can Be Maintained in Spite of the Dust and Dirt.

Even more important than a knowledge of how to appear well groomed and at home is the understanding of how to make the best of oneself when traveling. It is at such a time as this that even more care than usual is necessary, for what with dust and grime and perspiration the average woman soon loses all claims to beauty. Lack of proper sleep is also often added to the already long list of discomforts, and so, unless my lady is really very clever, she is apt to discover that she resembles nothing even approaching good looks when she alights from the train to greet her loving though critical friends.

Much of the mortification attendant upon such a condition could be avoided by the expenditure of just a little extra effort. For instance, a small case should be included in the list of necessities, and this should contain six or eight wide-mouthed bottles in which the creams, powder and lotions may be carried. If the journey is to be a long one, the lotions may be carried in a concentrated form and used by adding an extra amount of water on the train.

Of course it goes without saying that the wise woman of to-day is sufficiently informed to avoid the use of soap and water entirely for the purpose of cleansing her face at such times. True, grime and tiny bits of coal and cinders will fly about and imbed themselves in the skin in the most deliberate and tantalizing fashion, and naturally the first impulse of the afflicted one is to vanish in the direction of the lavatory for the purpose of removing these disfiguring additions. Unfortunately, however, the use of so much scrubbing and rubbing only serves to irritate the skin, makes the face tender and thus renders it impossible to keep the complexion in anything like a pleasing condition.

The use of the lettuce cream for cleansing has been so often described that it will not be necessary to repeat the description, but there are other methods with which the readers are not so familiar, and one of these is the use of pure almond meal mixed with a simple solution, the formula for which has often appeared before. This remedy is made by adding to six ounces of rose water the juice of one lemon, one dram of borax, and one-half dram of glycerin. A few drops of tincture of benzoin may also be added if desired.

It is employed by mixing it with the almond meal into a thin paste, and then spreading it carefully over the face and neck and allowing it to remain for a few moments. This can easily be arranged even when traveling by first of all cleansing the face with the lettuce cream and then applying the paste, and allowing it to remain while the greater part of the toilet is being completed. This paste may then be washed off carefully, a good powder dusted on, and the skin will look as refreshed and improved as though a good masseuse had been expending efforts upon it.

For those who have not the patience to experiment with the paste and who persist in frequent ablutions, the almond meal itself, sprinkled in the water, will be found to be excellent in place of soap.

AN ANCIENT INDIAN JAR.

Rare Specimen of Crockery Recently Discovered in the State of New York.

R. Horracks, of Fonda, N. Y., while stalking deer during the last hunting season at the Little Falls of the upper waters of the Sacondaga, near Lake Piseco, caught in a heavy downpour of rain, was obliged to seek shelter from the storm under the ledges of the Little Falls. While sitting there his attention was attracted to what seemed to be a round, brown boulder partly covered with moss. Carelessly striking it it gave forth a hollow sound. His curiosity being excited, he dug away the earth with his hunting knife and soon laid bare a symmetrically formed earthen jar.

The jar stands ten inches high. At its largest circumference it measures 30 inches, and at its smallest 20 inches. The circumference of the top or mouth of the jar is 24 inches.

The vessel on the inside bears signs of use, but the outside shows no trace of fire, as is usual in Indian jars. The bottom is rounded. The ornamentation around the top is of the usual style of the Mohawk pottery—that is, a series of straight and diagonal lines. The jar still bears the moss that had gathered on the rounded bottom that was exposed above the earth.

The jar is a well preserved specimen of Mohawk pottery, and is rare on account of the shape of the top, which is cut in three curves, forming three points, which give it a triangular appearance.

It is a singular fact that the three largest specimens of Indian pottery now in the valley were found in the lake region of the foothills of the Adirondacks—the Richmond jar, the Hanson jar and the Horracks jar.

The Horracks jar is in the possession of W. Max Reid for the present and is an interesting study. It is not as large as the Hanson jar, but to those interested in the life and affairs of the "original Americans" is of equal value.

OLD-TIME RUSSIAN REPUBLIC

Genuine Republicanism Obtained with Everyone on Equal Footing.

It is not generally known that the revolutionists, bent on making Russia a republic, are grounding their belief that the Muscovites will accept this form of government on the fact that at one time there were a number of republics in the present absolute empire. Chief among them, says the Courier-Journal, was the republic of Novgorod, embracing the immense territory from the White sea and Dvina to the Volga and the Sea of Peipus. Other republics were the states of Pskoff, Vjatka and others. They lost their independence at the end of the fifteenth century to the grand duke of Moscow.

In these Russian republics of old real republicanism obtained, according to the propaganda literature of the revolutionists, now scattered broadcast over Russia. The poorest citizen had as much voice in the government as the richest; absolute majority at the polls decided all questions of interior and foreign affairs. When an official was accused of wrongdoing all the citizens sat in judgment on him and decided by their votes whether he should be retained or should lose his official head. The minority had to submit to the majority in all things, and the president or prince, as he was called, elected for several years, held office only with the proviso that he could be dismissed at a moment's notice if he misbehaved. Even the church authorities and the priests were elected by popular vote, and all had to submit to dictation from the polls.

WORRY OF LEARNED MEN.

The Electern Hypothesis a Source of Much Concern to Electricians.

It apparently matters much to the professors what matter is. Prof Wind, of the University of Utrecht, expounds the electern theory, which may mean revolutions. It is pointed out that if by progress of experiment and theory the electern hypothesis in its ultimate form should continue to gain ground, if it finally should prove unavoidable to accept the view that matter consists entirely of electrons, mass and momentum would cease to be what they now are in our ideas, quantities strictly invariable. The prediction and confidence with which science has for centuries aimed at a description of the physical universe in terms only of matter and motion were based chiefly, though half unconsciously, on the idea of mass and momentum being invariable, images or pictures of invariable elements of reality itself. This idea, says the Chicago Tribune, fundamental to our whole mechanical conception of nature, would shrink into an illusion in the light of the new theory. A great advantage would be that whereas it now seems almost hopeless to involve electro-magnetic phenomena in a description in terms only of matter and motion, the unity desired in our picture of the physical world would then be secured by putting it in terms of electerns and motion.

must be killed, as he had caused the killing of Hargis' brother, Ben Hargis, by Thomas Cockrill, brother-in-law of Cox. Cox took an active part in Cockrill's defense, and Hargis said he feared Cox would destroy all the Hargises. Judge James Hargis, Spicer says, offered Spicer, Abner and Smith $100 each if they would kill Cox. They accepted, and hid in a shed at Hargis' home, where Elbert Hargis and Jesse Spicer met them and gave them each a double-barreled shotgun.

Spicer says he went to sleep, the crack of a gun awakening him, he says. John Smith was in a crouching position firing, while Abner shot while standing. Cox fell, crying, "Lord, have mercy on me." Spicer says he did not fire. Elbert Hargis and Jesse Spicer fired just before the shooting. After Cox was dead the assassins went home.

Spicer was not shaken by cross-examination.

sumption. Her condition has been precarious for some months and dissolution was not unexpected.

Mrs. Willis was born in Livingston county thirty years ago and has been residing in Bedford only a few years. She was a noble, Christian lady, whose fortitude bore her up admirably during her declining days. She is pleasantly remembered here by her many friends who deply grieve over her dissolution.

She is survived by her husband, two children, one sister, Mrs. J. W. London of Maryland, Ala., and two brothers, Mr. Cade Stewart, the livermen of Charleston, Mo., and Dr. Stewart of this city. The latter is prevented from attending the funeral ceremonies at Bedford, as they occur tomorrow.

of that institution. Another attractive feature for the afternoon were the talks by Misses Glenn, Waters and Barnes to the young people upon the work conducted in Brazil, China and other foreign lands.

"The Evangelization of the World in This Generation" was the interesting subject for an address last evening by Miss A. M. Barnes, who is editor of "The Little Worker," and whose remarks were listened to by quite a number of young folks, in addition to the many older ones present.

Rev. A. M. Hughlett and Dr. A. B. Jones left last night for Memphis, Tenn., after attending the conference, the former having come here from his home in Jackson, Tenn., to deliver the opening sermon, while Dr. Jones is principal of the M. C. I., at Jackson.

The committees selected are as follows:

Publication committee, Mrs. W. L. Duckworth, chairman; finance committee, Mrs. J. C. Ottinger, chairman; district secretary's journal committee, Mrs. J. M. Anderson, chairman; Young People's work, Mrs. H. F. Crawford, chairman; resolutions committee, Mrs. George Gibbs; Dora Rankin memorial, Mrs. S. C. Dobbins, chairman.

Tent Revival.

The Searching Question" was spoken on last evening at the South Fifth street tent meeting by Rev. Davenport, while at the morning hour worship his theme was "The Lork Questioning Peter." Three additions were made to the church last evening, four conversions effected, and many requests for prayer made.

Rev. Fields has decided on 4 o'clock next Sunday afternoon at the time for baptizing the converts by immersion at the foot of Ohio street in the Tennessee river.

Last night the meeting lasted until nearly 11 o'clock, the congregation refusing to leave, and the singing and preaching continued until a late hour. The enthusiasm and interest is great, the huge tent being unable to accommodate all those desiring to attend last evening.

Dr. William T. Graves Re-elected Health Officer For the City

During the meeting of the city board of health last evening Dr. William T. Graves was again reelected health officer for the municipality, getting all the votes of those present with exception of one. Dr. Graves has served most creditably and loyally in this capacity for a number of years, and made an excellent official. Dr. C. H. Brothers, the president of the board of health, got one vote for the position, while Dr. H. P. Sights, another member, announced that he had withdrawn from the race.

There were present at the session the following members: Drs. H. P. Sights, C. H. Brothers, J. G. Brooks, Mr. Abe Anspacher, the banker, and Mr. James Sleeth the druggist. This left Mr. McGee the only absentee. During the evening the board ordered closed with Ghent and Elliott the contract whereby the two latter will watch after the dump moored in the river below the Illinois Central indine.

When a wagon goes over the city and gets refuse, offal and other garbage, the vehicle drives down and onto this dump so the garbage can be pitched in the river from the wagon. Their proximity to the city dump placing them in good position to look after the later, they were given the contract, subject to ratification by the council and aldermen yesterday on business.

As regards establishing a "garbage system" the board decided to recommend to the council that authority be given to call for bids to furnish wagons to go over the city every day and gather up garbage and other refuse that will be thrown into cans stationed on the rear premises, such accumulations to be carried to the city dump. The health authorities believe they can in this manner accomplish greater good towards keeping the city in clean and healthy condition than it is now. The object is to keep the vehicles going constantly every day.

The board decided that the promiscuous growth of weeds on vacant lots around the city hall be done away with, the ground owners being compelled to cut them down and carted away, when any stench emanates from the weeds. When a vacant lot is run across with ill-smelling weeds, the sanitary inspectors will notify the proprietor to clean it up, just like the notices given other people to clean up their rear premises, and then if this is not complied with, warrants will be taken out and prosecution effected.

Giant Sawlog Sawn by Paducah Firm Turns Out 2,860 Feet of Lumber

The Langstaff-Orm mill on South Second street yesterday sawed up the largest log ever seen in this section of the country, and possibly the biggest ever handled by any lumber concern the world over, except possibly, the redwoods of California. The mammoth log weighed about 40,000 pounds, was forty feet in length, 37 inches in diameter, and the mill people got 2,860 feet of lumber out of it, log measurement. When it is sawed up into planks there will be about 3,600 feet in it.

The log is of white oak and laid in the bottom of the Cumberland river above here for something like twenty-five years. White oak in good condition will not float, so recently when the log was raised lighter timber that would float had to be put alongside it, the other logs holding up the mammoth log. Mr. Langstaff has had it moored at the bank near the mill for several months, and only yesterday got it up into the saw mill where it was cut.

Mr. Langstaff's firm not only holds the record in this regard, but has the horns for sawing up the largest number of feet in one day, this being accomplished a number of years ago, and never exceeded since.

CARMEN'S CONFERENCE.

Mr. Quincy Wallace Says They Go Wages of Poorest Paid Men Raised.

Mr. Quincy Wallace has returned from Chicago where he went as the delegate for the Paducah I. C. railway carmen to attend the conference held by delegates from every division, with the management of the road, to settle the scale of wages and agreements for the ensuing year, commencing now. Mr. Wallace said the officials agreed to raise the wages of the carmen making the lowest salaries, but the general increase for all was not made. The raises given the men receiving the lowest totals about $23,000 per annum for the 600 carmen employed on the system.

SALOON SOLD.

Mr. Joe Gourieux Bought Buffet of Sherman Phillips Yesterday.

Mr. Joseph Gourieux yesterday closed a deal for the saloon of Mr. Sherman Phillips of North Fourth street near Broadway, and is now at the place, but does not take full charge until the first of July. Mr. Phillips will remain with him until then to assist handling the trade, after which time the old proprietor takes a rest before deciding upon his future.

Mr. Phillips has owned the place for four years.

Total Promotions.

Prof. Sugg was so busy yesterday he did not have time to turn in his report showing the total number of promotions at the Franklin building for the term just ended, but will do so today. The superintendent then condenses it with similar documents from each school house, and arrives at the total promotions for the entire educational system of Paducah.

In Good Condition.
The public schools have been out one week today, and Superintendent of Buildings Fred Hoyer is getting down to work and making whatever repairs and improvements are needed around each school house, in order to have them in first class condition when the schools resume the middle of next September. Capt. Hoyer takes a great pride in the school buildings, which have been kept in better condition under his supervision than ever, before in history of the community. There is always enough on hand to keep him constantly engaged during the warm period.
