Dairy Month Royalty To Be Selected Saturday

"June Dairy Month" will be celebrated in a big way in western Kentucky this year beginning with a Dairy Princess contest this weekend in Mayfield in order to have the Princess named in time to reign over all of the June events.

The princess competition is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Saturday May 25 at Mayfield at the Longfellow school on South Tenth Street. Rules governing who may enter this contest may be obtained from the County Agent or the Home Demonstration agent of any county.

June Dairy program will be Marion Champion, Rayford Duke and Elmer Hixson. The state dairy princess, Miss Jane Harrison of Graves County, will be in Fulton County on June 4 to visit civic clubs and help in the observance of June Dairy Month in the county. A Purchase parade on June 5 will reach Fulton about 12:15 noon.

HOW TO GET HER BACK
Flem: My wife has been at her mother's three weeks now and keeps prolonging her visit. I need her at home, but she pays no attention when I suggest that she return.
Flem: Get one of the neighbors to suggest she'd better do it, my boy.

County Veterans Received $562,124 In Bonus Checks

With operations ready to close on the three-year-old Kentucky Veterans Bonus, State Adjutant Gen. Arthur Y. Lloyd, administrator of the bonus program, reported that approximately 38,850 applicants from the 20-county First Congressional District of Western Kentucky have received an estimated $12,263,499 in bonus payments.

A total of 1780 veterans in Fulton County received $562,124.00 payment of a bonus for military service. In Graves County the payments totalled more than a million dollars and in Hickman County the payments amounted to $205,270.00. The bonus payments are financed by a sales tax voted upon in the 1959 election.

Lloyd predicted the demise of the Bonus Division by the end of June and said that for the state as a whole, $126,378,644 had been paid to 400,180 veterans and their beneficiaries through May 10.

Bonus statistics are not set up on a county-by-county basis, Lloyd pointed out. However, an estimated number of claims per county has been determined using statewide surveys, and information from Selective Service and the Veterans Administration.

Before the Bonus operation can be closed out, Lloyd said the Board of Review must meet again to process a handful of appeals still pending on denied bonus applications. A total of 17,915 applications were originally denied, mainly because the applicants failed to submit proof of six months residence in Kentucky prior to entry into service, or their service was not during the prescribed wartime dates listed in the bonus law.

Of this number, 5,035 appealed. The Board denied 3,719 appeals and approved for payment the claims of 1,314 veterans or their beneficiaries.

All county Dairy Princesses will be on WPSD T. V. at Paducah, Saturday, June 8th, at 7:30 a. m. Fulton County Homemakers clubs are planning window exhibits in Fulton and Hickman.

Kids Days will be held in late June with ice cream eating and milk drinking contest, sponsored by the American Dairy Association. Charlie Thomas will be in charge of the Fulton area while Marion Champion will be in charge of the Cayce and Hickman areas. Jim Vaden will assist in this program.

On June 19th the American Dairy Princess will be in Paducah for a press meeting.

James Butts Headed For Top Spot Among Jaycees

James Butts is headed for the top rung of the ladder in the official family of the Kentucky Junior Chamber of Commerce. James was elected external vice-president at the state convention of the group last week and as such will be the state highest officer in the state organization. He will be a member of the executive committee and will participate in all phases of Jaycee activities throughout Kentucky.

For the past year he has served as state treasurer. He is a charter member of the Fulton chapter and has held the offices of president, vice president, secretary and director. He also served as director

There are also 76 claims which cannot be certified because the State cannot obtain necessary information from the applicants. And there are 66 bonus checks which were mailed but returned because applicants had moved and left no forwarding address.

Let's take a look at the county situation. TURNEY DAVIE, Chandler's county campaign manager, will undoubtedly take over his old job as Alcoholic Beverage Field Agent. He will replace Carmi

Well, let's take a little politics this week. Next week this miserable primary will be over and, since we're in what is called the Gibraltar of Democracy, there'll be the usual talk about "getting together."
(See editorial)

I keep laughing to myself a little bit about how the "outs" will "explain" State employment, if by chance Chandler should win and the "ins" will be the "outs" and the "outs" will be the "ins." Some of the Chandler supporters are already making plans to "take over" many of the State jobs available in this county. The Chandler folks are being right nice about the prospect of taking over the jobs, except for one thing... none of them has indicated they will work FOR FREE.

Let's take a look at the county situation. TURNEY DAVIE, Chandler's county campaign manager, will undoubtedly take over his old job as Alcoholic Beverage Field Agent. He will replace Carmi

Chandler Can't Make Tax Exemptions Unless Legislature Approves, Ruling Says

Atty. Gen. John Breckinridge said Tuesday that no governor can make exemptions to the 3 per cent sales tax law. "Nowhere in the sales and use tax law is there to be found an intent on the part of the legislature to surrender to the governor the authority to create exemptions to that law," he said.

The opinion went to J. J. Broderick of Louisville. It was an obvious rebuttal to former Gov. A. B. Chandler, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination who has promised if elected to exempt food, clothing and medicine from the 1960 tax act.

Breckinridge, a candidate for lieutenant governor in the Democratic primary who said he is running independently, has been warmly regarded publicly by Gov. Bert Combs and gubernatorial aspirant Edward T. Breathitt Jr., Chandler's political enemies.

Broderick asked the attorney general if a governor by executive order may make sales tax exemptions with legislative approval. Chandler has said in campaign speeches he would order the exemptions the day he is inaugurated.

Breckinridge said neither the Kentucky Constitution nor the statutes give the revenue Department or the governor power to change the sales tax law.

Chandler, at Lexington, said the legality of the exemptions he proposes "would be far more defensible than many of the exemptions already made by the Combs administration."

Revenue Commissioner James Marcum, disputing a campaign statement, said Tuesday there have been only 12 exemptions to the state's 3 per cent sales and use tax.

Former Gov. A. B. Chandler, he said, has "charged that this administration has made over 100 exemptions to the sales tax. This is not true. Only the general assembly can make an exemption to the tax."

Marcum said the department has filed 91 regulations relating to the tax, but that they are in no sense exemptions. He said they were rulings essential to the administration of the tax.

For example, he said, one regulation establishes a bracket system for paying the tax on sales less than a dollar. Others set up ground rules for administration, he said.

All of the exemptions were made by the general assembly and are contained in the statute, Marcum said.

Changes In Old Age Assistance Gives Wider Benefits In Earnings, Homes, Etc.

Three changes in the old-age assistance program were made Monday in an effort to relieve hardship cases among many needy Kentuckians.

The changes, effective immediately, are:
1. Old-age benefits will be paid to needy parents even if their children refuse to contribute to their support, as required by law.
2. Recipients of old-age benefits may earn up to $30 a month without losing any of their federal-state benefits.
3. Aged recipients no longer will be required to give up their homes to qualify for benefit payments.

Economic Security Commissioner Earle Powell said money contributed by children to the support of aged parents reduces the amount of assistance benefit to which the parents are entitled.

"If a son, say, flatly refused to contribute to his mother's support, she can go on the assistance rolls anyhow, despite the criminal penalties," Powell said.

Governor Bert Combs said that under the new policy an aged person's eligibility and amount of grant will be determined by the ability of his children to contribute to his support.

"This will relieve hardships on many needy persons whose children are not able to help support them because of their own family's expenses, such as excessive medical bills and the education of children," he said.

An amendment of Congress to the Federal Social Security Act in 1962 made it possible for old-age recipients to earn up to $30 a month without losing any benefits.

Powell stressed that only "earned" income is covered by the new rule. The first $10 of earned income is completely exempt, and half of the next $40 of earned income each month is exempted.

Two More Road Contracts Let In This Area

Contracts have been awarded to the Ken-Tenn Construction Company of Fulton by the Kentucky Highway Department for bituminous concrete surfacing on two roads in Fulton County. They are the Mt. Hermon Road, beginning at Ky. 166 and extending to Ky. 125, a distance of 1,000 miles and the Ed Mosley Road, beginning at Ky. 125 and extending to Rural Highway 1011, a distance of 1,200 miles.

These highway improvements are being financed through the state's Rural Secondary road program, which is operated with two cents from the gasoline tax.

Under the new policy, ownership of homes will not affect eligibility so long as the property is used solidly as a home and for no other purpose, Powell said.

"Experience has taught us," said Combs, "that the actual value of a home is its use as a place to live. A needy person could own a home and still have no means of supplying the other necessities of life."

Powell estimated the liberalized changes will add some 1,200 aged persons to the rolls at a cost of some $900,000 annually.

Negro Youth Program Gets Underway Here

County Sharing Savings In Rural Road Program

Kentucky's 120 counties are sharing savings made by the Department of Highways in the administration of the state's Rural Secondary program.

The Rural Secondary account of Fulton County is being increased by $4,629.97, the amount apportioned to it by formula as a result of savings in the administration of the program.

Henry Ward, Commissioner of Highways, announced today that an additional $799,999.74 was being distributed among the counties according to the formula established by the 1962 legislature.

"Our objective," Ward said, "has been to put more dollars on the road rather than on the books."

"This amount," the Commissioner said, "represents savings in administration costs of this important program during the current year. It will allow the individual county Rural Secondary programs to be expanded to meet more of the needs on these smaller roads."

Earlier, a similar distribution was made among the counties from the Rural Highway program. For the past three years, both Rural Highways and Rural Secondary programs have been administered jointly, thus reducing the administrative costs of both programs. T. R. Marcum, Deputy Commissioner for Rural Highways, attributes a substantial portion of the savings being distributed to the success of this joint administration.

Jo's Notebook

SMITH, an avid Chandler campaigner, has told friends that he has been promised the position of Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety. The position pays about $11,000.00 a year and expenses and is not a bad political plum to pluck for campaigning for a candidate while on duty as a city employee. Duck didn't get the opportunity to deliver any Hickman County Gazettes to the Country Club last week, since, for some unknown reason, the second installment of the "overweight felines" story did not appear. This is approximately $55,000.00 for four years.

ELLIS BEGGS, another indefatigable Chandler campaigner, no doubt will replace the lady from another county as beauty and barber shop inspector. This job falls in the $7,500.00 class and ties in right with the barber's other financial interests, which does not seem reasonable for him to dispose of if he gets his old job back. He was also a barber during the last Chandler years, while he held the job.

I do not have in my possession the state payroll list for Fulton County during Chandler's last term, but I do know that some jobs in existence then have been abolished, such as the one formerly held by Bill Harrison. Bill, I think, was with the Department of Agriculture in a good paying job, but undoubtedly it was not so important to the agricultural economy of this county to continue

Ned Breathitt Deserves To Win To Rid Democratic Party Of Thomas Who Use It Only In Times of Need

Within a few short days, this bitter, hard fought gubernatorial campaign will be over. It is our hope that Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt will be the winning candidate for governor. If he is not, those of us who have supported this vigorous, capable and outstanding attorney must accept the mandate of the majority of the voters. It will become our duty to look to other years and other campaigns when a similar individual with an unblemished record and a reputation for personal integrity offers himself for service in the highest office of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Many of you have followed this campaign with an avid interest. We are sure that you have noticed that, in spite of the scurrilous, defamatory and libelous statements that have been spoken and written about his friends and associates, Ned Breathitt has kept his personal campaign on a high moral level. It has not been easy, we are sure, for this descendant of one of Kentucky's most illustrious political families to be called "a puppet candidate," "little boy blue," and "a not dry behind the ears," candidate. Ned has accepted this ridicule in the manner of a gentleman and a statesman.

He could not do otherwise; for Ned Breathitt is a gentleman of high moral character. At this crucial time, when Kentucky stands ready to continue moving toward progress, it is discouraging to think that maybe next Tuesday the voters may select a candidate whose regard for the truth is as low as the moral calibre of some of the close associates who surround him.

A. B. "Happy" Chandler has used in his campaign material the ridiculous boast that he will unite the Democratic party if he is elected. Chandler's current advisors could have searched the world over for a campaign slogan and never found a statement that is further removed from reality than the one they are using about Chandler uniting the party if he is elected.

For in the path of his campaign Chandler has created an almost irreparable breach among Democrats who ordinarily put aside the weapons of a spirited campaign to join ranks against the Republicans in the November elections.

It has been said that to err is human, to forgive divine. And that's all well and good. But forgetting is another thing. A person who has been castigated, maligned and defamed with a wanton disregard for fairness might possibly forgive the offender in a Christian spirit. But to forget the accusations, particularly if they were maliciously conceived, is rather difficult to do.

People do not easily forget the hurt and embarrassment that befalls their families when an avaricious candidate manufactures dishonest charges, moral indiscretions and fiscal irresponsibilities.

A lot of people are going to have to forget a lot of Happy Chandler's deeds and words to believe that he sincerely wants the Democratic Party reunited. Included among these would be Earle Clements. He must recall that Happy, when the National Democratic Committee gave Clements the job in Washington after he was defeated by Morton for the Senate, said if Clements got the job no funds would be forthcoming from the Democratic Party in Kentucky.

And Happy did withhold those funds. At the Democratic National convention in Los Angeles in 1960 State delegations were assigned hotel accommodations according to their contributions to the national party. We can say authoritatively that Kentucky, was not honored with "hotels of distinction." Of course Happy Chandler languished in a magnificent suite elsewhere in the city, but those Democrats who were united in the party "enjoyed" hole-to-hole carpeting.

Although Wilson W. Wyatt is engaging in a "season of silence" during this campaign, he is not likely to forget that it was Chandler who conferred often with Thruston Morton during Mr. Wyatt's campaign against the incumbent Republican Senator last November. Chandler and Morton undoubtedly were not discussing the time of day while Mr. Wyatt worked his heart out trying to capture a Senatorial seat for the Democrats.

Democrats will have to forget, too, that four years ago when Combs won the nomination for Governor, Happy reneged on the party. Reporters quoted him as saying that the election of Robson might be the salvation of Kentucky.

More than anyone else in Kentucky, Happy Chandler is to be blamed for the disunity within the Democratic Party. No one in Kentucky at the moment is so ill-equipped to get these factions together again and probably no one wants this done less than Happy Chandler.

Where Does This Leave Harry Lee

MACK WALTERS may be elected governor four years from now.

This idea was suggested recently at a political dinner in Shelbyville by Mrs. J. Murray Blue. Mrs. Blue is Democratic National Committee member from Kentucky and a leader in the Chandler campaign. Walters is Chandler's campaign chairman and slated to be Highway Commissioner if Chandler wins.

If Walters is to be elected governor four years from now, where does that leave Waterfield?

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, there was a lull in fighting in Kentucky. Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan's Third Confederate Cavalry Division held the territory south of the Cumberland River in Wayne, Clinton and Cumberland counties, guarding the Confederate Army of the Tennessee against a surprise attack from Kentucky. The Union Army forces in Eastern Kentucky remained on the north side of the Cumberland.

Morgan's division was divided into two brigades. Headquarters of the first brigade was at Albany, county seat of Clinton, and that of the second brigade at Monticello county seat of Wayne. The Rebel troopers picketed the south bank of the river undisturbed, enjoying a breathing spell which was to last nearly three weeks.

"In that time," Basil Duke says in his History of Morgan's Cavalry, "the ranks filled up again, nearly all absentees, with or without leave, returning. The horses were grazed on the rich grass and carefully attended to, and got in excellent condition." Furthermore, "new and excellent clothing" was issued to the men while they were on the Cumberland, and Duke says that was "a thing unprecedented in the history of the command." All the men were well armed, and their general equipment was much superior to what it had been.

The Confederates crossed to the north side of the river several times on scouting expeditions, never more than two companies strong, and returned with prisoners, horses and captured property of various kinds. "These expeditions," Duke says, "were not only of essential use in annoying the enemy, but were absolutely necessary to the maintenance of a proper spirit and energy among our men, whose morale and discipline were, invariably, sensibly impaired by an indolent and monotonous life."

In contrast to the fortunate state of affairs on the Cumberland was the unhappy lot of one of Morgan's regiments which he had been forced to leave behind in Tennessee to stand guard over the country around Woodbury. That was the Ninth Kentucky Cavalry, commanded by Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge of Lexington, described as "one of the best regiments in the cavalry of the West."

For many miles around the little town of Woodbury, the country had been stripped of provisions for men and forage for horses. The men of the Ninth Kentucky suffered a shortage of rations, but Duke says they were more concerned about their horses than about their own hunger. Oats and hay could not be obtained at all, and corn had to be hauled more than thirty miles. No more than two or three ears of corn a day could be given each horse, and some days there was no corn.

GOD Is A Good God

By Willis Hicks

Someone once said that you would not notice the splinters on the ladder of success unless you are sliding down. That being a very logical deduction, we then assume that millions of Americans only last week felt the sting of a very emotional splinter. America's prestige received another stunning jolt as racial differences flared out of control in Birmingham, Alabama. This emotional splinter has now grown to the size of bayonets, and still America slides downward.

Can't you imagine the jubilant grin on Castro's bearded face and Khrushchev's nod of approval on a job well done? Aren't the American people doing a most perfect job of making Khrushchev's predictions come to pass? Khrushchev says that our children will grow up under communism! If our American people continue to fight and squabble among themselves, then, no doubt, our children (the ones that don't kill each other) will probably want to join a nation that does not fight against itself.

What a disgusting thought it is to think of raising children in a country where in a period of only a few short hours federal troops may be marching by, poised for combat. And the soldier - will he die in his own home town, trying to protect his country against his own people? It is very possible that brother will be pitted against brother if this sort of thing does not cease. We realize that our government is doing what it "deems" best in this situation, but it is definitely not enough. Federal troops are a necessity in some instances, but that does not quell this parasitical disease. It only moves to another city, endangers other people, costs the American taxpayers millions of dollars, and leaves its grim mark of evil deeply embedded in the minds of our American people. It would seem that the solution could be found if each outbreak of violence was thoroughly investigated and leaders of both sides questioned and their reasons exposed in newspapers for the world to see. I believe that to kill Bermuda grass, the best way is to dig it up, roots and all, and remove it from the earth. Should the authorities remove the roots of these racial disputes, then perhaps the American people could once again concentrate on how to "Love thy neighbor." America has long been called "The Land of the Free!"

Yet, from somewhere the parasite of hate has crept and has pounced upon the American people - a people unsuspecting, a people adapted to a way of peace. Citizens become bewildered, excited, then angry. Frustration becomes a machine of hatred and violence is inevitable. The American citizens, as a majority, are not accustomed to seeing combat troops march by their homes.

An armored car or tank on the town square represents anything but peace. The smell of tear gas or the sound of crunching bones is not the American way of life. How long before the American people, both white and colored, understand that God has only one earth and one heaven? People are like flowers in God's bouquet. Those that do not blossom in peace and love will certainly not pollute God's heaven. Remember the old saying, "You go to your church and I'll go to mine, but lets walk along together?" How about it, neighbor? Let's put our differences aside and try to hold together this shaky country of ours. In unity there is strength, in God there is hope. It is good to know that among the hatred and violence that threatens to engulf America today, there are still those that believe "God is a Good God."

Miss Katherine Rice Becomes Bride Of Mr. Currey In Lovely Ceremony

The Liberty Baptist Church was the setting Saturday, April 27, at 2 in the afternoon for the wedding of Miss Katherine Lucille Rice and Robert Evans Currey, both of Union City. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Bacon Rice, of Middle Road, and Mr. Currey's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Sidney Currey, of 203 South Ury Street in Union City.

The Rev. Donald C. Hancock, minister of the church, officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. The vows were exchanged before an arrangement of white gladioli and greenery flanked with two seven-branched candelabra holding glowing tapers and entwined with Southern huckleberry, tied with white satin bows.

Mrs. C. E. Underwood, organist, presented a program of nuptial music, including "Melody of Love" by Engelmann, "Because" by D'Hardelot, "Oh Promise Me" by DeKoven and the wedding marches from "Lohengrin" by Wagner and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length model of white silk organza and lace, poised over taffeta. Her face veil was secured by a white satin coronet adorned with a flat bow in the center back. Her only jewelry was a pearl pendant, a gift of the groom. She wore short white gloves, white pumps and carried a yellow-throated white orchid and lilies of the valley surrounded with tulle and tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Elaine Rice, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was of mint-green shantung. Her hat and circlet of veiling was in a matching hue to that of her dress, as were her slippers. She wore short white gloves and carried a crescent arrangement of white iris.

Algernon Sidney Currey served his son as best man and Landis T. Bucy, of Tampa, Florida, brother-in-law of the bride, was usher.

Mrs. Rice, the bride's mother, chose a model of gray and white figured jersey, with which she wore a black straw cloche and black accessories, with a pink cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Currey, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a model of beige jersey, wearing a beige straw hat, bone accessories and a white cymbidium corsage.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Rice entertained the wedding guests with a reception at their home. The bride's table, overlaid in white linen, was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and daisies and flanked with white candles in crystal candelabra. At one end was placed the three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Marianne Currey and Mrs. Landis Bucy served.

For a short wedding trip the bride changed to a green linen suit, accented with black accessories. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live at 304 East Cheatham Street in Union City. Mr. Currey is associated with Currey's Shop.

Another Honor Awarded Bolin At Chattanooga

Ken G. Bolin has been selected for membership in the University of Chattanooga chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, national honorary scholastic fraternity for freshmen men. Announcement of his selection was made by Dr. George Connor, professor of English and faculty adviser for the fraternity.

Requirement for pledging Phi Eta Sigma is based on a 2.5 academic standing and faculty recommendation. Membership in the fraternity is the highest academic honor that can come to a freshman in any university. Only two UC first year men — Bolin and Mike Smith of Chattanooga—fulfilled the requirements for membership. A banquet honoring the new initiates was held at Chattanooga's Town and Country Restaurant.

Mr. Bolin has received several high honors during his first year at the University. After graduating as valedictorian of South Fulton High School in 1962, he was named as winner of a UC Distinguished Scholarship. At the University he is a staff writer for the University Echo, student newspaper; was named to the Dean's List for the first semester; and was just recently selected by the faculty as a University Scholar for 1963. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bolin, West State Line, South Fulton, Tennessee.

Letters To Editor

Mrs. Jo Westpheling, Editor
The Fulton News
Fulton, Ky.

Dear Madam:

While visiting in Mayfield this past weekend, Mrs. Shelton and I were disturbed by several pieces of campaign literature that came to our attention. This literature, issued by workers for Harry Roberts, a candidate for the position of Commonwealth's Attorney, implies that Mr. Roberts was Mr. Flavius Martin's personal choice as a candidate for this position.

Mrs. Shelton, the daughter of Mr. Martin, and I, his son-in-law think it very poor taste that her father's name was injected into this race. Since it was, we would like to set the record straight as to Mr. Martin's opinions as expressed to us.

Being interested in politics, I have discussed the personalities involved in this race many times with Mr. Martin. Mr. Roberts' name came up several times as a competitor and opponent, and Mr. L. M. Tipton Reed was first Mr. Martin's assistant and then his partner. There is no doubt of the high esteem Mr. Martin had for Mr. Reed. Many times he expressed his appreciation of Mr. Reed's integrity and ability and the happiness he felt in having a partner to carry on his work. Mr. Martin in our opinion, would have enthusiastically supported Mr. L. M. Tipton Reed in his race for Commonwealth's Attorney.

Very truly yours,
H. C. Shelton, Jr.

YOUR SOUTHERN BELL MANAGER

May 28, 1963—is a red letter day for all Kentuckians who are registered Democrats. This is the day when we choose the candidate for our November General election.

Let's all vote for the candidate of our own choice and encourage each and every member of our respective families to VOTE.

WHY TELESTAR II? You may wonder why the Bell System wants to launch a second experimental communications satellite when the first one performed so well. The answer is that the extremely fast-growing demand for overseas communications imposes a sense of urgency on the development of satellites. Our success as a business depends on facilities being ever-ready to meet public needs. We need to learn as much as we can as soon as we can, about the technology of space communications. Especially, we want to know more about protecting satellites from radiation damage. Telstar II will have a "command" system designed around transistors that will be more resistant to radiation than those of Telstar I. Also, it will be launched into a higher orbit where it will be exposed to less radiation. As with Telstar I, the Bell System is paying the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for all launching costs including the rocket.

The Fulton Lions will have their annual PAN-CAKE breakfast Friday morning, May 31, starting at 7:00 a. m. Make plans to eat breakfast, brunch or lunch at the Fulton Electric System's office 7:00 a. m. Friday, May 31, 1963. P. S. If you need a ticket call 9085.

The Willow Plunge Bar-B-Q Supper will be held Wednesday, May 29, 1963, serving from 4:00 to 7:00 p. m. The proceeds will help get the pool ready for this season. See you behind the pool Wednesday evening.

An extension phone can sure save a lot of steps. We hear comments about their usefulness every day. Call Fulton 9000 and ask us about a well telephoned home.

The Positive Platform of Ned Breathitt

FARM TO MARKET ROADS

Ned Breathitt will build twice as many rural roads as are now being built. And he will build them where roads are needed, not according to political needs.

SCHOOLS

Breathitt wants quality education and more classrooms. Quality education will mean more jobs for all of us because industry is attracted to an educated state.

JOBs

Breathitt has set as his goal 75,000 new jobs for Kentuckians during his administration. More jobs will put more money in the pockets of Kentuckians.

TAXES

Ned Breathitt pledges no new taxes. We must have a tax climate that is favorable to industry and creates jobs for our citizens.

KENTUCKY'S TURNPIKES

Ned Breathitt will complete the state turnpike system, and integrate it with the interstate system to give the state four-lane, limited access highways to serve all Kentuckians.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

Breathitt will increase the average old age monthly payments by about $16. Payments to the blind and disabled and to dependent children will also be raised.

BILLION DOLLAR FARM ECONOMY

Ned Breathitt will work toward a billion dollar a year farm economy through a 10 point plan endorsed by Kentucky agricultural leaders.

MORALITY IN GOVERNMENT

Ned Breathitt believes in consideration for all, favor for none. His administration will set an example of honesty and integrity for all Kentuckians.

CONSERVATION AND FLOOD CONTROL

Breathitt is determined to solve the state's flooding problems through better control of strip mining, dredging of streams, reforestation and closer coordination with the Federal government in getting flood control projects. "We must move now for the sake of future generations," he says.

Murray's Dr. Sparks Is Endorsed By Both Major Candidates For Governor

Dr. Harry M. Sparks, who has been head of the Education Department at Murray State College since 1952, has received almost every honor available to an educator in Kentucky.

During his years of teaching, (which began as a high school teacher and basketball coach and ranged from there through high school principal, school superintendent, professor of education, and finally head of the Murray State Education Department), he has been president of the Kentucky Education Association, member of the National Education Association Ethics Committee, and has held numerous offices in local education organizations. He was recently asked to testify before an education sub-committee of the United States House of Representatives, which was conducting hearings on proposed vocational education legislation.

Dr. Sparks is presently seeking the Democratic nomination for Kentucky Superintendent of Public Instruction and has been endorsed for the post by both major candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor.

A prolific and brilliant public speaker, Dr. Sparks spoke throughout Kentucky in support of the Minimum Foundation Program, and he has been given much credit for the program's being enacted into law. While president of KEA, he made another extensive speaking tour of the state, urging adequate financing of the Foundation Program, and again his efforts were given much credit for the budget increase that made the program a fact as well as a law.

Dr. Sparks holds an Ed. D. (Doctor of Education) Degree from the University of Kentucky. He received his M. A. Degree from the University of Kentucky and his A. B. Degree from Transylvania College, Lexington, Kentucky. He also attended Bethany College in West Virginia and studied law one year at the University of Kentucky.

During the war Dr. Sparks served with the U. S. Navy from 1942 to 1946. He held the rank of lieutenant commander.

Prior to his war service, Dr.

DR. SPARKS

Sparks was principal at Russell Senior High School from 1941 to 1943. He was superintendent of Irvington schools from 1934 to 1941. He was principal of Mayfield High School when he was appointed to the Murray State faculty.

Dr. Sparks' first assignment after graduation from college was at Breckinridge County High School at Hardinsburg where he taught and coached from 1931 to 1934.

At Murray, Dr. Sparks has taken an active part in the work of the Murray Methodist Church. He is teacher of a senior youth Sunday school class and a member of the official board of the church.

Dr. Sparks, a native of Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, is married to the former Miss Lois Ogden Stiles of Irvington, Kentucky. They have three children: Harry Jr., who is studying architecture at the University of Cincinnati; Philip, a freshman pre-med student at Murray State, and Susan, a junior at Murray High School.

State Assured Federal Aid Plan To Construct Homes For Elderly

As a result of a unique plan developed by the State, Kentucky has been virtually assured Federal aid for a pilot program of low-rent public housing for the elderly.

Three Kentucky cities seem sure to be selected for the pilot project. They are Stanton, Manchester, and Columbia. A possibility of a fourth site at Cave City or some other locality is being considered by the Federal Government.

A. R. Hanson, regional director of Public Housing Administration at Atlanta, told a group of about 150 persons at a Governor's conference on housing for the elderly that Stanton had already been checked and is approvable. Columbia and Manchester will be checked soon, he said.

Under the plan, first of its type in the nation, the Federal Government will build low-rent public housing centers and lease them to local non-profit organizations to operate.

The Kentucky plan combines public housing and personal care homes into one concept. This type of facility is designed to fill the gap currently existing in housing for those elderly persons who fall between the aged who are able to take care of themselves completely and those who require nursing home care or hospitalization.

Sidney Spector, a special assistant in the U. S. Housing and Home Finance Agency, predicted that if the pilot program here is successful, many other states will follow Kentucky's lead in providing housing for the elderly.

Gov. Bert Combs, in welcoming the group, outlined a long-range plan he has begun for developing housing for the elderly in Kentucky. Points of the program include:

- (1) Establishment of an information and development center on housing for the elderly. He has directed Economic Security Commissioner Earle V. Powell to staff this unit by July 1.
- (2) Preparation of a publication by the Commission on Aging listing the opportunities for providing the elderly with housing.
- (3) Unification of the State li-ensing program and promotional activities.

(4) Preparation of a long-range plan to show the state's needs for private housing, personal care homes and nursing homes in years to come.

Combs said he believes that housing programs should be operated at the local level with the State having the responsibility of leadership, providing technical assistance, planning, and coordination.

Clinic May 28 For Pre-School Students At SF

The preschool clinic for the children entering South Fulton school in the first grade next fall will be held May 28th, from 9:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. at the school.

Parents should be sure and bring to this clinic the child's birth certificate and a record of all shots received from the doctor or clinic other than the Obion County Health Department. It is very important that all children entering the first grade this fall go through this clinic.

Mark this day on your calendar and be getting the needed information together.

SIEVE?

The barber had cut him, nicked him and gashed him.
"Give me a glass of water please," gasped the victim.
"You aren't going to faint, I hope?" asked the barber in alarm.
"No," replied the victim, "I just want to see if my mouth still holds water."

He's My Brother - - Not My Father!

To My Friends In Fulton County.

There is a slight misunderstanding and I would like to correct it in this letter. During the past two months I have been asked by many people if RALPH GRAVES of Bardwell (Candidate for Representative to the State Legislature) is my father.

He is my brother—an honest and loyal Kentuckian, and I proudly recommend him to you as a young man who will represent you and your interests as vigorously as possible should you see fit to nominate him May 28th. Your vote and support will be appreciated.

The News reports your - - - Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

We think that "writing to" former Fultonians far and near each week is such fun. Many of our subscribers tell us that getting the News is like getting a long letter from home. As we sit at this typewriter each week we often wonder about all those unseen friends we have by way of the written word. This week we heard from one of them. Her letter is self-explanatory as would be the letter of any good executive. Here it is:

Dear Jo,

My visits to Fulton are few and far between but . . . my mother, Mrs. E. H. Knighton, started sending me the paper a number of years ago and I've been keeping up with the hometown activities.

I noticed that you printed "What is a Boy?" and then "What is a Girl?" and thought that you would like to have a copy of each to frame. Alan Beck, who wrote these two charmers, is now deceased but was the Editor of New England's magazine the "Pilot's Log" until November of 1962.

As I am the Office Manager for New England's agency in Oklahoma City, I'm sure that you can see why I'm proud to have been a co-worker of Mr. Beck's.

Give my regards to Mary Nelle and Ouida as well to my many other friends in Fulton.

Sincerely yours,
Ruthe K. Jones

Office Manager

(Ed's Note: We've framed the copies. They shall always be one of our prized possessions.)

A lovely party complimenting Miss Sandy Bard, bride-elect of Larry Johnson of Martin, was a miscellaneous household shower given by Mrs. Jimmy Bard and Mrs. John Paul Bard on May 16 in the American Legion Hall in Water Valley.

turned home Tuesday, May 21, from a couple of weeks visit in California.

Poe's Poem Put On Stamp

Mrs. Doris Willey will present her piano pupils in a recital at the Woman's Club at 3 p. m. Sunday, May 26. Friends and relatives of the students are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hitchcock, Dee Ann and Robert Lee of Memphis and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koonce of Carbondale, Ill., were week end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham in Highlands.

Mrs. William Taylor was the winner of the bridal contest and presented her prize to the guest of honor.

Fancy cookies, nuts and mints, attractively arranged on a tea cart, were served by Debra Dedmon, Jennifer Moss and Dana Puckett. The lovely gifts were opened and displayed on the lace-covered dining table, which featured pink glads and carnations arranged in a crystal bowl.

About twenty guests attended this delightful affair.

Miss Sue Moore, bride-elect of Gerald Byrn of Folsomdale, was the guest of honor at a coffee Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. W. M. Adams on Vine Street. Mrs. Glenn Veneklasen, Mrs. Milton Exum, Miss Letha Exum, Mrs. Reginald Williamson, Miss Nancy Williamson and Mrs. Richard Armstrong were co-hostesses with Mrs. Adams.

NO GOOD AT ALL

Mrs. Skjold — "Dear, did you notice the handsome fur coat worn by the young lady in front of us in church today?"

Mr. Skjold — "No, I'm afraid I didn't. I was dozing most of the time."

Mrs. Skjold — "Huh, a lot of good it does you to go to church."

Baltimore — The Edgar Allan Poe Society of Baltimore has news of some European activity on behalf of the famed author.

Hans Stendahl of Namsos, Norway, wrote the society that he has written Poe's poem, "The Raven," on the back of a stamp, and the short story, "MS. Found in a Bottle", on the back of another stamp—both in English.

Chemistry Students Perform Lab Tests

From the FHS "Kennel"

The dreaded plague has struck Fulton High again! Oh, it's not quite as serious as the Bubonic, but it does take its toll on some sensitive nostril linings.

The plague is the chemistry class' experiments on some unknown. These experiments are performed to obtain a credit for the last six weeks in chemistry. It sounds quite mystifying and, in fact, to some of these future chemists it is.

The experiments began one day when each group in class was handed a test tube containing a clear liquid which shall be referred to as the UNKNOWN. There was no short cut to finding the name of this mysterious solution except to perform various tests. These tests can be a little disheartening when a group comes up with sulfuric acid instead of the ammonium hydroxide which they were supposed to find. However, Mr. Snider will always give the group a second chance during opportunity hour—if that is reassuring.

The Curie or Einstein of tomorrow will do well to remember these words of advice: "Think not of what chemistry can do for you but of what you can do for chemistry."

NARY A WORD

Several days after his father died little Johnny was stopped in the street by a kindly neighbor. "And what were your poor father's last words?" the neighbor asked. "He didn't have any," Johnny replied. "Mother was with him to the end."

Fulton County Increased Accident Rate Last Year

State Police accident records show that the 1962 accident totals for Fulton county increased over those for 1961. State Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern said that the final totals for last year show Fulton county accidents for 1962 at 118 accidents, as compared with 114 for 1961.

"Any increase in traffic accidents is alarming to us," Commissioner Lovern said, "but we are aware of the fact that these totals are of more value and importance to the local residents of the county. These are mostly local people involved in the accidents and so the totals refer mainly to local injuries, deaths, and property damage." The report also points out that traffic accidents in this county claimed one life during 1962, as compared with two in 1961.

"Deaths by traffic accidents are usually needless," the safety chief pointed out "as most of them are the result of carelessness. The people killed in these wrecks are not necessarily the people responsible for them. For example, 34 children were killed in Kentucky last year, in what we call pedestrian accidents, who were four years of age or younger. It is unrealistic to think that these infants could be held responsible for the actions that caused their deaths. Some are unavoidable, of course, but parents and drivers must be constantly aware of the unthinking acts of little children and act accordingly."

Traffic accidents are caused, the Commissioner added, and they are almost always avoidable, if drivers stick to driving without being diverted while behind the wheel. Lack of full time attention to the job of driving a car is one of our predominant reasons for these accidents and deaths. "Most of us have finally learned, after many years of tragic experiences, that 'most' guns are loaded," he said, "so we experience less accidental shootings as time goes by. We must acquire the same respect for the automobile and drive accordingly. Every car on the highway is potentially 'loaded' with an inattentive driver who may cause an accident. It is our obligation to drive defensively and avoid these increasing tragedies by keeping alert to the careless driver or pedestrian and also by being certain that we are not causing the problem ourselves."

FIRST OF A SERIES—State Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern (left) and Albert Dix, newly appointed member of the safety committee of the Kentucky Press Association, view the first of a series of county traffic accident reports. The state-wide newspaper association and the Kentucky Department of Public Safety have joined together recently to keep every county informed of the traffic accident problems through a cooperative effort. Dix is the new publisher of The State Journal in Frankfort.

The problem of increasing traffic accidents is widespread in Kentucky, according to the report. Eighty-nine counties experienced an increase in accidents in 1962, while 31 decreased from 1961. The total accidents reported soared to 49,223 in 1962 as compared with 44,432 for 1961. Deaths also rose to 793, compared with the record low total of 722 for 1961. Lovern explained that there is no single cause at fault, but that the leading law violations which contributed to the accidents were 'failure to yield the right-of-way', speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road, and following too closely. These causes were determined from analysis of State Police investigations only.

The complete totals include accidents investigated by other enforcement agencies, who sometimes do not record the same detailed information found in the State Police reports. Also included are the accidents which are not investigated by any law enforcement officer. As a result, the totals sometimes conflict. The total number of vehicles involved include all types, such as automobiles, trucks, motorcycles, and others rested at 91,221 for the year.

ELECT L. M. TIPTON "TIP" REED YOUR Commonwealth's Attorney

SEE AND HEAR L. M. TIPTON "TIP" REED MONDAY
(MAY 27) AT 5:54 P. M. ON WPSD - TV (CHANNEL 6)

L. M. TIPTON REED

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON COUNTY

My opponent is making a wide appeal to members of Baptist churches to support him for Commonwealth's Attorney because he is a Baptist. I certainly agree that this high office demands a person of high moral principles and strong Christian convictions.

My personal debt to Baptists is great indeed. Members of my family were pioneer Baptists in this area. My mother is a member of High Point Baptist Church of Mayfield and my brother Bill now serves as a missionary to Japan under the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. It is natural that I would feel much kinship with my many Baptist friends.

I would appeal to you to elect a Commonwealth's Attorney without regard to denominational label. Honest realism tells us that belonging to one church or another does not necessarily qualify a man to serve in public office. The demands of this office not only require moral and spiritual integrity but also they lay claim to the excellence and abilities one possesses as a student of the law. As an attorney I am dedicated to the proposition of providing for all equal justice under the law. I invite the closest examination of my record as a practicing attorney to ascertain if this is true. I welcome your comparison of my record with that of my opponent.

My sole intent and purpose in seeking this office is to serve you as a dedicated Commonwealth's Attorney.

I ask the help of all of you.

Sincerely yours,

L. M. Tipton Reed

By JOHN WARD

FRANKFORT, KY.—Kentuckians, long accustomed to political surprises, may be treated to the most sensational one yet before May 28th.

That would be an announcement that A. B. Chandler is withdrawing from the Democratic contest for Governor.

His explanation would be simple: for party harmony and to assure election of a Democratic ticket in November.

Such a move would enable the Democrats to unite behind Ned Breathitt for Governor and Harry Lee Waterfield for Lieutenant Governor.

Party counselors at all levels have been quietly advocating such a course, and they argue that it would be in Chandler's best interest. Here is their reasoning:

By gracefully stepping aside at this point, Chandler would avoid the risk of a defeat in the primary election — a defeat which would seriously damage the prestige which he has strived to build up during the last 30 years.

By giving up his ambition for an unprecedented third term, with the unselfish purpose of binding up the party's wounds and assuring ing the Democrats of victory in November, Chandler would make himself a hero worthy of Kentucky Democrats' hall of fame.

Withdrawal of Chandler would win a hearty "thank you" from the states voters, who are weary of incessant bickering among Democrats.

The withdrawal also would earn the gratitude of party lieutenants who have had to line up for Chandler under duress and whose political reputations, if not careers, are being jeopardized. Among them are Mrs. Geneva Blue, the Democratic National Committee woman, and Carlos Oakley, former state Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Those are some of the arguments. They are advanced by pros who figure that Chandler, by retiring to Versailles, would earn more glory and win more friends than ever would be possible with a dubious third term nomination for Governor.

Pressure for his withdrawal has been intensified by recent developments. These include exposes of alleged kick backs and favoritism during Chandler's last administration as Governor, and it is reported that more are to come.

The most important development however was a poll conducted by The Kentucky Report, a financial-political-newsletter operated by Sandy Wood, an astute Louisville lawyer and advertising man.

The poll yielded some startling information pointing up the need for the Democratic bi-faction ticket in November.

The poll indicated that if Chandler should be nominated 49.1 percent of the Chandlerites now opposing him intended to vote for the Republican candidate in November.

The poll also indicated that if Breathitt should be nominated,

'Connecting Link'

Dotted line shows the route of the proposed Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway—a vital link between mid-America's 10,000-mile river system and the Gulf of Mexico. Already authorized by Congress and approved by the Corps of Engineers, the waterway would shorten the distance between the Ohio, Cumberland and Tennessee Valleys to the sea at the Port of Mobile by hundreds of miles. Construction of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway is being urged by an interstate compact supported by the states of Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee.

49.1 percent of the Chandlerites would support the Republican candidate.

Such a bolt, from either faction, could help hand the Governorship on a silver platter to Louis Nunn, the Republican candidate.

Peacemakers in the Democratic party know such a catastrophe (for them) can be prevented only by nominating the strongest and most popular man in each faction. These, they claim, are Breathitt, who is supported by the Combs administration, and Waterfield, who is now aligned with Chandler.

A Breathitt-Waterfield coalition would have the advantage of binding up the Democrat party's wounds and attracting the support of voters in both factions.

From a practical view point, Chandler has everything to gain and nothing to lose by stepping out of the race in the interest of party harmony.

It would be the greatest stroke of genius in his long and controversial career. He could retire from the political wars undefeated with the most magnanimous gesture in Kentucky's rambunctious political history.

If he stayed in and by chance won the nomination May 28, the Democratic party would be rent further asunder, and it could be a hollow victory if Democrats bolted in November as indicated by the Kentucky Report.

On the other hand, by sacrificing his personal ambition in order to help his party, Chandler could wind up with kinder treatment both by Democrats and the history writers.

Happy is a rich man, so he doesn't need the job of Governor. He has had every major political honor which his state could bestow upon him. Why then, friends ask, should he jeopardize this record when he can win greater fame by withdrawing?

Lancaster Is Manager Of New Kenlake Theater

Frank Lancaster, Murray businessman and former manager of the Varsity and Capitol Theaters, was named manager of the new Kenlake Amphitheater today, according to an announcement by Max Hurt, President of West Kentucky Productions Association.

Mr. Lancaster officially assumed management of the theater on May 15. His duties will consist of complete operation of theater properties and all concessions. Ticket sales will also come under his jurisdiction.

Mr. Lancaster, a member of the Murray City Council and Chairman of the City Parks Commission, has had several years experience in theater operation and stage presentation. He is now a partner in Lancaster & Veal, a clothing store. He will maintain his partnership in the store in addition to his theater work. A temporary office for direction of the theater will be established in space at the store. Telephones will be installed shortly.

Max Hurt, said of the appointment, "We are indeed fortunate to secure the services of a man of Frank's capabilities and drive. His interest in this project has been evident from the start. Working with the fine group of people under contract to the theater will give him an opportunity to further contribute to the growth of this area. We are seeking the best talent available for every job, and we feel that Mr. Lancaster is ideal for this position."

The production, STARS IN MY CROWN is scheduled to begin rehearsal June 3, under the direction of Burnet Hobgood, one of the nation's top directors. Contracts are now being signed with the cast and technical crews.

Winner Of Lottery Just Asks Peace

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, — A silver-haired street peddler won $33,333 in a lottery, then disappeared.

Mui Wing Shiu, 74, presumed kidnapped, had retreated to a seaside hideout in southern Malaya.

"This sudden wealth is causing me heaps of worries," Mui said. "My life is in danger and I do not know whom to turn to and whom I can trust."

"They are all after my money. You see, I am alone in the world."

I have no family. I could not afford one.

"What will I do now with the money? I don't know. If it had come to me when I was younger I might have invested it in a business and raised a family. But now I am an old man. All I ask is to be left alone to enjoy the few years left to me peacefully."

HELL FIND OUT

A neighbor tried to comfort the deserted husband.

"It was a terrific shock to hear that Smithers ran away with your wife. I'd always thought he was your best friend."

"He is," replied the husband with a happy smile, "only he doesn't know it yet."

cal Chandler headquarters and is also sales representative for Harry Lee Waterfield's insurance company.

In addition to her insurance position and her campaign work, she is correspondent for the Paducah-Sun, the Commercial Appeal, the Courier-Journal, the Associated Press and the United Press. So, doing a variety of jobs that are normally full time for most people will be nothing new to Ouida, if her services are needed by the Department of Parks.

If Ouida accepts the appointment that I understand will be offered to her, she will find that there's not much profit if she drives her car the thousands of miles that I have, eats as many meals out as I have and paid hotel and other transportation expenses as I have for nearly two years without getting reimbursed for them, as I have NOT been for nearly two years, any fraudulent, libelous "documented" evidence to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Then there's WARDELL YARBRO to be considered in the Chandler administration if the gent from Versailles is elected. Wardell undoubtedly will take over the position now held by Hoyt Barnett, as area liaison officer with the Department of Commerce. Folks in the industrial development field say that Hoyt's position has proved to be a valuable effort in coordinating the work of local industry-seeking, such as was shown by the location of the Jonathon Logan Manufacturing Company at Mayfield. Civic leaders in Graves County say that the industry might not have located there if close personal supervision had not been available right on the scene.

Hoyt's position pays in the neighborhood of $10,000.00 a year and expenses. Since Chandler has indicated time and again that he will devote every effort to seeking new industry for new jobs for Kentuckians, there is not much likelihood that this job will be abolished, especially since a young man like Wardell is available for the post, if Happy is elected.

Former County Judge Homer Roberts, administrative clerk at the Highway maintenance barn, is likely to be replaced by BUFFORD CAMPBELL of Cayce. HARRY MATSON, former highway maintenance foreman during Chandler's last term, will undoubtedly replace Bill Herring of Cayce, who now holds the position. In spite of Chandler's oratory about a real merit system, it is obvious that he plans to disregard the present laws and replace almost every State employee in this and every other county in Kentucky. At least, that is our information gathered from local State employees under the Chandler administration.

HUNTER BYRD WHITESELL, one of Kentucky's ablest young lawyers and an attorney in the Department of Finance, is a Fulton Countian employed at Frankfort. If the axe swings at everybody not loyal to the Chandler cause, Hunter Byrd will not likely find employment in the department of a Chandler-appointed finance Commissioner. However, this outstanding Fultonian will not be among the unemployed. It is our hope that he will become an Assistant Attorney General under Robert L. Matthews, if Mr. Matthews is elected Attorney General, as we think he will be. Mr. Matthews is the former executive assistant to Governor Bert Combs and is the present Commissioner of Finance.

Not on the county scene, but close to it, is Ed Fossett, executive administrative assistant to Governor Combs and a brother of Bill Fossett, an employee of Fall and Fall Insurance Company. Ed, of course, will move out if Chandler is elected. He will vacate the space that will be filled by Harry G. Davis and Frenchie DeMolsey, now under fire for accepting huge kick-backs for highway equipment sales under the last Chandler administration.

This is only a partial survey of the changes to be made on the local scene if Chandler is elected. In spite of Chandler's pious indignation of a "bloated" State payroll, I have not heard of one job to be eliminated if the two-time Governor is elected. The fact is that for every State job now in existence, there must be one or more supporters waiting to fill it. And, as is the pattern with Mr. Chandler, for every loyal supporter who does not fill an existing job, there are likely to be jobs created, such as the one for SAM HARPER of Clinton, who made nearly $500.00 a month during the last Chandler administration for being a "safety inspector" at the maintenance barn in Clinton. Mr. Harper also had other business interests.

See you at the polls!

To The VOTERS OF Fulton, Hickman, Graves, Ballard & Carlisle Counties:

As a candidate for Circuit Judge I have conducted as vigorous a campaign as my other duties would permit. Yet there are many of you that I have been unable to contact personally. I have campaigned cleanly, speaking no ill of my opponent; neither have I taken any part in any race other than my own.

My qualifications for the office have been set forth in previous announcements, and it is my purpose now merely to remind you of my candidacy, and tell you again that your support will be greatly appreciated.

To those of you that I have seen during the campaign I express my heartfelt thanks for the friendly and courteous reception you have given me. Meeting with you has been a real pleasure.

Again I will say that, if you see fit to elect me as your Circuit Judge, I will do my utmost to fulfill the responsibilities of that office in a manner that will meet with your approval.

Sincerely,

Seth T. Boaz, Jr.
