Southern Bell Telephone Company has no more ardent admirers in this Commonwealth than the folks at the News office, and especially me. But what happened to us this past week-end with Alexander Graham Bell's invention could possibly shake the faith of the most loyal partisans.

You see for three whole days, Friday through Sunday, that ever-so-convenient little contraption uttered not a sound at our household. I didn't really notice the silence until Saturday afternoon, because I was waiting on a call from R. Paul to tell me when he would arrive for Father's Day. Well, the call never came, although by some circuitous route he did get a message to us through K & N Root Beer, which I thought rather odd, too! But then I figured that he wanted to let us know he couldn't come so he was willing to let us know via the next best place to call, since Mary Jo, as well as most other teen-agers, has established squatters' rights out there.

Well, so be it, for R. Paul's call. But when messages kept coming to us from other people by way of the K & N, we thought it the better part of valor to look into this alleged, private communications media.

We did. And when we did, we just couldn't believe it. Investigation revealed that the public phone booth at the K & N had been ringing itself off most of the week-end. First one and then another youngster who answered the phone thought nothing of it, when the callers asked for us since a lot of people call there first for absentee individuals. But asking for either Paul or me was something else again.

What happened? There's a crew of experts at the telephone company these days making some circuit changes and undoubtedly our line was hooked on to K & N's. Leastways that's way the phone company says could have happened.

I guess things could have been worse. Just think what would have happened if our line had been crossed with a funeral home.

Some irate subscriber would have been happy to think that perhaps we might have been there; when told that we weren't their disappointment probably would have been greater than their wrath. Every lining has a gloomy cloud, doesn't it?

"The Outhouse Goes to Pea Ridge"

I'm not so sure that the telephone incident doesn't pale into insignificance when I stop to ponder the tenacity of an individual who took a 50-year old "dwelling," so weather-beaten and antiquated that it made the leaning tower of Pisa look like the United Nations building, and made it look like a rest stop on a super-highway.

Every member of the Owens family, from whom we bought our home-place, will be pleased and startled to know that Paul spent months, maybe years of diligent repair work on the little out-house near the tenant house on the home property and it is now painted all red and shiny and is out at Pea Ridge, the little farm we own near Water Valley.

There is no telling how many times I remonstrated with him that it would be easier to build a new "rest emporium" for the farm than for him to try to nail together the disreputable-looking shanty that I started to tear down months ago.

I should have known better than to argue with him. It only increased his determination and his sentimentality for Chic Sales' commodious structure.

And so he won. Saturday he loaded that "building," complete with the moon on the door, on the Jeep's trailer and moved it out to Pea Ridge.

And so I'd better stop writing

First Bills Under New TVA Electrical Rates Reflect Many Sharp Decreases; Few Others Unchanged

ALMOST READY . . . this is a front of the beautifully remodeled Fulton Country Club that will soon be ready for a "house warming." The greatly expanded club contains a lounge room, dressing and lounge rooms for men and for women and a recreation area for the young folks. The rooms are being beautifully decorated with carpeting and new furniture. The remodeling project has in no way affected the busy program of activity that is in full swing right now.

The first electric bills reflecting the new TVA rates were received by Fulton Electric System customers this week, and, as was expected, they were received with both cheers and jeers.

Cheers from the large consumers whose bills were cut nearly in half, and jeers from the small households whose savings, in some cases, amounted to as little as 5c. In a few cases, the new bills are higher.

So that you might have a better idea of "what's going on", The News visited the Electric System office this week to find out where that estimated $10,000-per-month saving to consumers was going.

The average family-occupied home in the system, explained Manager Wes Thompson, has been paying around $20 a month for electric service, and under the new rate is now paying around $12.

A medium-size commercial establishment that has been paying $33.09 for service in May found its bill reduced to $20.26.

A very-large commercial user on the local lines whose bill for service in a comparable period in 1966 amounted to $2584.00 realized a saving of $1250.00 this year; the same amount of electricity in 1967 cost them $1334.00.

A small house that is only occasionally occupied as a "guest house" has been paying $1.85 a month, and now finds its bill upped to $3.66 a month.

For the very small household, the actual reduction in rate of around 30 percent has been offset by an amortization charge of $1.00 which brings the total bill approximately to what it was before the new rates. (The $1 charge is a temporary thing, Manager Thompson pointed out, and will be removed when it has provided enough money to finish repaying Kentucky Utilities for their system).

For the average family-occupied household, the $1 amortization charge is a small item compared to the $7 or $8 they are saving under the new rates, and even after the $1 is added, the overall savings are substantial.

For the large industrial user whose bill went down $1251, the $1 amortization charge is a drop in the bucket.

"The new TVA rates are designed to encourage a larger usage of electrical power," Thompson pointed out. "Any additional line load that you now add to your existing setup, such as air conditioners, electric dryers and such, can be operated at very little additional cost. Over 400 KWH per month cost only four-tenths of a cent each, compared to 1½c under our old rates," he explained.

Our Amigo Tells Story-- Says Project United Us

The following letter was received in Fulton this week from one of the wonderful Amigos who attended the Banana Festival last year and was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Hunt.

Alexis O. Sanchez is from Quito, Ecuador. His letter of deep feeling stems from an article appearing in the Quito newspapers reporting that J. K. Smith, a prominent and outstanding Kentuckian has received the highest award given to an individual by the Ecuadorian government. Mr. Smith who is general manager of the Kentucky Rural Electric Co-ops was instrumental in bringing electricity to Ecuador, in remote regions such as Santo Domingos, which has enabled the natives to make much progress on their farms and other small industries.

The clippings were in Spanish. Mrs. Hunt (Ann McDade) who brought the letter to the News would like to understand them. Volunteers are sought.

Anyway, here's Alexis' letter which speaks far more than any diplomatic mission ever has.

Quito - June 14 - 1967

Dear friends:

I've read, with much pleasure, about one of the most effective manifestations of International understanding.

It arises from the comprehension about real problems of the neighbor Countries. The best form to get to that purpose is the temporal exchange of young and adult people of good will.

Now, I'm sending you those clippings. They make my written words real.

That's just the help that small and young Countries needed, as our own. I'm sure it will contrast with others because I suppose it has been given with high human spirit; so, far from the not true services that sometimes powerful Countries give the others with political and economic interests.

As Ecuadorian, I thank you for your help and I wish that Mr. J. K. Smith's phrases will be an eternal reality.

Let me say, once more, Mr. President, that I take this Condecoration in the name of Kentucky people. We wish our friendship will be lasting".

Very truly yours,
Alexis O. Sanchez

Cindy Homra is spending this week in Lexington, Ky., representing Fulton High School at the annual Girls State at Transylvania College. She was sponsored by the Auxiliary of Marshall Alexander Post No. 72.

Y'all Come

Kentuckians are invited to drop by and visit Governor Edward T. Breathitt on "Back Porch Day" at the state Capitol June 22, from 8 a. m. (EST) "until the last visitor is seen."

"Back Porch Day" will be a slightly different version of "Citizen's Day" in that it will be held outdoors literally on the back porch of the Capitol building.

Breathitt, his staff and Cabinet will move their desks outside to the porch and set up shop. "We'll see everyone and anyone on a first-come, first-served basis without appointment," the Governor said. "I look forward to these days, because many good ideas and suggestions come to me through this kind of widespread contact."

In case of rain, the appointments will be moved inside. About five minutes will be allotted each visitor.

Numbers Changed

South Fulton City Manager Henry Dunn advises that house numbers on Broadway from State Line to the city limits of South Fulton are being changed so they will be chronological order. Notices are being mailed to houses on which numbers are changed.

The awards were announced by Dr. Winfred L. Godwin, SRED director.

The news Fellows are:

Also, Ben Taylor, Greensboro, (N. C.) Daily News; Robert Killebrew, (Gainesville, Ga.) Daily Times; Charles S. Taylor, UP International, Atlanta, Ga.; Robert A. Willis, Norfolk, Va. Ledger-Star, and Mrs. Paul Westpheling, Fulton County News, Fulton, Ky.

The fellowships are open to news and editorial personnel of the news media in fifteen southern states. They are named in honor of Mark Ethridge, who has been a leader in southern journalism for more than half a century. Fellows may attend any of the six universities participating in the project - Emory, Duke, North Carolina, Vanderbilt, Virginia and Texas.

While Mrs. Westpheling has selected Vanderbilt University for her course of study which begins in early September, SRED officials are exploring other universities that can more fully offer the subjects she wishes to study. She has evinced an interest in political science as it affects the grass roots, and mass population voters.

Car Wash

On Saturday, beginning at nine o'clock, Scout Troop 114 will have a car wash in South Fulton. Cars should be taken to the South Fulton city hall or the front parking lot of the South Fulton Baptist Church.

Kentucky To Halt Misleading Life Insurance 'Profits'

The state has called a halt, starting June 1, to "misleading sales practices" in the marketing of life insurance policies in Kentucky.

A new regulation issued recently by Insurance Commissioner S. Roy Woodall Jr. forbids the more than 300 life insurance firms and their 8,000 agents doing business within the state, to:

— Include annual coupons, which might be construed as stock certificates, as a part of policies containing guaranteed annual endowments.

— Issue a policy containing guaranteed annual endowments unless the gross premium for these provisions is shown prominently and separately in the policy apart from the regular insurance premium.

— Making statements which reasonably imply that the insured will enjoy a status common to a stockholder or will acquire a stock ownership interest in the insurance company by virtue of purchasing a policy.

— Use such words as "investment or investment plan," "insured investment plan," "profit-sharing," "charter plan," or similar language that might tend to mislead a purchaser of insurance by suggesting that he is to receive something other than an insurance policy.

— Make references regarding the payment of dividends in such a manner as to misrepresent their true nature — or suggesting that certain policyholders will receive preferential treatment.

Woodall said at least 30 states including Kentucky have now taken some form of regulatory action to help protect the consumer from misleading insurance sales methods.

Noting that the state does not regulate life insurance rates, Woodall

Postoffice Department Says Immoral Literature, "Unfit For Children" Does Not Violate The Law

Earlier this year the Fulton County News editorialized on the vast amount of obscene matter that is permitted to go through the United States Postoffice, oftentimes to teen-agers whose names have been secured from high school graduation classes and other published lists.

The News sent the editorial, together with the pornographic literature we received in the mail, to Senator Robert Kennedy, (D-N. Y.) Senator Kennedy personally took the matter up with high postal authorities who looked into the matter and then reported their findings, and opinion to Senator Kennedy.

The letter is an appalling reminder of the depths into which our manners and morals have fallen in these modern times. Such phrases as "ordinary nudist magazines do not violate the cited law," or "that matter cannot be excluded from the mails MERELY because it offends particular segments of our society or is unfit for children."

If an ordinary nudist magazine does not violate the law, we shudder to think what an un-ordinary nudist magazine is like.

Perhaps the most revolting information revealed by this letter from the General Council of the Postoffice Department is that Senator Dodd, the elected official now under censure proceedings in the Senate, is the head of a committee investigating such immoral influence upon juveniles.

While we have long felt that rebellion against such demoralizing literature by a small newspaper like ours is like a small voice in the wilderness, we feel utter hopelessness when we see a man, whose own actions are anything but commendable, is charged with the responsibility to clean up somebody else's wrong-doing.

Here's the letter. Don't shake your head and say "isn't it terrible." Read it, and think what you too can do.

Dear Senator:

This will reply to your memorandum of January 25, 1967, regarding a letter you received from Mrs. Paul Westpheling, Editor and Publisher of The Fulton County News, P. O. Box 307, Fulton, Kentucky 42041.

Mrs. Westpheling furnished a copy of advertising matter deposited in the mails by Natures Lane, Box 425, Chatsworth, California 91311. This matter, promoting the sale of movies, slides and photos of nudists, shows several nude women. Mrs. Westpheling asked these questions:

"What would you think if your children received the attached material through the mail? And how would you feel if you were asked to be a good newspaper editor and support the proposed increase in the cost of postage.

"Don't you think this type of demoralizing filth deserves a Senate investigation?"

We in the Post Office Department are fully aware of the problem posed by Mrs. Westpheling in the matter of reception of offensive matter by our patrons. And we readily appreciate her concern, particularly regarding the mailings of sex oriented matter to minors. However, this Department is without lawful authority to refuse admission of any matter in the mails unless it clearly violates a mailability law.

In this instance, we studied the subject exhibit under the postal obscenity law, 18 U. S. C. 1461, and the applicable court decisions construing such statute. In view of such decisions, the exhibit must necessarily be regarded as mailable matter. The United States Supreme Court has held that ordinary nudist magazines do not violate the cited law, Sunshine Book Co. v. Summerfield, 355 U. S. 372; Mounce v. U. S., 355 U. S. 180. Also, in Manual Enterprises, Inc. v. Day, 370 U. S. 490, the court held that "nudity, per se, is not obscene." The court, while recognizing that this material gets into the hands of minors of tender years, said in Butler v. Michigan, 352 U. S. 380, that matter cannot be excluded from the mails merely because it offends particular segments of our society or is unfit for children.

We have previously been aware of the mailing activities of Natures Lane, which also used the trade name Oakmar. The Department's Postal Inspection Service was preparing certain data on such mailer preliminary to recommending prosecution under the criminal postal law. We have just been advised that the parties responsible for the subject mailings voluntarily closed its post office box, and has requested the postmaster to return all mail to the senders marked "Out of Business".

I might add that matter such as that submitted by Mrs. Westpheling is the major problem area in mailings of this nature. They are particularly offensive to our postal patrons, yet do not meet the court tests for obscenity. Senator Dodd's Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency is currently exploring the whole matter with exhaustive hearings. We are working with the Subcommittee and its staff in an attempt to develop some legislative measures which may effectively meet this problem area without offending against Constitutional guarantees. There are no quick solutions, but you may be certain we will put forth every effort to meet the very situation Mrs. Westpheling has understandably complained about.

You may wish to advise Mrs. Westpheling that under our regulations ($154.11, Postal Manual), an addressee may refuse to accept a piece of mail at the time it is offered for delivery. Also, after delivery the addressee may mark any matter "Refused" and return it unopened to the mails, except registered, certified, insured or C. O. D. mail, which may not be returned once delivery is effected.

The Postal Policy Act, as amended, provides that postal rates shall be adjusted from time to time as may be required to produce the amount of revenues approximately equal to the total cost of operating the postal establishment, less the amount deemed to be attributable to the performance of public service. For example, in the current fiscal year we expect revenues to fall short of costs by some $1.2 billion. After excluding public service costs, it is estimated the postal deficiency will approximate $637,000,000.

Therefore, with so large a deficit this fiscal year the Congress has two choices: (1) raise rates, or (2) allow rates unchanged and draw the full $1.2 billion from General Funds of the Treasury. The latter apparently would be contrary to the Postal Policy Act. If we may be of further assistance in this matter, please call upon us.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Timothy J. May
General Counsel

POETS CORNER

JUST AN OLD TIMER

There's a word that's often spoken
By which truth is surely broken;
That familiarity always breeds contempt.
For it always strikes me queerly
That the things I love most dearly
Are the things from which all newness is exempt.
I am sure, as this I'm writing,
That my love has been exciting
With the one I've had for fifty years or more.
But, if I'd spent time and money
Flitting round to find love's honey
I imagine it would all have been a bore.
If you really want to please me,
Don't serve caviar to tease me,
But just serve me up some good old-fashioned dish.
Show me well-remembered places
And some dear beloved faces;
For I guess I'm just an antiquated fish.

FULTON'S

Library Corner

By Brenda Rowlett

Jesse Stuart — poet, short story writer, and novelist of the Kentucky hills — is one of America's best-known and best-loved regional writers. Although still in his fifties, he has written over twenty books, taught school, lectured extensively, and traveled abroad. In a non-fiction work, THE THREAD THAT RUNS SO TRUE, he describes his experiences as a teacher and principal in various schools in Kentucky and Ohio. He has written literally hundreds of short stories and poems published in the country's leading magazines. All his work, in prose or poetry, has for its setting the Kentucky hill country he knows so well. Here until his heart attack in 1954, he lived an active life lecturing, writing, teaching, and working in the fields. Since that time he has been at his home in Riverton, Kentucky, where he lives with his wife Naomi and daughter Jane.

Some of his books which are available at the Fulton Public Library are:

SAVE EVERY LAMB. In this book he turns to one of his favorite subjects, animals, and the result is Jesse Stuart at his very best, writing about the habits and delightful individual personalities of the many animals he has known over the years. His immense power to communicate his love of all creatures is both rare and convincing. This book will please not only the legion of his readers, but will give real joy to anyone who has ever pressed his nose against a pet shop window or waited for the first birding of spring. These are rich, often moving tales—the treasured gathering of a lifetime spent with animals of the hills and farms in Kentucky.

THE YEAR OF MY REBIRTH. It begins as simply the story of a man's fight for life. But it becomes the unique autobiography of an extraordinary personality and the vivid chronicle of an age gone by. It is the journal he kept in 1955, a time of severest trial yet greatest fulfillment which began in an oxygen tent and ended with his happy return to a full and vigorous life. Here are the innermost feelings and moods of a man whose heart may give out at any moment, the new respect and even love he develops for his heart, his thoughts about God, life, land and home.

A JESSE STUART READER. This glowing collection of stories, memories, and poems by one of America's most beloved storytellers has as its background the hills of Kentucky. The land and its people are Jesse Stuart's raw material, and through his sure art, the world he evokes here so beautifully and lovingly escapes any regional confines, to become literature with a universal appeal—stories telling of the conflicts, passions, hardships, cruelty, birth, and death of men who live close to the land. The book sparkles with humor and captures the sights, sounds, and smells, the valleys and woodlands of a country that has been practically Jesse Stuart's own, the Kentucky where he was born and spent most of his life. It is a book in which the storyteller is retelling his favorite tales once more, and describing how and why he wrote them, or where they belonged, both in his personal life and in the world he created.

MY LAND HAS A VOICE. You are now with Jesse Stuart in his country, the primal land of the Kentucky and Tennessee mountains. And you are listening to the voice of the land, which he has so magnificently embodied in almost thirty books. It is a gentle tour of this haunted region whose ways and lore, whose passion and whose myth Jesse Stuart relates with deceptive simplicity and profound understanding.

Dear Sir:

The outcome of the May primary election seems to have put the Democrats in a commanding position for the fall race. Henry Ward ended factionalism in the Democrat party when he won by almost 100,000 votes and received more than all the other candidates added together.

On the other hand, the Republicans had a bitter fight which left a bad taste in everyone's mouth. After reading all the things that Louie Nunn said about Marlow Cook and about all the personal insults which Nunn uttered, it is difficult to see how Cook's followers can support the Republican candidates this fall.

It was also good for the Democrats when that great and respected leader, John Sherman Cooper, rejected Nunn and announced his support for Cook. I don't believe that a person with the stature of Senator Cooper can support a Louie Nunn for governor of Kentucky.

Wedding Of Miss Cathy Campbell, Mr. John Burrow Of Social Interest

In a wedding of wide social interest Miss Cathy Campbell became the bride of John Robert Burrow, Saturday, June 17, at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. James Best officiating at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Campbell, and Mr. Burrow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Newton Burrow.

Against a background of fan shaped arrangements of Jade and Safal, a double brass spiral held myriad yellow tapers, to center the altar arrangements. On either side branched candelabra with yellow tapers, were entwined with greenery. Completing the setting were two baskets of white gladioli with yellow pom pom chrysanthemums.

The church aisles were marked with brass hurricane lamps holding yellow candles, and tied with white satin streamers and white satin roses. Garlands of greenery banked the choir rail.

As the guests gathered, John Reed, organist, provided a program of music, and for the ceremony used the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Nelson Tripp sang the "Song of Ruth," Gounod, and was joined by Norman White for the duet, "Oh, Lord Most Holy," Franck. Following the vows, Mr. White sang "Oh Perfect Love," Barnby.

Mrs. Norman Fulcher, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bonita Burrow, sister of the groom, Miss Margaret Omar, and Mrs. Stanley Jeffress.

The little Misses Lisa and Kim Campbell, nieces of the bride, were the junior bridesmaid and flower girl. The bridesmaids wore identical floor-length gowns of yellow linen with princess bodices and A-line skirts. They featured puffed sleeves with floral appliques and matching puffed mallet headresses with the same flower motif.

They carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white daisies interspersed with moss green baby's breath, and moss green satin streamers. The flower girl was attired in a candlelight dotted swiss gown with an empire waist and gathered skirt, featuring a yellow velvet sash trimmed with yellow centered medallions. She carried a white basket from which she dropped white rose petals.

Brent Burrow attended his brother as best man. Groomsman were Jerry Mack Weaks, William Whitworth of Sommerville, Tenn., and David Stroud of Watertown, Tenn. Ushers were Don Campbell the bride's brother, and Norman Fulcher, the bride's brother-in-law.

The moulded bodice featured a raised waist adorned with appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace. A Chapel train emanating from a bow at the waist fell in natural folds.

Her three-tiered elbow length veil of sheer silk illusion fell from candlelight ivory Alencon lace flowers sprinkled with pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow roses centered with a yellow throated white orchid.

Mrs. Campbell chose for her daughter's wedding a pale blue silk demi-fitted model, with a matching crushed lace straw hat. Her corsage was white cymbidium orchids nestled in blue ribbons and maline.

The mother of the groom was attired in a turquoise flat knit two-piece dress trimmed with white beaded motifs and a draped turquoise silk hat. She wore pink cymbidium orchids, with white maline and satin ribbons.

The wedding guests were invited by the bride's parents following the ceremony to a reception in Fellowship Hall. The entertaining room was decorated with baskets of daisies entwined with greenery.

The bride's table was overlaid with white net over taffeta and was centered with a Cambridge crystal centerpiece, which held three bouquets of daisies and lemon leaves, yellow candles, and was enhanced by sparkling prisms. Flanking the centerpiece were the punchbowl and wedding cake. The three tiered colonnade cake was decorated at each tier with yellow roses interspersed with tiny white wedding bells, and topped with larger wedding bells.

The guest register was placed on a table decorated in the same design as the bride's table. Presiding was Mrs. Goble Henson, aunt of the bride. About People and Things

Every now and then we get the hankering of "small talk" about people here and there. The news doesn't quite fit into everybody's column very well, nor is it styled for straight news . . . it's just small talk, that's all and refreshing as all get out.

Take the nice visit we had this week with Abb Smoot, a former Fultonian who arrived Monday for a visit with kith and kin out Water Valley way. Abb and his wife and son Frank, and Frank's wife and three children left Akron after Sunday School and headed for Fulton arriving in the early hours of Monday. Abb says they simply couldn't leave before Sunday School, because that would mar their fine record of attendance so they decided that travelling into the night was worth keeping up the church fellowship. The Smoots are visiting with the Wilson clan, of which Mrs. Smoot is a member.

not such a bad future to look forward to at all.

One day Gordon mozied into the News office and Clint Maxfield walked in right behind him. "Where do you think we ought to fish today?" one said to the other.

It didn't take long for them to decide since there are so many enticing lakes around these parts. Gordon fishes a lot with another retiree, Fred Gibson, and together they keep their friends supplied with the delicious catches. We have been promised a "mess" soon and we're certainly looking forward to it . . . at least until we can sit on a bank ourselves some day soon.

SMALL WORLD DEPARTMENT: When the man of our household went to St. Charles, Missouri earlier this month to bring Mary Jo home he met a lady there by the name of Mrs. Edith Pirtle from Jerseyville, Illinois. The lady was Linnie Clark's sister who had gone to the graduation exercises there with Kay Dwyer's mother, Mary Jo's close friend and classmate. You can imagine the "you don't mean it's" when they established their geographic kinship. The Dwyers and the Pirtles are related.

Ethel (Mrs. Tom) Westpheling and her daughter Terry McDaniel arrived Saturday night for an extended visit in Fulton while Tom is on a business trip to the east coast. They will be the house guests of Mrs. Ima Phelps and other friends while here. Ethel will be in the middle of the invitational golf tournament at Kentucky Dam Village next week as an interested observer and not a participant.

T. C. Taylor and his wife, two daughters and daughter-in-law, Phyllis, had an interesting and sentimental journey over the week-end. They motored to Fort Knox, Kentucky where Tommy Taylor is on a six-months tour of duty with the National Guard. Tommy looked happy and extremely well in his Army get-up and seemed as contented as can be.

It's not that she wouldn't like to be a participant, it's just that it's too late to enter. Tom was in the city for a brief stay, but winged out of Paducah Sunday afternoon for North Carolina.

It was a look into the past for frenzied lives we lead, but seeing as how Gordon Baird seems to be getting younger since he got out of the newspaper and printing business, we're beginning to think it's

We've never given a whole lot of thought to retirement from the frenzied lives we lead, but seeing as how Gordon Baird seems to be getting younger since he got out of the newspaper and printing business, we're beginning to think it's

Federal Grant May Ease Nurse Shortage, Gov. Breathitt Says

Negotiations are underway for a Federal grant which could help ease a shortage of nurses and other specialized medical technicians in Kentucky, Governor Edward T. Breathitt has announced.

The grant would pay for the cost of a staff to compile a comprehensive list of registered and practical nurses; occupational and physical therapists; laboratory, medical and X-ray technicians, and other specialized medical personnel in Kentucky, he said.

Names would be categorized and used by the Kentucky Nurses Association, (KNA,) the State Board of Nurses Registration and Education, hospitals and other agencies.

During Nurse Recognition Week in Kentucky (March 20-25), Governor Breathitt in a proclamation urged that all nurses, or anyone with nurses training, register at their local county court clerk's office.

Coordinating and assisting with the registry program is the KNA. According to Mrs. Marjorie B. Glaser, KNA president, "initial reports received indicate we are getting a good response, but not what we had hoped for."

"There are areas in the state where we believe we did not get an adequate response."

Mrs. Glaser said she is certain there are many unregistered nurses now in Kentucky that have come here with their husbands who have changed jobs or been transferred. Still others, she said, are inactive nurses no longer registered to practice.

"The KNA does not have adequate staff to make such a detailed study and the one-year Federal grant, if approved, would not only provide us with a list of available nurses, but also with a list of persons with other much-needed specialized medical skills," Mrs. Glaser stated.

Refresher courses under the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act will be established for long-inactive nurses who wish to return to practice, she said. Governor Breathitt has pointed out that Kentucky faces a growing shortage of nurses partially because of the implementation of medicare.

Unemployment Rate Drops

The rate of insured unemployment in Kentucky dropped from 6.3 per 100 workers in 1960 to 2.6 last year, the State Department of Economic Security reports.

Auto Collision Kills One, Six Others Injured

One person was killed and six injured in a head-on collision two miles south of here on U. S. 45-W about 5:50 p. m. Monday, June 19. The dead man was identified as Chester Blanton, 57-year-old carpenter from Hickman.

Weekly Rates For Unemployed Raised To $47

Unemployment compensation maximum benefits will be increased $2 a week to $47 for claims filed on or after July 1 of this year, Governor Edward T. Breathitt announced.

Breathitt says this is possible because an escalating clause to determine unemployment benefits was enacted by the 1966 General Assembly. The law provides that the Economic Security Commissioner shall determine the average weekly wage for insured employment and provide a maximum benefit based on 55 per cent of 85 per cent of the average weekly insured employment wage.

The average monthly employment in 1966 was 552,986 and total wages reported by employers covered by the law were $2,887,875,397, according to Economic Security Department records.

The average weekly wage for insured employment was $100.43. This is obtained by dividing the average monthly employment into total wages and dividing by 52.

Fifty-five per cent of 85 per cent of the average weekly wage of $100.43 is $46.95. The law permits rounding out the payment to the nearest multiple of one dollar.

is still as long as it ever was during war-time.

Tommy's mother, beaming as mothers will, asked why he didn't call home more often. Tommy said nary a word . . . just pointed to the line.

Don't suppose AT&T will ever make enough phones to accommodate the soldiers and please anxious parents the world over.

Our hectic life reported in a recent column seems to be as calm as can be to a lot of other folks, especially those who have small children in the family. A letter from Mrs. Bert Matthews in Clarksdale, Mississippi (Jo's sister) even goes so far as to say our life runs smoothly compared to hers.

Because the letter exemplifies the frenzy of many homes around here, we are publishing it for your comfort and amusement. There are four children in the Matthews family. Two boys, (about 12 and ten) a college sophomore and Tish, the one with a 28 pound baby boy.

Here's the letter:

Sunday Afternoon, "Resting"

Dear Jo:

The boys got your letter and were so glad to hear from you and so was I, but things in my household have gotten to the point that I am just about zany.

I read your column and if you think your household is go-go-go, you should see the utter confusion that I have.

First, Susan managed to get a very good job at Embart Manufacturing Company - it last until September 1st, pays $65 a week and overtime. She's in the main office, working some teletype machine and others. Has to be on the job at 7 a. m., gets off at 4 p. m., no Saturday work. She will earn about $600, and that "ain't hay."

Second, she has been "dropped" (modern lingo for fraternity pinned) by a boy from Oklahoma. She has been going with him for several months. A real handsome, smart boy. He is a pre-med student at Delta State. He is going to summer school at Delta State, so he is here from Friday afternoon until Sunday afternoon. So that means coming and going, telephone ringing, girls running in and out and such.

Bert, III is on a baseball team, so his games are twice a week starting at 5:30 p. m. and lasting until 7. Then he practices on the other days; of course, swimming on the off hours. Warren has several yard-mowing jobs, so mother has to pick up the lawn mower (75 pounds or so) and put in the car and then take him to the job and unload the mower. He calls when he is through and I go load the mower and bring him home. He collects $2.00 and I have a broken back.

Then - Tish has a steady job in Shelby, so she comes in early every Saturday morning to buy groceries and shop and pay bills, etc., and I keep the baby, who weighs 28 pounds. Then she stays through supper and goes home and maybe all three come back and look at TV until late shows. Are you getting tired yet?

Do you think I need a vacation or should I go to some rest home? Bert calls me the foreman.

Also, the wife of the fellow who works for Bert is expecting a baby any time from now 'til sometime in July, so Bert has to wait on that Miss Ruth Ann Burnette left Sunday for an extended visit with her sister, Jean, in Burbank, Calif. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Burnette.

It was fun when a group of kith and kin gathered at Reelfoot Lake last Sunday, June 18, at a lakeside restaurant. While it is obvious that many branches of the family were in attendance, it could not be called a "reunion" as such.

But all the folks had fun. We rather imagine that our old friend, Roy Maurer, who has written for the News and who lives in Roseville, Michigan, got the whole thing together. Here are the folks who attended:

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Maurer of Roseville, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Alvis and Mr. and Mrs. James Shelton of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Carol Smith and little sister, Belinda Jeffress of Martin, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Shelton and son Mark, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hopkins, Mrs. Nina Murchison, Mrs. D. J. Murchison and daughters Jamie and Vicki, Miss Allie Murchison, Mrs. Delma and sons, Leon, David and Stevie, all of Fulton, Route 1;

Also, Miss Brenda Thompson of Paris, Tenn.; Miss Sandra Colium of Hickman; Mrs. Brenda Todd of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Hayford Duke and Joe Lynn of Crutchfield; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Barkley and Greg of Clinton, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Duke of Water Valley, Route 1.

AUSTIN SPRINGS

By Mrs. Carey Frieids

Rev. Russell Rogers filled his regular appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday at 11 a. m. The evening worship follows BTU meeting at 6:30 p. m. It was announced some time ago that the summer revival will begin the third Sunday in July. The Rev. Pruitt of Pleasant View Church is the visiting minister at this series of meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lassiter and sons, Mark and Stevie, of Martin, were Sunday guests on Father's Day of their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Buton Lassiter.

The condition of Wess Jones grew much worse the past week and children have been at his bedside.

Messrs. Cecil Davis and J. W. Bynum have completed their wheat harvest, so have Buton Lassiter and James King. The yield has been only fair, due to heavy rains and some lowlands being flooded during May.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Nix, of Louisville, are spending vacation with their mother, Mrs. Martha Croft, and Mrs. Nix's parents in Madisonville. They will return the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Dave Mathis, this village, was stricken very sick the past week and her family physician was called out here to administer medication. She is now feeling some better, we are glad to report.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny True and son, and Mrs. Leonora True of New Florence, Mo., were here for Father's Day with Mr. and Mrs. Grover True. The younger True family attended the church services at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday.

Mrs. Mac Harris, of Jackson, Tenn., has been here the past few weeks, house guest of children, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harris.

Salt Seekers!

Salt was eagerly sought by early Kentucky settlers. In February, 1778, Daniel Boone and a party of 29 from Boonesborough were captured at Lower Blue Lick while making salt. All of the party except Boone were killed by the Indians. Boone made friends with the Indian chief and was adopted by him. Let's Speak Up For Kentucky.

Who reads the ads in the paper?

I don't.

So why should I advertise my store when I don't even read the ads myself?

Of course men don't read ads; men are strictly in the minority as buyers in the family. 88% of everything bought in the home is bought either by the women, or the selection is influenced by them.

Women are ALIVE each week to what's going on SPECIAL in the stores, and that's why we read the Fulton SHOPPER each Wednesday and the NEWS each Thursday. To a woman, advertising is "news" of what is able to save her money.

The Fulton Shopper goes swingin' up and down the streets of Fulton and Clinton . . . up and down the highways and byways of EVERY SINGLE MAIL ROUTE IN THE ENTIRE FULTON TRADE AREA every week of the year, singing a song of "best" buys in merchandise and services.

The Shopper is Fulton's SWINGIN' paper . . . live, newsy, well-printed and delivered into the mailbox each week, right on schedule. Six-thousand, two hundred mailboxes, to be exact, and that means it reaches twenty-five thousand pairs of eyes.

The FULTON SHOPPER is published each week by THE NEWS
209 Commercial, Fulton.

THINNING THE TREE CROP PROFITABLE

Proper spacing of the tree population in your forest at different stages of development is accomplished by thinning. Tree population directly affects the growth, health, and in many cases species of trees in timber land. Growth rate and local value are profoundly affected by adjusting the area allotted each tree. Hence, thinning is of vital importance in producing a desirable high quality forest.

Here are some examples; a well stocked 40 to 50 year old second growth hardwood stand grew 40 per cent faster after thinning. In another hardwood stand growth increased 70 per cent after thirty-eight per cent of the volume had been removed.

Growth habits of forest trees are regulated by their environment. Closely grown trees will usually be straight with single stems and narrow crowns. Lower branches die and drop away, leaving tall clean stems. This is where the lumber grade of U. S. No. 1 begins growth. Knots in lumber reduce strength for building and the desirability for use in finish work, thus it is of low value.

There are two critical factors that determine rate of growth in both height and diameter. They are soil condition and light. In regard to soil condition we refer to water, drainage, and available plant food. I am sure we have all seen the light factor here in our area where pine trees were planted by C. C. C. boys over thirty years ago and have made very poor growth. This is due to one thing, improper thinning and in most cases no thinning. This results only in unprofitable timber and an unhappy land owner. This is one reason why our woods are cut away more and more, most land owners just do not understand why trees do not grow without all this work. The purpose of thinning is to give the highest quality trees and the most desirable species, ample space for rapid development. Removal of competing weed-trees reduce the struggle for available light, moisture and plant food, therefore growth is concentrated on fewer stems. This will make marketable timber and more valuable wood products in much less time than nature, if left to her own devices. The farm forest should be treated as any other cash crop even though returns may seem rather slow at times.

If our other crops receive no more attention than forest areas it is doubtful that much profit would be realized from farming today.

In 1967, shall we resolve to give more care to our farm woodland.

RAIN NEEDED

Not too long ago farmers were worried - wanted all the rain to stop in order that their crops could be planted but now about all the farmers talk about is that a good rain is needed. Usually, when we write about the weather in our column, the weather changes or we get a good rain by the time the column is published in the paper. We have to write our column on Friday of each week so let's hope that we'll get that good rain before you read this.

We found last week while in the Harris Community, Thomas E. Hackett busy working with all kinds of vegetables that he grows for the market in Union City and Fulton. I was amazed at the number of vegetables that Mr. Hackett is producing. He has a never-ending job, for he keeps several large garden areas just as clean and neat as you will ever find any small garden plot.

NEW CHEMICAL ON THE WAY

Obion County farmers that attended the chemical field day at Jackson recently seemed impressed with the large amount of work being done in the developments of new chemicals to control insects and weeds, and grass in corn, cotton, and soybeans.

It looks as if we'll be using a lot of new chemicals on cotton and soybeans next year that we haven't been using before.

The misuse of chemicals is showing up on many crops. All farmers need to follow recommended rates as well as recommended chemicals for a particular crop. Attracting much interest was the equipment that was used to apply the chemi-icals. The machines do not have to be elaborate but must be accurate.

COTTON LOOKING ROUGH

Most of the cotton fields we have seen during the past week have looked pretty tough, due to insects such as thrips and fleabeetles chewing and sucking on the young cotton plant.

Thrips are very active, minute yellowish or brown pests generally found on seedling cotton. They cause the ragged puckered leaves on young plants and can destroy or reduce stands. In the last two years thrips have hurt stands and control of thrips is now recommended as a general practice. Control of thrips gets cotton off to a good start. This causes the cotton to open earlier and results in a large first picking. Once in a while, yield is increased.

Fleabeetles are small, jumping, black or tan and yellow striped beetles which retard growth of and often destroy stands of seedling cotton. These insects make indenting brown spots, stripes and holes in leaves by their feeding.

These insects on cotton can be controlled very easily and at a low insecticide cost per acre by using any of the following insecticides: Toxaphene, Malathion, DDT, Sevin, Dieldrin, or Endrin. If your cotton is bothered by these insects, one or two sprayings will make a great deal of difference in the looks of the cotton. Of course, the hot weather is making the cotton grow and will help about as much as anything.

Nice crowds attended church and Sunday School at Chapel Hill and Johnson's Grove Sunday. Bro. Smithmyer will be coming to Chapel Hill soon. Bro. Paul McClarin went to Martin circuit.

William Long has been on the sick list the last few days, suffering from an infected tooth.

Mrs. Bud Stem spent Saturday in Paducah with her granddaughter, Mrs. Kenny Roberts, who was injured in a car wreck one day last week.

Miss Pat Tolley, of Decaturville, Tenn., spent the week end with Miss Pamela Greer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Smith, of Illinois, spent the week end with her parents here.

The Parson Speaks

June 2, 1886

Dear Auntie,

Looking from the great arch rafter of this old church to the distant floor below, I see the worshippers there. They seem so small. Even mice feel greater when seeing people so little. But then I remember the size of me. I begin to wonder why it is that God loves so small a thing as man and mouse. And He loved us even to the extent that He took His place in this world to live the life of man.

Just think of that, Auntie, God became man! The eternal, omnipotent and all knowing God dwelt upon this earth as the Man Jesus Christ. But, Auntie, it appalls me to think that many there are who have the name Christian and yet do not believe this fundamental truth that Christ is God. They have been cheated in their faith by the limits of human reason. But God asked that we believe beyond the limit of mere reason upon the revelation of His divine Word.

To believe that Christ is God, it is necessary that one also accept certain other facts concerning Him, such as: that He existed before He came into the world; that He is one with the Father and Holy Spirit, since there is only one God; that He is all powerful; that He had the power to offer an infinite sacrifice for the sins of the world. Did Christ ever claim these truths for Himself? He certainly did.

St. John's Gospel begins with the claim, "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God, and the Word was God . . . and the Word became flesh and dwelt among us." Later in the Gospel people asked Christ if he were greater than Abraham and He replied, "Before Abraham was, I am." He was older than Abraham, who had lived 1800 years before Him. The night before Christ died Phillip asked him to reveal the Father, then all would believe. Christ lamented, "Have I been so long with you, and you have not known that he who sees me sees the Father. For I and the Father are one." St. Paul refers to Christ as the " . . . Fulness of the Godhead . . . in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." When asked under oath by the high priest if he were the Son of the living God, Christ proclaimed that He was. The high priest knew what He meant, for immediately he accused Christ of blasphemy.

Christ often referred to himself as "The Son of God." That is a term used to help us with a deeper knowledge to a further mystery called the Holy Trinity, the mystery of one God, but three divine persons in the unity of the Godhead.

Auntie, in all the ancient mythologies and pagan religions that claimed to have a god-become-man, we can never find where in history their god was foretold his coming before his arrival. Christ was foretold by the prophets for over a period of a thousand years before His birth by David, Jeremiah, Isaiah, and Malachia. When history proclaims Him before He acclaims himself, then history of which he is the Master is His credentials of being God. "He is the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End."

Mice and men are not small when they have God come to their earth and dwell among them.

Loving nephew,
Mousie

Introducing Our Churches - God's Agency For Spreading His Love

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, Serving the Fulton-South Fulton Area

James W. Best, Pastor

A Church That Cares Serves In The Spirit Of Jesus

"And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant: even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." (Matthew 20:27-28)

A Church That Stands For Something

First Baptist does not try to conform to society but seeks to permeate society with Christian ideals, ways, and purposes.

First Baptist does not try to agree with man's ideas, but seeks to know and proclaim the Word of God. His Word alone points the way of eternal life. Only God's love and wisdom are sufficient in directing one's relationship to church, home, community and world.

A Church Of Opportunities

In Worship — Sunday, 10:50 a. m., 7:30 p. m.
In Study, Training — Sunday, 9:45 a. m., 6:30 p. m.

about this episode before I violate some of the tenets of journalistic decency.

In the realm of unusual happenings last week Ruth Puckett takes the grand prize of them all. Ruth, all dressed up in a beautiful silk, Hawaiian gown (see photo this issue) and her hair coiffured handsomely, complete with beautiful orchid at her temple, heard a knock on the door just as she was about to leave for the service station's grand opening.

Feeling gay and frivolous, she pranced to the door, opened it with a great flourish, bowing low without looking at her callers and said:

"Come into my parlor, sweet friends," or something like that.

Well there wasn't much conversation from the doorway, and that's for sure.

When the silence deafened Ruth she looked up only to see two intinerant preachers looking aghast at her.

You can't win 'em all!

"One of the most important duties of this department is to insure there will be reasonableness, equity and fairness in the relations between policyholders and the insurance companies."

The new regulation sets forth guidelines, which Woodall said "are intended to forewarn companies and agents" about what type of representation "may result in the disapproval of policies, sales presentations and the revocation of agents' licenses and the companies' authority."

"The regulation," he said, is not directed at the companies per se, but to the unconscionable misrepresentations of agents . . . and not at the policies being offered, but to the sales techniques incidental to the insurance transaction."

A public hearing on the proposed new regulation was held here Jan. 20.

The station broke all records for sales and consumer interest, and that's understandable when one views the photos above. Cardinals Will Have Try-Outs In Paducah

The St. Louis Cardinals will stage a baseball tryout camp in Paducah, Kentucky on June 26 and 27, it was announced today by Farm Director George Silvey.

This is an opportunity for young players in the area to get in on all the action at Brooks Stadium, where the tryouts will get underway at 10 a. m. both days under the direction of longtime Red Bird talent scout W. H. "Buddy" Lewis. The sessions will be open to all players between 16 and 22, who should bring their own shoes, gloves and a uniform, if they have one.

"We're looking for hustling, Cardinal-type players for our seven-club farm system," said Silvey, "and this is a once-in-a-summer opportunity for those who have the tools to break into professional baseball . . . ability, desire, and the will to win."

No fee is required to participate in the tryouts. A player signed to a contract will be reimbursed for the expenses he incurs incident to the tryouts.

"We've been recognized developers of young baseball talent through the years," Silvey went on, "and many fine players have made it big the Cardinal way. With our staff of dedicated instructors and managers to teach and share their baseball know-how, an ambitious, talented newcomer has everything going for him with us. Baseball offers an exciting and rewarding career to a player who has big league potential. These tryouts could be a dream-come-true for someone. We're counting on a good turnout."

To take part an American Legion player must have a letter of approval from either his Legion Coach or Post Commander.

Students Asked To Speak About Draft-Lottery

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has encouraged all interested Kentucky high school students to write him their views on the Federal Government's draft-by-lottery program and student deferment policies.

The Governor's request came about as the result of question and answer sessions with the student bodies of Butler and Western High Schools in Jefferson County.

Asked his feelings on the draft and student deferments, the Governor said he had not formed an opinion yet and would reserve judgment until he gave the matter more study. At the same time, he urged students at the two schools to "speak out on these matters." Later he expanded the invitation for opinions to all Kentucky youngsters, declaring "18-year-olds are more keenly aware and more closely associated with the draft than anyone else."

"Every single opinion and viewpoint we receive will be valued," the Governor stated. Breathitt named one of his aides, Brig. General Jesse Lindsey, as coordinator of the student opinion project.

Besides the draft and deferment issues, the Governor suggested that the students air their views on any timely subject, including local, State and Federal Government matters.

The new schedules included teacher pay increases approved by the recent session of the state legislature. Raises also were approved for teachers in state junior colleges, vocational schools and special schools administered by the board.

The biggest increase was a $1,000 boost in the maximum salary for a teacher with a doctor's degree.

The new schedule of salary ranges includes:

- A minimum of $5,000 for an instructor with a bachelor's degree to a maximum of $10,500 for an instructor with a doctorate.
- Assistant professor with a master's, $6,400 minimum; $12,500 maximum with a doctorate.
- Associate professor with a master's, $6,400 minimum; $13,500 maximum with a doctorate.
- Professor with a master's, $7,000 minimum; $14,500 maximum with a doctorate.

The salary range for junior college teachers includes a $5,000 minimum for an instructor with a bachelor's degree to $12,500 for a professor with a doctor's degree.

At state vocational schools, the new salaries will go from a minimum of $7,200 for an associate instructor to a maximum of $13,200 for a professor with a master's degree.

The largest salary authorized by the board was $22,000 a year for Dr. C. C. Humphreys, president of Memphis State University.

State Will Keep Close Watch On Auto Repair Costs Under Inspection Law

FRANKFORT — The state plans to keep a sharp eye on authorized repairs and average costs under the compulsory vehicle inspection system.

"The public will be protected," says Dunlap Elliott, director of the program which begins Jan. 1 in Kentucky.

Under a plan now being drawn up as part of the regulations, a garage or service station will give a car or truck owner a copy of the inspection sheet showing repairs needed.

The motorist may have the work done any place within five days, then must take the inspection sheet back to the station for approval and issuance of a sticker.

One copy of the inspection form must be mailed by the inspection station to Frankfort. It will list not only the repairs authorized but the cost of each repair.

Elliott said the information will be audited continually in his division in the Public Safety Department.

"If we see one station is ordering an excess of one type of repair or replacement, we'll send a field inspector to find out why," he said.

"Likewise, if we see a station is consistently charging more than the average for an auto part or service, we'll investigate."

Elliott said these steps will be in addition to "an immediate response" by his agency to any complaint from a vehicle owner.

He said another protection for the public will be in the nature of the inspection itself. Instead of either rejection or approval, Kentucky has decided to use a third tactic called "borderline passage."

For instance, the inspecting mechanic finds that a car's brake linings are good but only for a few more months.

Although replacement will not be mandatory at the moment, the station will mark "borderline passage" for the brakes. It will tell the motorist his brakes will need relining before the next annual inspection.

"This is a service to the driver," Elliott said. "That way it will also keep him from blaming the inspection station if he has car trouble before a year is up."

No station will be allowed to do any repair work without an authorization from the vehicle owner.

But the motorist, who pays $2.50 for inspection, will have to pay the same fee again if he does not make necessary repairs within five days after the vehicle is checked.

Inspection will include checking all windows, windshield wipers, horn, rear view mirrors, outside lights, tires, exhaust system, turn signals and front suspension.

The service and parking brakes will be tested. At least one wheel will have to be removed in brake checking.

The first two months of inspection will be voluntary.

Then the operation goes on a digit system in which the last numeral of the 1968 license plate will indicate the months required for inspection.

To train mechanics and inspectors, Kentucky is waiting for a $271,000 grant. Classes will be held in vocational schools throughout the state.

Burglary Of Wingo Bank Fails

WINGO, Ky. — An undetermined number of thieves worked for several hours late Friday night in an attempt to enter the vault of the Bank of Wingo but were frightened away probably with only skinned knuckles to show for their efforts.

Neville Mays, president of the small bank, discovered the attempted burglary at noon today, when he noticed dirt on top of a cabinet in the vault.

Upon investigation, Mays noticed a hole in the tin roof of the bank building in a space between the vault and roof. He called the police and reported the incident.

A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent reported that a hole had been cut in the roof, using a brace and bit, after the thieves ripped off the tin. The thieves then chipped a hole approximately eight inches deep and three foot square in the concrete roof of the vault, not nearly through. The FBI said something apparently scared the men or men away.

FLUORIDES AND BONE DENSITY

In this technical age an obscure scientific term can flash suddenly into the headlines in terms of controversy which makes it overnight a fighting word. Such a term is fluoridation, as applied to the treatment of water supplies for the amelioration of dental decay, especially in children.

Fluoridation is based on observations initiated by the desire to know why children's teeth in certain areas of the country showed an unsightly mottling. This effect was identified as a result of excessive amounts of fluorides in the public water supplies, usually derived from ground waters. Accompanying the mottling, however, a marked resistance to decay was also noted. In areas with low fluoride levels, mottling did not occur. Dental decay was much more prevalent.

Decay Prevented
After intensive comparative studies and experimental work, a method was arrived at for adding minute quantities of fluorides to public water supplies. Remarkable improvement in dental decay followed where this measure was adopted.

Fluoridation provoked opposition. This has been the history of preventive measures from smallpox vaccination to measles eradication. There have always been the "agin'-its." Some of these were sincerely concerned about possible dangers; some were just afraid of the unknown; some saw a chance to stir up a row and profit from it in terms of publicity or whatever motivates the constitutional obstructionist.

It was the latter who introduced the diabolically clever claim that fluoridation of water supplies was feeding rat poison to children. There are still good, honest, misinformed people who believe this preposterous canard.

There were also physicians who feared that fluoride ingestion would tend to have unfavorable influences on bone growth in future years.

Fears Unfounded
These fears have not proved correct. Indeed, there is evidence now coming to light which indicates that elderly persons living in areas where natural waters contain fluorides, fare better than those from localities where fluorides are absent or low in amount.

Specifically, a bone disease called osteoporosis has been found more prevalent in fluoride-poor regions than in fluoride-rich locations.

Osteoporosis is a rarefaction of bone through loss of calcium which results in deformities, spontaneous fractures such as hip fractures and collapsed vertebrae. At the same time, calcium deposits in the aorta were higher in the low-fluoride areas. The arterial calcifications are significant by their relationship to heart and blood vessel diseases.

The consumption of milk and cheese (principal sources of calcium) did not appear to differ significantly between the areas compared.

Editorially, the Journal of the American Medical Association says: "Fluoride is another mineral element that has been found useful in human nutrition . . ."

After Deductions, Pay Check Is 1 Cent
MEMPHIS, Tenn. Mrs. Jack K. Guess received a pay check Friday from the Radio Corp. of America plant here for $00.01.

Mrs. Guess, injured in an auto accident May 12, was sent home by plant officials after they learned she was under doctor's orders not to do heavy work. She put in 12 minutes for the week.

Her gross pay for the 12 minutes was 38 cents. From that, the company deducted 35 cents for the local United Givers Fund and 2 cents for Social Security.

$12,600 Sought In Civil Suit

MAYFIELD, Ky. A tractor-truck collision near Water Valley in June, 1966, has resulted in a civil suit filed today in which James Robert Hancock, on his own behalf and as administrator of the estate of J. S. Hancock, deceased, seeks damages totaling $12,600.

Defendants in the action are Herschel Crittenden, Fulton, and Melrose Chemicals, Inc., 201 Broadway, South Fulton.

Hancock contends the accident was the result of reckless and careless driving by Crittenden. A jury trial is sought.

Obion County Youths Named

They're Members Of State Organization

Sixteen Obion County youths were named today as participants in the newly-launched "Youth In Government" program organized by Senator Howard Baker, Jr. Youngsters from virtually every school in the state will participate in the program which has gained the enthusiastic endorsement of leading school officials and educators from every area of Tennessee.

The Youth In Government program was established by Senator Baker to provide a framework for providing information and motivation for young people to participate in and learn about democratic government.

The first statewide meeting of the group will be held this Saturday morning at 10 at the Nashville Municipal Auditorium.

A State Department official will brief the students on the situation in Vietnam.

Senator Baker also plans to address the meeting. David White, state director of Youth In Government, will preside.

Obion Countians who will participate in the program are: Randall Burcham, Ellen L. Dahnke, Patricia Drupep, David Graham, Casey Hires, Mary L. Hutchison, J. A. M. S. Kendall, Chris Lynn and Karen Moss, all of Union City; Tim Caldwell, John Fowlkes and Carl Griffin, all of Troy; Wanda Nelson of Rives; Steve Ward and Bonnie Bowen of Obion and Billy Vestal of Kenton.

Mayfield Masons Are Honored For 25-Year Service

MAYFIELD, Ky. Twenty-five year awards were presented to 30 members of the Mayfield Masonic Lodge Thursday evening at the annual picnic of the Commandry Knights Templar.

John Chandler, Marion, grand senior warden of the grand lodge of Kentucky, made the presentations.

Election Commission For County Selected

The State Election Commission in Nashville today named members of the 95 county election commissions.

Named to serve for Obion County were Democrats T. F. Wallace and George C. Cloy and Republican J. C. Burdick. The three-member state commission usually makes such appointments by April of each year, but action was delayed because of pending bills in the legislature affecting composition of the local commissions. Most of the three-member county commissions are controlled by Democrats. But in 38 counties, Republicans have a 2-1 majority as a result of those counties voting for Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater in 1964.

Other appointments in this area:

Dyer — W. C. Moore, D; James W. Wilks, D; Gwyn H. Bowen, R.

Gibson — Bernie Shepherd, R; two vacancies.

Lake — William E. Paschall, D; W. C. Haynes Jr., D; Dalton Smyth, R.

Weakley — Jeter Oliver, D; Joe C. Holbrook, D; Dr. John S. Reed, R.

UTM Building Funds Okayed

The University of Tennessee board of trustees met in Knoxville today and approved a $31.5 million building program for the 1967-69 biennium, including $1.6 million for the University of Tennessee at Martin.

The Martin campus will use $1.1 million for the construction of a Fine Arts building and the remaining $500,000 for improvements to existing buildings and other local projects.

The trustees also approved a 4,100-seat addition to Neyland Stadium on the Knoxville campus. The addition will cost an estimated $750,000 and increase the stadium's seating capacity to 60,529. Work on the addition will begin following the 1967 football season.

The addition will be in the form of an upper deck to the stadium's east stands. An upper deck already has been built on the west stands.

The legislature approved $19.4 million in capital outlay funds for the university. U-T President Andrew D. Holt said

Medical Insurance Program Further Explained By Whitaker

"Medical insurance does not come between you and your doctor," Charles M. Whitaker, Social Security district manager, has pointed out, in an effort to clear up recent questions concerning the role of the doctor in the medical insurance part of the Medicare program.

Whitaker noted a person chooses his own doctor under medical insurance, which helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses.

"The question of whether you are to pay the doctor directly or whether he wishes to accept assignment of the bill is a decision entirely between you and your doctor," Whitaker pointed out. "If he accepts assignment, he will bill you only for 20 per cent of the reasonable charge and any portion of the $50 deductible that you may not yet have incurred in the year."

Whitaker suggested that a person who has had earlier expenses elsewhere be sure to show the doctor any Medicare utilization notices he may have received relating to the earlier claim.

Whitaker noted that a patient's doctor bill may be covered under the medical plan even if he is in a hospital that is not participating under the hospital insurance plan for regular care. "Every person 65 or over should read his Medicare handbook carefully; if the doctor accepts assignment and files the claim, the handbook helps the patient understand what has been paid by the medical plan and what he is personally responsible for. If the doctor is to be paid by the patient, the handbook explains how the patient may file the claim and get the Medicare payment," Whitaker said.

If medical care was in the state of Kentucky, the claim should be mailed to Medicare, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., P.O. Box 928, Lexington, Ky. 40500.

"The Social Security office is most willing to help people who feel they don't quite understand how to fill out their claim," Whitaker concluded. "This may happen most commonly with the first claim. If you need help, please bring your bills for doctor's care and other medical items with you when you see the Social Security people. These statements need to show how much was paid, when services were provided, and the nature of the service. Some doctors prefer to put this information on the lower half of the claims form instead of preparing the claim statement," Whitaker said.

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

THE CAPTAIN OF OUR SALVATION

understands all this. He knows that for the "old man" the death

Years ago a man of God was asked to preach at the funeral of a young soldier whose parents were unsaved.

During the course of his message the preacher sought to impress upon his hearers the basic fact that "the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans 6:23).

This greatly upset the parents. After the service they complained: "This is embarrassing. Our boy was not a sinner."

The truth was that shortly before his death this young man had done what every true, born-again Christian has done. He acknowledged himself to be a lost sinner and, trusting Christ as his Savior, had been so gloriously saved that his parents were mystified that he could be so happy in the face of death.

The simplest believer in Christ of the body is indeed a "dishonorable discharge" for laws broken, orders disobeyed, responsibilities unmet and trusts betrayed. But for the "new man" the death of the body is the vestibule through which he is ushered into the blessed presence of "the Captain of our Salvation." The One who "by the grace of God tasted death for every man" that He might "bring many sons to glory" (See Hebrews 2:9, 10).

This is why we read in Hebrews 2:14, 15:

"Forasmuch, then, as the children (of Adam) were partakers of flesh and blood, He (Christ) also Himself likewise took part of the same; that through death He might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;

"And deliver those who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage."

No wonder St. Paul's simple message of salvation was: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved" (Acts 16:31).

The honorees received corsages designed with a small plastic chair filled with tiny white carnations and a miniature bride. The hostess gifts were pottery casseroles.

Guests included Misses DeMyer and Cathy Campbell, the guests of honor; Mesdames J. E. Campbell, Mac Burrow, Gilbert DeMyer, Kenneth Bradley of Murray, Norman Fulcher, Don Campbell, Walter Voelpel, Charles Burrow, John Hughes of Murray, Robert Von Doren, Joe Holloway of Wingo, Donald Weldon of Mayfield, Terry Beadles, James Warren, Eugene Hootenpyle, Ual Killebrew, H. L. Bushart, C. R. Bennett, Fred Homra, R. V. Putnam, Ray Steele, Bill Robertson, Charles Fields, Bill Burnette of Murray, and Joe Johnson.

Also attending were Misses Jane Warren, Sally Hall, Judy Hootenpyle, Susan Burrow, Bonita Burrow, Jennye Hardy, Marilyn Hardy, Carol Dunn, Margaret Omar, Susan Walker, Carolyn Fly, Nancy Treas, Cindy Homra, Dee Fields, Sara Jane Poe, Barbara Brown, Carolinda Hales, Mary Grant DeMyer, Mary Martin, Nancy Bushart, Kate Brady of Clinton, Nancy Whitledge of Madisonville, Barbara Lattus, Nancy Shuff of Hickman, Marilyn Charlton of Wingo and Doris Elliott of Wingo.
