Mayfield Mail

Suddenly we are getting an awful lot of requests from Mayfield for back issues of the News containing comments in my Notebook where I discussed certain pay bills introduced in the General Assembly by Senator Carroll Hubbard.

Our files of the issue are almost depleted. If you intended to get a copy we suggest that you hurry.

A Great Experience

It was my pleasure to have been in Frankfort last Friday during the last, hectic hours of the General Assembly. Having been granted credentials to sit in the press section of both the House and Senate I had a clear view of the inner workings of these august, legislative bodies.

My views were like the song, "on a clear day (or night) you can see forever." Up until the early hours of Saturday morning, with the legislators dog-tired and sleepy new laws were being passed like there wasn't a single one on the books already.

I left the Governor's office about four a. m., but Governor Ford and his staff stayed until the last gavel had sounded and the Assembly had adjourned.

If anybody has the remote notion that Wendell Ford isn't his own man, they should think again. Some of the most astute and experienced legislators have told me that Wendell Ford is perhaps the most knowledgeable man in Kentucky about the inner workings of state government, and having seen his performance at close range last week, I can say they know whereof they speak.

The Bad Publicity

It is a sad commentary on my own profession that oftentimes the most controversial bills are given the widest publicity in the press. Alleged favoritism for "special interests" make good reading, but the truly great legislation that was enacted for the "little people" during the recent session has yet to be published.

Little has been said about the fact that the minimum wage for employees in Kentucky has been raised to the national level of $1.60 an hour. Previously it was something like 65 cents an hour, not what you would call a living wage.

Little has been said either about the generic drug bill that requires doctors to offer their patients the choice of prescriptions by brand name or by their generic equivalent. In simple terms this means that prescriptions can be filled much less expensively if the patient chooses to select the generic equivalent of the prescription rather than the highly advertised brand.

In the field of consumer protection the Ford Administration will stand out as the one in Kentucky history that gave "the little man" the opportunity to speak for himself.

Such legislation as the one that protects customers from being "skinned" by fly-by-night, high pressure magazine salesmen, roofing "experts," car salesmen, and scores of other "sales experts" are now on the rolls of Kentucky laws, that weren't there before Wendell Ford became governor.

On the statutes of Kentucky there is now a Consumers Advisory Council of 16 members who will be "watch dogs," of the public's purse strings. Governor Ford signed this consumer legislation on February 17. In discussing the matter with him I can tell you right now it is not going to be a "window dressing" Commission, but a real, live, and active group that will hear, and take action on complaints from consumers who have been defrauded by specious sales talk.

... And Many More

Some day I would like to find the time to document all the good legislation that the Ford Administration has sponsored and enacted into law during the last session.

If I do find that time, and I hope I will, you'll be able to feel, as I do, that this was truly a good year for consumer protection laws... that's you and me!

INSTANT INFERNO Monday night greeted Fulton firemen as they arrived at this scene in the Missionary Bottoms less than two minutes after the alarm was turned in. Building was the vacant old Cowell grocery, across Kentucky Avenue from the Coca-Cola plant, which can be seen at the right of the flames. Cause of the fire is unknown, but there are suspicions...

Another Vacant Building Becomes An Instant Inferno: Is It Arson?

(By Paul Westpheling)

Few things are as dreadful to hear as the fire siren being sounded late at night, for it always means trouble, generally bad trouble. Through the years, practically all of Fulton's disastrous fires in the business district have been discovered after the firms had closed, gone home and left something unattended that eventually burst into flame and quietly ate its way through the innards of a back room.

Thus it is, when we work late at night here at the News office, the piercing wail of the fire siren brings us to the street in a hurry.

Last Monday night was such a night. As the siren sounded, we ran to the street to see which way the truck was heading, and didn't even have to ask. The whole northern horizon was lit up by a big fire somewhere up in the Missionary bottoms area, and a quick trip up in that direction disclosed that the old Cowell Grocery building on Kentucky Avenue, across from the Coca-Cola plant, was a roaring inferno even before the truck arrived.

Fulton firemen were unable to put out the blaze, and had to confine their efforts to saving the large home next door, which they did, thanks to the fact that little wind was blowing.

This makes the third time in less than a year that the same sight has greeted firemen in this same area... and the third time that we have been on hand to witness a roaring inferno even before the fire trucks arrived.

The whole turn of events seems to be following a pattern; in each case the fire is in a vacant building, the pattern is confined to a small area of the city (see map), cause is unknown, and the fire gains such headway that total destruction is assured. And in practically every case there is substantial traffic on the street by the building for someone to detect and report a small blaze before it reaches the major proportions than did the fires included on the above map.

In other words, is there an arsonist, or arsonists, in the area? Local authorities admit to me that arson is hard to prove, and arsonists hard to catch, and thus far they have no leads, on any of the mys-

S. F. Methodist Plans Bar-B-Q Supper April 7

The South Fulton United Methodist Church will sponsor a barbecue supper Friday, April 7, at the South Fulton School Cafeteria from 4:30 p. m. until 7:30 p. m. The menu will consist of barbecue, potato salad, slaw, baked beans, pie and coffee or cold drinks.

Tickets will be sold in advance and at the door the night of the supper. Adults, $1.50 and children under 12 years of age, 75¢. You are requested to get tickets in advance if possible, so the food committee will have some idea as to how much food to prepare.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McGehee and Mr. and Mrs. Junior Bequette are chairman of the supper. For tickets call Gary Parker, 479-1583 or Curtis Murphy, 479-2789. Tickets may be purchased from other members of the church, also. All proceeds from the supper will be used in the church.

Candidate To Visit In Cayce

Sunday afternoon, March 26, from 3-5 p. m., there will be an open house at the Cayce Methodist Church for Kenneth Burkhardt, a nominee for representative of the First District to the U.S. Congress. Burkhardt is seeking the seat currently held by veteran congressman Frank A. Stubblefield.

People of the area are invited to meet Burkhardt, brother of Mrs. Joe B. Wall, formerly of Paducah, who is now residing in Crutchfield.

Judge Menees Says Home Rule For County Is Good And Bad

Suddenly, almost without realizing it, Kentucky's fiscal courts have achieved one of their long-sought goals. The Kentucky Legislature has granted their long-standing demand for home rule.

So quickly has the change come about that it undoubtedly will take most county fiscal courts some time to work into their new roles. For when Gov. Wendell Ford signs the bills into law, they will become different kinds of bodies. The change will mean more powers, and more responsibilities, for the county officials and more rights for the citizens.

In commenting on the new legislation James C. Menees, Judge of the Fulton County Fiscal Court, said that the measure would be very helpful in administering some phases of the court that heretofore have been impossible to do.

He added however that it could be dangerous in the hands of some office holders who might wish to raise taxes without prior approval of the people.

"While the new law does give courts a great deal of authority," Judge Menees said, "it also makes it possible for making sometimes costly expenditures that are not always extremely necessary," he said.

Heretofore, county governments have done very little governing. Essentially, they have been administrative arms of the state government with authority to collect property taxes, maintain roads, incur debts, pay bills and enforce state laws.

They have had no authority to enact their own ordinances, and whatever actions they undertook were narrowly circumscribed by the authority of the state.

The bill passed by the House last week, gives the Fiscal Court of every county the authority "to exercise all the rights, powers, franchises and privileges including the power to levy all taxes not in conflict with the Constitution and statutes of this state..."

The change is a historic one, altering the basic structure of Kentucky government. It will allow local problems to be solved by those best able to do so, the citizens themselves, acting through their elected local officials. Local problems can be attacked on a sustained basis (Continued on page 6)

Stubblefield Files Papers For Candidacy

Representative Frank A. Stubblefield filed his declaration papers as a candidate for re-election from Kentucky's First Congressional District Monday, his Washington office announced. He will be subject to the democratic primary to be held on May 23, 1972.

Representative Stubblefield is presently fourth ranking member of the House Agriculture Committee. He is chairman of the Dairy and Poultry Subcommittee. He also serves on the important Tobacco Subcommittee, and Conservation and Credit Subcommittee which handles Watershed programs with nineteen such projects being fully or partly located in his district.

Stubblefield believes his key positions on the Watershed Subcommittee and the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, which has jurisdiction over the nation's waterways, are a safeguard toward the continuance of these two important segments of federal funding for the First District.

County's Health Facilities Rated Outstanding; Exempt From Cuts

The health agencies in Graves, Calloway and McCracken counties were not affected by the recent budget cuts ordered by the State Department of Health in Frankfort.

The State Health Department's decision to reduce funds was based on an "effectiveness formula," according to Phillip R. Spangler, administrative director of the department's Office of Local Health.

"The State Department of Health is attempting to distribute its limited resources where they will be the most productive in providing health services to the citizens," Spangler said.

Each year the state supplements all local health department budgets with state and federal funds. Because expected income for 1971-1972 did not fully materialize, these funds had to be reduced until beginning of the next fiscal year July 1, 1972.

According to Spangler, the state did not want the most productive local departments to reduce their services. Each of the division directors was asked by Dr. William M. McElwain, health commissioner, to submit a list of the 30 most productive departments in the state.

The selections were based on the local department's analysis of community health needs, its efficiency, its effectiveness in planning and carrying out programs to meet those needs, and the amount of funding made available locally for each department.

Fulton County cheerleaders 'stars' of tournament

"We did the best we could have done and enjoyed every minute of our trip." Cheerleader captain Lucy Bondurant and her four cohorts Sherry Pickens, Carol Shaw, Ginger Yarbro and Jan White will never lose their pep and popularity.

Excitement, hunger and falling through a rather large crack made by making one bed for our five cheerleaders from two double beds, caused the girls to lose more sleep than they gained.

"They judged on every minute details, like a misplaced finger." Jan White pointed out that the squads were not allowed to run out to gain enthusiasm before presenting their cheer.

Lucy Bondurant stated that whereas the district competition winners chose the best squad as a whole and the regional competition was much more rigid than the district, the state contention was extremely difficult and the judges were very critical.

keeping in close touch with us while he wanders around the open spaces of the West.

While I hope that he will be coming home soon, I know that it won't be very soon if he intends to visit with all Paul's kith and kin and then visits close friends from San Diego to Portland.

I am hoping that he will get to San Francisco to see Kathryn and Carlos Lannom who live there. According to the latest travelogue we received he is headed that way.

He is also getting some good job offers out there which means . . . maybe he is following Horace Greeley's advice.

The Banana Festival

I was all set to start work on the Banana Festival full time this week-end but a quick invitation to fly on an industrial mission for the twin cities came up and I couldn't turn it down.

I will be appointing a Festival program committee this weke-end that I hope will come up with an exciting schedule that will be fun for the home-folks and the visitors as well.

Christine Batts, without whose services I daresay I would not have accepted the job, tells me that she has written almost 500 letters concerning the Festival to individuals, organizations and state and Federal agencies far and near. That gal just can't be beat.

Central American Trip

A lot of folks have been asking about the possibility of a goodwill mission to South America this Spring. I think it's a great idea. If the people who tell me they are interested will make definite plans to go we should have a plane load going beyond the border.

Since we have been to Ecuador and the Festival has been represented there more than once I think a trip that starts out in Mexico and goes on down to Costa Rica will be great. I have made the trip. It is really a life-time memory and a thing of beauty.

If you think you might be interested in such a safari how about calling Christine Batts and giving her your name. I'd ask you to call me, but I am so hard to find, what with commuting to Hickman each day and to Frankfort periodically for a few more weeks.

Last year I had an itinerary made of the trip, and the cost, and if enough people evince interest I shall publish chapter and verse about the trip in a coming issue.

Mexico City's Parks Are Big Sunday Hit

By Gordon M. Quarstrom

Mexico City - Sunday is always a festive family day in Mexico City's many parks. Entertainment is plentiful and varied. In some dozen parks there are regular midday band concerts or variety shows presented by performers appearing in the capital's leading night clubs. Thus, without charge, the general public is able to enjoy entertainment provided by vocalists and musicians of international repute whose contracts, to be approved by the municipal office of spectacles, must include one such courtesy performance.

Paul Miscoe of Mexicana Airlines informs me that Chapultepec Park - the city's largest - 1,400 acres - and most popular, attracts half a million visitors every Sunday. Aside from the noontime artistic fare, presented on the polo field adjoining the National Auditorium on Paseo de la Reforma, it has three lakes with boating facilities, two miniature railways, playgrounds, dozen of fountains, an amusement park complete with roller coaster and a wonderful zoo.

Four of Mexico's finest museums are located within its borders: History, housed in romantic Chapultepec Castle; Anthropology and Modern Art, both on the Reforma; and Natural History, on Constituyentes, in the new section of the park.

Small in comparison, but possessing a fascination all its own, is the Central Alameda in downtown Mexico City, between Juarez and Hidalgo avenues. It is a maze of shady, paved walkways, and dotted with fountains and sculptured figures. Sunday musical programs are staged in the Agustín Lara amphitheater.

PROSE BOWL: "Reporters Held in Contempt," says a newspaper headline. They certainly are! . . . Race cysts must be removed from the body politic . . . The family that shouts together, pouts together. — Harry C. Bauer.

INFLATION: Today it costs $10 to take a girl to lunch. When I was kid when you asked your father for $10 it meant you were getting married. Years ago a dollar went a long way: you could take a girl to dinner and a movie. I only had one problem, I couldn't find a girl who had a dollar. — Mickey Marvin.

Some kids seem to regard God as a celestial Santa Claus. Four-year-old Betty slipped into bed without saying her prayers one night, explaining to her mother, "There are some nights when I don't want anything." — Dick Van Dyke.

From Our Picture Album

WELL, HERE WE GO AGAIN: It didn't take but a few minutes after last week's paper was delivered for the phone calls to start coming in, and we were informed that the above photo was an assembly at SOUTH FULTON high school, not Fulton. Picture was made 20 or 21 years ago.

FULTON'S

Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

HERE ARE SOME MORE NEW BOOKS AT THE FULTON LIBRARY, NEW ONES ARE COMING IN EVERY WEEK.

THE PICTORIAL ENCYCLOPEDIA OF FISHES, by S. Frank. Fishes are the most ancient vertebrates in the world and their evolution can be traced back over 350-400 million years. Today they number some 25,000 species, found in every possible aquatic habitat from cave pools to the depths of the oceans. They present an amazing diversity of form, colour and mode of life. This book clearly illustrates the immense range of the world of fishes and also provides a wealth of information about their habitat, distribution and behavior.

HOW TO DECORATE FOR AND WITH ANTIQUES, by Ethel Hall Bjerkoe. Here is all the information a potential antique-shopper needs on what to look for in a particular style or period, plus practical, imaginative suggestions for owners of antique furniture on how to give their pieces the effective, appropriate setting they deserve.

PONDUE AND TABLE TOP COOKERY, by Marion Howells. Fondue cooking is fun for guests and hostess. This book tells you all you need to know about preparation, cooking and serving fondues; accompaniments to serve with fondues; and equipment. The secret of success, the author maintains, is in careful preparation and planning.

SEEING INTO THE FUTURE, by Harvey Day. Most people who visit astrologers, palmists, clairvoyants and other seers, do so furtively. If detected they usually seek to excuse themselves as children when caught raiding the larder. "I went just for the fun of it," or "to find out whether there is anything in it," or "because I was passing the place." Rarely because "She or he is so good and hits the nail on the head every time." This book has been written not to convince anyone of the truth or accuracy of the predictive arts. The writer seeks merely to set down predictions made by astrologers and palmists that have come true; and dreams that have outlined future events. Where possible, facts have been checked.

THE FIX-IT BOOK, by Arthur Symons. This book shows you how to become a successful do-it-yourselfer. You'll learn the right way to paint, care for the family car, fix radios and television sets, work with tools and repair electrical appliances. No longer will you have to depend on outside help for simple breakdowns, for you will be able to take the place of a plumber, carpenter, gardener, etc.

THE COMPLETE ILLUSTRATED BOOK OF YOGA, by Swami Vishnu-devananda. All the essential knowledge of the mental science of Yoga is contained in this complete handbook; asanas, breathing exercises, concentration, meditation, diet, and philosophy. Swami Vishnu-devananda, outstanding and accredited world authority and teacher of Hatha and Raja Yoga, explains and instructs in the most clear and direct language of words and pictures the means to the conquest of old age, disease and death through the development and understanding of timeless Yogic wisdom.

CHESS, MOVE BY MOVE, by Paul Langfield. This book explodes the myth that Chess is a difficult game. It shows that, with the correct tuition, it can be easy to play. One of the distinguishing features of this book is that it has been written with the beginner in mind, thus enabling even a child to learn without help. This book not only is instructive but also an attractive addition to any bookshelf.

ELECTRIC BLENDER RECIPES, by Mable Slegner. Here are many, many ways to make your electric blender the most versatile piece of equipment in your kitchen. Here are short-cuts to the best food you've ever set before family and friends. Here are recipes for breakfast, lunch, and dinner, for teen-age parties and evening snacks, for every course from hors d'oeuvres to dessert.

The Fulton law firm of Carr & Carr has been employed by the city to render their services during the forthcoming street improvement program; the firm of Black and Veatch of Kansas City has been employed as consulting engineers with E. W. Hopkins as resident engineer.

Forty-five boys at Fulton High have reported for spring baseball, and Coach Maddox is much encouraged by the prospects.

On March 18th the Fulton Commandery of Knights Templar elected and installed the following officers: C. A. Stephens, Commander; R. A. Stillely, General; J. A. Harpole, Captain-General; H. J. Potter, Senior Ward; A. W. Morris, Jr., Ward; D. Fred Worth, Prel.; H. M. Khourie, Treasurer; George C. Hall, Secretary; K. E. Homra, Standard Bearer; M. C. Bugg, Sword Bearer; H. H. Perce, Ward and G. E. Alverson, Sent.

A disastrous fire at the Orpheum theatre early Tuesday was barely brought under control before it engulfed surrounding buildings. The theatre will have to make major improvements before again resuming operation.

Reports from Hickman say that the Mississippi continues to rise and that all bottom lands are flooded, with water in some business houses in the city. Some are predicting that the water will pass the high mark of 1912, when the levee broke near Hickman and the Governor issued a general appeal for aid. People from surrounding country flocked into Hickman this week, having barely escaped the flood and losing all their possessions. A camp has been established near Carnegie library on the hill.

CAPITOL DIGEST

Edited by-
JIM WARREN

FRANKFORT, Ky.--The state Senate took a major step in governmental reorganization with the passage of a bill creating a centralized Department of Environmental Protection.

Such an umbrella agency for controlling environmental affairs was one of Gov. Wendell H. Ford's major campaign promises. The bill, which already has passed the House, now goes back to that body for concurrence in some amendments adopted by the Senate. If the House concurs, as expected, the bill then goes to Governor Ford for his signature.

The new department, to begin life Jan. 1, 1973, absorbs the duties of the air and water pollution control commissions and the Division of Reclamation, as well as certain environmental responsibilities now handled by the Health Department.

It also permits any citizen to sue for enforcement of any environmental law or regulation.

The environmental protection commissioner will be empowered to adopt regulations, issue abatement orders or grant exemptions from such regulations.

An amendment added by the Senate would bring truck and automobile noise under the supervision of the department.

The state Senate passed and sent to Governor Ford a bill giving Kentucky its first statewide public defender system for defense of needy persons in serious criminal cases.

It would allow the governor to appoint a state public defender who would then select district defenders for Kentucky's judicial districts. Also, districts would be able to establish their own defender programs, in which case local fiscal courts would appoint defenders.

Counties with judicial districts containing 10 or more district judges would be required to establish a public defender office and smaller judicial districts may establish a plan of appointed counsel.

Costs of the program would be shared by both state and local governments.

After some early problems the House passed a bill giving members of the General Assembly a $100-per-month raise in expense allowances and corrected a mistake it made earlier.

As originally passed, House Bill 401 only granted raises for appellate and circuit judges, but the Senate added an amendment raising legislators' expense allowances and sent the measure back to the House for approval.

The House passed the measure 46 to 30, although at the time no one realized the bill required 51 votes since the Constitution requires that number to pass appropriations bills.

The measure was then brought up for reconsideration and, this time, passed 57-28, giving it the required number of votes.

The bill increased the legislators' monthly allowance from $300 to $400, increased the annual salary of Court of Appeals judges from $26,000 to $29,000 and upped circuit judges' salaries from $17,500 to $23,500. Appeals Court commissioners salaries were also increased, from $22,500 to $25,000 per year.

A bill to allow off-track betting in Kentucky died quietly at the starting gate as it was tabled in the House on a 61-20 vote.

The measure was opposed primarily on moral grounds although its sponsors, Rep. Jerry Kleier, D-Louisville, and Rep. Bruce Blythe, R-Louisville, said it would provide a "gold mine" of needed revenue as well as license and control a flourishing illegal business.

To make the bill more palatable, a committee substitute was added that would return half the revenue from the licensing of bookies to schools in districts where they operate.

It also provided for legalization of off-track wagering on a local-option basis.

Opponents still attacked the bill as having bad effects on public morals and on the racing business.

Rep. Bart Peak, D-Lexington, said the bill might tempt persons who normally do not bet to begin wagering, while Rep. Dexter Wright, R-Louisville, said it might cause many persons in the racing business to lose their jobs.

The Senate unanimously passed a bill requiring the state Highway Department to pay for moving poles, pipes and other facilities of publicly owned utilities when required in federal-aid highway construction.

Already passed by the House, the measure now goes to Governor Ford for signing.

Payment for relocation of such facilities has long been a problem and some 52 publicly owned water, sewer and gas utilities now owe the state $437,168 for relocation work completed before 1970.

Relocations normally are done by highway contractors, who then bill the costs to the utilities.

The measure would require the state to pay for relocations made only after Jan. 1, 1972.

However, legislators say its passage probably will enforce the Highway Department's current policy of not pressing for payment of past debts.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford signed into law 17 more bills passed by the General Assembly, including measures to establish a Governor's Council on Agriculture and revamp the current Council on Public Higher Education.

The latter measure would allow the governor to appoint all new members to the council or reappoint incumbents at his discretion and increase the number of lay members to 10.

In addition the bill would add the state school superintendent as a voting member of the council and the presidents of state-supported universities as non-voting members.

It also would give university status to Kentucky State College.

The agriculture council, to be selected by the governor, would be authorized to "develop and promote agriculture and agri-business at the local, state and national levels."

Other measures signed would protect endangered species of animals, grant compensatory time to state employees in supervisory positions and increase the membership of the State Public Service Commission.

Hi Jo!

I just received "The News" and as usual, stopped what I was doing to see what's happening in Fulton. I enjoy "Do You Remember This?" so I carefully looked at the people and wondered who they were. Then I read the caption. I was really surprised to see my name, because that isn't my kind of scowl. Besides, Friend-of-Mine, that picture must have been a little before my time at F. H. S. Anyway, after seeing that picture, I read the paper with a big smile on my face!

Sincerely,
Judy B. Singleton

P.S.- Who are those folks?

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN
"Oh, Hollywood was wonderful, but I decided I didn't want a career in television, and that's why I came back home." (She was a file clerk with the smallest TV station in town.)

"You won't be sorry about signing this lease. The apartment has truly a wonderful view, for miles and miles." (You see six miles straight up, when the smog isn't too bad.)

SOCIETY - WOMAN'S INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. Verderese

Miss Owens and Mr. Verderese Wed

At seven o'clock in the evening, February 11, in Saint Gerard Catholic Church, Lansing, Mich., Miss Connie Owens and Dominic F. Verderese were united in marriage.

Miss Owens is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Gene Owens, South Fulton, and Mr. Verderese is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic A. Verderese of Lansing.

Father Webber officiated at the impressive double-ring service. The couple pledged their vows before an altar of greenery, white mums and yellow and apricot roses.

Following the pledging of vows the bridal couple presented each of their mothers with a long stemmed apricot-colored rose, a symbol of love.

The family pews were marked with ivory satin streamers, tied in love-knots. Music was presented by Mrs. Pauline Redmond and Mrs. Ester Novice of Lansing. Mrs. Novice sang "Ave Marie," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Love Story." The traditional wedding marches were used.

Miss Owens, given in marriage by her father, walked down the aisle to the altar on a beautiful white runner. She was lovely in a full-length gown of ivory silk over taffeta, with alcon lace and seed pearl trim. The bodice was fashioned with a small stand-up collar, and long bishop lace sleeves. The skirt was full with applique designs of lace and seed pearls. The detachable chapel

Twenty-Four Attend Landscape Class

Twenty-four members were present at the March 16 meeting of the landscape class at the Community Center.

James M. Everett, instructor, presented a slide series. The class discussed various aspects presented in the slides. The session was an excellent review plus it presented additional information on the extras in planting.

Refreshments were served after which a drawing was held. The following received a new type of tomato food fertilizer; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitesell, Mrs. Arch Huddleston and Mrs. Lonnie Duncan.

The following is the schedule of events for the class:

March 23—Personal design, individual problems and civic beautification.

March 30—Management of trees, shrubs, flowers and lawns.

April 6—Plant selections and identification.

April 13—Banquet and tour at Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mac Reams

Brenda Combs, Roy Mac Reams United In February Ceremony

On Saturday, February 19, at two o'clock in the afternoon Miss Brenda Sue Combs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion J. Combs of Middletown, Ohio, and Roy Mac Reams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Reams of South Fulton, exchanged wedding vows at the Duncan Memorial Chapel in Crestwood, Kentucky.

The Reverend George A. Price of Louisville performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which held a floral arrangement of gladiolus and pom-poms. A seven branched candleabra of burning tapers was placed on either side of the altar. White satin bows marked the family pews.

A program of bridal music was presented by Mrs. W.W. Harbour of Crestwood including organ selections of "Theme from Romeo and Juliet," "Theme from Love Story," "Twelfth of Never," and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Bill Miller of Louisville, was lovely in a pure white peau de sole and lace formal length gown styled with a fitted bodice. Lace overlaid ornamented with seed pearls accentuated a Mandarin collar trimmed in pearls. The Cameleot sleeves were made of georgette and buttoned at the wrist with six covered buttons. The gown, which swept gently to the floor, was adorned with lace appliques on the gathered skirt forming a chapel length train. The headpiece had a chapel length illusion veil attached. She carried a cascade bouquet of twelve white roses mixed with baby's breath and streamers of satin ribbons tied in love knots.

The bride chose as her maid of honor her aunt, Miss Vera Sizemore of Marion, Indiana. Mrs. Teresa Knott of Louisville served as the bridesmaid. Mrs. Knott's daughter, Tamela Joy, served as the flower girl. All wore formal length A-line gowns of red velvet with scooped necklines and long sleeves. Their headpieces were matching Dior bows with illusion veils. The maid of honor and bridesmaid carried French bouquets of red and white carnations.

Notes and News From— Haws Memorial

The Tri-County Homemakers really gave a bang-up birthday party last week. Judy Wells had charge of arrangements and led group singing. Different songs were requested and enjoyed during the party. Gwendolyn Bizzell led games and the winners were Connie LeCormu, Harry George and Mary Dowdy.

The Homemakers presented each patient with a shamrock favor. The ladies celebrating birthdays were given red roses to wear. Each honoree received a surprise birthday gift.

Refreshments of punch and cookies were made and served by the Homemakers.

Last Sunday morning children from the kindergarten, first and second grade department of the First Methodist Church came out and sang several songs for us. They looked adorable wearing white robes and big red bows.

Gene Whitesell, their music teacher, deserves credit for the fine work she is doing with the children. Those attending from the kindergarten dept. were: Margaret Peterson, Anna Woolf, Nanette McConnell, Vonda Goodwin, Scott McDade, John Varden, Joe and Kelly Ragsdale, Craig Atwill, and Brad Mullenburg.

First graders were: Scott DeHart, Genie B. Whitesell, Boyd Templeton, Shannon Owens and Barbara Baker.

Second graders were: Laura Mullenburg, Valerie Homra, Angie Henson, Allen Homra, Ty McConnell, Joe Mac Treas and Rick Cardwell.

Monday morning we had a beehive of activity. Several talented members of the B & P W club came laden with a delicious variety of spring flowers and Easter ornaments. For a while the dining room was converted into a florist workshop with Helen Allen, Helen Taylor, Gladys Simpson, Virginia Holly and Ruth Puckett arranging beautiful spring bouquets for each dining table. One only has to walk into the dining room to know spring has arrived.

Homemakers Mary Ann Fields, Marion Walker and Miss Myra Seacore were busy at near-by table cutting and sewing up animals for the patients to stuff. Mrs. Moser completed an adorable multicolor cat stuffed with nylon stockings. We can always use old stockings of if you have any to discard please discard them our way.

This coming Sunday at 3:30 we are looking forward to having piano students of Mrs. Umphrey McKendree perform for us.

The bride's cake was a three-tiered white cake, decorated with yellow and apricot flowers. It was topped with a miniature bride and groom, doves and angels. The groom's cake was chocolate made in heart shape.

Following the reception the couple left on a wedding trip to Benecia, Calif., where the groom is stationed in the U.S. Navy.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic A. Verderese entertained the members of the wedding party at 8 o'clock in the evening on Feb. 10, with a delicious steak dinner at Tarpoffs Restaurant.

The table was draped in a gold linen cloth, with a beautiful orange and yellow flower arrangement, flanked with burning pale yellow candles.

Miss Owens was lovely in a red, white and blue knit dress with red accessories.

Those attending were Miss Owens and Mr. Verderese, the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Owens, parents of the bride, Mrs. Jan Pentecost, Miss Adel Verderese, Miss Rosanne Verderese, Dave Holland, Jerry Johnson, Nick Pavona, Guy Verderese, Mrs. Vela Hawks of Dukedom, Tennessee, Mrs. James Hewitt of Mayfield, aunts of the bride, who were special guests, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Verderese.

Linen And Personal Shower

Miss Connie Owens was honored with a linen and personal shower at the home of Mrs. Jan Pentecost at East Lansing at 2:30 p.m. on January 30. Hostesses were Miss Adel and Rosanne Verderese and Mrs. Pentecost.

The honoree was lovely in a brown and gold pantsuit. Special guests were the honoree's mother, Mrs. Owens, the groom's mother, Mrs. Verderese, Mrs. Peter Decera and Mrs. Patsy Verderese, the groom's grandmothers, Mrs. James Hewitt of Mayfield, Mrs. Velva Hawks of Dukedom, Tennessee.

About fifty guests called between the hours of two and five in the afternoon.

Ann Landers

—Your Problems Bring Answers—

Dear Ann Landers: I am so furious I don't know what to do. I need your help. Last weekend we had a family reunion. The house was full of relatives and I was busy in the kitchen a good bit of the time.

A 17-year-old nephew seemed to be hanging around our little girl. She had all of her clothes off and he was "examining" her. I expressed my anger in unmistakable language. What burned me up more than anything was his casual attitude, "I was just messing around," he said. "What are you so excited about?"

He asked me to do him a favor and not mention the matter to his mother. So far I haven't said anything to anyone. My husband would thrash the boy within an inch of his life if he knew. I don't know what his own father would do. Am I making a mistake by keeping this to myself? Please give me some advice, Ann. I'm very upset.—St. Louis Dilemma.

Dear Dilemma: When two kids "play doctor" it's nothing to become alarmed about—but a 17-year-old boy is no little kid. You should do two things. First, explain to your little girl that her body is private and she should not allow anybody to take liberties with it. Instruct her to tell you at once if anyone tries. Second, tell the boy's mother what occurred. If he is making a practice of "messing around" with little girls his parents should take him for psychological testing and treatment if it is indicated.

Dear Ann Landers: How do you tell someone you love that a personality trait of his drives people up the wall? Jim is so slow in conversation that it takes tremendous self control to keep from shrieking, "For Lord's sake hurry up and get to the point!" You know what he is going to say long before he says it. Friends and relatives suffer in silence. Their discomfort is apparent to everyone but Jim.

Employers are not so compassionate. Jim just lost his seventh job in four years and he is very depressed. He has no concept of how he comes across to others, in spite of the hints. He considers himself methodical and blames the job losses on "people who are out to get him."

This trait is ruining our lives and I'm so worried I'm sick. I can't bear to hurt his pride by telling him he's so slow he irritates people beyond belief and that only friends and relatives will put up with it.—Sign Me Ill and Tired Because I'm Both.

Dear Ill and Tired: For the love of heaven TELL HIM in plain language exactly what you have told me. Your silence is hurting him worse than anything you might say. Perhaps he cannot conquer the habit completely, but he should be told so he can go to work on it.

Dear Ann Landers: There are several girls in our family and we all have children under three years of age. Will you please settle something? Should we leave porcelain figurines, crystal ashtrays, and fragile knickknacks within reach of busy little hands and try to teach the children not to touch? Or is it better to put nice things away until the children are older?—P.A.M.

Dear P.A.M.: When my own daughter was a toddler I never put anything out of her reach. I taught her not to touch them. Margo has trained her three children the same way. The only important loss I ever suffered was a crack in a Dorothy Doughty figurine—by a 50-year-old guest from Seattle.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, (16¢ postage), to Ann Landers

Local Group Will Sponsor Sunrise Service

The Twin-Cities Ministerial Alliance announce plans for the Annual Community Sunrise Service.

The service will be held at the First United Methodist Church, Easter morning, April 2, at 7:00 a.m. The speaker is Rev. Gerald Stow, Pastor of the South Fulton Baptist Church, and also the President of the Twin-Cities Ministerial Alliance.

Mr. Barry Adams, Director of Music, of the First United Methodist Church, will be in charge of the music. There will be organ music by Norma Adams, hymn singing by the congregation, special music by a community choir, and a quartet from the First Baptist Church. The members of the quartet are Scottie and Sheryl Bell, and Marilyn and Allen McKendree, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Underwood.

The ushers are selected from various churches. The names received to date are: Elmer Lilliker, Mike Crider, C.A. Boyd and Billy Clark.

Several ministers from various churches will also take part in this service.

The offering is used by the Ministerial Alliance to help transients passing through our city who are stranded, and who need food or shelter or other assistance.

We urge everyone to attend this important Community Service.

Cubb Stokes Out West In Big Leagues

Once again, Cubb Stokes is in the news! The son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stokes, Jr., Cubb is a sophomore at the University of Tennessee and making quite a name for himself in the world of sports.

After having been named both "Athlete of the Year" and "Most Valuable Player," his senior year at Fulton County High School, last year he was said, by his coach, to have been the best defensive first baseman the Tennessee Vols freshman team had, leading the team with a batting average of .400.

The Tennessee Vols will be one of eight top-ranked teams to compete in the Riverside California National Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament. The seven teams with which UT will be competing are Stanford, Cornell, U.C.L.A. and Arizona State, University of California-Riverside Branch, Santa Clara and South Carolina.

Tennessee's season opened with the defending champion, Stanford, on Monday, Tuesday they will play against Cornell.

Wednesday, the Vols take on both U.C.L.A. and Arizona State, Friday, U.C.-Riverside and Santa Clara, and Saturday, South Carolina.

Tennessee's unbeaten baseballers opened their season with a twinbill win over the Chattanooga branch of UT. Saturday, they defeated Eastern Kentucky University.

Ironically, Stokes' high school coach, Steve Speed, attended the same tournament, and played the same position in 1966, while he was a student at UT.

MSU's WKMS - FM "Switches" To Stereo Sound

A push of a button Wednesday afternoon, March 18, switched WKMS-FM Radio on the Murray State University campus from monaural to stereophonic sound.

Mary Devine, a junior at Murray High School, was selected by drawing to do the honors in the studios on the sixth floor of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center. Dr. Thomas O. Morgan, director of the division of radio-television, served as master of ceremonies during the program marking what he called "another historic milestone in broadcasting on the Murray State campus."

Several university officials, including President Harry M. Sparks--along with students, faculty and interested citizens in the community--were on hand to witness the transaction.

All equipment in the student-operated station which went on the air May 11, 1970, was designed for stereo, but the station had continued to broadcast monaural until the move into the studios had been completed.

Dr. Sparks offered his congratulations and commented that he is "tremendously impressed with the broadcasting facilities at Murray State." He noted the dual value of campus broadcasting as job training for students and as a university public relations tool.

WKMS-FM covers a primary area encompassing about 515,000 people within a 75-mile radius. Secondary coverage expands the total number to 850,000 in Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri, Indiana and Tennessee.

Effective radiated power for the station, operating on a frequency of 91.3 megacycles, is Harold J. Meyer, professor of military science at U-T Martin.

Regular Army commissions are awarded to the most outstanding ROTC cadets throughout the nation who desire careers in the military.

Dr. Ray Mofield, chairman of the department of communications, is the station general manager.

GOP Senatorial Candidate Defends Nixon's Busing Policies

In a sharply worded address, Republican senatorial candidate Robert Gable attacked the critics of President Nixon's plan to end busing and charged that, "if his plan is rejected in Congress and by the Supreme Court that Kentucky taxpayers could well be paying an annual busing bill of $13,500,000 and Fulton County might well lose $140,000 allocated for rural school improvement under the Equal Educational Opportunities Act."

Speaking recently at the University of Louisville before a joint meeting of young Republicans co-sponsored by the Louisville/Jefferson County and Metro Young Republican Clubs, Gable said, "The critics of President Nixon's plan did not understand the true nature of busing, which is expensive, improper, legally questionable, and a cruel hoax on our youngsters." Gable said that the President's critics ignored the social and psychological damage to our youngsters and were completely unrealistic in ignoring the financial burdens that would be imposed, "if the national wave of busing is not turned back."

He added that, "Effective busing, if applied, would put a staggering annual burden on many Kentucky school budgets." Among examples cited, were: Louisville $2,000,000; Lexington $815,000; Ashland $225,000; Owensboro $285,000; and Paducah $210,000.

Praising the President's Equal Educational Opportunities Act, Gable said, "Kentucky rural schools could benefit by as much as $20,000,000 for upgrading the level of education to meet that enjoyed by the metro suburban schools."

He charged that, "Failure to enact the President's program could well result in many Kentucky school systems releasing large numbers of teachers or substantially reducing the quality of educational service now offered to include the expense of enforced busing within the funds now available to them."

Gable supported the President's position that busing could not achieve the nation's goal of racial understanding and cooperation. He said, "Racial hatred will result from mutual respect and mutual effort working out of better education and work opportunity for all ethnic segments of our population, and not from court-enforced busing."

Gable stated that the President was not the only target of busing proponents, adding that the liberal left-wing democratic leadership and some segments of the media continually try to label any and all busing opponents as "bigoted racists" who were "trying to make political hay out of a moral" issue. Americans would take them more seriously, Gable continued "if they weren't so busy compounding a monumental hypocrisy by sending their own youngsters out of the central city to private schools which are not integrated."

"When these 'architects of hypocrisy' label busing opponents as bigots, they are painting more than 77% of the population, black and white alike, with the same brush," Gable said referring to a recent Gallup Poll and the Florida Primary which revealed that a large majority of black and white parents opposed busing to achieve racial balance.

"Certainly, some of the anti-busing sentiment is the product of racism and emotion, yet I am convinced that the mainstream of America opposes busing for more logical and more educated reasons. Busing is a corrosive force eating away at the fiber of our educational system. Busing poses a dire financial threat to many Kentucky cities and counties. Busing ominously imperials the sociological fabric of our established neighborhood patterns. And, busing is a menacing and sinister assault on the psychological well-being of the American family institution." Gable stated.

Gable termed busing a "heartless experiment with the education and lives of our youngsters which could deny them many activities, such as athletics, bands, clubs, and non-scholastic, school-related experiences, while they waste precious time on time-consuming trips to distant schools."

"In ten to twenty years we will look back in horror upon the invasion of privacy, heartache and violation of individual rights we have imposed on a whole generation of children and their parents."

Gable said that proponents of busing misunderstood the motives of many who have moved to the suburbs over the past two decades. "These enraged liberals are striking out blindly at anyone who has moved to the suburbs. Whether their purpose was to get more room, more fresh air, a healthier environment for their youngsters, less traffic, to save money, or whatever, the Busing Barons see this move only as a flight to avoid integration in housing and in education.

"In Richmond, Virginia, the enraged, intemperate arm of legalized punitive injustice reached across county and school district lines to impose massive busing on innocent children and their parents, Gable said.

On the subject of legislation, Gable said, "As things now stand, legislation may be potentially powerless to help as anything Congress passes on busing may be considered by the courts to be in conflict with constitutional provisions. It may be necessary to pass a narrow spectrum constitutional amendment or secure relief from this dilemma in spite of the President's fears about the length of time involved. In this situation, I would support such an amendment," he added.

Returning to the principles underlying busing, Gable said, "If this pre-doomed idiot's charade is played out to its tragic end, we will find we have set our civil rights movement and racial understanding back, not years, but decades. Our bitter legacy will be a people torn apart to appease the impatient, impractical demands of impractical visionaries and cynical politicians who neither see, nor understand the problems and obstacles that America must overcome before it reaches a lasting state of harmonious relationship between its ethnic groups.

"Racial understanding cannot be legislated or crammed down people's throats. It must grow out of mutual respect and mutual effort. It will take time, patience, money, and education, academic education, job education and an economic upgrading that must come, not from charity, not from welfare, but from the opportunity to work and the ennobling, strengthening exercise of honest work," Gable said.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nelson are the proud grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Ainley went to Farmington to help her eldest sister celebrate her 80th birthday Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Rubie Thomas and son are moving to the former Charlie Vincent place. They have recently sold their home to Velva Hawks, Ollie, Charles and Anna Lou Vincent have purchased a home in Mayfield since the death of their mother and are living there now.

ROUTE THREE

Mrs. Aline Williams

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Mydett, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cannon and Mrs. Mary Cavender attended church at Old Bethel Sunday morning. They later drove to visit with Elder Larimer who is recuperating from an operation he had last week. Elder Raymond of Mississippi filled Elder Larimer's place at Old Bethel Sunday then he and his family had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Revel Moody. Mrs. Kaira Williams of Water Valley is not doing too well since she had surgery last Tuesday. We do wish a speedy recovery for her. Mrs. Dorothy Hopkins is a patient in Hillview Hospital and we wish a speedy recovery for her. Mrs. Welch Cavender has a beautiful white, long-haired cat and would like to sell him. Her telephone number is listed in Dukedom. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Ross, Mrs. Maggie House and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams visited with Mr. and Mrs. Welch Cavender a while Saturday evening. We visited with Mrs. Jerry Jones, Mrs. Homer Ross and Harvey Vaughan in the Fulton Hospital Thursday and do wish a speedy recovery for all of them. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cannon spent part of last week in Memphis with their daughter Mrs. Mary Beth Gavrock and family and are glad to report all are doing fine and all enjoyed being together. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams visited with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Bernel Lowery a while Sunday afternoon. We are glad to report we found Violet and Onie both in good spirits and do hope they can have a lot of happy days ahead. Mrs. Henson Jones is reported to be some better. We hope she can soon be home again. Mrs. Ellen Rawland and little grandson and Mr. and Mrs. L.J. Williams and Roger Joe visited Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams a while Saturday afternoon. I returned home Monday after a week in the Hillview Hospital. I am better now and I wish to thank all you wonderful folks who sent all the pretty cards and flowers and took time to call. I do wish the best for you always. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Olive of California are visiting relatives and friends in Pilot Oak and vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Scott Ross were in Fulton last week visiting his mother Mrs. Homer Ross who is ill in the Fulton Hospital. Mrs. Ross's daughter, Mrs. Helen McClain and her daughter of Hazel Park, Michigan, are also there to be near their mother during her illness. We received word of the death of Theresa Pitman of Water Valley and do wish to express our deepest sympathy to this family in their great loss.

KFWC Endorses Regular Cancer Check-Up Tests

At the recent Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs Mid-Winter Board Meeting and Conference, held in Louisville, Mrs. Joseph C. Evans, Lexington, State President, announced a Cancer detection program for the 256 Women's Clubs throughout the Commonwealth. "It's Up to You in '72". In this program, thirteen thousand (13,000) club women are being encouraged to contact their physicians immediately for a Pap Smear test and pelvic examination. Mrs. Evans states that if unnecessary suffering and untimely death can be prevented, with early cancer detection, in just one woman, this program is worthwhile."

KFWC is also stressing the need for community information and action on the control of Venereal Diseases, which have reached epidemic proportions. All Clubs are giving program time to speakers on this social problem. In efforts to work more closely with various health agencies.

The Board of Directors of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs also voted to send telegrams to State Senators, John Sherman Cooper and Marlow Cook, reaffirming support for the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, H.J. Res. 208, urging the continuing efforts of the House to insure equal rights for all Americans. The resolution is now in the Senate for further consideration.

McKINNEY MANAGER

Bob McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKinney of Route 2, Fulton, is the new manager of the Burger Bar succeeding Larry Huntley. A South Fulton High School graduate and a Vietnam veteran, he began his duties on March 10. He was formerly employed by Tom Dowell and Beefhook Peeking Company in Union City.

New Law To Help State Unemployed

FRANKFORT, Ky.--Gov. Wendell Ford has signed into law Senate Bill 120 which will allow about 6000 jobless Kentuckians to become eligible for additional unemployment insurance payments.

The additional or extended benefits apply to those claimants who no longer have current rights to benefits and whose prior claims expired on or after Jan. 2.

The maximum amount of additional benefits will be one-half that of the original entitlement with the weekly benefit rate remaining at its original figure.

Payment of additional benefits is tied to the state or national insured unemployment rate.

Because the national insured unemployment rate is greater than 4.5 per cent and has remained at that level more than 13 consecutive weeks, persons covered under the unemployment insurance law can be eligible for additional benefits.

Under the new state legislation, costs of the benefits will be shared jointly by the state and federal governments.

Acting Economic Security Commissioner W. Garnett Johnson explained that claimants of extended benefits must meet the same requirements as were applicable to their regular claims.

Any unemployed worker whose claim was filed on or after Jan. 3 and who has no current benefit entitlement may file a claim for extended benefits, according to Johnson.

Mrs. Workman Program Leader

The W.S.C.S. of the Cayce Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Pat Campbell, Wednesday, March 15th with 12 members present.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Louise McMurray. Mrs. Damon Workman had charge of the program which was entitled "The Woman Who Missed Easter". She was assisted by Mrs. Thelma Linder. The society is sponsoring a bake sale at Fowler's Grocery in Cayce on March 25.

After a short business meeting the session was adjourned. A prayer was given by Mrs. Jane Britt. Afterward refreshments were served by the hostess. The group will meet next month at the home of Mrs. Shirley Jones. Everyone is invited.

THE CRUCIFIXION

As the crowd led Jesus away to his death, Simon of Cyrene, who was just coming into Jerusalem from the country, was forced to follow, carrying Jesus' cross. Great crowds trailed along behind, and many grief-stricken women. Two others, criminals, were led out to be executed with him at a place called "The Skull." There all three were crucified... Jesus on the center cross, and the two criminals on either side. "Father, forgive these people," Jesus said, "for they don't know what they are doing." And the soldiers gambled for his clothing, throwing dice for each piece. The crowd watched. And they laughed and scoffed. "He was so good at helping others," they said, "let's see him save himself if he is really God's Chosen One, the Messiah." The soldiers mocked him, too, by offering him a drink... of sour wine. And they called to him, "If you are the King of the Jews, save yourself!" A signboard was nailed to the cross above him with these words: "This is the King of the Jews." One of the criminals hanging beside him scoffed, "So you're the Messiah, are you? Prove it by saving yourself... and us, too, while you're at it!" But the other criminal protested. "Don't you even fear God when you are dying? We deserve to die for our evil deeds, but this man hasn't done one thing wrong." Then he said, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your Kingdom." And Jesus replied, "Today you will be with me in Paradise. This is a solemn promise." By now it was noon, and darkness fell across the whole land for three hours, until three o'clock. The light from the sun was gone... and suddenly the thick veil hanging in the Temple split apart. Then Jesus shouted, "Father, I commit my spirit to you," and with those words he died. When the captain of the Roman military unit handling the executions saw what had happened, he was stricken with awe before God and said, "Surely this man was innocent."

Man Indicted In Murder Of Laura Hefley

Theodore Maynard, 38, was indicted by the Jefferson County grand jury Tuesday on charges of rape and murder of a 20-year-old University of Louisville coed in February 1969.

A few hours later, Maynard pleaded not guilty at arraignment in Jefferson Criminal Court.

Maynard is charged with the rape-slaying of Miss Laura Elizabeth Hefley, daughter of Earl R. "Bill" Hefley of Fulton and the late Mrs. Hefley. Mr. Hefley is plant controller for the Lear Siegler, Automotive Division plant in Union City. He reportedly was notified Monday night of the arrest of the suspect.

Judge George Kunzman appointed Robert Haddad to represent Maynard for Tuesday's arraignment only.

When Kunzman asked Maynard if he planned to hire an attorney, Maynard, dressed in blue jeans and a green shirt, indicated that he didn't have much money. Kunzman then said he would appoint an attorney for him.

Kunzman set April 27 as the pretrial date and ordered Maynard held without bond, adding that after counsel is appointed the "question of bond" can be brought up. Maynard is being held in the Jefferson County Jail.

He was arrested Monday in an apartment in the 400 block of E. Ormsby in connection with the death of Miss Laura Elizabeth Hefley, a Fulton, Ky., junior who was studying to be a piano teacher.

Miss Hefley's body was found at the rear of the university's Reynolds Building.

The grand jury indictment charged that Maynard "willfully murdered Laura Hefley by smothering her."

Police Tuesday gave Maynard's address as the Windsor Hotel, 926 S. Fifth. They had previously reported the address as the Milner Hotel in the 200 block of W. Jefferson.

Commonwealth's Atty. Edwin A. Schroering Jr. presented evidence in the case to the grand jury Tuesday morning. At a press conference a short time later, Schroering said key links in the case were found by police within the last 48 hours.

Schroering declined to give particular details about the case, citing the Kentucky press-bar court guidelines designed to insure a fair trial. In his meeting with reporters, Schroering talked about past murder cases and stressed the need for improved crime laboratory facilities to aid police investigations.

Cub Scouts Make Plans For Projects

Cub Scout packs in this area will be doing their annual planning next month using an exciting list of suggested program themes, according to Parvin Bishop, Scout Executive of the Four Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America.

More than 40 Cub Scout packs in the council will be selecting monthly program themes for May 1972 through April 1973. The monthly theme has been the foundation of Cub Scout program planning for more than 30 years, Bishop said, with each theme designed to provide fun, variety, action and purpose.

Bishop explained that each pack brings together its pack leaders and the Scouts who serve as den chiefs to determine the theme for each month, pack activities, and den, home, Webelos, and special pack projects.

The suggested monthly themes which are carefully researched, planned and written to give a varied program for the next year are: May, Beautiful America; June, Backyard Adventure; July, Cub Scout Olympics; August, Cub Scout Astronauts; September, Cub Scout Citizens; October, Discovery of America; November, Things That Go; December, Follows, Helps, Gives; January, Music Makers; February, Famous Americans; March, Knights of the Tournament; and April, Fiesta.

Among the special events that may be included in each pack's program during the coming year are Project SOAR activities related to conservation and the environment, a Cubmobile derby, the pinewood or space derby, service projects, and participation in School Night for Cub Scouting when new Cub Scouts join a pack in the fall.

In addition to these events the Four Rivers Council will conduct a Cub Scout Olympics in September of this year.

Tennessee Group Elects Allison

Henry C. Allison, dean of admissions and records at the University of Tennessee at Martin has been elected president of the West Tennessee Personnel and Guidance Association.

Representing 107 public schools and 11 universities in 21 counties of West Tennessee, the association's membership is composed of teachers, guidance counselors, professors and administrators.

Dean Allison is a member of a number of learned societies and fraternal organizations including Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Kappa Alpha, Alpha Kappa Psi, the Lions Club and the American Legion.

Goodyear Plant Announces Open House

Goodyear's massive Union City plant will be open to the public for the first time on Wednesday, April 12, during a "Community Appreciation Day" from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Appreciation Day will feature a tour of all manufacturing operations in the ultra-modern tire plant and include an exhibit of the largest tire in the world.

The plant, which produces more than 30,000 passenger and industrial tires per day, will be in full production during the tour. "The community spirit and the dedication of our employees are confirming the wisdom of Goodyear's decision to locate in Union City," plant manager John Row said. "We are using this means to say we appreciate being here."

Construction started on the Union City plant April 1, 1968 and only 176 working days passed until the first tires were cured on October 30, 1968.

Goodyear's largest initial construction project, the huge facility occupies 32 acres under roof, the equivalent of 30 football fields.

All steps in manufacturing, from the purchase of raw materials to the building, quality-checking and shipping of tires are performed at the plant.

ROLLING OUT THE TIRES—Some of the 33,000 tires produced each day in Goodyear's Union City plant are sorted in the Final Finish Department by Bill Miller. All production operations will be open for tours by the general public when Goodyear holds a "Community Appreciation Day" on April 12.

Future Of Blacks On Insight Series

"The Political Future of Blacks in the South" will be the topic of Insight lectures at Murray State University April 18-19 that will feature a prominent black man and a former Southern governor.

Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X College in Chicago, and Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, a former governor of that state, will be the speakers for the program sponsored by the student government.

Open to the public at no admission charge, both lectures will begin at 8 p.m.

Hurst, who left Howard University in 1968 to accept the presidency of what was then Crank Junior College, will speak in the University School auditorium Tuesday, April 18.

Maddox, who first came to public attention when he defied court-ordered integration by arming himself with an ax and blocking the doorway of his Atlanta restaurant against Negroes, will lecture Wednesday, April 19, in the university auditorium.

Hal Warren Is Law Day Leader

Hal Warren, Attorney of Fulton, Kentucky, has been appointed LAW DAY USA chairman for Fulton County for 1972 by the Kentucky Bar Association.

This will be the 15th annual nationwide observance of the event which was permanently proclaimed by the 97th Congress, "...as a special day of celebration by the American people in appreciation of their liberties and the reaffirmation of their loyalty to the United States of America."

Mr. Warren did his undergraduate work at Memphis State University and received his law degree from the University of Kentucky. He was selected as an "Outstanding Young Man" of America in 1970 and 1971 and among the "Personalities of the South" in 1971. Hal and his wife and three year old son, Todd, reside at 418 Court Drive, Fulton.

Parents to Play: The South Fulton parents will play the teachers in a benefit game. Parents who wish to play are asked to meet at the South Fulton school at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 26.

Homemakers Return With Pocketfull Of Ideas

Twenty-three Fulton County women attending the annual meeting of the Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association on the UK campus in Lexington, have signed up for some special "classes" Thursday afternoon.

Coached in the techniques of leadership and in ways to use their individual talents most effectively, they hope to return to their home communities better equipped than ever to work as volunteers.

Catherine C. Thompson, Fulton County agent for Home Economics, explains that many Homemakers Club members help out with local programs for senior citizens, young marrieds, 4-Hers, and the disadvantaged. Others work as volunteers in Extension's Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program.

Coordinator of the four-day convergence of Homemakers from more than 1700 local clubs is Mrs. Marcy Stewart, UK Extension Program Specialist.

Thursday evening, the three new Kentucky Master Farm Homemakers will be presented the KEHA membership. They are Mrs. James Herman Rafferty, Davie County, Mrs. Charles Shenwell, Ballard County, and Mrs. Earl Wellborn, Jr., Todd County.

The Master Farm Homemaker Guild and the Kentucky chapter of the Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW) will hold their annual dinners during the conference. Mrs. Earl Friedly of Georgetown will tell KEHA members about her experiences as a delegate to last summer's triennial conference of ACCW in Norway.

Delegates from Fulton County Homemaker Clubs attending the meeting are: Mrs. L.P. Carney, Mrs. Marian Walker, Mrs. Clyde Fields, Mrs. Hattie Vanderford, Mrs. Ross McCollum, Mrs. Carl Mikel, Mrs. Bert Yarbro, Jr., Mrs. Abe Thompson, Mrs. James Wade, Mrs. J.D. Hale, Mrs. Charles Powell, Mrs. Gilbert Bizzie, Mrs. George Ray Gunter, Mrs. Charles Ray, Miss Ella Mae Roberson, Mrs. Sarah Poyner, Mrs. Sara Beans, Mrs. Catherine Thompson, Mrs. Cecil Wade, Mrs. Sam Jones, Mrs. Anna Lynch, Mrs. Tee Essie Wilson and Mrs. Lurline Cruce.

Annual meeting will end at noon Friday, following the Reverend Berg's talk on "What's Right With America."

And soon after that, things will be right in Fulton County, when its wandering women return to their families, who have had to do without their home cooking for the better part of a week.

AT PARRIS ISLAND: William (Bill) Desjardin, son of Mrs. Dorothy Desjardin of Fulton, enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps two weeks ago and is now doing his basic training at Parris Island, South Carolina. His address is: Pvt. William Desjardin, 401-507386, Pk 230, D Co., 2nd Bn., RTR

Cheerleaders: Continued from page one, the squad are Scottie Wright, Max Wilson and Doug Goodman. Also, Amy Bondurant came down from the University of Kentucky to give the "fabulous five" last minute pointers.

The girls were anxious to come home although they learned a lot and feel that now that they have had this experience they will definitely be at an advantage in future competitions. "Besides, we enjoyed missing three days of school," one of them said.

Is It Arson?

Continued from page one: Serious fires...but they investigate as best they can, with the help of the State Fire Marshal's office.

The whole situation looks fishy to me, and my concern...and the concern of the citizens of Fulton...should be over "what's NEXT?" It is immaterial that the buildings, all dwellings, have been unoccupied. We have store buildings on Lake Street and on Main Street that are unoccupied, too.

The Cowell grocery blaze was indeed spectacular as the above picture indicates; flames rose hundreds of feet in the air. The Shuck residence also was spectacular; so were the houses at McComb and Vine; so were all the others.

Such fires, aside from possibly revealing the dread presence of a local firebug, also cost the City upwards of $100 a call to fight, endanger nearby property, often cause grave danger to overhead communications and electric lines, and endanger the lives of volunteer firemen.

Fulton Fire Chief Billy Meacham told this reporter Wednesday that one of the best prospects for catching an arsonist—if there is one—is for people living in the area to report any suspicious activities in their area whenever they have cause. We would like to pass this thought on to the citizens of Fulton, with the suggestion that suspicious actions around vacant buildings be especially of concern.

County's Health

Health needs were based on such factors as local infant birth and death rates, the tuberculosis incidence rate and the level of local sanitation.

To rate effectiveness, the Office of Local Health examined the five health programs given highest priority in each local department's annual program plan. Top ratings were given to those departments with the highest percentage of approved programs.

To rate local funding, Spangler said, local appropriations were compared with the amount of taxable property in each county and departments with good local financial support were rated higher. "Generally speaking, taxpayers will support service agencies which meet community needs," he said.

Area health departments whose budgets were reduced included: Carlisle, Hickman, Marshall, Ballard, Lyon, Trigg and Livingston counties.

by people who meet frequently rather than by a legislature which meets every two years.

Opponents of the measure in the legislature charged that the home rule bill was essentially a tax-raising bill, and certainly it gives a hefty tax-levying authority to a body which hasn't had it before. On the other hand, it subjects the fixing authority to a keen-eyed, skeptical watchdog, the people themselves, who are able to observe first-hand how well or how poorly their tax money is being used.

Kentucky Fair Sets Attractions

The Rodeo, Circus, and the Horse Show are set for the 1972 Kentucky State Fair, August 17-26.

Rodeos, Inc. was selected to supply the rodeo stock, M&M Circus International is to represent the free circus, and the Horse Show judges were announced by the Kentucky State Fair Board.

This will be the third consecutive year that Rodeos, Inc. has operated the rodeo at the Kentucky State Fair. Last year's rodeo, starring Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, set an attendance record when more than 50,000 attended.

Discrimination Bill Is Passed By Senate

The Kentucky Senate unanimously passed Friday a bill outlawing discrimination because of sex or age. The action drew applause from the gallery as Kentucky's Civil Rights Act of 1966 was brought in line with the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1968 and the Federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967. The bill would prohibit discrimination in the hiring of women or persons between the ages of 40 and 65. The Senate defeated 4-24 an amendment that would have stricken a substantial portion of the bill dealing with public accommodations.

The same amendment had been added to an identical bill by the Senate judiciary committee by a bare margin of 4-3. Sen. Michael Moloney, D-Lexington, said that if the amendment were adopted Kentucky "would be going back several years." The change, he said, "would permit Kentucky not only to be out of balance with federal law but probably with a majority of very serious thinking in this area across the country."

Majority Leader Walter (Dee) Huddleston, D-Elizabethtown, concurred saying, "Our experience has taught us that it is no great burden to treat our fellow man as an equal." The bill extends the civil rights law to cover licensing agencies, deletes exclusion of an individual acting for himself in a real estate transaction and expands coverage in the renting of apartments and rooms. It also appropriates $50,000 for each of the next two years to the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights to handle actions brought under the revised bill.

The act was amended to exempt bona fide seniority systems or employee benefit plans from inclusion under its provisions and to reduce a proposed 180-day deadline for the filing of housing discrimination complaints back to the present 30 days.

'Sleeper' Tax Bill Passes In Assembly

The Senate Friday passed a bill which could lead to a tax of up to 2 per cent on all Kentucky water users. The measure was approved without debate or discussion as part of the Senate's "consent calendar" which is used to expedite routine legislation. It creates the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority which could impose the tax to finance revenue bonds for water treatment projects. The measure stirred controversy in the House because of its tax potential, but only a few senators in the closing hours of the session seemed to know any details of the lengthy measure.

Owens-Verderese Vows Repeated In Michigan

SOUTH FULTON, Tenn., March 18—In a February ceremony in Saint Gerard Catholic Church, Lansing, Mich., Miss Connie Owens and Dominic F. Verderese were united in marriage.

Miss Owens is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Gene Owens, South Fulton, and Mr. Verderese is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic A. Verderese of Lansing.

Father Webber officiated at the double-ring service. The couple pledged their vows before an altar of greenery, white mums and yellow and apricot roses. The family pews were marked with ivory satin streamers, tied in love-knots.

Music was presented by Mrs. Pauline Redmond and Mrs. Ester Novice of Lansing.

Miss Owens, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of ivory silk over taffeta, with Alencon lace and seed pearl trim. The bodice was fashioned with a small stand-up collar, and long bishop lace sleeves. The skirt was full with applique designs of lace and seed pearls. The detachable chapel train fell gracefully from the waistline. Her veil was of ivory silk with lace trim. Her only jewelry was a pearl ring, a gift from the groom.

Miss Owens carried a bridal bouquet of pale yellow mums and apricot roses, tied with cream satin ribbons.

Mrs. Jan Pentecost of East Lansing, Mich., the bride's aunt, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Rosanne Verderese and Miss Adie Verderese, the groom's sisters.

Junior bridesmaid was Miss Libby Pentecost of East Lansing, cousin of the bride. They wore identical dresses of avocado green with shoes to match. The soft A-line, floor length skirts were of shandlene fabric. They wore fresh flowers of apricot and yellow in their hair. They carried hand bouquets of apricot and yellow baby mums, with long avocado streamers.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Gene Owens, wore a cream silk dress trimmed with pearls. Mrs. Verderese, mother of the groom, wore an apricot A-line dress of silk. Each mother wore a corsage of apricot roses and baby hearts, tied with cream ribbons. Mrs. Patsy Verderese, grandmother of the groom, wore a pink dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Peter Decera, also a grandmother of the groom, wore a soft beige crepe dress, with beige accessories. She wore a pink rose corsage at her shoulder.

Nick Pavona of Lansing, cousin of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Guy Verderese, a cousin of the groom, Jerry Johnson and David Howland, all of Lansing.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at Tarpo's Restaurant, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to Benicia, Calif., where the groom is stationed in the U. S. Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic A. Verderese entertained the members of the wedding party with a rehearsal dinner.

PROJECT—A Kentucky project to train some 2000 emergency service personnel in emergency medical care has been cited by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for outstanding work in the development of its training program. Requests have been received from several states for video tapes produced at the University of Kentucky Medical Center for the program.

Fulton Chapter Honored By Official Visit

FULTON, Ky., March 18—Mrs. Gertrude U. Moore, worthy grand matron, Order of the Eastern Star of Kentucky, conducted the official inspection of Fulton City Chapter No. 41 at a meeting held at the Masonic Temple with Mrs. Mildred Jackson, worthy matron, presiding.

Distinguished guests welcomed included, Mrs. Moore, Bill Cates, past grand patron of Kentucky, Margo Cromwell and Gladys Nance, grand chapter committee members; Kenneth Maynard, deputy grand patron of District 22 and worthy patron of Cuba Chapter 519, Dorothy Brown, deputy grand matron of District 22, James Demery, deputy grand patron of District 18 and worthy patron of Grand Rivers Chapter 484, Martha Cosby, grand representative of New Jersey.

Worthy matrons presented and welcomed included Lue Nell Peck of Esther No. 5, Paducah, Marion Cocke, Wickliffe; Avice Barnett, Hardin; Bonnie Perkins, Mayfield; Aline Weaver, Water Valley; Maxine Maynard, Cuba; and Lois Wilson, Clinton. Worthy patrons presented were L. W. Barnett, Hardin; Sandy Everett, Wickliffe; Roy Perkins, Mayfield, and George Byers, Clinton.

Sandra Kay Frazier and Edward Dale Frazier were initiated into the order with worthy patron Samuel Jackson presiding during conferring of degrees.

A buffet dinner was served at 8:00 p.m. by co-hostesses Pauline Bell, Lucille Maurer, Mabel Davis and several members of the dinner committee.

Preceding the opening of the chapter, Hazel Taylor presented an addendum in behalf of Mrs. Moore, which was followed by a vocal selection by the officers.

Mrs. Lucille Maurer, Mabel Davis and Joan Williams were in charge of decorations.

Elizabeth Darnell, Juanita McCall and Garnett Price presided at the guest register.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served to approximately 125 guests by Mrs. Blondelle Holland.

Set To Register Some 17-Year-Olds

The Obion County Election Commission has been directed to register all 17-year-olds for the purpose of voting in the presidential primary on May 4, if they will be 18 years of age on or before Nov. 4—the date of the general election.

Jack Burdick, chairman of the Election Commission, said the directive simply means that most high school seniors will be eligible to vote in the election, since most will be 18 by Nov. 4.

What Did Assembly Achieve? It Depends On Your Viewpoint

What was accomplished or not done in the past Kentucky legislative session depends, as the cliché has it, on one's viewpoint.

If consumerism is your prime interest, you should be satisfied, for the 1972 General Assembly—under prodding of the Democratic administration—passed meaningful statutes to protect against commercial fraud.

As Gov. Wendell Ford commented in the closing hours of the session, a number of consumer bills had been kicking around unsuccessfully for years.

He might have added they also had been kicked to death by the previous Republican administration. Now, the consumer stands a bit taller and has a stronger voice.

But a consumer also is one who needs a loan occasionally, and in this aspect the General Assembly seems to have ignored his welfare in the interest of lending institutions.

Of course, the various versions to help banks and loan firms don't bear the official administration stamp, but Ford defended them in talking to newsmen informally on the last day of the session.

His theory is that leeway allowed—higher interest rates and longer loan periods—will help stimulate the economy.

That may not be the way the borrower looks at it. The ceiling on the interest he pays has been raised in several instances and the amount he carries away as part of a loan actually is less proportionately considering the extended payment time.

In fact, rarely in any session have the financial special interests—the banks and loan companies—benefited so handsomely.

If you are conservationist-minded, the legislature has presented you with a mixed bag.

The most obvious advance is the combining of anti-pollution functions into one umbrella agency, which hopefully will operate efficiently and economically. This has been overdue in an era of emphasis on pollution.

But if you hoped to halt the ravages of strip mining in Eastern Kentucky, the session must rank as a distinct disappointment.

The strip mining industry may emerge in better shape than ever and, strange to say, partly because of the administration's severance tax on coal.

The severance tax is a "progressive" levy in that it shifts the burden from the "ordinary" taxpayer to business, especially when combined with fulfillment of Ford's pledge to remove the food tax, a "retrogressive" levy.

But in the process, conservationists have expressed concern that the severance tax will "lock in" strip mining at the expense of deep mining, a more expensive operation which is less harmful to the environment.

Maybe strip mining's current heyday is inevitable on an economic basis regardless of how the administration handles the problem.

The industry simply cannot be abolished, for tens of thousands of jobs, especially in the mountains, depend on its continuance.

However, some of its abuses might have been better controlled.

One target was the broad form deed, which allows an operator to extract the coal by any method he wishes, often resulting in destroyed and polluted lands.

Ford never promised to loosen the validity of the broad form deed—on the contrary he affirmed its lawfulness—and the legislature has done practically nothing in response to pleas and complaints from strip mine enemies.

The governor has boasted his new $3.5 billion budget is oriented towards people. Ironically, the Associated Industries of Kentucky has upheld his claim by bitterly denouncing numerous bills.

The AIK said the new legislation is telling employers in effect: "To hell with you... take your jobs elsewhere!"

It mentions among other things the indirect $18 million a year additional income tax on corporations—which after all could have been imposed on personal incomes of people. It mentions workmen's and unemployment compensation measures which will cost industry and business more—and consequently will benefit workers more.

It mentions the $40 million annual severance tax—which could have stayed on in the form of the sales tax on groceries.

The AIK in effect is confirming that the shift in taxation in the past session has been towards business rather than people, and the General Assembly made the change only because the governor so decreed.

To that extent the "little man" is a beneficiary of 1972 legislation. But, just as he is caught in the lending squeeze, he also is forced to spend another 2 cents per gallon of gasoline for his car under the administration's tax increase and that tax is by no means "progressive." The urban Kentuckian probably has been given more freedom by the General Assembly to determine his destiny.

Examples are the home rule bill for Louisville, the local option bill on Sunday closings and even the local option arrangement for liquor sales on Sunday in certain cities.

Yet, the rural Kentuckian has received benefits, too, in the form of various bills offering potential state aid.

And the traditional tobacco base of the small farmer remains untouched by any real or imagined threat from an additional tax on cigarettes, now among the lowest in the nation.

As for the majesty—or idiocy—of the law, a much-heralded Kentucky Penal Code to modernize and coordinate all statutes has been passed.

1040 U.S. Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q My employer transferred me to another state last year and as a result I plan to claim a moving expense deduction. In addition, my wife and I are thinking of filing separate returns. Are the dollar limitations on moving expenses different for spouses filing jointly and separately?

A In addition to direct costs of moving, expenses may be deducted for the sale or purchase of a residence or the termination or acquisition of a lease, house-hunting trips, and temporary lodging and meals at the new location. However, the total deduction for these three categories cannot exceed $2,500 with the latter two limited to no more than $1,000 in total. The limitation is half the above amounts, $1,250 and $500, for certain married couples filing separate returns. However, if you and your wife file separate income tax returns and one of the following circumstances exists, the $1,250 and $500 limitations do not apply:

- 1) Only one spouse commences work at a new principal place of work for which a deduction is allowable, or
- 2) Both spouses commence work at new principal places of work which are at least 50 miles apart and they do not reside together at the same residence during the taxable year.

Under the second situation, a husband and wife filing a joint return may each deduct up to $2,500 for expenses in the case of married taxpayers filing jointly) in income other than wages. In addition, the waiver applies only for tax year 1971.

For more information on estimated tax, see Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax. It's available free by dropping a postcard to your IRS district office.

Q My son purchased a car last year. Does the amount he paid count toward his support when I figure out whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A No. The purchase of an automobile, whether by you or your dependent, is not considered when determining total support.

Q If I let the IRS compute my tax, will it delay any refund I may have coming?

A No. The IRS can compute the tax and issue a refund within 4-6 weeks from the date the return is filed with the service center. So, actually, your refund will not be delayed by having IRS compute the tax since the computations are checked on all returns received.

Q Do you have to use sales tax tables in your tax forms instructions to compute your sales tax deduction?

A No. If you kept records, you can deduct the actual amounts you paid in sales tax for 1971. However, if you use the sales tax tables to determine your deduction, you may add to the amount shown sales tax paid on the purchase of automobiles, airplanes, boats, mobile homes and materials to build your own home.

Boating, Arson Officers Begin 4-Week Training

FRANKFORT, Ky.—One of the busiest men in Frankfort currently is Julian M. Carroll, Kentucky's newly elected lieutenant governor.

Because so many Kentuckians are not aware of the duties and functions of their lieutenant governor, a reporter and photographer spent a day with Lt. Gov. Carroll recently, in an effort to better acquaint the public with his office.

As lieutenant governor, Carroll presides over the Kentucky Senate, currently in regular legislative session. Under Kentucky's Constitution, the General Assembly meets for 60 working days every two years. Another Constitutional duty of the lieutenant governor is to act as governor when Gov. Wendell H. Ford is absent from the state.

Among the statutory duties of the state's second highest ranking official are membership on the Kentucky Turnpike Authority, State Buildings and Property Commission and the Archives and Records Commission and he serves as chairman of the Legislative Research Commission.

The day spent with Carroll, which was termed "average" by his staff, was filled with two breakfasts, meetings with state officials, presiding over a Senate session, a reception for a group of political friends, a speech before a fraternal organization, and finally returning home for a two-hour session of telephone conversations. He met with Gov. Wendell H. Ford for approximately one hour, as he does three days each week.

Then he presided over an afternoon Senate session, followed by a joint meeting in his office between the Senate Committee on Committees and Rules Committee.

During the brief periods of time sandwiched between scheduled meetings, he wrote letters and visited with friends in Frankfort for the day to watch the legislature in session.

He wrapped up some unfinished business and left the office at 6:30 p.m. to attend a reception held by Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, for some of his constituents. After the reception he attended a dinner for legislators, sponsored by a Masonic Lodge, where he was the featured speaker.

He returned home at 10 and made some late phone calls before retiring at midnight.

After the General Assembly adjourns, March 17, his workday will not be shortened. The time now spent presiding over the Senate largely will be spent working on commissions and committees to which he is assigned by the Constitution, the statutes, or the governor.

Fluorination Banned .22 Longs Used In 1900

STOCKHOLM — The Swedish Parliament has rescinded a 1962 law that allowed the fluorination of water for dental-health purposes.

The first .22 long rifle cartridge in its present form was brought out by the Peters Cartridge Co. in 1900.

COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL Air Conditioning and heating

FIVE YEAR CX GUARANTEE

Our Five-Year Guarantee for your new air conditioning equipment will take care of the cost of parts, service labor and refrigerant for a period of five years from the installation date.

Some of the important features of this insured warranty are:

1. The warranty is non-cancellable. In the unlikely event something should happen to our company, another qualified company will continue to service your equipment through the full five-year period (at no cost to you.)

2. The warranty covers air conditioning equipment installed at "your address". This means that it automatically is transferred to a new owner should you sell.

3. Whenever your air conditioning equipment requires repair or replacement of a component part, we will perform the work required during normal working hours at no charge to you. This includes parts, labor and refrigerant required. However, it does not include cleaning or replacement of your air filters, which must be maintained by you. Other items excluded (which rarely, if ever, require service) are cabinets, painting, trim, etc., and it does not cover maintenance items such as lubrication, cleaning and inspections.

Naturally, we cannot be responsible for conditions beyond our control, such as damage caused by fire, floods, windstorms and lightning. However, property insurance normally covers most of these accidents. And, of course, we cannot be held responsible for vandalism, misuse or willful neglect.

Receive Grant

Dr. Peter W. Whaley, assistant professor of geology at Murray State University, has been selected to receive a grant to attend a short course in geology in Florida and the Bahamas June 4-15.

Awarded by the National Science Foundation, the grant will support a 12-day study of conditions under which limestone is deposited in reef and shallow marine bay environments.

Whaley, who joined the Murray State faculty in 1968, said he hopes to use knowledge gained during the session to apply to the limestone deposits found in West Kentucky. He was one of 22 chosen from more than 100 applicants for the short course.

Principals In County Re-elected

All principals of Obion County high and elementary schools have been re-elected to their positions and personnel in the office of Superintendent George Blakemore also have been re-elected, according to Mr. Blakemore.

Billy Gene Forrester will continue as principal at Obion County Central High School, while Billy Reese Dean was re-elected assistant principal.

Randy Pitts is principal at both Kenton High School and the town's elementary school. Principal of South Fulton High School is Virgil Yates.

Elementary school principals renamed include: Charles Morris, Troy; Ralph White, Hornbeak; Oden Fowler, Cloverdale; Lester Betty, Obion; Clifford Wright, Rives; Leburn Kirk, Dixie; James Faulkner, South Fulton, and William Vinson, Woodland Mills.

Members of Mr. Blakemore's office staff are: Mrs. Monya Sanders, supervisor of instruction; Mrs. Ruth Gregory, attendance supervisor; Mrs. Lafayette Reed, secretary and bookkeeper; Mrs. Virginia Bennett, secretary and Head Start bookkeeper; Harold Johnson, vocational supervisor; Mrs. Dianne Sisco, lunchroom supervisor, and Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, materials clerk.

Members of the supplementary personnel staff include: Tommy Morris, director; Mrs. Irene Howell, reading supervisor; Miss Debbie Mitchell, secretary; Mrs.

EDUCATION—State School Supt. Dr. Lyman V. Ginger said Kentucky should prepare for a complete revamping of its school tax system in the next two years. He said the change may be necessary because of recent court decisions challenging property-tax financing of public schools as being discriminatory and unconstitutional.

Anabel Sines, terminal operator, and Miss Camelia Cunningham, librarian.

Half of the high school graduates in America go on to college, and 20 per cent earn degrees.

Special Courses To Be Taught At Freed-Hardeman This Summer

Ten special one and two-week seminar courses are being planned for this spring and summer at Freed-Hardeman College, according to Dr. David Thomas, Academic Dean.

Available to participants on either a college credit or non-credit basis, these courses are being designed primarily for teachers and older students, but regular college students may also enroll.

Seminar topics and instructors include a course on Neo-Pentecostalism taught by William Woodson, chairman of HC's Bible department, May 19; and, on the same dates, a course in ecology instructed by Dr. Milton Tucker of the natural science department.

Three seminars are being planned for the week of May 28-June 1. Taught by John Hollingsworth, of the social sciences department, will be a study of the American electoral process. Persons interested in archeology of the Bible lands may study under Dr. Clyde Woods, F-HC Bible instructor who recently toured the Holy Lands; and of special interest to ministers and counselors will be a course on counseling the alcoholic, directed by Woodson.

June 26-30 will afford an opportunity to study drug abuse under Dr. Eugene Hibbett, who holds his doctorate in pharmaceutical chemistry.

Two courses offered during the week of July 3-7 will be for two hours of college credit. They are systematic Bible study, taught by Dr. Woods, and a reading and study skills course for college-bound students.

Brad Brumley, F-HC's Dean of Students and instructor of education, will coordinate a family Bible worship entitled "The Family Togetherness Series." Designed for the entire family the July 10-13 event will feature numerous speakers, as well as a variety of activities.

Closing out the special summer seminars will be a two-week course, July 10-21, machine (touch) shorthand, designed for secretaries, court reporters, and teachers of business administration and secretarial science courses. Miss Wynelle Hiten, F-HC secretarial science instructor and Stenograph consultant will teach the workshop.

In addition to these special short courses available this summer, regular summer school offerings will include numerous classes in Bible, business administration, education, psychology, English, mathematics, music, health, and physical education, natural and social sciences and speech.

For additional summer school information about early admissions work, which enables high school students to do some college work between their junior and senior years, or accelerated graduation programs through summer school courses, contact Reed Oldham, Dean of Admissions, F-HC.

Senate Urges Iodized Salt

The Kentucky Senate has passed a resolution urging all Kentucky families to use iodized salt and recommending that the same be used in food services associated with state institutions.

The resolution, introduced by Sen. Michael Moloney, D-Lexington, Joe Stacy, D-West Liberty, Clyde Middleton, R-Covington, and Georgia Davis, D-Louisville, notes that results of a 1968-69 nutrition survey in the state revealed the prevalence of goiter had reached endemic proportions, especially among females.

Iodized salt is recognized as an effective and economical means of preventing simple goiter due to iodine deficiency.

The resolution also commends the Kentucky Dietetic Association and the Kentucky Nutrition Council for their leadership role in improving the nutrition of state residents.

The energy released in moonquakes is about 100 million times less than in earthquakes.

Pair Charged With Forgery, Cold Checking

Harry Lynn Walker and his wife, Bonnie L. Walker, both of Sedalia, are free on bond after being arrested by the Graves County Sheriff's office earlier this week on charges of forgery and cold checking.

According to the officers who arrested them, Bonnie Walker was arrested for forgery and cold checking and her husband was charged with cold checking. He allegedly issued bad checks in Calloway County, South Fulton, Tenn., Graves County, and McCracken County.

Concerts Build Fund At UTM

The Harry Neal Memorial Fund is $1,565.50 richer today, thanks to several recent benefit performances at the University of Tennessee at Martin. The fund was established early last year and has grown to $2,965.49, according to Bob G. Cole, director of development.

More than 400 persons attended a concert by pianist Allison Nelson, widow of the former UTM artist-in-residence, on February 28. The concert raised $1,080, Cole said.

Two concerts by the university band and a performance by the choral group netted another $485.50.

"The Harry Neal Memorial Fund has come a long way in a short period of time," Cole said. "Thanks for this rapid growth goes to the students who comprise the performing groups at UTM and to the dedication of the faculty and staff who want to build the fund into an annual, prestige scholarship for a talented, needy piano student."

The Kiwanis Club of Paris helped to raise more than $400 by selling tickets to the Allison Nelson concert.

The African Methodist Episcopal Church was founded in 1787.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fairly Free Private Enterprise

Curbside flower vendors became so numerous in a certain community that the regular florists began to complain about the competition. Finally, the city council passed a tough licensing law aimed at knocking the street vendors out of business.

But when the new law was tested in court, it was held null and void. The court said the city simply had no power to regulate a business as harmless as selling flowers.

Private enterprise, while not wholly free, still has considerable vitality. A city's "police power" does not include blanket authority over all kinds of business activities, just because they happen to be within the city limits.

On the other hand, a city may indeed impose restraints on a business that has a real potential for harm.

Consider the case of a man who started a telephone answering service. According to a city ordinance, he and his employees were supposed to submit to photographing and fingerprinting. Challenging the ordinance, the man said it was unfair to "single us out."

But a court saw two ways in which a telephone answering service could be harmful:

- 1) by the misuse of confidential information about subscribers; and
- 2) by the encouragement of immoral activities.

Upholding the city's requirements, the court said:

"There is a reasonable basis for distinguishing this type of business from others that are not regulated."

Another ordinance, covering private detectives, went still further. Under its terms, they had to put up a special bond and get a character clearance from the police department.

But again, a court decided there were enough possibilities for mischief in this line of work to justify the city in taking precautions. As one judge put it:

"A statute to promote the public safety is valid, although it may interfere with individual freedom. Individual freedom must yield to the public good."

Sales, Use Tax Receipts Rose First 8 Months

Sales and use tax receipts for the first eight fiscal months of this year were up 10.6 per cent over the corresponding period last year, the state reported Friday.

The total collected was $211.3 million of which more than $2 million was attributed to an extra day's processing in February.

The state also reported individual income tax receipts for the period rose 23 per cent and corporate income tax collections gained 28.9 per cent.

It said both increases also partly were due to processing procedures.
