Stahr To Rule Feb. 14 Whether Or Not Highlands To Be Annexed

Circuit Judge Elvis Stahr will rule on Feb. 14, whether or not the Highlands will be annexed to the City of Fulton.

Some of the residents are in favor of the annexation, while there is another group who oppose it.

It was early last fall that the City of Fulton sent out letters asking the citizens of Highlands whether or not they wanted to come into the city limits. A majority of the answers received were in favor of the annexation.

In the letters sent out by the City, the advantages to the citizens to be had by Highlands being annexed was pointed out. They were told that if they desired to come into the city, now was the time, as the City had already annexed a portion of the Highlands where the new Ferry-Morse Seed Co. factory is being built, and that the rest of the Highlands area could be furnished with free street lighting, police and fire protection, and the water rate would be lowered.

After the majority of the Highlands residents answering the letters had expressed a desire to come into the City of Fulton, the Fulton City Council filed its annexation intentions with the Fulton Circuit Court.

Later, a petition was filed in Circuit Court by a group of Highlands residents asking the court to set aside the City Council's action.

The case is set for Feb. 14, when Judge Stahr will rule on whether or not the Highlands will be annexed to the City of Fulton.

We Solicit Your Help For An Historical Edition

In connection with Fulton's forthcoming centennial and South Fulton's 50th anniversary, both to be incorporated in an area-wide celebration next July 18-24, the publishers and staff of the Fulton News announce that a complete documented history of Fulton business life, social life and economic life will be compiled and provided all NEWS subscribers at that time.

This will be a gigantic undertaking, but we feel that it will be extremely valuable and worthwhile, inasmuch as no such publication as that has been attempted here since 1915.

We make this announcement at this time so that the hundreds of firms and individuals who will want to help us with this work can begin assembling material for it. This will be an historical edition that will become a prime reference in the generations to come, and we earnestly solicit your cooperation.

Initial work will begin in the next few weeks.

Fulton Judge Slaps Ban On Court News; South Fulton Stews Over Mayor's Salary

A Fulton County Judge's "ban" on news to all but litigants in county cases and complaints from South Fulton citizens that their city officials keep them uninformed topped the news in the Kentucky-Tennessee area today.

Ro Gardner, editor of the Hickman Courier at Hickman, has charged County Judge J. C. Bondurant with refusing to let him see the county records. Citizens in South Fulton, Tenn. have accused their city officials of "keeping them in the dark" about a proposed increase in the Mayor's salary to $300 a month and to $10 per meeting for City Councilmen. The South Fulton Mayor presently receives $50 per month and the councilmen receive $5 for each meeting attended.

Judge Bondurant has issued an order which purports to bar anyone from examining the records of his court unless they have a "direct and specific interest" in litigation involved. The ban includes, and is specifically aimed at the weekly Hickman Courier, which recently criticized the release of two young (Negro) men from jail after they had served only half of their 30 day sentences.

Political controversy is raging in the Tennessee city as citizens opposing the salary increase circulate petitions objecting to the increase, however are citing the heavy work load of the Mayor, and the expansion of South Fulton's city affairs necessitating more and more time be devoted to those affairs by the Mayor.

The South Fulton controversy will be decided on Saturday, February 7, from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. when the city conducts a "straw vote" to determine the matter.

Target of the proposed salary increase for the South Fulton Mayor and Council is the present Mayor Milton Counce who serves

Business included the following:

An ordinance was passed prohibiting parking on both sides of East State Line within a 35-foot area of the intersection of Plain and McDowell streets;

The council learned through its engineers that the State of Tennessee had finally okayed entry into Tennessee of the controversial sewer line from the Ferry-Morse plant. This project had been previously turned down by the Tennessee Health Department;

The Mayor and Council will be hosts next Sunday afternoon during "open house" at the newly-remodeled City Hall, and urge all residents to come and visit the offices there. A complete renovation job has been accomplished at low cost, using police and fire department employees in their spare hours, and the project is well worth seeing.

Work is expected to begin

Ordinance Prohibiting Parking In Area On East State Line Passed

The Fulton City Council met Monday night for the regularly scheduled February meeting with Mayor Tripp and Councilmen Ward Johnson, J. O. Lewis, Charles Rice and Orian Winstead present. Absent were Smith Atkins and John Earle.

With no major problems on the docket, the meeting lasted only an hour and a half.

Open House To Be Held Sunday At City Hall

Everyone is invited to attend the big open house at the Fulton City Hall Sunday afternoon.

All of the downstairs has been remodeled and the place looks very beautiful now. The work was done under the supervision of Assistant Chief of Police Hassell Williams and was a pet project of Mayor Nelson Tripp.

The latest work completed is the remodeling of the huge hallway and the City Jail. Much work has been done, with the ceiling being lowered, a new floor and a paint job, in the hallway.

Other work included the lowering of the ceiling in the police station and the old jury room, which is now the office of the city judge. An office for the chief of police was built in the front portion of the police station, and these two offices and the police waiting room have new floors and new paint jobs.

Go by the City Hall Sunday afternoon and see for yourself just what all has been done. Fulton now has a City Hall building it can be proud of, thanks to Mayor Tripp and the Police and Fire Departments.

COUNTY DELEGATE

Mrs. E. E. Ezel has been elected county delegate, to the Farm and Home Week Convention. Mrs. Bert Yarbrough was named alternate. The spring Advisory Council meeting will be held in March.

not only as the mayor but as an elected magistrate and as South Fulton City Judge. As magistrate Mayor Counce receives $3.50 for each case tried in that court, as well as $3.50 per case tried in city court. These fees are in addition to his $50 per month salary as Mayor.

The combination Magisterial-Mayoralty duties of Mr. Counce is an unusual one, however, Mr. Counce was elected to both of these offices by South Fulton voters and is within the province of Tennessee law.

The pay increases to be voted upon could not be, under the law, applied to the present terms of office but could apply to the Mayor and City Council who will be elected for the new terms in December of this year.

Wednesday South Fulton City Attorney issued the following statement concerning the proposed salary raise. It is quoted here in part.

TO THE CITIZENS OF SOUTH FULTON:

In the operation of any large business, someone must be in authority, must have the responsibility and obligations that go with this authority, must endure the endless phone calls and personal contacts from these citizens who have problems, and this person necessarily must oversee the various problems arising in connection with subdivision problems, street repair, sewer and water extension, the construction of bridges, new streets, Red Cross cases, public welfare, hiring competent workers and watching the return the taxpayers get for their money.

The City Judge and City Attorney of Fulton, together, receive four times as much compensation as do the Mayor and City Attorney of South Fulton combined, per month.

South Fulton is about one-third the size of Union City. South Fulton pays the executive head of their City $50.00 per month, the executive commissioners of Union City receive a combined salary in excess of $1,000.00 per month.

GRASS FIRE THURSDAY

The Fulton Fire Department was called out at 5:50 p. m. Thursday to put out a grass fire behind Brady's Garage, on West State Line.

Elsewhere in today's issue Mr. Treas makes his formal announcement. While his statement does not go into minute detail about his program he told a News reporter: "I am going to run for State representative in order that I may represent the people from both Fulton and Hickman counties in legislation that is needed for our counties."

Associated with his father E. J. McCollum as a Standard oil distributor Mr. Treas also operates the Joe Treas Standard Service Station on Lake Street.

During World War II, he was with the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., which made wire and cables for all the armed services. Mr. Osborne was a cable tester. Jottings from Jo's
Note Book

Last week at the press convention in Louisville I had the privilege of appearing on a panel with some distinguished newspaper editors, Norman Isaacs managing editor of the Louisville Times and James Pore, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal. I hasten to admit that I was in some of the most distinguished newspaper company in America. But regardless of the sizes of our newspaper, we had one thing in common as we discussed the title of the program, "The Public's Right to Know."

Here in the Fulton area we have had two rather interesting incidents in his respect and I think it bears well the subject I pursued as my portion of the panel "does the public WANT to know."

In South Fulton, at a council meeting, it was startlingly evident that the public there wants to know all about their city affairs and they had the courage to get up in the open meeting and say so. My mention of the South Fulton incident is not to indicate that the officials there have not their citizens informed.

It is just that the people think they have not and told the officials so in no uncertain terms. Actually that's a very healthy sign.

Over Hickman way another situation has developed that cannot fail to give County Judge John Bondurant some mighty anxious moments. Judge Bondurant has refused to permit court records to be examined unless the person

Harry Lee Waterfield Is A Victim of the Monster He Helped Create And Its Too Late To Repent

In all the years that we have known Harry Lee Waterfield—as a former competitor-publisher, later as a near-weekly publisher and politician, he seemed to be in fairly close touch with the common people while he was among us. The fact that he far outran Happy Chandler in voting for his present office, despite the fact that they were slated as a team, indicated that he had managed to retain that bond with the people, up to that time.

There were thousands of Harry Lee's friends here in the First District who felt that they knew Harry Lee well enough to believe that he would take issue with the Governor when Happy began shoving things down the throats of First District voters. Harry Lee didn't say a word.

There were thousands of First District voters who stood aghast as Harry Lee, presumably Chairman of the Democratic Central Committee in Kentucky and presumably one whose job it is to assist all Democrats, stood aside and offered no help to two Democrats in their unsuccessful race against two Republican Senators two years ago. That didn't ring true of Harry Lee Waterfield, a Democrat from the Gibraltar of Democracy—The powerfully-Democratic First District.

Nobody, least of all his friends in the First District, can understand what has happened to the Harry Lee Waterfield of 1955, and even more the Harry Lee Waterfield who, as a candidate for Governor in 1947 said he'd rather lose the Governor's race if he had to be for policies that were contrary to his principles. He lost!

Today, three years too late, Harry Lee is trying to recapture the confidence of First District voters by saying: "I'm not mad at anybody... I'm Harry Lee Waterfield... I'm one man and Happy Chandler is another... Remember I have not always been for Happy Chandler." And yet in the same breath almost, he says that Happy Chandler has been a good Governor; that the Chandler Administration has been a good Administration.

The sad commentary on the unsavory position in which Harry Lee finds himself today is that, with no trouble, and very early in 1956, Harry Lee could have established himself as a statesman if he had:

Spoken out in protest at Happy's statement to the farmers when Happy said to them: "Go home and mind your own business." He didn't.

Condemned Happy for raising taxes $200,000,000 when Happy loudly proclaimed during his campaign that he could operate the State government on its 1955 income. He passed the legislation.

Objected to the political shenanigans by appointing eight highway advisors for purely political reasons, and today, the hiring of three more, totally unqualified persons, to play footsy with county judges for political support for Harry Lee. He's taking advantage of it.

Spoken out in violent protest at the unmerciful harassment to Doris Owens and the Court of Appeals. His county gave June Suiter a good vote.

Complained at costly payroll padding when Happy promised that he would reduce the State payroll by nearly 6000 persons. (The State payroll is thousands more today than it was in 1955). He added a few himself.

Objected to Happy's bid for the presidential nomination when this egotist in the Governor's office promised he would stay in his office for four years without seeking another office. He helped too!

Refused to occupy the splendidly furnished and costly mansion that has earned Harry Lee the dubious honor of being the most expensive lieutenant-governor in the history of Kentucky. He's living there happy ever after!

Two years ago we heard an outstanding Kentucky citizen say to one of Harry Lee's closest friends: "The only way in the world that Harry Lee can get elected is to break with Happy Chandler and repudiate his entire program of graft, reprisals, revenge and reversals."

Harry Lee didn't do it. As a matter of fact he has stood by while this monster he helped to create daily brings Harry Lee's chances for the Governorship further from reality.

But now it's too late! With Happy's loyal hatchet-men fighting desperately to get Harry Lee elected and Happy Chandler getting all his presidential campaign material ready (State expense?) it isn't likely that they will charmingly, gracefully and peacefully step aside while Harry Lee runs the Governor's office.

Even Harry Lee will tell you that politics isn't run that way. But sadder is the fact that Harry Lee, condoning Happy's policies, cannot convince the people of Kentucky that he is the former Harry Lee Waterfield, "grass roots" newspaper publisher and Democrat.

Avoid Conflicting Dates: List Your Meetings

In order to provide local organizations with an up-to-date source of coming events and important meetings, the Fulton Chamber of Commerce secretary, Mrs. Cavita Olive, has started this week maintaining an advance "Calendar" of events at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The calendar will be valuable to organizations in determining whether or not there may be conflicts with other groups when they schedule important meetings, and all are asked to call Mrs. Olive at the Chamber office if (1) they merely wish to report the date their meeting is scheduled, or (2) if they seek an "open" date on which there are no other important meetings scheduled.

Purpose of the calendar, of course, is to attempt to avoid any future conflict of important events, such as the unforeseen-in-advance scheduling of the annual Chamber of Commerce meeting, and the annual Cub Scout Blue and Gold Bazaar, both originally set for Thursday night.

We are sure that this new service will be most helpful, and all club secretaries should remember it.

The Kentucky Sweethearts of Fulton participated Jan. 24, in a talent show, sponsored by the Parents and Teachers Association of the West Marshall school in Marshall County near Benton.

The Sweethearts, Peggy Downey and Mildred Greer of Fulton, won in the duet group, and were called back to do many numbers.

Miss Downey and Miss Greer with Sherrill Coursey and Jimmy Bowlin sang as a quartet, also. Coursey and Bowlin are from Benton. They also entered the contest and won.

The Kentucky Sweethearts can be heard from 1:05 until 1:30 each Sunday afternoon over WFUL.

We would like to highly recommend the picture, "I'll Give My Life", a religious film, now showing at the Fulton theatre. The picture runs Wednesday through Friday.

The moving story is in black and white and only an hour and 18 minutes long, but it is truly a wonderful story of a young man who, against his father's wishes, becomes a missionary in a far-off land. Its in the same calibre of "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain," and you must not fail to see it.

Show manager Nubbin Bizzle held a screening of the picture on Tuesday of last week for the local ministers and members of the press and radio.

The Trading Post heard each noon over WFUL really gets results! Thursday a calf for sale was announced and within 10 minutes the owner called to say that within that time four people had called and the calf was already sold. This is just one example of the fast results of items advertised over WFUL. It happens all the time!

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Green have taken an apartment in Varden apartment house at 313 Carr Street, until their home, which was damaged by fire recently, is repaired.

The seventh grade class at South Fulton is the hardest working class you will find any where. All year they have worked hard and have been successful at all of their money-making schemes. Before Christmas, they had $250 in their class treasury.

Then, the Polio Drive got underway the first of January and the class challenged any other class in a contest to raise funds for the worthwhile campaign. No one took them up, so the class divided up, with the girls on one side and the boys on the other, and had a contest all their own. I believe the girls won, but that really didn't matter. What matters is that the entire group raised $148.79 for the Polio Fund.

Too much praise can not be handed these 69 enthusiastic seventh graders and their homeroom teachers, Mrs. Mansfield Martin and Ual Killebrew. We congratulate you kids. You are a fine and hard-working group!

Boy Scout Week marking the 49th anniversary of the organization in America will be observed beginning Saturday, February 7, through Friday, February 13.

Boys and leaders arranged programs involving parents of Scouts, institutions sponsoring the units, and officials of numerous communities, large and small.

Boy Scout Week activities will show each community the value of Scouting as a program for boys and young men.

The final year of the Four-Year Program, "Onward for God and My Country," is launched during this anniversary.

Units who have successfully carried out activities in each of the three phases of our National Safety Good Turn of last year will be honored. These covered traffic, outdoor, and home safety.

Boy Scout Sunday will be observed this Sunday, February 8, in many churches with Scouts and leaders attending services in uniform. Those of Jewish faith will hold their observances in synagogues and temples Friday evening and Saturday.

This anniversary stresses the "Scout is friendly" part of the Scout Law each member takes. There will be parents night meetings, unit reunions, dinners recognizing new Eagle Scouts, exhibits of Scout handicrafts, courts of honor at which Scouts will be honored for their accomplishments, and visits by Scouts to industrial plants and military installations.

Mr. Sam Jones returned home over the weekend from Corpus Christi, Texas, where he had been visiting his son, Jerry, who was seriously injured in a two-car collision last week. Mrs. Jones remained in Corpus Christi with her son and his family. Jerry is reported to be improving.

He has a cut on his head, one tooth was knocked out, one arm was broken, his pelvis was fractured, and one leg was broken in numerous places.

We understand that Hal Riddle is now working on a new picture. I believe the star in the movie is Red Skelton.

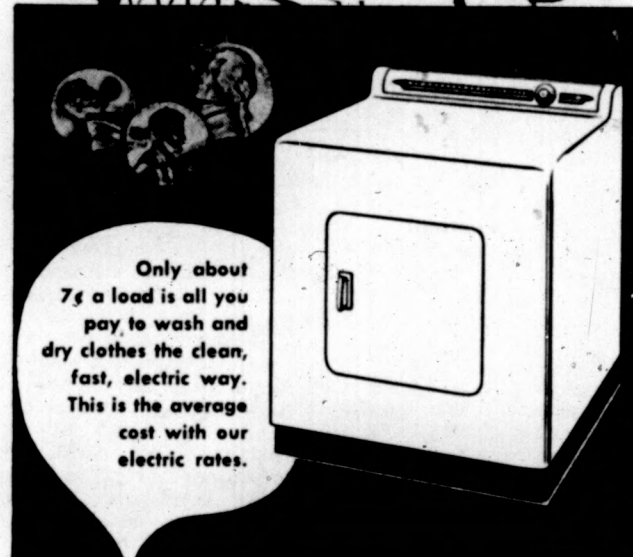

The Fulton City hall looks very nice since the remodeling on the hallway, etc. has been complete. Go by and take a look. It looks like an entirely different place.

Did you hear the loud blast early Thursday evening? We folks down on Carr Street did, and we understand it shook the home of one family. If you know what the blast was, please let me know. Just curious!

They last longer, feel better... and so will you

Electric drying is kind to clothes. Safe, gentle electric heat — clean as electric light itself — tumbles clothes to a fluffy softness. No flames or fumes, no harsh, hot sun to fade or discolor. Colored clothes come out bright and beautiful... white clothes, white as ever.

Electric drying saves work too. Easy-dial controls free you from heavy washday work and weather worries. Do your laundry any time — rain or shine — electrically.

Electric dryers cost less to buy... less to maintain. A modern electric dryer costs less to buy. Because it has fewer parts, it requires less service.

Sandy Branch Church To Have New Home

By Ed M. Chennette

Martin—Members of the congregation of Sandy Branch Primitive Baptist Church will soon have a new place to worship. The new structure, presently under construction, will replace the building which was torn down recently after having been in use since 1895. It in turn had replaced the original church, a log structure built in 1840.

The new church will be 50x32 feet in size. It will be of brick construction and will be gas-heated, two facts in considerable contrast to the first log structure and the wooden fires used for many years. Aaron B. Reed of Route 3, Fulton, and E. M. Coffman of Route 5, Fulton, are in charge of the building fund committee and they or any of the church deacons will be glad to accept contributions towards defraying cost of construction.

Members of the congregation look ahead with pride to their new $8,500 home, but at the same time they look to the past with a feeling of nostalgic pride that few church groups can equal. For few church memberships can claim an existence of 119 years, 55 of which were spent in the original building and the next 64 in its replacement.

Oldest member of the church, from point of age, is M. A. Hagler of State Line Road, Fulton. However, two ladies, Mrs. Cleo Palmer of Dresden and Mrs. Mary Terrell of Union City have been members of the congregation for the longest period, both being members when A. B. Ross was ordained minister of the church in 1904. Technically, Mrs. Terrell now holds this record alone since Mrs. Palmer recently moved her membership to the Martin Primitive Baptist Church.

Elder McCutchen of Booneville, Mississippi, is the present pastor of the church, and he conducts services every second Sunday of the month. Present membership is about 65.

The three juniors are Rose Ann King, Maggie Conn, and Donald Bennett.

The three sophomores are Terry Outland, Wanda Veatch, and Judy Pharis.

WCMES Completes Inventory At South Fulton; Bid In Works

The inventory of Kentucky Utilities properties in South Fulton has been completed and at present WCMES is in the process of evaluating the inventory to enable it to arrive at a purchasing figure.

Brooks Crockett, WCMES Superintendent, said that an official of the Allen Hand Hoshall Construction Engineers of Memphis was in Martin last Wednesday going over the inventory and evaluation with WCMES officials. The Memphis firm had been previously employed by the city of South Fulton to make a feasibility study for that city concerning the KU-WCMES transaction. "We had Mr. Robinson here to check what we are doing in order to have the verification by his firm as to our making a fair offer for the properties," Mr. Crockett stated.

Officials of South Fulton met with the WCMES board Monday night and at that time granted WCMES a 120-day extension of its franchise.

Gene Brown Attends Conference At Lake

Gene Brown, of the Southern States Fulton Co-Op, at Fulton has returned from a three-day District Agency Conference at Kenlake Hotel, which was conducted by Southern States Cooperative for managers and employees of its local cooperative service agencies.

The meeting was especially designed to help agency personnel to become better acquainted with the products and services of the cooperative so they in turn will be better equipped to serve the more than 384,000 members of Southern States. The conference was conducted by officials and top distribution and purchasing men from the cooperative's central offices in Richmond, Va.

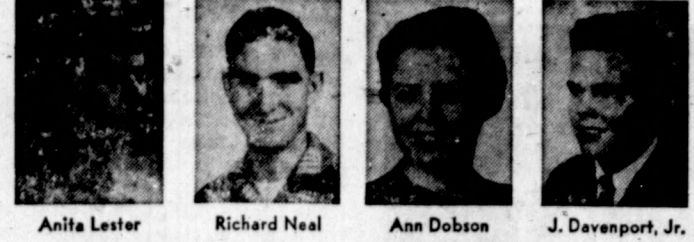

The conference is one of nine meetings scheduled to be held at various points throughout the six-state operating territory of the organization. The Cooperative, which is one of the nation's largest regional farm organizations, has agencies in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, Maryland and Delaware.

Talks were presented on seed,

More Blue Grass 4-H State Winners

Anita Lester Richard Neal Ann Dobson J. Davenport, Jr.

Among Kentucky's 1958 state 4-H champions are these four who have distinguished themselves by doing superior work in projects involving many years of "learning by doing". Their reward was an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Whether you want to know about the nutritive value of milk or how to care for dairy animals, Anita Lester, 17, of Rose Hill, is an authority. She was winner in the 4-H Dairy program, and her trip award was provided by the Oliver Corporation.

Miss Lester received a heifer calf for her ninth birthday, the beginning of a fascinating seven-year dairy experience. Today this 4-H'er has 17 head of cattle, and the satisfaction of a spinet piano, savings bonds and a college fund which came from her profits.

Miss Lester has won Mercer County dairy showmanship awards for four years, and in 1957 won district high honors. She has served as a junior leader of the Rose Hill Champions and Mercer County High School 4-H Clubs.

Richard Neal, 18, of Georgetown, is winner in the 4-H Electric program. Now an electrical engineering student at the University of Kentucky, he has been in club work for five years.

Neal is president of the Scott County Hi-Teens 4-H Club. Under his leadership the club membership doubled.

His electric project work included making five brooder lights, 20 extension cords, and four table lamps. He installed a two-door buzzer system and two overhead pull-down lamps. His door bell display won a blue award in county fair.

Neal's major accomplishment this year was constructing a Tesla coil for which he received blue awards at county, district, and state levels.

The Westinghouse Educational Foundation supports the 4-H Electric program awards.

Miss Ann Dobson, 19, of Wingo, won the award in 4-H Girls' Home Economics which includes a trip to the congress provided by Montgomery Ward.

Clothing, canning and foods projects have brought her many awards and prizes in 4-H competition.

Valedictorian of her high school class, Miss Dobson is now a sophomore at Murray State College majoring in home economics. She was chosen Farm Bureau Queen in 1956.

Miss Dobson has been secretary of the Graves County 4-H Club and taught handicraft at county camp.

Jack and his giant beanstalk had nothing on James Davenport, Jr., 16, of Bowling Green.

For his garden endeavors and fine produce, Davenport was chosen winner in the 4-H Garden program, and awarded a congress trip by the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company.

A 4-H'er for seven years, he started his garden project four years ago with a quarter acre of vegetables. Now he cultivates more than an acre. Last year his farm and garden display won first place at the Southern Kentucky Fair.

Davenport, president of the College High 4-H Club, has also won awards for his beef, poultry, dairy, swine and woodwork projects. He has shown a reserve champion Shorthorn, two junior champion Holsteins, and one grand champion in district competition. A first-place junior Holstein calf and a second place junior yearling at the state fair were also his.

These 4-H projects are under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service, and arranged by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

Farm News, Meetings, Events

(Ed's note: the following information, supplied THE NEWS by the USDA, ASC, nearby County Agents and agricultural agencies will be of special interest to progressive farmers in the Ken-Tenn area):

FINAL TALLY SHOWS 71.2 PERCENT FAVORABLE VOTE FOR NEW CORN PROGRAM
Final results of the Nov. 25, 1958 corn referendum in a 26-State area show that 71.2 percent of the 357,169 farmers voting favored a new program calling for the limitation of corn acreage allotments, and for a new method of setting support prices for 1959 and succeeding crops.

The final tabulations shows 254,262 (71.2 percent) voting for the new program and 102,907 (28.8 percent) voting for a continuation of the allotment program in effect on the 1958 crop.

The final favorable percentage is slightly higher than the preliminary figure of 71.1 percent favorably announced Nov. 26 on the basis of a preliminary total of 246,976 votes.

Operators of upland cotton farms will have until March 16, 1959, to choose between the Choice (A) and Choice (B) allotments and price supports for their farms. C. C. Vaughn, Chairman, Obion County ASC Committee, said today. That is the final date for registering the operator's choice at the county ASC office.

The chairman emphasized, however, that no election of such a choice can be filed until after the farm operator receives a notice of the price support levels applicable to the 1959 upland cotton crop under the (A) and (B) allotments. That will be soon after the Secretary of Agriculture announces the national price support levels for the 1959 upland cotton crop about the end of January.

Every cotton farm operator, therefore should be on the lookout for a notice from his county ASC office early in February, informing him of the price support level available for cotton produced on Choice (A) and (B) allotment farms and stating the deadline for filing the operator's choice in

Many More May Qualify For Social Security

Many additional persons may now qualify for social security payments as dependent parents, according to Charles M. Whitaker, District Manager of the Paducah office.

Changes in the social security law made by Congress in 1958 now make it possible for some parents who previously could not qualify to now receive payments. Before the change in the law when a wage-earner died and left behind a widow with children under 18 and dependent parents, only the widow and children could receive social security payments. The 1958 Amendments changed that provision in the law and it is now possible for the wage-earner's widow, children and his dependent parents to receive social security payments.

If you believe you may be eligible for such benefits, be sure and get in touch with your nearest social security representative or write for further information to the Social Security Administration, Paducah Bank Building, Paducah, Kentucky.

New White-Collar Salary Tests Start Next Week

Members of the business community in this area were reminded today by Robert L. Sawyer, Investigation Supervisor of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Public Contracts Divisions, that the new higher salary tests for exemption of so-called white-collar employees from the Federal Wage and Hour Law's provisions go into effect next week.

"Starting February 2, 1959, executive employees of firms engaged in interstate commerce must be paid at least $80 a week on a salary basis to qualify for exemption from the wage and hour provisions of the Act," Sawyer said. Administrative and professional employees must be paid at least $95 a week on a salary or fee basis to be exempt. Previous salary requirements for exemption were $55 for executive employees and $75 for administrative and professional employees.

"A special proviso for employees exempt under shortened duty tests will also be increased from $100 to $125 a week."

School Status Of Prisoners

Of the 1,228 prisoners at Kentucky State Penitentiary, Eddyville, at the start of this fiscal year, only 25 had college educations, a report by Welfare Commissioner Charles Allphin says.

But only 53 of the prisoners were illiterate, the report added. It also shows:

Those with eighth grade educations totaled 298, the largest education group at the prison. Next were those who had completed nine grades, totaling 163.

Only 80 of the inmates had high school educations.

The state has made rapid progress in beef production, too, both in terms of quantity and quality. The continued increase in cattle is dependent upon our ability to improve and extend our pasture acreage, so all segments of agriculture believe in the grass type agriculture.

News From Our Boys In The SERVICE

Fort Jackson, S. C.—Private Thomas E. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest D. Phillips, Fulton, Ky., has been assigned to Company D, 6th Battalion, 2nd Training Regiment at Fort Jackson, S. C. for eight weeks of basic combat training.

Upon his arrival at Fort Jackson, he was issued clothing and given a complete physical examination and a comprehensive battery of aptitude tests to determine the Army duty assignment for which he is best fitted.

As part of his basic training he will be taught rifle marksmanship under the Army's new Trainfire program. In Trainfire, he will learn to use an M-1 rifle by firing at pop-up targets at varying ranges and on terrain which duplicates combat areas.

He will also be taught drill, tactics, camouflage, military courtesy, first aid and other subjects. He will learn how to throw a grenade, fire in pitch darkness, crawl under barbed wire with machine gun fire overhead, and defend himself in simulated chemical, biological, and radiological warfare situations.

During his seventh week of training, he will march 13 miles with full field pack to a bivouac area to spend a week living in the field and learning to integrate the skills he has been taught.

After completing basic training, he normally will receive a two-week leave before reporting for advanced training with the infantry or other branch of the Army, or he may be selected to attend one of the Army's many technical and service schools.

Lincoln Stamp Sale Begins 12th

The one-cent Lincoln Sesquicentennial commemorative stamp will be placed on sale at Hodgenville, Feb. 12, according to an announcement by the Post Office Department.

The design of the stamp pictures the log cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born. Original material used for the stamp included a photograph of a stamp design and a photograph of the painting of Lincoln by G. P. A. Healy. The painting is in the collection of the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington.

A photograph of a stamp design and the sculptured head of Lincoln which is in the rotunda of the Capitol in Washington were used for a three-cent Lincoln Sesquicentennial commemorative stamp.

According to Dr. Rhea A. Taylor, executive secretary of the Kentucky Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission, Hodgenville will also be the site of a Lincoln celebration, Feb. 12. The celebration will include a parade, a program at the memorial building in the Abraham Lincoln National Historical Park and a luncheon, he said.

Dr. Taylor said the commission would encourage Lincoln celebrations in the State throughout 1959, the 150th anniversary of the 16th President's birth.

Down on the Farm

With JIM PRYOR
Agricultural Agent, Illinois Central Railroad

VERTICAL INTEGRATION—WHAT NEXT?

Farming has undergone many changes within the past several years and there are many more to come. We must get ready to familiarize ourselves with many new methods, words and terms.

Vertical integration is one of the new words with which we must become familiar. It came into being some five years ago and is fast becoming of great importance to our fast moving modern agriculture. At present it has a lot of people stirred up and many do not know just what will happen. To some it is the answer to many farm problems of pricing and marketing, but to others it is just plain confusion and unnecessary.

It has been said that the pioneer example of complete vertical integration of complete vertical integration. They made their own products of the table and body from the raw products they raised on the farm. Butter and cheese were manufactured from the farm cows milk and the women folks spun and knitted the family garments. In many cases pioneer families were their own consumers, but occasionally some of the finished products were sold in order to supply badly needed money.

Today the term vertical integration has a much more complicated meaning. Some of the greatest problems of our agriculture are financing and management. One and activities to strengthen the Association in 1959. Directors will be selected for 1959.

A barbeque plate will be served at lunch.

modern day example of vertical integration in the broiler business where the farmer is under contract. The contractor furnishes the chicks feed and also supplies much of the technical advice when needed. The contractor is responsible for virtually all of the financing and takes much of the risks.

The poultry business is only an example of what is happening in today's agriculture. Application is being made to hog and steer programs and some experts predict it will spread to many other types of farming.

This is doubtful, in my opinion, farmers in other fields of agriculture are not as interested in a guarantee as they are the right to a free and open market. Risk in farming is just part of the game and when taken away, self satisfaction of a job well done is also gone. Specialization may be a step in the integrated direction, I do not know, but the American farmer will never give in to the rigid rule of vertical integration. A modification maybe, but not the one advocated now.

Homicide Conviction Set Aside; Retrial Ordered

The Fulton Circuit Court charged itself with errors last week and set aside the probated one year's jail sentence of Mollie Jones of Hickman. Jones pleaded guilty Jan. 20 to a charge of homicide in the Aug. 24, 1958 beating of Joe O'Conner of Clinton.

circumstances, said that O'Conner's death was caused by an injury to the brain. Fulton County Coroner Walter Voelpel, following an autopsy report, gave a verdict of death due to internal head and abdominal injuries.

Wood Tipton, attorney for Jones, entered an objection of his client Jan. 26 at Fulton arguing that it was not proven that the blows administered by Jones were the cause of O'Conner's subsequent death. Jones admitted in the trial that he had struck O'Conner.

Ordering the jury's verdict set aside, Judge Elvis J. Stahr called for a retrial at the next (May 1959) term of Fulton Circuit Court.

There were missing links in the circumstances which surrounded the beating of O'Conner and his subsequent death. He had been on a Sunday drinking spree with his half-brother, Boyd, and Claude Williamson, a migrant farm worker.

Jones reportedly found O'Conner in a ditch along Bypass 1099 near Union City highway intersection. He put him in the car in which Jones' wife and child were also passengers.

A controversy about the car was said to have led to the beating. O'Conner, subsequently picked up by Hickman police officers, never regained consciousness. He died the following day in a Fulton hospital.

The attending physician, who refused to sign the death certificate because of the questionable wishing to examine those records has some interest in them. His order issued to Ro Gardner of the Hickman Courier this week cannot fail to leave the impression that Judge Bondurant is operating the court as a private, not a public venture. I don't think the judge intends that.

* Taking note that the Highlands annexation suit is coming up in Circuit Court on Saturday, Feb. 14, the group decided to begin a survey of street lighting needs for Highlands. If the area is annexed to the City, street lights can thus be added at an early date.

Ro has reported both to the United Press International and other metropolitan sources when they called him that for more than a year he has had access to the county court records, but that on Tuesday of this week the Judge said that he didn't think that he (Judge Bondurant) was obligated to show the records to newspaper reporters. We feel sure that Judge Bondurant knows better. Its actually a personal issue that has made the Judge slap the ban on the court records. Ro in an editorial was sharply critical of a case tried in Judge Bondurant's court which lead the Judge to remark that he never knew what was going to be printed.

The fact is that no Judge has a right to know what is going to be printed on a newspaper's editorial page any more than he can close public records to the people who are entitled to see them. And it is obvious that Judge Bondurant had reference to Ro's editorial rather than the Courier's treatment of the news story.

There would never be any need for a committee of Freedom of Information or a panel titled the "Public's Right to Know" if more people would speak up for their right to know what's going on in their courts. As Niel Plummer, head of the School of Journalism at UK said on the panel with me: "When people express their right to know the truth it keeps an editor from thinking he's way out there on a limb, performing his duties as a public servant."

Dean of the Memphis school. He is scheduled to leave in the next few months for Iran, where he will serve as consultant in medical school there.

Toastmaster for the evening was James Warren. After entertaining the 91 guests assembled with a number of anecdotes, Warren introduced Dr. Eddie Crocker, President for the past year, who has just been re-elected for another year.

In a brief recount of the highlights of the past year, Dr. Crocker mentioned the coming of Ferry-Morse to Fulton, the raising of funds for the new Siegel plant, the distribution of 10,000 brochures describing the community, and the interest of the Chamber in Fulton's forthcoming centennial.

GREAT SHOWMAN—

out ballroom of the big boat and the days passed more swiftly than the green shoreline. Before he knew it, Maurice Luckett was back home in Eddyville.

He really left home next year. His mother walked with him to the gate in the iron fence around the Luckett house and she cried softly as Maurice climbed in somebody's shiny new 1916 automobile and rode off to the railroad station.

For Maurice, Fulton was the end of the line and his first job was playing piano for the mood music of the silent pictures shown in shadowy old Orpheum Theater. Maurice, at first, worked without a single cue. He watched the silent pictures, jerky above their printed dialogue, and played whatever seemed to be appropriate at the time.

For a storm, he played something that thundered; for the entry of the villain, something sneaky. A love scene called for a tender tune, and fast action always needed a portion of something racy, like the William Tell Overture.

Young Maurice played on a tiny platform to the right of the stage. From there he could look up and see the pictures flashing on the "silver screen."

Hired by an Italian he met through a friend in Fulton, young Maurice played constantly for both the matinee and night shows, and he played alone. He sat at the piano, pursuing the mood of the picture, for two hours or more at a time.

Such movies as the "Perils of Pauline", starring Pearl White, and "Diamond In The Sky", featuring Lottie Pickford, sister of the more famous Mary, flashed on the screen of the old Orpheum. Serials sold the theater program. Each day brought a chapter of thrilling action and each chapter ended with the hero or heroine or both in incredible trouble.

"That's the only way we could keep a crowd," said 60-year-old Maurice Luckett, who has long since settled down to an excellent role of piano teaching in his hometown of Eddyville.

In Fulton, Luckett got his first glimpse of a big movie star. Glamorous Kathryn Williams, who skyrocketed to fame in the early movie-making of Francis X. Bushman and other picture pioneers, came through Fulton. She had a short layover there for a change in trains. The theater manager, a man named Chisholm, took young Maurice to the station and there the youngster met and shook hands with the wonderful Kathryn.

The star was blonde and beautifully dressed, and she was gracious as she shook hands with the thrilled, excited youngster from Lyon County.

Kathryn had walked out of a strange new world which dawned in the tumbled cluttered movie lots of New York and Jersey—in old Essanay Studios and others not much different—and was now beginning to blossom and grow in a bustling place called Hollywood, Calif. For young Maurice, she vanished back into it quickly. But for the slim sensitive pianist show business had begun right there in Fulton where he met and, with awe, tried to copy the run explained and demonstrated by the great man Handy.

From Fulton, Maurice Luckett went to a Henderson theater to coax from his keys the proper mood for silent pictures, and from there he started a memorable 30-year career playing piano in road shows and stock companies and wonderful, exciting vaudeville.

Luckett, now 18, joined a small road show as a company pianist, to play for the songs and dances in the nightly show. The cast traveled by train and made small towns everywhere.

Such plays as "Girl Of The Golden West" and "Call of the Woods" and a great old standby called "Lena Rivers" were the featured dramatic shows. These were accompanied by skits and the novelty acts of jugglers and acrobats and other specialists. Some of the cast went down in the crowd before the show started and sold candy. The gay boxes contained a little candy and a cheap prize; the profit was long when ever a country boy parted with a dime for a treat for him and his girl.

Usually, the show played three nights. In the daytime, around the hotel, the show people were the toasts of the mining or farming towns.

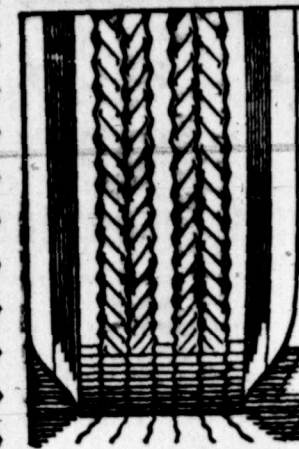

There were no radios and no movies in the little places; the show people brought the gaiety and the excitement from the far-away outside world.

For those days, Luckett drew about $25 a week. Out of this he had to pay his hotel bill and other expenses. But this was pretty good money, and the bigtime always lay somewhere up ahead.

Maurice always stuck with his piano. He was a man looked up to, and he didn't have to double as actor, juggler or candy salesman. The crowd loved "Valley of the Moon" and "Shine On Harvest Moon" and the other popular, thrilling songs of the day and the piano had to be kept busy.

In 1923 Luckett, now 24, moved up in the show world. He joined the well-known and rapidly climbing Winner Stock Company operated by four brothers, John, Charles, Adolph and Frank. John hired Maurice and looked after him. Charles left the show in a short time and went to New York, where he became a musical comedy star. He married beautiful Blanche Ring, also a shining light of the musical comedy casts on Broadway of the early 20s.
