I wish every reader of this newspaper would take time out today to read the story opposite this column about our local "war on poverty." If you're one of those people who can't find time to read it, I can only say it's such attitude that makes these things happen in the first place. If you do read it, I know you will share the alarm of a great many Americans that if this is happening on the home scene, you must know the problem is multiplied many times over with other matters overseas. Think of it!

And speaking of overseas!

Dr. and Mrs. Glynn F. Bushart have received word that their son, First Lieutenant Robert Duncan Bushart, has arrived in Vietnam.

Lt. Bushart entered the army in October 1965 as a Second Lieutenant, after graduating from Murray State University. He completed his training at Fort Sills, Oklahoma in February 1966, and has been stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington, where he was promoted to First Lieutenant before being transferred to Vietnam.

His address is: 1st Lt. Robert D. Bushart, 05228172

Headquarters Battery
6th Bn. of 32nd Arty. Div.
APO San Francisco, Calif. 96316

Our dear and old friend Mrs. Ernest Willey brought me a clipping (looks more like a sheet) from the Houston Chronicle which published the picture of the senior class of the Spring Branch High School from which her grandson David Willey will be graduating soon. Thinking of Texas in astronomical figures is similarly carried out with the photo. It stretches across four newspaper pages. The class contains 616 students.

David is the son of Paul and Betty Lou (Redmon) Willey. Paul graduated from Fulton High in the class of 1939. The Texas Willeys have six children. And that's a nice family... Texas-size.

Mary Nelle Wright, as county chairman of Kentucky's 175 anniversary celebration, is trying to find the descendants of area people who signed Kentucky's first constitution. Mary Nelle is having a ball working on the project, but I think she can share the excitement with all of us if she'd let us publish the names of the signers... who knows they might all be living here. There are a lot of interesting events for this observance that Mary Nelle and her committees have planned. We'll keep you posted.

Waterfield Gives People Third Chance For Service

Lt.-Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, Clinton publisher and president of the Investor's Heritage Life Insurance Company of Frankfort, formally announced as a candidate for governor on Monday at a press conference in Louisville. There has been much speculation in recent weeks whether or not Waterfield would seek the nomination. There are seven other Democrats in the race.

In addition to setting forth his program for the development of Kentucky, Waterfield made these significant statements at his press conference.

"I believe I have earned the right to run against the (Gov. Edward T.) Breathitt administration."

"I've run for governor twice... Tell them (the people) that I'm giving them a third chance and if they don't take this one, I'm going to quit them. I'm not going to run any more."

Waterfield said, however, that he is not "mad" at Chandler. "I just wish

Four-County Poverty Funds Suspended; Politics, Red Tape, Bog Down Program

by Jo Westpheling

An expensively printed, 94-page document, presented to Congress by the Office Of Economic Opportunity to battle the War On Poverty says this:

"That 'the poor are poor because they want to be poor' is a false and widely held misconception."

Perhaps the statement is a misconception, but if the poor, who do not want to be poor, are looking to certain programs of the local War On Poverty for victory over their fear-ridden subculture, it's time to hoist the flag of utter defeat.

At least that's the view this reporter gets from the thus far, hopelessly futile efforts of the Four-County (Fulton - Hickman - Carlisle - Ballard) Mississippi River Development Council to secure abundant Federal funds to alleviate poverty in this area.

Organized more than two years ago, encompassing a wide spectrum of organizations, groups and human resources, the bungling apparatus flounders today in a state of suspension from its almost $50,000.00 Federal allocation for organizational expenses. The group has been given until April 30 to hire a qualified director, although more than a 100 applications have been received, and a score of apparently acceptable persons have been interviewed. Nearly $10,000.00 has been spent in the attempt to employ an $11,000.00 a year director.

The four-county organization is not unique in its inability to get into full operation, although the News has been advised that it is the only such organization in Kentucky, and perhaps the only one in the Nation that has failed thus far to fulfill Federal requirements for organizational procedures.

There are conflicting reports as to failure of the far west Kentucky's multiple-county organization to move into full operational status.

From reliable sources in Frankfort and Washington it is learned that the leadership in the Mississippi River Council is top-heavy with governmental officials and ambitious civic leaders who want to make popular politics over the program to alleviate poverty.

"The organization is the four-county area is fraught with struggle for 'control' of local jobs and programs," a Washington official told the News recently. "The manner by which the organization has 'non-operated' reflects the traditional political struggle for power, and may prove destructive to overall poverty efforts," the official added.

Such an accusation is heatedly denied by Eli Padgett, judge of the fiscal court of Hickman County who is chairman of the Mississippi River Council. Padgett, one of the charter organizers of the council says that "the guidelines set forth by the Washington office are so laborious and over-organized that they are impossible to put into motion without a full and qualified staff."

Ironically, failure to meet procedural requirements also brings failure in the attempts to hire a director.

And the failure to hire a director has brought about the suspension of the organization's funds until April 30, (Continued On Page Two)

KENNETH STANLEY

Kenneth Stanley Elected Fulton Jaycee President

Kenneth Stanley has been re-elected President of the Fulton Jaycees for the coming year, the organization announced following their meeting Tuesday March 21st.

Other officers elected at Tuesday's meeting include Larry Ader, Chairman of the Board; Frank McCann, Internal Vice-President; Ronnie Shelton, External Vice-President; Leon Johnson, Secretary; Wesley Thompson, Treasurer; Joe Johnson and Ronald Kirby, directors.

Stanley, 27, assistant cashier at Fulton Bank, has been a Jaycee for the past six years. He has been associated with the Bank for a similar length of time, and before that was an announcer at Radio Station WFUL for 2½ years. Prior to his elevation to the Presidency of the local Club he served as Internal (Continued On Page Four)

"Bosses Night"

The annual Jaycee "Bosses Night Banquet" will be Friday night March 31st at the Derby Cafe in Fulton, beginning at 7:00 p. m.

Awards will be given to the "Outstanding Boss of the Year" and to the "Outstanding Young Man of the Year"; also to the "Key Man of the Year" within the organization. The "Distinguished Service Award" will also be given to a member.

Rollin Shaw, City Manager of Fulton, will be the guest speaker.

Daylight Saving Time Might Be Nightmare

The absurd position that the State of Kentucky has placed herself in—that of being an "island" of different time from all of her surrounding neighbor states—will not concern Fulton and South Fulton... at least this year.

On Tuesday of this week the Tennessee legislature voted to keep that State in line with 38 other States who have adopted the new "fast" time, and on Monday of this week the Fulton City Commissioners voted to adopt daylight ("fast") time for Fulton. Thus the sister communities of Fulton and South Fulton will not only have the same time, but will also have the same time as Missouri and other adjoining states.

Thus, at 2: a. m. on Sunday April 30th, Fulton and South Fulton residents will move their clocks forward one hour, and will leave them that way until the same hour on Sunday October 29th, when they will be moved back one hour.

What residents living in the rural area around Fulton will do is more or less up to them. However, the City of Hickman and the Fulton County Fiscal (Continued On Page Four)

Breathitt, High Officials Head Hickman Opening

Governor Edward T. Breathitt and Commerce Commissioner Katherine Peden will take part in the official opening of the Carborundum Company's Graphite Products Plant at Hickman.

Three days of ceremonies in connection with the opening have been set.

The actual dedication will take place at 2 p. m. on March 30. Carborundum President William H. Wendel and Breathitt will cut a ribbon and then throw open the gates at the plant to symbolize that the plant, called the "most modern graphite plant in the world," is in operation. The official opening marks the Carborundum Company's entry into the graphite electrode, anode and mold stock market.

Also taking part in the dedication will be Commissioner Peden, Ro Gardner, mayor of Hickman, and Dr. Richard (Continued On Page Four)

South Fulton Boosters Staging Sixth Pageant

The South Fulton Booster Club will present its sixth annual beauty revue at eight o'clock, Thursday night, April 6, in the South Fulton High School gymnasium.

Contestants must be at least sixteen years of age in order to be selected princess, but there is no restriction on age for maids.

The judges will be provided by the West Tennessee Strawberry Festival, the master of ceremonies will be James Warren and the organist will be Mrs. Martha Logan.

Fulton County Progresses With Kentucky Programs

FRANKFORT — Fulton County miles of county roads under the State's made extensive progress in 1966 by participating in Kentucky State government activities such as highway construction, education, health and welfare, conservation and agriculture, tourism, Governor Edward T. Breathitt announced today.

Among specific State government programs in which the county shared last year were:

*HIGHWAYS — During the 10 months from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1966, the State spent a total of nearly $5 million in State and Federal funds to build and maintain roads in Fulton County.

The State allocated $243,793 for maintenance of 183.3 miles of county roads, $50,692 for maintaining 108.4

county road aid program, and $121,308 for the current 1966-67 fiscal year for the rural secondary program.

Among principal projects let to contract by the State Department of Highways in Fulton County in 1966 were:

The Purchase Parkway which will connect Fulton and Fulton County to I-24 and the Western Kentucky Parkway near Kentucky and Barkley Dams; blacktopping of the Shuck Switch Road for more than four miles; resurfacing of Ky. 166 from Ky. 125 to US 51, and of Ky. 125 from Hickman to the Tennessee line. Numerous roads and streets also received a seal treatment.

Siegel Worker Is Held To Grand Jury Action

An employee of the Henry I. Siegel Co. at South Fulton was held to the grand jury Monday on a charge of taking pants from the manufacturing plant.

Dudley Hodges faces the action of the May grand jury.

A charge of theft against George Scates was dismissed. Three other employees already have been held to the grand jury in connection with the theft of an undetermined number of pairs of pants from the plant.

Hodges is alleged to have stolen four pairs of pants. Testimony listed Scates' theft at two pairs.

Four-County War On Poverty --

and perhaps a dissolution of the council and the loss of thousands, perhaps millions of dollars in Federal programs available here to elevate the human resources of the hundreds of poverty-stricken families in this area.

It is a well publicized, national statistic that the Office of Economic Opportunity is notorious for its squabbling among agencies charged with carrying out some of the anti-poverty programs. Among other things the Federal agency, headed by Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, is charged with "bad communications," "red tape," patronage pressures and "fat salaries."

On the other hand, even the most rabid critic has admitted that the "intent" of the program, designed by the assassinated President was one of the highest humanitarian motives.

But as Judge Padgett sees it, and as many others who have given valuable time and effort to its organization, see it, there is a vast hiatus in the intent and the modus operandi.

It is abundantly clear that there has been some local political maneuvering in the administration of the district Mississippi River Council. It is no secret that the original organization was formed without adequate publicity, or contact for acceptance with many of the members whose names were placed on the categorical list of required members.

New elections have been held, and reorganizations affected (last February) without substantive notice to those persons who were serving on the previous board.

For unexplained reasons, Woodrow Coots of Paducah, an area extension agent with the University of Kentucky's Department of Agriculture, appeared to have been in tight control of the group's early organization. It was Mr. Coots who presented the by-laws of the organization to an assembled gathering; it was Mr. Coots who did the clerical work for the application that was to be sent to Washington for approval.

And while Mr. Coots and others were negotiating directly with Washington, the Kentucky Area Redevelopment Office, (now the OEO) was unaware that such an organization was in existence. So completely unaware were the state officials in Frankfort of the four-county organization that a close associate of Governor Edward T. Breathitt sought the help of several Fulton civic leaders to form the council in order to secure available funds for the poverty-program.

It was an embarrassing spectacle when a large group of four county leaders gathered in Fulton for the organizational meeting, attended by a high OEO official from Washington and a staff director of the State office, learned that a four-county organization was in full swing, designed along factional political lines, and saturated with the names of people many of whom were unaware that they were members of the committee.

However red-faced, the Fulton civic leaders, apologized for the apparent intrusion and pledged support to the existing four-county organization.

That was nearly two years ago! Today the Mississippi River Council of the Office of Economic Opportunity is bordering on extinction.

In reviewing the farcical "development" of the Mississippi River Development Council one facet of the bureaucratic comedy towers above all others: that is that Judge Eli Padgett of the Hickman County Fiscal Court has emerged as the greatest living authority on the strangle-hold of red tape in the operation of high level government.

However, in deference to "procedural guidelines" set forth by the Congress, Miss Sheila Downey, a regional representative of the OEO who was in Clinton last week reportedly told Judge Padgett that these basic requirements, among others, must be adhered to if the organization is to survive:

—An individual, with a Master's Degree in social studies, must be employed to head up the council. The director cannot be a resident of the four-county area. He must have had experience in his field.

—Boundary lines of the poverty areas in all four counties must be designated so that members of the "target groups" (the poor) can select their representatives from the specific areas, so that they can select their "target group representatives" on the county council and then on the four-county council. (Three elections—area, county, multi-county.)

—The minority groups in the respective counties must get together, elect a representative from their group to the county council, and then elect a member to the four-county group.

—The same procedure must be followed with all groups that constitute the council, i. e., education, city government, county government, educators, press and radio, etc. etc.

—One-third of all the representatives on the multi-county group must be from the "target groups," (the poor.)

—Each of the program aides employed (two in each county) must be from the "target group," and their income has to be less than $3000.00 a year, for the family. If a couple (husband and wife) and four children, is eeking out an existing on say, $3200 a year, it is significant that neither of the adults can be considered for one of the program aide positions because the salary (less than $3000) would put the family above the stipulated income bracket requirement.

It must be said of Judge Padgett and a loyal band of dedicated community leaders who have endured the hazards of beaucracy from Washington, that cooperation from county leaders has been less than desirable.

While Padgett has knocked on many doors in Washington and elsewhere to untangle the maze of procedural requirements, some of the area leaders, responsible for keeping their individual county groups informed have scarcely notified their members of meetings, appointments and progress, if any, of the program.

Another section of the handsome presentation to Congress for huge funds with which to operate the mythical war on poverty says this:

"Generally, the poor are political-ly inarticulate and have not been 'involved' (in such programs) before. They lack the experience and know-how to participate at the upper levels of local organizations. There is also a reluctance of successful community leaders to turn to the poor for advice."

And yet, the Federal Government will spend nearly $3,000,000,000.00 (Three Billion) in the next fiscal year on a program that demands that "the poor" constitute one-third of the local organizations that will spend these billions to alleviate their own depressing environments.

At this point it is better to contemplate the alleged misconception stated earlier in this analysis—are the poor, poor because they want to be, or are they poor because the war on poverty is mired down somewhere in the never-never land of "procedural guidelines."

POETRY CORNER

SOMETIME

Sometime when you're feeling important,
Sometime when your ego's in bloom,
Sometime when you take it for granted
You're the best qualified in the room;

Sometime when you feel that your going
Would leave an unfillable hole,
Just follow this simple instruction
And see how it humbles your soul.

Take a bucket and fill it with water,
Put your hand in it up to the wrist,
Pull it out and the hole that's remaining
Is a measure of how you'll be missed.

You may splash all you please when you enter,
You can stir up the water galore;
But stop, and you'll find in a minute
That it looks quite the same as before.

The moral in this quaint example is:
Do just the best that you can
Be proud of yourself, but remember—
There is no indispensable man.

"LENIN AND THE 'DEAF-MUTES'"

"As regards international Communist tactics, the whole of 'Leninism' was contained in these lines of Lenin which I had copied down:

'As a result of my own direct observations during my emigration, I must admit that the so-called cultured elements of Western Europe and America are incapable of comprehending the present state of affairs and the actual balance of forces; THESE ELEMENTS MUST BE REGARDED AS DEAF-MUTES AND TREATED ACCORDINGLY . . .

'A revolution never develops along a direct line, by continuous expansion, but forms a chain of outbursts and withdrawals, attacks and lulls, during which the revolutionary forces gain strength in preparation for their final victory.

'On the basis of these same assertions and in view of the protracted nature of the growth of the world socialist revolution, it is necessary to resort to special maneuvers capable of accelerating our victory over capitalist countries. We must:

'(a) IN ORDER TO PLACATE THE DEAF-MUTES, proclaim the (fictional) separation of our government and governmental institutions (the Council of People's Commissars, etc.) from the Party and Politburo and, in particular, from the Comintern, declaring these latter agencies to be independent political groups which are tolerated on the territory of the Soviet Socialist Republics. THE DEAF-MUTES WILL BELIEVE IT.

'(b) Express a desire for the immediate resumption of diplomatic relations with capitalist countries on the basis of complete non-interference in their internal affairs. AGAIN, THE DEAF-MUTES WILL BELIEVE IT. They will even be delighted and will fling wide open their doors, through which emissaries of the Comintern and Party

The purpose in writing books is to fill a community need. Mass media dominate our lives today—television, radio, movies, and comics. Although much in these is very good, they can never take the place of reading words put together in beauty and truth. They fall short in widening horizons, in deepening understanding, and in exalting the spirit. Reading always will be the richest source of living and learning.

Why not start widening some horizons and deepen some of our understandings by reading some of the new books at the library.

BLUEGRASS CRAFTSMAN by Ebenezer Stedman. Ebenezer Hirm Stedman, whose lively reminiscences of antebellum Kentucky were written as a series of letters to his daughter, was one of the pioneer papermakers of the state. Son of a Yankee craftsman who brought his family to the Bluegrass early in the nineteenth century, Stedman gives a vivid picture of the life of the numerous and thriving middle class who sought opportunity in the expanding economy of the new West. Though he had little formal education, Stedman had a lively intelligence and an engaging style. His unstudied descriptions of rivermen, hunters, tradespeople, craftsmen, and rural doctors, of celebrations, funerals, and court trials, provide a rare insight into the domestic and social life of a class little noticed in the traditional accounts of the period. With no capital other than their own ambition, ingenuity, and boundless energy, the Stedman brothers established a papermaking community in Franklin County which ultimately supplied all of the paper for the state printer and much of the newsprint for the Frankfort publishers. From the first ream of "Ropping paper" which Stedman produced by salvaging rags from the rats' nests in an abandoned mill, their production rose to 150,000 reams of printing and wrapping paper per year, valued at $27,000. Stedman's accounts of his apprenticeship as a "lay boy" and of the laborious, involved schemes whereby he financed his first independent ventures illuminate the economic life of the craftsmen whose skills and resourcefulness helped civilize the western frontier. But despite incredible hardships and misfortunes, Stedman remained buoyantly optimistic—an outlook largely justified, although the Civil War finally bankrupted his enterprise. The vivid detail of Stedman's personal experiences is supplemented by a more formal account of early Kentucky papermaking, in a short history of the industry which he wrote for the Frankfort KENTUCKY YEOMAN. This second manuscript included as an appendix to this volume, was based largely on hearsay but appears to be surprisingly accurate and to offer valuable source material for the economic history of the state.

THE RATTLING CHAINS by Nicholas Halasz. Thoughtfully researched from contemporary accounts, this book provides more than a history of slave revolts in the Southern colonies and states. It also documents many of the outrages of the institution of slavery that explain the justification for the abortive uprisings history has recorded. Slave unrest persisted in America from the early years of the slave trade until John Brown's historic raid on the arsenal at Harpers Ferry on October 16, 1858. The earliest known slave conspiracy in the colonies occurred in Gloucester County, Virginia, in 1663. It was crushed in the planning stage, as was another twenty-five years later at James City, Virginia. Subsequent uprisings in the West Indies had a major impact on the colonies. After the American Revolution, and particularly at the time of the major slave revolution in Santo Domingo, the changing attitudes of both whites and Negroes led to many incidents and minor insurrections, culminating in the Nat Turner uprising in southern Virginia in 1831. Subsequent to the hanging of Turner and his associates many hundreds of Negroes in that part of the South were murdered to insure against any possibility of disorder or surprise attack. THE RATTLING CHAINS examines the fears that led to oppressions and the troubles that resulted. It is important background reading for anyone who wishes to understand why integration is not accomplished readily in our time.

Dr. Edward Rucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rucker, Sr., received his degree from the University of Tennessee College of Medicine at Memphis on March 19. He will intern at the Methodist Hospital in Memphis.

James Ethridge, driving his 1946 Plymouth, escaped serious injuries Thursday morning, March 20, when his car skidded on the highway near Bardwell, causing him to lose control of it. The vehicle turned over twice as it rolled down a 15-foot hill. The car was badly damaged, but Ethridge escaped with minor injuries.

Music students met last week at the Fulton Woman's Club and organized the first Junior Music Club in Fulton, which is sponsored by Miss Nell Warren. Officers elected were: Ann Linton, president; Jack Voegeli, vice president; Bailey Binford, secretary; Larry Cavender, treasurer; Don Wright, historian.

Ninety boys and girls of the senior and junior classes of Fulton High School left Fulton Thursday night aboard two Pullman cars for a pleasant week-end in New Orleans. They arrived in the Gulf city Friday morning and, after a sight-seeing tour of the city, will make their return trip to Fulton Saturday.

On Thursday afternoon, March 27, a miscellaneous shower honoring Mr. and Mrs. Curtis McAlister was given by Mrs. Reed McAlister, mother of the bridegroom, at the home of the newlyweds. Many lovely gifts were bestowed upon the young married couple, including a 60-year-old antique bedroom suite, once owned by the bride's late grandmother Cates.

LATHAM: Mr. and Mrs. Rennie Bushart and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winstead attended a meeting by an insurance company last week in Little Rock. They enjoyed the races in Hot Springs while on their trip, besides other amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson, nee Virginia Morrison of Union City, announce the arrival of a new girl, born last week, named Donna Kay.

DUKEDOM: Several of the juniors and seniors of the community who attend school at Cuba, report an enjoyable day last Saturday. They visited places of interest near Nashville and attended the "Grand Ole Opry" Saturday night.

Fonda Sue Adams Writes Of High School Home Ec Program

(Ed's Note: Fonda Sue Adams, a student at Fulton County High School, and a member of the Future Homemakers of America and the second vice-president of the Kentucky Lake District organization today writes an interpretation of the Home Economics program at Fulton County High School. Miss Adams has submitted this article as a requirement for a state degree in the Future Homemakers of Tomorrow.

The article follows:

Interpretation of the Total Home Economics Program
One of the many opportunities of the girls at Fulton County High School is enrolling in the course of Home Economics. There is a four year program in homemaking offered with 120 students in 8 classes. Mrs. King Davis and Mrs. J. C. Bondurant are the teachers.

The Vocational Home Economics Program improves personal, home, and family living through providing instructions in homemaking to prospective and established homemakers. This program provides instructions for in-school groups through classes, home visits, home experiences, Future Homemakers, and school and community activities.

Class instructions include: instructions in the seven areas of homemaking, Child Care, Clothing, Foods, Health, Housing, Management, and Personal and Family Relations.

The Child Care Area begins with "Baby Sitting" in the freshman year and progresses to "Pre-natal Care" in the senior year.

In the Clothing Area the beginning student learns to "Thread and Care for a Machine." An apron, skirt, and shift are made the first year. The problems increase in difficulties during the sophomore and junior years. A fully lined woolen suit is made in the senior year.

In the Food Units, students learn to practice desirable food habits, to plan, prepare, and serve attractive and adequate family meals. Emphasis is placed on good table manners and how to make meal-time a happy experience. Students learn to use and care for various equipments in the kitchen. The units progress from planning and preparing "Meals for a Day" in Home Economics I to "Working with Special Occasion Meals" in Home Economics IV.

"Everyday Safety and First Aid" is the unit in Health studied by the freshman. The sophomores learn simple nursing techniques in "Home Care of the Sick." Juniors and seniors study "Health of the Family." The effect health has on heredity and how to have good mental health are stressed in this unit.

In Housing the girls learn the best way to arrange furniture, which color scheme is best, and how to make home repairs of furnishings and furniture. "Planning Tomorrow's Home" prepares the seniors for marriage.

Students study and practice good management by first learning to be thrifty with time, money, and energy in the homemaking department. This progresses to working with the family in managing the home in the second year, to being a good consumer-buyer the third year, and to family finances in the senior year.

In the Relationship Unit students learn how to develop qualities which make for a well rounded individual and make for happiness. This deals with personality development and growing up. Emphasis is placed on enjoying both family and friends. "Choosing and Making a Success of a Vocation" are death with in Home Economics III. In Home Economics IV "Looking Toward Marriage" prepares one for a happy and successful marriage and home.

Home visits by the teacher are an important part of the Home Economics Program. Visits are made for the purpose of becoming better acquainted with home situations and the needs of pupils and of helping pupils make use of class instructions in their home.

Through supervised home experiences, pupils see the relationship of class instructions to real homemaking activities and develop greater skills in carrying on homemaking activities. Home Experiences supplement class instructions and provide another means of reaching the goals of the homemaking education program.

The Future Homemakers of America is an organization for home economics pupils. The group is learning to live better today so that their lives and those of their families will be better tomorrow; thus, we are building strong foundations for future homes. Activities carried on by this group help development leadership and the ability to work with others and provide another means for working toward the goals of the homemaking education program.

AUSTIN SPRINGS

By Mrs. Carey Frieled

Miss Becky Mathis suffered from an attack of strep throat the past week, but has improved and returned Cuba's elementary school today (Monday).

Rev. Russell Rogers filled his appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday at 11 a. m. There was no service on Sunday night, due to closing of spring revival Saturday night. The visiting minister was Bro. Erad Caldwell and some fine sermons were delivered each night. Good-sized crowds attended, with visitors from other churches. Although no evidence of any professions, the church was greatly revived at this series of meetings.

Grover True is feeling much better at this time and is getting out some. We hope he will keep on the upward trend.

The family of Grant Bynum and Margaret had Easter dinner with them Sunday, attending church at Knob Creek Church of Christ, where Bro. Charles Walls filled the pulpit.

Get-well wishes are extended to W. J. Reed, who is a patient in the Fulton Hospital, where he is receiving treatment. He is a citizen of District 17, but all his friends everywhere wish him a soon complete recovery.

Mrs. J. W. Bynum left last week for Orlando, Fla., to attend the bedside of her father, the Rev. T. T. Harris, who has undergone some major surgery. Reports are that he is doing as well as expected. All friends and relatives hope for the popular minister and teacher a speedy recovery. Rev. Harris is a former resident of this area and was spending the winter with his daughters, Mrs. Naomi Tuck and Ruth Harris Coker. Ruth married very recently and moved to Tombstone, Arizona.

Wess Jones has improved quite a bit and able to get out some. All friends will be glad to hear this.

Mrs. Dave Mathis, of this village, is feeling much better and was able to attend Easter worship at New Salem, where she holds membership.

A number of our farmers got into fields last week, doing some spring plowing and discing of cornfields, where acres of lespedeza were sown. All cover crops are looking their best during the recent spring-like days. Showers have fallen on Easter day and into the evening. Some early gardens have been planted and, from reports, everyone has been busy.

Letter From Washington

By Mrs. John Sherman Cooper

MRS JOHN SHERMAN COOPER

The British-American Inter-Parliamentary Conference meets at Hamilton, the capital of Bermuda, every year since its origin six years ago. The purpose of this meeting is to enable members of both parties of the British Parliament and both parties of the House and Senate to have off-the-record discussions about the problems that concern their countries.

This year, your Senator was Chairman; Congressman Wayne Hays of Ohio was the Co-Chairman. Congressman Hale Boggs, Democratic Whip from Louisiana and his wife were also with us. The Senate delegation consisted of the Muskies of Maine, the Bartletts from Alaska, and the Hansens of Wyoming.

After an hour and a half in an air force jet, we were circling the beautiful little island of Bermuda with its powdered sugar beaches and aquamarine and indigo waters. We landed at the United States Air Force Base which is a favorite post for our servicemen. There we were met by the American Consul General and Mrs. George Renchard and by the Commanding Officer and his wife.

The sun was shining. The narrow, 24 mile long island has kept its very special colonial character since its settlement over 300 years ago. No wonder it is such a favorite for Easter Vacation when over 9,000 American students come to swim, bicycle and relax.

The Chairman, both the British and the American, of the Conference, have identical pent houses on the top of the Bermudiana Hotel. Two sides of the living room are glass with a large terrace beyond which gives the most glorious possible view of the bay and the sea. This living room was used by the American delegation in preparation for their meetings—the prettiest conference room they ever had.

The first morning, both delegations assembled at the Bermuda Parliament in Hamilton. The British Government reviewed a very smart new regiment which had been formed by Princess Margaret. Then we all proceeded into the Parliamentary Chamber, a beautiful wood paneled room with portraits of King George III and Queen Charlotte, staring at the assembly in 18th century clothes and powdered wigs.

After the Governor's welcome address, Senator Cooper and Lord Sheppard, Labor head of the British delegation, each spoke and the Conference was opened. All the British formality was used and each Speaker was announced by the banging of a mace and the words "I crave silence to present . . ."

After the opening festivities—a reception at the Consul General's in the newly acquired residence which will make every American proud, and a large dinner given by the members of the Bermuda Parliament for the visiting delegates—the talks got under way.

As wife of the Chairman, I was supposed to be a den mother for the ladies of the delegation, which

Park Service Plans

UK Southeast Park

Plans for beautification of the grounds surrounding the University of Kentucky Southeast Community College at Cumberland for educational and recreational purposes are being considered by the National Park Service. Included in the plans are nature trails, a 20-acre botanical garden, a small pond, and, if possible, a combination Japanese garden and formal park.

Dr. James C. Falkenstine, director of the college, said the development of the 90-acre campus will provide "a complete education program, available to both students and area residents."

Larry Craft, instructor in botany and zoology at the Southeast college, is working with the NPS to complete the master plan.

DUKEDOM NEWS

By Mrs. Hillman Westbrook

Good Springs CPW will meet at the church Saturday afternoon, April 1, at 1:30, with Mrs. Thomas Bruce presiding. Mrs. Durell McCall is program leader. Mrs. T. L. Ainley will present a portion of the study book "A Ringing Call To Mission." An invitation is extended to all women to attend.

Bro. T. T. Harris is in the Mercy Medical Center in Orlando, Fla., and had surgery there recently. He was spending the winter with his daughter, Mrs. Naomi Tuck when the hospitalization became necessary. Mrs. J. W. Bynum has gone to Florida to be at her father's bedside.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Phillips have recently returned from a visit with Mrs. Phillips' mother, Mrs. Beulah Campbell, in Holcomb, Miss.

Mrs. Louis Armstrong has had some facial surgery done at Hillview Hospital and is recovering at her home.

The Dukedom Flower Shop is being opened regularly on Tuesdays and Fridays for the convenience of customers here.

Malcolm Alfred was in Memphis for examination and will return for surgery at Baptist Hospital next Monday.

The Dukedom Homemakers have been very busy. They had a very successful bake sale last Thursday; Mrs. Evie Cason and Mrs. Glyn Roberts, as representatives of the club, worked in the auction at Fulton. On Tuesday the following attended the Red Cross training class at Dresden: Mrs. Donald Clinard, Mrs. Randall Brown, Mrs. Glyn Roberts, Mrs. Joe Wilds, Mrs. Ray Thomas and Mrs. Elizabeth Darnell.

Mrs. Ethel Moody has sold her place to Robert Jones and wife and, after a sale on Saturday, will move to Fulton to live.

Miss Ruth Darnell, of Neoga, Ill., spent the Easter vacation with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Darnell, during which they went to Knoxville. Miss Darnell is considering enrolling at the university there for work on her master's degree.

Sympathy is expressed to the family of Mrs. Nora Neely, who passed away last Thursday at the home of her son, Harvey Neely. Burial was at Oak Grove on Friday. She had been sick and bed-fast several months.

The Dukedom Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. Randall Brown on March 21 for an all-day meeting. Eleven regular members were present, plus two new ones, Mrs. Basil Mathis and Mrs. Herbert Roberts. Slides made by Miss Ruth Darnell in her study tour of Europe last year were shown. Reports were given by Mrs. Glyn Roberts and Mrs. Loyd Watkins. After a pot-luck luncheon, the afternoon was spent working on tote bags and fancy pillowcases.

PRIVILEGED PARKERS

MOULTRIE, Ga. — For three weeks the police department here did not hand out a single parking ticket. They just didn't have any. Although the tickets were ordered, the printing company delayed filling the order for three months because it was changing machinery. The order has now been filled and ticketing is back to normal.

testified it was customary practice for employees to be given two pairs of pants at stated intervals. Because the number of pairs of pants Scates allegedly took was equal to what he would have been given anyway, the charge against him was dismissed.
Phil Matrone, the plant's general supervisor said however that he had advised Oliver, and all others, that the practice had been discontinued last April or May. Oliver joined the factory's staff about last July. Matrone said that, after discussing the matter with Sam Siegel, all employees were advised that the practice of giving employees pants was discontinued and the edict would be stringently enforced.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS—

Court have been contemplating daylight time, awaiting action by neighboring Tennessee.
Now that Tennessee has decided, the question of daylight time will be reviewed next week both by the City of Hickman and the County Court. Judge Cruce told The News Wednesday that he did not know if the County Court had the authority to decree daylight time for the County, but felt that it was rather foolish for Fulton and Hickman to be on one time, and the rest of the County on another. He stated that he was going to bring the matter up at next week's meeting of the Court.
Proponents of daylight time in the Tennessee legislature pointed out that had that State not "gotten in line" with its Sister States, "it would be in the isolated state of confusion."
The Tennessee action also put Georgia on the DST bandwagon. That state had voted to go on fast time if four of the surrounding states did — and Tennessee was the fourth. Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama also will be on DST.

Lexington By Bus - And County Homemakers Enjoy State Meet

Seven Fulton County Homemakers and Mrs. Anna C. Thompson, Area Extension Agent, left by chartered bus Tuesday, March 28th, to attend the Annual Meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky.
The theme of the meeting is "You and Your World" and includes outstanding speakers on the subject.
The program opened Tuesday evening with a welcome by Dean William A. Seay of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, followed by a concert by the State Homemakers Chorus.
Mrs. Mary D. Rash, a member of the Presidents Commission on Women in the Labor Force, will discuss "The Women's World" at the session this (Thursday) morning, and the annual business meeting will also be held today. The meeting will be climaxed with a banquet tonight, with Mrs. James D. Uyker of Berea as the speaker.
Heading the Fulton County Delegation were Mrs. Bert Yarbro, Jr., County Vice-President. Others attending included Mrs. O. C. Linton of Bennett Club, Mrs. J. A. Butler of Western Club, Miss Louise Maddox of Central Club, Mrs. Jack Allen of Fulton Club, Mrs. Estel Triplett of Hickman Club, Mrs. Ernest Jenkins of Victory Club and Mrs. Thompson.

Gold Leaf Is Given West Fulton P-TA

The West Fulton PTA received the Gold Leaf award at the 39th annual spring conference, held at Andrew Jackson Elementary School in Paducah on Wednesday, March 22, for reaching their membership goal for 1966-67.
Delegates from the West Fulton PTA to the conference were Mrs. Glyn Bushart, Mrs. L. M. McBride and Mrs. Robert Rudolph.
The business session was conducted by Mrs. Frank Kolb, Jr., president, and the devotional was given by Mrs. Robert Rudolph, character and spiritual chairman.
The sixth grade chorus of the Andrew Jackson School sang selections from "How The West Was Won."
The program was given by William M. Gant, commonwealth attorney in the 8th judicial district, who used as his subject, "The Function Of Parents And Teachers in Curbing Crime And Delinquency."

Wives Honor Doctors Tuesday; Public Health Official Speaker

The local doctors were honored for Doctor's Day Tuesday night by their wives at a dinner at the Park Terrace. Each doctor was presented with a red carnation, the symbol of this day.
Doctor's Day was originated by Eudora Brown Almond because of fond memories of her family physician as a child. In 1920 she married Dr. Chas. B. Almond and her respect and love for medicine grew. In 1933 she presented the suggestion for Doctor's Day to her local auxiliary and the Auxiliary to the Barron County, Georgia Medical Society adopted her resolution and March 30th was set as Doctor's Day.
Three guests were present at the meeting. They were: Mrs. Raymond Jones of Louisville, President of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Kentucky State Medical Society, Mrs. Chas. B. Kissenger, President-Elect of Henderson and Pete Campassi of the United States Health Department of VD Education, who was the speaker. Mr. Campassi showed a film of how venereal diseases are contracted, their effect on the body and their cure. He stated that 750 teenagers per day are contracting VD. Mr. Campassi stressed VD education in the schools in regular health classes.
The program was furnished as a Community Service Program of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Medical Society.
Following the program a short business meeting was held by Auxiliary members and the report from the nominating committee was given as follows: Mrs. J. A. Haws, Secretary; Mrs. R. T. Peterson, President-elect; Mrs. M. W. Haws, Treasurer and Mrs. Andrew

VARIETY! STATE NEEDS

Events of the past week at Murray State University ranged all the way from a lecture on the difficulties of feeding the world's population to a television program on how to lose weight.

The Kentucky Department of Personnel reports that the State has an urgent need for social workers, chemists, programmers, registered nurses, engineers, business administrators, accountants and auditors.

it's impossible

What is?

Trying to describe the beautiful new packages for our A&P Frozen Baked Foods.

You'll just have to see them to appreciate our problem.

This we can tell you:

Delicious as they look, they taste even more delicious.

What are the products like? Well...

There's an Apple Strudel so tender and flaky, the most accomplished German baker would be jealous.

There are Devil's Food Cakes you'll say only angels could bake... the taste is that heavenly.

There are All Butter Coffee Cakes and Pound Cake as delicious as their names sound.

We could go on and on. But why tease you any more?

Know what your biggest problem is going to be?

Which one to buy first.

Here's a suggestion.

Buy them all.

FULTON COUNTY

EDUCATION — The State provided $375,018 from State tax funds for Fulton County schools during the 1966-67 school year. This, combined with $123,823 in local tax funds, will provide $347,426 for teachers, salaries; $43,080 for construction and equipment; $43,715 for pupil transportation, and other services.

In addition, State funds allocated under the State Minimum Foundation Program for the Fulton Independent District during the 1966-67 school year total $154,685. This, combined with local tax money, provides $164,420 for teachers salaries and $19,140 for construction and improvement.

State allocations for text books in Fulton County totaled $6,364.

HEALTH AND WELFARE — Fulton is part of a four-county district served by the State employment service office at Mayfield. The district office in 1966 found jobs for 1,124 non-agricultural workers and made 5,735 placements of farm labor.

Under the Federally-financed Manpower Development and Training Program, which provides occupational training to unemployed and under-employed persons, classes were started in the district for 18 trainees at a cost of $61,448.

An average of 901 Fulton Countians received monthly public assistance payments in 1966. As part of a total $508,100 paid out in public assistance to the needy aged, blind, disabled and families with dependent children.

$63,700 went for medical care under the State-Federal medical program.

Unemployed workers covered by the Kentucky Unemployment Insurance Act received a total of $79,397 in benefit payments during 1966.

The State tuberculosis program furnished treatment to 7 Fulton Countians last year, who were patients at a State tuberculosis hospital. Another 60 were treated or examined in one of the State's 55 TB field clinics.

In 1966, 118 people participated in the State's diabetic screening program here.

The State provided 1,000 dental inspections, with 199 children treated, 65 flouride treatments given, and 109 fillings and 213 extractions made.

Fulton County received $23,097 in State money for a State-Federal medical program for men rejected by the armed services because of medical reasons, and to raise the level of protection against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio and measles by vaccination.

Also, 15 persons in Fulton County received mental health treatment in the State's mental hospitals and 8 were treated at community mental health centers.

There were 55 children in Fulton County who received services from the State Child Welfare Department, including those placed in adoptive or foster care homes, receiving day-care or homemaker services, and juvenile offenders placed under departmental supervision or committed to department institutions.

These and other services to the county's children from the Child Welfare Department cost a total of $10,904, excluding cost of institution operation.

The State Commission for Handicapped Children provided treatment for 30 local youngsters.

CONSERVATION AND AGRICULTURE — During 1966, 11,000 tree seedlings were delivered to Fulton County farmers through the Natural Resources Department's forestry program.

The Natural Resources Department gave the local conservation district $475 in direct aid to the district.

The department also assisted local citizens in organizing a clean-up and beautification drive during the year.

The Agriculture Department paid $996 from the dog-license fund to farmers in the county who reported poultry and livestock losses caused by dogs during the last fiscal year.

The Agriculture Department last year distributed to Fulton County schools $16,494 worth of Federal surplus food. The department also distributed food valued at $71,119 to charitable institutions and needy families.

The State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources stocked 1,160 fish and released 315 quail chicks in the county. Attending one of the two conservation camps operated by the department were 9 local youngsters.

TOURISM — In the first year of the State's travel-advertising matching fund, the 13-county Western Waterland region, including Fulton County, received $18,829 from the Public Information Department to advertise attractions in the region. This is in addition to the department's over-all tourist advertising program.

With local money matched dollar for dollar in State funds, the region printed 485,808 pamphlets, erected signs, did advertising and other work promoting its attractions, and spent $19,491 for advertising at two travel shows at Chicago and one each at Cleveland and Columbus, and $800 for advertising in magazines and newspapers. And did other work promoting the region's attractions.

LIBRARIES — Last year, the State Library Department's regional library and bookmobile systems provided Fulton County with 10,769 library books, valued at $43,076. The county library board received a State aid grant of $879 for purchase of additional books. The department made 57 films available to Fulton Countians and provided 115 filmstrips and film slides and 42 framed paintings. The department also provided a $7,081 bookmobile for county use. The department last year supplied the cities of Fulton and Hickman with a total of $10,070 worth of library furniture and equipment.

OTHER STATE PROGRAMS — One State Police trooper is assigned to Fulton County by the State Public Safety Department. He operates out of the district office at Mayfield.

The Kentucky Historical Society, in cooperation with the State Department of Highways, erected one historical highway marker in Fulton County in 1966, making a total of 6 of these markers located in the county.

The Disabled Ex-Servicemens Board of the Department of Military Affairs gave assistance to approximately 80 per cent of all Fulton County resident veterans, their survivors or dependents who filed claims with the U. S. Veterans Administration. A total of 1,103 claims for compensation, pension, hospitalization, education and training, insurance and death benefits, and other aid were filed in 1966 which brought recipients $354,375.

Capital improvements to the Military Department's National Guard Armory at Hickman, staffed by a complement of 58 men, totaled $450.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt, referring to State programs directly affecting Fulton County, said:

"We are trying to operate the State government in a way the public will approve and to get for Kentucky's citizens the best results possible from the money spent."

The largest expenditures of State tax money in Fulton County in 1966 were for education (with nearly $530,000 for operation of grade and high schools) and for roads. In addition to this and other State services listed above, the people of Fulton County were served by a wide range of other State programs, such as the Universities, whose records are not compiled on a county basis.

FEEDER CALF SALE NEXT TUESDAY

The mama cows will be bawling next Tuesday, April 4, for 300 feeder calves will be traveling on the Martin Highway to the West Tennessee Auction Company for the Annual Spring Feeder Calf Sale of the Obion County Livestock Association. The sale will start at 3:00 p. m. and the calves will be graded according to USDA Feeder Calf Grades and sold according to grade, 50 lb. weight groups, breed and sex.

If you need some quality feeder calves you should keep this sale in mind because the Obion County Livestock Association is trying to sell the kind of feeder steers, heifers and replacement heifers that will do good on Obion County farms and feed lots. These calves have been inspected on the farm to assure you that you will get quality calves. The calves will be: (1) Graded into uniform lots according to size and quality; (2) Dehorned; (3) Steers castrated by knife; (4) Vaccinated for Blackleg and heifers vaccinated for Bangs; (5) Out of registered bulls and beef cows; (6) Heifers guaranteed open; (7) Fresh from farm on sale day.

You can see from the above that the association is making effort to have available 300 quality feeder calves and, if you need some calves, be at the West Tennessee Auction Company next Tuesday afternoon, April 4, 1967. The feeder calf committee of the Obion County Livestock Association should be commended for all their work in promoting the Spring Feeder Calf Sale. The Committee is composed of W. T. Garrigan, Jr., Paul Grisham, Johnnie Wall, Rufus Taylor and Charles Powell.

FARMERS ARE BUSY

During the past few days a lot of farm equipment was made ready for the spring farming season, and we noticed a lot of gardening activity. It always amazes us how a few warm days can change the looks of the wheat, alfalfa and pastures. As to be expected, we found almost every alfalfa field infested with the alfalfa weevil worms and a large number of alfalfa fields will need control measures started this week. If you want to see a beautiful alfalfa field, you should see Walker Tanner's field near Union City. Mr. Tanner's alfalfa was seeded last fall and fertilized according to soil test.

The warm weather even has farm people already concerned with trying to control ground hogs and skunks. If you want to find out about the latest in regards to skunks, ask Earl Thorpe about the skunks fighting under his house one night last week. Mr. Thorpe placed several pounds of moth balls under his house which caused the skunks to leave. Now he says that the moth ball odor is almost as bad as the skunk odor.

Twenty-Hour Interior Decorating School Is Planned Here In April

Tilghman Area Vocational School will conduct a 20-hour course in "INTERIOR DECORATING" as part of the Adult Distributive Education Program, beginning Tuesday night, April 18, at 6:30 p. m. in Fulton.

Classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 6:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. for four weeks and may be attended by anyone in the Fulton area who has a need for a knowledge of interior decorating. Home Makers, and persons selling home furnishings, paint, drapes, carpeting, wall covering, etc. will be welcome in this class.

Mrs. Lois Sawyer, of Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. of Paducah, will be the instructor. Mrs. Sawyer has trained in the New York school of Interior Design and has taught this course many times before in Paducah, Mayfield and Benton. The cost of the entire course will be $3.00 registration. Persons interested in enrolling in this course are asked to call the Fulton Chamber of Commerce office (472-2961) as soon as possible.

The place where classes will be held will be announced later.

'Speaking the truth is a petty-bourgeois prejudice. A lie, on the other hand, is often justified by the end. Capitalists the world over and their governments will, in their desire to win the Soviet market, shut their eyes to the above-mentioned activities and WILL TURN BLIND DEAF-MUTES. They will furnish credits, which will serve us as a means of supporting the Communist parties in their countries and, by supplying us with materials and techniques which are not available to us, will rebuild our war industry, which is essentially for our future attacks on our suppliers. In other words, they will be laboring to prepare their own suicide.'

The Parson Speaks

CHRISTIAN JOURNEY THROUGH HISTORY
(Part V)

As a road is marked with milestones, so history is marked with important events which are turning points in its course. The year 306 is such a milestone in Christian History. For it was in that year, a young man of thirty two years was crowned king of the Eastern half of the Roman Empire. And it was in this young man, Constantine, that Christianity found its first friend among the Roman Emperors. He would be the first to grant religious freedom to the Church of Jesus Christ. Persecution would now cease. Christianity could now thrive in the light of freedom.

But it was not simply the generosity of a gentle king that changed the course of history. It was the hand of God working in history. From the events surrounding the victory of Constantine over the Western Kingdom, we see the power of God disposing him to accept the Church.

According to Eusebius, who wrote the first history of the Church, the night before the battle before the gates of Rome, Constantine saw in the sky a cross of light surrounded by the words, "In this sign thou shall conquer." A voice from heaven told him to adopt the cross as a standard instead of the Roman eagle. Maxentius, equally assured by his pagan gods, crossed the Tiber River at Milvian Bridge. A great battle followed. With thousands of his soldiers, Maxentius perished in the Tiber. With this victory, Constantine was now King of the whole Roman Empire, not only of the East, but of Africa and Italy as well. Constantine then published the Edict of Milan which gave religious freedom to all religions. This Edict of Toleration was a turning point in Church History.

Constantine later gave orders that Sunday should be kept free of public business. He forbade servile work on that day, exempted clergy from taxation, abolished crucifixion as a Roman punishment and gave the Church the right to receive gifts and donations. Even though Constantine was not a Christian until his last moments of life, when he was baptized, he built many churches. In Rome he erected the beautiful basilica over the tomb of St. Peter, which lasted until the Middle Ages. St. Peter's Basilica had to be rebuilt then because of the wear of time. Churches were built in Antioch, Tyre, Jerusalem, and Rome under his patronage.

Constantine decided that the center of the Empire should be in the East rather than at Rome. He founded the new City of Constantinople as his capital. This change had important consequences in future history. For one thing, when Rome was destroyed by the barbarians, Constantinople preserved much of the ancient culture from ruin. Likewise, with the political power being removed from Rome to the East, that meant the Church of Rome could grow, free of political domination. In the East however, the Church began to feel the political hand upon it, and it became almost a slave to the Empire, and drifted further and further from the leadership of the Bishop of Rome, the Pope. Later, we will see the tragic consequences of this drift and national influence.

— Father Glahn

COBB ENTHUSIASTIC

Churchill Downs and the Kentucky Derby are best summed up in the words of the late Kentucky author, Irvin S. Cobb. When asked to describe the derby, he said, "If I could do that I'd have a larynx of spun silver and the tongue of an appointed angel." This year's Derby will be run May 6.

Introducing Our Churches - God's Agency For Spreading His Love

THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH (DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)

HENRY M. HANNA, Pastor

The First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) of Fulton was organized by Elder-Evangelist R. A. Cooke on May 10, 1874.

Through the years the First Christian Church has ministered in the name of Jesus Christ to persons within the congregation, to persons in the community, and to persons in many parts of the world.

The brotherhood known as the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) was organized in the early 1800's in the midst of the narrow denominationalism of the frontier as an attempt to establish a basis for the union of all Christians. It was the belief of the founders that the New Testament itself was sufficient basis for Christian faith and practice and that all Christians could be united in their common love and service of their one Lord Jesus Christ.

The Christian Churches, throughout their existence, have worked for church union, lending their wholehearted support to any effort to bring together all Christians in united work and witness. Representatives of the brotherhood are currently engaged in a Consultation on Church Union involving eight other communions, which will hopefully pave the way for a united church, bringing together nearly twenty-five million Christians.

The First Christian Church extends to you a warm welcome to attend all its services. First Christian is a small, personal, friendly church with an ambitious and challenging program offering to every follower of Jesus Christ many opportunities for Christian service.

Southern Bell Sets All-Time Record For Construction Spending

Southern Bell Telephone Company set all-time records for construction expenditures and for telephone growth in 1966, according to its annual report released today.

The company invested $534 million in new and improved facilities in its nine-state territory in 1966. The annual outlay topped 1965 spending by $39 million and set a new high for the fifth consecutive year.

During 1966 the company gained 372,000 telephones and ended the year with 10,212,000. It thus became the largest company in the nationwide Bell System in number of telephones in service.

Southern Bell President Frank M. Malone said in the report, "In 1966 Southern Bell contributed to and shared in the benefits of the wave of the South's increasing prosperity."

He continued, "Judged by demand for telephone service, the South's economy made greater advances than in any previous year. It was truly a year of many exciting developments throughout our business."

Southern Bell in Kentucky previously had announced that telephone growth in the state in 1966 was the largest in the history of the company. It gained a total of 44,058 telephones. The expenditure of $30,300,000 million for the expansion and improvement of service during the year marked another record for Kentucky.

Besides Kentucky, Southern Bell operates in Tenn., Miss., La., Ala., Fla., N. Car., and S. Car.

For the second consecutive year, Southern Bell's operating expenses and taxes in 1966 surpassed $1 billion, totaling $1,137,000,000.

The company paid $307 million in federal, state, and local taxes, an increase of $34 million over 1965. In addition, customers paid out over $94 million in taxes on their telephone service which Southern Bell collected for the government.

Wages, salaries and related costs for Southern Bell's 83,900 employees in nine states totaled over $550 million.

Earnings per share of the company's stock in 1966 were $2.26, up from $2.16 for the preceding year.

At the end of the year, 73 per cent of Southern Bell's residential customers had individual lines. At the same time, 82 per cent of its customers were able to dial their own long distance calls.

The report notes several developments in 1966 to make service more useful and accommodating to the customers.

The company reported good progress was made in 1966 in the development of equipment and procedures to help identify those making malicious and annoyance calls to its subscribers. These activities were successful in helping to discourage such calls.

In 1966, emphasis was placed on providing specially designed telephone equipment for physically handicapped persons and on a program to teach good telephone usage to youngsters.

Many local calling areas were expanded during the year. Where practical, telephone lines to serve new residential areas were placed underground.

In reviewing the company's activities, Mr. Malone said, "Southern Bell had another great year. It is fitting that in such a year we added our 10 millionth telephone."

He continued, "But, whether we serve 10 thousand or 10 million telephones, our goal is and always has been to provide good, dependable, pleasing service to each individual customer. How well we succeed in this is our real measure of success."

Market House Now Local Girls Elected In "Any Wednesday" To Sorority Offices

Paducah's Market House Theatre will present "Any Wednesday", the final production of the year, April 5, 6, 7, 8, 1967. "Any Wednesday" is another Broadway hit comedy and follows in the footsteps of their last production, "Mary Mary", which was held over by popular acclaim.

The Market House Theatre is composed of amateur and semi-professional actors and directors in the Paducah area.

Two Fulton girls have been elected to offices in Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority at Murray State University.

Carolyn Fly, 1015 West Second Street, was elected chairman of sorority activities at a recent meeting. She is a freshman majoring in history.

Susan Walker, Route 3, was installed as chairman of the scholarship committee. She is a sophomore majoring in elementary education and special education.

Tax Refunds Held Up For SS Numbers

Income tax refunds of 1,094 taxpayers in Kentucky and four other states in the IRS Central Region are being held up because Form 1040 or 1040A sent in does not contain an accurate Social Security number.

Mr. G. C. Hooks, IRS District Director for Kentucky, said that in some cases IRS will be able to verify the correct number from Social Security Administration records, but this will cause a delay in processing the refund.

In other cases refunds will be delayed until the taxpayer has been contacted by IRS and has sent in an accurate Social Security number, he said. Correct numbers are necessary since this year all individual tax returns filed by Kentucky taxpayers are being processed by computers at the IRS Service Center in Cincinnati.

Mr. Hooks reported that to date other refunds are being held up because of a variety of other types of errors or failures to comply with the instructions mailed to each taxpayer with his tax forms.

Tax returns filed up to last week included 7,271 without the signatures of husband or wife or both. These will have to be sent back to the taxpayers before refunds can be processed.

Returns with errors in arithmetic which are causing delays in sending refunds so far total 52,690 and returns where taxpayers have used the wrong tax table total 8,749.

Fresh Apples Complement Corned Beef

The emphasis is on flavor rather than frills in this tasteful pairing of favorite family foods. Hearty and homey, the Fresh Apples and Corned Beef Platter features tart and tangy all-purpose Washington Winesap apples as the perfect taste complement to savory corned beef with cabbage wedges. The Washington Winesap, a late-harvested, rosy-red apple, with a tangy flavor, and crisp, fine-grained flesh, will keep both flavor and shape as it's being cooked with the meat and cabbage. The addition of caraway seeds adds a piquant touch to this easy-does-it dinner.

Fresh Apple-Corned Beef Platter

4 lbs. corned beef	1 tsp. caraway seeds
1 stalk celery and leaves	4 Washington Winesap apples, cut in 3/4 inch rounds
1 carrot, thinly sliced
1 small onion, quartered	1 medium cabbage, cut in wedges
sprigs of parsley

Cover corned beef with cold water, add celery stalk and leaves, finely sliced carrot, quartered onion and parsley sprigs. Bring to boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer until meat is tender (about 4 or 5 hours.) About 15 minutes before serving time increase heat, add caraway seeds, apple rounds and cabbage wedges (secured with picks.) Bring to boil, cook 5 minutes, reduce heat to simmer and continue cooking about 5 minutes more or until apples and cabbage are tender. Place corned beef on a platter and surround with cabbage wedges and apple slices. Serves 6.

NEW TRAVEL THEME—In keeping with its new 1967 travel promotion theme, "Kentucky, great for family vacations," the Kentucky Department of Public Information has added a young colt to the familiar galloping Thoroughbred horse displayed during 1966 on posters and in magazines.

Komarovsky (Rod Steiger) returns a bunch of keys to Lara (Julie Christie), daughter of a dressmaker with whom he is having an affair. The scene is from David Lean's film of Boris Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago." Also starred in the MGM film, winner of six Academy Awards, are Geraldine Chaplin, Tom Courtenay, Alec Guinness, Siobhan McKenna, Ralph Richardson, Omar Sharif as Zhivago, and Rita Tushingham. Now showing at the Varsity Theatre in Martin

DIGNITY WITH COLOR IS WORD IN NEW MEN'S SPORTSWEAR

The "gentlemanly look" is in. The wild, unfettered look is out. As a result, the fashionably dressed male in '67 will have a flair far different from that of a season ago.

That's the story in men's sportswear for spring and summer this year. The trend is away from extremism—the Mod, Carnaby Street and Western looks—and toward the restrained, dignified appearance of a more classic period. In short, men are dressing up in sports apparel.

"Though the look is new, the inspiration stems in stylings of the past," says Burton B. Ruby, President of Jaymar-Ruby, Inc. "What once was a wide bell-bottom in slacks is now a modified bell-bottom. The noisy look of sport shirts and ties in past seasons is now softened to provide a 'total, coordinated look.'"

The real highlight of sportswear this year, says Ruby, is color. "In '66 burgundy, bottle green, cocoa and gold ignited the color trend, which now has exploded into wine and other reds, teal blue, grass green, honey and whiskey. The introduction of these hues offers men a better opportunity than ever to express themselves through clothing in the colors and styling they prefer."

Store Your Winter Garments

In Air That's Cool, Fresh and Dry!

FIVE REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD STORE YOUR:
 • Fur Garments — • Fur Trimmed Garments • Synthetic Fur Garments

- 1. Humidity Control
If your furs are stored in an area that does not have proper humidity control, the pelt will Dry Out if the atmosphere is too dry; the pelt will Mildew if the atmosphere is too moist.
- 2. Fur-Damaging Insect Control
Our specialized fumigation process destroys moths, moth larvae and any other fur damaging insects.
- 3. Insurance
Your furs are protected against loss by fire and theft.
- 4. Proper Cleaning Methods
After a winter's use, your garment needs expert care to restore the lustre and bring back that "like-new" appearance.
- 5. Temperature Control
High temperatures can cause mildew.

tensive cultivation of the fear of nutritional deficiencies has created a custom of taking vitamin and mineral supplements routinely. Adding naturally occurring vitamins and minerals or food-additives to pills or capsules may easily lead to excessive consumption of vitamins. This may be harmful. At the very least it is wasteful, since excesses of the water soluble vitamins are eliminated through the kidneys. Folic acid, a widely distributed vitamin in nature, has already been barred as a food additive, and similar action is contemplated in relation to vitamin D except in milk and infant formulas.

Overdoing of so beneficial a practice as the supplementation of food where desirable, may readily result if one partakes of several foods each of which provides the daily amount recommended.

Doctor in the Kitchen

ADDING SUPPLEMENTS TO FOODS

The medical profession has been using a nice big word for the past 20 years or so — avitaminosis. It means not enough vitamins. It was applied to a group of conditions clinically observable and due to absence of enough vitamins in the diet. But times have changed. Now attention is being focused on super-avitaminosis, which means just the opposite.

Is it possible to get too many vitamins? It seems to be.

Early Concepts

When vitamins were first discovered, it was but natural to suggest that where they are insufficient, they should be supplied. The same thinking applies to minerals, when the significance of small amounts — traces — of these nutrients was recognized. In many instances this concept has proved correct. Here are three examples:

1. The addition of vitamin D to milk has helped supply this nutrient to children and infants in amounts recommended by the Food and Nutrition Board, if they use the quart a day which supplies the 400 units needed;
2. The addition of iodine to table salt has practically eliminated simple goiter, formerly a common complaint of people who grew up away from the seashore, where seafoods were commonly eaten and the soil had an adequate iodine content;
3. The popular demand for white instead of natural whole grain flour and cereal products created a deficiency in the B-group vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin and the mineral iron; these are now supplied by enrichment, with the subsequent virtual disappearance of nutritional deficiency caused by lack of these nutrients, with the exception of iron in certain individuals.

Concept Can Be Overdone
In the meantime, however, in.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE

Ky. Dept. of Agriculture Frankfort

More and more Kentucky farmers are taking a new look at horticultural crops, Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell P. Butler says. Particular consideration is being given to the production of commercial fresh vegetables, Butler said.

"The field of horticulture covers a broad area," Butler added, "but the main categories can be listed as fruit and vegetable crops and ornamentals. While Kentucky is not a leading state in any of these areas, all studies indicate that we have a good potential in all three, particularly in fruit and vegetable crops."

Butler noted that while Kentucky is not a top apple producing state, production has steadily grown during the past 10 years. In 1955, the State's apple production was valued at $156,000. By 1965, income from apples was valued at $1,199,000. While the income from peaches was reduced because of weather conditions in 1965, the previous one was an excellent year for peach producers as they received $1,015,000 for the '64 crop.

Strawberries is another horticultural crop that has received considerable attention in certain areas in recent years. The 1965 crop was valued at $875,000 as compared to $759,000 in 1964.

Improved marketing programs and development of processing facilities are expected to increase the production of strawberries. Farmers in some areas are looking toward commercial production of raspberries and blackberries.

Butler said commercial production of fresh vegetables is being viewed as having a great potential in Kentucky. The growing of field vegetables for processing is also growing in importance, with several canning companies contracting with farmers for the growing of beans. Kentucky farmers have been growing cucumbers for pickling for a number of years. Some 2,000 acres were grown in Kentucky last year.

"There are two points to be considered when we think of expanding our income from horticultural crops," Butler said, "with the first one being that there is certainly a fine potential for greater production. At the same time, we must realize that many of these crops are specialized and cannot be handled merely as a sideline operation. Many require special equipment and few can be handled with a small labor supply."

About $779,000,000 is given away annually by 15,000 U.S. philanthropic foundations.

INDUSTRY HUNTERS—These were among the 70 Kentucky development and business leaders calling on West Coast industrialists to spark interest in establishment of branch plants in Kentucky. Shown from left are Harold L. Sullivan, Paducah, with the bonding house of Stein Brothers & Boyce; Elbert Burcham Jr., Hickman, president of the Citizens Bank; John W. Keller II, Paducah, of Property Management Investments; Kentucky Commerce Commissioner Katherine Peden; L. M. McBride, Fulton, president of the City National Bank, and James B. Stock, Chicago, industrial development.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE 700?

Disposable tissues first became something to sneeze at more than three decades ago. Before that, women used the first Kleenex tissues to remove cold cream during their daily beauty routine. While tissues are more important than ever to a gal's cosmetic plan, American women have found more than 700 other uses for tissues. No wonder an average of a million boxes of Kleenex tissues are sold in the U.S. every day.

Future Of Parks, Forests Depends On Your Interest

by MARTI EAKIN
 "This land is your land,
 This land is my land
 From California to the New York Islands—"
 So wrote a lyricist in one of our modern songs. How often do we hear those words with no thought of their meaning. We do not stop to think that the words of this song are literally true. This land is our land—yours and mine—and we do not treat it with the care and respect wise owners usually give their property.

Your favorite parks and forests, and recreation sites are not indestructible resources. Under proper management they will flourish, but with unwise exploitation they will disappear.

Planning makes the difference, planning can determine (A) how the lands will be used; (B) who will use them—how often or how much; (C) what products they will provide; and (D) how they will be protected.

If they are to be available for tomorrow, you must take an interest in the plans being made today. Investigate the recreational planning being made on all levels and work to promote the establishment and operation of parks, campgrounds, planning for beautification, game management, soil conservation, erosion control, and the production of crops of wildlife

HAND IN HAND — State and federal agencies work closely to protect Tennessee outdoor recreation areas. John Delime (above), with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is the Reelfoot Refuge manager. Below, State Game and Fish Commission personnel check fish taken from Reelfoot.

California, the white sand dunes of Great Lakes' shorelines, and waterfowl wetlands. Also included in this salvation effort are certain species of wildlife which are endangered.

Long range planning is necessary to preserve and protect our natural resources, to provide recreational areas, and to keep civilization from destroying irreplaceable plant and animal life. Those in charge of your local, state and federal public lands realize the importance of public opinion when deciding on matters concerning your land. They are anxious to listen — make yourself heard—take an interest in your lands and work for their wise and full use. You can help ensure that this land will REMAIN your land.

Teach Children With Radio, TV

Parents — not teachers — must carry the brunt of a child's early education, says Dr. James I. Brown of the University of Minnesota. Author of a new Visual Linguistic Reading program published by 3M Company, Dr. Brown underlines the fact that children spend two-thirds of early learning years in the home.

"Parents can help educate their children by surrounding them with words and word environment, and by sharing experiences and verbalizing feelings," says Dr. Brown.

"In brief, keep a constant dialogue with your children, provide a rich reading background, and turn 'distraction media' such as television or radio to learning situations by participating with children and stimulating question-answer dialogue about content."

The U.S. Public Health Service monitors the nation's air, water, soil and foods throughout the year for traces of pesticide poisoning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields

Well Known Wingo Couple Observing 50th Wedding Anniversary Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fields of Wingo, Route 1, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary with open house at the home of their daughter, Mrs. James Edward Dowdy, two and one-half miles southwest of Wingo, on Sunday, April 2, from 2 until 4 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fields were married on April 1, 1917, near Dukedom, Tenn., with Squire Thacker officiating. Their attendants were Mrs. Audrey Wray Aldrich of Clinton, Ky., and Mr. Jewell Joiner of Clovis, New Mexico, who will help them observe their anniversary.

The couple has two sons and two daughters, Leon Fields of Jackson, Tenn., J. D. Fields of South Fulton, Tenn., Mrs. Vera Dowdy of Wingo, Ky., and Mrs. La Done Hill of South Fulton, Tenn.

Mrs. Fields is the daughter of Mrs. Ida Wray Yates of Wingo, Route 1, and the late Henderson Yates.

Mr. Fields, a retired farmer, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William (Bill) Fields.

Both are members of the Bethlehem Methodist Church of Pilot Oak, Ky.

All friends and relatives are invited to the open house. No invitations are being sent.

"Can't we just skip that measurement? I never look back there any more."

STRICTLY BUSINESS by McFeatters

"I'll bet my vice presidents can lick your vice presidents!"

Wallcovering Measure

A roll of wallcovering, regardless of width, contains 36-square feet of area, according to the United Wallpaper Company of Chicago. However, because of trimming and matching, it is best to estimate 30 square feet of useful wallcovering per roll.

A Shower of Protection

In the old days, ingenuity was the mother that invented the shower. The first shower was made by placing a chair in the middle of an enameled tub with a pump arrangement. The bather could then pump up a sufficient supply of water to pour down and drench himself. Down through the years, people have gone to great lengths to find better and more convenient ways of keeping themselves clean and fresh. The latest idea comes from Alberto-Culver in the form of a feminine hygiene deodorant spray called FDS. This new product, made expressly for the external vaginal area, provides dry, refreshing and gentle protection to give a woman complete confidence in her personal daintiness.

KNOW YOUR KITCHEN TOOLS
If you know your kitchen tools, what they do, and how to use them properly you can save yourself a lot of time and make meal preparation a lot of fun. The following basic kitchenware usage guide has been prepared by Mary Ann March, home economist for the Ekco Housewares Company:
Mincer-Chopper . . . Mincers a variety of vegetables such as onions, peppers, celery; chops fruit and nuts.
Fruit and Butter Baller . . . Produces decorative fruit balls from melons and other soft fruits. Makes butter balls, cheese and ice cream balls.
Strainer . . . Rinses fruits and vegetables, ideal for crumbling hard egg yolks for sprinkling on salads.
Pizza Roller . . . Rolls out pizza and small quantities of dough, crushes nuts, crackers, hard candies for toppings.
Paring Knife . . . Pares, peels, slices fruits and vegetables. Perfect for skinning apples, pears and onions.
Food Beater . . . Whips, blends, creams, beats eggs, whips cream, icing, fondants. Incorporates air into mixture of ingredients to expand volume.
Flexible Spatula . . . Use in spreading breads or crackers with butter, peanut butter, preserves or sandwich spreads. Spread celery with stuffings such as cream cheese. Loosen gelatin molds, also cupcakes, cakes and breads from bakeware.

CREATE 'WORD ENVIRONMENT' FOR YOUNGSTERS
Don't baby talk your children—it hinders rather than helps them learn says Dr. James I. Brown of the University of Minnesota.
A noted reading authority, Dr. Brown is the author of a new Visual Linguistic Reading Program published by 3M Company which incorporates sight, sound and touch to teach better reading and learning habits.
"The home is an important education center," says Dr. Brown, "and parents can do much to help their children learn by creating a 'word environment' in which both depth and scope of words are plentiful."
"A key is to keep conversation on a natural adult level to stimulate children to reach out for new word meanings. And, they must present reading as a reward rather than a rigor."
According to Dr. Brown, parents can also turn television or radio into a learning situation by viewing with the children and explaining words and verbalizing their meaning.
In encouraging, he advises parents to direct children to reading that is interesting to them. Reading to them aloud is also an important learning technique.

King-Size Sheets Are Common Now

The number of kings and queens is multiplying rapidly—at least, in the world of beds and bedding! Statistics indicate that extra-large beds are increasingly in demand as American men and women grow taller with each generation. "Once upon a time, the king-size bed was only a Hollywood extravaganza — when movie stars of the 1930's considered an over-size bed a symbol of prosperity. But now, King-size or queen-size mattresses amount to a substantial percentage of all mattresses sold in the United States," says Laverne Farmer, home management specialist with the University of Tennessee Agricultural Extension Service. "You no longer need to have sheets and blankets made to order for these spacious beds. Super-size bedding sales have multiplied in the past few years — all of which brings up the subject of the household laundry." If over-size beds are new additions in your home, remember that a pair of king- or queen-size sheets amounts to just about double the yardage you have been used to putting in one washer load! Sheets should have room to move around so soap or detergent suds can penetrate every inch of the fabric. One super-size sheet can be balanced with several smaller items to constitute a load, rather than crowding in two large sheets. Linens—as well as clothes—come cleaner and are more efficiently rinsed when the machine's washing action is not hampered by overloading. And this same rule — don't over-crowd — applies to the dryer.

Protect Your Children Against Measles, Says The AMA

CHICAGO—Now is the time to have your children immunized against measles if they have not already received this protection, says the American Medical Association.

Many parents are surprised to learn how dangerous this common childhood disease really is.

An estimated 250 American children died from measles in 1966. More than 150 suffered measles encephalitis, sometimes called sleeping sickness, or brain fever. Encephalitis frequently leaves children with permanent disabilities, including mental retardation, deafness, and blindness. Future tragedies can be prevented, because safe and effective measles vaccines are now available. In the past four years, these vaccines have helped cut the measles death rate in half.

It's possible that measles could be eradicated in the near future if more parents protected their children with immunization. The AMA recommends that every infant be vaccinated when he is about one year old. All children over this age who have not been vaccinated and who have not had measles, should be immunized now.

It is especially important that children in nurseries, kindergartens, and the first two grades of elementary school receive measles immunization. These youngsters have the highest risk of infection.

Measles immunization is safe, inexpensive, and easily performed. See your doctor for his recommendations.

If enough children are protected by immunization, measles will disappear. It's time to get rid of this familiar, but often dangerous, and sometimes deadly childhood disease.

DECORATOR LOOK FOR TISSUE BOX

Another American institution is passing from the scene. Going the way of the circus and the Sunday afternoon drive, the traditional blue-and-white masculine quadrant design is disappearing from the Kleenex tissue box.

It was Mrs. Homemaker who asked for the change. Her wishes were translated into three new package designs for Kleenex tissues by Raymond Loewy/William Snaith, Inc. Now these indispensable disposable tissues have become attractive, distinctive, sophisticated accessories for the home.

The delicate rose pattern of the new family-size box suggests the soft, fragrant, feminine way of doing things. Particularly in bedroom or bathroom, it is a smart addition to the decor. With printing eliminated from the new boxes except for the tear-out strip, the words disappear when the tissues pop up.

The Florentine design of the regular size box is reminiscent of the Renaissance period, important in today's interior design trends. Combining the best traditional elements of today's homes with a strictly contemporary background and color scheme, the Florentine pattern blends with any decor, any furnishings.

The dispenser box, most often used in cars or desks, carries a Spenserian scroll pattern, whose clean, neat lines appeal equally well to men and women. All three new package designs are color coordinated with the tissues inside in white, yellow, pink, aqua, or French blue.

While the masculine blue-and-white quadrant design is being retired, the tradition of convenience first established by Kleenex tissues 43 years ago goes on for Mrs. Consumer—with the new look of decorator boxes.

BUYING or SELLING HOMES -- LOTS -- FARMS

CANNON AGENCY
129 Broadway South Fulton, Tenn.

Six thousand two hundred and seventy five copies of the FULTON SHOPPER are being read in 6,275 homes in Fulton, South Fulton and throughout the Twin-Cities' trade area this morning.

Approximately 25,100 people will be motivated to come to the Twin Cities to do their buying this weekend because the pages of the Fulton NEWS-SHOPPER are filled with all kinds of attractively-priced merchandise, be it groceries, furniture, drugs, shoes, ready-to-wear, appliances, used cars or real estate.

The FULTON SHOPPER has been established to help twin cities' merchants widen their trade area. It goes into over three thousand homes each week that do not subscribe to a Fulton paper. If you have something to advertise, let the Fulton SHOPPER prove its worth to you.
