AUSTIN SPRINGS
By Mrs. Carey Frieleds

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Mathis of Akron, Ohio, arrive Friday night for several days visit with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mathis of this village, and other relatives in this section.

Rev. Russell Rogers filled his regular appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday. The evening worship was devoted to singing, as announced a week ago by your writer. The interest grows as class and congregational singing is held on each second Sunday nights. Visitors are invited.

Mrs. Grover True has improved splendidly during the past week and is able to be getting out again, everyone will be glad to know.

Grant Bynum remains about the same. He was able to be out in his yard during the summer-like days the past week.

Corn picking was the task of many farmers here last week and a good yield was reported to your writer. Much of the grain was stored, some put on the market.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover True observed their 29th wedding anniversary the past week, quietly, in the home of children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rickman, who prepared a delectable meal. Among those of the family present were Mr. and Mrs. Bell Farmer of St. Louis, Mrs. Inez Vincent and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Vincent of near Pilot Oak.

The fall season is now showing many beautiful colors. It will be sad to see all leaves come tumbling down, flowers fade and die away, knowing that winter isn't far away, then spring again, which everyone will be looking forward to. These seasons and all of us are blessed with Mother Nature, who takes care of that.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lassiter and sons, Mark and Stevie, of Martin, visited parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buton Lassiter, the past Sunday.

Angus Calves Are On Increase In Kentucky

Kentucky farmers who raise registered Angus beef cattle helped their breed achieve a new record number of calf registrations in the past 12 months, according to a recent announcement from Glen Bratcher, secretary of the American Angus Association, St. Joseph, Missouri. During the organization's fiscal year which ended September 30, registrations of purebred calves soared above 400,000 to set a new high mark for the black, hornless breed. The 1967 total was 404,348, up nearly 4 percent over 1966.

Kentucky breeders recorded 17,745 Angus calves during the 1967 fiscal year to rank seventh in the U. S. in Angus numbers. The Bluegrass State also ranked seventh in transfers of ownership as sales hit 13,280. Kentucky was sixth in new life members with 268 and 61 young men in the state joined the American Angus Association as junior members.

About People and Things
By Mary Louise Gossum

Well, we finally succeeded in finding a good home for our latest stray puppy, only to have a stray cat turn up to take his place. One morning while I was getting breakfast I looked out the window and there was a big gray cat in the backyard. I said, "Hello, Cat," and that was my first mistake. The next thing I knew he had leaped on the picnic table and from there to the kitchen window sill, where he proceeded to sit and cry all the time we were eating breakfast, not to mention making nose prints on the windows I had just washed the day before. I finally went out and gave him some toast scraps; he took one small smell and turned up his nose in disdain. When I left the kitchen and went in the den, the cat did, too, jumping up on the window sill there. Eventually I left him in the house (the last thing my husband said before he left for work was an admonition about not letting the cat in) and he followed me every step I took until he smelled Freddie (that's our hamster). I figured it was Freddie or the cat, so I put the cat back out-side because Freddie had been here first and had seniority. But the cat had been around long enough to think he was at home, so he's still hanging around for his daily dole. If anyone would like a nice full-grown mate cat, I'd be delighted to part with this one before some of the neighborhood dogs discover I have him.

My sons think their mother is old-fashioned because she likes to know where they are and what time they get in at night, and if that makes you old fashioned, then I plead guilty. So when No. 1 son, who's a senior in high school, said he was going to a party after the Homecoming dance, I didn't think I would survive the late hours, but I did. But, gosh, I sure hate to think what it will be like five years from now when No. 2 son gets to be a senior and I'm five years older. I think by then I really won't be able to survive.

There are still honest people in the world today, and an incident which occurred Friday afternoon proves my point. No. 1 son, who is as forgetful as his mother, was at one of the local car-wash places getting his car ready for the big Homecoming game and dance. He took out some things that were in the back seat in order to clean the inside, and later in his hurry forgot to put back in the car a big package I had ready to mail, a sidewalk edger, and his brother's school pictures. Some time later, when we had gone to the game, a young couple who had seen him drive off and leave everything brought it all and left it with my neighbor because we weren't at home. (They knew where to bring it because our return address was on the package.) I don't know who the young couple was, but they have my gratitude, and just in case they read this I would like very much to say "thank you."

Nancy's brother, Barry, is getting around, too, but not in quite the same way. Barry recently completed basic training at Ft. Campbell and has been assigned to the Army-Navy School of Music. His address is:

Mr. and Mrs. James Green attended the Murray State University Homecoming at Murray Saturday.

Everybody I've talked to lately has had something to say about the recluse spider that has been found in 12 counties in Kentucky. I'd always figured that there was some good in everything, but it took me a while to figure out how there could be some good in a spider that took hunks out of your flesh. Then suddenly I realized what a perfect excuse it was for putting off fall housecleaning. I've decided there must be hundreds lurking in my closets and dark corners just waiting for me — so if I wait a while maybe they'll die out when it gets cold weather. Any way it's better than no excuse at all.

I was out at Mr. and Mrs. Jubie Henderson's house the other day, and they have found two that they think are the "fiddler" spider. One was dead and the other was alive in a jar. I took one look, and I'm inclined to agree with the Hendersons that they have, indeed, discovered the recluse spider in their home. It's not a very pleasant thought to think that we may all have them.

PeeWee Nanney and Dan Taylor attended the St. Louis-Boston World Series game in St. Louis Saturday.

Mr. Carl Stith of Falmouth, Kentucky is visiting her son, Bill Fossett, and family.

Nancy Adams Huddleston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Adams, and Fulton's claim to TV fame, has something like eight or ten singing commercials on this fall. You can hardly turn on your television set without hearing that familiar voice. Among the commercials she has this year are ones for Fodge, Standard Oil, RC Cola, and Parker Games. When Florence Ballesteros of Ecuador was here for the Banana Festival she said that she hears Nancy quite often down there. I would say that Nancy's commercials are really getting around.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morris have returned from a visit to their son, Billy Mac Morris, and family in Tullahoma, Tenn.

Popcorn Company At Murray Sold; Will Store Beans

The Murray Warehousing Corporation, Incorporated, a wholly owned subsidiary of Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association of Murray, Kentucky, has purchased the facilities of Murray Popcorn Company for the purpose of buying, selling, and storage of soybeans. The new organization will have a storage capacity of more than 100,000 bushels of soybeans.

Boone Hill, President of Murray Warehousing Corporation said today that the new facility was being developed to serve an increasing need for growers of the area. Mr. Hill further said, "It is the desire, and has long been the aim of this Corporation to widen its services to members. The increasing soybean production of the area indicated that storage facilities were of vital importance. We think that the new Soybean Division of Murray Warehousing Corporation will fill that need."

The new company will buy soybeans from the producer, sell them on the open market and ship by rail from its location. The facilities have been approved by the Commodity Credit Corporation, a prerequisite for farmers receiving support prices.

The Board has employed Wayne Mitchell of Bernie, Missouri, as Superintendent of the new business.
Holmes Ellis, Manager of Murray Warehousing Corporation, said that Everett Ward Outland and all other permanent employees of Murray Popcorn Company would be retained. He further stated that all popcorn contracts held by Murray Popcorn Company would be honored.

The officers of Murray Warehousing Corporation in addition to Mr. Hill and Mr. Ellis are: E. E. Shanklin, Dresden, Tennessee, Vice-President; Charles E. Wright, Fulton, Kentucky; Crate Boyd, Boaz, Kentucky, and Sherwood Potts, Farmington, Kentucky, all directors.

WILDCAT BACKGROUND BRIEFS
UK's Football Squad

The best offense could be a good defense, when you have Nat Northington at cornerback.

That observation by a University of Kentucky assistant coach at the end of spring football practice was echoed by many persons who saw the elusive sophomore from Louisville in action.

Each scrimmage, Northington, an offensive star at Thomas Jefferson High School in Louisville, pulled off some type of big play.

One scrimmage, he returned a punt 70 yards; the next he ran one back 86 yards. As an encore, he intercepted a pass and returned 95 yards for a touchdown.

His deceptive, effortless stride was described as "like a race horse" by defensive backfield coach Leon Fuller, as "more like an antelope" by head coach Charlie Bradshaw and as "like water" by sophomore quarterback Stan Forston.

Northington isn't sure how fast he runs, but his high school coach said he went 40 yards in 4.8 seconds in full uniform.

Bradshaw said Northington also has quickness which enables him to recover quickly when covering a pass pattern.

He could be an answer to a problem—covering the flats—which has plagued Wildcats pass defenders in the past. Northington found defense a little different from the ball-carrying role which was his lot in high school and on the UK frosh team.

He was second in rushing on last year's Kitten team with 33 carries for 197 yards, an average of six yards a try. His best was a 41-yard touchdown run against Virginia Tech.

He led the UK frosh in kickoff returns, carrying six for 111 yards, an average of 18.5 yards.

Northington easily adapted to defense, however, and reports, "I like it; it's lots of fun."

After a summer of classes and recreational work—most umpiring and supervising kids baseball programs—he headed home for two weeks, where he worked out each day at Thomas Jefferson, before reporting back to the Wildcat camp.

Who's Responsible For PUBLIC Morals?
The personal morality of each of us, of course, is our own private affair. And we have no right to set moral standards for the man next door.
But there is a broader area of morality which is everybody's business. For in a society where civil order depends on moral order, there has to be a public conscience. Without it, the law could not be enforced, justice could not be administered, and liberty could not be preserved.
The public conscience is reflected in the laws we enact, and the moral standards we observe. It is the watchdog over the God-given rights of the individual to freedom of conscience, and to the security of his person and property. The public conscience is, moreover, a reflection of the individual conscience of all people who are concerned in preserving a high standard of moral order.
This is not an obligation to be delegated to the police and the courts. Nor to the church, the schools or civic societies. For the public conscience is the concern of everyone, and it can function effectively only with the dedicated commitment of all right-thinking people.
In these troubled and changing times, public morality has become a problem of increasing concern to society as a whole. Crimes against person and property have grown to grave proportions. Moral depravity thrives on public indifference. The peace is disturbed with seeming impunity; obscenity flourishes in the name of freedom of speech; the disease called alcoholism finds an ever-growing number of victims.
If you agree that public morality is everybody's business . . . if you want to restore and rebuild the moral values that are essential to the welfare of our society—write today for a copy of our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled "Public Morality—Our Common Concern." Following the delectable dinner and a social hour, a short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Hugh Pigue.

Plans were made for the bake sale of the General Woman's Club, to be held in the Fulton and City National Banks on Saturday, October 28. Foods to be contributed by club members are home-made and include pies, cakes, cookies, breads, rolls and candies.

Among the projects of the Music Department are the sponsoring of the Beethoven Club, whose members are pupils through the eighth grade, and the Junior Music Club, whose members are high school age students. At the conclusion of the business meeting Mrs. Nelson Tripp, Mrs. George Combs, Mrs. Clyde Briggs and Mrs. Ronald Laird delighted the members by singing "Getting To Know You," which was the general theme of the evening. This was followed by informal group singing, which was greatly enjoyed.

Obion County Farm News

BUSY FARMERS

It is always amazing to us how fast the color of soybeans change and seem to get ready for harvesting. This area will have to have a killing frost before many beans are combined, but we found a few farmers harvesting the HILL variety of soybeans in the Mason Hall Community last week.

Corn seems to be standing up in the fields much better this year than the past few years. The corn borers are present in the corn but the weather has cooperated much more than usual. Corn pickers and shellers are harvesting a much higher percent of the corn this year and leaving less on the ground.

One way to check field losses is to check along corn rows for 133 feet an each ear left represents 1 bushel of corn and then to count corn kernels in a 40 inch square. An average of 20 kernels per square equals 1 bushel of shelled corn loss per acre. Ear corn losses, plus shelled corn, equals the total loss per acre.

MAMMA COWS BAWLING

A lot of mamma cows are bawling today for their calves that were sold in the Feeder Calf Sale at Newbern today. ## Baby Found In Cornfield After 19-Hour Search

An 18-month-old Negro child, lost for 19 hours in cultivated fields near Rutherford, was found Sunday noon after members of the Gibson County Civil Defense Unit had searched throughout the night.

Dr. J. M. Moore Jr. of Trenton, head of the Gibson County CD unit, said this morning Victor Eskew, son of Shirley Eskew, was found in a corn field about a-half-mile from his home.

Dr. Moore said the child was apparently none the worse for wear, despite Sunday's rain.

"The child was missed from his home at about 5 Saturday afternoon and, after neighbors failed to locate him, the CD unit was called out that night at about 7.

Members of the unit first lowered a man into a 65-foot-deep open well and searched through the six feet of water below.

Later, about 30 members fanned out over the soybean, corn and cotton fields of the area and searched throughout the night.

"Apparently the child went to sleep in the corn field because I personally passed within 50 feet of where he was found and didn't see or hear a thing," Dr. Moore said.

Skilled Hands

Some 51,000 hands are now at work—learning new trades in Kentucky's 34 vocational-technical schools. They belong to the 25,500 high school age students who enrolled in the schools this year—1,600 more than last fall.

Another 65,000 youths are enrolled in other vocational educational courses, such as industrial education and vocational agriculture, in comprehensive high schools.

Most of the enrollment increase in the technical schools this year was made possible by the opening of 10 new extension centers across the state in September. Another 10 schools will open within the next two years.

Thirteen of Kentucky's vocational facilities are State-owned area schools. These operate the extensions. The 34 schools offer courses in 193 study areas—from woodworking to electronics—some of which are shown here in pictures made at the Mayo Area Vocational School at Paintsville. When Kentucky's present $23 million building program is completed—probably in 1969—there will be 374 different trade, professional and business courses offered, in classrooms within easy commuting distance of every Kentuckian.

Senior Terry Beadles Having Tough Competition On UK Starting Lineup

A red jersey denoting second string doesn't fit too well with Terry Beadles, but the senior quarterback from Fulton is having a tough time moving Dicky Lyons back to tailback on the University of Kentucky football team.

Lyons has been wearing the blue jersey of No. 1 quarterback a little more than a week now and seems to like the position.

He returned two punts for touchdowns of 84 and 47 yards Saturday, scored ones on a 16-yard run and passed to tailback Roger Gann for a 65-yard touchdown.

Beadles, meanwhile, was throwing the ball well and giving every indication he is still very much in contention for the position he held at the beginning and end of last season.

Lyons was shifted to quarterback after sophomore Stan Forston of Lexington received a knee injury which necessitated an operation. Forston, an excellent student and an outstanding passer, was present at the Saturday scrimmage against the freshmen. He'll be held out of competition this year.

Shifting of Lyons elevated Gann, a sophomore from Fayetteville, N. C., to the tailback position, but the former all-starter reluctantly relinquished his position to Dick Beard, a sophomore from Altoona, Pa.

Beard wasn't eligible for competition with the freshmen last season. He has come on strong in fall practice, but still needs more experience at the position. He scored on a 24-yard run Saturday.

The No. 3 tailback is Tom Fee, a senior from Uniontown, Pa. He scored touchdowns of one and three yards Saturday.

The other touchdown in a 56-0 varsity romp was scored from the three by Gann.

The starting backfield snapped up as follows: Lyons, quarterback; Beard, tailback; Donnie Britton, fullback, and Joe Jacobs, flanker back.

Turning in big plays on defense were linebackers Fred Conger, Cary Shahid and Doug Van Meter, ends Doyle King and Jeff Van Note and tackle George Katzenbach.

Coach Charlie Bradshaw said the team did better than at past scrimmages and overall looked "pretty good."

He said Beadles and Lyons both did well and the offense performed more as a team. Beadles threw well, he said, but the passing game must improve. Bradshaw apparently referred to interceptions thrown by Lyons and sophomore David Bair. Bradshaw said he has noticed improvement with each scrimmage and the squad is shaping up well for the opener against Indiana Sept. 23 at Bloomington.

FARM NEWS

An opening meeting to discuss the feed grain situation and program alternatives for the 1968 feed grain program was announced today by Edward Jones, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee. The meeting, starting at 10:00 a. m., will be held in Memphis on Wednesday, October 4, at the Sheraton Peabody Hotel.

Leaders and representatives of Farm organizations, commodity producer groups, and trade groups interested in feed-grain are being invited to come and present their views. Anyone who is interested in the feed grain outlook and program is welcome to attend.

The chairman explained that the Memphis meeting is one of a series being held in major feed grain States to provide farmers and other interested people an opportunity to express their views and recommendations on the feed grain program for the 1968 crop year.

Representatives of the Secretary of Agriculture will attend each meeting to discuss the feed grain situation, review the various provisions of the feed grain legislation, and outline program alternatives for the 1968 crop.

Actually, the situation feed grain producers face this coming marketing year is a new one. Whereas the feed grain carryover in 1961 was 84.7 million tons—about twice as much as needed to provide reasonable protection against adverse weather—the carryover stocks as of October 1, 1967 for the 1967-68 marketing year now are expected to be in the neighborhood of 37 million tons.

With all 1967 feed grain production indicated at 175.4 million tons (including the biggest corn crop in history) the total supply should be about 7 percent larger than one year ago. Expressed another way, on October 1, 1968, with anticipated feeding, industrial use and exports, there will be a carryover of all feed grains of 40 to 45 million tons. This is considered by many to be an adequate carryover to the following season but not an excessive one.

The problem at this time, therefore, is no longer one of surplus. Neither is it one of scarcity; rather it is a problem of maintaining a safe supply in relation to demand while insuring reasonable returns to producers.

The Department wants the advice of farm leaders familiar with the program and its purpose before making decisions for the 1968 crop year.

Matters to be discussed at the meeting will include the feed grain supply-demand situation; and size of the 1968 production needed and the acreage to be diverted to conserving use in order to achieve that desired level of production under average weather conditions; the various levels at which the diversion percentage, diversion payment rate, price support payment rate, and the loan rate might be established for 1968; whether soybeans might again be substituted for feed grains; and other miscellaneous problems and decisions of importance.

Anyone who is not able to attend the Memphis meeting in person but who wishes to make a recommendation may submit his ideas in writing to the Secretary of Agriculture as soon as possible but not later than October 10. All recommendations will be given careful study by the Department. Various phases of the 1968 feed grain program will be announced soon, possibly in late October.

B&PW Club Announces Plans To Again Sponsor Christmas Home Tour

At the regular meeting of the Fulton-South Fulton Business and Professional Women's Club, held Tuesday night at the Derby, members voted to sponsor again this year a tour of homes decorated for Christmas. Ramelle Pigue was named chairman of the committee in charge.

The Fall Roundup, which will be held at KenBar October 14-15, was called to the attention of those present and a large attendance at the roundup was urged by the president, Lorene Harding.

Reports on Banana Festival activities by the club were given, as follows: Ramelle Pigue reported on sale of tickets and reservations; Sue Hurt on registration and placement of princess pageant contestants; Anna Belle Edwards on luncheon at Mrs. Smith Atkins' home for pageant contestants, judges, etc., and Lorene Harding on transportation and placement of grantees. Jo Westpheling, also a member of the club and who is presently at Vanderbilt University, did a tremendous job as chairman of International Relations.

The Finance Committee, headed by Ruth Scott, announced that a rummage sale will be held by the club the last week end in October.

A letter was read from the Paducah B&PW Club, inviting members to attend their birthday meeting on October 10.

Ramelle Pigue read an article about the "fiddler" spider, which is causing much concern in twelve counties in Kentucky, and warned members to be on the lookout for this venomous spider. She also read from an article in the latest issue of "Business Week" about the accomplishments of Kathryn Peden, former national president of B&PW, presently Kentucky Commissioner of Commerce. These items were given as "current events", on the agenda for each club meeting.

Preceding the meeting a delicious dinner was served with Louise Johnson, Frances Jones, Kellena Holland and Amaline Homra hostesses.

FEEDER CALF SALE WEEK OCTOBER 9 - 13

Next week could very easily be called Feeder Calf Sale Week for West Tennessee, because 5,500 feeder calves will be sold by various livestock associations in West Tennessee.

Obion County will be well represented in the Northwest Tennessee Feeder Calf Sale at Newbern on Tuesday, October 10, when approximately 300 feeder calves will be consigned by members of the Obion County Livestock Association. Approximately 1,200 feeder calves will be sold in the Newbern Sale. Obion County members of the Feeder Calf Sale Committee include: Paul Grisham, Charles Powell, Johnnie Wall, Rufus Taylor and W. T. Garrigan, Jr.

The Livestock Association has gone all out to assure buyers at the sales that they will be buying quality Feeder calves and replacement heifers. A few of the rules of the Feeder Calf Sales are as follows: (1) All calves out of BEEF COWS and sired by REGISTERED BULLS. (2) Each calf field inspected for quality. (3) All calves properly DEHORND and CASTRATED. (4) All calves vaccinated for BLACKLEG. (5) All heifers up to 600 lbs. GUARANTEED OPEN. (6) All calves GRADED and sold in UNIFORM LOTS.

If you are unable to buy your calves at the Northwest Tennessee Feeder Calf Sale at 4:00 p. m., October 10 at Newbern when 1,200 calves will be sold, you might keep in mind the other sales next week: October 9 - Hereford Steers at Brownsville - October 11 - Hereford Heifers at Brownsville - and October 12 - Feeder Calf Sale at Huntingdon.

PROTECT NEW STORED CORN
A cleaning up of storage areas is essential in protecting the stored corn crop. Do not store the new corn crop with last year's crop which usually is insect infested. Feed out or move the old crop to get rid of these grain pests. Then thoroughly sweep out the storage area. Finally spray the walls and floors of the area with 5 percent DDT, 5 percent Methoxychlor, or 10 percent Toxaphene. To mix the spray add 14 oz. of either 50 percent DDT or 50 percent Methoxychlor or 20-oz. of Toxaphene per gallon of water. Use one gallon of this spray mix to cover 1,000 square feet of wall and floor area to be sprayed. Do not get spray on corn.

The corn can further be protected by treating it directly with premium grade Malathion or Pyrethene insecticides as it is stored. These treatments in no way affect the quality or usage of the grain. Five gallons of spray mix treats 1,000 bushels of grain. To make these sprays, use 1 pint of the 50 percent Malathion or 1 1/3 pints of 6 percent Pyrethrin liquid emulsions to each 5 gallons of spray. Apply the sprays with garden or other sprayers as they are elevated into bins. Or layer spray and grain. The corn must be shucked or shelled and well sprayed for sprays to be effective. Special wheat-bran base dusts of these materials also are available for control. If fumigation of grain is used for insect control, storage areas must be air-tight. Otherwise, fumigation is ineffective.

EIGHTH GOVERNOR

Kentucky's eighth Governor, Gabriel Slaughter, inaugurated 1816, was a farmer, soldier in War of 1812, and a Virginian, who served twice as lieutenant governor.

Farmers, Farm Visitors Asked To Be On Guard To Avoid Accidents

Farmers and farm visitors — especially children — were today urged to be on their guard against farm safety hazards.

Many farm operations involve heavy machinery, handling livestock, and strenuous physical exertion. By their nature these require special safety precautions.

Streams and water storage structures may present special hazards, particularly where children are concerned. Among these are irrigation and drainage ditches, as well as natural streams, and farm ponds and open tanks.

Ponds have been installed with ACP help in all States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Nationally, ACP in recent years has shared the cost on about 50,000 to 60,000 ponds a year, for a total over the years of about 2 million. Of these, 1.6 million were constructed for livestock water, 300,000 were storage-type erosion-control dams, 100,000 were irrigation water-conservation reservoirs, and about 15,000 were for wildlife conservation, fish ponds, and forest fire control.

More than 125 farm ponds and other water-storage structures have been built in Obion County in the past (5) years under the Agricultural Conservation Program. And additional ponds were built under such programs as the Cropland Conversion Program, the Cropland Adjustment Program, and the Conservation Reserve Program.

While these very important and beneficial ACP farm ponds are constructed for agricultural and conservation purposes, fishing, swimming, boating, skating, and even water skiing are often recreational byproducts. And where a person's attention is fixed on the pleasure at hand, he may not be alert to the ever-present danger around open water.

The danger may be greater if the farm pond is located some distance from the farm. "It is some deep water or a hole or its slopes and banks are covered with grass and may be slippery. Having a "danger" sign, and keeping handy a boat, a length of rope, or an inflated inner tube — or even a long pole — may save a life.

So the watchword, is "Be careful." Having a National Farm Safety Week just helps to stress the need for practicing safety. But we need to practice it in most farming operations and around farm installations every day of every week.

Committee To Research Staffed Welcome Centers

A committee to research the feasibility of establishing manned information centers on limited access highways in Kentucky has been appointed within the Kentucky Travel Council of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

Purpose of such centers, according to officials of the council, would be to provide during the prime travel months in Kentucky full information to tourists and other travelers in an effort to channel visitors into all areas of the state, especially to private facilities and some of the lesser known tourist attractions.

Chairman of the Travel Council, Herndon Evans, editor of the Lexington Herald, appointed Dan Stewart of Lexington as chairman of the research committee. Appointed to the committee in addition to the chairman were Tom Cunningham, Ashland Oil, Louisville; Roy Winegardner, Holiday Inn, Lexington; Warren Rosenthal, President of Kentucky Restaurant Assn., Louisville; Les Moran, executive secretary of the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce.

The Travel Council, meeting in Lexington this week, has announced "Operation TAP", Tourist Appreciation Program, to be undertaken by the group as a pilot program during the coming year. According to Herndon Evans, KTC Chairman, the TAP will be to accomplish the following: an educational program for all service-type businesses concerned directly with the tourist and travel industry with concentration on how to serve the traveling public; a promotion program to highlight the tourist attractions and hospitality of specific communities and the state as a whole; and inform Kentuckians constantly of the growing economic impact of the industry of tourism and travel.

As a part of the TAP activity up and about the road to the coming, the TRAV-LIN Colonels spread the "good word" on the regions they represent. The groups will be attired in the traditional dress of the "Southern Colonel."

The program will include the selection of a family, or several, in cities outside of Kentucky, to come to Kentucky expense-free, to partake of all offered by the state in the way of hospitality and attractions for tourists. The details of this program will be forthcoming as it unfolds.

The council's first action in the upcoming program will be to make a study to determine one of the twelve tourist regions in the state to serve as the pilot region in developing the full program. The council also resolved to change its region lines to conform with the regional concept of the Kentucky Department of Public Information.

Committees named at the Lexington meeting will be chaired by the following: Executive Committee - Herndon Evans; Legislative Affairs - Lon Rogers, Pikeville Attorney; Awards - Les Moran; Tourist Appreciation - Charles Manly, executive vice president of the Marshall County Chamber of Commerce.

The council will suggest to the Commonwealth that auto license tags in the future carry the words "Explore Kentucky" in such a position that the county name will remain on the plate. The group has further resolved to urge other organizations to support this activity.

News From Our Boys In The SERVICE

USS RONQUIL — Interior Communications Electrician Third Class John R. Bostick, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bostick of Rt. 1, Water Valley, Ky., assisted in the filming of the MGM movie "Ice Station Zebra." He is serving aboard the submarine USS Ronquil.

The movie stars Rock Hudson and Ernest Borgnine and is about a submarine which attempts to capture a downed foreign satellite at the North Pole.

For the movie the Ronquil assumed the role of a fictitious nuclear powered submarine, the USS Tigerfish (SSN-509).

mas, you may supply the refreshments and we will give the party for you. Contributions of money are very acceptable, for these donated funds enable me to purchase some Christmas items that are specially requested. I usually have a long list of these special requests, and I make every effort to help patients receive gifts that they really want. Many notes are slipped under my office door or placed on my desk, addressed to Dear Santa. We also need funds for canteen books, to be used for canteen treats for patients without family or funds.

We are very anxious that each of our patients shall have Santa gifts on Christmas Eve. If you can help us to accumulate enough gifts for our 1,100 patients, it would mean a great deal to someone who is unfortunate enough to have to be in a mental hospital at Christmas. Gifts should be wrapped and labeled as to content, in order that we can fit the gift to the patient as much as possible. These gifts need not be expensive. The important thing is for us to be sure that no one is forgotten when Christmas comes. I would like to have these gifts in my office as early as possible during the month of December, in order that we will have time to sort them and purchase anything extra that we may need. We are happy to receive new or used clothing throughout the year. However, if you send articles or items at Christmas, please leave them unwrapped, and we will not distribute them as Christmas gifts. It is very disappointing to open a lovely package and find a used gift.

Most of our 42 wards have between thirty and fifty patients. If you need any additional information, please allow me to help with your plans. You may write or call me. My telephone number is 886-4431, Extension 366.

head, and with swirls going every which way. I got under the shower and saw that $7.50 go down the drain in less time than it took that nice little fellow to put one roller in my hair.

Then last Friday I made one last plunge into a matter that I thought would make all other problems take care of themselves.

I decided to go to one of these health salons where they guarantee that in just 30 days they will reduce your dress size from a 14 to a 10 with no problem at all.

So I bought myself one of those leotards. You know, the garment that's all in one piece from neck to toe and brings out every bulge in the battle to look slim. I won't go into specifics as to how I looked, but you just visualize how a penny balloon would like with a watermelon squeezed into it.

I had to wear the leotard, the lady said, because I had to take a lot of exercises and I needed comfort. Comfort my foot, after those exercises I need a shroud.

I lifted weights. I rolled over the floor kicking and crawling like a shot rabbit. I chinned on a guilotine. I had a strap jostling my mid-riff until I felt like a roller-coaster was backing up and going forward over me just for practice.

And then to top it off they made me pedal a stationary bicycle that, if the mileage were taken, I would now be lounging on the beach at Waikiki.

After the exercises came the sauna bath in the sweat chamber and finally one of those Swedish massages from a character who reminded me of a centipede with a black-jack in each hand.

It was a mess! And I am a wreck!

Today (Monday) I felt no qualms about my looks. I didn't feel dowdy at all. Mainly because my back, neck, arms and legs are so sore I couldn't even say "present" when the professor called my name, much less rubber-neck around the room.

Actually I wasn't present. There was just a poor old beaten up hag sitting at my desk contemplating the high price of being Grandma Moses in the kindergarten.

An Old Home Can Still Be A Beautiful Home

This imposing fireplace in the living room is one of nine in the lovely Bennett home, each of a different design, including one in the entrance hall. When this home was first built, these fireplaces provided all of the heating.

This remarkable parquet (inlaid wood) floor in the dining room has been restored to a "like new" brilliance. This is one of the breath-taking parquet expanses; another, in two varied designs, is found the full length of the entrance hall.

SERENITY AND—

hand of an artisan, Mary re-did the house, yet at the same time succeeded in maintaining its old fashioned charm.

The spacious rooms are all painted, with the exception of one, a light mushroom color. Most of the woodwork is oak except in the library and dining room where it is a beautiful sycamore.

There are heavy sliding doors between the parlor and dining room. On the living room side the door is oak to match the woodwork, and on the dining room side it is sycamore to match the woodwork there.

The dining room, too, has a parquet floor, but it does not match the design of the floor in the entry hall. A built-in china closet reaches to the ceiling and covers almost half of one wall. On another wall there is a sycamore mantel with slim Ionic columns and wine colored tiles.

In the library a pair of enormous sycamore bookcases, beautifully carved, almost touch the ceiling. A huge desk, once belonging to L. O. Bradford, sits in front of the round windows with their curved window seat below.

The kitchen, light and airy, has gum wainscoting. Here the floor had to be partly reworked, and modern appliances have replaced the antiquated. A large pantry has been made into a room for a washer and dryer.

The master bedroom has one of the most beautiful fireplaces in the house. There are three separate beveled mirrors over the mantel and small delicate shelves for holding bric a brac. A portion of the back porch has been enclosed, making an enormous walk-in closet.

Upstairs there is a wide hall running the length of the house and flanked by four large rooms, three of which are used for bedrooms and the fourth as a sitting room.

The sitting room is the only room in the house that is wall-papered, and here the paper, a lovely ashes of roses, matches the tiles of the fireplace. In one bedroom the tiles of the fireplace are unusually beautiful, shading from a soft light blue to a deep dark blue.

Antiques and family heirlooms throughout the house enhance its beauty. In the parlor there are an exquisite pair of lustres with long crystal prisms. An antique desk came from the old Paschall home (relatives of Mr. Bennett), and a pair of matching pedestal tables have been in the Bennett family for years.

In the dining room an antique cosmetic case houses a collection of colored antique glass, and a small pill chest has become a dainty silver chest. A tea wagon was made by Mr. Bennett's uncle, Tom Fields.

A counterpane with its hundreds of thousands of tiny stitches was made by Mrs. Eliza White.

There are lovely marble top tables, commodes, wash stands, and desks every where. It is enough to make an antique lover green with envy, and even those who do not care for that type furniture could not help but admire the beauty, taste, and loving thought that has gone into the decorating of this gracious old home. It is a treat just to walk through and admire it all.

Delicate and well-preserved filigree lends a romantic graciousness to archways, as shown in this hallway masterpiece.

A view of the imposing stairway from the entrance hall.

Bardstown Man Winner Of Service Station Award; Puckett In Top Ten

A Bardstown man, Joseph R. Hill was named "Kentucky Service Station Dealer of the Year" at a dinner in Lexington to honor the state's 10 most outstanding dealers.

Some 3,000 Kentucky service stations were eligible for the competition which ran during the summer months.

For his efforts, Hill was presented the coveted oil industry "Oscar" by Jo-Ann Clark, Kentucky's representative to the Miss America Pageant. In addition, he and his wife won a week-long vacation to any of more than 300 Howard Johnson's Motor Lodges, a new Lincoln Continental for use during their vacation, and $200 in cash.

Hill, 39, has been a service station dealer for 16 years. He has been a dealer for American Oil Co. for 13 years at the same location. He is active in church and civic affairs and has been a scoutmaster for five years. He has four children, three girls and a boy.

In the statewide contest, judges traveled more than 1,000 miles by plane and automobile to evaluate Hill's and the nine other area winners' stations.

The judges were John M. Lewis, Louisville, executive vice president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce; Bill Powell, Paducah, editor for the Sun-Democrat; and Mrs. Connie Quinn, Frankfort, director of the Kentucky Division of Clean-Up and Beautification.

In addition to Hill, the nine dealers who survived brand and area elimination to compete on the state level are:

James H. Clan, Louisville, American Oil Co.; Clyde T. Gillock, Munfordville, Standard Oil Co. (Ky.); Luther Harris, Manchester, Standard Oil Co. (Ky.); Glen Judd, Ashland, Ashland Oil & Refining Co.; Estle L. Marksberry, Florence, Gulf Oil Corp.; Carl Puckett, Jr., Fulton, Standard Oil Co. (Ky.); James K. Shesley, Lexington, Ashland Oil & Ref. Co.; Fisher Tichenor, Owensboro, Gulf Oil Corp.; and Seymour Wattenbarger, London, Standard Oil Co. (Ky.)

The contest was sponsored by the Kentucky Petroleum Council, an oil industry trade association.

The margin of points separating Hill from the other contestants was very narrow, according to Thomas H. Maxedon, executive director of the Council. He said that the main factors in the contest were "how well the dealer maintains his station's premises and how well he operates his business."

Maxedon noted that the judging

Judging was based on station "housekeeping," service, safety, personnel practices, and the dealer's participation in community affairs.

Herdon Evans, Lexington, chairman of the Kentucky Travel Council, was guest speaker at the awards dinner.

Scottsville's Town Square Center Of Ruckus

By MARGARET ANN GENTRY The Park City Daily News

SCOTTSVILLE, Ky. — A plot of ground smaller than a football field has caused more of a ruckus in this city of 3,500 than anything since the Civil War.

The center of controversy is the town square. And those wrestling with what to do with it include city and county government officials, a young Scottsville attorney, downtown merchants, and the state Highway Department.

The Allen County Courthouse occupied the town square from 1850 to 1965 when city and county government offices were relocated in a new building a block from the square.

The old courthouse building stood vacant until last June when it was torn down. Then, tempers flared.

The merchants want more parking spaces. Mayor Wilbert Simmons and the City Council have vetoed that.

Then, because of the high cost to raze the old courthouse, the Highway Department officials agreed to tear down the building and develop a park in the city's center, as federal highways U.S. 231 and U.S. 31-E converge at Scottsville.

So the county deeded the property over to the state for one year with the understanding it would be returned to the county upon completion of the project.

Lawyer Val House Jr. said the citizens understood the land would be developed as a public park "with trees, grass and, hopefully, a fountain."

But a Highway Department official drew up a different plan calling instead for an intersection of the two federal highways in the city's center, with four Highway Department district engineer J. Paul Hunter did agree to put a fountain in one of the corners. So the city put in water and power lines to the point.

MIXED-UP TOWN SQUARE — Scottsville's town square remains a center of argument among merchants, city and county government officials and the state Highway Department. The old courthouse stood here for more than 100 years. Now the question is what to do with the space it left behind.

park-like areas at the four corners. "That didn't suit me... and a few others," said House.

"We spent $700 on that and now it's wasted," the mayor lamented.

House then wrote to Gov. Edward T. Breathitt; former Highway Commissioner Henry Ward, now candidate for governor, and Highway Commissioner Mitchell Tinder who promised to meet with Scottsville officials Aug. 25.

Meantime, the merchants met and indicated they didn't like the proposed plan.

Ten days before the meeting, Tinder wrote House:

"Since writing you, I have been presented with information which demonstrates conclusively that the Department of Highways should withdraw the plan for channeling the square and routing traffic through it."

The department had decided to "restore the area... and develop it as a park-like setting."

And so... the square has been sodded, four honey locust trees have been planted and a few shrubs set out. There's no fountain, but the water and power lines are still there.

And traffic still flows around the square much as it did when the courthouse stood there.

"The courthouse was there for 115 years," said House.

"You can be sure whatever is done with the square will be there for another hundred or so years," he said.

Fisherman's Body Found Near Shore

COLUMBUS, Ky. — The body of Harold Dan Cunningham, 32, a Columbus fisherman who disappeared last Tuesday while fishing near the Missouri shore, was found Saturday morning by his brothers.

The body was discovered about half a mile above the ferry near where he disappeared Tuesday.

Manager Is Named For Wickliffe Mill

WICKLIFFE, Ky., Oct. 4 — Roy L. Sharp, 44, Westvaco engineer who carried out the studies of the project, today was appointed manager of the new $80 million pulp and paper mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company now under construction on the Mississippi River near here.

The new manager has been associated with the paper company for 16 years.

The appointment was announced in New York by John A. Luke, vice president and manager of the company's fine papers division, under whose overall direction the mill will be operated when it comes on stream in the late spring of 1970.

As project engineer of the division since the spring of 1965, Sharp was responsible for the studies and recommendations that led to the decision of Westvaco's board of directors to authorize construction of the Wickliffe mill last May.

The new manager will establish residence in the Wickliffe area in about a year, Luke said, so that he can follow the progress of the construction work and begin establishing some of the basic functions required as various stages of the project are completed.

ROY L. SHARP

Holder of a degree in civil engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Sharp joined the company at Mechanicville, N.Y., in 1961 as a field engineer. He moved up to foreman of construction and maintenance and then to superintendent of the same department. In 1956 he was promoted to plant engineer at the Mechanicville mill, a position he held until the summer of 1964. He then was transferred to the Luke, Md., mill, one of the largest fine paper operations in the world, where he served as engineering superintendent. When the company began definitive studies for building a new mill, he became project engineer for the Fine Papers Division, with headquarters in New York.

Sharp is a member of TAPPI, the technical association of the paper industry, and has been active in its affairs.

A veteran of three years in the U.S. Air Corps from 1942-1945, Mr. Sharp served as a B-24 pilot in Africa, Italy, France, Germany and the Balkans. He received the Air Medal with four clusters and a Presidential Citation. While employed at the Mechanicville mill he was active in the Air National Guard.

Question: I will be entering the second year of law school this fall. Will I be able to finish law school which will require another two years?

Answer: The present Selective Service Act places restrictions on graduate training. However, any registrant who has completed one year in law school is eligible for continuation of his II-S student deferment for a period of two additional years or until he receives his professional degree, whichever occurs first provided he re-enters school in the fall of 1967.

Question: Our family doctor has referred me to a specialist for treatment of severe hay fever. Will I be inducted?

Answer: Hay fever if severe, or if not controllable by antihistamines or by desensitization, or both will disqualify you for military service under current armed forces standards of acceptability.

"CAREERS FOR THE 70's" ACCOUNTING

Business Offers Opportunity

University of Kentucky Professor Robert D. Haun explains the intricacies of tax accounting to students Bruce M. Watson, Saegertown, Pa., and Barbara Sprague, Sturgis, Ky.

"Careers For The 70's" is written for today's high school student who is facing one of the biggest decisions of his life: What will he be doing the next 40 years? This series is designed to inform him of the many choices available to him. It is prepared by the Public Relations staff of the University of Kentucky.

Professional and business conditions are changing so rapidly today that a young man or woman attempting to decide on a career must find it difficult in selecting one that can lead to a happy, progressive, and profitable occupation offering a fair degree of security.

Aware of this dilemma, University of Kentucky faculty members are collaborating to furnish guidelines that students may find helpful. Assaying conditions as they may be in the next decade, the UK professors have concluded that accounting is a field promising continual development.

Recently a group of leading business executives meeting in Lexington indicated that accounting is the most useful knowledge to have. Additional training in corporate finance and business management would prepare the student, they said, for management jobs.

Accounting offers three main career opportunities: public, corporate, and government. Starting salaries for accountants range from $7,000 to $8,500 a year, depending on location and the size and business of the employer. Salaries for beginners are increasing every year.

As a Certified Public Accountant the careerist can be independent as he handles the accounts of individuals, estates, or companies. He may join a national or international accounting firm which sends its CPAs into different localities to handle auditing duties of various types of companies. This promises wide travel, association with many people, and the handling of new and exciting types of financial problems—both as analyst and consultant. It can lead eventually to a partnership or the forming of one's own firm.

A corporate accountant may become a company finance officer, comptroller or treasurer. He may become the company's advisor on important financial matters and take part in the planning of future operations.

A government accountant may specialize in a number of fields:

auditor, bank examiner, member of a trade commission, or specialist with the Internal Revenue Service. The field is large and the demand for skilled accountants is growing steadily.

Accounting courses at the University of Kentucky are being updated to prepare graduates for any of these careers. Corporate accounting and finance have assumed strong importance at UK in recent years, since business practices appear to require more and more people with this type of training.

Accounting courses include more analytical training than previously. Ability in computer processing of financial data is stressed. With such training the accountant is able to offer valuable service to his company, translating figures into production and marketing facts essential to profitable planning.

Modern marketing requires this skill. Many decisions often depend on the interpretation of computer data, and the skilled accountant is the one man in the company qualified to supply it.

High school preparation for a career in accounting should stress English, the basic sciences, history, mathematics, and above all, courses which help the person communicate, to speak fluently and to write clearly. The man who rises rapidly today is often the man who has mastered communicating skills.

This kind of high school education opens the way to a successful college career and begins the development of those inner qualities most desired by employers.

PIONEERING

The oldest (1880) steam Merry-Go-Round in the United States still takes "big" kids as well as little kids for a 5c ride on summer Sundays at the Harold Warp Pioneer Village at Minden, Nebraska. This 1880 Armitage Hershell was found in a barn in 1955 and was fully restored by Harold Warp who founded the Pioneer Village. The original pegged music box still plays tunes as the animals go round and round. Early merry-go-rounds had roosters, pigs, giraffes, as well as horses but little tots were afraid of the others, so horses finally were the animal used.

IC, GM&O Agree On A Merger

MOBILE, Ala. — Gulf, Mobile & Ohio and Illinois Central railroads announced Monday that an agreement has been reached on basic terms of a proposed merger of the two lines. The joint announcement said a stock exchange ratio between the two carriers was approved by their respective executive committees. The agreement is subject to approval of directors and stockholders of both.

Terms of the stock exchange agreement provided for the holders of each outstanding share of GM&O common stock to receive .75 share of a new Illinois Central Industries $6 cumulative preferred, a full share of which is convertible into three shares of Illinois Central Industries common.

Illinois Central Industries is the parent company of Illinois Central Railroad.

The announcement said this in effect provides an exchange ratio of 2.25 shares of Illinois Central Industries common stock for each share of GM&O common.

The two roads share the same general area, particularly in the South. GM&O, headquartered at Mobile, operates in Alabama, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee.

Illinois Central, with headquarters in Chicago, operates in those seven states and also in Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Studies of a proposed merger of the two lines have been conducted off and on since 1962.

Two Towns Get Housing Loans

WASHINGTON — Two Kentucky cities are receiving federal loans to plan low rent housing projects. The Department of Housing and Urban Development said Thursday a $4,500 loan would go to Mount Vernon for 30 homes and $30,000 to Richmond for 200 homes.

Legal Reefs for the Boatman

To be properly equipped, today's motorboat enthusiast needs more than just the motor, the boat, and suntan lotion.

He also needs liability insurance. For one of the unhappy side effects of the boom in pleasure boating has been a sharp increase in damage claims by the victims of accidents.

The rules of liability in case of a boating accident are complicated by jurisdictional conflicts between state and federal government, and by historical conflicts between common and maritime law.

Still, by and large, liability rests on the basic principle of "due care."

just as it does in the case of an auto accident.

For example: when a guest fell overboard from a motorboat, the owner was held liable for failing to operate the boat with due care. The court pointed out that he had made a sudden, sharp turn without regard for the guest's precarious perch on the gunwale.

Care is due not only to guests on board but also to occupants of other boats and to bathers in the water. Thus, a boatman was held liable for striking a swimmer, as a result of steering too close to a diving platform near the shore of a lake.

Of course, some risk is inherent in the very nature of the sport. For such danger, the boatman is not legally responsible.

In one case, two huge waves, arising suddenly in a calm sea, capsized a small fishing craft. A passenger was thrown into the water and cut by the propeller.

But when he claimed damages later from the owner of the boat, the court turned him down. The judge said that such a freakish accident could not fairly be blamed upon the person operating the boat.

Furthermore, in weighing a claim, the court will take into account the victim's own behavior. For instance:

A somewhat inebriated passenger insisted on remaining in a dangerous position, clinging to an iron post, despite repeated warnings. When he let go of the post, he fell into the water and was drowned.

His heirs filed suit for damages, but to no avail. The court said this tragedy was the pure and simple product of the victim's own foolish bravado.

Sen. Cooper Plans To Retire In 1972, Newspaper Reports

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., plans to retire after he finishes his present term in 1972, The Courier-Journal said in its Sunday morning editions.

"It (the Senate) deals primarily with your capacity for usefulness," Cooper was quoted in an interview with Courier-Journal writer William Grider.

"It can be said that a person who is 71, which I will be when my term ends, because of his experience and judgment, might still be of greater value than one who has not had that experience.

"But there are always new men coming up, with new ideas and new capacities and abilities. No one can say that they cannot do better in their time than an older man can do," Cooper said.

Cooper, 66, has spent 15 years in the Senate. Grider referred to him as "currently the most popular political figure in Kentucky."

"I have the greatest admiration and feeling for young people," Cooper said. "... I think I've always kept in pretty close touch with them. Young people, I think, have always supported me in my campaigns."

Cooper said that he hopes to take the remaining five years of his term and "take as much time, practically my whole time, working here on the legislation, more fully than I ever have before."

Cooper entered statewide politics in Kentucky in 1941, when he ran unsuccessfully for governor. He won a special election to the U.S. Senate in 1946 to fill out the two remaining years of A. B. Chandler's term after Chandler resigned to become baseball commissioner.

Cooper was defeated for election to a full term in 1948 but ran successfully in 1952 to fill the two years left in the term of the man who defeated him in 1948 — Virgil Chapman, who died.

The late Alben Barkley defeated Cooper in 1954 when Cooper ran for a full term. When Barkley died in 1956, Cooper won election to the Senate, again to fill out the remaining years of the term.

In 1960 he was elected to the first full term in his own right and in 1966 he was re-elected by one of the greatest margins in Kentucky political history.

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

BY CORNELIUS R. STAM, PRES. BEREAN BIBLE SOCIETY CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60635

FORGIVEN

"We have . . . the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace" (Eph. 1:7).

The climax of Paul's first recorded sermon is reached in Verses 38 and 39 of Acts 13, where he declares:

"Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this Man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins:

"And by Him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses."

Thus God, through Christ, first forgives and thereupon justifies those who believe. Nor is this all that was accomplished for us by the death of Christ at Calvary. There is also reconciliation, baptism by the Spirit into Christ and His Body, a position at God's right hand in the heavenly and all spiritual blessings there.

"The forgiveness of sins" must come first, however, and the above passage assures us that in Christ we have this—not barely, but "according to the riches of His grace." Indeed, the next verse continues: "wherein He hath abounded toward us . . ."

Thus Eph. 2:2-7 declares that though we were "the children of disobedience," and therefore "by nature the children of wrath," "God, who is rich in mercy, for His great love wherewith He loved us" has given us life and raised us from the dead, exalting us to "heavenly places in Christ . . ."

The reason for all this? "That those who believe, Nor is this all that was accomplished for us by the death of Christ at Calvary. There is also reconciliation, baptism by the Spirit into Christ and His Body, a position at God's right hand in the heavenly and all spiritual blessings there.

"The forgiveness of sins" must

Linda L. Cardwell, Ronnie Mack Allen Married In Fulton

FULTON, Ky. — On Sunday, Sept. 24, at 2:30 p.m. in the parlor of First Baptist Church, Miss Linda Lucille Cardwell was married to Ronnie Mack Allen.

mented by white satin roses.

Mrs. Harry Moss Latta presented a program of nuptial organ music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose for her wedding a street-length gown of white peau de soie designed with straight lines with a portrait neckline and wrist-length sleeves of imported lace.

Miss Martha Kaye Hemphill was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore an autumn green dress of slipper satin with identical neckline and tapered wrist-length sleeves with bell skirt and matching shoes.

Alan Scott Cardwell, brother of the bride, served as best man and Randy Humphrey of Greenfield, Tenn., served as usher.

For her daughter's wedding,

Mrs. Cardwell chose a beige lace knit with matching jacket. She wore a small hat of brown mink accented with sheer veiling. Her shoes were a brown and she carried a small beaded bag. She wore a corsage of brown cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Allen, mother of the groom, was attired in a teal blue double knit and matching jacket. She wore a small feathered hat of the same color with harmonizing accessories. Her corsage was of white cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Ethel Scott, grandmother of the bride, wore a gold crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. The table was overlaid with a white damask cloth edged with deep oriental lace. The three-tiered wedding cake which was separated by swan colonnades was adorned with a miniature bride and groom, wedding bells and lilies of the valley.

Miss June Allen of Dyersburg, Tenn. and Mrs. Ernest B. Cardwell served the punch and cake.

Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Henry Forrest of Whitehaven, Tenn., Mrs. DeWitt Ramsey and Mrs. J. A. Hemphill.

Miss Patty Howell of Whitehaven presided at the register, which held an arrangement of white lilies and greenery.

Following the reception the bride and groom left for a short wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a brown imported cotton with matching lace trim and matching accessories. She wore the orchids from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen are now at home at Dyersburg.

Out-of-town friends attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Forrest and Miss Patty Howell of Whitehaven, Tenn.; Mrs. Doc Prince, Mrs. Macon Crone, Wayne Francis, Miss June Allen, Miss Wanda Allen and Al Taylor of Dyersburg; Mrs. R. E. Wagster of Union City, Tenn.; Mrs. Gary L. New Enemy-Brown Recluse

Don't Fool With The 'Fiddler'

FOUND IN PURCHASE—The black-and-white drawing is of the brown recluse spider (loxosceles reclusa) now found in some areas of Kentucky. It is a particularly dangerous spider because of the after-effects of its bite. The spider is from three-eighths to a half inch in size (legs and body), likes dark places, and is a tan to chocolate color. On its back is a black mark closely resembling a violin. (UK Co-operative Extension Service drawing by H. M. Chapman, staff artist).

This might sound impossible—but at least seven of the eight Jackson Purchase counties have a brand new, previously unheard-of problem.

It is a spider—a brown recluse spider—which has the scientific name of loxosceles reclusa.

The spider is possibly more dangerous than the infamous Black Widow. Its venom is strong enough, scientists at University of Kentucky say, to perhaps kill a baby or a small child.

So far the spider has been found in Carlisle, Ballard, Caloway, Fulton, Graves, Marshall and McCracken counties. This leaves Hickman out of the loser's circle.

The spider—from three-eighths to a half-inch in size (legs and body) and tan to chocolate brown in color—also has been found in Butler, Logan, Allen, Warren and Simpson—all just east of the Purchase.

The spider likes dark, dry places. "Your chances of getting bitten are slight unless you go poking about dark corners, sills, crevices or in dark, dry places like closets and attics," said Dr. Lee Townsend, U of K entomologist.

If you get a chance to take a close look at the spider you'll recognize it by a dark brown or black mark shaped like a violin and appearing on its back.

This marking has earned the spider the nickname of "fiddler."

The brown recluse has been known in some midwestern states and in a few southern states but has not been identified in Kentucky until recently.

"Why he's suddenly turned up, we don't know," said Dr. Townsend.

A bite from a "fiddler" may have serious after-effects even for grown-ups. Areas around the bite from the "brown recluse" blister. Flesh may break down and a type of gangrene may set in.

The "fiddler" is very shy of light.

Jo's Notebook

Vanderbilt University—It's good to be back in academia again after a frenzied week-end in Fulton. I have never done as much in so little time in many a day, and that includes Banana Festivals too! I didn't get to see too many people, and I'm almost glad I didn't. If the experience I had with Linda Nanney at the City National Bank happens many more times I'm going to get plum out-done with the entire system of communications, and that includes personal contact too.

It was a chilling experience, and you'd better believe it. I called Linda last Saturday to ask about my bank balance. I asked if she would give me the amounts and the identification of the checks I had written since I received my bank statement on the first of the month.

Well, one word brought on another and I said: "I didn't have my check books with the stubs on it in Nashville, and I didn't know how many checks I wrote for books."

That didn't seem to make any great impact on her thinking and she went on recounting the checks. . . "Vanderbilt Book Store $20; Vanderbilt Book Store $12.50; Vanderbilt Book Store, etc." (Oh, the prices of these books!)

Finally I said: "Buying books at this rate I won't have lunch money by Thanksgiving."

Whereupon she asked: "What are you doing buying all those books at Vanderbilt?"

Then I told her! She hadn't heard about the Fellowship; hadn't missed me; and after that I just didn't have the heart to ask her what she thought about me going to college.

But the experience has a modicum of value. It proves conclusively what my Public Opinion professor means when he says. . . "when anybody says that EVERYBODY'S TALKING about an issue or two, pooh-pooh the idea, because everybody doesn't talk to every body every day, or every week, or every year."

I had thought that EVERYBODY had made up their own opinions about an old lady going to college, and here I find out that even my banker friends didn't know. And they're not knowing I'll just go on buying books, til I overdraw all out of reason.

So take care of lil ole me, will you Linda?

There's a little bit of Kentucky, and the ole home-town, just everywhere you go. Fortunately for me, here at Vanderbilt University it seems more so.

Knowing that there are people around that you know and can call on if the need arises is an extremely comforting thought. But seeing them frequently is about as much as you can ask for, especially if you're away from the old familiar places and people.

Today, Tuesday, I had cordial little chats with Steve Green and Steve Jones. I first ran into Steve Green as he was leaving his English class last week on the third floor of Calhoun Hall, where I have a Political Inquiry class each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at nine. Last week Steve was leaving his eight o'clock English class when he spied me sitting on the couch outside of my class-room door, where I was doing a quick going over my assigned reading for the class.

"Hello, Mrs. Westpheling," he said smiling from ear to ear, as I did also immediately upon seeing him. Now when I go to that class, I tarry around to get a little visit with that blonde, All-American looking college lad. This morning (Tuesday) Steve came by to say "hello" while I was talking with Eugene Harold of Mayfield, who is in my American History class.

I introduced Steve to Eugene, whereupon Steve asked about mutual acquaintances in Mayfield and about the Starr family (I think) from Mayfield, who are related to the Greens.

Last week also, I was strolling along the campus in mid-afternoon after a long study session in the Science Center. Looking across that lovely expanse of foliage and stately buildings I saw this tall, studious-looking lad walking towards me and I thought: "That must be the other Steve!" Indeed it was, Steve Jones, going into the Joint University Library where he also spends endless hours poring over his studies.

And so today (Tuesday) as I left the library, after five continuous hours of catching up on my reading and home-work that I missed during the Festival, I heard another cheery:

"Jo, you're really putting in a lot of hours here, aren't you?" It was dear, sweet Steve Jones, headed into the comfortable area of study that I had just left in JUL.

In one of my political science classes involved in the studies of Political Parties there are nine

Sixteen From Four High Schools Vie For "Junior Miss" Title Here Saturday

Next Saturday, October 21, at 8:00 p. m., sixteen attractive high school senior girls will gather in Carr Gymnasium to compete for the title of Fulton County - Obion County Junior Miss.

The pageant is being sponsored by the Fulton Jaycees and Ronald Laird heads the committee in charge.

Admission to the program is only $1.00 per person and a large crowd is expected, according to a Jaycee spokesman. The local Junior Miss Pageant has grown in popularity each year and this one promises to be the best ever.

The girls will be judged by a panel of three out-of-town judges on several different categories, including poise and appearance, youth fitness, talent, and academics. Contestants are from Fulton High School, South Fulton High, Fulton County High, and Union City High. They are:

Colorful Autumn Ushers In Another Hunting Season

Colorful autumn in Kentucky ushers in the fall hunting season. It's a time of year anxiously awaited by sportsmen who have been cleaning and oiling guns, repairing and repainting waterfowl decoys, running sleek dogs and doing countless scores of other things associated with the fine art of hunting.

Actually, some hunters have been in the woods since Aug. 12, the first day of squirrel season which continues through Oct. 31. A second season on squirrels is set for Dec. 1-31.

Dove hunters have been busy since Sept. 1, another two-part season. The first portion closes Oct. 31 and then reopens Dec. 1 and continues through Dec. 9.

Other statewide seasons are: Rabbit, quail and furbearers, Nov. 16-Jan. 31; geese, Nov. 6-Jan. 14; ducks, Nov. 29-Jan. 7, and ruffed grouse, Dec. 1-Feb. 28.

A limited (gun) hunting season for deer in 78 counties has been set for Nov. 8-12 with limited seasons in four other counties.

Complete information on the 1967-68 Kentucky hunting season including dates, places, daily bag limits, possession limits, special wildlife management areas open to hunting, firearms and regulations and license fees may be obtained from local county court clerks offices, where hunting licenses are on sale.

Published by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, the digest also contains information about a limited turkey season next spring, a pioneer weapons season and a deer season for archers.

Blaylock introduced Steve Davis, Covington, his Vice-President; Miss Alona Vincent, Martin, secretary of Finance; and Miss Marilyn Coance, Savannah, secretary of Affairs.

The program was arranged by Harold Henderson.

The Episcopal Bishops, the Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Voegeli, exiled Bishop of Haiti; and the Rt. Rev. C. Gresham Marmion, Bishop of the Diocese of Kentucky, discuss their forthcoming tour of the Kentucky Diocese.

Bishops Planning Fulton Visit On Diocesan Tour Next Week

The Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of Kentucky and the exiled Bishop of Haiti will meet here Friday, October 27 while on a diocesan-wide tour through the western half of the state. The Rt. Rev. C. Gresham Marmion, Bishop of Kentucky, commenting on his tour with the Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Voegeli, Bishop of Haiti, said, "We want to inform every member of the Diocese about the work of the Church in the world and in this Diocese and enlist their enthusiasm and support in this program."

A Diocesan tour beginning in Louisville Sunday, October 22 will arrive in the Purchase Friday, October 27 with a breakfast at Murray, followed by a lunch by the Bishop's Committees of Fulton, Hickman and Mayfield, an evening dinner at Paducah and a congregational meeting with the Fulton, Mayfield, Hickman, Paducah and Murray congregations will complete the day.

The Kentucky Diocese has entered a "companion relationship" with Haiti, which has already fostered exchange visits by each Bishop to the other's diocese. Kentucky Episcopalians have made financial gifts to the church of Haiti for the rebuilding of churches and schools ravaged by hurricanes during the past two seasons. Two Haitian children were recently treated in Louisville: one an open heart surgery case.

CARVINGS AND PAINTINGS FROM HIS WHEELCHAIR —

Jubie Henderson Has Turned A Handicap Into A Rare Talent

Who won the favorite picture award at the Banana Festival Art Exhibit? Why, Jubie Henderson, of course. Mr. Henderson, known not only for his paintings, but also for his bird carvings, won by a resounding 100 votes which plainly indicates the popularity of the works of this talented Fulton man.

Mr. Henderson, who had never painted until he was partially disabled by an attack of rheumatic fever twelve years ago, has turned a handicap into a talent that will surely eventually place him in the ranks with the great naturalist and artist, John James Audubon, and Kentuckian Ray Harm, whose works are now being acclaimed as great or greater than that of Audubon.

Born the son of a farmer near Dukedom, Tennessee, Jubie Henderson has lived most of his life in Graves, Hickman, and Fulton counties. At the time of his bout with rheumatic fever in 1945, he owned a cabinet shop in Hickman where he designed and built furniture.

Drawing had interested him even as a child, but he had never done anything about it other than drawing maps for geography class and helping others with their maps. He said he used to wonder how objects could be drawn so that they didn't look flat.

When on the spur of the moment after his illness, he decided to paint, all there was in the house was some enamel. There were no brushes so he called his pet Collie dog and from the hair of his dog he devised his first brush. He discovered immediately that the hair from the stomach of the dog was best as the hair elsewhere was too coarse. His first picture was done from memory and was of a red-wing blackbird with cat-tails in the background. And as he said, the result wasn't very good.

While most of Mr. Henderson's paintings are of birds, he has done almost a dozen still life pictures, some from memory. Nothing of his is ever a copy, and he has never had a lesson in either painting or carving.

The subjects of his bird paintings are done from memory, from looking at the many books on birds that he has in his home, and from the live birds that he can see from his window.

He has seen 17 or 18 different kinds of birds in his yard, and he feeds them year round. Last winter he fed cantaloup seeds to the red-birds, who are especially fond of them. He also fed them corn, which they will bite into four pieces before eating.

Paintings of birds, so realistic that you expect them to fly off at your approach, hang from the walls in almost every room.

His landscapes sell from $35 up, but he would not put a price on his bird paintings at this time. While all of his works at present are done in oil, he is considering experimenting with acrylics.

An admirer of Audubon, Mr. Henderson has 30 or 40 of his prints.

He is also an admirer of Ray Harm, the two having met when Mr. Harm had an exhibit at the Banana Festival several years ago. Mr. Henderson gave him one of his bird carvings, and in return Mr. Harm sent him a personally autographed picture of a bob white, which now proudly hangs on the wall in the dining room. Mr. Henderson valued the picture at $500, but said that he certainly wasn't interested in selling it.

Now twelve years after his illness, Jubie Henderson is as adept at carving birds out of wood as he is at placing them on canvas with oil.

In his room he proudly displayed the collection of birds that he now has on hand. There are some thirty species, ranging from the common sparrow to the uncommon, such as the brown creeper. There is a small covey of quail on one shelf that would have a hunter almost reaching for his gun before he discovered they were made of wood. These birds sell anywhere from $10 to $35 per carving.

They are carved from pine or sugar pine, which has to be sent here from Michigan. At one time Mr. Henderson tried poplar, but discovered that it was too hard for carving. His tools include a pocket knife, file, sandpaper, and drill.

The birds, carved in minute detail and painted with oils, are authentic in every way. The legs of the birds are made from four strand clothesline wire and appear so real you could believe they had been cut from a live bird.

The smallest bird he has carved was a pheasant, only 5.8 of an inch long, perfect in every detail, and glued on a toothpick. Its very smallness resulted in its demise. It was accidentally dropped and stepped on.

A carving of a quail won first place in the Kentucky State Fair, and another was first in the old Ken-Tenn Fair. Mr. Henderson has had displays of his carvings at the Banana Festival and in the Annex Building in Frankfort. Recently some of his bird carvings have been placed in the Green Tree, a gift shop at Martin, Tenn. owned by Aaltje Vandenberg, the art teacher at UTM.

Post cards, featuring photographs of Mr. Henderson's birds, are being sold in the state by the hundreds. This year he had bird carvings on display at the State Fair in the State Department booth. They were (Continued on Page Five)
