Blanket Assessment Increase Not Right Solution Here

Princeton's need of additional revenues, by whatever method, has become markedly more manifest within the last few weeks, especially since the extremity to which the City school system has come has been forced into the foreground of public thought. And this is well; for often things must grow worse before they can become better, and the more persons here who realize how bad the emergency actually is, the sooner a remedy can be effected.

In recent years, but none of more than 10 percent. It must be that the State's head man on revenues knows the situation here is very, very bad... and that he believes it is so bad, even the blanket assessment subterfuge he only recently condemned, is justified to bring revenues up to the barest minimum of requirements, pending further relief by some other and better means.

Pennyrile Postscripts By G.M.P.

The Jaycees have bowed out as sponsors and promoters of Butler High football games at home... after showing the school folk how to do a job of selling the grid contests in a way to produce a great deal more revenue than was formerly received here.

Letters To The Leader Editor

Mr. Gracian Pedley Editor and Publisher Princeton Leader Princeton, Kentucky Dear Mr. Pedley: Congratulations on the poem on "Tightville" in your April 15th edition.

About Safety On Highways

At first glance, the statement by safety authorities that speed is the Number 1 cause of highway deaths and injuries has a far-away sound of no particular immediate significance. The picture of an America gone speed-crazy has been exaggerated by alarmists ever since the flapper days following World War 1, and a good many people find it hard to believe our highways are a teeming chaos of careening speed-demons.

Let us set about correcting this ignorance and thus halt the killing. Have pedestrians any rights? The annual toll of some 12,000 pedestrians killed in traffic accidents throughout the country seems to raise the question of whether an individual's right to stand—and walk—on his or her feet still exists in an increasingly motorized age.

Mary had a little Lamb. And as they went to school; They walked to the LEFT- Instead of the right, For that's the SAFETY RULE. Even Mary's lamb can learn that easy safety rule! Best rule of all—for school children and everyone else—is: Don't walk on the highway. But if you must, then walk to the left, facing oncoming cars.

Juvenile Delinquency By Ewing Galloway If the columns of newspaper about teenage delinquency in the last 5 years were pasted together end on end they would reach 400 miles, from Ashland to the mouth of the Ohio at Cairo, Ill., and public speeches on the subject in that period probably exceeded 100,000.

speakers the public has been listening to these last several years. The new law, enacted by the recent Assembly and signed by Governor Clements, is by far the most important approach to the child delinquency evil in Kentucky I know about.

Veterans' News

The number of World War II veterans taking on-farm training and related classroom instruction in Kentucky reached a new high April 1, Veterans Administration tri-state branch office reports.
 April 1 total was 11,842, an increase of 981.
 The on-farm training program is divided into two phases—self proprietorship and employer-trainer. Self proprietorship training is for veterans who own, rent or lease the farms on which they reside, this group comprising nearly 90 percent of the total in training. The employer-trainer program enables veterans to receive training on the farms of experienced and successful farm operators.
 Veterans Administration Branch Office urges veterans in Kentucky to use official VA premium envelopes when paying G.I. insurance premiums by mail.
 VA said use of the envelopes helps expedite handling G.I. insurance payments since full information necessary to process the payment already is included by VA before the envelope is mailed to policy holders.
 Veterans who pay G.I. insurance premiums by mail should make checks or money orders payable to the Treasurer of the United States.
 If the official yellow VA premium notice envelopes are not used, veterans should give their G.I. insurance policy number, service serial number and any other information to aid VA in making proper identification.

THE GARDEN
 By JOHN S. GARDNER
 Kentucky College of Agriculture

The Melon Crops
 The melon crops are cucumbers, cantaloupes, watermelons and the squashes, all "warm" crops, whose starting must be delayed until the ground has got definitely warm; the "official" date lies between May 1 and May 10, depending on latitude.
 In a garden fertilized as outlined here several weeks ago, they should do well, but the hills should be made over a small amount of stable manure with which several tablespoons of superphosphate has been mixed, or a like amount of high grade fertilizer alone, where manure cannot be had; this for a quick start.
 The melon crops differ in the spacing of the hills, depending on the size of the vines. Watermelons should have 8 feet by 8 feet; cantaloupes, 42 inches by 42 inches, up to 5 feet square; cucumbers, 4 feet square, or in rows 6 feet apart, the hills spaced 42 inches in the row.
 As the striped cucumber beetle may be expected to take its toll of all the melon crops, extra seed must be planted, and the number of seeds per hill should be 6 to 8, but the final stand should be two plants. (Later, but in good time, specific measures for insect control will be outlined here.)
 The varieties are:
 Watermelon—Eckley Sweet and Stone Mountain. (Commercial growers may procure wilt-resistant strains of these varieties, this disease occurring in some counties.)
 Cantaloupe—Hale's Best, (an excellent sort but subject to great variation in size; perhaps sometimes objectionable for market gardeners), Hearts of Gold and Gold-lined Rocky Ford. For late "mush melons", Tip Top and Bender's Surprise.
 Bush Squash—White Scallop.
 "Running" Squash—Golden Summer Straightneck, Acorn and Green Striped Cushaw.
 Cucumbers—Cubit and Straight-8, salting; National Pickle

HIGHWAY SHOVED OUT OF LINE — A 600-foot hill near Pittsburg, Pa., ended its week-long slide after inching 12 feet towards the Allegheny River. Three houses, part of a highway and railroad tracks were carried along. Workmen are placing telephone poles along the shifted part of the highway. Heavy rains which penetrated a clay strata were blamed. (AP Wirephoto)

Deal In Bloodhounds
 LONDON—(AP)— American bloodhounds are to fly the Atlantic to be mated with British hounds. In return, British puppies will be flown to the U.S. police and prison authorities in man-hunts. The hope is to save the breed from extinction. Famous as trackers for 1,000 years, bloodhounds are to fly the At- in England because of their high cost and feeding difficulties. An adult hound eats three to four pounds of meat a day. An English breeder has made an exchange agreement with a Chicago kennel.

 PENANG, Malaya—(AP)— Cats are being replaced as rat-catchers here—by pythons. A rice mill owners' association announced tests had shown the giant snakes, up to 25 feet in length, kill two to three times as many rats as cats. So they are installing a tame python in each rice mill.

I AM DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHERS

Because I not only read your life like a book, but also help you out of your troubles. For instance what good would it do to be told that you have a rival or enemy in your path unless you were told how to overcome them, or in case, you wanted to win the love of a certain one, would you be satisfied to be told of it or would you rather know how to win your desire? In fact, it does no good simply to be told of your troubles. I am able to point out the path to success and happiness and tell you how to overcome your troubles and difficulties.

SPRING STORM CASUALTY — Here is one of the 200-odd automobiles, trucks and buses that fell victim to a freakish spring blizzard that bumped nearly a foot of slushy snow on the winding Denver-Colorado Springs highway April 24, closing the road and stranding close to 1,000 motorists. When highway patrolmen reached this sedan early April 25, the occupants had scrambled out and made their way, unhurt, to safety. The road was reopened by snow plows shortly after midnight and a warm sun was melting the snow swiftly April 25. (Ap Wire-photo)

Consumers Prefer Red Sweetpotatoes

People living in Louisville who eat sweetpotatoes prefer yams, the Porto Rico variety, according to a study which the Department of Markets and Rural Finance of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky made in 10 Louisville stores.

Local producers of the yellow or Nancy Halls, the variety commonly grown in the Louisville Area, have encountered increasing difficulty in marketing the crop in recent years, as many stores discontinued handling the variety entirely. The survey was made to determine what variety, quality and size sweetpotatoes the Louisvillians desired.

More than three-fourths of the sweetpotatoes sold in the 10 stores were of the red variety, or Porto Ricos, during the three weeks period of the survey. They selected the Porto Ricos because they were sweeter, had a superior flavor, were more moist and juicy when cooked, cooked and baked better and had a more desirable color.

Consumers' choice regardless of variety was a medium-sized sweetpotato. After the medium-sized sweetpotatoes were gone, smaller ones rather than large ones were chosen. Seldom would anyone buy large sweetpotatoes.

Consumers selected the sweetpotatoes regardless of variety, because of quality, color, appearance, size and price in the order named. More than half of the persons interviewed bought, at one time, only one sweetpotato for each member of the family.

In stores where shipped-in Porto Ricos outold home-grown Porto Ricos, the shipped-in potatoes were better in quality and more uniform in size.

Consumers in the low-income group purchased a larger proportion of the lower-priced Nancy Halls than did consumers in the high-income group.

Situation Grows Worse

Robert E. Geiger — Meat experts say the situation is getting worse before it gets better. The explanation is that in the past year we have had our cattle and calves at a low rate," says Barryman of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics (BAE) of the Department of Agriculture.

The slaughter speeded the decline in the number of cattle. The decline has been going on since 1944.

It means so many breeding animals have been slaughtered that herds can't be increased. And this in turn means meat.

Experts say that if the present trend in cattle numbers stopped this year the herd would have to be increased to 30,000,000 animals.

It would cut the beef supply about one-third compared with 1947. Supplies might be boosted up for the short supply.

But the price of corn high last fall that many found it more profitable to raise pigs instead of raising pigs.

Instead of raising pigs, the 1948 spring pig crop will be small.

Production patterns will be affected.

follow their usual course it may be 1954 before there is a substantial return in the beef supply.

If the corn crop is a bumper one, the pig crop could be increased next year and thus there would be more pork by 1950, but the number of stock sheep on farms is the lowest in 30 years, so the prospect for more lamb and mutton isn't bright.

The BAE now estimates there will be about 10 percent less meat this year than in 1947. This is a reduction of about 2,000,000, 600 pounds of beef, pork and mutton.

In 1947 about 155 pounds were available for each person. This year it is estimated the supply will range between 143 and 145 pounds.

The cattle population runs in a cycle. Usually it's from six to eight years between the peaks and the lows. This has been the marketing pattern for years.

A prewar low point was reached in 1938 when the number of cattle and calves totaled 65,200,000. A peak was reached in 1945. There were then 85,800,000 cattle and calves on U. S. farms, an all time high.

During 1945 and 1946 the slaughter was so heavy that cattle numbers declined. By the end of 1946 they were down to 81,000,000 head. Now they number 78,500,000, lowest since 1942.

Homemakers Clubs Sources Of Ideas

Homemakers clubs are excellent sources of ideas for adding to the comfort and attractiveness of farm and rural homes, in the opinion of Mrs. Frank Meadows of Greenup county. She told Home Agent Josephine E. Andrews:

"During the eight years I have been a member of the Fullerton Homemakers Club, I have saved both time and money. Last year our club learned how to make slipcovers. In our home was an overstuffed chair, which should have been discarded but wasn't due to the need of an extra chair. The springs in the cushion sagged and the upholstery was worn and ragged. Through our homemakers club, I learned to re-tie the springs and make slipcovers that really fit. Now our old chair has a place of honor in the living room."

"This year we learned to re-finish furniture. I chose for this a small rocking chair which is about 50 years old. It had many coats of varnish and paint, the last one being red. At our first training school, no one said anything about my little chair. At the second meeting, there were few women who didn't admire its wood and lines and see its possibilities. Now my little chair is almost finished. Its wood has a mellow, satiny finish and it is ready for the cane seat which we will learn to make, in the next few weeks. Again I have a piece of furniture I am very proud of—not because of its sentimental value, but because with a little time and effort I restored this quaint old chair to an attractive, useful piece of furniture."

"We are now going to have a tailoring class. I shall make a three-piece suit. I can sew, as most women can, and have made several suits. But in this class, I expect to learn to make a suit as it should be made, and to fit as it should fit."

'Not A Candidate,' Wyatt Tells Group

Wilson W. Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville and former national housing expediter, told a University of Kentucky convocation audience last week (Apr 16) that the executive branch of the federal government needs streamlining through the addition of a Secretary of Housing or Public Welfare to the official cabinet of the President. The national Democratic leader told reporters, "I am not a candidate for anything..." when questioned on the possibility of becoming President Truman's running mate in November.

Uses Tobacco Money To Start Dairying

With money earned last year on his tobacco crop, Albert Swanson, Russell county 4-H'er, has started a dairy herd by buying two registered Guernsey heifers and a bull. Swanson grew 16 tobacco on nine-tenths acre, producing 2,205 pounds, which sold for more than $1,000. Farm Agent Joe Wilder notes that Swanson turned under a good crop of vetch, a covering of manure and 1,000 pounds of Commercial fertilizer. Then he applied 300 pounds of fertilizer in the row.

IN 9 DIFFERENT CROPS...
It's Engineered for Better Baling

Start down that first windrow without a worry. Your New Holland Baler is going to work. Regardless of the type of hay or straw. Even corn fodder is baled for easy handling and storage. New Holland designs and builds Balers to save you time and money from early spring to late fall.

And one-man operation means just that. In many fields, one man, driving the tractor, bales up to 1 1/2 tons per hour. Follow the Baler with a New Holland Bale Loader and your hay crop is completely mechanized. The Model 76 Baler kicking out 7 twice-tied bales every minute... the Model 46 Bale Loader picking up bales from any angle for stacking on truck or wagon.

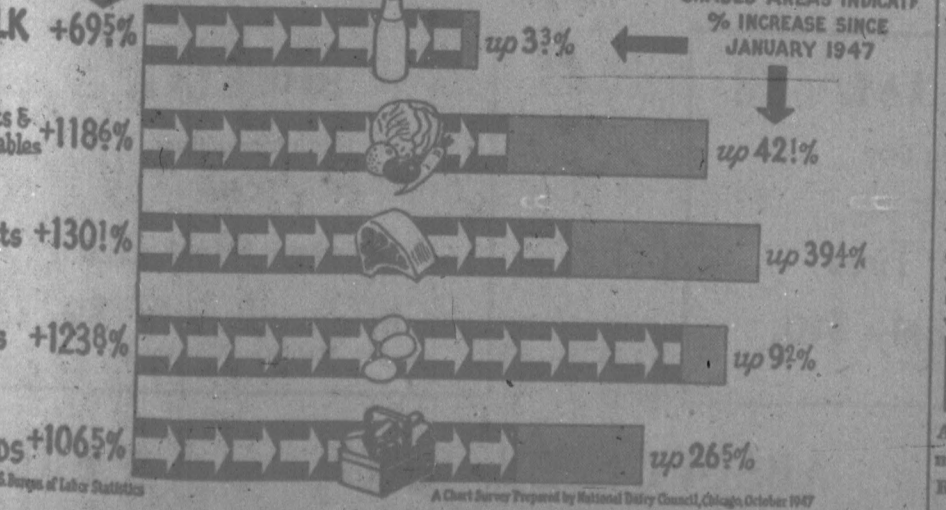

In a nutshell, here's what this Farm Engineered team does for your haying. Gives you better quality hay (because baling saves more of the valuable hay leaves). Saves barn space (baled hay uses only one-fourth the storage area of loose hay). Cuts man-power and labor costs way down.

OUR MONEY GOES FASTER

in Today's Food Market

Figures released October 1 by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics show graphically why it is increasingly difficult for the housewife to stretch her food dollars so she can give her family three in a day that are nutritionally sound. The National Dairy Council points out that milk prices have been relatively steady over the nation, and have increased 37.0 per cent LESS than the average for all foods since 1939 and 23.2 per cent LESS than the average since the first of this year. Hence, in addition to being nature's most nearly perfect food, actually leads the food field as the housewife's most economical buy.

25 Percent Of Farmers Have Not Signed Worksheets, Oldham Says

Friday, Apr. 30, is the last day for farmers to file farm worksheets to participate fully in the 1948 Agricultural Conservation Program, Chairman W. P. Oldham of the Caldwell County Agricultural Conservation Association said.

Farmers are required to file worksheets to qualify for Federal assistance, including the supplying of conservation materials such as lime and phosphate and repayment of part of the cost of practices at the end of the year.

Approximately 25 percent of Caldwell farmers have not filed worksheets, Mr. Oldham said Monday. Of $28,252 allotted the county for the 1948 program, $800 has been set aside for those filing late as partial assistance, although they will not be able to share in full benefits, Mr. Oldham said.

About 1,600 farmers here are eligible to participate in the program.

Teen-Age Training Plan Takes Place Of UMT Proposal

Married Men, Most WW II Veterans To Be Exempt, Would Take 161,000 Boys First Year

(By Associated Press) Washington — Universal military training was virtually junked this week, for the time being at least, as military leaders unveiled a teen age trainee program to put boys 18 through 19 1/2 in the regular forces.

The plan, as outlined to Senate Armed Services Committee, would draft 161,000 youths of this age bracket the first year, train them along with older draftees for one year, then put them in reserve groups.

The trainees, however, would retain one UMT privilege—they would not be sent outside the continental United States for duty except with the consent of Congress.

The plan also calls for drafting of men 19 1/2 through 25 for 2 years service. About 190,000 of these would be inducted the first year.

Chairman Burney (R-S, D.) of the Senate armed services committee said the plan was outlined by Secretary of Defense Forrestal, Secretary of the Army Royal, and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

It calls for re-establishment of nationwide selective service on a basis similar to World War II, with local boards handling both trainees and draftees. Boards, with less to do than during the war, would be smaller.

Gurney said married men and most World War II veterans would be exempt.

The new program, he said, would boost strength of the armed forces immediately. If the bill is passed, he said trainees and draftees would be in uniform within 60 days after passage.

Here's how the new trainee program would work out:

The 18 through 19 1/2 youths would go directly into the armed services.

Of the 161,000 expected, the first year, the Army would get 110,000 in addition to 790,000 regulars, bringing the Army up to 900,000 men.

The Air Force would get 15,000 trainees in addition to 453,000 regulars, for a total of 588,000.

Trainees could not choose the Air Force or any other service. They would be assigned for duty "by lot" by local draft boards.

After serving one year, trainees would be required to enlist for four years in a class-A reserve unit, with weekly drill periods, such as the National Guard.

If such a reserve unit is not available where the trainee lives, works or goes to school, he would be put into an organized reserve unit for five years service, Gurney added.

Trainees would not be allowed to volunteer under present plans.

Public Urged To Aid Health Dept.

Dr. Clair Turner Stresses Better Understanding Of Problem

Dr. Clair Turner, internationally known authority on health education, spoke at the State Health Department in Louisville last week to a group with special interest in improving health conditions in the state.

Dr. Turner pointed out that the United States is one of only a few countries in the world where people are free to work for and get the kind of health protection they desire.

Speaking in his official capacity, as assistant to the president of The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Dr. Turner said any man on the street can have a part in the program to combat infantile paralysis by contributing a dime or more to that agency, and that such voluntary health agencies as the one he represents, the National Tuberculosis Association, the National Cancer Society, and many others, are possible only in a democratic society.

He urged that more effort be made to acquaint people with health problems, and that doctors, nurses and health workers lend professional guidance to effect understanding about how to combat disease.

The earth's population has doubled in the last century.

Deaths-Funerals

Mrs. Georgia Catilla

Mrs. Georgia Ann Herndon Catilla, 57, died Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marie Darnell, of Fredonia. Mrs. Catilla had been in ill health for some time, but her death was unexpected. She had, a few days earlier, accompanied her husband to an Evansville hospital, where he was at the time of her passing.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Darnell, with whom she was making her home, Mrs. Marion Gray Holloman and Mrs. Pearl Cates, Humboldt, Tenn.; a son, Bruce Catilla, Salem, and two brothers, Edge Herndon, Calvert City, and Thomas Herndon, Owensboro. Several grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian Church, Tuesday afternoon 2 o'clock.

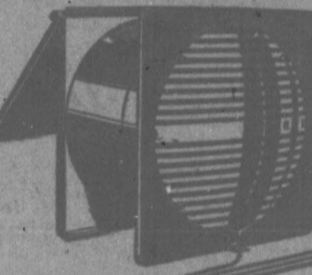

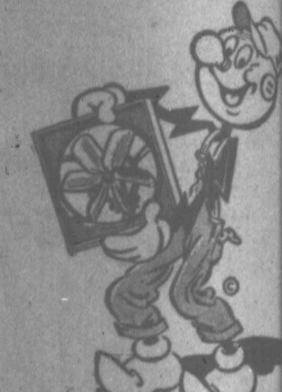

The Manx Church, of the Isle of Man, recently celebrated what it called its anniversary.

George Washington's bride was a tiny watch she wore on a ribbon bowed to her bodice.

Literary Guidepost
STRANGER IN THE EARTH;
THE STORY OF A SEARCH,
by Thomas Sugrue (Holt); $4 Born of Irish Catholic parents in a Connecticut manufacturing town, this author went to college, took a newspaper job, wrote some book reviews, and then some books.

If this is not an unusual progression, it has some most distinctive and perhaps unique aspects, as this fifth book, an autobiographical work, reveals.
For part of his life Sugrue has been seriously crippled; for all of his life he has had nothing whatever the matter with his mind. And out of the legs that refused to function and the brains that couldn't endure an idle second, he has fashioned a volume of penetrating reflections on our times, and the spiritual inadequacy with which we confront them.

The characters are a couple of nurses, attractive and hot; the Professor, an imagined voice of the clock in the hospital room where he undergoes an artificial-fever treatment; Joseph, who is his conscience; and of course fellow students, fellow journalists and friends in many different countries and of different races.

This is in sum a dramatization of the conflict between church and science, and the contrast between what they profess and what they perform; and some very harsh criticisms are uttered of them both, and of you and me, and of Sugrue himself.

Even when we disagree with the author's ideas about how we should mend our ways, we can't deny that our ways badly need mending.
One of the problems in writing a serious book is to get enough people to read it. Sugrue may well have solved this by happily finding a lively and entertaining way to do so. The weighty contents.

Quality, Not Price Is Gauge In Buying

By JOHN L. SPRINGER

NEW YORK—Shopping experts say that if you are trying to beat the high cost of living you should take time to compare good and bad points in the things you buy.

It is a mistake, these experts say, to conclude that simply because an article is high-priced it is better for your purposes than one less costly. Frequently, they say, high-priced goods are made for style and not wear and may have a shorter life than a sturdier article in the lower-price range.

Numerous books have been written to tell how to appraise quality in clothing, furniture and other consumer articles. These books are available in many public libraries. In addition newspapers often publish helpful material of this kind.

Some authorities say, however, that it may be hard for consumers to keep up with the many new materials and products coming onto the market. Even experts such as department store buyers have been fooled by some synthetic textiles, for example.

The solution, says the National Consumer-Retailer Council, Inc., is in more "informative labeling." This council, an organization supported by leading consumer and merchandising groups, urges manufacturers to use labels giving complete information on the quality and performance of their product. It says labels should answer five questions:

What the product is made of, how it is made, what it will do, how to care for it, and how to use it.

The council recommends that you carefully read labels of competitive products before you buy. Retail experts say that where "informative labels" are lacking, you should ask the five questions above of sales clerks. Reputable stores, they say, are eager to give this information since if you know what you are getting you are less likely to be dissatisfied later.

One of the most controversial questions for consumers is "grade labeling," where products are given a score or rating. In the case of many canned foods, products are graded A, B and C and manufacturers who wish may put the grade on their label. Meats also are graded, and many drugs must conform to U.S. Pharmacopoeia specifications and are grade-labeled "U.S.P."

Many consumer groups urge you to buy wherever possible on the basis of grades. They say that in this way you know automatically which product is the best quality. Opponents of grade labeling say, however, that it disregards the question of taste. They argue that a Grade B product may be just as nutritious as one rated Grade A and while its appearance may be off, it may be prepared by the canner so that it is more tasteful and generally more suitable.

Regardless of differences over grade labeling, however, consumer experts agree that you can save money if you compare the facts about competing products and choose the one that is the best value for the purpose you intend.

Gentle Bees May Soon Be With Us

Bees that sting less, gather more honey, and resist disease soon will be available as a result of new discoveries in breeding. So Prof. W. A. Price, head of the entomology department at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, told a meeting of the Kentucky Beekeepers Association.

Applying methods used in artificially breeding dairy cows and in producing hybrid corn, scientists found ways to control queen mating. Thereby they are working to produce superior honey-makers—bees not so anxious to sting, and willing to work harder. They will also produce better pollinizers and bees more resistant to foulbrood.

Plant breeders also are developing plants with more sugar in the nectar, and with flowers having shorter stems, so bees with short tongues can reach the sweet food. If the flower neck of red clover were shorter, bees would work this plant more.

More attention is being given to the use of bees as pollinating agents, Prof. Price said. It has been shown that the yield of red clover seed can be increased from a bushel to the acre, which is about the average yield without bees, to 12 bushels an acre with bees and 100 percent pollination.

The new sulfa drug treatment, coupled with the breeding of disease-resistant bees, will eventually wipe out foulbrood, which has long been a menace to beekeeping, Prof. Price said.

The Dry Lake, six miles west of Wilcox, Arizona, provides one of the world's few permanent mirages. On a clear day a great body of "dry water" may be seen from the highway, extending far back into, and sometimes on top of, distant hills.

Folding Motorcycle

LONDON—(AP)—A collapsible motor cycle that does 130 miles to the gallon has appeared in England. It is a peacetime version of the paratroopers' collapsible motorcycle. With its handlebars folded, it stands 19 inches high and measures 53 inches long and 13 inches wide. It runs 30 m.p.h. and weighs 95 pounds.

Oldest Jockey Gives Credit To Sorbiety

BRUSSELS—(AP)—Julien Swijsen, small, almost toothless, claims that at the age of 83 he is the oldest practicing jockey in the world. Swijsen, whose home is at Tournai, a historic town on the Belgian-French border, disputes claims that the world's oldest jockey still riding is in the United States. Last year's turf annuals, he says, recorded an 80-year old jockey riding in America. Swijsen, emphasizing he has just renewed his license, says: "I shall certainly not retire this year."

He recalls he started riding at the age of three "when, as an orphan, I was picked up by a horse trader." Since then his life has been spent with horses. His greatest success on the turf was with Apollon, which he bought "for a song" from a Dutchman. "For years Apollon won victory after victory on the turf in Belgium, France, England and Holland," he says. Swijsen attributes his fitness to the 40-mile bicycle rides he takes regularly and to the fact he "loves his work and keeps sober."

Francis Cardinal Spellman of the Archdiocese of New York was presented with "The Ring of the True Cross" by Pope Pius XII. It is set with a large sapphire surrounded by diamonds and contains a relic of the True Cross.

Add a few grains of salt in making a cup of cocoa or chocolate; vanilla and cinnamon are also good flavor additions.

Sales Tax Suggested

By U.K. Professor
Dr. J. E. Reeves, University of Kentucky political scientist, has come up with a suggestion that Kentucky should levy a three per cent sales tax on all retail items except food. The money thus raised (estimated to bring in between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 a year) would be used to provide essential services to school children and to the ill and needy, according to the "Reeves Plan."

FORT WAYNE—(AP)—Members of the Fort Wayne Zollner Pistons of the National Basketball League did some fast figuring on the number of miles they traveled during the 1947-48 season, and discovered that had it all been in a straight line they could have circled the globe—exhibitions, regular season contests and playoff tilts put 25,000 miles on the Fort Wayne speedometer.

Only Woman Homesteader of 1947 Makes Good

By Ruth E. King
(AP NEWSFEATURES)

Tule Lake, Calif. — The only woman among 86 veterans who drew homesteads a year ago in the rich Tule Lake farming country was a tall, blonde named Eleanor Jane Bolesta.

Blonde and 25, she is the wife of Charles H. Bolesta, an ex-Marine who stopped two Japanese sniper bullets just before the war ended.

Eleanor gives "Chuck" the major credit for their first successful crop season, and calls "our farm" the 113 acres of reclaimed lake bottom she drew a year ago at Klamath Falls, Ore. It was her lucky number that won it.

She says her good luck that day "is still a dream."

The problems the Bolestas have tackled in their first year of homesteading, however, are hardly the stuff of dreams.

Chuck Bolesta grew up in a midwestern city, with no farming experience. In a year he has learned to assemble or service farm machinery and can plow as straight a furrow as any of his neighbors who have been in the business since 1932.

Eleanor had grown up on Whidby Island, Washington, where her father ran a dairy, so she knew something about farming.

But along came Peggy Jane Bolesta five months ago (first girl born to a 1947 homesteader) so Eleanor didn't get to run the new tractor. She did, however, help dig a 32-foot well with a post-hole digger which now supplies the household and livestock with plenty of water.

She was responsible, too, for the first chicken crop, and now trades eggs to a neighbor for milk.

Last winter, with a foot of snow on the ground, Eleanor parked Peggy Jane in her crib and seeded by hand a 30-acre patch of clover. Footwork still is difficult for Chuck.

Eleanor expects to do more this year, now that the baby has arrived, and expects to make up time on the tractor. She and Chuck plan to plant 20 to 80 acres of potatoes—a new crop to them both.

Chuck and Eleanor acknowledged that it took a lot of figuring to get together the necessary "cash or its equivalent" to meet Bureau of Reclamation requirements for filing for their homestead.

They were wondering which way to turn for Chuck to make a living when word came through that Eleanor's number was in one of the lucky capsules at the land drawing.

By the time they had moved two Japanese barrack buildings from the war relocation center, and had lived several months out of their savings, they were scraping the bottom of the barrel.

They borrowed money for a new tractor, a plow, and enough barley to seed the entire farm.

Neighbors loaned them other equipment.

The barley crop was good, and the harvest pulled the Bolestas out of debt. This year they start with a clean slate.

The barrack buildings that came with the land still provide a home, a chicken house and a machine shed.

A small white pig who lives in an old vinegar barrel will be bacon, lard and meat next winter.

Young chickens just feathering out will provide more eggs later.

A dozen raspberry twigs shoot leaves in the garden.

There is a new washing machine in the kitchen.

Eleanor sums it up: "It just couldn't happen anywhere else except in America."

MACFADDEN TAKES A WIFE — Bernard MacFadden, 79-year-old physical culturist, and his bride, the former Mrs. Jonnie Lee, 42, leave the church in Miami Beach, Fla., amid a barrage of rice after their marriage. A woman, often seen leading a goat around downtown Miami and known only as "the goat woman" shouted, "This is against the Holy Word. It is illegal," during the ceremony. She was promptly evicted from the church. (AP Wirephoto)

The undersigned, Urey B. Chambers, Willard Moore and Ralph Randolph, having associated themselves together to form a limited partnership, hereby execute and publish the following statement, to-wit:

The names and address of the partners are: Ralph Randolph, general partner, Princeton, Kentucky; Urey B. Chambers, special partner, Princeton, Kentucky; Willard Moore, special partner, Princeton, Kentucky.

The name of the firm is: Randolph Motors, and the nature of the business shall be the operation of a garage and automobile sales agency for the sale of automobiles and related products and for the repair and maintenance of motor vehicles and rendering of service related thereto, which business shall be transacted in Princeton, Kentucky.

The amount contributed by each partner is as follows: Ralph Randolph—$13,333.33; Urey B. Chambers—$13,333.33; Willard Moore—$13,333.33.

In the beginning clearing, road and fence building were largely carried on by the Civilian Conservation Corps. At the same time nurseries were erected into which were brought the first small stock of trees. Later the young trees were transplanted to permanent spots throughout the acreage, by botanical families and groups. For instance, the various species of oak, pine, the locusts, redbud and acacia trees.

In addition, there were already a good many native trees growing on the property. These have been utilized in the general landscaping of the area. Individual specimen plantings also figure in the general planning of the Arboretum. These will show for instance, the Norway maple as it grows here, a certain type of hemlock and other varieties of trees. These will give students opportunity for more detailed research.

Only the woody flowering trees and shrubs will be grown in the Arboretum. These include eight acres of hybrid azaleas and a large planting of flowering crab apple trees, just completed. Sixteen miles of roads and trails are planned through the wooded land, but there will be only one building. This will house administrative offices and an herbarium to contain dried specimens winter-fwy mfwy rwy specimens of plants—leaf, stem, flower—also like a library, for study purposes, especially in winter.

It is expected that botanists and plant life students from all over the world will visit the Arboretum after its completion.

Job Total Will Set New Record During Summer

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Washington — Jobs in America are expected to reach the highest total in history this summer, outnumbering last year's record 60,000,000.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said today employment in March was running 1,000,000 higher than in March, 1947.

"If, during the coming spring, the economy merely follows the normal seasonal pattern of increases in construction and agriculture and declines in the textiles and apparel industries," Clague said, "it is obvious that early this summer employment will reach a new peak exceeding last year's record of 60,000,000."

Clague said spending on European recovery and recent defense measures so far have had "no direct impact upon the demand for labor." But he added that anticipation of these measures "has tended to stimulate buying."

Clague said there are about 1,000,000 more veterans in the labor force now than a year ago.

There are about 800,000 more women. More labor is still available from these two sources," he said.

There are more than 1,000,000 veterans now in school on a full-time basis, and a substantial number of these will be completing their course this spring.

Unemployment — compensation claims on the whole were shown to be about 5-percent below last year's level. The industrial Midwest continued with the lowest unemployment level — slightly above 2 percent.

Crosses dating from the 5th century have been found on the British Isle of Man.

Girl's Letters Spur International Relief

WORTHINGTON, Minn. — (AP)—Tons of relief supplies have been shipped from Worthington to war-shattered Crailsheim, Germany. And about 200 citizens of each town write to each other. It all started when Martha Cashel, 11 years old, began writing to a girl in Finland.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cashel, after sending gifts to their daughter's friends, sponsored extension of the project. Crailsheim was chosen through Crailsheim Relief Agencies Licensed to Operate in Germany (CRALOG) because it was similar in size and makeup to Worthington.

The idea caught on, although some veterans opposed it at first. Worthington sponsors of the plan it has paid off change of ideas and plans doing good work.

Library Of Trees

WASHINGTON—A living "library" of trees is in the growing on more than 400 acres on the outskirts of the District of Columbia. Though established by Act of Congress in 1927, several more years will be required before the National Arboretum reaches its full proportions. Some parts, however, will be opened to the public in 1950.

The original appropriation for land was for $300,000. Three additional Congressional appropriations have been granted since. When completed the Arboretum will boast between 4,000 and 5,000 varieties of "woody things" that can be kept out of doors the year around in this part of the country.

In the beginning clearing, road and fence building were largely carried on by the Civilian Conservation Corps. At the same time nurseries were erected into which were brought the first small stock of trees. Later the young trees were transplanted to permanent spots throughout the acreage, by botanical families and groups. Philadelphia convention.
 The third man, leaders say, will be Tom Underwood, Lexington newspaper editor. Underwood, campaign manager for Clements, is slated to replace J.
 Lyter Donaldson as chairman of the State Committee.
 In addition to the positions of importance to which they might be named, Clements, Barkley and Underwood will just about rule all other phases of the state convention as well as controlling the policy of the party at least for the next four years, observers say.
 To date there is no indication there will be the slightest defection in the Kentucky delegation's unanimous support of President Truman for renomi-nation. Clements and Donaldson have publicly refused to allow Kentucky to become identified with the so-called "Southern revolt against Truman."
 So far as indorsement of a choice for vice-president, there is no doubt of the Kentucky delegation's support of Barkley, assuming the senior senator is a candidate. Otherwise, the delegation probably will go along with the President's choice.
 There is little or no speculation on selection of a national committeewoman. The incumbent, Mrs. T. C. Carroll, Shep-herdsville, has not indicated whether she will be a candidate for re-election, leaders say.
 One party leader suggested the name of Mrs. Richard G.
 Williams, Somerset, as a possible candidate. He reasoned that selection of Mrs. Williams, whose husband, member of the State Committee and active in the defeat of Harry Lee Waterfield, defeated by Clements for the nomination, would be "a wise political move to further cement party lines."
 In any case, there is no doubt the convention will be free of any major controversy with "Boss Clements" strictly in the driver's seat.

Spring Festival Nets Music Departments $120

Vocal and instrumental departments at Butler High School will divide $120.94 taken in Friday night for admissions to the Spring Music Festival presented in the gym by approximately 200 pupils, according to Miss Betty Lindle, vocal director.
