Zade Nahhas is a candidate for the Professional Performance Certificate at Lynn University. A Native of Niles, Ohio, Zade's tuba playing began at age 10 and started studying privately in high school with Belinda

Yaksich. He holds degrees in performance from Ohio University and Youngstown State University. Zade performed with the Warren Philharmonic Orchestra, W.D. Packard Concert Band, and the Youngstown Fine Arts Brass. His teachers include Kenneth Amis, Brian Kiser, Jason Roland Smith, and John Turk. Additional studies with Craig Knox and Ronald Bishop. In addition to performing in northeast Ohio, Zade maintained a private studio of twenty tuba/euphonium students.

He was a participant in the Sewanee Summer Music Festival, Las Vegas Music Festival, Rafael Mendez Brass Institute, and the Menlo Summer Brass Institute. In 2006, Zade performed at the International Tuba/Euphonium Conference in Denver, Colorado. In 2004 and 2005, he performed with the Youngstown State University Symphonic Wind Ensemble and the Ohio University Wind Ensemble at the Ohio Music Educators Conference. Zade recorded with the Youngstown State University Symphonic Wind Ensemble on their fourth C.D. entitled Spin Cycle.
