Jeff Adkins is a native of West Palm Beach, FL. He began playing the double bass at the age of 8 in a public school strings program under the direction of Andy Matskow. He went on to study with Mik Groniger (Principal bass, Palm Beach Opera). While in attending the middle and high schools of the arts, Jeff was exposed to many different musical avenues including big band jazz and classical. After graduating from the Dreyfoos School of the arts, Jeff won scholarships to study both jazz and classical double bass and chose to continue his studies at the Lynn Conservatory. His principal teachers at Lynn have been Shigeru Ishikawa (Principal bass, Bern Philharmonic), Mark Alison Morton (Principal bass, Columbus Symphony), and most recently Tim Cobb (Principal bass, Metropolitan Opera). Jeff still resides in West Palm Beach where he performs regularly as a jazz and classical bassist. He also enjoys coaching younger bass players with the Youth Orchestra of Palm Beach County and in the public school system. He is currently in his third year at Lynn and hopes to pursue a master's degree with Professor Tim Cobb. In his time off, Jeff loves to fish in the great Florida outdoors.
