South Florida-based bassoonist Joshua Luty is currently a senior at Lynn Conservatory of Music, studying under Prof. Eric Varner A native of Sarasota, FL, he began his studies at the age of 17 with Fernando Traba, principal bassoonist of the Sarasota Orchestra. Advancing in great strides, Mr. Luty appeared as a soloist with the Riverview High School String Orchestra at the age of 18. While at Lynn he discovered a fondness for contemporary music and has been an important contributing instrumentalist in the Lynn New Music Ensemble. In other musical pursuits he is an aspiring composer, studying under Dr. Thomas L. McKinley, Professor of Composition at Lynn Conservatory. His works are regularly premiered each year at the Young Composers Spotlight, part of Lynn Conservatory’s annual New Music Festival. Mr. Luty is a member of the International Double Reed Society and in 2012 was named Associate Editor of TrevCo Music Publishing, a Sarasota-based publishing house devoted to serving the needs of oboists & bassoonists worldwide. As an editor he is committed to excellence on the written page. As a bassoonist he strives to achieve the same level of excellence in his own playing.

Dubbed “an oboe force of nature” by Joseph Robinson, Kelsey Maiorano first indulged in the arts in the forms of ballet, singing, acting and piano. A native of Davidson, North Carolina, the hometown of the WDAV classical public radio station, Kelsey’s fascination with the orchestra lead her to the oboe. After winning various awards throughout the state, she became principal oboe in her first orchestra at thirteen, a local university orchestra. The next year, Kelsey was accepted into the conservatory of music at the University of North Carolina School of the Arts (UNCSA) where she was actively involved in its prestigious chamber music program, as well as the symphony orchestra, wind ensemble, and the AJ Fletcher Opera Institute. A defining moment in her UNCSA experience was a performance of Rimsky-Korsakov’s Sheherazade, where her solo was lauded as “a highlight of the second movement” by CVNC, an online arts journal based in North Carolina. After receiving her UNCSA high school diploma "with special concentration in oboe", Kelsey relocated to Boca Raton, Florida to study with Joseph Robinson at the Lynn University Conservatory of Music. Kelsey has collaborated with musicians throughout the Americas, performing in a chamber setting at the Domaine Forget international music festival in Québec, Canada as well as teaching and giving master classes in Manizales, Colombia. In 2010 she recorded Tchaikovsky’s The Nutcracker under the baton of the American Ballet Theater’s principal conductor, Charles Barker; this production broadcasts annually on PBS. Along with her beloved teacher, Kelsey has been guided by oboe masters Christoph Hartmann, Alex Klein, Hansjörg Schellenberger and Stefan Schilli, as well as english horn with Pedro Díaz. In 2014 she was a winner of the National Society of Arts and Letters’ Florida East Coast Chapter Competition for Flute, Clarinet and Oboe, and was also elected the designation of “honorable mention” for the 2014 Yamaha Young Performing Artists Competition.
