

The will to win,

the desire to succeed,

the urge to reach your full potential ...

these are the keys that will unlock the door to personal excellence.

Welcome to commencement

The key that you are wearing on your tassel today represents the many doors that your education at Lynn will open for you.

During your time here, you were among the first college students in the nation to experience boundless classrooms with iPad-powered learning. You gained a global mindset with peers from 100 countries. And for many of you, that global experience extended well beyond campus as you studied in programs around the world. Some of you earned national championship trophies. Some of you graduated at warp speed through Lynn's accelerated degree programs. Some of you have already connected with your future employers through the career center.

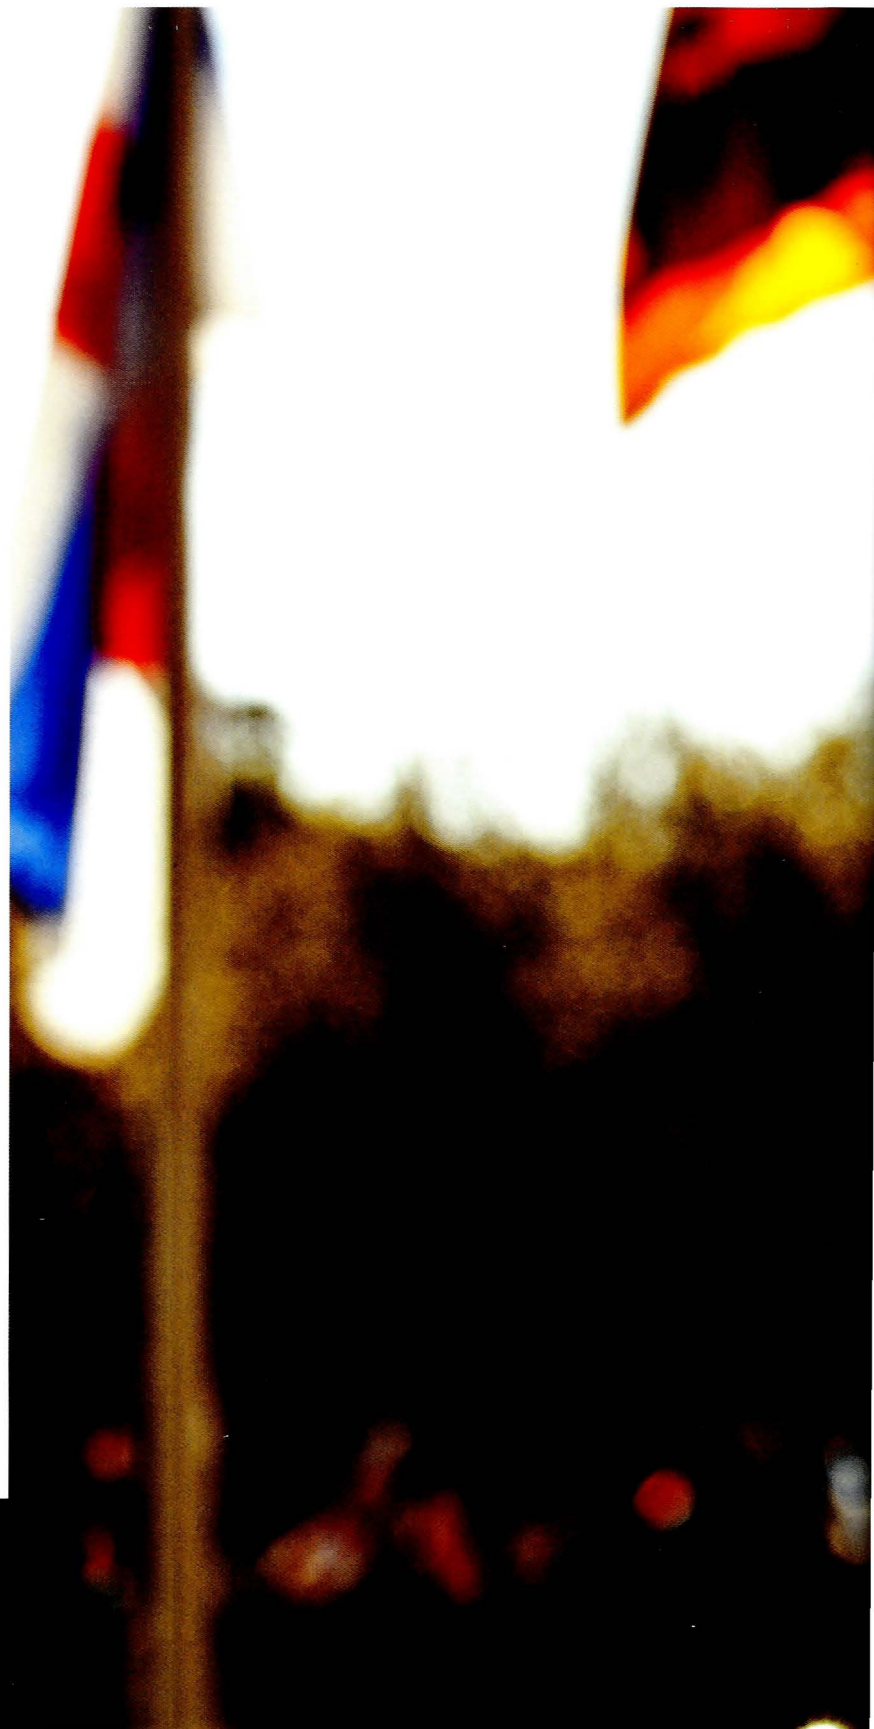

And all of you are now part of a proud tradition of Lynn University graduates who leave here with the intellectual flexibility to achieve your potential and build a better world.

Wear your tassel key proudly, graduate. We hope this memento will help you, our newest alumni, remember your home, your friends and your life-affirming experiences at Lynn University.

Congratulations, class of 2018.

Distinguished Alumni Award recipient, Lauren Cecchi, '11, '12

“Say ‘yes’! Even if you’re scared of taking your next step, just saying ‘yes’ opens up a lot of doors and opportunities.”

—Lauren Cecchi

Lauren Cecchi, B.S., business administration, class of 2011, MBA, class of 2012, is receiving the 2018 Distinguished Alumni Award for her early career achievements and her devotion to her alma mater.

Cecchi, 29, is the CEO and creative director of Lauren Cecchi New York, the luxury Italian leather handbag and accessories company she launched in 2013. Her classic designs, made in New York’s Garment District, have graced runways and fashion magazines like Cosmopolitan and Vogue. One of only 11 entrepreneurs tapped from 2,000 applicants for The Workshop at Macy’s program in 2017, Cecchi debuted her first exclusive Macy’s Collection at Macy’s Herald Square in December, with a second line due in 2018.

Cecchi, who hails from Madison, Connecticut, found Lynn’s fashion program, diversity and beautiful, sunny campus a perfect fit from the start. “I felt like I belonged there,” she recalls. “I absolutely loved Lynn. I really enjoyed the teachers and my classmates.”

As a student, she took J-Terms in Uruguay and Argentina; attended fashion weeks in New York, Las Vegas and Los Angeles; and studied abroad in Italy, Greece and Turkey. Cecchi was an intern at Bloomingdale’s and an event planner at Mar-a-Lago before going on to earn her MBA in international business. Working as an assistant buyer in New York City right out of Lynn, she soon found a fashion void she could fill—making her own stylish designs proudly in the U.S.

Now Cecchi mentors Lynn students via internships at her company, is active in the New York alumni group, and even welcomes new students with personal notes, as she did last year. She also gives her time and merchandise to local charities, such as the Bowery Mission and a rehabilitation program for formerly incarcerated teens. “You have to give to get,” says Cecchi. “I fully intend to change the world of fashion one hand-stitched handbag at a time.”

Speakers

Commencement speaker, Ron D. Cordes

After building AssetMark Investment Services into a leading firm with some $30 billion of assets under management, Ron Cordes and his partners sold the company to Genworth Financial for $230 million in 2006. That year, with $10 million from the proceeds, Cordes and wife Marty created the family foundation they'd always dreamed of. Daughter Stephanie joined them in 2014.

Their portfolio supports social entrepreneurs, backing microfinance and other poverty alleviation initiatives as well as efforts that empower women and girls in developing nations.

"I went from trying to build the best business in the world to building the best businesses for the world," Cordes told Forbes.

As a financial manager, Cordes found he could get solid returns and make a greater impact than with a traditional philanthropic fund by also making impact investments in social causes.

"As an entrepreneur, I liked the idea that I could help build, and invest in, companies that solved problems," he has said. The foundation now has investments in over 50 countries, including Haiti, Nicaragua, Uganda, Rwanda and India. Cordes said he learned that humility, empathy and listening are critical when supporting communities in cultivating effective solutions.

In 2011, Cordes helped create the donor-advised fund platform ImpactAssets, which has $350 million of assets. His foundation owns a significant interest in the $400 million microfinance-based fund manager MicroVest. He is on their boards as well as those of Fair Trade USA and Lynn University's Social Impact Lab.

The lab's director, Jerry Hildebrand, has been a member of the Cordes Foundation's board since its beginning, and for the past decade the foundation has worked closely with Hildebrand on several university-based initiatives.

"I am passionate about helping students find their purpose in the world," said Cordes. "We just committed to help fund the summer Ambassador Corps program at the Social Impact Lab, and we're looking for other ways to support the lab's work."

A resident of New York City, Cordes holds a B.S. in business administration and management from the University of California, Berkeley, and co-authored The Art of Investing and Portfolio Management. He was an Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year in 2005.

Student speaker, Ka Lynn Serena Robinson '18

Ka Lynn Serena Robinson is graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in fashion and retail.

Robinson began sketching clothing in fifth grade. The oldest of three, she is from Plantation, Florida. At Plantation High School, Robinson was in the International Baccalaureate program, marching band and concert band. She entered Lynn University's 3-year bachelor's degree program with 15 college credits. At Lynn, she made the dean's list and President's Honor Society.

She received the dean's scholarship and the Shining Star Award for campus involvement. As a peer leader and resident assistant, she mentored dozens of students. As president of the Black Student Union for the past two years, she grew its presence on campus.

In addition to working in the library, Robinson served as a PR intern and student photographer in the Office of Marketing and Communication. She also interned as a photographer's assistant off campus and an editor for the internet media company Odyssey. Most recently she co-founded Feminist Fridays, a discussion group at the Lynn Women's Center.

Through her lifestyle blog, therosedit.com, Robinson combines her love of writing and photography. "Every part of your life is like a petal, and as you start to face that part of life, it's like you're blooming," she said of her honest treatment of topics that range from skin care and self-care to depression and toxic relationships. "I want to pass on the things I'm learning so we're blooming together."

Now applying for marketing jobs and considering graduate school, Robinson says she'd love to work in the beauty industry one day. Speaking at commencement is a dream come true, one that would have overwhelmed her with anxiety just a few years ago. "Me from high school and me now are two different people," she said.

As a little girl, watching her mother earn her degree made an impact. "A college degree was an opportunity for my family to do better," Robinson said. "A degree gives you an opportunity to follow your dreams—or help other people follow theirs."

Traditions

2018 class gift

Every year, graduating students leave their legacy at Lynn by donating to the class gift. The class of 2018 joins this proud tradition and honors those who have supported them by contributing to the Alumni Pay It Forward Endowed Scholarship. This scholarship is awarded to deserving incoming freshmen in need of financial assistance so they can one day fulfill their potential. The university is grateful to the class of 2018 for “paying it forward” and to the Student Philanthropy Team for fostering philanthropy among students and encouraging graduating students to uphold the class gift tradition.

Academic regalia

The academic robes and hoods worn by the faculty and students lend color to the pageantry of commencement. This regalia dates back to the medieval ages, when it served a functional as well as an ornamental role, separating the learned men from other groups and offering warmth and protection.

In America in the late 19th century, representatives of colleges and universities held a conference to bring order and system to the custom of academic dress. Since then, there have been periodic conferences to revise or reconfirm existing practices.

Undergraduates wear the black robes with the white collars. Holders of the master's degree wear hoods, which are lined with the colors of the college conferring the degree and trimmed with the color representing the subject in which the degree was earned. The doctoral robe is adorned with velvet and is also worn with the hood suitably ornamented.

Holders of degrees from foreign universities or religious orders wear the entire academic costume as decreed by the conferring institution.

The gonfalons

The gonfalons, a tradition that originated in the civic rituals of 12th century Italy, are a part of Lynn University's academic ceremonial protocol.

Lynn University designed the gonfalons in accordance with the standards established for all colleges and universities, and each bears the college's unique symbolic color. The university seal is presented on each gonfalon to embody the common bonds that unite faculty and students as members of one academic community. The vice president for academic affairs, in consultation with the academic deans, selects the faculty members honored to serve as gonfalon bearers.

The ceremonial academic mace

The academic mace dates back to the 14th century, when royalty, magistrates, and church or university officials carried maces in official processions. The design of the ceremonial academic mace incorporates elements from royal scepters and battle maces, representing both leadership and strength.

During the commencement ceremony, the mace indicates the authority of the university president to award degrees. The chief marshal carries the mace.

The Lynn University mace consists of a three-foot-tall wood scepter with a bronze cast of the Lynn University seal on the top. It was designed in 2002 by Graphic Design Professor Emeritus Ernest Ranspach, who presented it to then-Lynn University President Donald E. Ross in honor of 30 years of leadership and service.

We did it!

Class of 2018 graduates helped Lynn complete its Lynn 2020 strategic plan two years ahead of schedule. Today, Lynn is recognized as one of America's most innovative, international and individualized universities.

Home, sweet home

The class of 2018 helped celebrate the opening of Mary and Harold Perper Residence Hall. Completed in 2017, Lynn's newest residence hall is home to 170 upperclassmen and features apartment-style rooms with modern furnishings and private bathrooms, plus study areas, lounges and a courtyard.

Showstoppers

Lynn's NCAA Division II Fighting Knights finished 4-4-1 in the first-ever series against Division I schools. Aptly named the South Florida Showdown (#SoFloShow), the series proved Lynn teams triumph at the highest level of NCAA competition.

Alma Mater

Music and lyrics by Joe Carey
Choral arrangement by Rick Krive

Under skies of blue
We've made friends so true
From every corner of the world
Celebrating different cultures
Made us see our world anew.

From this caring place
We will squarely face
The challenge of our destiny
Like our Fighting Knights
We'll lift hearts and sights
And we'll go forth in victory.

And if our blue skies should turn to grey days
Or we misplace a dream or two
We'll remember Alma Mater
And then Her spirit will see us through.

So let's raise our voice
In a proud refrain
Remembering good times we all knew
Hail all hail our Alma Mater
Lynn University ... Here's to you!
