VOLUME XLVII

The New Breed

Today's college student is one of a new breed. Living in the space age has made him aware of the need for tremendous intellectual ability and achievement. Awareness of the rapidly shrinking world has emphasized the need to relate to others in satisfying ways while still maintaining his own individual personality. He has lived in an age of cultural opportunities and appreciates beauty and charm. He is proud of his college and enthusiastic and spirited about its athletics.

In these ways, then, the modern collegian is different. The Bridgewater student is typically unique from the college student of the past, academically, socially, culturally, and athletically. The 1968 RIPPLES pictures the challenges and accomplishments of these unique students, THE NEW BREED.

The Moline Cross divides the college seal into four equal parts. The fleur-de-lis is the crest of the family of D. C. Flory, founder of the college, and the open book symbolizes knowledge and the fight against ignorance. The cardinal and the dogwood branch are symbols of Virginia, and in the lower right corner is the personal seal of Alexander Mack, founder of the Church of the Brethren. The crest is topped by a two-headed eagle representing the college's athletic teams. The motto is translated "beauty, goodness, truth, and harmony."

To Two of The New Breed

For their time given unselfishly to all areas of campus life,
For their friendship always offered when it is needed,
For the honors their activities have brought to our college and to themselves,
For their sparkling humor and enthusiasm,
For simply being themselves,
We dedicate this 1968 RIPPLES to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kline.

Mrs. Kline listens to a question in her educational psychology class.

Mr. Kline helps Sandy Fagan create form from a lump of clay.

Mr. Kline clocks Terry Westhafer in the mile relay.

Mrs. Kline goes over test profiles.

Mr. Kline works on a welded design.

CLASSES

The new breed at Bridgewater College adjusted to the largest student body in the school's history as more than nine hundred students overflowed classrooms, the dining hall, and most dormitories. Coming from as far away as Maine, Louisiana, Arizona, and Hong Kong, students brought varied backgrounds and experiences to college life but soon molded them into the distinct world of life at Bridgewater.

The Senior Class

Elated with themselves for finally becoming seniors, the class of 1968 looked back on many achievements. -Being the largest graduating class in the history of the school, electing nine to Who's Who, and winning the homecoming float competition for four years were highlights, while the presentation of the class gift and graduation activities climaxed their years at Bridgewater.

The Junior Class

Finding themselves more than half through, juniors concentrated on major subjects, thinking about graduate school, and taking over leadership roles from the graduating seniors. Money raising projects also took much of their time, as class members found how expensive a junior-senior banquet can be.

The Freshman Class

Being the largest freshman class in the history of the college was one distinction of the class of 1971. Greeted with beanies, orientation sessions, and the EAGLE, freshmen soon found their place in campus life. A slave sale to help raise money for class projects and a homecoming float depicting the post war baby boom were highlights of class activities.

ACADEMICS

The new breed at Bridgewater College confronted a more challenging academic atmosphere. The initiation of new minimum scholarship requirements gave students a clearer picture of their academic performance. The installation of a computer led to courses in its use and revolutionized testing in other fields, while other new courses and new professors brought different insights to academic life at Bridgewater.

Mathematics Curriculum

Stephen Ip challenges the computer to a game of tic-tac-toe as Prof. White watches.

"Beware! High speed electrons at work!" greeted visitors to the C. E. Shull Computing Center, the most significant innovation in the math department. The computer, which had been awaited for almost two years, expanded the math curriculum to include three courses in computer science and also aided all professors in grading and evaluating tests. Numerical analysis was also added to the department's offerings, in addition to the usual introductory and advanced courses.

Professor Bowman hands out test papers to his expectant students.

Music Department Gains Equipment

New equipment enlarged the resources of the music department, giving music majors and others interested broader experiences. A Chinese gong and chimes as well as other orchestral and band instruments added interest to performances by musical groups, while equipment for recording and stereo listening apparatus aided the student.

New Faces Added To English Department

The addition of four new faces changed the look of the English department. New books were also used in the freshman course in addition to the usual manual for term papers. An accelerated program allowed some freshmen to go directly into the sophomore course and to take another more advanced course to complete the rest of their requirement. Majors studied courses ranging from American authors to modern poetry and from creative writing to literary criticism.

Havana Graduate Joins Language Faculty

The addition of a graduate of the University of Havana, Dr. Antonio Martinez, to the faculty of the foreign language department gave students of Spanish a chance to learn a realistic accent. Laboratory sessions, class discussions, slides, and guest speakers highlighted the teaching of Spanish, German, and French, which were taken by some as a major and others as a requirement. The number of majors was the highest ever this year, and there was also a new high in the number studying abroad.

Studies Vary In Economics And Business

Areas of study in the business and economics departments ranged from the finer points of contract law to the packaging of soap flakes. Growing emphasis on careers in the business world brought many non-majors into these departments to take practical courses which might prove useful on the job.

Religion Department Teaches Basis Of Beliefs

From a basic understanding of the Bible to more sophisticated studies of Christian ethics and the place of religion in our culture, students in the philosophy and religion department struggled with concepts, definition of terms, and spelling of those Hebrew names. In addition to facts many learned the basis for their long-held beliefs.

Dr. Willoughby makes a point in his course on the world's religions.

Education Department Gives Professional Advice

Because more Bridgewater graduates go into teaching than into any other field, the education department offers valuable aid to many. Both elementary and secondary courses are offered, and new equipment, field trips, and expanded student teaching facilities give prospective teachers a head start.

History Department Emphasizes Politics

In answer to the growing need for information on matters of government and politics, Dr. Herman Horn joined the history department as a specialist in political science. New courses in this area interested many students in the functions of government and allowed history majors to expand their knowledge of history in the making.

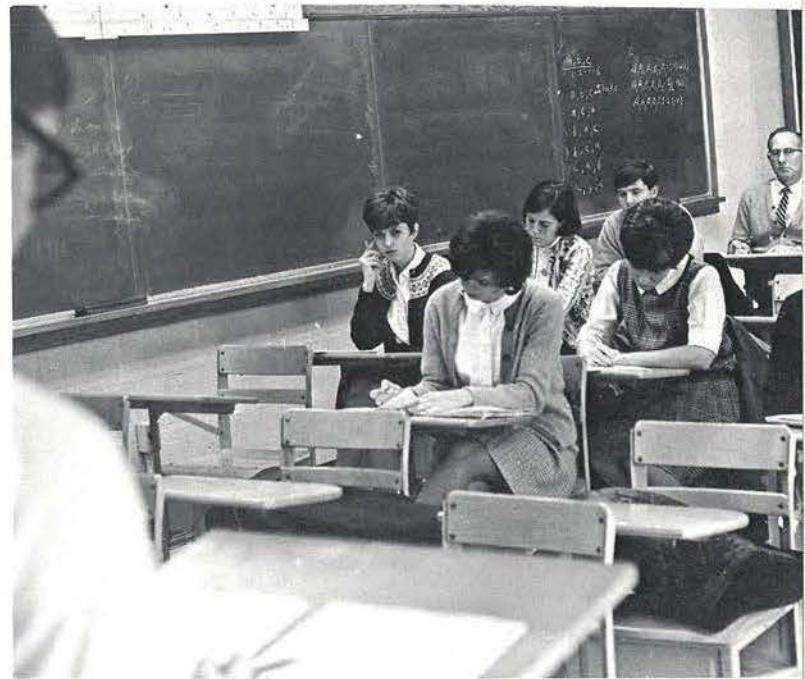

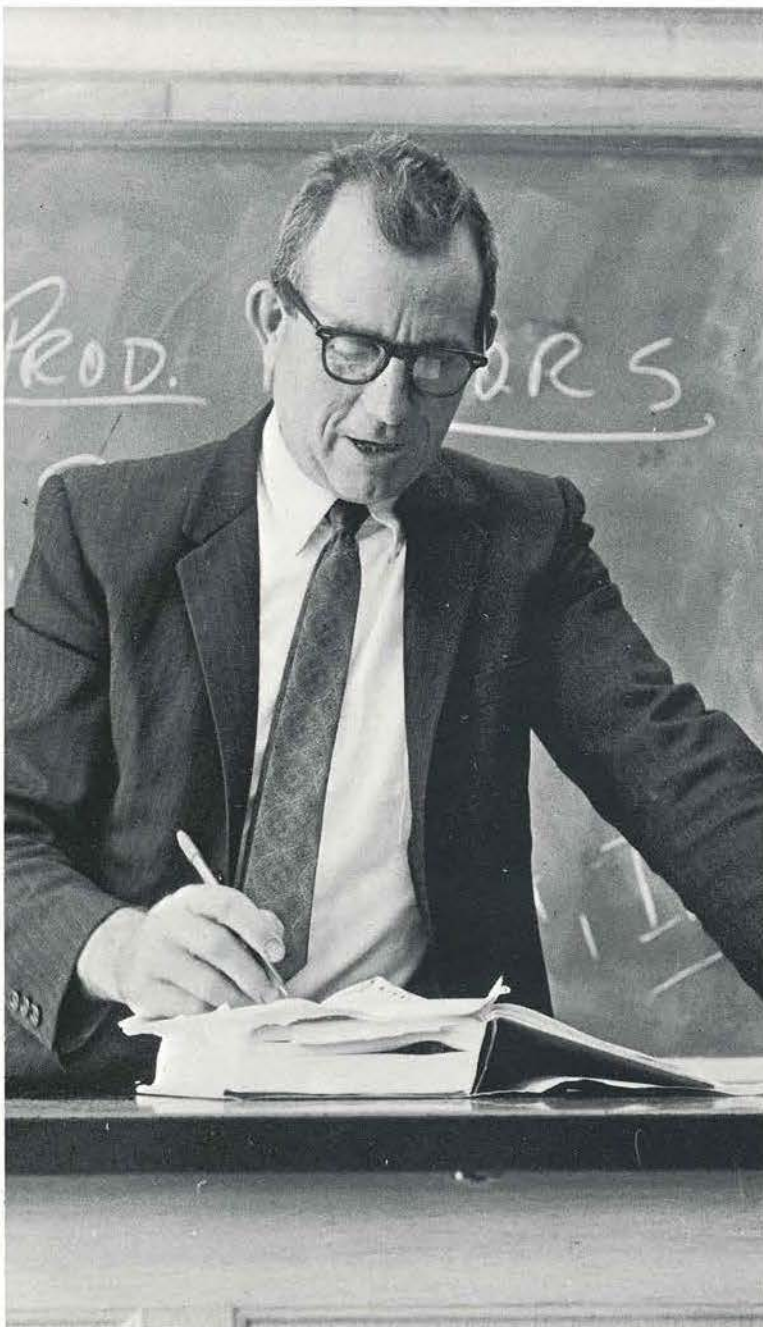

Dr. Horn shares an anecdote with one of his political science classes.

Physics Department Gets New Equipment

Phil LaMar and Charlie Kipps study the interaction of pulleys, weights and measures.

Among the new equipment in the physics department were a 1.5-meter grating spectrograph and a microwave set. Two new professors were added to the department, which took on the added responsibility for teaching the general physical science course.

Dr. Neher uses the board to illustrate a problem.

A new faculty member, Dr. Frederick Keihn, joined the chemistry department this year, enlarging the faculty. Students taking chemistry, either as a major or for the general science requirement, benefitted from new equipment.

ACTIVITIES

The New Breed at Bridgewater College broadened its education with co-curricular activities. Groups like Senate and the Honor Council worked for the smooth execution of campus life, while others like the Concert Choir and Debate Club brought honor to the school, and still others, such as the Mu and Business Club enabled individuals to develop their specific interests.

Who's Who Among Students In American Universities And Colleges

Selected by the faculty and student body for their promise of future success, contributions to campus life, academic standing, participation in co-curricular activities, and citizenship, these nine seniors received the highest honor given by the college, membership in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Senate Voices Student Concerns

Organized under a revised constitution, the Senate represented student opinion in all phases of campus life. Membership was reorganized and attendance rules enforced, so that each student was better represented. Campus communications were improved through increased membership on administrative councils. The Senate also undertook such campus projects as putting up a travel board and raising over $5,000 for the student union building.

Lambda Society Recognizes Achievement

To encourage academic and intellectual achievement, the Lambda Society recognizes upperclassmen with a 3.2 average by granting them associate membership. Those who graduate with honors may then be elected to full membership, as may faculty members of intellectual distinction. Dinner meetings and guest speakers like Nathan Leopold are sponsored by this group.

Dr. Wampler, Dr. Mumper, and Dr. Willoughby, president, prepare for induction ceremony of new associate members.

Debaters Study Economic Question

Debating "Resolved that the federal government should guarantee a minimum annual cash income to all citizens," members of the Debate Club traveled to tournaments from Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana, to Columbia University in New York City. Several faculty members belonged to DSR-TKA, national honorary debate fraternity.

Membership in DSR-TKA includes Mr. Bowman, Dr. McFadden, Dr. Sappington, Dr. Silliman, Mr. May, and Mr. Replogle.

Ernie Deyerle demonstrates his technique at a practice debate.

Hoping to change the name of the paper, members of the B.C. BEE staff worked hard taking polls of student opinion. THE TALON was finally chosen as the new name and was approved by the Senate. Members of the staff were also kept busy meeting deadlines and making trips to the printer and trying to measure up to the First Class Honor Rating given by the ACP to the 1967 editions of the paper.

Editor Bob Prater makes plans for a coming issue of the paper.

Le Cercle Francais Starts French Table

One of the projects of Le Cercle Francais was a French table on Wednesday nights where members ate together and spoke only French. Other activities included a French newspaper, a cheese fondue party, picnics, skits, and the yearly trip to Washington to attend a French church service and enjoy French cuisine. Wayne Miller, Louise Fitch, and Carolyn Martin shared their experiences in Strasbourg with the group and presented a program of slides. The Christmas banquet was highlighted by a speaker from Paris.

Joanne Lehman, Betty Loomis, Pat Manlove, Carolyn Martin, Marianne May, Marie VanMeter, and Diane Miller chat about the day's events in French at the Wednesday night French table.

Young Americans For Freedom Organized

Newly organized on the Bridgewater campus this year, the Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative youth organization, has a national membership of over 40,000. The Bridgewater chapter worked to promote interest in political issues and keep students informed by sponsoring speakers, films, and opinion polls on campus.

Phillip Whitlock, Jim DuPriest, president; Jay Fort, secretary; Bill Potts, Walt Kluska, Mike Good, vice-president.

Physics Club Visits National Bureau Of Standards

The Physics Club, which is affiliated with the American Institute of Physics, is interested in exploring and advancing knowledge in the area of the physical sciences. Programs of the group included guest speakers and field trips, including a visit to the National Bureau of Standards in Washington.

Activities of the Photo Club this year included entering contests in the area, visiting professional photographers, and sponsoring a spring exhibition of photography by students and faculty members of Madison, EMC and Bridgewater.

FIFTH ROW: Carolene Grossnickle, Sharon McClain, Jeannie Hoop, Luan Hart, Sheila Tracey, Daryl Montgomery.

Mu Conducts Bake Sale

Striving to master homemaking skills, members of Mu Epsilon Mu centered their program around money raising and community service projects. A fall bake sale replaced the Pumpkin Pie Contest, and the sale of Homecoming mums and a candy sale raised funds necessary to permit the club to provide Christmas favors for the retarded children of the Bridgewater Children's Home.

Holly Hendry and Cheryl Lackey, co-chairmen, work on bread for the bake sale.

Mu members design favors for the children in the Bridgewater Home.

P.E. Major's Club Studies Coaching

Majors joined in the Physical Education Club to study techniques in coaching and teaching. Striving to upgrade and promote a future in physical education work, the club, which is associated with national and state organizations, studied changing methods in the field.

SNEA Studies VISTA

The Good, Flora, Sanger Chapter of the Student National Education Association carried out the state theme, "Where the Action Begins" in its discussions and projects. The group explored new teaching opportunities in such areas as VISTA and the Peace Corps. Members took an active part in the discussions involving problem situations in the classroom.

Officers Byron Wolfe and Joe Harter talk with guest speaker, Mr. Louis Tourgee, after the meeting.

Goals of the Business Club were to increase student interest in current economic affairs as well as the practical aspects of business and to inform members of professional opportunities available. Guest speakers and movies on topics of interest were presented to the club.

Religious Groups Sponsor Plays And Pizza

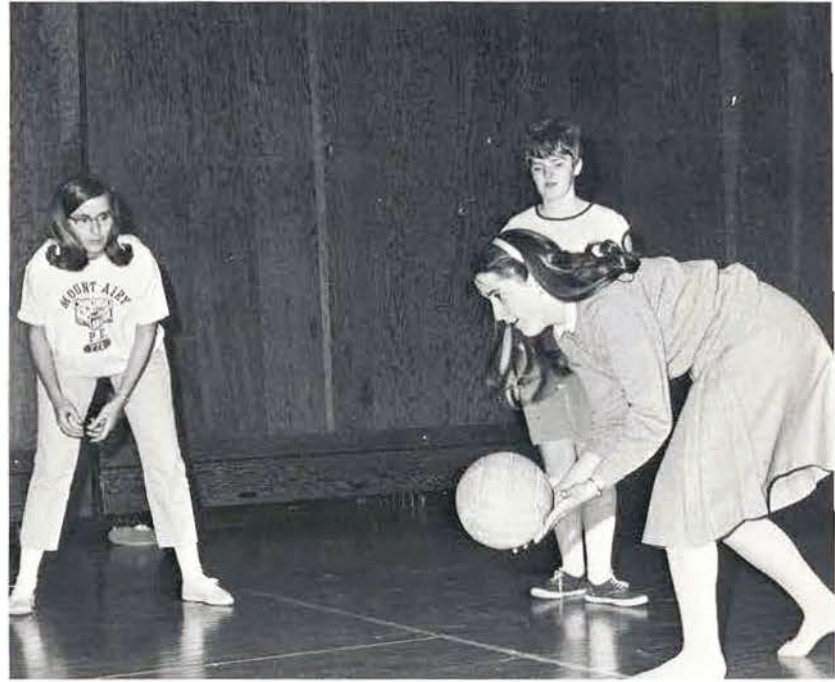

Wesley and BSF, the two religious groups on campus, sponsored varied programs. Members of Wesley met regularly and presented a play as one of their activities; the BSF sponsored a pizza party, speakers, and recreation. The two groups joined for their annual volleyball match.

May Day 1967 Depicts The Old West

The 1967 May Court included queen Kathy Kevill, king Guy Stull, duchess Barbara Purkey, duke Paul Buxton, seniors Susan Cobb, Mensel Dean, Nancy Rittenhouse, Jim Hawley, juniors Janice Ausherman, Bob Prater, Bev Balogh, Sam Zigler, sophomores Karen Palmer, George Nipe, Elly Wright, Paul Staufer, and freshmen Lois Sulser, Charles Fairchilds, Wanda Pugh, and Dennis Woolfrey.

The festivities overcame Jed Bowman (Richard McCary), calling out the aid of townfolk Lynn Sparks and Larry Whetzel.

On The Pondergrossa

"May Day - Western Style" was held in Cole Hall as rainy weather forced the Pondergrossa inside. The program saw the Bowman gang and townspeople entertain the city visitors from the east, the 1967 May Court. The crowning of queen Kathy Kevill by king Guy Stull and the traditional may pole dance highlighted the program. A tea in Rebecca honored the court and gave visitors a chance to visit, and the dance, held in the gym decorated in the Dodge City theme, was enjoyed by students.

ATHLETICS

The new breed at Bridgewater College found athletics more challenging and rewarding. A changing spirit and enthusiasm were shown in pep rallies and support for both boys' and girls' squads, and the teams responded with increased dedication and determination in competition. The opposition found that they rarely played an easy game with Bridgewater.

Eagles Find Gridiron Going Rough

The 2-6 record registered by the 1967 Eagle football squad does not look impressive, but the hard hitting, determined football they played certainly was. Eagle fans will remember this team for their scrappy performance against a strong W & L team at Homecoming and their other good performances which never quite seemed good enough. Individual honors were captured by Tom Glasgow who was selected to the Virginia All-Small College team, and Tom along with Jim Walsh and Charlie Mason who were selected for the Mason-Dixon Conference All-Star team.

“Blast From The Past” Highlights Homecoming

“A Blast From the Past” and “Those Good Ole Days Gone by” headlined plans, and as homecoming approached, spirits ran high. The traditional skit competition, won by the senior class, a concert by Sam the Sham, the bonfire and car caravan to Harrisburg, and the pre-game parade all saw enthusiastic support. The team was urged on by slogans like “Washington and Lee were great generals, but their fighting days are over,” and they responded with a hard-fought game with W&L. The crowning of queen Janice Ausherman at halftime, and the dance, featuring the Lancasters, highlighted the day.

Outlined against the bonfire, a cheerleader waits to lead the crowd.

Student body president Dale Hartman takes the crown from bearer Michael Harris as queen Janice Ausherman looks on.

It seemed like the parade would never start to this member of the visiting Elkton band.

Jane Arnold and Ron Shear, posing from "those good ole days gone by," wait to take their position in the parade.

Led by co-captains Jim Upperman and Ed Cook, the 1967-68 basketball team achieved a record of 14 wins and 11 losses. The team was one of the highest scoring squads in the state and played exciting ball all year. Under the fine direction of Coach Meyers, the Eagles brought spirit and enthusiasm to the campus during the long winter months. The season ended with an unfortunate tournament loss to Catholic U., but with ten players returning, everyone looks forward to next year and another fine record.

Ed Cook makes a valuable tap in.

During his four years at B.C., Jim Upperman has served as the "big-man" on the Eagle basketball team. His career total of 2237 points is the greatest in the history of the College. Jim also pulled down over 1100 rebounds, an accomplishment few other Eagles have ever achieved. His consistent play and his over-all ability have made him a key part of the Eagle success. These qualifications won Jim a berth on the first team All Mason-Dixon Conference squads of 1966 and 1968, and a second team berth on the 1967 squad.

Eagle fans will long remember this shot which allowed Jim to surpass the coveted 2000 point career scoring mark.

Upperman Shatters Scoring Mark

At half time Jim listens closely to the strategy to be used during the next twenty minutes of play and enjoys the pause that refreshes.

Jim showed B.C. opponents that he could still score when they attempted to double team him.

Golf Team Enjoys Good Season

The golf team had its best season in long while. They defeated RPI and Davis & Elkins and tied two other matches. Although they lost all of their remaining contests, the team played well throughout the year. In several instances only a few more points would have given the squad another victory.

Intramurals are an important part of life at Bridgewater, especially for freshmen and sophomores. Students can participate vigorously in sports like football and hockey or simply relax and enjoy a challenging game of chess. Dorm and team competition help develop spirit on the campus and allow the student to grow in body as well as mind.

Outside of the double-exposed psychedelic movies of the home hockey matches, the highlight of the season for the Bridgewater girls was the 6-0 win over Randolph-Macon at the tournament. The fall of 1968 saw many improvements in the hockey program such as the pre-season hockey camp in the Poconoes as well as the red kilt uniforms. One tradition was maintained however—a winning season.

Varsity team members: Diane Helbert, Marci Carter, Nancy Hall, Pat Nunnally, Nancy Boller, Mary Anna Sanders, Alice Phillips, Lyle Sampson.

Mid-Season Slump Mars Perfect Record

Playing the first part of the season at home, the Eaglettes started a winning year, but a mid-season slump followed as the team was plagued by injuries and sickness. This slump resulted in the only four losses for the girls, who bounced back to win the last seven games. At the end of the season, the varsity stood 11-4, and the J.V.'s had nine wins and four losses.

New Uniforms Enhance Tennis Team

The spring of 1967 was a particularly good one for the net girls. The Women's Athletic Association furnished money for uniforms, and so, for the first time, the usually mix-matched varsity team wore identical outfits. Carol Bucher led the team again with a personal record of 8-1 which matched the team record.

WAA And Varsity Club Recognize Athletes

Organized to recognize students interested in campus athletics, the WAA and Varsity Club also served the student body. Varsity Club members took care of outside Christmas decorations, furnished trucks for caroling, and sponsored an alumni game to climax spring football practice, while the WAA sold refreshments and candy apples to raise money for their projects. Years from now you'll wander past a bookcase. An orange cover will catch your eye and then your hand, and you'll sit and spend hours traveling back . . . remembering. If even one picture reminds you of something or someone special, and you can say "That's just the way it was!" my job will have been successful.

None of it would have been possible, though, without the help of many people. First of all, I would like to thank the faculty, staff, and student body for their help and cooperation. Secondly, thanks go to my staff, all of whom worked long and hard trying to do what I asked of them. I would especially mention Mr. Jeff Overby and Mr. Arnold Ward, our Delmar representatives, who gave me much valuable assistance; Mr. Russell Dunlap, faculty advisor, who didn't yell when we were in tight spots; and Ronnie Martin, sports editor first semester, who didn't get any of the credit for his work. I also have special appreciation for two color photos and other help from Mr. John Gitchell and for many pictures contributed by Mr. Joseph Wilson of Ketchum, Inc. Lastly I want to thank Tina, Linda, Cheryl, Carolyn, and Ted for their encouragement when I was ready to quit.

I hope that you can overlook the mistakes and concentrate only on the memories in this 1968 RIPPLES, and that these memories will be happy ones always.

Sincerely,
