BC MOVES FORWARD

We had already in mind to comment on the good news that Bridgewater College's enrollment this fall was a near record 900 , a dramatic increase over last year's 829 , when the news of the startling upset victory against heavily favored HampdenSydney in last Saturday's football contest rattled the windows.

In fact, Bridgewater has had a string of successes in just the short month since school began. The reversal in the past several years of a long, slow trend downward in enrollment is the result of imaginative and sophisticated "selling" of the college to high school seniors. There is definitely a place in American education for the small, private liberal arts college, and those colleges that are making a determined effort to present their case are amply justifying not only their effort, but also their place. We are happy to see Bridgewater in such a prosperous condition.

That is good news enough, but only last Thursday came the announcement that Arlington businessman V. L. Frederick has made a commitment to give $$ 1$ million to Bridgewater College's First Century Completion Fund. As the college was founded in 1880, there are two more years to raise the approximately $$ 3.5$ million remaining to meet the goal, and Mr. Frederick's gift will certainly lift the spirits of the volunteers who are soliciting, as much as it will increase the total (now $$ 4.5$ million) contributed so far.

Then on Saturday Bridgewater played its traditional rival, Hampden-Sydney, which routinely wins these football contests. Maybe it was the increased enrollment, maybe it was that million-dollar gift, maybe it was something else, but the underdogs won, 10-9, in a game decided in the last 38 seconds when defensive back Ron Hubbard intercepted a pass for a two-point aftertouchdown conversion. Had the pass been completed, Bridgewater would have lost by that one-point margin. What a movie-script finish!

All things considered, the sunshine over Bridgewater must be looking better than ever these days.

The reversal of the downward enrollment trend of the past several years, changes in open dorm policies, victory over long time sport rival, and construction on the new swimming pool. All indications of Bridgewater's important place in the system of higher education in both Virginia and America. The small liberal arts college still survives. How? By change, something we all thrive on. Without change our minds would dull and we would not continue to succeed. Any educational institution needs to reorganize to fit into our rapidly changing world. If a college fails to adapt, it flounders. Bridgewater has survived without surrending its identity because of its ability to change with the times.

Obvious by the healthy support Hanky Mountain Express received from the student body, traditional flat footin' bluegrass has taken root in not only the hearts of those raised on it but in those of newcomers to Virginia's hills as well.

Fall was at its fairest that late September evening when Hanky Mountain Express performed before the hillside audience on Jopson Field. Genuine warmth and humor were characteristic of the members in the folk band and true bluegrass talent was evident by the fine productions of such tunes as Fox on the Run, Salty Dog, Panama Red and many others. Because of the appreciation and gratefullness expressed by the student community, it was confirmed that bluegrass music has a home in Shenandoah's Valley Bridgewater College.

Annie Brown and Debbie Carlough enjoy the footstompin', hand-clapping beat of bluegrass.

h.m.s. pinafore

Four productions of Gilbert and Sullivan's popular musical H.M.S. Pinafore were presented by the Pinion Players and the Department of Music during the last week of October. Sellout crowds for all four evenings made this tuneful Gilbert and Sullivan production one of Bridgewater's most successful plays.
H.M.S. Pinafore had been presented at the college six times before. This year's production not only revived an old tradition, but also helped celebrate the play's 100th anniversary.

Debbie Williams, as Josephine, tries to decide who to marry, the captain or the sailor.

As the sponsors of May Day, Program Council also participates in the carnival. This year's booth was a goldfish toss.

may day

Everyday was Saturday during May Day week '78. The theme "Saturday in the Park" began Wednesday night with the play "Hello"; progressed to a special dinner Thursday night followed by Mu Epislon Mu's fashion show; and came to a climax Friday evening at coronation when Miss Connie Roach and Mr. Greg Harper were crowned Queen and King.

Saturday was a busy and funfilled day. Games and a carnival occupied the morning and early afternoon. That evening Andrew Lewis played at the dance. One of the largest bands to play at Bridgewater, they drew an outstanding crowd of approximately 250 couples.

The May Court enjoys the traditional May Pole dance.

The stage band entertains during the Mu Epislon Mu fashion show.

Children of faculty and administration wind through the May Pole dance.

Missy Everhart and Peter Becker perform during the fashion show.

parents day

Dorms were cleaned for the inevitable inspection. Students shed their jeans and sported a more dressy attire. At the faculty reception parents gained new information about their children. Then entertainment followed the "parent orientation session." Two selections each by the Chorale, the Concert Band, and the Oratorio Choir highlighted the program. In hockey, the varsity women won over Roanoke College and the junior varsity lost. Washington and Lee University defeated the Eagles in football, but could not manage to conquer the Eagle spirit. In the evening H.M.S. Pinafore's curtain opened to a sellout crowd. A fitting finale for a sellout parents day crowd of 933.

Professor Thornley chats with parents before the bands performance.

Long lines in the gym foyer indicates the days high attendance.

Cindy Carey stops to talk to Dr. Wampler about student teaching.

On December 15 Senate produced a concert in the Kline Campus Center featuring The All Stars, from Charlottesville, Va. Although only marginally attended, the band knocked the socks off those in the audience with a well polished and professional act and kept on rocking until twelve in the morning. Stand-out performances were especially turned in by harmonica player and guitarist Dick Green. Most of the show centered on the Chicago variety of the blues, but numbers by more contemporary artists like Bruce Springsteen and Fleetwood Mac were also performed.

HOMECOMING '78

 MARDI GRAS HOMECOMING '78Mardi Gras, the French name for Shrove Tuesday (literally, fat Tuesday) is the last day of feasting and carnival preceding the 40 penitential days of Lent in the Christian calendar. In the U.S. the French holiday has its counterpart in New Orleans, La., where Mardi Gras has been celebrated with public merrymaking and considerable pomp and splendor since 1857.

Homecoming week at Bridgewater, also provided much merrymaking as students celebrated activities along the Mardi Gras theme. Tuesday night's special dinner, "A Night in New Orleans," allowed students to dress in an array of costumes. The stage band provided excellent music to eat dinner by, which concluded with some students "bunny hopping" around the dining hall. The announcement of the court and reception followed the week's movie "The Sting." On Thursday the cheerleaders held the traditional bonfire, and the court was honored at the queen's banquet. Saturday concluded the week long celebration. Once again alumni, students, and friends joined together to enjoy the B.C. Homecoming festivities.

Following tradition B.C. cheerleaders ride the fire engine in the parade.

Andy Miller chauffeurs President Wayne Geisert and his wife Maureen.

Capturing the third place prize for floats, French Club progresses down the parade route.

On Saturday the conclusion of the Homecoming week's activities took place with alumni registration in the KCC, followed by the Homecoming parade, the football game between the Eagles and Randolph-Macon, the crowning of the queen and presentation of the court. Saturday night students danced to the music provided by Casper from 9:00-11:00. So ended a long and well planned Mardi Gras Homecoming 1978.

ONE ACT PLAYS

Each year students are given the opportunity by drama Professor Ralph MacPhail to select and direct a one act play. Presented to the students and general public on January 25,26 , and 27 were three well performed and entertaining plays. Many long hours of rehearsals by the students involved preceded the three night performances.

LUMINARIES

Students sing carols as they walk around the lighted square.

On December 18 a crowd of approximately 200 students and some people from the community gathered for the wonderful experience of Luminaries. Candles outlined several walkways, providing a path for everyone to follow as they joined in the singing of Christmas carols. There were also candles laid out in the shape of a cross and in the shape of a star. The nativity scene was made available for observation through the help of students who were willing to dress up as the particular characters.
Aside from caroling around the pathway, everyone also took part in a short worship service. During this time, all persons stood on the steps of Blue Ridge as they shone their lights. Luminaries did supply a very enlightening experience for all who attended.

A neat atmosphere is created in front of Blue Ridge as each person holds his candle.

This year's Madrigal Dinner was held on Sunday, December 10 and Monday, December 11 in the Kline Campus Center Dining Hall. Those in attendance were entertained by students and faculty who juggled, performed magic, sang, acted, and played musical selections. The scene for the evening's activities was an Elizabethan Banquet Hall in which a feast was prepared and presented to capacity crowds of 550 each night.

Diane Snavely serenely lights the candle.

Sharon Barrett and Jim Jordan display their dramatic ability.

Nathan Albright shows much concentration in his juggling.

Phil Nolley's magical act provides entertainment for the guests.

MADRIGAL DINNER

Bring on the boar's head!

The chorale sings of festivity and merriment.

Robbie Miller, the Lord of Misrule, amused and delighted all as the evening progressed. The spirit of the Madrigal Dinner is one of volunteerism in which the Campus Center Program Council solicits the help and aid of the campus community. Evidence of this were the eighty students who gave their time to serve the dinner as well as those numerous others who helped plan and coordinate its presentation.

© TOGA TOGA TOGA TOGA TOGA TOGA T

- 1978 saw the appearance of the toga on campuses across the country and Bridgewater College was not an exception. Prompted by the movie "Animal House" toga parties became the fashion. Bridgewater's own "frat," Wardo, sponsored a toga party in the fall, chaperoned by Professors Lemar Neal and William Albright. Students dressed for the occasion in tide-dyed, checked, and solid material togas.

In February the Campus Center Program Council sponsored a special dinner, Greek Love Feast, for celebration of Valentine's Day. Appropiately, some students came to dinner in various togas, which drew curious glances from the nonparticipants. No one could say Bridgewater was "behind the times" when it came to toga parties and dress in the school year.

Chaperones for the evening Professors Lemar Neal and William Albright, take a minute to pose in front of the Greek columns with Dave Middleton and Cathy Slusher.

Students Interested in Relating to the Church is a group whose main concern is learning more about the local church, the world-wide church and all aspects of worship in various denominations. An important question for the group is how we will relate to the church in Smalltown, USA, even if it is not in our backgrounds. Activities include visitation to various denominations in an effort to become aware of different forms of worship, bringing in guest speakers to help with the understanding of the different services, and sharing in worship experiences through deputation teams. Service projects help club members relate to the world-wide church.

football

The Bridgewater College football team looked promising as the season began, winning two of their first three games. One of these victories came in a memorable contest against 1977 ODAC conference champion Hampden-Sydney. The Eagles defeated Sydney on a goal line stand to win the game. Following this dramatic win, however, injuries hurt the team drastically. Sophomore Jeff Jones took over at quarterback following the injury of teammate Duane Harrison, and Rod Johnson took over for tailback Tony Davenport. The Eagles made every game a close contest, but could not seem to come out on top, until the final game, closing the season with a resounding victory over Newport News Apprentice, 18-0. The final record was 3 wins, 6 losses.

Of the 52 players on the roster in 1978, only 7 were seniors. If the Eagles are able to avoid injuries in 1979, the possibility of having a winning season looks good. Junior Joe Freeland was second in the ODAC conference in tackle points, and was selected to First Team All ODAC.

Duane Harrison lets one fly.

When the going gets rough, the Eagles start flying!

Jerry Crouse, Dwight Denlinger, and Daryl Metts experience the thrill of victory.

The 1978 cross country season was highlighted by the individual performances of senior Jerry Crouse. Crouse was the top individual in every meet but two, leading the Eagles to a 5-5 regular season. In the ODAC meet, Crouse set a new course record by over 30 seconds. For this he was named "Runner of the Year" in the ODAC conference. As a team Bridgewater finished in a disappointing third place behind EMC and Lynchburg. Running second for the team was Daryl Metts in tenth place, Dwight Denlinger in twelfth. Eric Kyger and Greg Via rounded out the top five. Also running in the ODAC meet were Kevin Lounsbury, Dave Burtner, Reggie Moore, Pat Domeier and Warren Turpin.
In the regional meet, held this year for the first time, Crouse again came out on top covering the five mile course in 25:02. Overall, the team finished in fifth place, with the top two teams qualifying for the national meet. For his first place finish, Crouse went on to Nationals, held in Rock Island, Illinois, where he finished 70th.

Ed Knopick cheers Daryl ("Ace") Metts on to the finish line.

women's hockey

The 1978 Women's Hockey team started the year off with high hopes. Eleven players returned from last year's squad, and with seven freshmen these girls comprised both the varsity and junior varsity teams. The Eaglettes won three and tied one of their first seven contests, but were hurt badly by injuries during the remainder of the season. The varsity posted a final record of five wins, eight losses, and one tie; three wins and four losses in the Blue Ridge Conference. The junior varsity finished with two wins, six losses, and four ties.

Chris gives it his best shot.

The men's basketball team under Coach Melvin Myers, opened its season December 1 and 2 in the Bridgewater-Dayton Jaycees Tip-Off Tournament. The 22-game season ended with the Old Dominion Athletic Conference Tournament at Bridgewater on February 22, 23, and 24.

After finishing with a 5-20 record last year, the men's basketball team began the year by winning their first game and getting off to a 2-1 start. Things then took a turn for the worse as they lost their next eleven games in a row. An overtime win over Averett College ended the Eagles backward slide. After the Averett win, came a 20 point loss to Division II Roanoke.

Two Eagle scorers were ranked in the top ten scorers for the conference during the season. They were Bill Creveling and Jeff Smith. Jim Hodges led the team in rebounds, while Billy Pope led in assists.

Bridgewater went into the ODAC tournament with a $0-3$ record in the conference. However, they lost in the second round to Washington and Lee.

Along with the varsity team, the Eagles also fielded a JV team for the first time in three years.

Who gets the rebound?

Patty Morehead in action.

Basketball + Cathy Stivers $=$ Two points $!$

After burning the rim last year with a record of 17-9 and a first place tie in the Piedmont Conference, the Eaglettes again appeared on the court with high hopes for a winning season.

At the beginning of the season Coach Laura Mapp commented that she believed the team's odds were in favor of success. She labeled the Eaglettes agressiveness as an important factor in compensating for the height the team lacked. Another factor in the team's favor was the number of returning players it had.

Even though the Eaglettes faced such tough competitors as Virginia Tech, James Madison University, UVA, George Mason University, Hampton Institute, and William & Mary, they were able to complete the season with an overall record of 15-10, and the fifth place title in the state tournament.

The church parking lot begins to fill up in the early morning with the vehicles of commuter students. Later in the day the overflow runs out on to the section of College Street which runstas through the campus. These students awaken early every morning and make trips of varying lengths to be able to continue their education. By the time they arrive in the morning they are ready to start their day's round of classes. This schedule is frequently interrupted with a snack or lunch in the snack shop and then visits with friends on campus. Later in the afternoon the commuting students head for home, that is, if they are not involved in other activities.

Every year when a student picks up a yearbook, they are holding in their hands a combined effort of a very small, but dedicated, group of students. These students, taken collectively, are known to you as the 1978-1979 Ripples staff. These are the people who go through endless hours of trials and tribulations with few thanks.

These students drew and worked and wrote and wrote and typed and penciled and corrected and proofread into the wee hours of the night.

One of the things that became the most apparent during these long hours was the fact that it is not possible to please all of the people all of the time, no matter how hard you try.

Realizing this the staff tried instead, to capture an accurate and varied portrayal of campus life, despite the determination of a few individuals to make this an almost impossible task. Thus, the staff once again completed the vast undertaking of recording and preserving the past year's memories.

What you are now holding in your hand is a memory book that preserves the spirit and emotions of college, making the book a timeless classic. It is the 1978-1979 Ripples.

acknowledgements

The 1978-79 Ripples Yearbook Staff would like to express their thanks for the support and help of the following individuals: Hunter Publishing Company; Mr. Jim Ellis, Regional Representative, Gentry Studios, Mr. Hubert Gentry, The Daily News Record, The Talon, Pat Churchman, and Gary Tyeryar.

The 1978-79 Ripples is printed on 80 lb . paper, with both dull and gloss pages. Press run was 875 copies at 200 pages. Pages are $9^{\prime \prime} \times 12^{\prime \prime}$ and are printed in black ink. The cover was designed by Debbie Link and Kathy Kline and is flat screened on Lexotone with Fern Green \# 41038. Applied color is PMS 397 green. All type and headlines are printed in Helvetica type.
