

Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies

Volume 1

Issue 1 Fall, Inaugural Issue

Article 1

June 2015

Welcome to the Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies

Teddie M. Potter

University of Minnesota - Twin Cities

Riane Eisler

Center for Partnership Studies

Marty Lewis-Hunstiger

Follow this and additional works at: <http://pubs.lib.umn.edu/ijps>

Recommended Citation

Potter, Teddie M.; Eisler, Riane; and Lewis-Hunstiger, Marty (2015) "Welcome to the Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies," Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies: Vol. 1: Iss. 1, Article 1. Available at: <http://pubs.lib.umn.edu/ijps/vol1/iss1/1>

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial 4.0 License

The Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies is published by the University of Minnesota Libraries Publishing. Authors retain ownership of their articles, which are made available under the terms of a Creative Commons Attribution Noncommercial license (CC BY-NC 4.0).

WELCOME!

Teddie Potter, PhD, MS, RN, executive editor

Riane Eisler, JD, PhD (hon.), editor-in-chief

Marty Lewis-Hunstiger, BSN, RN, MA, managing editor

Welcome to the Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies, dedicated to sharing new knowledge and successful applications of Riane Eisler's partnership paradigm: a new perspective on human possibilities increasingly utilized, explored, and expanded by others.

Eisler uses systems thinking and a macro-historical approach to uncover the patterns of social organization she calls partnership systems and domination systems. This journal encourages similar thinking from all disciplines, and invites both scholars and activists to contribute to the advancement of partnership knowledge.

Generation of knowledge is impacted by many factors, including access to education, access to funding, academic affiliation, and being invited to disseminate findings in professional journals and at professional conferences. Traditionally, the generation of knowledge has been rigidly ranked and confined to intradisciplinary thinking. Most journals focus on a single discipline, and rarely invite studies that reflect collaboration among fields of knowledge.

The editors and board of the Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies are eager to disrupt these conventions and open the door for partnership-based studies. This peer-reviewed journal is open access so that people all around the globe may advance their understanding of partnership both as a process and as an organizational/cultural system.

Many of us today recognize that holistic thinking and inclusive participation are required to generate effective solutions for our complex and critical challenges. We believe that the partnership paradigm can help us fashion these innovative solutions by fostering new ways of thinking.

We also believe that high-quality open access scholarship requires adept information management and collaboration. This is why the University of Minnesota School of Nursing, the University of Minnesota Libraries, and the Center for Partnership Studies have come together in hosting this journal.

The vision for the Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies is to share scholarship and create connections for cultural transformation to build a world in which all relationships, institutions, policies, and organizations are based on principles of partnership.

The mission of the journal is to be the essential anthology for scholarly writing about cultural transformation and partnership. We encourage interdisciplinary contributions from both scholars and practitioners worldwide to explore and promote the partnership paradigm of mutual respect, social and economic justice, and gender and environmental balance, through research, innovation, and community-based applications.

The Interdisciplinary Journal of Partnership Studies will publish both partnership-based research findings and stories about applications of partnership approaches. This unique intersection of knowledge from diverse disciplines and experiences in all areas of life will open the door for insights and innovative solutions that would not otherwise be possible within a single field. The journal has a dedicated “Community Voices” section to encourage communication between those engaged in building partnership systems in various settings and those developing the science of partnership.

We welcome your participation in an ongoing dialog between knowledge generation and knowledge application. Together we can move our diverse cultures toward partnership.

Teddie Potter, PhD, MS, RN, is a Clinical Associate Professor, the Coordinator of Doctor of Nursing Practice in Health Innovation and Leadership, and Director of Inclusivity and Diversity at the University of Minnesota School of Nursing. Dr. Potter speaks nationally and internationally about Partnership Nursing and is the creator of the BASE of Nursing model. Riane Eisler and Teddie Potter are co-authors of Transforming Interprofessional Partnerships: A New Framework for Nursing and Partnership-Based Healthcare (2014).

Riane Eisler, JD, PhD (hon), is President of the Center for Partnership Studies dedicated to research and education about the partnership model. She has written numerous books and articles; taught at University of California, Los Angeles, the California Institute for Integral Studies, and other universities; keynoted conferences worldwide; and received awards for peace, human rights, and other activities.

Marty Lewis-Hunstiger, BSN, RN, MA, is a retired pediatric nurse and preceptor, Editor of Creative Nursing: A Journal of Values, Issues, Experience, and Collaboration, and affiliate faculty member in the School of Nursing at the University of Minnesota.

Correspondence about this article should be addressed to Marty Lewis-Hunstiger, BSN, RN, MA, at mlewishunstiger@chcm.com

©2014 Potter et al. This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Noncommercial Attribution license (CC BY-NC 4.0), which allows for unrestricted noncommercial use, distribution, and adaptation, provided that the original author and source are credited.