The screenshot shows the website header with the HKUST 20th anniversary logo and the text "HKUST Digital Images". Below the header are navigation links for "About", "News", and "Contact Us". The main content area is titled "About Digital Images" and contains a paragraph explaining the project's scope and a call to action for tagging images. To the right, there is a search bar, a "Browse all" link, and a "Recent Comments" section listing several comments by Victoria Caplan.

About Digital Images

HKUST Digital Images contains memories of early University events from 1988 to 1999. Supported by the Office of the Provost, we have digitized images from slides, prints or negatives transferred to the University Archives from various offices, including Public Affairs Office and Publishing Technology Center (PTC). For photos of current University events please refer to the Photo Gallery of PTC.

We encourage all members of the HKUST community and alumni to tag the images and provide more information about the events. As this is the phase one of the project, more images will be added in coming months. Keep checking and share with your friends.

THE HONG KONG UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY
香港科技大學

Sir Siu-yeung Building
33 Golden Road
Hong Kong

NEWSLETTER

In May 1986, having reviewed the need for higher education in Hong Kong, the Government appointed a Planning Committee to work out in detail the establishment of a third university. Under the chairmanship of Sir SY Chung, the Planning Committee, in accordance with its terms of reference, conveyed advice to the Government on a number of issues including a name for the new University, the selection of a site for its campus, the necessary legislation, the appointment of the University's Founding Vice-Chancellor and President, an academic profile, and the selection of a design for the University campus. The Planning Committee completed its work on 10 April 1988 when the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology Ordinance was brought into effect. The first appointments to membership of the Council were effective from that date.

Known as the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, this will be the third publicly-funded university in Hong Kong. It will be a grouping of professional schools emphasising science, technology, engineering, management, and business studies. Its objects are to educate men and women who will contribute to the territory's economic well-being, and to promote research, development, and entrepreneurship in the Asian-Pacific Region. To ensure that leadership qualities will be instilled in its students, the curriculum will contain rigorous general education requirements.

SPEECH BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR AT THE INAUGURATION CEREMONY OF THE COUNCIL OF THE HONG KONG UNIVERSITY OF SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY ON 11 APRIL 1988

Sir Siu-yeung, Dr Woo, Members of the Council of the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology, Ladies and Gentlemen,

This Inauguration Ceremony of the Council of the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology is an occasion of great historical significance. It marks the formal beginning of our new University.

In the two years since planning began for this important project, the Planning Committee, under the able leadership of Sir Siu-yeung, has done an immense amount of work. The University has acquired a marvellous site for its campus, its own enabling legislation, an outstanding scholar and administrator as its first Vice-Chancellor, a magnificent design for its buildings – and a very appropriate name: the University of Science and Technology. Our new University is now set to admit its first batch of students in October 1991, three years ahead of the original schedule. These are considerable achievements by any standard. The Planning Committee can take justifiable pride in them. I congratulate you, Sir Siu-yeung, and your colleagues on a job well done.

The University will consist of a grouping of professional schools emphasising science, technology, engineering, management and business studies. This is a deliberate decision. A dynamic economy is vital to Hong Kong's continued success and prosperity. To maintain a buoyant economy we have to be highly competitive in the goods we produce and in the services we provide. For simply, we must keep up with, and where possible keep ahead of, our competitors. We must always be conscious of advances in technology and in management techniques, particularly in the industrial, commercial and financial fields.

The people of Hong Kong are one of our few natural resources. The Government places a high priority on ensuring that sufficient numbers of people are educated and trained to meet the demands of our economy. The establishment of the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology is evidence of our intent. When its first students graduate in six years time, our industrial, commercial and financial sectors can look forward to a larger and constant flow of graduates and post-graduates with the skills and research capability that they need.

As the supreme governing body of the University, the Council will have very heavy and demanding responsibilities. I am confident that with Sir Siu-yeung in the chair, the Council will be able to meet the challenges ahead with vigour and imagination. I wish the Council every success in its future endeavours.
