Features of Searching

- ▶ Begin with broad search & narrow the results
- ▶ Search narrowed facets or limiters
- ▶ All searches are keyword searches
- ▶ Default search is “all words”
- ▶ Radio buttons for selecting search type :
Keyword, Title, Author
- ▶ Even designated field searches are keyword searches
  - Searches by keyword within author or title field

More Features of Searching

- ▶ Traditional Boolean operators may be used but “quotation marks” are most useful tool
  - Quotation marks help limit results
  - Use even with radio buttons
- ▶ Possible to search full text of resources but must select as a option (use sparingly)
- ▶ Source of resource included in results
  - Provides information about most relevant databases in case further search is needed
- ▶ Traditional catalog & native database interfaces remain available

How Does DISCOVER Work?

- ▶ Not same as Federated Searching in past
  - Search several databases individually and get results
  - Slow due to different interfaces & other factors
- ▶ Searches a pre-harvested index
- ▶ Index hosted by EBSCO (EDS)
- ▶ Huge knowledge base or unified index of all resources

Student Evaluations

- ▶ Tested 4 Discovery Services with 10 student library workers
- ▶ Brief explanation
  - Search like Google
  - Use any functions available on screen
- ▶ All filled out search form in detail & e-mailed answers
- ▶ All found it easy to use
- ▶ EBSCO EDS was favorite

Student Comment

When asked by a librarian if DISCOVER was as easy to use as Google...

“Yes it is. Easier, really, because Google doesn’t have all the ways to limit the search that are on the left side of the screen.”

Information Literacy

- ▶ Remains as important as ever!
- ▶ Advantage: Less important to teach how to select database to use
- ▶ Less important to teach many different interfaces
- ▶ Concentrate on narrowing search & selecting best information
- ▶ Move into specialized databases from results
- ▶ Requires cultural shift
