Henderson Library, Before and After

January 27, 2010

Some of you might never have seen the “old” Henderson Library, prior to the major expansion and renovation project that was completed in August 2008.

Adam Drew, a Georgia Southern alumnus, has shared a panoramic photograph that he took as part of an independent study in 2004. He says that he found it “buried deep in my computer while searching for photos of the big oak tree near the Williams Center that was recently cut down.”

Thanks to Adam for letting us feature this lovely photo, and to Jeremy Foreman of Hands On Southeast Georgia for letting us know about it!
