empty eggshelds is how many Chinese boys add to their savings during the fish-hatching season.

Fish hatching in China is often conducted with the aid of a hen. First, the fish spawn is collected from the water. A quantity is placed in each eggs shell, the open end of which is sealed with a special kind of wax. This dense, the eggs are placed under sitting hens.

After the third or fourth day each egg is tested. If the hatching is complete the shells are broken, and the spawn is empited into water and placed in the sun's powerful rays.

Soon the little fish are strong enough to be moved. Their next home is in water a few degrees colder, and this lowering of temperature goes on until they can stand the cold water of the lakes and streams.

King Tutankhamen whose tomb in Egypt has just been explored, had wealth to the value of $15,000,000 buried with him. Curious mathematicians have calculated that if the $15,000,000 had been drawing compound interest during the 3,000 years since the king's death, the estate would be worth something like $14,288,000,000,000. 000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000, 000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,

Other "secret" substances added to attract the weevil to the poison are just so much bunk. Capable and thorough scientists have recommended et certain ways and means for cembeating this boll weevil pest. Their results are given freely to the American farmers. The methods they advocate are those that have survived their extensive tests. Under some conditions possibly the methods have been modified to advantage.
