After 126 years
Taylor University is established in its right to exist, in its privilege to be. But to be and only to be is to lose the meaning of existence. Seeking to attain total fulfillment, we strive not merely to be, but to become.

JNIVERSITY

FOUNDED 1846

To become is to improve our environment, to expand our facilities, to develop, and not to stand still.
In so doing
we increase our capacity:
outwardly,
by giving more individuals the opportunity to become; inwardly, by presenting each individual with the freedom to realize a higher level of becoming.

To become is to expose our minds to a total learning experience:
learning about ourselves,
our community, our world,
and about the role
we have to fill in each situation.
We search,
we question, we experiment, but ultimately we must decide upon one role-the role which renders to each of us the greatest satisfaction, happiness, sense of enrichment.

To become is to develop ourselves aesthetically, culturely, artistically.
We strive to achieve creativity and, whether in an active or passive involvement with the arts, we are attempting to broaden our awareness and appreciation of the artistic world.

To become is

to increase individual physical capabilities, to build strength,
endurance, coordination.
Pressures and frustration are eased through physical exertion;
training and competition enable us to realize individual excellence.

To become is to unite our individual achievements in cooperative effort. We join to accomplish what individually we cannot: we combine our energies toward common goals, we establish friendships, we learn to respect the worth of another individual, his interests, his ideas, his rights.

To become is to share our thoughts, our joys, our sadnesses, our desires, our total selves with others so that from our acquaintances lasting friendships are formed, relationships in which we aid each other in realizing our innermost selves.

To become is to expand our awareness of the needs and feelings of those individuals outside the realm of our immediate interests. We become sensitive to these needs and we aspire to share that which we have with those who have not.

To become is to search for a divine purpose in our lives and a spiritual truthelements only to be found in the person of Jesus Christ. We search individually or collectively, all hoping to find an inner peace beyond our comprehension. Through belief in the Truth, Jesus Christ, our other attempts to become are merged into one continuous and complete process of becoming.

Student Life

To become is to create among ourselves a community within which we have the opportunity to participate, experience, and enjoy life. We learn to combine the spiritual, the social, the academic, into a complex and integrated way of living which will enable us to transplant our individual roles in this community to meaningful contributions in various communities of the world.

Commencement exercises honor graduates

Marching to the strains of Verdi's "Triumphal March," 283 seniors received degrees in Taylor University's 125th commencement exercises Sunday, May 30, 1971. Dr. Addison Leitch of Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary spoke at the morning baccalaureate.

At the commencement convocation Sunday afternoon, President Milo A. Rediger conferred degrees. Representing the senior class, Timothy Heffentrager addressed the audience on "A Continuing Journey." Both services were at Eastbrook High School again this year.

STRESS is added to orientation program

The Spurrlows concert climaxed New Student Week.

When 510 freshmen, transfer, and readmitted students arrived at Taylor for New Student Week August 29 to September 3, they experienced a new type of orientation. In addition to the usual battery of tests and convocations, new students participated in STRESS, a campout aimed at helping them to become acquainted with each other and becoming aware of social roles and relationships. A picnic by the lake provided fellowship for new and returning students.

Weekend entertainment consisted of a Freshman talent show on Friday and a concert by the Spurrlows on Saturday evening.

‘dynamic’ homecoming

Dynamics was the 1971 Homecoming theme. Weekend festivities began with the drama production of "The Imaginary Invalid." Other evening entertainment included the coronation of Sandy Weis as Homecoming Queen, and a concert by Michael Johnson Friday night. Sunshine and balmy weather created a perfect atmosphere for the Saturday morning parade. While the Freshmen won the float competition, Swallow Robin was recognized for having the best display. Homecoming was climaxed with a Trojan victory over Earlham Saturday afternoon.

TWO has worldwide ministry

Taylor World Outreach is a program designed to provide students with opportunities to share their faith in Jesus Christ with people throughout the world. During the summer of 1971 Taylor students ministered to the physical and spiritual needs of people in intercity ghettos, camps, coffee houses, and churches in North America, Central America, Europe, Africa, and Asia.

An important aspect of last summer's TWO program was a Latin American tour of the Taylor Concert Band. While touring Honduras, Colombia, and Ecuador, the band gave sacred and secular concerts in public squares, on television and radio, in gymnasiums, opera houses, coliseums, and churches. By giving testimonies and distributing tracts after programs the 38 participants were able to share the love of Christ with countless individuals in those countries.

Wheels venture for Christ

Wandering Wheels achieved two "firsts" during the summer of 1971. Under the leadership of Bob Davenport, forty-four young men traveled 2800 miles through nine European countries. Although encountering difficulties such as inclimate weather and high mountain passes, they had a unique but meaningful ministry with the people in Europe.

Wheels also sponsored the first co-ed cross country trip consisting of 20 girls and twenty-two boys who rode approximately 2500 miles from San Diego, California, to Savannah, Georgia.

The Wheels concept is to demonstrate the vitality of the Christian life with the physical adventure.

‘Outreach' is sharing love

Taylor students became increasingly involved in humanitarian projects this year. The Community Action Council was created to coordinate many area services. Hotline, one of these, was a program in which any individual could talk over his problems with a trained listener. A tutoring program helped area pupils with their academic needs. Others donated their time to participating in gospel teams, ministering in coffeehouses, raising money to fight hunger on the other side of the world, and becoming friends with youths from such places as Bethel Boys Home, White's Institute, and Grant County Children's Home.

Moliere farce

amuses crowd

The major fall production entitled "The Imaginary Invalid" by Jean Baptiste Moliere was presented October 14, 15 , and 16 and was well received each night by enthusiastic crowds. The action centered around Monsieur Argan, who was indisposed because he teetered on the boundary between actual suffering and hypochondria. Argan's daughter, Angelica, fell in love with a young nobleman, Cleante, but her father had already promised her in marriage to Dr. Thomas Diaforus, the son of a physician. The action then focused on the maid Toinette, who comically aided Angelica in convincing her father to let her marry Cleante. The play ended with a mock induction ceremony which instated Argan as a doctor capable of curing his own illnesses.

Music, drama productions add to cultural growth

The religious drama company tours the Midwest presenting contemporary spiritual themes.

[^2]The Drama and Music Departments presented varied dramatic productions during the 1971-2 season. Ghosts, the initial play, was presented by the Faculty Readers. The major fall production was The Imaginary Invalid.

Florence Vacano assumed the title role in La Traviata, one of the first operas performed by Taylor students and faculty. Wolfgang Vacano directed the production.

Theatre 25 presented seven studentdirected one act plays, including The Chairs and It Should Happen to a Dog. The Religious Drama Company toured during the spring, presenting approximately thirty-five presentations throughout the Midwest.

The two departments combined to produce the musical Charlie Brown in March. The Speech and Drama Department also presented the tragedy Antigone and Henry James' The Turn of the Screw. These three productions were held in the Eastbrook Middle School Cafetorium due to the destruction of Shreiner Auditorium.

Richard McComb joins Florence Vacano in song.

Special events

are enlightening

and entertaining

Each year the Special Events Committee brings on campus speakers and performers with the express purpose of providing exposure to current and valuable topics. This year the program featured Dr. Wernher von Braun, renowned NASA scientist and enthusiastic Christian; Robert Goralski, noted commentator with NBC News, Jerome Hines, famed opera star, and Bill Pearce, gospel trombonist. These men were the source of thought-provoking lectures, informative speeches, and superb entertainment.

Banquet features old-fashioned 'Holiday Hearth'

Kathy Kitzmann and Steve Church await the beginning of the evening's festicities.

The theme of the 1971 Winter Banquet was "Holiday Hearth." When the guests arrived in Camp Dining Hall,they found it transformed into the interior of a Sussex County farmhouse. There they enjoyed an old-fashioned Christmas reminiscent of the 1860 's. At this "family reunion," Grandpa told the Christmas story and recited a poem, and the Chamber Singers sang traditional carols. Following a wild game hen dinner, a Christian folk group called "Young and Free" presented a concert in which they expressed their faith in words and songs.

SUB encourages variety of experiences

The Student Union Board, or SUB, offers the student body opportunity for experience in areas of entertainment and activity. The board seeks to provide avenues of expression and involvement socially, culturally, and recreationally. The board exists to aid the student in making his college life more valuable and expansive.
This year SUB was responsible for bringing several musical groups to the campus. Concerts ranged from the sensitive and versatile guitarist Michael Johnson to the contemporary and creative New Folk. Other attractions included, "Strangers, Friends, and Brother," the Spurrlows, the First Gear, and the D's.

Further contributions of SUB were year-round availability of the stables, Hector's Hut, and indoor recreational facilities. Special events, such as frequent ski week-ends, roller skating parties, and the Colorado trip during spring break were also under the auspices of the Union.

Each event is brought as a service to the students and the board encourages involvement and action.

The New Folk, currently on a tour of the U.S., presented a versatile program of modern electrical music

Week-ends provide relaxation and entertainment.

A week-end at Taylor includes everything from sleeping in to attending a formal banquet. Inter-collegiate sports are enthusiastically welcomed, and movies are well-attended. Such recently released movies as "Anne of A Thousand Days", "Charly", "Oliver", and "The Great White Hope" were shown this year. A special highlight this year was donkey basketball, a hilarious evening of animal vs. man in unique and entertaining competition. Another special presentation was "Romeo and Juliet" a fascinating and moving production by the National Shakespeare Company. Concerts, games, and drama all have their place in a typical weekend campus. There is a momentary suspension of academic pressure as the students settle down to relaxatiou and recreation.

Spiritual Emphasis stresses Christian love, power

Each semester, one week of the busy university schedule is set aside as a time of special spiritual emphasis. During that week, members of the Taylor family and the Upland community have the opportunity of listening to and interacting with a noted speaker. Rev. Donald A. Miller, a Taylor alumnus now pastoring a church in St. Louis, focused attention on "The Three Faces of Love-Eros, Philia, and Agape" during the fall Spiritual Emphasis Week meetings. In February, the Thomas F. Staley Foundation brought Dr. Kenn Opperman to compus as the second semester Spiritual Emphasis speaker. Through sharing his experiences while preaching the gospel throughout the world with presidents and peasants alike, Dr. Opperman challenged his audiences to make a positive Christian impact upon the world around them.

Paul Eakley provides an inspirational mood with a baritone solo before the evening message.

Dr. Kenn Opperman uses an anecdote to illustrate an important Biblical principle.

The informal atmosphere of Hector's Hut provides an ideal setting for Youth Conference discussion groups

Conferences challenge students, youth

Under the leadership of co-chairmen Joanne Kinghorn and Gary Sinclair, the cabinet chose "Alive With Power" as the theme of the 1971 Youth Conference. After months of preparation, 900 high school students and their sponsers converged on campus. Through a series of discussion groups led by Taylor students and messages by speakers Bill McKee and Billy Zeoli, conferees learned how they could be "Alive With Power" through Jesus Christ.

Missionary Conference, sponsored each fall by Intervarsity, brings to campus dozens of missionaries and mission board members in an effort to familiarize students with opportunities for Christian service in foreign countries. This year's speaker, Rich Cannon, a former missionary to Indonesia, challenged the Taylor family to follow the conference theme, "Don't Keep the Faith, Spread It" whether in Indiana or Indonesia.

Chapels

variety

Chapel attendance this year was rewarded by many diverse programs, ranging from a message by Dr. Leighton Ford to a basketball demonstration and personal testimony by Harlem Globetrotter Hallie Bryant. Dr. Charlotte Lee interpreted poetry during an Interterm chapel, while in February, Dr. Wernher von Braun related his ideas concerning the relationship between science and the Christian faith. Several chapel programs were presented by student organizations including the Taylor University Concert Band, the Lighthouse, a group of Christian Education students who spent Inter-term in the Bahamas, and the residents of second floor Morris Hall.

Sunday evening services inspiring, thought-provoking

Sunday evening services this year have been inspiring and varied in content. Under the direction of Pastor Hill and his assistant Steve Zerbe, students had the opportunity to listen to various gospel teams and special music furnished by several music students. One of the groups that provided the music was the Echoes of Eternity, an ensemble formed last year by Ed Mehlberg because he felt the need for a contemporary music group on campus. Students were also able to preview the movie "Two A Penny." These services helped to fulfill the needs and interest of the Taylor family.

Dorm life creates a well-rounded person

Living in a residence hall proves to be a challenging and novel experience. Friendships are made, problems are shared, and challenges are met. Typical evenings in the dorm may consist of popcom parties, talk sessions, phone calls, and diligent study. PA's may find it necessary to use "friendly persuasion" to keep the noise bearable. Activity usually increases in the wee hours until at last quiet settles over the dorm. Students also find that intramural games are a pleasant diversion from the "cooped-up" feeling, and open houses provide ample opportunity for sharing "home" with friends. Inevitabley in dorm life, change oecurs and involvement encourages growth.

Randy Botteicher and Julie Roherts enjoy a Momis open house.

Maureen Bugge relates to her envious dormmates how she received her engagement ring.

Pam Miller relaves as she colls home.

Apartment life offers independence

Apartment life offers a unique experience for a number of Taylor students. To single male students, apartment living provides independence and privacy not offered by the residence halls. Living off campus also means hitching a ride to classes, learning how to cook and keep house, and inviting a group of friends in for an evening of fun, food, and fellowship.

Married students find that apartment life involves sharing household chores, budget problems, and homework. It can mean darning a sock, reading Shakespeare, and keeping an eye on the potroast simultaneously. But fortunately, it also means experiencing the pleasure of beginning a life together and making an apartment into a home.

Apartment life can mean eating baked beans three times a week

Organizations

To become is to organize our various ideas, motives, aspirations, in order to support a particular cause in unanimity.
We deepen the relevancy of classroom learning by applying theoretical concepts to practical situations.
We synthesize purposes, creativity, knowledge, to form a feasible program for the edification of that which is spiritual, social, as well as academic, in ourselves and in others.

SGO represents

student interests

Student Government Organization provides services and seeks to represent student interests before the university.

The executive council, led by SGO president Kermit Welty, carries out senate legislation and impliments student government programs. It also serves as a link between the students and the university's faculty and administration. Throughout the year, a special SGO task force has studied the university curriculum. Resulting from this study have been recommendations for changes both in the general education requirements and in the interterm program. Also, a number of services have been added, "News of the Day" has been expanded, and refrigerators have been rented.
The student senate serves as a link between SGO and the student body. It is comprised of one elected representative for each one humdred students. Presided over by SGO vice-president, the senate has studied a number of student concerns. In November, the Senate sponsored "Thanks-giving '7I, " a campuswide program to raise money for the hungry. In addition, the senate revised the Free University programs and initiated "Towne Meetings."
The student court serves as a judical advisory board in disciplinary matters.

Personnel Assistants, officers provide leadership

This year, a new system of residence hall government was initiated. A merger of the duties and responsibilities of hall counselors and resident assistants resulted in the creation of a new position-the personnel assistant. Like his predecessor, the PA strives to improve communication between students and the administration, achieve a feeling of unity among residents, and help his fellow students with personal problems.

Class officers are responsible for organizing all projects and activities relating to their respective classes. The Interclass Council attempts to coordinate these class efforts and strengthen class loyalty through such efforts as freshmen initiation and yearlong interclass competition.

Students acquire knowledge

while furthering career plans

Various organizations on Taylor's campus are designed to prepare students for effective careers. These include areas such as business, politics, and the behavioral sciences. Such clubs provide contacts with professionals in their respective fields, and through these associations students are encouraged to develop their talents. They provide information concerning steps toward future occupations as well as opportunities to become involved in the social sciences while in college.

Science Club consists of students who have an interest in fields such as chemistry, physics, biology, mathematics, and computer science. Alpha Pi Iota is designed for students who are anticipating entrance into some area of the medical profession. Meetings in these clubs take a variety of forms ranging from guest speakers to field trips in an attempt to keep members up to date on contemporary scientific development.

Chi Alpha Omega, a scholastic honor society limited to the top ten percent of the senior class, initiated a new precedent last year by selecting the top five percent of the junior class. This enables the club to exist during the school year during which the nucleus of members works together to share and extend academic interests on campus. This year, Chi Alpha Omega lead several discussions following Civilization films.

Monthly meetings were held and they ranged from junior practicum to a meeting on special education where panel members discussed such areas as teaching the physically handicapped. working with speech problems, and aiding those students with lower mentalities. Students were given the opportunity to listen to and speak with Dr. Lewis Mayhew, a spokesman in higher education who presented his ideas for the educational systems in the United States.

Instrumental ensembles entertain diverse audience

Following a summer tour in Latin America, the Taylor band returned to campus last fall with thankful hearts and renewed spirits. After a busy marching season, filled with parades and half-time shows, the band began rehearsals for its concert season. In addition to chapel concerts in December and April, a formal winter concert in March, and a spring tour in the Fort Wayne and Detroit areas, the concert band presented a sacred concert on May 5 which featured the famed gospel trombonist Bill Pearce as guest soloist. The Taylor orchestra also presented concerts in chapel as well as taking part in the music department's production of Verdi's La Traviata. In March, the orchestra went on a concert tour in the Chicago vicinity. This year, the Music Club had a variety of programs and hosted a reception in honor of Jerome Hines.

Vocal groups praise God through medium of song

Eager to share the blessings of their faith in Christ the Taylor Chorale Oratorio, and Taylor Singers blended their voices in text, tone, and testimony from the Rocky Mountains to the Statue of Liberty.

During the season of Christ's birth the Oratorio, largest of the performing groups, rendered Poulanc's Cloria and Von Williams Fantasia on Christmas in a joint concert with the Marion College Oratorio. The spring season found this group exemlifying, though the use of over one hundred voices, Mendelssohn's Elijah.
Composed of approximately forty students, the Taylor Chorale shared its message in music from area concerts to an extensive twelve day tour of Eastern America. This Easter season tour was an acknowledgement of Christ's glory and love through joyful voices and hearts at each performance while the chorale traveled east, the Taylor Singers journeyed west to bring their well-performed concerts into various communities from Illinois to Colorado. The echoes of the snow capped mountains of ten resounded the peace felt in serving the living Savior, Jesus Christ, which was the ultimate goal of this group.

Trojan Players gives students with an interest and skill in any theatrical capacity the opportunity to develop those skills through participation in various productions. Those students with high academic records who participate in the theatre are invited to join Alpha Psi Omega. The Debate Team consists of those people with the ability to intelligently express their views on contemporary national debate topics at periodic intercollegiate tournaments.

The advancement of the visual arts is the purpose of Taylor's Art Club. Through their combined efforts, members help in the production of many school projects.

Echo stresses more extensive campus coverage this year

Under the leadership of executive editor Alda Knight (first semester) and Ken Oman (second semester), the Echo Staff endeavored to maintain the high quality and journalistic integrity which enable it to achieve an All American rating last year. Upon returning from an Associated Collegiate Press convention in Dallas, Alda and her associate editor Kathi Kiel implemented a number of ideas learned there. This year, members of the staff sought to cover more facets of campus life, thereby creating more interest among students. A more extensive use of photographs and an expanded number of pages helped them to attain their goals.

Ken Oman, second semester executive editor, calculates the correct proportional size of a photograph for the next issue of the Echo.

The addition of two new buildings to the campus led co-editors Bernita Stewart and Jerry Lugbill to choose the theme "To Become" for the 1972 Ilium. Thanks to the efforts of the photographers under the leadership of assistant editor John Fleming, the staff found it had a variety of good pictures from which to choose. After many long hours of drawing layouts, writing copy, and cropping pictures the staff found that publishing a yearbook involves hard work but few rewards.

Communicating effectively in goal of Campus media

Corresponding with Taylor's aim to help students grow spiritually, academically, and socially, the campus radio station WTUC broadcasts a variety of programs daily ranging from classical and pop music to spiritual music; and from discussions and commentaries to sport activities. The Who's New is published in the fall. Its major emphasis is on the freshman class, although information pertinent to all students is included. Students who have worked on the Echo and Ilium for two or more years are invited to join Alpha Phi Gamma, a national journalism honorary which has been chartered at Taylor to recognize college journalists.

The Labyrinth, a literary magazine, is aimed at encouraging student creativity. Consisting entirely of original work, it is published each spring. English Symposium, which is open to all students on campus, give members an opportunity to informally discuss literature of all genres, both past and present. Interests are broadened as they share their individual ideas and concepts. Simultaneously, from their reading and discussions, students learn to understand both themselves and mankind in general.

Outstanding seniors recognized

Twenty-three seniors from Taylor Unversity were selected for Who's Who in American Unicersities and Colleges for the 1971-1972 academic year. They were selected by the recommendations of the faculty and upperclassmen with final approval of the Student Life committee. Leadership, ability, scholarship, general citizenship, cooperation in educational and extra curricular activities, and promise of future success were among the criteria upon which the selection was made. These outstanding students, who contributed much to their class and Taylor University, deserve to be recognized for their achievements.

Gamma Delta Beta was formed to give girls an organization with which to identify for social and service activities while staying at Taylor University. At its inception there was a need for this kind of sorority, but this need is slowly fading out. For this reason, Gamma Delta Beta disbanded at the close of the school year. In keeping with their objectives, that of filling a service and social need on campus, they had one project and one social activity each month which were, for the most part, limited to the society. Sadie Hawkins and the Spring Banquet, both Gamma Delt traditions, were cancelled this year as their efforts were steered in other directions.

Through the combined efforts of the French, German, Spanish, and International Clubs, the Taylor students are exposed to many different customs of the world. The meetings provide insight into the many aspects of these fields and an understanding of their cultures. Not only is it an opportunity to communicate in a unique way by utilization of the language skills, but it is also an opportunity to build lasting friendships both inside and outside the club circle.

Coronation "in the round" provides a new setting for candidates as they await the announcement of the queen.

Committees plan, organize special weekend events

Dynamics was the theme chosen by the steering committe for Homecoming 1971. This year's steering committee initiated a number of changes in the weekend festivities. For the first time this year, the student body was given the opportunity of hearing a few words from each candidate before making its selection of the queen. Other new precedents were set when coronation ceremonies were held "in the round"and spectators listened to the recorded voices of the candidates as they expressed their philosophies of life. Then on Saturday, after an absense of several years, a homecoming parade provided emjoyment for Upland residents as well as Taylor students and alumni.

The 1972 Youth Conference cabinet found that much prayer as well as months of planning and preparation is necessary to make a successful conference. This year's speaker, Mr. Bill Eiken brought relevant and challenging messages to his listeners. The efforts of many Taylor students to share their faith in Christ with visiting high school students resulted in a refreshing experience for all involved.

Each year they sponsor two weekend retreats at Epworth Forest. The TWO Cabinet coordinates the Taylor summer outreach program, while the Community Action council gets students involved in the Upland area. The Bronx Bunch spent a week of their Christmas vacation ministering to physical and spiritual need of underprivileged people in New York City.

Row 1: Asst. Coach D. Sorenson, Head Coach N. Gould, Asst. Coach W. Campbell. Row 2: Co-captains M. McGowan, D. Beechy.

The 1971 grid campaign, although at times frustrating, was an exciting season with a lot of strong aggressive play. A little bigger than they have been in the past, the Trojans seemed to thrive on the tenacity of their "piranha-like" defense.

Highlights of the season included the 14 to 7 victory over Franklin College, and the 17 to 13 win at Manchester in which the defenses turned in an outstanding clutch performance to preserve the victory. A very satisfying victory was the 29 to 15 homecoming conquest of the rugged Earlham eleven. The Trojans really seemed to "put it together" in the homecoming triumph as the offense picked up 296 yards on the ground while the defense held the Quakers vaunted offense in check.

The fact that Taylor did produce some outstanding individual play as well as team play was evidenced by the selection of several players to all conference and all district teams. Dave Beechy, Norm Sweeting, Dana Sorenson, Deni McBrier, and Mike McGowan received all-HBCC acclaim for their outstanding play. Trojans on the NAIA District 21 teams include McBrier, McGowan, and Scotty Parsons. Middle linebacker Deni McBrier also received honorable-mention-all-American recognition.

Harriers capture HBCC and district crowns.

Combining hard work with dedication, Taylor's 1972 cross country team enjoyed another highly successful season. Working out as often as three times a day in early September, the harriers would $\log$ up to twenty-five miles a day. Only those who are willing to sacrifice find success in this sport of endurance.

Under the leadership of Coach George Glass, the team ran their way to HBCC and District 21 championships. Captain Brad Ludwick had an outstanding season, setting course records at Manchester and in the HBCC meets. He was often followed closely by Taylor Oliver and Dave Whybrew. Other strong runners included Allen Feeley, Brad Shrock, Carl Tichenor, George McFarland, and John Nevius.
In Nationals competition Taylor finished seventh out of a field of 43 teams. Ludwick, running in his last race, captured 36th place out of a large field of 293 runners. Whybrew came on strong to finish the five mile race at 56 th place.

Brad Luduick breaks the string, capturing another first place.

Led by the long range shooting of Randy Aalbregtse, the clutch play of Tim Rietdorf, and the strong rebounding of Scott Parsons, the Trojans completed a successful $16-11$ season record. Under the instruction of Coach Don Odle the team played an exciting, highscoring fast-break offense, which was evidenced by their 95.7 per game average.
Tim Rietdorf led the team in scoring with a 19.8 average followed closely by Randy Aalbregtse at 19.3. Scott Parsons dominated rebounding with a 15.9 average and also scored at an 18.3 per game clip. Senior Dave Reeves had the best year of his career. Fighting off injuries, he was the Trojans' second leading rebounder with a 10.5 average while scoring nearly 10 points per game. Freshmen Gary Friesen and Ed Gomez turned in several exceptional games, providing an optimistic outlook for future seasons.

to complete another outstanding season

190 pounder John Morchak is tictorious in o close, hard fought match.

Under the guidance of Coach Tom Jarman, Taylor University is fast building a wrestling program of national prominence. Trojan wrestlers operate under the philosophy that wrestling demands total committment physically as well as spiritually. This is accomplished through sacrifice and hundreds of hours of dedicated workouts. This is combined with strict dieting to create a sport that develops a sense of pride and discipline in young men as no other sport can do.
This years team demonstrated its superiortiy with a 15-3 dual record, a sixth place finish in the tough Wheaton Invitational, and a second place finish in the conference meet.

Individually, the team was led by Dana Sorenson, who captured titles at Little State Meet, Wheaton Invitational where he also was voted Most Valuable Wrestler, and the HBC Conference title. Wrestling most of the year at the 158 pound class, Dana compiled a 26-2 record and was voted the team's Most Valuable Wrestler. Another Outstanding wrestler for Taylor was senior Mel Leaman who finished an excellent four-year wrestling career by capturing the conference 126 pound title. Mel was also the team's honorary captain.

The "Blood, Sweat, Tears" award went to 126 pounder Jack Abott for his fine competitive spirit. Dave Beggs, at 167, led the team in pins with seven. Senior Bobby Shaffer at the 118 pound class has a fine dual record and placed high in big meets. Steve Fowler, Another senior at 118 , also wrestled well when given the opportunity. Both of these men will be missed on next year's team.
Since there are returning men at most weight classes, the Taylor grapplers are looking for an even greater season next year.

Track Men Dominate Conference

After a powerful release, Paul Nitz eyes his soaring discus.

The 1971 Taylor University Track Team enjoyed another successful season. Led by the brilliant rmming of senior Bill Olds and junior Brad Ludwick, the Trojans totally dominated the HCC meet, outscoring second place Manchester College $1091 / 2$ to $631 / 2$. Under the leadership of Head Coach George Glass, the team placed second in the Little State meet and finished eighth in Big State competition with major colleges in Indiana.
The 1971 season saw Brad Ludwick turn in outstanding times in the half mile, the mile, and two mile. Also setting records were seniors Bill Olds in the sprints and relays, Gene Fadel in the javelin, Chuck Hess in the pole vault, Wes Goodwin in the hurdles, and freshman Paul Nitz in the discus. Other fine performances during the season were tumed in by seniors Carl Tichenor, Dave Guthrie, and Dan Gordon and underclassmen Mike Masimer, Joel Johnson, and many others.

With the return of All-American Ralph Foote and other outstanding lettermen, the prospect for an outstanding 1972 season looked good.

King ends coaching career at Taylor

[^12]The I97I baseball season was unique in that it marked the last season of Head Coach Jack King. Under his inspiring and often brilliant tutelage the Trojans, in a ten-year span, have accumulated a record of 193-127, Hoosier College Conference record of 7I-30, five HCC titles, six NAIA District #21 (Indiana) crowns, one NAIA Area 6 (Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois) championship, and a 1969 fifth place finish in the NAIA national finals.

Taylor completed a relatively successful season in which they finished second in conference play and recorded an overall 19-20 team record. Nominated to All-Conference honors were seniors Jim Messner and Denny Roach, and sophomores Ken Green and Dave Griffie. Messner, Roach, and Griffie also received All NAIA District #2I acclaim.

Under new coach Scott Krause, the Trojans were very optimistic about this year's prospects. There were several experienced returning lettermen.

Trojan linksmen attain conference championship

For the first time in the 24 year history of the HCC, the league's golf trophy rests in the display case at Taylor L'niversity. Dominating conference play, Taydor totaled 790 strokes to easily defeat Manchester which finished with a score of 815. Taylor was led by the outstanding play of All-Conference selections Curt Knorr (151), Bill Thompson, and Denny Thompson, both at 156.

Other highlight of the 1971 season included a first place finish in our own Taylor lnvitational with an exciting overtime win over Ohio Northern. Good enough for an individual second place finish was Curt Knorr who shot a 77. Other Trojan scorers included Bill Thompson, 77; Denny Thompson, 79; Jetf Rocke, 80; Randy Berry, 82; and Tom Holmes, 85. The Taylor linksmen also finished fourth in the Manchester Invitational, in which Bill Thompson was a Medalist.

The future of Taylor's golf team looked very promising as several outstanding competetors returned.

Trojanes competitive spirit is keen

Taylor offers intercollegiate competition for women in sports-field hockey, volleyball, basketball, tennis, track and lacrosse. Excellency of skill is stressed through hard practices requiring discipline of mind and body. Good sportsmanship is emphasized as players share their victories and defeats together both physical and spiritual. Although competition is scarce in some sports due to the lack of funds, determination and dedication of the players still provide a healthy atmosphere for fun and physical development.

Competitive spirit is fierce

Taylor University provides an outstanding intramurals program. Setting up supervised activities in such sports as football, soccer, basketball, softball, and wrestling the program allows for student release of pent-up frustrations on the athletic field. The spirit of competition is fierce and the play is often for keeps. Strong ties of unity are developed and a sense of teamwork unfolds as two teams vie for a league championship. Thus, Taylor strives to provide education in the realm of the physical as well as the mental, spiritual, and social.

University existence

The Board of Trustees is the governing body which has final jurisdiction over matters pertaining to university policies and its progress toward stated goals and objectives. This is accomplished through the efforts of four major committees; the Executive Committee, the Educational Policies and Student Life Committee, the Finance Committee, and the Public Relations and Development Committee.

Dr. Milo A. Rediger, as executive officer of the University, puts into operation the policies and decisions of the Board of Trustees. He also brings to the Board the problems and achievements of the school.

In relation to the University, the President supervises the work of all departments with the help of the vicepresidents for development, academic, business, and student affairs. He hosts visiting dignitaries and official guests of the University, and is actively involved in many community projects. Thomas Beers, Administrative Assistant to the President, often aids and represents Dr. Rediger in these duties.

Development

 Officeseeks answers

What kind of facilities will best serve the educational objectives of Taylor and provide most adequately for the student? In what ways can Taylor's reputation nationally as a quality Christian liberal arts college be strengthened? These are hard questions which the Development staff continually seeks to answer. Some of these answers will come through a study now underway that will give realistic guidelines for future development efforts. In addition to the many standard fund raising efforts, substantial time is being invested in developing a long-range institutional plan with a sound financial base.

Teamwork, vision, faith and friends are basic ingredients in Taylor's development program.

Mrs. Betty Freese, Secretary

Academics should be "the name of the game" to a college student. In order for this to be possible much time and effort goes into the curriculum and classroom aspects of Taylor University. The Dean's office attempts to emphasize and implement the truth that studying is just as essential a part of our Christian growth and discipleship as witnessing and praying and that all of life under God requires that the individual give his best.

These activities range from the maintenance of 160 acres and care of $$ 9,000,000$ in facilities to preparation of 750,000 meals per year. In addition, the staff is responsible for the fiscal affairs of the institution and participates in its long-range planning and development. ## people fulfill  needs

In an effective college, many personnel workers are needed to fulfill the students' needs. Taylor University has its own full time Minister to students, the Rev. William Hill, who directs the many aspects of our spiritual program. Jean Campbell, through Student Affairs, coordinates activities which provide students with an opportunity to be volunteers in the community and leaders to their peers. The physical needs of Taylor students are met by the personnel of the Student Health Center, which include a visiting physician, Dr. Teodoro Guevara, three full time nurses and nine part time nurses. Wandering Wheels, under the leadership of Bob Davenport, provides a unique spirit sharing experience for the students.

An outstanding feature of the Chemistry and Biology Departments is that there are few students in these majors, thereby making the upper division courses very individualized. Practical experience and independent research is gained by lab assistance work, stockroom work, grading, practicum, and senior honors projects. During practicum, students have the opportunity to work off campus in laboratories and industries or do research projects on campus. Weekly science seminars acquaint students with research and developments in many fields.

Dealing with people characterizes departments

The Business Department aims to offer its major practical experience through the use of practice sets in courses and outside experiences. During Capstone, seniors prepare personal resumes and practice "selling themselves" in interviews. This helps them to identify their ability to do the jobs for which they will someday apply and to learn how to conduct themselves socially and mentally.

Lectures, discussions, field trips, and individual study are all a part of the preparation of the Psychology majors.

After senior comps, majors do individual study in such fields as human motivation for learning and methods of counselling. Each major contracts with his professor how intensive his study will be and whether his presentation will be oral or written.

develop their own teaching style

The Elementary Education Department strives to prepare its majors to take their place as successful members of the teaching profession. The tenweek student teaching experience gives majors a chance to put their learning of instructional goals, educational philosophies, and methods of teaching into practice and to develop their own style of teaching. The professional semester also gives student teachers the chance to develop story telling skills and to evaluate different types of tests.

During the Interterm, Senior Capstone course, each major worked with a student in the area of reading improvement, thereby experiencing testing procedures and types of reading problems which they may soon encounter.

Professors' Travel Helps Literature Come Alive

Striving to better teachers excellence, the English Department has added a new course in editing, is participating in an Interterm Seminar, and the professors have taken advantage of travel opportunities.

During Interterm the English Department participated in a seminar for freshmen History students. They incorporated the areas of Philosophy, Literature, and History to discover man's attitude towards himself as reflected in literature throughout the ages.

Students feel that the enrichment professors have had through their travel to England has added an extra touch to their teaching and has made classes more enjoyable; the professors have a sense of what the poets saw and felt, and this adds an enthusiasm to the teaching which comes across to the students.

Preparation for future research and technological professions as well as secondary education are the main objectives of the Math and Physics Departments. During Interterm, senior math majors had the opportunity to visit the University of Michigan and some scientific laboratories during a field trip to the Detroit area. The Math department also planned a High School Field Day in the spring during which teams of area secondary math students would come to Taylor for a day of mathematical tests and games. A major project of the Physics department this year was to build a linear accelorator with machines provided by a federal grant for that purpose. Field trips to Oak Ridge Laboratories provided experimentation opportunities for physics majors.

One of the goals of the Music Department is to help majors integrate the development of skills in performance, aural perception, and creative composition as well as to develop the needed musicianship, poise, and security in performance.

During senior capstone in January, majors studied jazz, pop, and electronic music, aesthetics, and areas of past study, such as music history and conducting.

Major productions throughout the year included an opera, a musical, and senior and faculty recitals.

Majors study faith, philosophy

The Religion Department seeks to minister in an open way, to encourage creativity in one's religious life, and to enable each person to relate Biblical truths to his daily life.

During Interterm, the Biblical Literature and Missions sections delved into what's involved in preparing for the field of religion and what is happening today among theologians. The Christian Education majors formed a group called the Lighthouse and went to Naussau in the Bahamas to set up leadership training programs, hold Youth for Christ rallies, set up coffee houses, and hold chapel services among the people there.
lies, set up coffee houses, and hold help each major integrate the different philosophies and develop his own philosophy of life. During the Interterm Capstone course, Dr. Elton Trueblood was guest lecturer for a seminar dealing with the relevance of contemporary philosophical thought to one's religious faith.

Physical Education prepares for ## increasing career opportunities

Physical Education not only demands athletic ability but also the exploration of allied fields such as physical and corrective therapy and rehabilitation. The Senior Capstone program provides opportunities for students to visit such places as the Crossroads Rehabilitation Center and the V.A. hospital where they can observe corrective and recreational therapy. The P.E. major is challenged with the privileges, responsibilities, and prepartions necessary to enter the teaching profession and related occupations.

Majors deal with ## social problems

Becoming aware of social problems and needs is a very important part of the Sociology program. Students are given an opportunity to work with the underpriviledged and to observe actual social problems. Various geographical areas are used in their studies. This is done with the aid of Possum 1, a bus equipped with bunks. Field trips, similar to the one to New York City, give students the chance to see life in deprived areas. Senior students spent one week of their Capstone in Chicago. They observed such things as Operation Breadbasket, a program to aid the needy in large cities.

Involvement in past and ## present are major goals

The departments of Political Science, Geography, and History seek to help students gain a greater understanding of human development from ancient to contemporary times. Visits to historic sites, museums, participation in the Washington Seminar on Federal Service, and the National Model United Nations, are among the activities in which students become

Speech majors communicate through words, actions

The Speech and Drama Department offers a wide range of courses and activities from which students can benefit. In addition to classes which instruct students in general communication, vocal interpretation and dramatic techniques, a practical application of these facts can be achieved through participation in debate team, WTUC, and a variety of University Theatre productions. This year, the Religious Drama Company added drama workshops to its activities.

Many times the most necessary members of the Taylor family are unheralded, but everyone realizes how essential and beneficial they are. The cafeteria employees, security officers, printing and mailing personnel, the placement officials, the maintenance and housekeeping staffs, bookstore and media center personnel, and secretaries are all essential to keep Taylor functioning efficiently and to fullfill the needs of our changing campus.

To become is to incorporate our knowledge into a practical service, to develop and improve, to attract others and to share with them, and finally through mutual sharing to attain success and to enjoy the benefits of that success.

On January 20, students enjoyed their first meal in the long-awaited Dining Commons, but at 9 p.m. that evening they watched helplessly as the music building burned.

In our struggle to become our various energies converge into the process of total becoming. In retrospect we can be pleased with our academic, social, physical, spiritual maturation;
however, we must not develop a complacency in our accomplishments. We encounter obstacles in particular phases of our growth, yet we surmount that which would impede and resume our honest endeavor not merely to be but to become.

We wish to thank . . .

Mrs. Marilyn Walker, our capable editorial adviser, for endless hours spent planning, advising, encouraging, and helping us to make this yearbook a reality. Mr. Roger Jenkinson, our business adviser, who handled all our financial affairs so efficiently . . . Mr. Larry Glaze, our Paragon representative, who helped guide us in proper yearbook procedures . . . Mr. and Mrs. Norm Cook, our photographer and his wife, who helped us out of tight situations . . Mr. Wilbur Cleveland, our campus editor, who supplied pictures we could not otherwise have obtained . . . Mr. Jules Walker, a good friend, who took time to come to campus to take llomecoming pictures . . . Belgian World Airlines and the Alarion Chronicle Tribune, for the use of several photographs . . . Administrators, professors, staff members, and student friends, who supplied photos, information. and other favors which made this book possible. . . God, who showed us we "can do all things through Christ who strengthens" us.
